MASS MEETING OF THE Y. M. C. A.

The president of the "Y" called a special meeting Tuesday, November 5th, for the purpose of placing before the boys the aims of the Y. M. C. A. The war department of the Y. M. C. A. recently entrusted the war work to the local organization. The president, Mr. C. V. Miller told of the plans that had been made and were in the process of being carried out. These consist of fitting out three rooms in the basement of Carnegie as the headquarters. One room is to be used as a music room and to be equipped with a piano and victrolas. Another room is to be fitted with desks, overflowing with triangle stationery. Other tables will be loaded with magazines and papers. The third room will be the conference room where anyone may meet our pastor or any officer of the association. A new and distinct feature will be inaugurated namely, the holding of monthly socials. A feature of these socials and fellowship gatherings will be a series of lectures.

A movie machine has been ordered and the "Y" hopes to have it set up as a permanent feature. All of these ideas are the plan of the Y. M. C. A. to develop the mind, body and spirit. There is a Y.M.C.A. class at present that meets in Bartlett on Sunday mornings, and if the need arises other classes will be provided.

Dr. Wilson in his talk presented the ideals of the college and pointed out that love of country was inspired because of its fundamental ideals. The purpose of Maryville College is not less, for its ideals are adapted to the nation, the world and the individual. These ideals which are called the "Maryville Spirit", are: "A Breadth of Human Interest", represented by Maryvillians in all branches of human endeavor the world over, and by the "600" in France, by the important positions held by the graduates; "Manly Religion", characterized by all her students in standing up for the principles of Christ; and lastly "Unselfish Service", that is the great purpose of all education and "Please God Maryville students are rendering unselfish service".

Dr. Stevenson presented the benefits of the Y. M. C. A. and as the president of the association had told of the material benefits, the Doctor laid the emphasis on the spiritual. The end in view of the Y. M. C. A. is a deep and earnest Christianity among young men. The "Y" deals with the fundamental things of life. Man is by nature a sinner and young men especially are more likely to err. It is here that the Y.M.C.A. plays an important part by providing for his creature comforts, for healthy recreation and practical religion.

Major Gillingham made the appeal for the Literary Societies. The great accomplishment was not only to be able to speak, but to speak fluently, to speak clearly and lucidly, to speak sincerely and to speak logically. The great battles are not all fought by guns and armies, but some of the greatest battles are fought by words and the presentation of them, and the marshalling of them into facts, and arrangement of them into truths, to persuade, to overthrow fase ideas and customs.

MARYVILLE LOSES FIRST GAME TO T. M. I.

Lack of practice and team work resulted in a defeat for Maryville by T. M. I. Saturday to the tune of 14-0.

Two touchdowns and a safety by the visitors proved the undoing of the local aggregation.

Regardless of the score, Coaches Briggs and Clemens are well pleased with the showing made by a number of the candidates. Sandberg, at right half, was the stellar light of the game. His aggressive offensive and defensive play marked him as a valuable integer of the eleven. Russell, at left tackle and Graf at left end also proved their worth.

The failure of Maryville's line to hold on kick formations was largely responsible for the local's defeat.

Clemens went in at half and Briggs at tackle in the second half relieving Jowett and Cotton. In the final quarter Jowett replaced Clemens.

The Aerial attack of the visitors accounted for several short gains, while the locals failed to complete a single pass.

One of the most disappointing features of the game was the very noticeable lack of support from the side lines.

The coaches begin their preparation for the U. T. game with a fuller knowledge of the abilities of their players. The date has not yet been definitely determined.

Lineup follows:

ALPHA SIGMA

We are not dead yet! And we don't intend to die, tho we have been seemingly dead for the last few weeks. We blame the flu—and the Kaiser.

The Alpha Sigma Literary Society met Saturday night for the first time since the quarantine. The the entire membership was not out, but much interest was shown by those present. At the very beginning of the meeting, it was decided to combine the two sections of the society. Then came the chief business, the election of officers. Mr. Miller was elected president, and with him in the chair and as director of the society affairs in general, we are expecting the meetings to take on new life. He has had much experience in society work and the work of other organizations on the Hill, and is capable of carrying on the work to a greater success than nearly any other member.

We are hoping that now the flu is past, and the Kaiser has abdicated and—incidentally—the war is over, the boys of Maryville College having nothing else to think about will turn their minds to higher things. And the best place in this big round world of ours in which to learn of these higher things is in the Alpha Sigma Literary Society. You know, boys, that we get to meet with the girls every fourth Saturday night in a joint meeting at the chapel. What an inducement to be a literary man! Who could want a better? Yet there is another one which was stressed at the meeting Saturday night. This is the training that active work in a literary society gives to a man. It makes him capable of leading, for he who is able to speak, and speak with force, is the man who is destined to lead, whereas the man who is not able to express his thots in an interesting way, is rarely able to cope with his fellows.

Miss Ida Zumstein, who graduated from the Home Economics Department here last June, is teaching "Home Ec" in the high school at Wartburg, Tenn.

Miss Frances Akerstrom '17 has been appointed by the M. E. Foreign Mission Board as a missionary to Malaysia. While at Maryville "Frank" was one of the most enthusiastic "S. V's".

EVA RITCHIE IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THETA

The routine life of College Hill is normal again. Testifying to this fact, an eager crowd gathered in Theta Hall last Saturday night, awaiting the regular program.

The president called a business session in which the initiation of the new members and presentation of still more names for membership was followed by the election of the following officers: Eva Ritchie, president; Katherine Guest, vice-president; Celeste Moseley, program secretary; Corin Humphries, editor. Enthusiastic applause succeeded the brief, business-like, but characteristically appropriate remarks of the new president upon taking the chair.

The piano solo rendered by Miss Ida Gilbert was the excellent first number of the program. Theta's old girls were delighted to have with them again Miss Elizabeth Jones. She sang sweetly "His Lullaby", and gave as an encore "Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight". One of Robert Service's poems was well read by Miss Vivian Everett.

"The Dream of a Carnegie Boy" was the last feature of this well-planned program. More than a dozen characters represented in moving pictures the fond and furious memories that a letter had called to life. The lad in his own words gave the audience his reminiscences.

The new program secretary and committee have unbelievable delights in store for all who attend Theta. Just come and see!

PERSONALS

Miss Clara Wattenbarger was a recent guest of Miss Elsie Dawson.

Messrs. Edgemon, Moulton, and Baird are now in Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C.

Miss Helen Horton is a late victim of the flu. Miss Belle Smith and Madame Denee have just recovered from the same disease. Misery likes company, you know.

Miss Mattie Hamilton had as her guest several days last week Miss Ruth Quinn of Lancing, who was formerly a student here.

"Spoon" reports that he has lately seen "Bob" Gamon in Philadelphia.

Joel Georges is recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia. He is located at Fort Sill, Okla.

Miss Ruth Schenk had as her guest for the week-end, her aunt, Miss Bess Schenk of Knoxville.

Kyle Slaughter is in training for the navy at Hampton Roads, Va.

Miss Margaret Willis visited on the Hill last week. She is taking a business course in Knoxville, so will be a frequent visitor in Maryville.

"Bill" Campbell is teaching at the Appalachian Training School, Boone, N. C.

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on Sunday was led by Miss Martha Robinson on a timely subject—"The Rule of the Road". The text was Phil. 3:16,—'whereunto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule.' Carmen Park spoke on 'Live your Creed,' and four or five others gave short talks on other divisions or sub-topics of the subject. It was a very helpful meeting. Helen Park gave a beautiful piano solo.

The Highland Echo

THE ECHO GOES OVER THE TOP WITH THE BOYS "OVER THERE"

VOLUME FOUR | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1918. | NUMBER NINE

MARYVILLE SENDS CHRISTMAS GREETING TO HER SOLDIER AND SAILOR MEN

A MESSAGE TO MARYVILLE'S SIX HUNDRED FROM M. C.'s PRESIDENT

GIVING THE COLLEGE'S HAPPINESS IN THE VICTORY, PRIDE IN HER SIX HUNDRED, GRIEF FOR HER DEAD, AND "WELCOME HOME".

Your old College takes advantage of the opportunity presented by this special edition of The Highland Echo to send to her Six Hundred the fourfold message:

I. Maryville's Happiness in the the Mighty Victory. The collapse of the enemy, as many of you had been predicting, at last came suddenly, and so our joy had the additional quality of a glad surprise. The siren sounded the glorious news at three o'clock in the morning of November 11, and soon the old Hill resounded with "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," and all the other glad songs and shouts and cheers that five hundred dormitory dwellers could pour forth from ecstatic hearts and enthusiastic throats. The war of nineteen months was "over, over there," and now the sacrifice of precious lives would cease, and the boys in due time could come back home! The thrill of ages electrified all hearts. And on that same great day of victory, scattered wherever duty had placed them, our noble Six Hundred also sent up their exultant shouts; and by sympathetic telepathy we could hear the echoes of those shouts even on the "hilltop crowned with cedars." And so Maryville's joy overflowed at home and abroad, and the most memorable day in a Century of Maryville College was placed in the historic calendar of the dear old school.

II. Maryville's Pride in her Immortal Six Hundred.. "The Liberty Class" of 1918, itself a large contributor to the Six Hundred, has already presented the college chapel a beautiful and appropriate memorial tablet bearing the following simple and loving inscription: "In commemoration of Maryville's men and women who represented the College in the world war. Erected by the Liberty Class, 1918." But Maryville's appreciation of her soldiers and sailors and nurses and other war workers is written on the tablets of her loving memory and proud heart, and the writing will never be erased. Our men enlisted in all lines of the service, and in those chosen lines they rendered loyal and efficient service, and cheerfully contributed their quantum to the united total of America's might that under the providence and favor of God was the deciding factor in winning the victory that has ended the war and made glad the nations of earth. Your valor and devotion were needed and gladly given, and your Alma Mater is proud of you. Some of you bear the scars of honorable wounds received from the enemy on bloody battlefields; all of you were ready for life or death, as the call of duty might decide. In short, you were worthy representatives of the altruistic spirit of old Maryville. Let no one rebuke our pride in you!

III. Maryville's Grief for her Dead. The war will not be ended for us until demobilization is complete; and so our present list of the glorious dead may be extended by news of the casualties in the terrible battles of the last month; but at present the names of eight students of Maryville are represented by golden stars on our service flag. These names are asfollows:

Lieut. Cecil J. French
Lieut. Thomas W. Goddard
Lieut. Milton L. Harper
Lieut. Claude O. Lowe
Lieut. Willard T. Lusk
Cleland K. Ratcliffe
J. Edward Robinson
Lieut. James M. West

With appropriate ceremonies we placed the gold stars on the flag, but the grief of our hearts was beyond the power of being symbolized by ceremonies and stars. Our grief, however, was tempered by the deep joy that these brave men who entered war's Valhalla did so willingly and heroically at the call of their country and of civilization, and that they purchased by their valorous deaths life for may others of many lands. We weave for their memories chaplets of amaranth and wreaths of immortelles.

IV. Maryville's "Welcome Home". Demobilization has properly enough begun promptly. The five million will be sent back to the pursuits which they laid aside at the call of their country. Old Maryville had kept the home fires burning almost fiercely, so intense has been her patriotism; and she has been dreaming of the day when her lads far away, who also dream of home, should at last come back home. And in this glad day of victory one of her great joys is that she can send you word that she has a warm welcome home to extend to all her absent sons, not only to America, but also to many to College Hill and college days again. For years to come Maryville expects to graduate men who their college life interrupted by their war service. And, bringing back spirits disciplined in the dread experiences of war, what manner of men should you be! And so, survivors and heroes of the Great War, here is a hearty welcome home to you from your Alma Mater!

In behalf of Maryville College,
Samuel Tyndale Wilson,
President.

THE MOVIES

Will you believe that movies have become a part of the weekly program at Maryville? You students who were here in past years will have to stretch your imagination some in order to picture the large screen which adorns the front of the chapel every Monday night. The operators are army "Y" men who are connected with the S.A.T. C. in eastern Tennessee

What kind of pictures, you ask? Naturally, the very best and if we happen only to see two of the five reels we never complain, for what crank doesn't get weary at times?

Not only do the students attend the movies, but also the faculty who are hearty supporters of this new educational feature.

Of course Miss Molly doesn't allow moonshining to the movies. How could you ever suppose that she would?

CHRISTMAS DAY GREETINGS

On Christmas day be where you may
And no matter what you do
May the wish sincere we send from here
Bring "Home Sweet Home" to you.

WAR WORK FUND TOTALS NEARLY $3,000

Dr. Buchanan Speaks on "Y" Work. Tuesday Morning Devoted to Soliciting.

The United War Work Campaign started on the Hill, Tuesday morning after a week of preparatory work by the Four Minute Men (or more properly speaking Four Minute Women.)

At the chapel hour, Dr. Herbert E. Buchanan, former professor of mathematics at U. T. and now a Y.M.C.A. Secretary connected with the Fort Oglethorp "Y" center, gave a rousing speech on the work the "Y" is doing in the camps. He spoke particularly of the army as an educational factor. Two direct results of the war will be better roads and schools, for the illiterate rookies who entered the service will leave the army with some conception of the essential fundamentals of education. Their horizon will be broadened and they will demand for their posterity that which was denied them.

One of the first things the educational "Y" secretary does is to organize classes in reading and writing for the illiterate men and the progress these men make, in a very short time, is amazing.

Dr.Buchanan said that the American army is a religious army. The men believe in the existence of the Supreme Ruler and in spite of minor defects they endeavor to live Christian lives. The eagerness with which they attend the religious services, regardless of denomination, testifies to their spiritual hunger.

At the conclusion of this enlightening and inspiring speech Dr. Wilson read the names of the class committees and the rest of the morning was given over to the work of canvassing the teachers and students.

The committee of one hundred and sixty people set the pace by subscribing $1010. Up to date, the subscription of the college amounts to $2915.16. The individual donations vary from $55 to $50. The larger sums are 1-$55. 2-$50, 2-$40, 1-$30, 9-$25., 6-$20., 1-$17., 1-$16., 5-$14., 1-$12.65, 2-$12., 1-$11.50, 36-$10., 4-$8., 1-$7.50., 1-$7.00, 8-$6., 1-$5.50, $5.00 seemed a favorite sum as 198 students subscribed that amount.

It is a well-known fact that college people are not a wealthy class and Maryville is no exception to the rule. The giving of nearly $3000 to the War Work Campaign means a great deal of sacrifice on the part of the teachers and students, but all who gave felt it a privilege to do so. If we had not given in that spirit we should not be true Maryvillians.

WHAT WILL BECOME OF THE S. A. T. C. IS A MUCH DISCUSSED QUESTION

A NUMBER OF PASSES TO BE ISSUED THANKSGIVING. MEN RECEIVE UNIFORMS. ASSUME REAL MILITARY APPEARANCE. M. C. LOSES TO U. T.

Will the Maryville S.A.T.C. unit be demobilized?

This is the question of the hour which is being discussed by the men of the local unit. As yet local military authorities have issued no information regarding plans which it is understood are being or have been formulated by the War Department.

Rumor has it that several of the student soldier units have already been demobilized. As many of the student soldiers as desire will remain in training and the remainder will return to civilian life.

Passes will be granted all enlistedmen of the unit during the Christmas holiday season. Recent orders stipulate that one-half of the unit be allowed leave from December 21-26 and the remainder from December 26-31.

It is understood that passes will be granted to the majority of the men for Thanksgiving. Lieut. Guy A. LaBelle, officer in command of the local unit, has complete authority regarding the issue of passes and according to his statement ,"the men who have no black marks will be allowed to go".

"Strict military discipline will be maintained even though hostilities have ceased", declares Lieut. La Belle. Since the arrival of the uniforms the unit is taking on a semblance of real military appearance. The overcoats, slickers and shirts are expected to be issued shortly.

Lieut. Reilly, who specialized in bayonet fighting while in training at Fort Sheridan, has been placed in charge of the bayonet work for the unit. The men enjoy the work as it offers a change from the ceaseless evolutions per the 1 D. R.

Uniforms for Company B have arrived and now that both companies are outfitted it is expected that discipline will be more rigidly enforced than ever before.

FIRST NUMBER OF THE LYCEUM

Mr. Flowers Fails to Keep Appointment. Dr. Len Broughton Lectures.

Last Thursday night a large and appreciative audience gathered in the chapel to hear Dr. Len Broughton of Knoxville lecture on "The Great European War and Its Aftermath". Dr. Broughton having lived for seven months in London at the outbreak of the war, was enabled to present first-hand information on many of its aspects. He retraced in a vivid, lucid manner the causes of the war, and then from his personal experiences as pastor of a big London church, he told many incidents connected with those first terrifying months. He exacted from his hearers smiles and tears in turn, as he described first the avalanche of American tourists, women, which descended upon London when war was declared, and then the hordes of pitiful Belgian refugees which poured into that city at the rate of thirty or forty thousand a week.

Dr. Broughton described the new age upon which we are about to enter as the most prosperous period in the history of the world, and he pointed out that this new age is dependent for its development on the factor of personality above all others,—such personality as is portrayed by Woodrow Wilson, a power that dominates the Universe. And moving through such force must of course be the force that made the Universe. We are coming into the consciousness of God, and God is bigger today in the eyes of the world than He has ever been before.

Maryville-U. T. Game

Eleven U. T. football players plus one referee, a linesman, and an umpire defeated the local aggregation on Wait field, Knoxville, Saturday by a score of 19-7.

The phenomenal feature of the game was the marvelous aerial offensive of the Highlanders. Fourteen passes were completed on the University, only half as many being incomplete. Despite the aggressive, stellar, playing of the Maryville eleven, they were unable to cross the Orange and White line more than once. Continual, and for the most part, unaccounted for, penalties were imposed upon the Highlanders. Upon more than one occasion the head linesman came upon the field and gave decisions or opinions while no little unfavorable comment was voiced from the sidelines at the decisions of the referee.

Although outweighed, the locals refused to be outplayed and the coordinated workings of Lieut. Reilly's machine clearly evidenced that they were "all there with the goods".

Drake and Clemens were batteries for the passing game. Cotton starred at tackle while Sandberg played his usual stellar game.

It has not yet been decided whether the University of Tennessee will return the game on Maryville's home grounds.

WHAT IS ITS USE?

A new and pleasing addition has been made to the fourth story of Pearsons'. It is ornamental but also seems to be intended for some practical purpose although this has never been discovered.

Such an important thing as this left dangling on the outside of a building until occasion to escape death arises seems of almost no account. This addition to the building on either side makes a complete firescape from the fourth story to within jumping distance of the ground. Should the building ignite, all of the girls could escape out of the windows on ropes as easily as they could by passing down a fire-escape which they have never climbed in a fire-drill. We ask "why don't we have fire drill so that these ornaments will be of use "in case"?

(Please pardon our ignorance).

CARNEGIE HALL FUND SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE DUE

The Treasurer, F. L. Proffitt announces that Liberty Loan Bonds will be accepted in payment of subscriptions. By this arrangement some can take the cash that was to have been used in paying their subscription and purchase more bonds, thus doubly serving their country and the college.

Helen, Blanche, and Marie Lowry and Jessie Magill spent Saturday night at "Uncle Joe" McIlvaine's.

JAMES M. WEST DIES IN FRANCE

Another gold star was added to Maryville's service flag with the news of the death of James M. West who was a member of the 1914-1915 Sophomore class.

Believing that it was a man's duty to volunteer for service, Mr. West, who was at that time in charge of one of the most important telephone centrals in Detroit, enlisted sixteen months ago in the U. S. Signal Corps in Michigan and was made a corporal of Company D, 409th Telegraph and Telephone Company. Later he was promoted to first lieutenant.

A letter received from a Y. M. C. A. secretary in France says that the death of James M. West occurred at Aix le Bain on Oct. 5. It also states that he had been gassed and had started from the front to recuperate when he took a severe cold which soon developed into a fatal case of pneumonia. He was buried Oct. 5. Five southern men attended his funeral and the burial service was conducted by a chaplain from Iowa.

Before sailing for France, West wrote a letter to his parents in which he said, "We are all going to do our bit and hope for the best. There is one thing certain, when Uncle Sam gets a million or so soldiers on the field in France, something is going to happen; and I miss my guess if there wont be a bunch of Dutchmen skooting to their holes back across the Rhine."

He did not miss his guess and in these few expressive words he voiced the conviction of the entire American army—, the conviction which tempered with will to do and fearlessness of consequences fulfilled his prediction. The friends and relatives of James M. West will always be proud that he a true son of the Volunteer State gave his life so willingly for the cause of justice and right.

MISS JEWELL LEADS PRAYER MEETING

Prayer meeting last Thursday was led by Miss Jewell who spoke on "The Heavenly Vision". This theme was based on Paul's vision as related in Acts 26:9.

A mental picture was drawn of a schoolroom, the walls of which were covered with paintings executed by an artistic hand. The new teacher, a stranger experienoing the pangs of lonesomeness, was gazing at a picture representing the boyhood of Christ as spent in the carpenter shop. The touch of Heaven's glory shining in His face was revealed to her, and the need of a heavenly vision was the first message, the picture conveyed to the stranger. Everyone has dreams but visions of the Heavenly are needed. A God given concept is necessary for progress and uplift.

Another revelation that came to the teacher was, that God reveals Himself to His children as they are busy with the most lowly tasks in the most humble places. Miss Jewell confirmed the truth of this statement by mentioning the revelations that came to Jacob, Moses, Gideon, the shepherds tending the sheep on the eve of Christ's birth, and lastly, the Apostle John, Luther, Moody, Livingstone, and Phillips Brooks were given as modern examples of humble men to whom God revealed Himself.

The speaker stated that a person can be conscious of the Lord's presence only when he is doing the thing God wants him to do in the place of God's choice. Some people have a feeling that they could be perfect if their environment was made to order. But it is God who transforms lives and selects life's surroundings.

In conclusion, another picture of Christ was depicted. In this one, Christ was seen leaving his shop after a day's hard labor with a countenance that revealed a vision of His Heavenly Father and a revelation of His own mission in the world.

It is reported that the dining-room is the scene of a mighty interesting romance.

VESPERS

"Why was this waste of the Ointment Made?" This message from the fourteenth chapter of Mark was used by Dr. Stevenson as the background of his Vesper sermon.

Dr. Stevenson described the scene of the woman coming to the house of Simon the leper, where Jesus was, and pouring precious ointment upon His head. The promise given to the woman by Christ was also emphasized. However, a distinction was made between ordinary remembrance and the remembrance of loving deeds, because evil deeds are often kept vividly in mind as those of Judas Iscariot and Wilhelm of Germany. Jesus meant more than mere memory. He inferred that no gift of love is ever lost and that every duty left undone is an opportunity of joy that is lost.

In the material world, the doctrine of conservation is that nothing is ever lost, and likewise no impulse or thought of the mind is disregarded by God. Character is the strongest force that exists and love is eternal. Each Christian should realize the truth of these statements and it should stimulate him to put forth his best effort.

FURTHER NEWS CONCERNING MISS POSTLETHWAITE

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 24, 1918.
The Highland Echo,
Maryville College,
Maryville, Tenn.

Miss H. Frances Postlethwaite, Army Nurse Corps, assigned to U. S. Military Red Cross Hospital, near Paris, writes that on the streets of Paris, two men rushed up to her, and they were none other than Lieut. Homer Frater and Herbert Jordan, whom she had known at Maryville. She says, "I could hardly believe my eyes as I stood and gazed at these men with the buzz of Paris all about me.—They are the first I have met "over here" whom I have known before, and I will probably not have those sensations the next time."

Miss Postlethwaite sailed for overseas duty the first part of July, spent about a month in England at the largest American Hospital in that country, and from there went directly to Paris, where she is on active duty, taking care of "our boys". In one of her letters recently she said that most of her patients had been gassed.

Sarah M. Postlethwaite.

Y. W. C. A.

Dr. Trawick, the visiting Y. M. C. A. Secretary, brought us on Sunday afternoon a powerful message and the soul-stirring challenge of the times. The war has taught great lessons, and God is to be praised for them, though the cost has been great. Speaking of the reconstruction period now at hand, he said that it furnishes us three great ideals to be worked for with all the strength that is in us. He used as main divisions the physical, intellectual, and spiritual sides of the awakening that is everywhere present due to the marvelous training of the soldiers, and the broadening of their horizon as they have faced the essential issues of life, or have gone into the Shadow of the Valley. They are roused, alert, eager, and will not let old conditions remain, or old standards prevail. We, as women, MUST be ready to meet the challenge of the men when they come home. In brief, the goals are a single standard of morality, with the eradication of disease due to vice, wrong living, and carelessness, a new sanctity of the home, and the honoring of the body as God's Holy Temple; a better and more wide-spread system of education and enlightenment that will reach every alley of the city and every cove of the mountains; and the placing of God and His Holy religion in the midst of our everyday life.

"Sheeny" Briggs is spending several days in a little town in Indiana across the river from Louisville, Ky., before leaving for Blue Ridge where he will enter Y. M. work.

A PERSONAL WORD FROM THE FACULTY TO M. C. BOYS IN SERVICE

A WORD FROM MR. PAPA REVEREND PROFESSOR REGISTRAR MAJOR GILLINGHAM

BOY, HOWDY! Here's my hand and heart in congratulations of the warmest kind. If it thrills you to be "in at the finish," it thrilled us to know that "our boys" made such a finish certain. And how profoundly do we thank God for it all." His right hand and his holy arm hath gotten him the victory!" We thank Him for the victory that brings again Peace on Earth at the approaching Christmas season; and for his "right arm", as You and all the other boys are who have given themselves willingly in the day of their power for the sake of democracy and humanity and Christianity.

We'd be overjoyed to have you home in time for Christmas dinner. but we are so gratified to know that you will be back eventually that the homefolks will gladly wait while you finish up the odds and ends of a gigantic job. How much greater is your task of construction, anyway, than the old one of destruction! Now you have the opportunity to prove to Germany and the rest of mankind the sincerity of your altruism in undertaking to turn the world right side up again. Then when this part of your work is done—as I am sure it will be done—as thoroughly and enthusiastically as the bloody part was done, and you come marching home again, you'll find the home fires burning, and a dinner, believe me, that will outclass any Christmas dinner that you or I ever ate on any December 25! Will you be welcome home? Well, I should smile! We're singing now, "they'll come back home when its over, over there', and all the bells that during the past months have been ringing us to prayer for you and for victory will be ringing to give you a most royal welcome to your home and native land.

Now you will be looking into the future, and wondering, perhaps, what next. As a soldier of freedom, enlisted with the single purpose of ridding the world of autocracy, you will not, of course, now that your purpose has been attained, be content to settle down into the routine police duty and comparative idleness of the professional soldier. You will, when your present task is completed, throw yourself into the liveliest activities of a busy world entering upon a new epoch in the history of mankind. Be sure that the world needs you, and needs you in that line of service for which, by natural capabilities and training you may best be fitted. Keep that goal before you, whether, when you answered your country's call, you were already engaged in your life work or whether you were preparing for it. This new era must be the era of "good will among men in whom He is well pleased". To make it so, take for your New Year's motto:

"To serve the present age
My calling to fulfill,
O, may it all my powers engage
To do my Master's will."

And may you be blessed with most hallowed Christmas joy and New Year gladness.

Clinton H. Gillingham.

THE DEAN OF WOMEN SPEAKS

Uncle Sam has limited the amount of sweets we may send to our friends, but there is no ban on the Christmas cheer and good fellowship we may send to you.

Joy, joy, is the note that is ringing everywhere. We rejoice that our boys have had no small part in making this world-wide joy possible. Tho this joy has not been without sorrow, yet thru sacrifice and pain we shall be enabled to rejoice anew and there will be a new meaning in the message that the angels first sang, "Peace on earth, good will to men."

OUR BIOLOGY PROFESSORESS SENDS YOU GOOD CHEER

As I write fierce blasts of cold wind are rattling the many windows of the lab. The "Sunny South" is being visited by a cold wave. And although my hands are cold, yet my heart warms up when I think of "our boys", some in the great cantonments in this country, some tossing about on the mighty ocean, but the greatest number of you far away in other lands where you never dreamed of being.

As the Christmas tide approaches you are thinking, more than ever, of home and old friends. So let it be a joy and comfort to you to know that we also are thinking of you.

Most of you I know by sight, but many of you I number among my old friends. I miss you all, and wish I could send a personal Christmas greeting to each one of you. That is impossible, yet I want each one of you to feel that the greeting is nevertheless a personal one.

Many of you left the hill as boys but you are going to return MEN. You are coming back with new ideals and with a broader horizon. This glorious country of ours is going to be made a better and safer place to live in because of what you have done for her in the past, and what you are going to do for her in the future.

We are very proud of you. We cheer for you, sing to you, and pray for you frequently.

May this Christmas be the very happiest one you have ever had. May it have a meaning to you it has never had before. And may God keep you from harm, and bring you safely back home again.

Susan A. Green.

MRS. WEST GIVES EXPRESSION TO HER FEELINGS

It is a unique privilege to send a Christmas message directly to so many of our boys. I can only wish you a happy Christmas, and I am sure you may have that, even though you are so far away from home, and all that goes toward making a happy Christmas time.

For happiness lies not in receiving, but in giving. And you have helped give the greatest Christmas gift, humanity has ever received—freedom for the world. And so you will have a happy Christmas thru the joy of your great giving.

Our hearts go out to you in love and gratitude, and we shall hail your homecoming with joy.

Nita Eckles West.

"ALL HAIL"

I knew the Maryville men, who were here from 1911 to 1916, and I am proud to extend to those of that number, who are in the service of the nation, the Christmas greetings of the old College. We have been proud of you; we have envied you your privilege of service. But the world is honoring you these days: the oppressed are calling you deliveries; the nations are hailing you conquerors. Will you care to know that Alma Mater is proud to call you sons and to send you her blessing and her All Hail at Christmas time.

E. R. Hunter.

THE DEAN OF MEN SPEAKS

Maryville College is justly proud of her six hundred soldier boys who enlisted in the service of their country to fight for the peace of the world and for the liberty and freedom of every race and nation. Our boys have helped to win the greatest victory in the history of the world, the most important event since the birth of Christ; the practical application of Christianity to all peoples and to every state. May blessings rest upon our soldier boys. MERRY CHRISTMAS TO THE BOYS.

Jasper C. Barnes.

GREETINGS FROM "DADDY" KNAPP

My greetings to the representation of Maryville College over the seas are freighted with the seasons best wishes and are filled with a reverential gratitude and with enthusiastic congratulations. You have helped to carry the Stars and Stripes where our fathers never dreamed they'd be seen, and on a mission that has filled the world with wonder and has insured to the American soldier the lasting gratitude of future generations. You have been Chevalier Bayards sans peur et sans reproche, and the folks at home are very proud of your achievements. We over here, are glad we have had a part in the greatest national drama. Ours has been an inconspicuous part behind the scenes. You staged the drama splendidly. You have wrought out for all mankind a new conception of the rights and duties and relations of men and nations, and have helped to give a larger meaning to the sanctity of treaties, to justice, to liberty, brotherhood and even to Christianity.

Your surroundings may temper your gladness with a tinge of sadness, but surely it will be a joyous Christmas on sacred ground, and all Americans join in the wish that the new year may be filled with great happiness for those who have ushered in what we believe will be a new era of righteousness and peace and good will among men.

FROM OUR COLLEGE PASTOR

(Would that you all knew him!)

Heartiest and most affectionate Holiday greetings, and best of good wishes to all Maryville boys!

Your valor and patriotic devotion have put the whole world in your debt, for you have made possible this year the celebration of the greatest, gladdest Christmas that men and nations have ever known. May the joyous consciousness of this blessed truth cheer and comfort you, and make your hearts happy and your Christmas merry, though you are far away "over there".

How glad we will be to see you, and how royally we will welcome you, when you, "our boys, come home!"

"OUR HEARTS—ARE ALL WITH THEE"

It is a glad Christmas for all of us; for you who have shared in the high praise given by your Commander-in-Chief over there, in recognition of the unselfish bravery of our American boys; and it is no less a glad time for us here, not alone because of the victory won, but because we rejoice in your exemplification of the lofty ideals sung by our poets, dreamed of by our youth, and exalted by our forefathers.

"Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
Our faith triumphant o'er our fears,
Are all with thee,—are all with thee!"

Jane B. S. Alexander.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL

Every college class since 1903, (with one possible exception), and some earlier classes, have representatives engaged in War Work, in addition to many Maryville students of the past fifteen years who did not complete their college course. A Merry Christmas to all of you, and especially to the large number who are now overseas. May you have a good appetite for your Christmas dinner, and a good Christmas dinner for your appetite, and when you have finished taking the Turk out of Turkey, the Hun out of Hungary and the Germ out of Germany, may you come sailing home to the land of the free and to our "hill top crowned with cedars".

H. J. Bassett, '04.

AND THIS FROM OUR NEWLY MARRIED PROFESSOR

To our boys—prompt to answer country's call, faithful to the duties that country has assigned you, and now splendidly triumphant, while despots from a score of thrones are scurrying to cover. We have missed you from all the walks of college life, and our thoughts have followed you, anxious and eager. Now we look forward to your return to even more spirited and successful participation in the old college activities. E. W. Davis.

ARMS AND THE MAN

(The sentiments of the students)

As we cast about in our mind for a theme for our lay, none better presents itself than the age-old one of Vergil. Arma Virumque! Viewed in the light of these latter days, what a mighty meaning the words take on! For whatever else the war has or has not done, it has given to us an intimate revelation of the heroism that lies deep hidden in the heart of the common man—a heroism greater than either he or we had ever dreamed!

However much we may talk of the patriotism that works over here to back up the boys over there, the patriotism that produces potatoes, the patriotism that knits, the patriotism that conserves, the patriotism that waits and prays, the patriotism that gives three thousand dollars to war work, and whoops and yells and parades about at 3 a. m.—however admirable and altogether lovely these manifestations and demonstrations doubtless are—still there is no patriotism to be compared with that of the soldier. The greatest sacrifice any man can make is to lay down his life; and that every soldier stands ready to do. Seven gold stars on our service flag bear glorious testimony to seven sons of Maryville who made the supreme sacrifice. We can never honor their memory enough. But let us not forget that the boys who are represented by the blue stars were just as willing to die.

If one man had done what millions have done in the last four years, what a hero he would be! But heroism has been so common in the world, we can't begin to appreciate it properly. America has millions of heroes, and they are not a whit less heroic because they are so many. "Why did you go?" we ask, and the soldier boy modestly replies, "Only red blood and honor." Red blood and honor have taken on a new meaning for us.

No, we never can forget what we have seen and heard in the dark days that are now past. The war is over, and in time our Boys will come back to us. But they will never look to us quite as they did before we discovered their willingness to die for the right. We can never forget what they have stood ready to do.

As the holiday season approaches the heart of Maryville goes out to her boys beyond the sea. O Soldier Boys of Maryville, the students of your college home send greetings from the cedar-crowned hill-top. We congratulate our Yankee Doodle boys on a job well done. College Hill resounds to your praises. We are proud of the red blood and honor that sent you across the water. We live for the day when you will come back to us. Merry Christmas!

YOU HAVE BEEN MISSED IN THE LIBRARY

At this happy time our thoughts are with you, and, we wish to join, with others, in this Christmas greeting.

The college has missed you. We have missed you in your accustomed place in the library, but we have followed with pride your devotion to duty, and we know that same devotion will actuate you in the work that is before you.

While we would not have you some back "Till it's over, over there", we hope that will be in time for you to join in the celebration of the centenary of the college, when we will vie with each other in honoring our brave soldiers.

L. P. Snodgrass.

JOLLY WEEK-END ENJOYED BY ELEVEN M. C. GIRLS

"Emma Jane" Miles had what one might call a house party when she invited Winnie Decker, Winston Newton, Maud Hite, Mary Heard, Jessie Creswell, Evelyn Eastman Mildred Hoffman, Minnie Hunter, Laura Putnam, and Alice Wright to spend the week-end at her home in Madisonville. Saturday night this talented troupe gave an entertainment for the Red Cross which was a great success. Monday morning the girls were asked to help celebrate victory, and they responded gladly to the invitation by singing "The Star Spangler Banner" before the county court house as Old Glory was flung to the breeze.

Everybody in Madisonville, including the parents of the Misses Lowry, was bent on giving the girls a good time and it is little wonder that Monday evening was greeted with sighs.

The young ladies should see our Grey Boots with French Heels, $5.98 to $10. They are all reduced.
Canvas Leggings for the Soldiers, reduced to $1.49. Regulation Army Shoes $6.50.

THRILLING EXPERIENCES

Dewey Beck, formerly our Y. M. editor, is now domiciled with L. S. Wilson, E. M. Williams, R. E. Smith, R. M. Bartlett, J. L. Ensign, and G. L. Pugh at Camp Zachary Taylor, Kentucky. The interesting and amusing letter, written to Lieut. LaBelle by Beck, which is given below shows that the first days of transit and acclimation were exciting and novel ones to the young candidates.

Camp Zachary Taylor,
18th Observation Battery,
F. A. C. O. T. S.
November 2, 1918.

Lieut. Guy A. LaBelle,
Maryville, Tenn.

Dear Lieutenant:

Well, here we are in Camp Taylor. Speaking of experiences, I believe that we have had our share during the past two days. We were outfitted in "cotton" uniforms and underwear in Chilhowee Park, Thursday afternoon. You should see the fits that some of us got. My breeches are entirely too tight around the hips. Smith got some shoes that were about two inches too long for him.

We arived here yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. We had to walk almost two miles, carrying all our baggage, before we got to headquarters. They ran us all through the office and then sent us to the infirmary. They sprayed our throats with a weak solution of carbolic acid. It nearly made me sick, as I had had nothing to eat since Thursday night, excepting some sandwiches. We then had to hike about a mile and a half to our barracks. I had to carry a heavy suitcase and a barracks bag. I should guess it all to weigh about sixty pounds. Believe me, we were a sore and tired bunch when we finally reached the 18th Observation Battery's Barracks. We came very near missing our mess. They were not prepared for us, and we had to eat what the other fellows left. After mess we came back to the barracks. By the way, our mess hall and barracks are about two hundred yards apart. They lined about forty of us up and gave each of us two bed sacks, and they marched us about a mile and a half to a hay mow, to fill the sacks. When we got there we found that all the hay was gone and we had to return with empty bed sacks. As a result, we all slept on the springs.

They issued us five blankets apiece. I slept in everything I had on excepting my shoes, leggings, blouse, and hat.

When the mess call comes we drop everything. I shall venture to say that the line for mess today at dinner was a half mile long. Four and five batteries eat in one mess hall. We have not fixed up our mess hall yet, but I think that we shall be eating in our own barracks by tomorrow morning.

It seems funny to be in a mess line with men who are old enough to be my grandfather, and who are trying for the same thing that I am.

You can have no idea of how large this camp is until you have seen it. It is an immense thing. I think that we shall start things going right by Monday. New fellows come in everyday. All of our bunch bunk in the same room. All of us are feeling fine. Write me all the news.

Sincerely yours,
Candidate Dewey Beck.

DR. TRAWICK ADDRESSES THE Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Trawick was a visitor over Sunday in the interest of the extension work of the Y.M.C.A. He addressed a meeting of the boys in Bartlett Hall at 8 a. m. and also spoke at the regular meeting in the afternoon. At both meetings a large audience was in attendance.

Dr. Trawick first spoke on the essentials things that won the war, but he especially emphasized the moral life as the real giver of victory. He showed that lies, cruelty, barbarism, brutality, fraud, and deceit did not win the war; but will power, determination, high and lofty ideals backed by moral courage. The moral life of the individual is the life of the nation and of the future world.

In his second address Dr. Trawick spoke on "The Great American Vice—Profanity".

War stirs up the emotions and passion and men have used cuss words more freely in order to give vent to them. They have used these words to give emphasis, as they thought, to give a touch of realism. Is the English language so poverty stricken for explosive epithets that men have to resort to low, vulgar, degrading profane words to give the proper emphasis? Why is it that men do not use these strong, explosive profane words in the presence of ladies? Why do they cuss at all? They do so because these words are supposed to give strength to an expression, but the truth is that these expletives weaken the expression and show a weak intellect. The use of profane words cannot be passed off as habit and it cannot be said that they mean nothing. These words do have a meaning and often they are attributes of the God-head, trailed thru the mud of an evil mind to give vent to emotional feelings.

The use of such words contaminates the social atmosphere. Language is the expression of the social life and if it is charged with profane words it acts a great deal worse than the German mustard gas. The war has proved that we must protect the weaker nation. Then it is our duty to protect the weaker brother by keeping our language clean and wholesome.

JOINT MEETING!

Just listen! For we bring unto you tiding of a great surprise. Wondrous phenomena are about to be phenomenated, magnificient harmonies are about to be harmonicated, and thrilling events are about to be eventicated!

A few of our older inhabitants may remember that some decades ago the four literary societies voted to hold a joint meeting in the chapel on the fourth Saturday of every month. Yes, they did! Now listen! The first of these historic and ever-to-be-remembered affairs is to take place on next Saturday night. Aren't you thrilled. Of course you are!

There is to be music by the internationally famed Maryville Orchestra, supplemented by the world's greatest pianists. Mr. Bartlett is going to bring the War to our very doors, while Sue Nuckols and Jessie Creswell will soothe and calm our ruffled spirits with the sweet and gentle outpouring of an artist's soul. Roy McCall, who has sung before Kings and Emperors will enchant our ears with the melodies of the heavens, while the famous Bainonian quartet will thrill our souls to the skies with their magnificent chorus. Last, and most stupendous of all, is a play, produced by Miss Sue Nuckols and Miss Mattie Hamilton, the two noted play-rights. They have met with wonderful success and unstinted praise at every stopping place, and we are extremely fortunate in having secured their aid.

Now, let us have a full house next Saturday night. Words fail us, or we would tell you more of the coming joys—but—just come!!

Misses Carmen Park, Mary Kate Lewis, and Ethel Burchfiel went to Knoxville Tuesday to do their Christmas shopping.

THE BAINONIAN MUSE SPEAKS

At Bainonian, the last meeting,
Which was held on Saturday evening,
Great trouble was found in seating
Girls who came ('twas just repeating
A habitual proceeding.)

The trouble, though, was justified
As all the girls have certified
A program "tres" diversified
(As much enjoyed as chicken-fried)
Was given and all were satisfied.

When no more business was pending
All listened to the lovely rendering
Of Miss Copeland's reading, sending
Great applause to her for lending
Such great talent to us listening.

Oh! Miss Armentrout then played
And we heard indeed amazed;
Then for Miss Heard almost was raised
The roof, and lawsey, how we praised
Our girls for we were simply dazed!

The society then, on hearing
Miss Eastman and Miss Moore in giving
A solo, and too a reading
(Making all feel glad they 'eez living)
Adjourned—(though all, in truth, weren't willing.)

THETA HAS GRAND JUBILEE PROGRAM

Theta Epsilon Literary Society met Saturday night to celebrate the signing of the Armistice, to honor The Allies, and Our Men. To express further the enthusiasm of the members (an enthusiasm that helped to make the halls ring last Monday before sunrise,) the following Grand Jubilee program was presented:

"Across the Rhine", and "Changing the Tune for Kaiser Bill - - - - - - - - Victory Chorus

Outburst of Melody, Madrith Purdy.

A Scene from a War Secretary's Office: Janet Ensign and Susan Carson.

Whoops and Yells led by Minnie Hunter.

"What the Yankee Boys Do"; "Home, Sweet Home", - Victory Chorus.

Jubilation Songs - - - Audience

Maude Hite directed the Victory Chorus and the members of the chorus: Vera Dunnaway, Grace Core, Mabel Ritchie, Manie Witherspoon, Vance Hudgens, and Corin Humphries wore Columbia costumes. Aletha Purdy, Ida Gilbert, and Lucille Middleton were the pianists and Carmen Park was critic for the evening.

PERSONALS

Miss Carrie Sheddan spent the week-end in the country, going out after dinner and returning for supper Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Cox, Miss Marion Krespach, Stanley Large, Rella Hurst, and John Witherspoon recently held a great Maryville reunion in Philadelphia.

Harry Wagner has completed his course in the Signal School and has been made Chief Petty Officer. He will enter the Officers' Material School immediately.

Miss Teressa Newton of Harriman was the week-end guest of her sisters, Winston and Ruth Newton.

Misses Carrie Sheddan, Mary Thompson, Ruth and Winston Newton, and Eunice Taylor spent Monday in Knoxville.

Ruby Paul, a member of the class '19, who has been doing government work in Washington, was a visitor on the hill last week.

We are glad to welcome Mabel Zimmerman back to school.

VOLUME FOUR | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1918. | NUMBER TEN

DEMOBILIZATION OF THE MARYVILLE S. A. T. C. TO BE EFFECTED BY DEC. 21

THE INVOLVED WOKRS OF DEMOBILIZATION WILL BEGIN TOMORROW

MEN WITH BEST RECORDS DISCHARGED FIRST. UNIFORMS MAY BE WORN FOUR MONTHS AFTER DISMISSAL. BASKETBALL GAME TO BE STAGED SOON.

Demobilization of the local S. A. T. C. unit will begin Wednesday, December 4th. It is expected to be completed within two weeks. According to War Department orders the demobilization must be effected by December 21st.

After receiving their discharges the men will be given the equivalent of their train-fare home, at the rate of 3 1-2 cents per mile, in cash. Each man will be again subjected to the varied and mysterious workings of the "mill". Because of the proposed continuation of the government insurance each man will be given a physical examination before receiving his discharge. The army paper work connected with the mustering out process is tremendous and for this reason it is expected that more than one week will be utilized in this work.

Lieut. LaBelle states that he desires to give every man an "Excellent" discharge from the service but that the strictest discipline must be maintained until the end.

Charles D. Taylor, formerly sergeant and right guide, has been promoted to the rank of 1st. sergeant. Robert Hunter is now serving as color sergeant.

Although the demobilization is near at hand, Lieut. Reilly, athletic director, plans to stage at least one match basketball game on the home floor before Christmas. Monday morning the veterans of the gridiron sorrowfully returned their moleskins, many of them to don the uniforms of the indoor court.

Monday the company had a group picture made. Prints will probably be on sale at the Book Room. It might be well to add that the footballers also had their picture taken Monday, Mascot Jack Harwood included. It is doubtless well-known that Jack makes a model mascot regardless of the fact that Lieut. Reilly sometimes questions his knowledge of football equipment. It has been announced that Olive Drab uniforms will be issued to all the men before demobilization, and the cotton material now in use is to be returned. The men will be allowed to wear their uniforms for four months after discharge after which they must return them to military authorities. Underclothing which has already been issued is not required to be returned at the end of the four months.

The paymaster arrived Monday and the enlisted men of the unit received their second months' pay from Uncle Sam. Even the $30 per, minus insurance, Liberty Bonds installment, Y.M.C.A., and War Work Fund subscriptions comes as a welcome asset.

Many plans are being discussed concerning the most profitable and enjoyable means of depleting the company "A" fund bank account. Whether the "big doins" will occur in Maryville or Knoxville is yet undecided. It has been suggested that the entire company take a hike to Knoxville and enjoy a dinner-dance at Whittle Springs. The main objection to such a plan is the fact that very few are optimistic enough to believe that Miss Molly would allow the pretty co-eds to enjoy such an adventure. In the event that the Knoxville trip is deemed unprofitable it is likely that a dinner and perhaps the inevitable "snap" will be indulged in.

BASKETBALL

Bright indeed are the prospects for the approaching basketball season. In the person of Drake, Sandberg, Callahan, Cotton and several of last year's squad we have some able representatives of the Orange and Garnet. It is even rumored that Lieut. Reilly and Lieut. LaBelle will make a bid for positions on the first team.

Should Bob Clemens consent to coach the team it is most probable that a stellar aggregation can be formed. Whether a number of the men will return to school after demobilization is a matter for time and parents to decide apparently, for the majority of the boys are yet undecided.

Already negotiations are under way for a match game with some local college or prep team. Although the team will be purely an army five until demobilization, it is likely that the college will promote the sport after the unit has been disbanded. The present basketball equipment is in splendid condition, and if an able and permanent coach can be secured Maryville will be represented by a winning aggregation.

THE SENIORS INVITE THEMSELVES TO SUPPER

Who said no supper Thanksgiving night? Certainly not the Seniors, for even the heartiest of turkey dinners could not make them forget to come around for supper at seven o'clock. And the fact that they had to wait awhile for many oysters to fry, only whetted their appetites; for when the oysters and potato salad and hot chocolate finally made their appearance, everybody did them justice, even Professor Hunter and Dr. Stevenson. Prof. Hunter had kindly turned over his bungalow to the Seniors, and they made themselves very much at home.

After supper, which was really the feature of the evening, the party had a most exciting time playing "Spin the Platter", until Mrs. Stevenson had to go and break the plate—a perfectly good plate, too! Then just by way of diversion, "Shorty" Newell got married. A certain well-known colored parson officiated, but thus far the reporter has been unable to obtain any information as to who the groom was. And thus ended a most delightful Thanksgiving Day.

COME TO FAIRYLAND!

"Princess Lovejoy" will be presented in the chapel Friday evening, Dec. 6 by Baldwin talent. This play will outrival Marguerite Clark's production of "Snow White". Elves, fairies, dwarfs, gnomes, and fantastic animals will appear in the fairyland that is to be revealed to the enchanted audience. Come and bring your playmate! You will never regret having spent thirty pennies for so enjoyable an entertainment and in behalf of such a worthy cause.

JOINT MEETING OF SOCIETIES A SUCCESS

Large and Appreciative Audience Listens to Well Rendered and Attractive Program.

The first joint meeting of the four literary societies was held in the Elizabath R. Voorhees Chapel Saturday evening, November 23. Mr. Miller presided and explained the purpose that had lead to the decision for a union of the societies every fifth Saturday.

The inseparability of the organizations from the life of the Hill, and the relation and feeling of each to each, and all to each other was proved by the singing of the College song as the opening number.

"A Review of the War" by Mr. Barker gave briefly and in natural sequence the causes, conditions, and principal events of the past four years to the signing of the Armistice.

A piano duet played by Misses Bernice Lowry and Helen Park was much enjoyed.

A scene from "The Romancers" by Edmond Ostand was portrayed by Miss Jessie Creswell. Miss Creswell is too well known to require introduction or recommendation. With the ease of an artist she impersonated the different characters, and made the transitions from one character to the other.

The second musical number, beautifully sung and insistently encored, was the selection "Italia" by the Bainonian Quartet. Misses Mary Heard, Emma Miles, Winston Newton, and Winifred Decker delight an appreciative audience always.

"An Abandoned Elopement" was read by Miss Sue Nuckols. Obadiah and Debbie were not able to "see it thru", but the entire audience followed Miss Nuckols from the beginning to the end of her story. Though Major "got up", he did not get ahead of the interest of Miss Nuckols' hearers.

The Dramatization Class, directed by Mattie Hamilton and Sue Nuckols, presented the play "The Outsider", in one act. A truly college episode was enacted, and truly college girls walked, talked, and played basketball. The seven girls were Minnie Hunter, Troy Haddox, Jessie Creswell, Imogene Copeland, Marie Townsend, Evelyn Eastman, and Gail Wilson. Marie Townsend, as "The Outsider" won the game, her classmates, and the audience.

In the words of Mr. Miller, "Everyone come to the next joint meeting. Invite your friends. Let the crowd increase until every seat in the auditorium and gallery is filled."

THE BIOLOGY DEPARTMENT MAKES MARKED AND RAPID PROGRESS

SEPARATION OF COLLEGE AND PREPARATORY CLASSES PERMITS GREATER EFFICIENCY. LABORATORY NOW ONE OF BEST IN SOUTH.

In spite of the war, which has of necessity suppressed expansion and progress more or less in our colleges, the Department of Biology of Maryville College has been able to take a step in advance this year.

The colleges of this country are divided into A and B grades. Although, in most respects, Maryville College ranks as an A college, yet there are a few features of her curriculum which still keep her in class B. Among these has been the fact that the College and Preparatory Departments have not been separated, as far as the teaching force was concerned; that is, college teachers have also been teaching preparatory subjects. The college authorities are endeavoring to bring about this separation as rapidly as possible, so that the college may become eligible to rank in class A.

This separation was made in the Department of Biology this year. We were fortunate enough to secure the services of Miss Annie Pleasants of the class of 1917, as a graduate assistant. When a student, Miss Pleasants took nearly all the courses offered in the Department, and so comes well prepared for her position. With the assistance of James Martin, she has full charge of the very large preparatory class, and also assists in the laboratory work of the college classes. This will make it possible for the college work in the Department to expand, as it has never been able to do before.

Because some of the courses in Biology are among those prescribed by the Government for the S.A.T.C. the result has been that several of the college classes are unusually small, while others are unusually large. Some problems were presented, for instance, when the Advanced Physiology class swelled to twenty members, when it has never before had more than eight. This necessitated the purchasing of considerable additional rather expensive apparatus.

A new course in Plant Physiology will be offered in the Spring Term. We are expecting the usual crowd to come flocking into the regular "Spring Botany" class, for certain features of the course, outside of the classroom, seem to offer great attractions, especially in the spring, when the end of the year is approaching.

There has been some difficulty in getting apparatus and supplies this year. Possibly the boys in France before their return will be glad to make a collection of specimens for the Department!

—Susan A. Green.

THE VICTOR ITALIAN ARTISTS ENTERTAIN

Large Audience Enjoys Splendid Program Including Classical and Popular Music.

On Friday night, November 29th., the second number of the Lyceum course was presented before a full house. The Victor Italian artists, six in number, rendered a most delightful musical program, directed by Signor Russo, a famous Italian orchestra leader. The instruments used were the piano, saxophone, violin, cornet, trombone, and clarinet. All of the numbers were very fine, and the performers were so heartily applauded that they were compelled to encore each number. A cornet solo, accompanied by the other instruments, and a violin solo, magnificently rendered, received special recognition. A unique feature of the program was the playing of "Over There" by two members of the group, on very simple little instruments called, in slang, "sweet potatoes". A Jazz Fox Trot was encored again and again, while the audience was convulsed by the wild character of the music and the equally wild autics of the performers that accompanied it. Among the selections were also many classical numbers, which were wonderfully interpreted by the artists under the direction of their talented leader. There were besides, several selections that were familiar to the audience, among them, the "Marseillaise", a group of Southern Plantation Songs, and "Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight". The concert closed with the "Star Spangled Banner" in which the audience was invited to join.

SECOND SERVICE FLAG IS DEDICATED

The Honor Roll of Maryville has increased until the large service flag which was hung last year will not hold the many stars which represent M. C. men in service. From the mother flag has grown another flag which was dedicated at the chapel hour Saturday morning. This flag like the first one was fashioned in the Home Economics' Department and while it symbolizes Maryville's gallant heroes of the Great War, it is a testimony of the work of M. C. women.

The special features of the dedication exercises were a musical reading, "When the Boys Come Home" by Miss Minnie Hunter and a vocal solo, "God Be with Our Boys Tonight" by Miss Winston Newton. Both numbers were well rendered and were thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

LYCEUM MONDAY NIGHT

The third number of the lyceum course will take place Monday evening, December 9th. The Smith-Spring-Holmes Company will entertain. This company comes highly recommended and will doubtless give one of the best entertainments of the year. Don't miss the lyceums for the are THE events of the year.

The prospects for a strong intercollegiate debating team are very bright now that a number of seasoned debaters have returned from training camp. There is no reason why Maryville should not continue this year the high standard which she has formerly maintained in forensic endeavor. Here's to the M. C. Forensic League that is to be, may it scintillate and "argumentate" to the downfall of all opposing teams!

Let us not give visitors a chance to remark that we are not a courteous people. Last year discourtesy was shown to lyceum performers when certain people persisted in whispering throughout entire entertainments. The visitors resented this and rightly so. Friday night at the Victor Italian Orchestral Concert there was a great deal of whispering during the presentation of the numbers. Some people have the mistaken idea that musicians do not command respectful attention. Courtesy as well as charity begins at home, so hereafter when we listen to our local talent whether it be in literary society, at parties, or in the chapel, let us give the performer our undivided attention. If we do this we shall know how to conduct ourselves when we have the privilege of listening to visiting artists.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE OF THE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. held their annual Thanksgiving service in the chapel, Prof. Hunter being the speaker.

The Thanksgiving holiday is unique among the five great holidays, in that it is the only one by proclamation of the President. The speaker chose the theme of "Open Windows" and pointed to the contrast of the open heavens and our own senses. From the many blessings the speaker selected five as being most appropriate at this time. First, "Give thanks for what we have heard." The call of duty arose above the discordant cries, and in the response to the call of duty, the American people have the thanks and the well-doing of the peoples of the world. Secondly, "Give thanks for what we have felt". As a people we have felt the worth of humanity and the kinship of our fellow-men across the sea. In the third place, "Give thanks for the odor of sacrifice that has come to us." For above the odor of death, hateful gasses, and foulness, there arises the incense of sacrifice. An unknown French soldier expressed the thought in these words, "I wade in blood, I sleep in mud, but my soul is with the stars." Fourth, "Give thanks for the taste we here enjoy." While millions are literally starving we are surrounded by the goodness of God. "Taste and see that the Lord is good." The last sense for which we are thankful is, "Sight." "We see the need of a world of men, to lead the world in righteousness.

Miss Emma Miles rendered a solo and the Brown-Gamble quartet gave a selection in a very pleasing manner. The orchestra played a beautiful opening number.

THETA PRESENTS FAMOUS ARTISTS

"Bring forth my hunchback king of mirth and let me revel with him". But a hunchback jester would have had no charm for the audience at Theta Epsilon Saturday night. The audience was edified and entertained by two of the world's great artists of literary, psychological, and oratorical ability.

Miss Sue Nuckols spoke seriously and admonishingly of the dangers of High Culture. There was rapt attention; a moment of silence preceded tumultuous applause.

Miss Carmen Park plead eloquently for ten minutes in behalf of Woman's Most Modern Movement. The audience was swayed from laughter to tears by the persuasiveness of this public-spirited woman. Suffragists and society leaders are concentrating their efforts to further this new Cause. Miss Park will sail for Europe soon, where she will give her lecture "The Down of the Mouse".

Miss Minnie Hunter gave the second number of the famous "Love Letters of a Rookie". Occurring in serial form, these readings have aroused much interest.

Among the innumerable blessings ushered in by the Allied Victory, one is the unexpected re-appearance of Misses Bernice Lorwy and Ida Gilbert, the wonderful concert pianistes. Tones long hushed by the horrors of war were drawn by magic touch from the ivory keys.

The War has not stifled music, but it has arrested the development of musical thought within the last four years. We may now expect unprecedented productions by both old and new composers. Two composers hitherto unknown are Misses Lucile Middleton and Mabel Ritchie. They gave the initial rendition of their latest composition for four hands, "An Overture in Cold Nerve".

The program for next Saturday will be given by the new girls; Miss Mamie Carol Ludeman, manager.

Those long expected overcoats have arrived! And, oh boy, they're sawed off too.

Ye good olden civilian days, "I'm comin back to you".

BAINONIAN KEEPS UP THE PACE

Some weeks ago, one Bainonian girl remarked that Bainonian programs had been so good it would be impossible to "keep up the good work". It is very evident from the program of Saturday night that Bainonian is competent to keep up the good work in an extremely pleasing way. The new girls exceed all expectations in the way they respond to all invitations to take part. At the last meeting Misses Irene Smith and Mildred Hoffman represented the new girls. Miss Smith rendered a piano solo and Miss Hoffman a reading. Miss Emily Wright played very beautifully. Needless to say, the audience listened with great attention to the reading given by Miss Irrovia Corry. The closing number was a duet by Misses Henry and Decker which was very much enjoyed.

Only a few Bainonian programs until Christmas—but, Bainonian girls, those few are to be the "best yet". Come! If you are early you may have a chair and if you are late bring a pillow. The floor is softer then.)

Y. M. C. A.

The regular meeting of the Association was devoted to a discussion of the subject of "Why Am I Thankful?" After the reading of the message of the National Committee of the Y.M.C.A., a number took part. Among the subjects were: "I am thankful for the change from military to civilian life"; for the opportunity of rebuilding, on American foundations, the false structures of European justice and right; for the position America occupies; for the work of the Y. M. C. A. in fellowship and co-operation.

"A MEMORY LESSON" Y. W. C. A. TOPIC

Another splendid service of the year was held on Sunday with Carmen Park as leader. Her subject, "A Memory Lesson", proved an interesting topic full of good thoughts and helpful hints. She emphasized the necessity of good memories and the influence memory has on our later life. Only with Christ can we have the sweetest, the most wholesome memories. Miss Caldwell then told us one of her most satisfying and beautiful memories which touched our hearts and inspired us to make our influence count for good. Hattie Hayes gave a short talk on "How shall we live to always have pleasant memories?" Martha Robinson spoke on "How we can make others' memories of us the best possible". The special music was furnished by Ida Gilbert who played a piano solo, and Callie Speck who sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought".

WHYS?

Why do Miss Molly and Miss Jackson sit in different sections of the chapel?

Why does Lieut. LaBelle now go into the dining-room thru the boys' entrance?

Why are there so many pleased expressions when the announcement is made, that Prof. So and So will not meet his classes today?

Why does Thanksgiving proper come but once a year?

Why have so many sentences been pronounced lately?

Why do Miss Hale and Miss Buxton wear flowers of the same specie?

Why is the water cold in the morning?

Why are the Misses Barber, Hartman, Ludeman, Davis, Nuckols, and others looking so pleased nowa-days?

Why does Mrs. H. Frater ask Dean Barnes a dozen times daily when "Our Boys" are coming home?

Why are so many people having pictures made?

Why are the fellows sorry that the S.A.T.C. is going to demobilize?

Why is it Jane Morton has so many beaux?

Why is Bill Holmes looking so sad?

Why is it that a particular black dog wishes to join the Vesper choir?

Why is it that we are always asking "Why"?

VESPER SERVICE

Dr. Stevenson's text Sunday evening was taken from Luke 4:18. The discussion was mainly on the sentence, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me".

Dr. Stevenson said that if the records of Christ performing miracles should be destroyed, the universe itself would be a manifestation of a Supreme Being, a greater power than humanity.

The growth of humanity is undulating, proceeding in waves; great and majestic though striving for utterance. The Protestant Reformation of the 16th Century formed the crest of a wave in human growth, and we have sunk lower and lower until now we have reached the trough of that wave, but as Christians we realize that we shall rise to the crest again although the forward movement is slow. Religion is our inheritance, our only hope and chief concern in this realization.

Let us ask ourselves the vital question, "What is my condition?" The desire to get away from the present condition shows the nobler and truer qualities of humanity.

Then, when the vital question is sincerely answered, the eyes of the blind are already opened, and religion which is a revelation presents something better than we deserve. One question we must answer in the twilight of sadness, anxiety, and serious reflection of the possible purpose and destination of life is, "Are we in harmony with our Maker, Benefactor and Preserver?"

Dr. Stevenson closed by saying that we must get where we belong, near God. By prayer and humility a light shines round about us, and a still small voice calls, "Follow me!" Shall we follow Him? Will you accept the Guide?

ALUMNI NOTES

Two Maryville Alumni who have made notable success along their chosen line are Prof. John W. Ritchie, '98, of William and Mary College, Virginia, and Prof. Joseph S. Caldwell, '02, of the State College of Washington, who have issued a number of books on Physiology and Hygiene for use in the grades. A recent circular states that the Series is in use not only in continental United States but also in Porto Rico, the Philippines and Alaska. They have been translated into Spanish and one of them has been translated into Japanese and Tagalog also. Besides this the English edition of some of these books is in use in India, Burma, the Malay States, Siam, China and some of the East Indian Islands. There is an edition of one of them in Braille for the blind. Prof. Ritchie has been devoting his entire time for the past few years to editorial work on these publications. Prof. Caldwell is engaged in research work at the State College of Washington.

The following item regarding Dr. Chas. N. Magill, appears in a recent number of the Presbyterian Advance:

The many friends of Dr. Charles N. Magill, of Lucena, P. I. will learn with deep regret that he has been compelled by ill-health to give up his work in the foreign field. Dr. Magill spent several weeks in a hospital in Manilla before returning to America. He and Mrs. Magill will spend the winter at 212 Eucil Avenue, Pasadena, Calif. Physicians deem an operation imperative, but it is hoped that the operation together with a year of complete rest, will restore Dr. Magill's health so that he may be able to return to his beloved work in the Philippines. Dr. and Mrs. Magill will return to their home in East Tennessee next spring.

1903.

Rev. E. N. Quist is now located in Woodburn, Oregon, where he is pastor of the Presbyterian church. The town is situated in the Willamette Valley between Portland and Salem. He is pleased with the place and is meeting with success in his work.

PERSONALS

Miss Hattie Cox had as her guest last week, Mr. John Easterly, of Greenville.

Come and see the fairies in the chapel Friday night.

Grace Bailey in enumerating her Thanksgiving blessings says that she is glad she is allowed to buy all the sugar she wants—, providing she has the money.

What became of Prof. Gillingham's Uncle Sam suit, Sunday night?

It is noticed that certain invalids "take up their beds and walk" when the "boys come home".

No, it isn't the flu that makes Cotton hoarse. He was heard to remark that he caught his cold sitting on the back chapel steps one night. Could he have been alone?

What's the idea in locking the Spanish teacher out of her classroom?

Miss Marie Thompson has had as her guest her soldier brother who is in training at one of the southern camps.

Cedric Miller, president of "Y. M." is in Atlanta attending a convention of S.A.T.C. and camp "Y" secretaries who took an active part in the United War Work Campaign.

Miss Rebecca Calderwood, Miss Christine Copeland, Miss Mary Key Dolvin, and Miss Carrie Griffin were supper guests of Miss Margaret Drake, Thanksgiving night.

Dean Barnes is recuperating from the flu. Madame Dennee has recovered from a relapse of the same disease.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Newton of Harriman were Thanksgiving guests of the Misses Newton.

Miss Frances Willard Hickey played nurse to her sister Mary while the latter was recuperating from the flu at Dandridge, where she teaches Science and Latin in the high school.

Ex-candidate Robert Adams has returned from Camp Gordon minus his waving locks.

Miss Mildred Campbell and Miss Augusta Templin entertained Miss Gladys Templin of Morristown over the week-end. Saturday night "Gus" gave a "feed" in honor of her sister, Miss Templin.

George Pugh, George Callahan, Dewey Beck, Bob Bartlett, James Ensign, and Harold Smith have been honorably dismissed from Camp Zachary Taylor, Kentucky. There was much rejoicing on the Hill when these dashing and debonair candidates made their re-appearance. Lake Russell has also returned and he is demonstrating very freely that he is familiar with arts quite in keeping with the man and the uniform.

Miss Lola Beeler entertained her cousin, Miss Merna Bible of Carson-Newman over the Thanksgiving season.

Miss "Babe" Crane, a Freshman member of the class of 1919 who is teaching school at Harriman, and W. K. Horton were recent guests of Miss Helen Horton.

Among the recent note-worthy visitors were Meade Johnson and Harry Wagner. Meade has secured an indefinite furlough from the Naval Aviation Corps at Miami, Florida, and will probably register here in the Winter term. "Wag" will continue his course in The Officers' Material School, Norfolk, Va. Germany's boundary lines are not the only ones subject to change, eh boys?

CHIEF CONARD FAILS TO DOWN RUSSELL

Lake Russell, of the local S.A.T.C. unit, not only refused to be thrown twice in thirty minutes by Chief Conard Monday night but clearly outpointed his opponent.

As the main attraction of the evening's sports the match was a great success. The fans were evidently well pleased for in the latter minutes of the contest each contestant managed to secure toe holds, the match ending in a practical deadlock. As an amateur Russell shows great form and promise. He assumed the offensive for the greater part of the thirty minutes.

The preliminaries were fast and of an entirely enjoyable character. Sandberg managed his opponent with ease, but failed to annex a fall within the five minute period. James, opposed by Watkins, Maryville, rushed his opponent off his feet, securing two falls in three minutes.

The boxing bout between Drear and Beck went for three snappy rounds. The first two rounds ended in a draw, Drear receiving the decision in the third. Lieut. Reilly refereed the preliminaries. Mr. Jackson, Maryville, refereed the main match between Chief Conard and Russell.

A large crowd (including a commendable representation from the faculty) witnessed the sports contests. A total of $53.90 was secured for the company fund.

LOGAN—SIMPSON

A wedding of unusual interest to Maryville alumni and students was solemnized November 20th, at 1:30 p. m., when the Rev. O. H. Logan was united in marriage to Miss George Simpson at her home in Rowland, Tenn.

The bride wore a tailored navy blue serge suit, a black panne velvet hat, and accessories to match. The groom wore the conventional black.

Soon after the ceremony the happy couple left for Coal Creek, Tenn., where they will be at home in the M. E. parsonage.

Both the Rev. and Mrs. Logan were members of the Class of 1918, and during their course at Maryville they made themselves very popular with the students, the faculty, and incidentally with themselves, their marriage being the result of a Hill romance.

The best wishes of the college are extended to the newly-wedded couple.

BARRACK CHATTER

Where do we go from here boys? The farm, the office, or back to classes.

Have you all noticed the chin strap? We ride horses don't we?

HAVE YOU NOTICED?

Lieut. LaBelle has developed into quite a football star. He seems to specialize on the "punt and fall" formation.

Sergeant Taylor assures us that he hasn't "the woman craze yet".

AFTER-TAPS CHATTER

Lieut. LaBelle: "You men can get those chevrons off in the morning".

Four Culprits: (meekly) "Yes, Sir".

HURST MAKES NAVY FIRST TEAM

M. C. has been well-represented in football this year by Rella Hurst a brilliant squadsman of last year. Hurst left Harvard too late to arrive at the Philadelphia navy yard in time to begin the football season in due order. However, he had his try-out in a recent game between the Navy Yard Training Camp Scrubs and the Hog Islanders in which the former trounced the latter by a score of 19 to 0. Hurst is mentioned as a star of the game, and as a result of his good work was given a place on the navy first team.

But Uncle Sam had other work for Hurst to do and now he is on the "Conley" serving as a radio operator.

The Highland Echo

THE ECHO GOES OVER THE TOP WITH THE BOYS "OVER THERE"

VOLUME FOUR | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1918. | NUMBER ELEVEN

THE STUDENT ARMY TRAINING CORPS IS DISBANDED TO-DAY

MEN END CAREER OF LOCAL UNIT WITH STAG BANQUET IN PEARSONS. LIEUTS. TO LEAVE SOON. LIEUT. LA BELLE TRANSFERRED TO KNOXVILLE.

Seventy men of the local S.A.T.C. unit are eagerly awaiting their discharges from the service. Lieut. La Belle has announced that these will be given out either Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

The white forms indicatory of an honorable discharge have already been filled out and now await the signature of the commanding officer. The status of the discharge whether "excellent", "good" or—also remains to be determined. "Individual conduct will be noted up to the last minute and men who maintain a clean record will be given an "excellent discharge", announced Lieut. LaBelle.

Capable enlisted men have been impressed into service as clerks, typists, and other offices so necessary to the carrying on of the inevitable "red tape" connected with the mustering out process, and the paper work has been attacked day and night for several days past. Lieut. Reel expected to have this phase of the work completed by Sunday night.

The cotton clothing which was first issued to the men was returned to the quartermaster Saturday. Enlisted men are required to return their wool clothing four months after they have been discharged.

To the casual observer, the advantages and assets which the S. A. T. C. unit has brought to the college are indeed invaluable. Especially is this true when viewed from a standpoint of student morale. Physically, the men are greatly improved. Practically every man in the unit has gained from 5 to 10 pounds since his enlistment almost three months ago.

Lieut. Reel and Lieut. Reilly will be discharged Tuesday. They expect to spend Wednesday and Thursday in Maryville sight-seeing. Lieut. LaBelle does not expect to be discharged with the unit. He will probably be transferred to Knoxville, where he will remain until the details of the mustering-out process have been completed. After receiving his discharge from the service he expects to return to Chicago, his home.

Lieut. LaBelle makes the following statement to the college press:

"Never before in my military experience have I enjoyed my work as I have here. Much of the success which has characterized the work of the unit has been due to the successful and gracious co-operation of the College authorities with every need and request of the unit.

"I wish to publicly acknowledge my gratitude and indebtedness to Dr. Wilson for the spirit of altruism and helpfulness which he has ever manifested towards the unit and its officers.

"As for the men, I am delighted to be able to say that they are the peppiest, grittiest and most efficient outfit that it has ever been my privilege to command.

"Should any of the men ever come to Chicago I shall be most happy to entertain them. My address is: Cosmopolitan School of Music, 16th floor, Kimball Hall Building, Chicago, Ill.

"In conclusion I wish to publicly express my thanks to the non-commissioned officers of the company who have rendered such efficient and faithful service, also to the office force and to Corpl. Silvius in particular. Buglers Cloyd and Miles also merit my thanks."

Lieut. Reel, Personnel Adjutant of the unit, also uses the columns of the Echo as a medium for expressing his appreciation of the fine work and co-operation of the college authorities and also of the men of the unit.

"I am sure, that even if I had been given my choice of all the units I could not have picked a more agreeable place for service. My work here has been very enjoyable and the spirit and efficiency of the men is indeed commendable."

Lieut. Reilly believes that it is needless for him to state that he likes Maryville—and its inhabitants—and that he dislikes to leave. During his short stay on college hill the Lieutenant has become a hearty advocate of "moonshine", (the pastime) and has undoubtedly added much to the history of the art. The fellows think of him as a good sport, a good mixer, and as an all around "good ole scout".

S. A. T. C. BANQUET

"Give me the fags, give me the eats, and leave the rest to me."

So say the 70 men and officers of the unit who will break their wartime Hooverizing Tuesday night by indulging in a farewell banquet at Pearsons Hall at 7 o'clock.

Speeches by Lieutenants Reel, La Belle, and Reilly, and Dr. Wilson will feature the entertainment program for the evening. The "menu a la militarie" composed under the supervision of Lieut. La Belle and prepared per the skillful direction of Misses Darby and Coulter reads as follows:

Turkey front with right dressing
Ball cartridge cranberries
Potatoes au gratin on guard
Peas a la take distance
Hot tea rolls call
Ramrod pickles
Small of the stock celery
Ice cream, prepare for inspection
Cosmoline cake
Ground arms coffee
Align-mints

MISS WICKS HONOREE AT MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

The following extract from the Birmingham Ledger will be of interest to many undergraduates and alumni. Miss Wicks, who is a very pleasing reader, discontinued her course here last year. Mr. Leonard graduated in 1917.

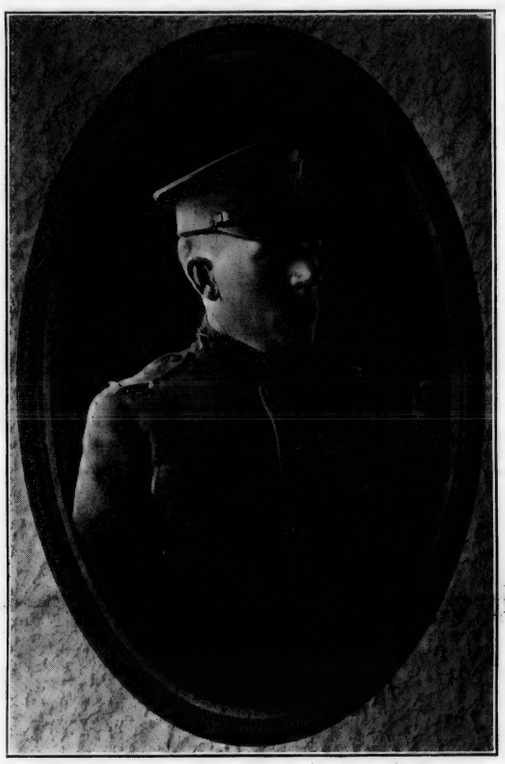
"Miss Coral Wood entertained Saturday at her home on Twelfth Street, South, at a miscellaneous shower in compliment to Miss Josephine Wicks, of Chattanooga, her house guest, whose marriage to Mr. Chester Leonard, of Chicago, is to be an event of the Christmas holidays. During an amusing contest several delightful readings were given by Miss Wicks. Many gifts were presented to the honoree and Mrs. H. B. Abernethy assisted the hostess in entertaining."

CO-EDS WILL PLAY

There will be a good basketball game on the home floor this week. Watch for the announcement concerning the identity of the opposing team and the time. Come out and support the first girls' varsity game of the season.

FORENSIC LEAGUE WILL RESUME WORK EARLY IN WINTER TERM

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT FOR A STRONG TEAM WITH OLD MEN BACK AND PROMISING NEW MATERIAL. THE GIRLS ARE URGED TO JOIN THE LEAGUE.



With the coming of peace, and the return of Maryville College to a peace basis, the desire of both students and faculty is to see the resumption of all college activities.

With this end in view, plans are being rapidly developed for the Forensic events of the year, and Prof. Hunter, the faculty advisor in such events, is already in correspondence with four schools, relative to intercollegiate debates.

The Forensic League, a league small in years, yet great in deeds, will hold its first meeting this week to begin active preparation of its future work, and it is hoped that all college and preparatory students who are in any way interested in forensic events will attend this meeting.

There has been in the past a feeling on the part of the new students who wished to try for the team that the places were already cinched for the old debaters, and they have refrained from entering the preliminaries on this account. This has undoubtedly kept some good talent from becoming uncovered, but this year such must not be the case. Heretofore the girls have also refrained from entering, but this year there is no reason why the feminine section of the college should not be represented.

Maryville has captured the major part of the honors at stake during their contests the past three years, and this year should prove no exception. With the return of several old and experienced debaters from camps, M. C. seems to be well on the way to more and greater victories.

LIEUT. HARPER WHO WAS KILLED IN ACTION.

WHAT MATTERS

The following poem appeared in the Stars and Stripes, the American Expeditionary Force newspaper, on September 27, 1918. Lieutenant Milton L. Harper, a former student of the College, marked the poem and sent it to his mother. It was the last message home that he sent before his heroic death on the battlefield. The poem is entitled "What Matters".

How happy I shall be, O mother mine,
If only, after our hard fight is won,
My part, though small, shall license you to speak
With pride of him who is your son.

It matters not if I am not at your side
To comfort you and ease your ripening years,
For though you grieve the loss of him you loved,
Pride, then, will quickly vanquish sorrow's tears.

It matters only, if midst shrapnel's scream,
And bullets, gas, and ravages of Hun,
That I whom you have reared with tender love,
Shall live or die as you would have your son.

THIRTEEN GOLD STARS GRACE SERVICE FLAG

Seven of These Represent Lieutenants Who Have Died In Service.

Thirteen gold stars now grace the red of M.C's mother service flag. Seven of these thirteen stars represent lieutenants who died unselfishly for the rights of humanity.

Recent casualty lists have added five names to the Honor Roll.

Hugh Clement of Idol, Tenn., who was here in 1910-11, 1911-12, is reported to have died in camp.

Lieut. W. D. Bushong of Morristown was killed in action.

Luna W. Enloe of Sevierville died of disease in France. Enloe was a zealous basketball player while in school. A brother and sister are matriculated this term.

Corp. John Paul Tallent of Carpenter's Camp Ground near Maryville is listed as having died of pneumonia. Tallent was here in 1912-13.

Frank Stanley Frazier of Leas Springs (1915-16) soon after landing in France, was reported dead. This report has been verified.

Luke McClary and John Prince are reported missing in action. It is hoped that they will be located in prison camps.

"PRINCESS LOVEJOY" GREAT SUCCESS

Students and Town People Crowd Chapel To See Well Acted and Staged Fairy Drama.

Friday evening, December 6th, the chapel platform was transformed into a nook in Fairyland.

To the strains of the orchestra the curtain arose and Miss Imogene Copeland led the audience into the days of long ago with "Mistress Penelope". The Baldwin Hall Chorus then sang "Dawn", and upon request gave a short snappy encore. Next, Elizabeth Moore's piano selection from Chopin summoned the fairies.

At the appearance of the fairy queen, who blew a blast on her trumpet, fourteen attendants tripped from the woods and circled around her.

At that gathering it was made known that the King and Queen of the land wished for a daughter, and one of the fairies consented to become a mortal princess.

The King and Queen received their daughter and ordered a feast to be given in gratitude to the fairies. At the feast, a wicked fairy, jealous at being left out, wished death upon the Princess, to come about in her fifteenth year. A good fairy then appeared and changed the wish from death to a hundred years' slumber. At the end of that time a prince appeared and awakened the Princess.

The characters were:

Queen - - Lucille Southworth
King - - - - Ruth Greenlee
Princess - - - Amelia Rendon
Prince - - - - Rachel Sells
Pages, Blanche Fowler, Reba McCollum
Spinner - - - Willodine McIver
Fairy Queen - - Myrtle Rendon
Princess Nimblefoot - Grace Blank

The proceeds of the entertainment are to be added to the fund which is being raised in order to purchase a piano for Baldwin Hall.

A girls' basketball game this week! This will be the first of the season, so don't miss it.

And in 1819, a play, "Princess Lovejoy" was given in the Elizabeth R. Voorhees chapel. Why we are behind the times!

:—:—:

Just one more week of study, but what a week it will be for some people!

:—:—:

And now we bid a sad and solemn farewell to the S. A. T. C.

:—:—:

Seniors, keep your eyes open for you are soon going to see an interesting announcement.

:—:—:

There's something doing each night this week although everyone will not be included in every affair.

:—:—:

Have you seen the high-fliers on the Hill?

:—:—:

You heard Mr. Hoover's proclamation concerning conservation read in chapel Friday morning. Don't forget it during the Christmas holidays.

:—:—:

The girls of Pearsons and Baldwin Halls meant business Saturday night when they met in two large mass meetings and formed the following resolution which was unanimously adopted and signed by every girl present:

"We the undersigned girls of Baldwin and Pearsons Hall wish to make a stand for better behavior at all public gatherings, especially in the chapel and in the dining-room. We believe that the present state of affairs is abominable and a reflection on our college which must not be tolerated by self-respecting students."

:—:—:

Thanksgiving is past. Christmas vacation is in sight. The days are whizzing by. Examinations loom up,—large and ferocious. Notebooks are due and we discover that ours is sadly in arrears. Interests outside the immediate realm of our studies make astonishing inroads upon our precious time. The days come in too quick succession; we long for a little space between them. Something within us—perhaps an uneasy conscience, perhaps an over-weening vanity—urges us on to put out our eyes and burst our heads in belated endeavors after illusive knowledge. In short, the usual number of us are already preparing to fling the regular term—terminal fits.

The highest aim which education can have is perfect mental equilibrium. Mens sana in corpore sano, as Professor Bassett would put it. Nothing could be better calculated to destroy this much-to-be-desired poise than the peculiar stuffing process popularly designated "cramming". It is a cerebral activity at once undignified and unscientific. It should be indulged in rarely, if at all, and never under ordinary circumstances. Hearken unto words of good counsel. Beware of cramming. Turn not thereto.

And dear teachers, beloved of our hearts, why should the perfect enjoyment of the holiday season be marred for you for our sakes? Why should your days and nights be filled with grinding toil. Why should the vacation time find you laboriously laboring over giant stacks of exam books? Why grade papers when you might be shooting rabbits? Hear us for our sincerity and believe us when we say that the Christmas joy-bells would chime more merrily for us if we were not distressed on your behalf. We entreat you, by the love we bear you, to lighten your customary burdens.

Didn't you enjoy the unusually beautiful weather of last week? Or were you too busy to care that that skies were blue and sunsets gorgeous? What a shame it is when we allow education to take the joy out of living! What were we put here for, if not to be happy? Let's all get out and enjoy the sunshine.

ALPHA SIGMA IS ON THE GO ONCE MORE

With a unanimity of voices that caught the breath of the few old members attending the meeting, six boys loudly and vociferously announced their intention to join the Alpha Sigma Literary Society at its regular meeting last Saturday night in the society hall. The dramatic touch surpassed, in all probability any event of the society in the present school year, and to say that the six new men after thus showing their splendid powers of decision were received into full membership, is perhaps at this writing unnecessary. Among the new men were some students who have taken their time to decide with which society they should cast their lot, and it was a genuine pleasure to receive them, as it was realized that they were in to work.

The first part of the meeting was consumed with a debate on the live question, "Resolved, That the Bolsheviki Government in Russia should be overthrown by armed intervention by the Allies". The affirmative was upheld by Barker while Delos Brown did exceedingly well on the negative. A paper on current events by Gleason also proved one of the best numbers.

During the business session Robert Adams, made a short talk on the coming intercollegiate debates, urging every member of the society to try out in the preliminaries. Financial matters were also discussed, a committee was appointed to handle the new financial budget under the chairmanship of Adams, who was at the same time elected to the office of treasurer for the remainder of the year.

With such a good program, and with such an addition, the future looks brighter for the society than at any time this year. With the return of old students after Christmas, the outlook warrants the belief that the funeral of the society, talked of some time ago as almost a reality, will not be celebrated this year.

The fact of the matter is, NEVER.

LIEUT. "JIMMY" JAMES A WELCOME VISITOR

Some people were surprised Monday afternoon when strolling on the campus they saw "Jimmy" James out strolling too. "Jimmy" was supposed to be booming the sand dunes in Texas and here he, a very military "Jimmy" distinguished by conspicuous wings, was peacefully strolling under the old and familiar cedars.

We heard with regret that "Jimmy" could spend but a few days on the Hill for we should liked to have kept him with us until June.

ATHENIAN

The Athenian Literary Society met Saturday evening at 6:30 in the Athenian Hall.

The meeting was first turned over to business and the following officers were elected for the Winter Term:

President - - Herbert Kiger
Vice President - Charles Dilworth
Recording Secretary - Roy McCall
Program Secretary, - - - - - - - - - - Frank Minerick
Critics - Moss Farmer and Floyd Watt

The following men were then sworn in as active members: Mr. Lamon, Thomas Vance, Mr. Jody, and Mr. King, and were approved by the society with the usual sign.

There was no program prepared but a very good impromptu was carried out. "Wart" Jones told of a terrible experience in his impressive way leaving the audience in a deep trance. Then Mr. Martin gave a reading which was enjoyed by all. The third number was a short and snappy debate upheld on the affirmative by Frank Minerick and on the negative by Mr. Herndon.

After the meeting adjourned, such statements, as the following were heard by some of the new members and visitors: "I wonder if I can ever learn to speak like that", "Wasn't that good?". "Yes, and being an impromptu at that".

The Athenian's will not have but one more meeting this year, and everyone should put that on his program right now, and be present at any cost, or he will miss what would be an event of his life. Furthermore, all new students remember that a hearty invitation is extended to all by the Athenians.

VESPER SERVICE

The theme of the Vesper sermon was taken from Proverbs 20:29, "The glory of young men is their strength." Four reasons were given to show why a young man should glory in his strength.

In the first place, a young man should glory in his physical strength. God is a God of health, of vigor, of power, and expects every young person to develop strength of body, and to promote his health. A person must be strong enough to bear the full responsibility of his work, and has no right to blame God for his physical defects.

Next, the glory of young men is in their intelllectual strength. A full field exists for developing the mind and the youth must take advantage of his opportunity. The purpose of reading is to stimulate thought. Therefore, the students should read much and think about what they read.

The young person's glory is also in his moral strength. This is the true value of a man. Strong men must avoid evil beginnings or false starts, thus insuring a life of moral strength and a worthy ending.

Finally, the highest, truest, and most valuable strength is spiritual strength. This is the real foundation upon which to build an all-round development and to obtain the whole glory of youth.

CHAPLAIN E. F. CODY CITED FOR BRAVERY

Below is quoted an extract from a letter received from Colonel W. E. Jackson, formerly commander of the 141st Infantry.

"I want to call your special attention to the splendid work done by Chaplains C. H. Bowman, E. F. Cody, and J. J. Marley, 141st Infantry, during the recent operations of that regiment on the 8th, 9th and 10th while the fighting was at the heaviest. They were out with the fighting units, ministering to those in need of aid, and cheering those on who were fighting. Later they went about the sad duty of burying the dead. No braver men were on the firing line than these chaplains. They went about their duties without regard for their personal safety, as men whose hearts are filled with love for their fellow men, devoted to the service of the God of all, our homes, and our country.

This is referred to you so that you may know what the former commander of the 141st Infantry thought of your actions in the recent activities conducted by this division.

PROF. BASSETT'S PRAYER MEETING TOPIC "WHAT IS TRUTH?"

"What is truth?" was the question asked by Prof. Bassett at the Thursday evening Prayer Meeting. In defining truth, four propositions were considered by the speaker; namely, truth is a living force and not a dead weight; truth is eternal, not fleeting; truth is changeless, not wavering; and truth is harmony, not contradicting.

In reference to the first point, it was stated that truth does not consist in forms and ceremonies, which are only symbols. Neither does it consist in a set of rules, or a system of philosophy. Truth is a substance back of form, and a principle working through ceremonies.

Error is camouflaged sometimes to look like truth, and frequently mixed with truth. Sooner or later, however, the false will be separated from the truth.

Referring to the third proposition, the fact was emphasized that time and men change, but the truth is always the same, although the ways of expressing it may vary. Truth works because it is the truth, but not everything that works is the truth.

Finally, truths may seem contradicting but are in reality in harmony. Some things are always wrong, and some are right sometimes; but truth and error never change places. The truth that harmonizes all other truths is the fact that truth is God. By revelation man can find this Truth. A half truth is hard to overcome because it is magnified to look like the whole truth. The real Truth, however, will free one from such error.

Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Miller, the president of the Y.M.C.A. and War Work Secretary gave the Sunday afternoon address, on the subject of the "Keynote of the Atlanta Conference." After reviewing the ideals for which the U. S. entered the war—the speaker propounded the question, "What is the nation going to do with the victory?". Here is where the Y.M.C.A. must stand. As members of a world-wide organization, each one must prepare for reconstruction. Each one must have a vision of a world need; a desire for human service; and a high morale. The local "Y" is preparing plans to give these. It is not only desirable that the members develop as the "triangle", but also "rectangular" as Christ spiritually, intellectually, morally, and physically. Furthermore the word PEP is the new slogan of the Y M. C. A. P for preparation, E for enthusiasm, and P for perseverance. These letters formed the "Keynote of the Atlanta Conference".

Palace Theatre

Wednesday—Chas. Ray in "Nine O'clock Town". This is one of Charlie's best and that means "Good". Also a two reel L-Ko Comedy. Come and enjoy a good feature.

Thursday—Jesse L. Lasky presents Cecil B. DeMille's Production "Old Wives for New". How long should the honey-moon last? With some it is a new found joy at twenty-five that lingers until it becomes an elixir of life at seventy-five. With others it is a mere phase of this jolly world. And to others it is a sacred thing to be revered if possible. Also we will have a Mack-Sennett Comedy, "The Battle Royal", three prime fun makers in this splendid comedy.

Friday—"Italy's Flaming Front". The latest Official Italian Government Film Feature. You see War thrills without its horrors. The gruesome scenes are cut out. We will also show the "Lion's Claw", No. 4. This picture will be shown on Friday's only hereafter.

Saturday—Ruth Roland in "Hands Up". You know what this serial is. Also a Harold Loyd Comedy entitled "Are Crooks Honest", a reel of real laughter. Also a photo-drama "Birds of Prey". Today you will see one of the best shows yet.

Monday—"Fight for Millions". This serial proves to be the best we have ever shown. "The Dead Shot" with Helen Gibson. War Review No. 17. Also a Billy West Comedy.

Tuesday—Wm. Fox presents Wm. Farnum in Zane Gray's masterpiece the "Rainbow Trail". Also a Charlie Chaplin fun-maker, one of the best.

Wednesday—A Paramount Feature starring Miss Enid Bennett, "A Desert Wooing". Also a L-Ko Comedy.

SOCIETY NOTES

Miss Mary Hickey of Dandridge has been spending some time on the hill.

Miss Lily Mitchell, '16 is in the Home Department of the Red Cross at Jacksonville, Florida.

Mis Jane Morton has had as her guest, a good-looking lieutenant cousin.

Parks Eagleton of the navy is enjoying a furlough at his home in Maryville.

Prof. E. R. Hunter's mother and sister Florence have come to keep house for him in his newly-rented bungalow on Washington avenue.

Miss Ethel Jackson who is teaching at Rockwood recently spent several days with Miss Helen Horton.

Miss Clara Wattenbarger and Miss Elizabeth Jones were Pearsons' guests Friday night, the play "Princess Lovejoy" being the chief object of their visit.

Lamar Wilson was the last ex-candidate to return from Camp Zachary Taylor, Kentucky. "Rip" and a song bird were overjoyed at Lamar's return.

Joel Georges of Camp Sills, Oklahoma spent part of his furlough visiting old friends here. T. N. Brown who has been at Camp Dick, Dallas, Texas is home on an indefinite furlough.

The engagement of Miss Margaret Sugg, '17 to "Buncom" Kelly with the A. E. F., in France has been announced. Margaret has had a hard time deciding between her numerous suitors. We assume that the war and another circumstance have brought affairs to a crisis.

BAINONIAN SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA SPECIAL FEATURE

Just as, "Christmas comes but but once a year
And when it comes it brings good cheer"
So, "Bainonian meets but once a week
And when it does it can't be beat."

For verily, the program rendered on last Saturday evening was a series of rare and excellent numbers. They were:

"Cross Questions and Silly Answers", Bernice Jones and Mary Thompson.

"Topsy Turvy Songs', Maude Samsel, Callie Speck, Eunice Taylor, Ruth Newton, Hattie Hayes, and Mary Key Dolvin.

"Pen Painting" - Helen Brown

"Essay on Cats" - Anne Clemens

"Selections" by Bainonian Symphony Orchestra. Director, Mlle. Ethelissime Burchfieldario; Announcer and second Ukelele, Hon. Evelyn Eastman; First Ukelarian, Dona Bernice Jonesoiori; The Siamese Twins, Signor Eunice Taylorian and Signor Ruth Newtonorian. Comberesses: Augustus Caesar Templin, Marie Emmiline Armentrout, Eva George-Lloyd, Harriett Irene Hayseed.

Next week, there is to be something very different. You ask, will it be amusing? CERTAINLY. Will it be literary? Would Bainonian dare to present anything before exams, that would not be instructive. Can it possibly be as good as the others? Yes, it can and most assuredly will be, but then "mum's the word". Just come and you will not be sorry.

Y. W. C. A.

An interesting meeting was the one last Sunday led by five girls on the subject "My Favorite Psalm". Mildred Campbell had charge and gave a short talk on the value of the Psalms finishing with the 121st. Mary Bigelow read the 19th and commented upon it. Mittye Stovall eplained and read the beautiful 35th Psalm. The 91st was spoken of and read by Mildred Striplin, and the 24th, by Eva Lloyd. The expositions of these psalms were especially good and helpful. Miss Molly then told us how the 91st Psalm had gained a new significance for her, and Miss Jackson told what the 23rd. Psalm meant to an old woman who became a Christian when ninety-one years of age.

Amelia Rendon and Ormah Montgomery gave a violin selection, and Carrie Griffin sang "Just for Today".

WORD FROM A POPULAR MAN OF THE 1915 CLASS

A recent issue of "The Tech", the publication of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology contains the announcement of the appointment of Albert F. Murray, '15, as First Lieutenant in the Air Service. While Mr. Murray was a student in Maryville he was much interested in wireless telegraphy and had a wireless station on Anderson Hall. The branch of the service in which Lieut. Murray is working is known as Air Radio and has to do with communication between places and the ground carried on by radio telegraphy and telephony. The article in the "Tech" which follows will be of interest to the Lieutenant's many friends:

"Albert F. Murray of Albany, Ala. who graduated in Electrical Engineering with the Class of '18, has been commissioned 1st. Lieut. Air Service, Aeronautics. Mr. Murray, coming to Technology, as a Maryville College graduate, entered as a Sophomore. During his Senior year he was laboratory assistant in the Signal Corps, Radio Communication Course, given jointly by Technology and Harvard.

Upon graduation, Lieut. Murray (then a private in the Aviation Section, Signal Corps), was called into active service and detailed at the U. S. School of Military Aeronautics at Technology as Head of the Signaling and Radio Department. Shortly after the closing of this school, Sept. 7th, he was transferred to Ithaca, N. Y., where he is an instructor in the School of Military Aeronautics at Cornell University."

While at Technology, Mr. Murray was a member of the Electrical Engineering Society, Vice-President of the Wireless Society; he is a member of the Theta Xi fraternity.

FRED HOPE NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH

The November number of the Assembly Herald contains an account of a narrow escape from death of Fred Hope, '06, to whose work in the Frank James Industrial School at Elat, West Africa, Maryville College students contribute every year. It will be remembered that in 1912 Mr. Hope had great difficulty in getting an engine for his sawmill from the coast to Elat. When the German seized the mission station they used this engine for a few weeks as the motor force in an ammunition factory, but left it unharmed when they evacuated the property. This year Mr. Hope was almost killed by this same engine. The account reads: "Catching his clothing in the saw of the great mill, he was thrown in between the saw and the engine, but a black man seeing the danger promptly turned off the power and Mr. Hope was saved, although his clothing was torn off him and a bunch of keys which he had carried in his hip pocket was bent and one of them broken in half. His ankle was so painful that they found it necessary to operate. In making the incision it was found that the other end of the broken key had pierced the leather of his shoe and gone into the ankle. It was removed and that same night he was up, bruised a bit and some sprained, but able to join in the general thanksgiving at his narrow escape."

Maryville College friends, and their name is legion, will certainly join in this "general thanksgiving" and in hearty congratulations to Mr. Hope.

The Highland Echo

THE ECHO GOES OVER THE TOP WITH THE BOYS "OVER THERE"

VOLUME FOUR | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1918. | NUMBER TWELVE

BATES ORATORICAL PRIZE WILL BE FEATURE OF COMMENCEMENT WEEK

SENIORS ELIGIBLE. SIX BEST ESSAYS CHOSEN BY COMMITTEE AND THE SIX LUCKY SENIORS DELIVER ORATIONS IN PUBLIC CONTEST.

Rev. William H. Bates, D. D., recently of Washington, D. C., and now of Greeley, Colorado, has for many years been a friend of Maryville College. He has made valuable contributions to our library, especially in the line of books on music, and to our museum. Last year he gave the College a carload of household furniture and books from his library. Another gift that he recently made will doubtless have a far-reaching influence upon the students of the institution.

Dr. Bates on July 28, 1917, made a contribution of $670, which amount has since been increased to $820, to establish a fund to be kept in perpetuity by the Directors, and to be known as the William H. Bates Oratorical Prize Foundation, the income alone to be used as a prize or prizes to be won in an oratorical contest, to be entered into by students of the Senior Class.

Dr. Bates is a graduate of Hamilton College, and himself contested for what is called the Clark Prize in that institution. The Clark Prize is one the winning of which has for many years been looked upon as perhaps the greatest honor to be attained by a student of the institution. The contest is the principal event of the year, and men prepare during the entire college course to enter the contest for the prize.

The regulations at Hamilton—and the rules at Hamilton will probably be adopted in the main at Maryville—are that all the members of the Senior Class that enter the competition prepare orations on certain subjects that they choose from a list provided by the faculty. A committee reads the orations and selects the best six. Then the six Seniors whose orations have been selected as the best deliver those orations in a public contest. Judges decide who is the winner, and to him is given the cash prize.

It has just been decided that a contest will be held this year; and hereafter the Bates Prize Oratorical Contest will doubtless be one of the most interesting features of our college life.

Dr. Bates is adding to the fund, and hopes to make it a fund of a thousand dollars. In that case, the annual income will be $60 to be used as the prize. This year, the income will be about forty dollars.

The Clark Fund at Hamilton has had a great deal to do with giving that institution the very high reputation that it has enjoyed for skill in oratory. It is the hope of Maryville men and Profs. Knapp and Leavenworth, Hamilton's representatives in our faculty, that the Bates Prize may exert the same great influence at Maryville that the Clark Prize has exerted at Hamilton.

The plan is to make this initial contest one of the principal events of the Centennial Commencement Celebration.

THE LYCEUM NUMBER HIGHLY SATISFACTORY

The Smith-Spring-Holmes Quintet Presents Varied Program.

A third and very delightful number of the Lyceum Course was presented in the chapel on Monday night, December the ninth, when the Smith-Spring-Holmes Quintet entertained. They showed themselves to be a very talented and versatile group of artists, varying the program delightfully with readings, and vocal and instrumental solos. The first number was the Rainbow Division March by the Orchestra Quintet. It was followed by a Cello solo which was so pleasingly rendered as to hold the interest and attention of the audience to the last note. A reading, "The Four of 'Em" by Hall, was then most vividly interpreted by Miss Spring. A trombone solo, one of Mr. Smith's own compositions; a vocal solo, "Women of the Homeland"; and a violin solo, a Spanish Dance, were special features of the program.

Two numbers of the Course remain to be presented after the holidays. The first three have proved so interesting and entertaining and the attendance has been so good, that everyone is looking forward to the other numbers. At a date to be announced later, the Waikiki Hawaiian Quintet will entertain. These artists are highly recommended and a good evening is anticipated.

PERMANENT M. C. "Y" SECRETARY

According to the following telegram received by Cedric V. Miller, president of the local Y. M. C. A., through J. W. Berthold, Associate Secretary S.A.T.C. the National War Work Council has decided to carry on plans made previous to the close of the war.

"Finance Committee have approved continuance of present program in state until end of college year in June. Assuming however, that every effort be immediately made to establish and strengthen local cabinets and advisory committees looking toward their taking over local units. Buildings half finished may be continued. J. S. Tichenor".

Before the demobilization of the S.A.T.C., Mr. Miller was appointed S.A.T.C. secretary here by the National War Work Council. He will continue to hold this position throughout the school year. Extensive plans are being made by the "Y" for the work of the next two terms.

DRAKE RESIGNS BUSINESS MANAGERSHIP

Because of absence from college next term Theodore Drake has resigned as Business Manager of the Echo. His resignation has been accepted and the new business manager will soon be appointed. Miss Newell and Miss Bogart have been selected as student representatives to confer with the faculty representatives, Profs. Knapp and Hunter as to the manner of selecting the new Business Manager.

Mr. Drake's time this term was largely occupied with S.A.T.C. duties and much of the active work was done by the assistant business manager, Howard Hill. Although not classified in the college department, Hill proved that he was equal to the job which usually is not a light task for a seasoned college man.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

to all the readers of the Echo, alumni, faculty, and students. May you have a large share in the delights of the coming Christmas season—, a season which though tinged with sadness for some will be universally recognized as a period of joy and thanksgiving that once more Peace reigns on earth.

Again, "A Merry Christmas".

SENIOR GIRLS GUESTS AT "HOUSE IN WOODS"

They Enjoy Sumptuous Dinner Planned by The Hostess And Prepared and Served By Everybody.

The S.A.T.C. boys may have "put one over" when they took themselves to a banquet the other night. But here's where at least some of the girls get even! Last Friday night the Senior girls took themselves to the spread that the Mistress of "The House in the Woods" had waiting for them. And some spread it was, too! You have doubtless been accustomed to think of this Class with admiration and even awe because of their scholarly attainments, but had you been one of the party on Friday night, you would have discovered that this Class is unsurpassed in the realm of culinary art as well as in that of science, literature, and the dead languages.

The girls lingered long at the tables, and is it any wonder when the menu looked like this:

Fried Chicken Scalloped Potatoes

Finger Rolls

Pineapple Salad Saltines

Tutti Fruiti Ice Macaroons

After Dinner Coffee

After dinner, when the girls had all assembled in front of the big open fire in the living-room, genius burned among them and in their number appeared prophets, magicians, and hypnotists. Glimpses of a future ten years distant gladdended or filled with dismay the hearts of many. Black Art flourished to the complete mystification of the spectators, and a renowned hypnotist succeeded in placing the President of the Class so completely under her control, that she was no longer responsible for her actions.

Of course, the evening was all too short, and it was only at the very earnest solicitations of the President, who had by this time recovered somewhat from her trance, that the girls took leave of "The House in the Woods" and their most charming hostess. Dr. Stevenson escorted them to the very doors of Pearsons Hall and no one heard them enter.

LIEUTENANT JAMES GUEST OF HONOR

On Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock the Senior Class entertained Lieutenant Ernest K. James, a former member of the class. Lieutenant James of the aviation camp at Fort Leon, Texas, was enjoying a short furlough, and it was good to have him on the Hill again. Fred Cagle also appeared on the campus that afternoon, and he arrived on the scene of action in time for the "Red Devil."

Lieutenant James left on the five o'clock train, having been escorted to the station by a delegation from the Senior Class.

LIEUT. HOWARD WILSON DESCRIBES GREAT PEACE DAY AT THE FRONT

WORD OF SIGNING OF ARMISTICE CAME AS COMPANY WAS PREPARING TO MAKE ATTACK ON BOCHE. GERMANS NOISY AT NEWS. U. S. QUIET.

President Wilson has received the following letter from his son, Lieut. Howard H. Wilson, of Co. M, 127th Infantry, 52nd Division, written the day after the signing of the armistice.

November 12, 1918.
France.

My dear Home Folks:

Thank God, at last it is all over. Of course, it is only an armistice, but it is the end of the war too. This is certainly a happy old world today. This is a jolly bunch here in the woods. We have faced the shot and shell and have done our bit, and we are still alive. We are thankful to God for this.

The grand and glorious part about it is we were just starting over the top when the news reached us. If the good news had not reached us when it did, I might not have been alive today.

The hour at which to go over, was seven o'clock, but we were delayed for some reason. At eight we were ready, and were just starting when a messenger arrived with a message which stopped it all.

Lieut. Jolley and I were the only officers with M Company. Jolley is a first lieutenant and was in command of the company. He received the message and then sent one to me. I was down the line at the other end of the company. The message is something I value more than anything else on this earth. I am going to send it to you, and when I get home I shall frame it. That little scrap of paper brought great joy to many hearts.

We all knew the war would end soon, but we were on our toes ready to give the Boche just one more good jolt. The morale of our men was great, and I know we should have upheld our former record.

There is only one thing about it all that makes me sad. Just day before yesterday, as we were waiting in the woods in readiness to move into the front line, a Boche plane flew over and dropped a bomb into our scout platoon killing and injuring many. It was one of the most horrible sights I have ever yet seen. The bomb dropped just fifty yards from me, and men were wounded at my side, but I was untouched. What could be worse than to be knocked off the last day of the war?

We are camped now in the woods, and of course, it's a happy bunch of doughboys. We are satisfied with ourselves because we have done our part as well as we could. What more could a man desire? We are going home soon too, and I'm sure nothing better than that could happen to anybody.

We have no idea when we shall start home, but I hope the outfits that have done most of the fighting will be the first to go home. The 32nd Division will be about the first to go in that case.

Fismes was my first battle and Juvigny the second. I was wounded there. While I was in the hospital the Thirty Second fought in the Argonne. I am sorry I missed it. Our last battle was that of the Meuse, although we did not get to finish it.

I have had all I want of it, of course, but if it should start up again I am willing to help finish the job.

The Boche made a big fuss on their line when the news reached them, but there was not a sound from the American lines. You can make your own deductions from that. Some of the Boche came over ot see us last night, and they certainly were a happy bunch.

Howard.

The Field Message referred to in the letter is as follows:

From: C. O. Co. M. At: P. C. Date: Nov. 11, '18. Hour 8:00. How Sent: Runner. To: Lt. Wilson, Co. M.

All orders for attack are hereby cancelled. An armistice with Germany goes into effect at noon today. See that there is no noise such as shouting, etc.

Jolley.

S.A.T.C. BANQUET SUCCESS SAY MEN OF CO. A

Dr. Wilson is Guest of Honor. Paul Parrot Plays the Role of Toastmaster.

The S.A.T.C. Banquet last Tuesday evening was a proper climax for the short but thrilling career of the local unit. At seven o'clock the men of the Company A were in Pearsons, but, for once in their existence, they were not there for the purpose of "moonshining". They had met to consume in mammoth quantities the result of the menu so skilfully planned by Leyshon and Parrot and supervised by Lieut. La Belle.

Dr. Wilson, as guest of honor, was seated at Lieut. La Belle's right although, Paul Parrot, in his capacity as toastmaster, insisted that that place had been offered to him but that he had firmly declined it. While the banqueters feasted, the Maryville Band rendered tempting and delightful music, (tempting not only to the occupants of the dining-room but to the other inhabitants of Pearsons.)

At the conclusion of the visible feast, Dr. Wilson at the invitation of the toastmaster, offered a mental feast to his listeners. The toastmaster then presented parting gifts to the officers from the men of the Company. Lieut. La Belle was the recipient of a handsome kodak, Lieut. Reel of a fountain pen, and Lieut. Rielly of a pen knife. In their characteristic way, the lieutenants thanked the men for their thoughtfulness in remembering them, and told how they had enjoyed their work with the M. C. unit. At the repeated request of the company Lieut. La Belle played two piano solos which were greatly appreciated.

Much credit is due to Leyshon for the interest he took in promoting the banquet and making it such a rousing success.

LAST NEWS CONCERNING THE S. A. T. C.

All records have been sent to Washington and the work of the S.A.T.C. is entirely completed.

Lieut. Rielly has received his discharge and left Maryville today. Lieuts. La Belle and Reel are awaiting the final word. Although Lieut. La Belle has the privilege of awaiting orders in Knoxville he has decided to remain in Maryville until he gets his discharge.

Good-by 1918! Welcome 1919! 1919 which marks the 100th Anniversary of old Maryville. May the gifts you send your birth child aid in materializing the dreams for Her future growth and development. Grant, auspicious year, that this maybe the happiest and most profitable year Maryville has enjoyed.

One of the librarians was heard to remark recently as she gathered up some magazines, "If you are through with these, I'll put them back in the alcove. We can't leave them on the table for a great many of the magazines have been mutilated lately. Whatever, strikes the fancy of the reader is ruthlessly cut out."

We wonder if the persons who have been guilty of this practice are aware that they are not the only people who must use the magazines for reference work? We should like to attribute their offense to thoughtlessness but it is clearly a case of selfishness—a thing which is not, and can be under no condition, excusable.

:--:--:

The glad Christmas season is steadily drawing nearer. Many of the students will spend the holidays with the home folks but there are always a number, who because of the considerable distance they are from home, must spend the vacation period on the Hill. The students who have been here previous Christmases have no dread of remaining for they have experienced the good times the college affords at this joyous season of the year. It is to the new students who will stay that we would speak. First of all, you must be determined that you will have a good time. That decided upon the battle is partly won for attitude is half the game. Then if you have a chance, do something for some one else. Service always tends to help the one who serves and the served. It is a sure cure for the blues. Lastly help co-operate. If you are asked to sing in the Christmas Vesper choir, do it. If you are asked to help decorate the halls, be glad of the job. If you are asked to aid in entertaining at one of the many parties play your part. However, do not always wait to be asked. If you have a suggestion do not be afraid to make it. If you will do these things you will remember this Christmas as having been one of the happiest you have ever known.

And do not forget that at "The House in the Woods" the home fires are always brightly burning for home-hungry students.

MARION HENRY NEW PRESIDENT OF BAINONIAN

The last meeting of Bainonian proved as popular as the first meeting of the year. New officers were elected for the winter term, namely: President, Marion Henry; Vice President, Winston Newton; Recording Secretary, Laura Putman; Program Secretary, Frances Hickey; Music Critic, Jeanette Hibbert; Literary Critic, Catherine Wilkinson; Censor, Margaret Fisher; Sergeant-at-Arms, Ashton Clayton; and Editor, Jane Morton.

The program consisted of:

Vocal Solo - - - Myrtle Rendon
Reading - - Mary Louise Hayes
Piano Solo - - Elizabeth Moore
Violin Solo - - - Sue Drennen

Debate: Resolved, That the Kaiser should be brought to America for trial. Affirmative, Martha Robison, Midlred Hoffman. Negative Grace Bailey, Grace Lydenstrycker.

The decision of the judges was two to one in favor of the negative.

The fall term has been a wonderfully successful one. Bainonian, in spite of flu, mumps et cetera has proved an inspiration to its members. Come again, girls, and let's make 1919 one of the most remarkable years ever!

AN APPEAL FOR BOOKS ESPECIALLY FICTION

An appeal has come to the Lamar Memorial Library from the American Library Association, the Library War Service for gift books, especially fiction, for the wounded soldiers in the hospitals. Fiction and the lighter forms of reading play a large part in the daily lives of the men in hospitals, every librarian of the A.L.A. War Service reports. Stories of adventure cannot be supplied in sufficient number. The men cannot get enough of Zane Grey, Rex Beach, Jack London, E. Phillips Oppenheim and Kipling. The best novel is a western story with a dash of romance.

The soldiers want novels with happy endings. A Red Cross nurse tells of a serial story that had been read by two of her patients, one of whom was depressed for a whole day because the heroine died.

"I wish I'd never read it," he complained. "I fell in love with that girl. If I ever found one exactly like her I'd certainly ask her to marry me."

Books with happy endings that will entertain and help pass away the weary weeks of convalescence, are needed at once for our wounded men in hospitals. The best Christmas gift you can give is a book for a wounded soldier. Take your gifts to the Lamar Library and Mrs. Snodgrass will see that they are sent promptly to the Library War Service.

MRS. PROFFITT LEADS Y. W. C. A.

"Love" was the subject of the Christmas meeting led by Mrs. Fred L. Proffitt. She told the old, old Christmas story in the beautiful simple way she tells it to her children. After this she gave a helpful exposition of the nine component parts of love. Having been a Maryville College girl and an active member of Y. W. while she was in school, Mrs. Proffitt knows what the girls want and she always meets that demand. It was a great pleasure an inspiration to have Mrs. Proffitt speak to us.

The special music was furnished by the girls' quartet which sang "Just a Little Bit of Love", the solo part of which was sung by Miss Mary Heard, and "Silent Night."

This Y. W. meeting was a fitting close for the old year, and an inspiration for the work of the New Year.

VESPERS

The College Pastor spoke about the effects of past experiences upon the lives of the majority of people. The spread of profanity was mentioned as one of the worst effects of the war. Godly fear seems to have disappeared, and reverence, awe, and veneration for God have been almost dropped from the catalogue of human virtues.

Some think that God, being a personification of love, is not an object of fear. The whole word of God must be accepted and the same Gospels speak both of Christ's love and of his anger. The wrath of God is as real, as accurate, and as certain as the love of God. Jesus was more than mild and gentle, and some of the most heart-rending words came from His lips.

In closing, Dr. Stevenson gave the warning that although the judgments of God for evil may not come at once, they shall be finally pronounced. This is the time for serious thought and examination, and Christ is the only deliverer from sin.

ATHENIAN AND ALPHA SIGMA HAVE JOINT MEETING

A joint meeting of the Athenian and Alpha Sigma Literary Societies was held in the Athenian hall Saturday evening at 6:30.

The program was divided into three parts, all of which were good. Mr. Miller used the first few minutes, giving a talk on Alaska. We then had the pleasure of hearing one more of those extemporaneous debates, the value of which is unquestionable. The participators were Mr. Vance, affirmative, and Mr. Osborn, negative. The question debated was: "That Christmas Giving should be Abolished". The last number was a reading by Mr. Martin who read the noted poem, "The Road to France".

Although this concludes the meetings for this term, the best part of society work is yet to come in the work of the Forensic League, which is composed of the ones who have represented the college in intercollegiate debates. It is urged that many of the new members of the societies should try to make the run of the preliminaries and become active members of this League.

After the above program had been rendered, the Alpha Sigma Society retired to its own hall, both societies having business to dispense with.

Wanted: Five special teachers, college men preferred, Shantung University, China. Needed in the Arts College; professors of physics; psychology and philosophy; mathematics and astronomy; pedagogy; and sociology. For further information apply to the local Student Volunteer Band.

MARYVILLE COLLEGE 1819-1918

REV. SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON, D. D., PRES.

I. ITS PAST. Founded in 1819 by the Synod of Tennessee, it now celebrates its Centennial, in continued service to the church and country. Thousands of its former students are scattered over the world.

II. ITS PRESENT. Its enrollment in 1918 was 748—347 young men and 401 young women—of whom 297 were collegians. 480 students from Tennessee, and 268 from 33 other states and countries. Its teaching force of 60 professors and assistants.

III. ITS PLANT. It has property of all kinds amounting to $1,100,000. Twelve buildings, including the new swimming pool; water works, sewerage, steam heat and electric lights. The campus contains 250 acres.

IV. ITS COLLEGE CURRICULUM. It offers nine groups of study leading to a B. A. degree: Classical, Modern Languages, Science, Mathematics, Education, English, Literature and History, Psychology and Philosophy, Social Science and General. Fifteen units are required for admission to the freshman class. A two-year premedical course is offered. A large unit of the S. A. T. C.

V. ITS OTHER DEPARTMENTS. 1. Preparatory. 2. Bible Training. 3. Teachers. 4. Home Economics. 5. Agriculture. 6. Bookkeeping 7. Music. 8. Expression. 9. Art.

VI. ITS MORAL ATMOSPHERE. The College is strongly Christian, and the discipline is careful. The Students' spiritual welfare is the first concern. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are very efficient. The Bible is the required text book.

VII. ITS INEXPENSIVENESS. 1. Tuition is $6.00 a term. 2. Room rent for each student with two in the room, $18 to $35 a year. 3. Board in Cooperative Club of 500 is $2.25 per week. 4. Text books rented. General library free. 5. Opportunities for selfhelp afforded.

SCRUGGS TELLS OF A FRENCH VILLAGE CELEBRATION OF THE ARMISTICE

November 12, 1918.

Vive La France! 11-11-11.

Headquarters Group,
Classification Camp,
A. P. O. No. 762,
Amer. E. F., France.

My dear Madam:

Many times I have thought of you since coming to France, and today I will tell you if possible a little of the manifestations of joy by the French, Belgian, Polish, and Americans here in Le Mans yesterday afternoon and last night. I never saw such joy before. After four years of anxiety for country and loved ones their joy must have been greater than ours. Old men, old women, little tots and all followed the American bands for hours and hours singing the national anthem.

Five U.S. bands furnished music for the celebration. (The buildings were decorated galore with Belgian, French and American colors.) The buildings, parks, and streets were showing bright lights which have been out for four years. The "Palace of the Republic" was the center of festivities. First there would be a parade formed on one side, then on another. Any body could start a parade and get followers. We danced with the Belgians, we marched with the Polish, we sang with the French. I say we, because the American soldiers took a prominent part in everything going on. We helped "marry" a French soldier to his mademoiselle. Girls and boys joined hands and danced around.

I had heard of the "hugging act" but last night was the first opportunity to see it in action. Some of the nicer, cleaner little boys asked us to "embrasser" them and we did although mamma looked much more—oh well, you "comprez!"

My two most useful phrases are. Vous parlez trop vite pour moi, et elle est un vrai poupee. I say the latter about the petite cheres sometime and at other times about larger girls. I call all the women mademoiselle if there is any doubt of her condition of servitude. I don't attempt to speak pure grammatical French but luckily my vocabulary is better than I ever thought and I can call for most anything in stores. I was sent one morning after stove pipe elbows. After sometime I found a quincailier who had them. A clerk took me up five flights of stairs to the attic and there we found them. "Par ici" he says, and we go down to the owner who sits in a little box office—he looks up the cost sets down the cost price and selling price and takes the money. 14f 40c for 4 elbows. The clerks handle no money. The owner can tell each day what he has made—a good conservative system—slow but sure. I didn't have enough French money so I had to wait until neuf heures for the Banque de Lyonais to open and get 1£ English money exchanged. All of which was unique experience pour moi.

This is the beginning of another day and still the bands are playing and everywhere the crowds are gay. It seemed like the U. S. bands had been waiting upon the outskirts of the city. There must have been ten playing yesterday afternoon—everything: Nearer my God to Thee, Dixie, My Old Kentucky Home, There's a Long Long Trail, A Hot Time Tonight, and the Darktown Strutter's Ball all at the same time on different corners. When I think of home I think of Maryville as probably all old students do. Nothing could please me better than to be there for the great Centenial which is certain to be a greater success. It will be a "home gathering" for the boys and girls. Madam, give my best regards to all and keep a large share yourself.

Very sincerely,
Frank H. Scruggs.

Palace Theatre

Wednesday, Big special State Right Feature "The Triumph of Venus" featuring Miss Betty Lee, the south's most noted actress. This picture is an educational feature and every one should see it. The scenes are incomparable and the most beautiful and adapted especially for this big story; the water scenes are the best possible that can be photographed. Gaumont News Reel showing the latest in news. Also a good comedy, 15 & 20c

Thursday, Paramount-Artcraft Feature "The Desert Wooing", featuring Miss Enid Bennett. As this has been advertised before you remember the story, one of love and adventure with the most trying circumstances, such as being lost in the desert, and then being found by a beautiful girl and etc. Fatty Arbuckle comedy "The House", something that will keep you laughing for 30 minutes solid. Also a Mutt and Jeff Comedy.

Friday, "The Warrior" admitted by all to be the most novelty picture of the year. 7 reels of thrills. This picture features "Maciste" the gaint in "Caberia". Also a good comedy, which will give you one of the best shows.

Saturday, two episodes of "Hands Up" featuring Ruth Roland; last Saturday "Hands Up" missed out on us. We will have two episodes this week. A Harold-Lloyd comedy and a two reel drama, which makes a good show.

Monday, Last episode of "Fight for Millions", featuring Wm. Duncan. You know there is going to be something doing in this picture. Also a good two-reel Western, featuring Miss Helen Gibson, and a good Fox Sunshine comedy. Second episode of "Brass Bullet".

Tuesday, "Babbling Tongues" the super-photoplay presented by Ivan Film Producing Company, featuring Grace Valentine and James Morrison. The title of this story tells the tale, but just how and why and under what circumstances will be shown. Come and see the effects of "gossip". See what little things said in a joking way will cause when taken in the wrong light.

SOCIETY

Miss Ruth Bartlett has been indisposed the past week.

Miss Marguerite Alexander spent the week-end at her home in Knoxville.

Lieut. La Belle was the guest of Miss Hale at a private recital given by her pupils Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. W. H. Roberts of Middlesboro, Ky., recently visited her nieces, Janet Ensign and Julia Anderson.

Miss Celeste Moseley, Miss Edith Davis, and Miss Mamie Witherspoon spent Monday in Knoxville Christmas shopping.

It is expected that Homer Weisbecker, Stanley Lange, Fred Cagle, "Red" Hayes, "Red" Campbell, and Luther Johnson will be among the registrants next term.

Miss Margaret Jones, a graduate of the Home Economics Department, is visiting at her home in Maryville. Miss Jones is teaching Home Ec. this year at Hickory, North Carolina.

Said Winston Newton to Minnie Hunter:
"Minnie are you going to take the course in Calisthenics Prof. Knapp gives?"
(Calculus or Calisthenics, Winnie?)

Mr. "Rip" Wilson is achieving much renown these days. He attends all functions as a self-invited guest and in debate he is a lively topic of discussion. We regret to hear that Mr. "Rip" wished to enlist but was prevented because of physical disability.

Lieut. Charles Smith, more familiarly known by the students as "Turkey" has received his discharge from the army and is visiting his wife and young son at the home of his father-in-law, Major W. A. McTeer. "Turkey" expects to make Maryville his permanent home.

Mr. "Peanut" Bond, a former physical director at the college, was a recent visitor on the Hill. Mr. Bond has received his discharge from a Coast Artillery Training School and will resume his work as a Y.M.C.A. Secretary. Mrs. Bond (Miss Kate Hill) and child have been spending some time in Maryville.

Military visitors last week were: Fred Cagle, who has received his discharge from the aviation corps; Lieut. Edgar Sawyer, who fought in the battle of Camp Jackson up to the close of the war and who will now return to civilian life; and Lieut. Hubert Hunter of the Medical Corps, Camp Jackson, who visited his sister, Miss Minnie Hunter.

A "MERRY CHRISTMAS" TO ALL

FROM THE
STUDENT VOLUNTEER BAND

The Student Volunteer Band extends to all the students who expect to return to College after the holidays a hearty invitation to attend the meetings of the Band on Fridays from 6 to 6:45 p. m.

Already sixteen Maryville students have pledged their lives to work on a foreign field and twelve more have expressed their intentions of becoming Christian workers at home or abroad.

Is it too great an expectation to believe that a College which has the reputation Maryville holds can double these numbers before June? In every sense you can be no more loyal to your College standards, your national ideals, and your Christian professions than by linking yourself with an organization of this type, either as an active or an associate member.

CAMPUS QUIPS

SHE LIKED CHICKEN WELL

It is an old, old story that preachers are rather fond of chicken but we have a girl in our midst who can defy the appetite of any preacher. When the Senior girls were invited to have dinner at "The House in the Woods", this particular Senior girl asked to serve on the cooking committee. Cooks must "taste the broth", and, fried chicken disappeared at a marvelous rate. At the table the speed of disappearance became so rapid that "Shorty" Newell, who could stand it no longer, remonstrated, "If you eat too much chicken, you'll be sick."

"Well", entreated "Manager", "Just give me one more piece and send for the doctor."

S.A.T.C. has been defined by the impatient Personnel Adjutant as "Sitting Around Till Christmas."

SCANDAL ON THE HILL

A few days ago a popular member of the faculty was seen to slide down a banister.

One of the Junior girls recently had the misfortunte to upset a chair in Spanish class. Poor chair!

A fair co-ed chemistry assistant sorrowfully admitted Friday night, "It is all over among us."

HAVE YOU HEARD THIS?

Toastmaster Parrot at the S. A. T. C. banquet as he introduced Lieut. Rielly, one of the after-dinner speakers said, "Men, you have just been giving your attento a turkey stuffed with sage. Now you will give your attention to a sage stuffed with turkey".

"Yes", said Mr. Chang, when he was in school last year, "The Chinese make it a rule to pay all their debts on New Year's day."

"So I have heard", responded his listener, "But then the Chinese certainly do not have a Christmas the week before."

Miss Caldwell said Miss Houk had to go home. There must have been a faculty meeting for she is back.

PROF. WALKER DISCUSSES "GROWTH"

"Growth" was the subject developed by Prof. Walker at Prayer Meeting last Thusday. He compared the growth of a person to that of the tree, as illustrated by the various kinds of trees found in the forest. It was shown that all the trees endeavor to find the light and if space permits, their branches spread out exposing the greatest surface possible to the light. Human growth likewise needs light, especially the spiritual light.

The speaker next pointed out several things that are useful in human growth. The first of these was thoughtfulness of ourselves, which does not necessarily mean selfishness. Care must be taken of the body as well as of the mind and the thoughts proceeding from it. A person should also be thoughtful of his actions, and be considerate of others.

Kindness is another quality that will go a long way toward growth. Kindness usually gains the desired end. It may be difficult to show at times, but it will be appreciated even by animals.

The third quality was courage. One must have courage to conquer the enticements of Satan. Evil influences will win if faith and trust are not exercised toward Christ.

In order to grow, obedience is essential. Laws must not only be known but must be obeyed. These include both the laws of health and the laws of God.

Finally, a person who desires to grow must be careful in the selection of his associates. If sin is trified with through the influence of evil companions, the chances are all against the transgressor and he will tend to go from bad to worse.

The Highland Echo

THE ECHO GOES OVER THE TOP WITH THE BOYS "OVER THERE"

VOLUME FOUR | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1919. | NUMBER THIRTEEN

WINTER TERM OPENS WITH ENROLLMENT OF OVER SIX HUNDRED

FAVORABLE STATE OR AFFAIRS INDICATES A SUCCESSFUL TERM. WOMEN ARE IN THE MAJORITY. MANY FORMER STUDENTS RETURN FROM CAMP.

The winter term opened January 2 with few people on the Hill other than the Christmas left-overs and the members of the faculty who were to participate in the registration ceremony. By Friday a number of the new students and some of the old-standbys had arrived. A great many came in Saturday, presumably to escape the fine which went into effect the fourth day of matriculation (Monday). Some there were who smiled and payed the fine—, the price of liberty. In college as in national and international life this is to a certain extent a period of re-adjustment. It is to this phase of the aftermath that the late registration is attributed.

Up to the present date six hundred and two persons have registered. Three hundred and seventy-five of this number are girls while the remaining two hundred and twenty-seven are boys. For the past several years the number of girls here has materially increased over the number of boys—,a condition which was a natural result of the war. Last term owing to the S. A. T. C. the side of the chapel occupied by the men was well-filled by the khaki clad. This term there are many gaps and the last rows of the middle section have been given to the Fourth Prep girls. This state of affairs is doubtless due to the fact that many of the college men have not been discharged from the service. However, a number of the upperclassmen are returning as fast as they are discharged. Among those who have returned are: Tom McConnell, Joel Georges, Lieut. Luther Johnson, "Sheeny" Briggs, Frank McLaughlin, and Ray Foster. Others are expected back this week.

The demands for special work this term have been unusually pressing. Mrs. Nita E. West, Head of the Department of Expression has found it necessary in order to lighten the very heavy schedules of Miss Buxton and herself to secure another teacher.

Miss Hale of the Department of Music cannot accommodate all the would-be music students because of the lack of practice rooms and pianos. It would seem as if Maryville will soon need a new building which will be devoted exclusively to the work of these departments.

With affairs taking a normal trend once more, with an enrollment of six hundred and two this early in the term, and with so many of the old reliable ones back Maryville expects to make the remainder of the Centennial year a never-to-be-forgotten period in the history of the college.

THE FORENSIC LEAGUE PREPARES FOR ACTION

Debate Arranged With Tusculum. Carson-Newman May Be Opponent.

Numerous meetings of the Forensic League during the last week indicate that trouble is brewing. The orators are constantly conferring, planning, plotting and plundering old records for new thoughts, —sufficient gas to asphixiate any powerful opponents is being generated.

Negotiations are on with Emory and Henry, Carson and Newman, and Tusculum. Prospects for several snappy encounters grow more bright daily. It is certain that Maryville will again have the opportunity of humiliating her old rival Tusculum.—Perhaps Carson and Newman, and Emory and Henry will also be unfortunate victims.

Maryville is out to win—, the interest evidenced, the enthusiasm displayed are demonstrations of the fact that big things are expected. An innovation of general interest to all, will add great excitement to the preliminaries. On February the second, the men and women of Maryville College will meet in combat. From the valiant heroes who safely immerge from this encounter will be chosen the debating teams.

With the number of entries growing continually it is certain that the old debaters will be hard pushed for their coveted positions. If you can't debate, induce your roommate to enter the race; if you can't prevail upon your "roomie", then with zeal and "pep" get behind the teams, shove hard, WAIT—, and listen for what is to come!

LEONARD—WICKS MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

"A marriage of interest to Birmingham people is that of Miss Josephine E. Wicks, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mr. Chester F. Leonard, son of William H. Leonard, formerly of this city, which took place at the Leonard apartments in Chicago on Christmas Day. Just at twilight Christmas carols were sung by Mrs. Tom Irwin of Chattanooga, a close friend of the bride, after which, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the bride and groom entered the spacious living room of the Leonard home, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. John F. Zipperer, of Chicago, under a bower of holly and mistletoe. The bride was beautifully gowned in blue satin trimmed in white and carried white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard will be at home February 1, in their apartments in Chicago, where Mr. Leonard is a student at McCormick Theological Seminary. This is the culmination of a college romance which began three years ago when the bride and groom were students at Maryville College, Tenn." —Birmingham Ledger.

The faculty and students wish Mr. and Mrs. Leonard a long and happy married life.

THE NEW BUSINESS MANAGER IS ELECTED

With this number we present the new business manager, Mr. Horace Brown. Mr. Brown has been on the Hill for several years and has proved to the faculty and students that he is an all-around college fellow. As a resident of Maryville he has the advantage of being personally acquainted with the business men who are now and would be likely advertisers. There is no doubt but that Brown will very capably and efficiently fill the position to which he has been elected.

PAY YOUR SUBSCRIPTION!

The business manager announces that a number of the students have not paid their Echo subscriptions. Do not wait until you are embarassed by a personal request that you do so, but hand your dollar to Mr. Brown today.

THETA MID-WINTER MONDAY EVENING

"The Doings of Dorothy" an Original Play in Four Acts Will Be Presented.

"The Doings of Dorothy" will be presented to the public for the first time on next Monday night in Voorhees Chapel. This is an original play in four acts, written and staged by the Theta Epsilon girls, and it goes without saying that everybody in Maryville College and in Maryville will want to see it .

The mid-winters have always been the most popular entertainments of the year, and Theta Epsilon, although the youngest of them all, has never failed to hold her own among the other literary societies on the Hill. This year is a banner year for the Thetas. More new members were received into the society last term than in any whole year previous to this time. Never was Theta in so flourishing a state as at present. Ergo-the Theta midwinter, always excellent, will be surpassingly so this year.

Dorothy the Adorable and Henry the Handsome will be there to ravish your hearts. The secrets of the dormitory will be revealed. There will be action a-plenty, wit and humor. And if for one moment you should think that this remarkable production is going to want anything in the way of ballast—just read on. For modern heroines are capable young persons who make and express opinions on topics of world interest, and "The Doings of Dorothy" is the very latest of the late plays—despite the fact that in it an age-old truth finds demonstration.

Buy your tickets early! Make certain of an evening of wholesome enjoyment next Monday night.

Tickets Now On Sale. FIFTEEN CENTS EACH.

MARYVILLE CO-EDS WIN FIRST GAME

Score 29-4. Girls of Y. H. S. Knoxville Put Up Scrappy Fight.

Maryville fans were treated to a good basketball game Friday evening between the Maryville team and the girls of Young High School of Knoxville. The visitors were all small and could not make much headway against M. C.'s champion team, but they were there with the pep and never let up for an instant during the whole game. Several fouls were called against the visiting team; three of which were placed safely in the basket by Edith Davis. Blanche Bailey did excellent work at forward and the veteran guards, E. Burchfiel and Sue Nuchols allowed only two field goals to be made by their opponents, one in each half. Celeste Mosely who has just recovered from an illness played only during the first half. She was substituted at center by Lucile Middleton.

The prospects for a winning season are very bright with all of the old team back except "Bee" Marshall whose place Blanche Bailey is filling. The squad numbering eighteen peppy and enthusiastic co-eds has had a great many practice games under the direction of Miss Lois Wilson. A number of trips have been planned but some of the biggest games will be played on the home floor.

Score 29-4.

NAT CARSON MADE SUPREME SACRIFICE NOVEMBER 1ST.

A clipping from a Kissimmee, Fla., paper states that Nat Carson, Jr. was "killed in action November 1st. and was buried in the Aragonne."

Nat Carson was in Maryville in 1916-17 and during his stay here was well-liked. In 1917 he entered Florida State University, but left before the year was finished to enlist in the U. S. Marines. With the Marines he gallantly fought and gallantly died and the name of another hero has been added to the Honor Roll of our country.

FIRST AFTER THE WAR CHILHOWEAN TO BE PUT OUT THIS YEAR

JUNIOR CLASS IN SPITE OF DIFFICULTIES WILL PUBLISH ANNUAL. MISS CRESWELL IS EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, GEORGE CALLAHAN, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Is there going to be an annual this year? This is the question that has been asked so many times during the past few months by members and friends of the school.

The answer is ready.

There is going to be an annual, the biggest and best it is hoped that has ever been gotten out by Maryville College students.

In 1917-1918 for the first time in many years the Chilhowean was not published. The reason need hardly be repeated. The Great War which checked so many college activities made an undertaking of this kind seem entirely impractical to the students of the college who were using every minute of their available time and every cent of their money for patriotic purposes.

But news of the end of the great struggle was scarcely abroad before many activities which the war had stopped sprang up with new life. Among them were plans for an annual and a few weeks before Christmas the Chilhowean Staff was elected according to precedent from the Junior Class. The members of the staff are:

Editor-in-Chief - - Jessie Creswell
Associate Editors - - Edith Moore
Joel Georges
Business Manager, George Callahan
Advertising Mgr., - Horace Brown
Editors:
Faculty, - - - Mary Kate Lewis
Class - - - Mildred Campbell
Athletic - - - - Mary Hayes
Club - - - Winston Newton
Katherine Ridgeway
Student Activities - Bessie Henry
Photographic - Frank McLaughlin
Department - - - Hattie Hayes
Minnie Hunter
Art - - - - Amelia Rendon

When the Chilhowean contract between the Class of 1919 and the Hammer-Smith Kortmeyer Company of Milwaukee was cancelled last year, a provision was made, with the consent of the faculty, by which the contract for the engraving of the next annual should be given to that company. Accordingly the engraving will be done by the Hammersmith Kortmeyer Company. The Juniors have also awarded them the printing contract.

Although the war is over war conditions still prevail in many places of business, especially in printing and publishing houses and the staff this year will work against unusual difficulties. This is an important reason why they should have the most loyal support ever given to a Chilhowean Staff.

Do your part! Back up the work and as the year 1919, the Centennial year, is the greatest in the history of Maryville College make the Chilhowean of 1919 the best in the history of Maryville College annuals.

"Y" UNDERTAKES CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRAM

Reception Is Held in Bartlett Hall. Plans Discussed For Social and Religious Work.

In order to place the plans of the constructive program of the Y. M. C. A. before the men of the student body, a reception was held in the "Y" building (Bartlett Hall) Jan. 8 at 6 p. m. The president, Mr. Miller, presented the threefold plan of the War Work Council: an interesting Bible Study in groups of not more than twenty; a form for the study of Modern Missions. The educational work will consist of a series of lectures. Athletics or group games are to be played Saturday afternoons. A reading room will be opened in conjunction with a music room. The part of the program received with the greatest acclamation was the announcement that socials with light refreshments were planned for once a month.

Dr. Stevenson made a get-acquainted speech in which he pointed out the self-evidence of the Y. M. C. A. There is a great opportunity for the men to avail themselves of the untold advantages of offered them by this program of the Y. M. C. A. The world is too full of silent Christian workers, of inactive physical beings. The "Y" program is planned to develop Christian leadership, to train men physically, and to create friendship.

A feature of the evening was a number of selections by the quartet. Mr. Horace Brown read very effectively the poem "Wounded" by Robert Service. The climax of the evening came in the form of hot chocolate and macaroons.

"Y. M. C. A.,
Hotel Regina, Bologna, Italy,
November 16, 1918.

"Dear Dr. Wilson:—

"I am with the Czecho-Slovak Army in Italy doing Y. M. C. A. work, and soon will go with them to Bohemia. Although so far away from Maryville, my thoughts often wonder in the happy days of my student years under your guidance in dear Old Maryville.

"Wishing you all a Merry Christmas, I am

"Sincerely,
"Lud. Burian."

The oft-repeated question "When do we swim?"

:--:--:--:

Next week's Echo will be a special Y. M. C. A. number.

:--:--:--:

Hereafter the Echo will be published Thursday instead of Tuesday. This change has been contemplated for some time owing to the inconvenience of getting all material in by eight o'clock Monday morning. Heretofore this requirement has made the work on the literary and religious editors very difficult. It is believed that this new arrangement will prove satisfactory to every one concerned.

:--:--:--:

The result of the approaching preliminaries which will be held by the Forensic League will be watched with great interest as this is the first time outside of class debates that women have participated in a try-out for intercollegiate debating. It is up to the women to prove that they are equally as good debaters as the men who have had much more experience in forensic work.

Never since we came into the world has there been so much illness as in the last three months. Flu has swept over the country like a scourge. At Maryville College alone some three hundred students have had it, and we have thanked the Lord for a casualty list so small.

This is the season of the year when tonsilitis, colds, and other diseases of the respiratory system are always most prevalent and work most havoc. But this year the germs seem to be celebrating a regular jubilee, centennial, or something. Perhaps the flu bugs act as re-inforcements to the others. At any rate the health and spirits of nearly every one has been affected in some degree, and wherever two or three are met together there will be an exchange of symptoms most distressing to hear.

If the airing of ailments could work their cure, then altruistic Maryville would gladly attend to rehearsals of infinite numbers of aches and pains. But any nurse can tell us that introspection is bad for the patient, and that the power of suggestion is sufficient to make a well person feel ill in a very short time.

So remember that your neighbors have troubles of their own. Keep yours to yourself, and don't be afraid that the concealment will prey upon your damask cheek. Put your windows up. Keep your head cool and your feet dry. Smother the coughs and sneezes. If you get down in the mouth, remember that Jonah came out all right. If you think you have flu, go to bed. Have faith and take a pill!

NEW YEAR'S GREETING FROM DR. HOYT

Through Dr. Wilson, Dr. Chas. K. Hoyt sent to the college the following stanza from Whittier as a greeting and hope for the New Year. At this time of world readjustment this stanza seems peculiarly applicable:

"Up NOW for Freedom!—not in strife
Like that your sterner fathers saw,
The awful waste of human life,—
The glory and the guilt of war:
But break the chain,—the yoke remove,
And smite to earth Oppression's rod,
With those mild arms of Truth and Love,
Made mighty through the living God!"

Prof. and Mrs. Davis who were in Florida during the holidays had the pleasure of visiting Dr. Hoyt and his family at Rollins College, Winter Park. Dr. Hoyt is delighted with the Florida climate and his work at Rollins.

Y. W. C. A.

The first meeting of the new year was led most ably by Eva Ritchie. The account of the Ancient Hebrew Jubilee Year read by Corin Humphry furnished the Scripture lesson. Then Miss Ritchie gave an especially interesting, valuable and erudite talk on "How to Make 1919 a True Jubilee Year." In the open meeting, a few told their New Year's resolutions. Maud Hite sang a very beautiful solo.

Last Sunday Elizabeth Hudson was the leader, the subject was: "Leaders and Followers". She spoke of the man who was let off—the young ruler who came to Jesus. Then Katherine Guess told of the sharpening process which is necessary to make a good leader as is shown in the story of Jacob's life. Jane Morton gave the character of Joshua as a leader. A quartette sang Kipling's "Lest We Forget", and Jeanette Hibbert played a piano solo.

DR. GRAHAM ADDRESSES THE Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY AFTERNOON

At the Y.M.C.A. meeting Sunday afternoon the boys had the privilege of hearing a very interesting and instructive address by Dr. W. E. Graham of the New Providence Church. He spoke in his usual inspiring manner on "How We Got Our Bible."

In introducing the subject the speaker referred to his own early belief that his mother's Bible, with its many full-page pictures was just as it had come from the hand of God. But he assured his hearers that a knowledge of the growth of our Bible should strengthen, rather than weaken faith in it as God's word.

Dr. Graham emphasized the value of our latest and most accurate version and discussed its preparation. Its translators, he said, carefully studied and compared the ancient manuscripts, such as that of the Vatican, the Sinaitic and one in the British museum; the versions of Jerome, Alfred, Wycliff, Tyndale and many others; and the scriptural quotations in the writings of the Fathers back as far as Polycarp.

The speaker explained, in the course of the address, that our Bible is not to be taken as science. It is totally different yet not untrue to science. As history it is selective rather than detailed; it was written with a definite purpose. Tens of thousands of great and good men have labored to give it to us; it has stood against the efforts of many to destroy it; it is the living word of God, which is in a sense still growing for believers by opening hidden truth to us as we grow in experience. It should be studied as one studies a text book, and not read in a hap-hazard way.

Next Sunday Prof. D. J. Brittain will deliver an address and on the following Sunday Dr. Graham will give a second Bible talk telling the story of the selection of the various books of our Bible and the discarding of others.

CECIL FRENCH GODDARD

Friends of Cecil F. Goddard or "Bully" as he was more familiarly called on the Hill were shocked to hear of his death in the Brooklyn Naval Hospital Monday morning, Jan. 13., following a severe case of pneumonia. His sisters, Misses Edith and Grace Goddard started to New York Saturday evening but arrived at the hospital just a few minutes after their brother's death. Gaston Cooper, who is a Hospital Apprentice in the Naval Hospital had made arrangements to accompany the body to Maryville but the arrival of the sisters made this course unnecessary. The funeral services were held in the M. E. Church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. J. M. Emert, pastor, and Rev. J. S. Jones, a friend of the family, officiating.

Cecil French Goddard, son of the late Monroe Goddard, was born in Maryville Aug. 14, 1895. His life until he enlisted in the navy in 1917 was largely spent in Blount County. For two and a half years he attended Maryville College and was a member of the class of 1917.

In the spring of 1917, he enlisted in the navy, being one of the first of the Maryville men to volunteer for service. He was assigned to the U. S. S. Mississippi and at the time of his death had reached the position of Second Class Gunner's Mate.

At an appropriate chapel service Wednesday morning, a gold star was added to the college service flag in honor of Cecil F. Goddard who was so ready to hear his country's call and who gave all he had while in the service of his country.

The family has the sympathy of the entire college in the death of their brother.

PROF. BRITTAIN RESUMES HIS WORK IN PREP DEPARTMENT

Prof. David Brittain who resigned his position here in 1917 to enlist in the army has received his honorable discharge from the navy and has resumed his work in the Preparatory Department as Professor of English and History.

At the close of the spring term in 1917 Prof. Brittain enlisted in the army, his chosen branch of the service being the Field Artillery. Here he received his commission as second lieutenant and later first lieutenant. Afterwards he was transferred to signal work, Field Artillery. In the spring of 1918, Prof. Brittain seeing that the organization with which he was connected would not be selected for active duty, secured a transfer to the navy and at first was stationed at the Naval Station, Newport, R. I. from which place he was assigned to the ship, Constellation. This ship was built in 1797 and is one of the oldest ships in the navy. It was engaged in the naval war with England in 1812 and has fought in every war since that time, being used as a flag ship by the 2nd Naval District.

Prof. Brittain was next assigned to the Don Juan de Austri, a ship which was captured from Spain in the Spanish-American war, and whose duty during the recent war was to patrol the Atlantic coast for submarines. After having been stationed on several other ships at various times while he attended the Signal School of the 2nd Naval District, Prof. Brittain attended the Naval Signal School at Hampton Roads, Virginia. He was then engaged on sub-chasers which searched the ocean for submarines and protected the convoys. This was a time of thrilling experiences with U-boats. Later Prof. Brittain was detailed as an instructor at the Naval Station, Hampton Roads, Va., and he was there at the cessation of hostilities.

Maryville students are glad to welcome back this popular member of the junior faculty.

BAINONIAN

No, you are wrong—it is not the flu which ails so many crest-fallen looking girls who are seen around the campus. The reason is simply this: There was no meeting of the Bainonian Literary Society on Saturday night, and that is the all powerful stimulator which crowns the end of the week.

However, this coming Saturday evening will brighten the hearts of all who attend the meeting—just watch the difference. The new girls are especially invited to join the Bainonians in their work which is pleasingly intermingled with play.

Wanted: Five college women for educational work. One to teach in Venezuela, S. A.; one for Girls' High School, Kolhapur, India; two for teachers in Korea, and one specially fitted for the training of teachers at Chiapas, Mexico. For further information apply to the local Student Volunteer Band.

THE EVANGELIZATION OF THE WORLD IN THIS GENERATION!

A business meeting of the Student Volunteer Band was held in Bainonian Hall, Friday night, Jan. 10. The Band was well represented. New plans were discussed and decided upon for the coming year. The organization is growing, but slowly. People of Maryville College, do you and will you realize that there is a living, working Band among you, striving to help on a world cause? Will you in this time of opportunity remain unmoved by the greatness of the world need and its individual call to each of you? The Band is seeking to fit itself to fill that need. Can you remain unconcerned, unwilling? The regular Friday night meetings are for everyone on the Hill—girls and young men.

THE SIGN OF THE OWL AND CRESCENT SPARKLES

Those who attended last Saturday evening's meeting of the Athenian society were much pleased with the large attendance, the genuine interest, and the old-time Athenian spirit. Certainly the first after-the-war term is going to be a term of worth-while accomplishment with the people of the owl and the crescent.

The opening number of the Saturday evening's program was a talk by the president, Herbert Kiger. Half a century's notable work and the notable products of the society, including such local men as Dr. Wilson, Professors Gillingham, Bassett, Ellis, Brittain, and Hunter could not be passed without mention. But the chief emphasis was put on the present and future.

A humorous debate was entered into with zest by F. Brown and F. Robinson. Both made their arguments entertaining, to say the least, and showed readiness in rebuttal. The judges were induced to decide that old maids and bachelors should bear the burden of war taxes.

Leslie Jones read a characteristically-humorous paper which showed much thought in the preparation in order to make it truly humorous.

The society decided to open every regular meeting promptly at six o'clock and not lengthen any unduly. It voted unanimously to co-operate with Mr. Miller in a Y. M. C. A. lecture plan, providing only that a limitation of time be put on the combined literary program and lecture.

The next program will be given in Athenian hall next Saturday at six o'clock.

ALPHA SIGMA LOOKS FORWARD TO A SUCCESSFUL TERM

Last Saturday evening the Alpha Sigma Literary Society held its first meeting of the new term, and it was a great success. Many of the former members who had been called away into the service were welcomed back into the work of the society. With these additions Alpha Sigma has great hopes for the future.

The program for the evening was good, in spite of the fact that it was the first meeting of the new year. Mr. Miller, the president, made a speech of welcome in which he enumerated the qualities of a good member.

The next number was a wonderfully rendered piano solo by Mr. Adams. This was heartily encored. Mr. Briggs then, in his usual lively manner, related some of his experiences in the Y. M. C. A. Secretary's Training School at Blue Ridge, N. C., which he attended for two months in the fall. Next followed a debate, that extemporaneous kind that is so enjoyable to all. The subject was: "Resolved, that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." This question was well defended by Mr. Johnson, and was attacked very fiercely by Mr. Osborn. In open discussion the subject was expounded on both sides by such wise and experienced men as Adams, Briggs and Callahan.

The meeting was then turned over to business, the main part of which was the election of officers. This was finished quickly and in good order, "Sheeny" Briggs being elected as president. With the society in such capable hands we are sure of great success during the term.

WORD FROM GALLION OF THE 23rd ENGINEERS

In a letter to The Highland Echo, Corp. P. M. Gallion, Co. D, 23rd. Engineers, A. E. F., who was here in 1914-15, expresses his thanks to the agency which made it possible for him to receive the Echo. He says further:

"I bumped into two old-timers over there: Lieuts. A. B. Caldwell and M. B. Crum. I think they both came through in great shape".

Corp. Gallion concluded by saying that he hoped to be at Maryville next year.

PALACE THEATRE

FRIDAY—"LION'S CLAW" No. 9, the educational serial featuring Marie Walcamp. The feature for today is a William Fox Production featuring Virginia Pearson in "QUEEN OF HEARTS", a stirring tale of mystery, love and chance, something that will appeal to you, something to think about and something very pleasing in this picture. Also a Harold Lloyd Comedy entitled "That's Him", and sure enough that is him and you will almost laugh yourself to death watching him try to prove that it is not him.

SATURDAY—"Hands Up" No. 11 and No. 12, two episodes of this serial as we missed out last Saturday and did not get "Hands Up". We are going to give you two chapters at once and we are sure that these will not miss out so, don't be afraid you wont get to see it for we are sure of it this time. Also a Toto Comedy the Clown Comediene, plenty of thrills and laughs in todays. Tom Mix in "Mr. Logan U. S. A." is scheduled for todays' show, as we have already told you this is one of Mr. Mix's best productions, and one that takes every bit of the western stuff. A story of the far west and northwest from cow puncher to mounted police, to a secret service man for Uncle Sam in time of war and one that stood the test and proved his loyalty in the most trying times.

MONDAY—"The Iron Test" featuring Carol Holloway and Antonio Moreno. A serial based on Circus life and envolving a mysterious character, the Red Mask, who is he and what is his motive in trying to kill both Antonio and Carol? What could be his purpose, what could he accomplish if they were out of the way? Does he belong to the circus troupe or is he just following them around to take advantage of every chance to get in his dirty work? We will also have another one of Helen Gibson's two reel westerners "The Secret Peril" in which she exercises some real westrn spirit and shows you that crime does not pay. War Review No. 22. Watch these pictures and you may get a glimpse of him for this is a picture of war life altogether and he may be in this one. Look! a Big V Comedy, one of the funniest you have ever saw "Bears and Bad Men", some mixture.

TUESDAY—Brass Bullet No. 6. How will he get out of the quick sand, and will she have to marry the villian to save him from a watery grave? These questions answered in this chapter, so don't miss it. The Arrow Film Corporation presents "The Deemster", a photo-dramatic version of thrilling realastic romance featuring Derwent Hall Caine, (the author) in the heroic role of Dan Mylrea a wayward son of a bishop, who has fallen so low as to become a fisherma. · therefore is disowned by his father who holds the high office of Pries Just how the union of father and son is brought about is told in this wonderful Photodrama. Every one has read the book and you will see in the picture the beautiful scenery just as told in the novel of the same name, "The Deemster". Charlie Chaplin Comedies "TOUGH LUCK".

PERSONALS

Miss Adah Howard and Miss Bessie Henry of town are wintering in Pearsons' Hall.

"Billy" Pleasants, who until recently was a soldier in Uncle Sam's great army, is making a prolonged visit here.

James Martin is at Wheat, Tenn. for an indefinite time, acting as substitute principal of the Wheat County High School.

Miss Manie Witherspoon has gone to Washington, D. C. where she will accept a position with the government.

Madame Dennee spent the Christmas season with French friends in Atlanta. Prof. Bassett spent part of his vacation in the same city.

The Misses Edith Davis, Ethel Burchfiel, Elizabeth Lippert, Mabel Ritchie, and Helen Lewis are recovering from the flu.

A card from Willis C. McClenaghan states that he is located at Nancy, France. He is well and "rearing to hit the high seas for the U. S. A."

Prof. Gillingham was ill during the vacation with a severe case of bronchitis. Since then he has suffered a relapse from which he is steadily recovering.

Miss Ethel Burchfiel recently had as her guests her brothers, Lieut. George W. Burchfiel of the Medical Corps and Lon Burchfiel of Dandridge.

Miss Valle Higginbotham of Fertile, Missouri who was here last year, has decided that there is no place like M. C. for good times so she is one of this term's matriculates. Licia Johnson is back after a strenuous term of teaching.

Miss Nina Belle Caldwell has had as her guest, her father, Mr. W. E. Caldwell of Alpine, Texas. Mr. Caldwell has lately been engaged in army Y. M. C. A. work at Ebert's Field which is near Camp Pike, Ark.

This term's additions to the Senior Class are Maude Pardue, Luther Johnson, J. H. Kiger, "Sheeny" Briggs, Charles Edgemon, and Ralph Smith. With the return of these former members the class roll now numbers over twenty-five.

Marion Henry can testify to the fact that all lame persons were not made so by wounds received in actual battle. For sometime "Prof." Henry has been disabled because she had the misfortune to fall in one of the corridors of Pearsons—, not that the corridor was to blame for the result—not at all.

Lieut. W. W. Haggard, '17 who has been stationed at Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky., since he entered the army has received his discharge and has been spending a short time at his home in Wildwood and, incidentally visiting on the Hill prior to leaving for Ishpming, Mich., where he will resume his former position as principal of the high school.

Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Stevenson have been entertaining their son who for the past three years has had charge of several Red Cross hospitals in Belgium. The young Ladies' Club of the Presbyterian Church was the only organization which had the privilege of hearing Mr. Stevenson relate some of the interesting experiences he had while in the war zone.

SIMS EARNS COMMISSION AS FIRST LIEUTENANT

Word has been received that J. G. Sims, '12, who is in the 4th Division which is part of the Army of Occupation, has been promoted to first lieutenant. Lieut. Sims received his commission as second lieutenant while in training at Ft. Oglethrope.

Student: "A cell is a room in Carnegie."

Prof. Proffitt: "Will some one please close the office door?"

"Bob" Adams hastens to comply with the request.

Prof. Proffitt absent-mindedly "Thank you, mam."

Gail Wilson told in Theism class that she changed her name during the holidays. She sits in the A row now.

YES, IT REALLY HAPPENED

DOES THE DEAN REMEMBER THIS?

Anxious student: "Dean Barnes, I want to take up international law. What course of study would you recommend?"

Dean: "Constant target practice".

Prof. and Mrs. E. A. Davis took a deferred honeymoon to Florida during the holidays and this is a secret:

A RED CROSS CHRISTMAS EXPERIENCE

Holidays are invariably a season of pleasure to everyone who has enough youth left in him to enjoy pleasure when it is at hand, but Christmas holidays to college folk cannot be phrased in the terms "pleasant"—something stronger is needed especially, if one takes the concrete case of the Red Cross Nursing Trip of Alnwick.

When the call for volunteer nurses came it was anwered by Mildred Hoffman, Maude Hite, Laura Putnam, Grace Sydenstricker, Stacy Howell, and Chester Osborn. The small town of Alnwick where these nurses were stationed, was prostrated by the flu. Some of the cases were desperate, so were the methods of treatment, and upon occasion, also the nurses. Nevertheless Christmas was in the air, else what was it that prompted the setting up of the big Christmas tree, laden with, its gorgeous tinsel and weighed down by its gifts! Christmas day dawned as brightly there as anywhere else and many sad-hearted little children and distressed parents were cheered by this their FIRST Christmas celebration. What in reality is Christmas unless it be a season of spreading abroad happiness in the land? Some might think of this call for volunteer nurses as a call for missionaries. However, that may be, it was answered by Student Volunteers—a small beginning but who can judge as to the end?

MOVIES WILL BE A MONDAY NIGHT AFFAIR

The first movies of the New Year were shown in the chapel Monday night under the direction of Cedric Miller, local "Y" Secretary. Monday night has been set aside as the time when the students and the faculty also shall have an opportunity to indulge in this favorite pastime. Mr. Miller is planning to vary the program with educational as well as popular films. Now and then an illustrated lecture will be given.

After the movies Monday evening the postponed New Year's "snap" was held in Bartlett Hall

SPECIAL Y. M. C. A. EDITION GIVING THE HISTORY AND PLANS OF THE LOCAL "Y"

THE Y. M. C. A. PROGRAM AS PLANNED FOR REST OF YEAR

BIBLE DISCUSSION GROUPS HAVE BEEN FORMED. LEADERS' TRAINING CONFERENCE AN ADDITION. ATHLETICS SATURDAY AFTERNOONS WILL BE A FEATURE. ALSO SOCIALS ONCE A MONTH.

Maryville's Y. M. C. A. has a record of forty-one years of which it can justly be proud. Much work has been undertaken and accomplished. Its past history abounds with the names of illustrious, conscientious, and enthusiastic leaders who have gradually strengthened the organization and the usefulness of the institution until it has reached its present position. It remains for those now in attendance at Maryville College not to only continue the work so nobly begun but to reach out farther and up higher than has been attempted before, in order that the pioneer student association may keep pace with the other colleges of the country, and prepare to meet the great opportunities which the near future will bring. To this end the following program has been carefully outlined, which is, the result of the findings of International and War Work Council Officials, the S.A.T.C. Secretaries in session at Atlanta recently, and the local Cabinet and Advisory Committee. Thanks to the encouragement and cooperation of the War Work Council, Maryville's Y. M. C. A. has an unequalled opportunity to develop, and it behooves each male student of both the College and Preparatory Departments to lend every aid to the full realization of these plans.

BIBLE DISCUSSION GROUPS

The Y. M. C. A. stands for body, mind, and spirit, but the strongest emphasis will be made along spiritual lines in order to meet the greatest need.

The hub around which all the religious work will revolve, as well as many other forms of activities is the organization of the Bible Discussion Groups. Upon the thoroughness of this organization will greatly depend the success of every other feature of the program.

The object of these groups is to meet for a full half hour every Sunday morning at 8 o'clock in a room located in an assigned part of Carnegie Hall, with a leader and two assistant leaders or boosters. The duty of the leader is not to teach in the ordinary sense but to simply lead the discussion, introduced the subject, and to interject suggestive questions at opportune times. The assistants or boosters are to promote the attendance, take part in the discussion, substitute in the absence of the leader, and keep reports, rendering the same to the General Secretary when required.

The organization of these groups has been affected in the following manner: From a list of boys rooming in Carnegie Hall, the boys were divided into ten groups according to their location in the Hall, each group consisting of not more than twenty or less than ten fellows. Each member of the cabinet was assigned by the General Secretary to organize an allotted section. The boys of that section had the privilege of choosing two of their number to act as leaders, and then from these two and the cabinet member, one was elected to act as leader, the other two acting as assistants or boosters. The basement has two groups, the first floor one group, the third floor three groups, and the second and fourth two groups each. Most of these are already organized, seven beginning their discussions last Sunday. The book that is being used is Bosworth's "About Jesus" A sufficient quantity of these has been supplied by the War Work Council.

An estimate of the success of this plan over the old system of Bible study can be realized from the comparison of the attendance at the first meeting of the Groups with the average and maximum attendance at the meetings held before Christmas under the old system. This comparison shows that the attendance last Sunday, was four times that of the average attendance and more than three times the maximum attendance before Christmas.

LEADER'S TRAINING CONFERENCE

Next to importance, is the Leader's Training Conference. This meets every Saturday evening at 8 o'clock for about forty-five minutes. It consists of the leader and two boosters from each discussion Group. The first ten or fifteen minutes are taken up in solving problems that arise, in giving reports, and in devotional exercise. The remainder of the time is devoted to the discussion of the next lesson. This is led by the General Secretary.

M. C. Y. M. C. A. FIRST COLLEGE ORGANIZATION OF ITS KIND

THE ORIGINATORS OF THE IDEA OF A COLLEGE Y. M. C. A. WERE DR. S. T. WILSON, REV. J. A. SILSBY, AND REV. J. B. PORTER. THE FIRST MEETING WAS HELD MARCH 5, 1877

On March 2, forty-two years ago, just after the first February meetings held on College Hill, the idea of a college Y. M. C. A. originated.

John A. Silsby and James B. Porter with Samuel T. Wilson in the latter's room in Memorial Hall, mapped out the plans for the new movement. James E. Rogers, since president of Blackburn University; Chas. C. Hembru; and S. T. Wilson, the beloved president of Maryville College, drafted the constitution of that organization which has played an active part in college life here. In a remarkably short time, their ideas had become concrete and on College Hill at Maryville was established the FIRST COLLEGE Y. M. C. A. in the United States, if not one of the first in the world. So unique was the idea, that the International Committee sent men to investigate the new movement.

The first devotional meeting was held March 5, 1877 in the college library. The second meeting was conducted in the Athenian Hall, which continued to be the meeting place until the organization of the Alpha Sigma, after which the meeting place alternated between the two halls for a number of years. From 1893 to 1897, the Association meetings were conducted in the Fayerweather annex to Anderson. From here they moved to the chapel and in 1899, found a resting place in Bartlett Hall, where the meetings have since been conducted.

The three men who originated the idea were the first presidents: J. B. Porter president in 1877. S. T. Wilson in 18877-78, and J. A. Silsby in 1878-79. After their college days, these three men became foreign missionaries.

The charter members were: James Anderson, Ira B. Conley, C. B. Dare, W. H. Franklin, C. C. Hembree, D. A. Heron, G. S. Moore, J. B. Porter, J. W. Rankin, J. T. Reagan, J. E. Rogers, J. A. Silsby, L. B. Tedford, and S. T. Wilson. Of these, eleven entered the ministry, five going to foreign fields.

With founders like these, with such a richness of history, need one be surprised at the continued success and growth of the Association on College Hill?

In 1888, from the far East came a seventeen year old boy—Kin Takahaski. With an ancestry of Shintoists on one side, and Buddhists on the other, he came seeking the Light of Christ. Setting service as his goal, he became intensely interested in Christian activities Due to his sacrifice and service, Maryville now has Bartlett Hall, the college Y. M. C. A. This was the first college association building in the south, and is still one of three in Tennessee.

In 1894, the membership roll which has been many times multi-

THE THETA MID-WINTER DRAWS LARGE CROWD

"The Doings of Dorothy" With Sue Nuckols as Dorothy and Henry E. Ludeman as "Henry the Handsome" Proves a Popular Success.

When a stern and inflexible Editor limits one to four hundred words, the task of choosing such words as will adequately comment upon, and commend so charming a play as was given in the College Chapel on last Monday evening by our versatile Theta Epsilon girls, is both mind bewildering and heart breaking.

Under such cruel conditions it is obvious that only the highest points can be touched, and even they with such unavoidable brevity that the enjoyable musical numbers rendered by our orchestra which deserves our increasing admiration; the cornet solo effectively played by Miss Sarah Lloyd, and the vocal selection artistically sung by Miss Elizabeth Jones, can only be mentioned with grateful appreciation and an expression of sympathy for those not present to hear and enjoy them.

It was perfectly evident that the writers of "The Doings of Dorothy",—for the whole play was evolved from the profound Theta Epsilon consciousness,—had been able to draw upon a rich and varied store of college experiences, and were thereby equipped to produce a drama which ran the whole gamut of undergraduate emotion, from gay to grave and back again. Indeed such a realistic cross-section of college life was presented, and so skilfully portrayed by Miss Sue Nuckols as Dorothy, and the Misses Jonnie Catlett and Corin Humphries as Mr. and Mrs. Winton, and Miss Minnie Hunter as the austere matron, Miss Priscilla, that as the different scenes were staged, even seasoned "old timers" had early and tender memories so touched and revived that some of them were observed wiping their eyes in a furtive, shamefaced way. But in bowing to Editorial authority we must suffice ourselves by saying that from the dignified President of Ferncliff College, very correctly impersonated by Miss Mayme Ludeman, to the mischievous brothers of Dorothy, Bobby and Jake, represented by the Misses Fowler and Higginbotham, each and every one in the cast did himself and herself great credit, and the large audience followed "The Doings of Dorothy" with a growing interest from the time she left her home an unsophisticated girl until, thanks to the discipline and developing influences of college life she was fitted to take her place and do her part in the great world's work, and return to her childhood home at length bringing a perfectly good, and useful, as well as handsome husband with her.

Simple justice requires it should be added that this play is one with a definite moral, and that its authors were not content merely to amuse,—they sought to profit and instruct as well. So all sides of college life were brought before us, the silly and the serious, the sentimental and the studious; the earnest and faithful student was put in shining contrast with the frivolous,

Why confine the talents of the college orchestra to special occasions?

Chapel speakers are scarce this term. Would that some person from somewhere would appear to break the monotony of the routine service.

Don't fail to observe the new light posts which decorate the Court street entrance to the college grounds. Here's hoping that it wont be long until the college roads can be converted into driveways befitting this pleasing entrance.

Have you noticed that the S.A.T.C. army post flag now waves over Anderson? It is a pleasing sight to eyes, dulled by the grim color and tatters of the old "Old Glory" which for so long a time valiantly testified to the surrounding country that American principles and traditions were those of the college.

:--:--:--:

How many students are there on the Hill now who have attended an Officer's Training School? On the face of it this would seem to be a question very easily answered. One would naturally say that the best way to find out would be to count the red, white and blue hat cords. This method could not be relied upon, however, for there are fully a dozen such hat-cords worn by fellows that have not been to training camps. Of course its none of our business how other people dress but we think it is unfair to the officer candidates if any prep in school, who takes the notion, can wear the O. T. S. hat-cord. It not only cheapens the insignia to be thus abused but it is also embarassing to the unqualified wearer when he is questioned as to where he was in training.

A HAPPY INCIDENT OF THE LAST DAY OF WAR

Lieut. Howard Wilson recently wrote home telling the following interesting happening:

"It was on the morning of November 11th between seven and eight o'clock Co. M. of the 127th Infantry, was advancing in single file through the Bois de la Roche to take up its position on the front line so as to take part in the attack which was to begin at eight o'clock. As we tramped as quietly as possible through the woods, the shells fell thick and fast all about us. Fortune favored us, however, and not one man was hit, although many times we were compelled to throw ourselves on our faces on the ground for protection. At one time when some shells exploded almost within our ranks, some of the men, who had never had their baptism of fire, began to stampede, but they were soon gotten under control. The men who had been through this same experience several times before, kept steadily ahead, swerving neither to the right nor to the left.

At last our position was almost reached. We stopped for a few minutes just back of our position in order to rest and also that we might send out a patrol to determine exactly the place from which we were to begin the attack. A few minutes we waited. Every man's nerves were pitched to the highest key. We were all anxious to get at the enemy who, we knew, was strongly fortified on the hill in front of us. It was 7:45; only fifteen minutes until we should be facing the deadly fire of those many machine guns on the hill. Suddenly a runner rushes up hatless and breathless. Without a word he hands over a message. The message reads as follows:—"All orders for attack called off. Armistice with Germany goes into effect at 11 o'clock. See that there is no shouting or celebrating."

One or two joyful shouts were heard, then absolute silence, as every man grasped the hand of the man nearest to him. Many eyes were filled with tears of joy, and every heart said, "Thank God." As we stood there overcome by the feelings caused by this sudden change in affairs, we heard a slight movement in the tree over our heads; then there burst forth, the beautiful song of a bird. We all looked up and there on the branch only a few feet above our heads, we saw a small, brown bird with its head thrown back and its mouth wide open pouring forth its soul in a song of thanksgiving and joy. It was the most beautiful and touching thing I have ever experienced. The little bird knew that peace had come to this war-worn world again, and as we listened to its song, we realized that peace had indeed come.

As far as I can remember, this was the first bird I had ever heard near the front. This fact made it all the more remarkable. You may think it strange that such a simple thing as the song of a little bird would touch old "battle-scarred vets", but that bird's song under those conditions would have touched the hardest heart. It is something I shall never forget.

We have had a great many experiences while we have been over here and they would all make interesting stories for you folks back home to read, if we could only tell them in an interesting way. If we should talk the rest of our lives, we could give you only a poor idea of war. You will have to go through it yourself, if you want to know exactly what it is. I hope, however, that this is the last war."

SOPHOMORES LEAD PRAYER MEETING

The Thursday evening prayer meeting was led by the Sophomore class. The topic was "The Best Equipment for Life". Miss Sue Nuckols gave an appropriate and impressive reading vividly illustrating the power and consolation emanating from the precious name of God.

The class president, Robert Bartlett, introduced the subject by showing that life consists of work, sorrow, and joy; and asked the question of what relation ones religion has with these. He took the first division for his theme and emphasized the need of communion with God, and the fact that there is only one code of morals for all. He said that it was better to have a humble position and fill it well than to occupy a position of responsibility and not do it justice.

Miss Lloyd, the next speaker, spoke on the subject of sorrow, showing that some care comes to every life, but that Christ knows all the past and relieves pain and wounds by bringing back joy.

The last subject "Joy", was treated by Mr. Harold Smith. He made a comparison between joy and happiness, defining the latter as a passing pleasure while real joy can only come through the acceptance of Christ. True joy, it was shown, as a lasting one, comes from service and obedience.

MOVIES AT BARTLETT

"No Man's Land" in five reels with Bert Lytell starring was given at Bartlett Hall Monday night, preceeding the Theta Mid-Winter. It was the best movie presented thus far on the Hill by the "Y", and because of its patriotic appeal was especially interesting. The new victrola sustained the interest between reels. Increased attendance will no doubt follow the improvement in the attractions. These shows will be given every Monday night until the International Committee directs otherwise.

COLLEGE MEN'S VARSITY MEETS TOWN PLAYERS

In Spite of a Score of 36-18 in M. C.'s Favor The Game was Snappy and Interesting to The Fnish.

M. C. fans were unexpectedly treated to a good basketball game last Friday evening. The first intimation that was given of the impending conflict was at supper when Prof. Walker made the announcement. It had been understood before that the team was to make a trip to Knoxville on that day. Owing to the short notice given there was not as large a crowd as usual but a good showing was made under the circumstances.

The opposing team was made up of boys from town under the leadership of Drake, a former M. C. guard. Drake was easily the star of the town team, making four field goals while playing at the guard position. The opposing team used no substitutes but endeavored to strengthen their team by making many changes of positions during the latter half. In spite of their untiring efforts they were unable to make much headway against the winning team which has been built up through the efforts of Captain Briggs and Prof. Davis. The game was snappy and hard fought thruout the whole contest and the spectators never lost interest in spite of the one-sided score. Much amusement was manifested at times at the ease with which "Sheeny" handled his opponents when they attempted to pull off any "rough stuff." Brown succeeded in placing the ball safely in the basket five times during the half in which he played. Bob Adams, the only M. C. player who stayed in the whole game, had seven field goals placed to his credit. After the first half many substitutes were made giving everyone on the squad a chance to try his mettle. Taylor who went in the last few minutes succeeded in scoring within fifteen seconds after entering the game. Everyone that played showed up well and the prospects of a strong team are growing brighter every day. The team is handicapped by not having any old varsity men back and by the absence of a coach. However, the students are expecting much from the team and in doing so we must back up our expectations by our solid attendance and loyal support at every game.

PROF. GILLINGHAM RECIPIENT OF HANDSOME GIFT

The Rev. Clinton H. Gillingham had a delightful surprise last Sunday morning when at the request of the Rev. Herbert V. Cannon he attended the morning service of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, Knoxville. At the conclusion of the regular preaching service Dr. Cannon read Prof. Gillingham a letter of thanks for the efficient service he rendered the congregation during the months of November and December when he substituted for the pastor who was engaged in Red Cross work.

The surprise came when in behalf of the officers and the congregation Dr. Cannon presented Prof. Gillingham with a four-piece silver service. The recipient of this handsome gift was taken unaware but by his fitting words of thanks and appreciation he proved himself equal to the unexpected occasion.

"FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN SPRING" "Y" TOPIC

Prof. David Brittain was the speaker at the Sunday afternoon Y. M. C. A. meeting. His subject was "Flowers That Bloom in Spring."

Following the analogy that "spring-time is youth", Prof. Brittain explained that in the spring-time we build for life. Then are habits formed to make or to mar. Then is the joyous season when free from responsibility, we dream visions and prepare for our work. "Summer" follows, the season of labor during which our visions are realized, and our work accomplished. Then comes the "autumn" or harvest time of our life in which we reap that which we have sown. This is followed by winter when we await the call of death.

"Just as some flowers bloom better in spring, so do some characteristics of manhood flourish best in the "springtime of life", said the speaker. Of these characteristics, he spoke at length of five: Strength, Enthusiasm, Imagination, Friendship, and Love. "The man having these qualities is the man who can render the greatest service in life." The outstanding example of a perfect youth is Christ. All these attributes and many more were His.

With Roy McCall as chairman of the music committee, a male chorus is being organized. Keep your ears open for its first public performance.

THE ATHENIANS ENJOY A LIVE PROGRAM

Last Saturday evening, the Athenians held a very enthusiastic meeting. Ralph Smith rendered a very delightful trombone solo. The main feature of the program was a debate: "Resolved, that Italy should not receive any part of the Adriatic coast for her part in the war." Moss Farmer and Harold Smith supported the affirmative against King and Floyd Watt. The arguments were very concise and full, each of the speakers handling his part with proficiency. The decision of the judges and of the society favored the negative. There followed an open and spirited discussion on the merits of the question, participated in by Domiano, Brown, Minarick, Robinson, Ensign, and Vance.

The oath of Athenian loyalty and membership was administered to James Ensign, Buriel Givens, E. K. Regan, and George McKanna. Donald Buchanan took out his "first papers."

The president expressed the hope that the supremacy in scholarship held by the Athenians would not be lost this year, and from all evidences, there is no fear of such being the case.

SCANDAL!

Equal to and in sympathy with the only secret organization ever formed in Maryville College, namely: The O. F. M. U., is a Surgical Operating Club. This club has as its aim the renovating of any afflicted Bainonian, and the first demonstration was given at the Bainonian Headquarters Saturday evening. A potato masher, five yards of electric wire, an egg beater, a mouse trap and an electric iron all accidentally swallowed with hash were removed from a victim, not secretly, however, as the O. F. M. U. certainly would have done, but by shadow pictures.

Hattie Hayes played a piano solo which quieted the nerves of the members of the Club, and the readings of Mary Louise Hayes and Emily Fowler cast all thought of the butchery aside. Emma Miles soothed the participants further with a vocal solo and stimulated a wish for another shadow picture which showed the misfortunes of a wounded Bainonian President.

FORMER EDITOR RETURNS

"Red" Turner returned last week from San Antonio, Texas where he has been in the aviation camp, Kelly Field, since he left college to enlist at the beginning of the fall term 1917. "Red" may register and receive his diploma with the Centennial class.

THE ORIGIN AND BUILDING OF BARTLETT HALL WHICH IS KNOWN AS THE Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

KIN AND BARTLETT HALL IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION

The Y.M.C.A. building, better known as Bartlett Hall on College Hill, first existed in the mind of Kin Takahashi and through his energy, determination, and power to inspire others, the bricks were hand-molded, sundried, burnt, and erected into the building. This work was done principally by the students of the College. Kin did most of the planning and organizing for this work, often addressing mass meetings of students in the interest of his plan. He emphasized especially the 'sweeming pool", shower bath, wrestling and boxing.

Under the direction of "Uncle" Davy Jones, a friend of the students, a mud mill was constructed. This was a crude wooden dirt mixer, propelled by one horse hitched to a long sweep similar to the old cane mill sweep. The dirt was dug by two students and rolled in wheelbarrows to the mill, where it was shoveled into the mixer and properly watered. An expert did the molding. Each mold contained four bricks and was carried by students and emptied on the ground to sun dry. This part of the work was done by three boys each with a mold.

After the bricks were sufficiently dried to keep them from breaking, they were taken to the kiln by another crew of students. Here they were stacked and burnt into hard bricks, ready for use in the building.

Although the students did not lay the bricks in the mortar, they were the hod-carriers for those who did, and are therefore entitled to the credit of erecting the building. While Kin did not do any actual labor in its construction, he furnished the plans, the inspiration to the boys, and the straw for the bricks.

"Y" HUMOR

7:55 a. m. Sunday. A loud knock at a certain door on the third floor of Carnegie.

Demanding voice on outside:—"Get up! Time for 'Y' classes!"

Sleepy victim within (aroused from his blissful somnolence). "Gosh, this beats old S. A. T. C. days"

Did you see "Professor" Miller and enterprising Chang starring in the movies last Monday evening?

De Lemon Beard is making rapid progress in his musical education. He is now the official movie Victrolist.

No more rest for the weary,
"The "Y" is on the "pep".
Days will be dark and dreary,
For one who lacks his "rep".

The fair member of the junior faculty are patiently waiting. Up and get, while the getting is good!

Y. M. C. A. BULLETIN

Watch this space every week for interesting announcement and standing of the Bible Study Groups.

Keep your eyes on the bulletin boards.

Have you seen the "Y" service flag that was made by a few of our willing sisters?

A Word To The Boys:

You have made an excellent start in organizing the Bible Study Groups, seven groups having met last Sunday with a total attendance of 63. Let us do even better next Sunday and have one hundred per cent present. Support your leaders and endeavor to keep your group at the top of the list.

The value of these weekly discussions will be realized more and more as the studies progress. They will not only deepen your spiritual insight but will make you more able to live a rich, fruitful life and prepare you for the trials and experiences of the future.

Permit me to urge each one, that you patronize the religious meetings, make use of the reading and game rooms, and take part in all the athletics that you possibly can. This will tend to give you the all around development, spiritual, mental, and physical, that is absolutely needed to enable you to do a man's job later on.

Cedric V. Miller, Secretary.

WILSON GILLINGHAM HAS AN ACCIDENT

Wilson, the ten year old son of Prof. Gillingham, had the misfortune, while playing last Wednesday, to dislocate his left arm at the elbow. Physicians declared the fracture very serious and an ex-ray examination was made. The bones, however, were reset and Wilson is recovering rapidly.

We sympathize with Miss Molly doing double sentry duty at the movies Monday night. We know just what vigilance is required in "keeping always on the alert, and observing everything that takes place within sight or hearing."

JOHN 3:16 TEXT OF VESPER SERMON

Unique Outline Makes the Discussion of This Well-Known Verse of Scripture an Interesting One.

Dr. Stevenson took for the text of his Vesper sermon one of the most familiar and greatest verses in the Bible: John 3:16. The unique outline that the college pastor used made the discourse especially helpful and interesting. He showed how the different phrases of this "Bible in miniature" could be compared to a lake, a river, a pitcher, and a draught.

"For God so loved the world." This is the depthless fountain of life. It's magnitude, both breadth and depth, is like a great and mighty lake. The love of God is deeper than man's love, and also deeper than the needs of the world. God's love is as lofty as man's highest aspirations and as low as man's need.

"That he gave his only begotten Son". By following the river, the lake is reached. By following the guide we reach the goal, and the giver is back of the gift. The story of revelation and salvation is a story of the compassion of God. Through this "river", the seeker finds God, whose heart was broken for men.

"That whosoever believeth on Him". That which is not used is of no benefit. Just as the pitcher is dipped down to obtain the water, so there must be a personal act of faith before the water of life becomes a refreshing and living thing. Faith is the great venture of life, with nothing behind or before.

"Should not perish". All thirst who drink of the water of the fountains of the world, but the fountain of life coming from God satisfies and quenches thirst for all time.

The love of God, the revelation of Christ, and a living faith, were the cardinal points emphasized in the sermon.

OVER THERE

SOME EXPERIENCES OF A YANK IN WAR ZONE

Hal McNutt Tells of Hitherto Censored Movements of A. E. F. in France. Close Calls Are Numerous.

Now that the censorship has been lifted the Yanks are being given a chance to make known their whereabouts during their stay in the war zone. The following extract from a letter written by Sgt. Hal McNutt, a former popular member of the class of 1919, gives an idea of where Hal has been and what he has witnessed in France.

"I don't know of a better piece of luck coming my way than to have been inducted into the sensations, scares, scenes and experiences of the real thing by degrees instead of all in one dose. There probably would have been more of us in the same class with a lad who went plain "nuts" at the start, had we not hit the line gradually. Our Belgian service proved to be only schooling, even if we did think we were winning the war when our boys went over the top and made it possible for the Tommies to occupy Kemmel Hill.

I got used to seeing buildings, and almost towns go sailing upward while we were at Ypres. Once up there I saw a couple of horses start skyward and I was sprayed with their blood as they sailed. The driver was about to ascend, too, but he didn't go far escaped without hardly a bruise. It wasn't until we started toward Berlin, just north and east of St. Quentin that I saw a fellow soldier take wings. Jerry had been shelling all about that white clay trench that morning, and we knew when we went into it that he could see us. Sure enough we hadn't been there half an hour before we had to hunt another shelter. Dugouts were scarce and the best we could do was to get into shell holes. It's not often that two shells hit in the same place, unless the gunner happens to be putting over a salvage, so we took chances on the shell holes. As fast as a shell made a hole away we went to it. About the fifth stop we made, one fellow was late getting there. A shell followed him and hit right at his heels as he ran. There was nothing but for that fellow to do but to go up, so up he went with his overcoat flying and his arms and legs swinging. How it ever happened no one knew but he wasn't touched even if he did have holes large enough in the tail of his coat to put his head through. It was another fellow's hard luck to catch a piece of shell in the shoulder, but the aviator wasn't even shell-shocked.

It was our turn at operating an advance dressing station September 29th instead of working the line as had been our lot. In twelve hours that day we received, dressed and evacuated twenty-seven hundred cases. Besides the medical or surgical treatment we tried to give every patient a cup of hot cocoa with a sandwich. Right there is where the Red Cross is on the job, for they supplied the patients comforts and made possible that little something to eat. That day we had Jerries working as litter-bearers, and one captured German medical officer was put to work treating his own men as they came in.

One night a bunch of us came almost getting ours, but we didn't. Jerry found out where we were and after three or four tries succeeded in taking off one end of the old brick building that had been made into a dressing station. Then a little later in came a big 9.2, through the wall of sandbags, on to the floor in the middle of the room. It bounced up against the wall on the other side and then fell to the floor. That shell was intended to explode by concussion, but by some crook it didn't. The room was full of patients, there were about a dozen litter cases and seven of us were on duty at the tables, all easy victims for such a shot if the machinery hadn't gone bad inside the shell. We handled that piece of steel and iron as if it were so much glass, as we got busy and put it outside, for fear it might wake up and start something."

Hal, with the other M. C. men overseas, expects to be back by June for the Centennial celebration.

FURTHER NEWS FROM SCRUGGS

Headquarters Group,
Classification Camp,
A. P. O. 762.

Dear Dr. Wilson:

Very many East Tennessee boys are in this neighborhood, within twenty miles of here. One man who was under Lieut. Wilson paid him a very high tribute for bravery. I saw Moulton, Baldwin, McNutt, and Hodges of their Division yesterday. I had to return immediately so couldn't see many of the boys. I have hopes of seeing many of them. Tracy Knapp, Bn. Sgt. Major, was near me for several days unknown to me. I saw his Service Record by chance. He is near here now, "but yet so far." It is difficult to get anywhere around here. We shall all be home soon.

Frank H. Scruggs.

MISS McLOCHLAN A NURSE IN FRANCE SINCE 1914

Miss Isabel McLochlan, A. N. C. who was college nurse in 1913-14, 1914-15, is stationed at Base Hospital No. 25, Allerey, France. Allerey is a large hospital center and is supposed to accommodate 10,000 men. She writes that during the big drives 22,000 men were often treated in one day.

Miss McLochlan volunteered for service in 1914 and was sent to France that year. While en voyage the ship in which she sailed had two exciting battles with submarines. The passengers, fitted with life belts remained on the top deck for two days at the end of which time the captains of the U-boats seeing the futility of their attack, withdrew from the combat.

THE Y. M. C. A. PROGRAM FOR THE WINTER AND SPRING TERMS

The object of these conferences is to stimulate enthusiasm, to breed encouragement, to promote close fellowship among the leaders, and to systematically arrive at the heart of the lesson, and agree upon a practical application to be used the next day. In this way each Group will focus its attention on the same cardinal points, and consider the same application. It is hoped that this will be the means of raising the high standard of Maryville to an even higher plane, thus aiding the student to make Christianity a practical basis for his every day life.

Space forbids a review of all the benefits of the organizations outlined above, but one important value of them will be the ease with which any campaign can be launched quickly, thoroughly and with a minimum of effort on any one person's part. A campaign would be introduced at the Leader's Conference and from there taken to the members of the respective Groups by the three leaders of that section, each man not having more than six others to interview.

WEEKLY FORUM

This will be held every other Sunday afternoon as a part of the regular afternoon meeting. The Forum will consist of a thirty minute discussion of an up-to-the-minute mission subject. Dr. Stevenson, the College Pastor, has been secured to lead the discussion which will consist in a brief introduction by the leader followed by a free-for-all discussion among those present. From time to time various members will be asked to report statistics or give other information. Thus a lively and interesting period is guaranteed.

Munay's book, "The Call of a World Task in War Time" will be used. A limited supply of there is now on hand, and will be furnished to those interested. The first Weekly Forum will be held on Sunday afternoon, February 2nd.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON MEETINGS

These will continue as usual except with the change noted above. Special effort is being made to increase the interest and attendance at these meetings by providing good music, and live-wire speakers. See under head of music for that phase of the work.

INNER CIRCLES

This is the last special feature of the religious work but it is by no means the least important. As the name indicates these Circles will be exclusively devotional. One Inner Circle will be conducted in every Group, on every morning except Sunday for just ten minutes before or after breakfast. A day's work properly begun with prayer and thoughtful reading of God's word, will fortify one against the trials and discouragements of the whole day, inspiring him with spiritual vitality. A booklet of daily Bible readings, and a Testament when requested, will be furnished each member of these Circles.

EDUCATIONAL WORK

The plans for the educational work consist of only those features which would supplement the curriculum of the college but not overlap it.

A number of lectures have been arranged for, to be given on the second and fourth Saturday evenings of the month immediately following the joint meeting of the literary societies, according to agreement of these organizations. The first will be given by Prof. Bassett on the evening of Feb. 1st. He will lecture on "Naples". Prof. Bassett never fails to interest as well as instruct those present when he relates his experiences abroad. This lecture is based on first-hand knowledge. At a future date, Dr. Graham will lecture on "A Pomegranate from Browning." This lecture has the endorsement of some of the leading men of the country and will no doubt draw a large crowd.

Others who have willingly volunteered their services are Rev. Alexander, Miss Belle Smith, Prof. Knapp, and Dr. Stevenson. It is the ambition of the General Secretary to provide means to have a number of these lectures illustrated, but no definite information can be given at this date.

Efforts are being made to get in touch with the proper authority from whom to obtain a number of purely educational moving picture films owned and circulated by the State.

The reading of the best current periodicals will be encouraged by a supply of eighteen weekly and monthly magazines for the Reading Room. Sixteen of these have been ordered and should begin to arrive within the next few days. These magazines have been carefully selected and represent the best dealing with science, religion, missions, fiction, physical culture, humor, and current events. Attention will be called to articles of especial merit by the use of placards and notices on the bulletin boards.

A number of pamphlets and booklets are ready for distribution and the following books on sex hygiene will be circulated: "The Rational Sex Life"; "The Dynamic of Manhood", and "The Life's Clinic."

SOCIAL HYGIENE EXHIBIT

From March 18 to 28, a Social Hygiene Exhibit prepared by the government will be held in Bartlett Hall. This will consist of a set of large card board posters displayed on a steel frame holder. A brief lecture on the charts may be given.

PHYSICAL WORK

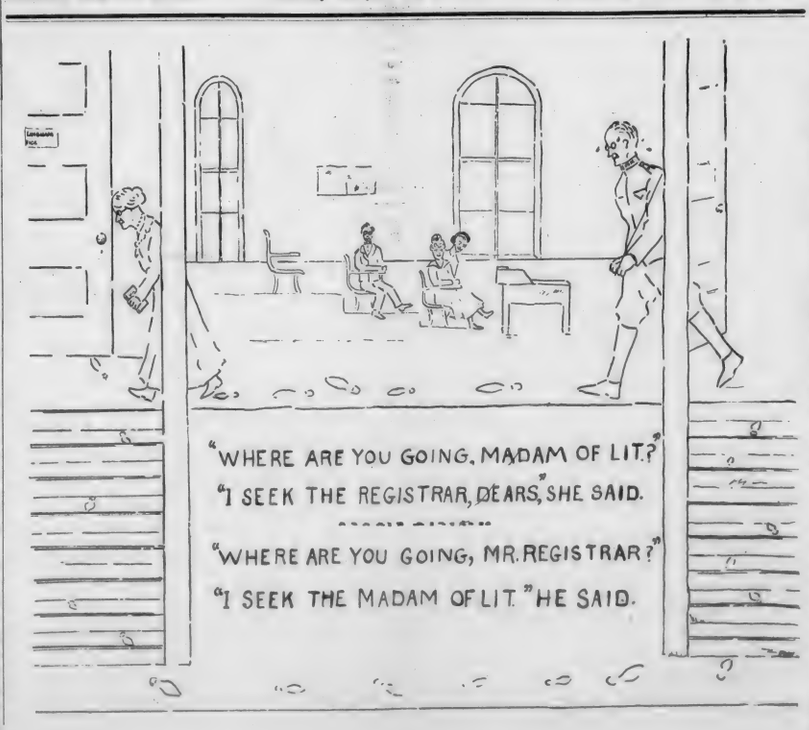
The leading feature of the physical program will be the Saturday afternoon athletic meets. These will be held from 3:15 to 5 oclock and will consist of mass games, competitive sports, and special features. Some times they will be held in the open and at other times in the gymnasium of Bartlett Hall, depending upon climatic conditions. The competitive features will be opened to all the Groups and their standing will be included in their total per cent for the week. In order to stimulate interest in the "Y" program, a list showing the relative standing of the Groups will be posted each week. This will depend upon attendance at the various meetings, participation in discussions, and other considerations.

Beginning next week, the gymnasium will be opened for the boys from 5:45 to 6:20, on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings. Free access will be given to all the apparatus. Suitable shoes and the proper use of the room, are all that will be required.

It is expected that the regular boys' gym classes will soon be in session in the mornings.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Two large rooms in Bartlett Hall have been fitted up for a Reading and Writing Room and a Game Room. Two pianos and a Victrola with fifty double-faced records have been placed there. The army writing material is furnished and a number of games, including Chess, Checkers, and Dominoes, are for the use of the boys. The evening daily paper and the magazines will be found in the Reading Room. For the present, the rooms are open from 5:45 to 6:20 on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings; on Sunday afternoons after the "Y" service, and on Wednesday and Friday from 3:15 to 5.



After this month, a social will be given on the fourth Saturday afternoon of each month in place of the regular athletic meet.

Arrangements have been made to use some space in the large bulletin board at the chapel entrance for announcements. Also watch the blackboard in the Reading Room and space in the Echo headed "Y. M.C.A. Bulletin" which will appear weekly.

The Secretary desires to be of the most service to the greatest number and to that end asks the co-operation of every boy on the Hill and his faithful participation in all the activities as outlined above.

Respectfully submitted for the approval of the male student body and the Faculty of Maryville College,

Cedric V. Miller,
President and Army Secretary.

ALPHA SIGMA

The Alpha Sigma Literary Society met Saturday night at six o'clock. There being a misunderstanding as to the time of meeting it was found that none of the ones on the program were present. Therefore business was first taken up. One of the important features of the business meeting was the presentation of three new names for membership.

The program was an interesting one. Mr. Horace Brown read in a pleasing manner two poems: "A Vision of War" and "A Vision of Peace". And then—oh boys—there came another one of those ever humorous, yet vitally interesting, extemporaneous debates. They are all interesting, but this one was more so, for it had a special appeal to the sense of taste. Oh no, not physical taste! The debaters tried to determine which is the more musical, the crow of a rooster or the cackle of a hen. But that question remains unsettled, and shall forever be so, it is believed. Yet it would not be wise to be harsh on the debaters, for they all did well, tho—as the censor said—not one of them proved a point.

Now boys, it is hoped that you see what you have been missing by not coming to the society meetings. Come out next Saturday evening at six o'clock.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

The first regular Student Volunteer meeting of the new year was addressed Friday night by Dr. Stevenson. The scripture lesson was taken from Mark 6 45-'5. Dr. Stevenson pointed out that adverse minds of criticism, worldliness, and fretfulness will come against all those who try to count in God's service. As Christ, watching from the mountain top, saw the fishermen toiling on the sea, so he knows our struggles, and comes to our aid. We reach our goal through faith and the help of divine power.

The sixteen Volunteers who were present appreciated the instructive talk and welcome Dr. Stevenson again.

The Band is enthusiastically planning to make its work this year the best yet. All who are interested in the greatest work of the age are invited to attend the meetings.

ALABAMA CLUB MEETS

The Alabama Club, eighteen strong this term, had an interesting meeting in Prof. Gillingham's room last week. One of the things they did was to elect:

Mary Louise Hayes - - - President
Annie Mae Faulk - Vice-President
Mildred Striplin - - - Treasurer
Martha Robison - Secretary-Editor

The members enthusiastically decided "to do something"—what, you shall hear later.

PLANS OF O. F. U. M. REVEALED TO PUBLIC EYE

Saturday morning at chapel, Prof. Brittain made a very stirring announcement, referring to the known fact that secret societies on College Hill are not tolerated. The announcement was of special interest to those now taking a course in view of an "M. M." degree. The plot as formed is disclosed in the following letter. Let all members beware!

Dear Mr. Brittain:

I hope you will believe what I say in this letter for it is true—every word. I do not like to tell you these things but I cannot endure to remain silent any longer, knowing as I do that something awful is likely to happen any moment.

I want you to keep what I tell you in strictest confidence for if they should find out that I have told you I know very well what would happen to me.

Of course, however, you may tell a few members of the Faculty privately so that they can take steps to protect themselves and the College.

You teachers do not know that there has been formed a secret society on College Hill known as the O. F. U. M. that holds secret meetings at night and is arranging to carry out some very serious plans. If you and the other teachers will just keep your eyes open you will see a few things that will prove to you that what I have told you is true.

This Secret Society held its most recent meeting last Tuesday night in the old barn back of Prof. Basset's house. For pass words they use a couplet:

"Beware, beware the Watchman is near;
And Walker is dangerous so keep your eyes clear."

I know that this is a very dangerous organization and I have reason to believe they are connected with the Bolsheviki movement as I have seen at least two of them stealing food from the Pearson pantry and four of them have not bathed for a month.

They have two main plans which they intend to carry out and as they are about to begin their work I am writing so as to warn you in time. These are their plans:

1. To kidnap Dean Barnes and hold him in a cave until a ransom of $10,000 is paid by the students and until he promises to remove all restrictions on moonshining—the letters O. F. U. M. standing for the name of the organization, Order of Free and Unlimited Moonshiners.

2. To seize Prof. Bassett and keep him imprisoned in a dungeon feeding him only bread and water until he agrees to marry some member of the Junior Faculty.

Now there is another thing I must tell you although I know it will make you feel very badly. I think you should know so you can be on your guard. I suspect that one of your own number, a member of the Senior Faculty, is at least in sympathy with these villians, if not actually associated with them, for this man, Prof. Gillingham, has been seen with some of these conspiritors and it is thought he is in sympathy with moonshiners in general as during his own College days he was a notorious moonshiner himself. And there is in this connection another suspicious circumstance. Of late whenever the subject of marriage or moonshining has come up he has been seen to cast his eyes toward Prof. Basset with an evil gleam in them.

I have written this letter in order that you may know in time to take steps to prevent the perpetration of these outrages.

Yours truly,
W. X. Y.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

At a recent meeting of the Cabinet it was resolved that an expression of appreciation should be published in the Echo to the girls who made the "Y" service flag. The result of their faithful labor can be seen in the auditorium of Bartlett Hall. The Cabinet appreciates the service rendered and takes this means of expressing its gratitude.

THEATRE

THURSDAY—Big Special Attraction "THE LITTLE GIRL WITHOUT A CHANCE" (This is not a moving picture), but a story dealing with the white slave traffic, showing the poor working girl's disadvantages in her class. This story has a wonderful moral, nothing done or said that will offend the most refined. This show played Staub's Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, and is said to be one of the best they have played this season. Prices 50c, 75c, and $1.00, seats on sale at the Box office now.

FRIDAY—"LION'S CLAW" No. 10, featuring Marie Walcamp and her den of trained lions, every inch a thrill and will keep you guessing what she will do next. This is a good serial. Fox will furnish the feature for today, entitled "THE MATING OF MARCELLA" featuring Dorothy Dalton, the girl with the dimple. This is a most wonderful story of love and romance, thrilling throughout and some thing you will long remember. This story will probably bring back memories of your romance days and in many instances remind you of the chances you have taken—down by the old mill—or some other secluded spot, where you would go to meet the one you loved unknown to the "Folks at Home".

SATURDAY—Ruth Roland in "HANDS UP" No. 13. Yes No. 13 is unlucky, but let's see who for we know our Hero and Heroine will escape, but how? And to what extreme test are they punished. A serial to please everyone. Also Gladys Brackwell in a Wm. Fox production "KULTUR", a drama of love, scandal and secret politics in the sensational drama of the draling of an Emperor Royal Courts of the central powers. A startling disclosure of the intrique that launched the war. The story of a beautiful Austrian Countess who gave her all for love and Democracy. A daring exposure of scandals and crime in the Royal Courts of Berlin and Vienna. An astounding revelation of the Teuton plot to rape Democracy. Behind every great event in the World's History wise men say there is a woman. Find the woman—after you have seen this picturee you will be convinced that the old saying—The hand that rocks the cradle rocks the world—is true. Also a Toto Comedy "DAD'S DUMPLIN".

MONDAY—"IRON TEST" No. 6, featuring Carol Holloway and Antonio Moreno. How will they escape the Red Mask, it seems certain that he will get them Next Time for it looks like there is no chance for escape possible, but then wait and see. Maybe they will get away again some how. Also a Helen Gibson Westerner, "ROSALIND AT THE GATE". War Review No. 23 all the latest War news, shown in pictures. The comedy for today is a Big V production entitled "FRAUDS AND FRENZIES", the funniest ever. You will laugh yourself 'most to death.

BAINONIANS TO GIVE "THE BLUE BIRD"

Maeterlinck's Famous Play Scheduled for Monday Evening, Jan. 27, at 8 O'clock.

To the people of Maryville and Maryville College two facts are well known, namely: on College Hill, there is Bainonian Literary Society, and all-over the world people are familiar with Maurice Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird". Bainonian and The Blue Bird! Such a combination is certainly enough to cause unheard of enthusiasm.

Of course it is a settled fact that Bainonian talent cannot be excelled both in quality and quantity, the crowded hall gives evidence to that every Saturday evening. And although the presentation of such a classic as the Blue Bird is rarely undertaken, Bainonian feels fully capable of doing so this year.

Did you know that the elements and animals, such as water and dogs possess souls? They really do, and on Monday night you may see these souls suddenly become visible and follow the Tyl children, as they search for the Blue Bird of Happiness, unto the Land of Memory, the Palace of Night, and the Kingdom of the Future.

Do you enjoy a hearty laugh? Then see the Blue Bird and enjoy several laughs.

Do you like gay and pretty scenes? If so, be at the college chapel at eight.

Would you be glad to see something unusual? Just come and—Oh, well look at this equation: (Maeverlinck's, Blue Bird divided by Bainonian Midwinter Committee) plus a Bainonian cast equals (a Monday evening minus Dulness) divided by (Loads of fun multiplied by beauty by one more good time.)

Tickets are now on sale—price fifteen cents—Don't miss the Blue Bird!

PERSONALS

Sgt. Roy Anderson recently of Camp Taylor, Ky., was a week-end visitor here.

Miss Rachel Sells has been a patient at the Lincoln Memorial Hospital, Knoxville, where she underwent an operation on her tonsils.

Miss Helen Horton has been entertaining Miss Hattie Hyden and Miss Grace Johnson of Harriman.

Jason Purdy of the Naval Reserves and Top Sergeant Luther McCurry of the Naval Training School, Hampton Roads, Va., have received their H. D.'s and have registered for this term's work.

Adli Striplin who is with the A. E. F. in France has written to his sisters here saying that he has received a number of copies of the Echo and that he and the other M. C. men with him have read them with great zest.

Miss Ruth Schenk spent the week-end in Knoxville.

Andy Norgan has come back after a year of army life. He says that there is no place like Maryville and that he is glad to be back. O fie, Andy!

Miss Elizabeth Souffon, who was called home on account of the sudden illness of her mother, has returned.

The Rev. T. J. Miles of Madisonville was a recent guest of his daughter, Emma.

Recently, a tank containing 2,000,000 gallons of "old lady" exploded in Boston killing a dozen persons. We suppose that now a substitute will have to be offered at Pearsons for the price will necessarily go up, and besides, insurance regulations wont permit the storage of explosives in a girls' dormitory.

CAMPUS QUIPS

Mamie Carol Ludeman defined a lib as follows: "An abomination in the sight of the Lord and an ever-present help in the time of trouble".

Could any one have ever guessed why the Dean never comes to the chapel at night without company. This is a confession he made in Psychology class but he doesn't want it to get out. "He is afraid of the dark, or he is afraid of that which is in the dark."

Speaking of Cats! Baldwin has been turned into a menagerie. There are sentinels at every door. The inhabitants of Pearsons can say as much for dogs but happily their bark is worse than their bite.

Wanted: to know how a certain member of the faculty grows hair. In case the remedy is not made public certain flu victims will have to resort to the wearing of skull caps.

In English: Mr. Kiger (illustrating reference to experience in "Love of money works evil"). If I should sell bad potatoes by putting a few good ones on top, that would be an instance of the evil influence of money."

Prof. Hunter: "A very good reference to experience."

Mr. Kiger: "Not to my experience, sir!"

Cotton: "You were sick, were you not 'Ignats'?"

Cecil: "Yep, I always frish 'em out of one week's work each term."

At last Ethel Burchfiel is wearing that coveted diamond ring. Those not concerned, beware!

The next meeting of the O. F. U. M will be held in Dean Caldwell's office. A definite time will be announced later.

Sewing is strictly forbidden in the girls' dormitories on Sunday.

A girl laughs and absentmindedly looks ot Elizabeth Mitchell who is passing by a table in the dining-hall.

The boy sitting next to the gigging girl asks her: "Why are you laughing?"

Girl: "O, I'm laughing at random."

Boy: "So that's random passing by."

ALUMNI NOTES

KLAMM—SECOR

Married, at the home of the bride's parents at Carrollton, Illinois, on December 26, 1918, Rev. Augusta C. Klamm and Miss Marcia Secor. Miss Secor is a graduate of Maryville in the class of 1913, a cousin of Prof. Davis and a sister of Miss Ina Secor, a member of this year's Freshman class. The groom is a student in McCormick Theological Seminary at Chicago, where he expects to graduate in the Spring. Mr. and Mrs. Klamm are at home at 2330 North Halsted St. The many Maryville friends of the bride extend their cordial good wishes.

Rev. Victor C. Detty and family who have been visiting with Mrs. Detty's parents in Maryville while Mr. Detty recovered from an attack of the flu, returned to their home in Huntsville last week.

1912.

Mr. O. L. Duggan, who has for some years been Assistant Pastor of the Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church, in Detroit, is now engaged in work with the Boy Scouts in Chicago.

1911-1914.

Mr. A. B. Waggoner, 1914, is located in Morristown, Tennessee, where he is managing a store for Miller Bros. A daughter arrived in his home a few months ago. Mrs. Waggoner was formerly Miss Blanche Proffitt of the class of 1911.

FORTY-SECOND SERIES OF FEBRUARY MEETINGS TO BEGIN SUNDAY

THE SERVICES WILL BE IN CHARGE OF DR. ELMORE OF CHATTANOOGA WHO WILL CONDUCT HIS EIGHTH SERIES OF MEETINGS AT MARYVILLE.

The forty-second series of revival services known as the February Meetings begin Sunday evening. Rev. Edgar A. Elmore, D. D., of Chattanooga will conduct the services this year for his eighth time. These meetings will last for ten days during which there will be a lull in class work.

The first February Meetings were held in 1877 in the old college chapel in Anderson Hall, and were conducted by Rev. Nathan Bachman, D. D., one of Maryville's greatest benefactors. Among the converts of this first series were Dr. and Mrs. S. T. Wilson, and the late Miss Margaret E. Henry.

The idea of a college Y. M. C. A. originated at this time in answer to a desire for the practical application of religion. From the very first, these meetings have wielded a powerful influence for good on College Hill; as many as 113 confessions having been made in one ten-day period. During this time a strong desire for personal service is felt and answered. The call has been answered by fifty per cent of Maryville's graduates, who are now laboring in active Christian work on home and foreign fields.

The men who have conducted these meetings, have for the most part been Maryville men in the service of Christ. The following is a list of the ministers who have conducted the meetings since 1877:

THE CENTENNIAL FUND CAMPAIGN RE-OPENS

Since November 11 that never-to-be-forgotten day in the world's history, and the return of affairs in civilian life to a normal basis, more attention is being given to affairs of local importance. The attention of Maryville College and her friends is focused, in this the Centennial year, on the plans for completing the raising of the $325,000 Forward Fund which was necessarily interfered with during the war period. The General Education Board recognizing the difficulty of getting money at this time generously extended the time limit one year, or until July 1919.

In order to meet the various conditions prescribed by the donors and thus to complete the Centennial Forward Fund the sum of eighty thousand dollars is yet lacking. Old Maryville who has so steadfastly served the youth of the country for a century has sufficient faith to believe that the full sum will somehow be pledged by the allotted time.

Do you desire to know what is to be done with Russia, with Irish Home Rule, with the Kaiser? If you are a patriotic American and a true Maryvillian you will be at the chapel Saturday night at 6:30. Will it be worth your time? Certainly, it is not every day that one has the great opportunity to hear and see the world's famed statesmen. Do you want to hear Paderewski play; see the Kaiser cry; hear great Woodrow soar in flights of oratory; see Bryan and his grape juice?

A wonderful comedy, a concert of artists, an inspiring entertainment free to all. Will YOU be there?

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM WINS FROM CUMBERLAND

An exciting and interesting game took place Friday night, January 24, at Williamsburg, Ky., between the girls of Cumberland College and Maryville College. It was a hard fought game from start to finish. At the end of the first half the score stood 10-6 in favor of the Cumberland girls. In the last half the Maryville girls held their opponets to no score and during the last five minutes of the game the ball was in the possession of the Maryville team almost continually. The final score was 13-10 in favor of Maryville.

The line-up was as follows:

THE BAINONIANS PRESENT MAETERLINCK'S PLAY "THE BLUE BIRD"

PEOPLE CROWD VOORHEES CHAPEL TO SEE THE FAMOUS PLAY THE PRESENTATION OF WHICH PROVED A GREAT SUCCESS.

No wonder the young men's literary societies gave up their Mid-winter. Competition with the co-ed societies always was too strong for the boys, but the combination of constantly increasing numbers and talent, and ceaselessly active originality and ambition on the part of the Thetas and Bainonians of the present generation seems to have reached such a degree of development this year as to set new standards of excellence even for the girls themselves. The writer, in reporting the excellent rendering of Maeterlinck's Blue Bird by the Bainonian Literary Society on last Monday night, congratulates himself, herself, or itself (as the case may be), upon two happy and fortunate facts: first, that praise spontaneously and sincerely accorded this splendid entertainment can in no wise obscure the lustre of the sister society's well-earned laurels of the previous Monday evening; and, secondly, that no praise ever so lavishly bestowed upon the Bainonian's accomplished actors, indefatigable committee, efficient director, stagemanager, and supernumeraries, would be considered by any of the one thousand delighted spectators as being exaggerated or extravagant.

To the readers of the Echo no explanation or synopsis of the Blue Bird will be necessary. The original story was somewhat shortened, but as the audience followed Tyltyl and Mytyl through the land of their dreams until their Christmas morning awakening found them back in their own humble but happy home, there was no feeling that any essential feature of the story was lacking, but on the other hand only the feeling of complete satisfaction in a good piece of work well done. Tyltyl, Mytyl, and their thousand admiring friends, all found the Blue Bird together, and are living "happy ever after."

It is not often that those "behind the scenes" receive their full share of praise for the success of what the audience sees. Nor do they often deserve such praise as properly belongs to the Director, Chairman, and their efficient helpers, whose originality, ingenuity, and activity produced the bewilderingly beautiful stage effects for the various scenes. You, patient reader, will find the names of some of these inconspicuous but praiseworthy workers at the end of this article; look 'em up and tell 'em, "Them's my sentiments, too!" The peasant's cottage room, with its wonderful clock from which issued the dancing fairies at the stroke of twelve, its fireplace, tub, churn, sugar and bread boxes, with their skilfully concealed living spirits, was a genuine achievement of artistic stage setting and good management. So, indeed, were all of the other scenes—the Fairy's Palace, the Land of Memory, the Kingdom of the Future, and the Leave Taking, but probably the most artistic of all was that of the Palace of Night. This scene was set in black with rigid, Doric symplicity, yet so effectively that one could easily imagine oneself to be in a great, heavy-columned corridor, forbidding in its darkness yet inviting in its depths, as one peered expectantly into its far-reaching background.

But the principal interest and excellence centered, of course, in the performers and the characters that they so well portrayed. The play was fittingly introduced by Miss Mary Heard, who sang "The Blue Bird", in her invariably pleasing manner, and was punctuated by the Orchestra, who also delighted the audience by their melodies. To generalize in praise of the actors would do no one justice, for there was no poor acting, no weak or insignificant actor or actress, and no part that was not appropriately chosen and artistically carried out. On the other hand, to give due meed of praise to each individually would not only outrun the arbitrary limits of the editorial yardstick, but exhaust the feeble efforts of the writer. Surely the fairies, whose chief delight is to hide themselves unselfishly in the happiness of others, will not be jealous, and the symbolic spirits of

M. C. PLAYS TWICE WITH KNOXVILLE "Y"

Highlands Win First Game On Home Floor and Lose The Second on "Y" Court With Close Score of 23-22.

The M. C. men's basketball team has met the Y. M. C. A. team of Knoxville twice within the past week and divided honors with them. The first game was played on the home court on Friday last and was carried off by the Highlanders by the score of 38-21. A large and enthusiastic crowd witnessed the game which was a "rough and tumble" affair from beginning to end.

The cue for the hottest part of the contest came in the latter half however when the visitors came within two points of tying the score. This was the only time they threatened M. C.'s early lead and they were soon left behind when Weisbecker, who went in during the latter half as guard, neatly placed four balls in the basket in rapid succession. All the other scoring was done by Brown and Cotton. Brownie upheld his reputation as a sure shot by getting seven field goals and tossing four fouls. Cotton almost invariably got the tip off and also scored six times. Briggs and Callahan were always on the job, keeping the scores of their opposing forwards down to a minimum. Sandberg was easily the star of the opposing team.

On Tuesday evening the second game was played in Knoxville and the "Y.'s" won by the close score of 23-22. The M. C. boys seemed lost on the large court in the city Y. M. C. A. building, but were beginning to get their bearings before the game was over. They were behind almost from the beginning, but were gaining rapidly toward the end of the game. It was a dull affair and quite a contrast to the first game. Brown was again the leader in scoring for Maryville, and Mabrey lead for Knoxville. McCall was severely injured during the first half when he fell and turned his ankle.

That U. T. game is coming so let's work up some pep.

Did you notice the new arch curtain at the mid-winter Monday night? We are gradually collecting a respectable set of curtains.

:--:--:--:

The feeling of spring pervades the atmosphere and house-cleaning naturally follows. Pearsons is leading in this sanitary work.

:--:--:--:

The students of Maryville offer deepest sympathy to the University of Tennessee in the loss of her honored president, Dr. Brown Ayres.

:--:--:--:

The time for the debate preliminaries is drawing near. There will be one good fight then. Just watch!

:--:--:--:

Friendly rivalry is a good thing but when it becomes unfriendly too many complications occur.

:--:--:--:

The orchestra did excellent work at both mid-winters and the players deserve great credit. Why can't we hear the orchestra more often? People appreciate something special now and then—, for instance, an extra chapel service. The orchestra would probably be glad to enliven such an occasion with new selections and the students would be more than glad to listen. Enuf said.

:--:--:--:

And the men are to have a glee club. Good work! It has always been a source of wonderment why there were not more musical organizations on the Hill. There is the talent without question. All that was needed was a strong hand to organize and keep going such a venture. Now the occasion has been met and since the men have started a glee club with a goodly number of singers included, the number will be sure to increase for the men will not drop so noble an undertaking. The students are awaiting the first performance of the men's glee club. Let's have it soon. And where are the girls? If there is one glee club there ought certainly to be another just to keep up a friendly rivalry. Once there was a girls' glee club as a picture in the 1918 Chilhowean testifies. But to be candid the club was mostly picture. Don't the girls like to sing? Of course. Isn't there some one who has enough spunk and pep to organize a girls' glee club? There ought to be. Can't the girls start a thing and keep it up? Try them and see. Girls, the eyes of the students are upon YOU.

DR. GRAHAM AGAIN THE SPEAKER AT Y. M. C. A.

The attendance at Sunday afternoon Y. M. C. A. meetings is greatly increasing. This is probably due to the constructive program which has given new life to the association. By the help of Mr. Davidson, violinist and Mr. Miles, cornetist, the singing is greatly enlivened.

The interesting subject discussed by Dr. Graham dealt with the origin of the Bible; why sixty-six books were accepted as of divine origin, and the others rejected. Referring to his former talk, he recalled the three sources of scripture: namely, ancient manuscripts, writings of fathers such as Polycarp, and various translations like that of St. Jerome.

"Our Bible", said Dr. Graham, "dates from the time of Martin Luther". It was Luther who antagonized the Catholic Church and declared that "The Bible and not the church was divine authority." He held to the principle that "Scripture is self-evidencing", that works of God's revelation only were scripture.

The speaker explained that scripture must be "congruous to the end of revelation" and that it must be a "historic revelation of God's self". No tradition or books not fulfilling these qualifications were accepted. Through centuries of belief and unbelief, we find people worshipping God in these four characters: Elohim, the creator; Elshaddai, the All Mighty; Jehovah, the I am that I am; and Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

NEW MORALE OFFICER NOW AT CAMP GORDON

The following article from "Trench and Camp", Camp Gordon, tells of an added honor which has come to a former Maryville man who is now serving in the army. It is expected that Lieut. McMahon will visit the college in the near future.

"Camp Gordon has a new morale officer in the person of Lieutenant Albert E. S. McMahon, who succeeded Major Samuel C. Black upon the latter's retirement from that post about a week or ten days ago.

Lieutenant McMahon is admirably fitted in point of training and army experience for the office into which he has come. He has been connected with army life some three years, going to the Mexican border when troops were first sent there with the old Second Georgia regiment, which later became the 121st infantry. In January, 1918, the lieutenant was offered a chaplaincy, but preferred line service, into which branch he went. He has since served as an instructor in the N. C. O. T. S. at Camp Gordon, first entering the morale department, which he now heads, some five weeks ago."

BAINONIANS PRESENT PLAY "THE BLUE BIRD"

the elements—fire, water, and light, and of the "ingredients"—bread, milk, and sugar, did so well and looked so beautiful that they will not complain, if only five characters are singled out of this all-star cast for special mention. So also, one may be sure, Night, with her ghosts and other attendants, will be satisfied. As for those who played the roles of the sterner sex, let them experience the insignificance of being mere men; it will give added touches of realism to their truly realistic performances. Perhaps Tylo, faithful dog, will howl if he is not specifically mentioned, but if he will but howl as well as he carried out his entire part in the play, we shall be glad to have him howl; the more, the better.

Dear little Tyltyl and Mytyy. Were ever two sweeter little children better represented by more accomplished artists? So well were these parts taken that it required a conscious effort, a sort of rubbing of one's mental eyes, to realize that these children were, in real life, respectively, a grave and reverend senior, Miss Marie Townsend, and an erstwhile and successful schoolmarm, Miss Mary Louise Hayes. Miss Gail Wilson, as Granny Tyl, and Miss Jessie Creswell, as Mummy Tyl, played their parts, also, in a fitness and finish of style and technique that greatly enhanced the charm and beauty of the story. As for Tylette, sly puss, already possessing the love of all the children and most of the old maids (if there were any) in the audience, she proceeded to win over all the rest, and thoroughly succeeded. When the play was over not one man in a thousand dared to say, or even felt like saying, "I don't like cats." Everybody liked Tylette, who is better known as Miss Jane P. Morton.

Now that you may know who all these maidens that filled Monday evening with such delight and drove dull care away really are, read for yourself their names and parts.

FRESHMEN COMPLETE ORGANIZATION

The Freshman Class organization was completed last week. Miss Irma Schwab was elected secretary to replace Miss Southland who did not return this term. Pink and white were chosen as class colors, and the white daisy as flower emblem. For a motto, "It is better to wear out than to rust out", was selected. Inter-class activities are being planned.

MOVIES AGAIN

"The Lad and the Lion", a picture rich in Arabian romance and scenery, was given by the movie department of the Y. M. C. A. at Bartlett Monday evening. Not a little interest is manifested in this attraction even when another entertainment is scheduled for the same evening.

MARYVILLE COLLEGE
1819-1918

REV. SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON, D. D., PRES.

I. ITS PAST. Founded in 1819 by the Synod of Tennessee, it now celebrates its Centennial, in continued service to the church and country. Thousands of its former students are scattered over the world.

II. ITS PRESENT. Its enrollment in 1918 was 748—347 young men and 401 young women—of whom 297 were collegians. 480 students from Tennessee, and 268 from 33 other states and countries. Its teaching force of 60 professors and assistants.

III. ITS PLANT. It has property of all kinds amounting to $1,100,000. Twelve buildings, including the new swimming pool; water works, sewerage, steam heat and electric lights. The campus contains 250 acres.

IV. ITS COLLEGE CURRICULUM. It offers nine groups of study leading to a B. SEASONED WARRIOR TELLS WAR EXPERIENCES

The following letter written to Drake by Frank Hall who has fought on five fronts in France and Belgium will interest the many friends of the "Hall boys" here and elsewhere:

"Flanders",
On Active Service with the American Expeditionary Force,
December 26, 1918.

Dear Teddy:

I have just finished reading the "Christmas Number" of the Echo, and I want to thank the person who is sending me the paper. It certainly has been a comfort to me during the last six months of my trials "over here". I am counting the days until I shall visit the dear old "Alma Mater" again.

We have been in the thick of it over here for the past five months, from the Eastern front to the Flanders front in Belgium. Our division has been on five fronts in as many months; the Lorraine, the St. Meheil; the Argonne, and two Belgium fronts. We were on the front when the Armistice was signed.

Our first Belgium drive, the forcing a crossing of the Lys river, the second, the forcing a crossing of the Escant river were certainly hard ones, but on both occasions our division, operating under the 6th French Army, as well as our regiment, was cited for exceptional bravery.

Our regiment bridged these rivers under shell-fire of the fiercest kind. In fact we could work only in short intervals as most of the time we were dodging shells.

Our last drive forced the Huns out of Ghent, a large Belgium city which they had occupied for four years. You should have seen the treatment we received at the hands of the Belgium people. They could not do enough for us. When we would march into a town they would run out to meet us shouting as loud as they could "Vive la Amerique". It certainly was touching.

On our return to France we hiked through "No Man's Land" and I never saw such a desolate looking place in my life—, not a tree or a house left standing, cities of ten to fifteen thousand inhabitants four years ago, nothing but brick piles. Since we have been in France we have hiked in heavy marching order over 450 miles. Heavy marching order means a pack weighing from 30-50 pounds, rifle, side arms bayonet, and 100 rounds of ammunition, gas mask and helmet, so you can imagine I am in good trim for football. A daily hike is usually from 18 to 25 miles.

Kindly remember me to all the boys at home, also all my friends at the College, especially the professors. Carl sends best regards.

Sincerely,
Frank Hall.

Y. M. C. A. BULLETIN

Attendance at the Group Meeting last Sunday was 78, an increase of 15. Make it 100 next Sunday.

Inner Circles are now on the schedule—, ten minutes of spiritual uplift each morning during the week.

Until further notice the gymnasium will be open after supper until 6:20 on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings.

The Saturday afternoon athletics will probably begin next week. Watch for announcements.

Mr. Luther Thomson has been appointed movie operator. In the future, an effort will be made to repair all films before showing in order to save delay.

See that your leaders attend the Leaders' Conference. This will insure interesting Sunday meetings, and pull up the relative percentage of your group.

Subscriptions for "Association Men" will be received this week at the special rate.

PALACE THEATRE

FRIDAY——Lions Claw No. 11, featuring the fearless film star Miss Marie Walcamp, the greatest lady animal trainer trainer in the world and the largest number of trained animals in existence. The feature for today is a Fox production starring the most popular kid actresses in the world, Jane and Katherine Lee in "SWAT THE SPY". This is a Melodrama on the German Spy System in America but taken from Facts. Current Event No. 86, also a Harold Lloyd Comedy "PIE FACE JACK"

SATURDAY—Ruth Roland in "Hands Up" No. 14 the Universal Serial Superior. Every chapter is packed jam full of thrills and hair-raising stunts. You don't know what is coming next; it will keep you guessing. We will also have a Western feature for today, the title will be advertised later. A Toto comedy one of the best yet, full of fun and laughter.

MONDAY—Iron Test No. 7 featuring Carol Holloway and Antonio Moreno the inseperable pair when it comes to pleasing and delivering the goods. This serial keeps you in suspense thru every minute. A Helen Gibson Western in two reels and a Big V comedy entitled "Frauds and Frenzies". Also War Review No. 24, all the latest war dope. This show is educational and entertaining.

TUESDAY—Robert Warick in "The Mad Lover". This is a drama with many comedy touches and with a climax that contains a big punch. It tells of a husband who wrongly suspects his young wife of unfaithfulness. Crazed by this one thought he attempts her life but just at that point things begin to develop so the happy ending. Elaine Hammerstein takes the part of the wife. Also Brass Bullet No 9. This serial is getting real interesting and shows you some of the clever stunts that can be done with an aeroplane. They are not so impossible after all and some day you may own one and this will give you an idea of the thrills you will experience. Also a good comedy. Don't forget the Keith Vaudeville in Maryville, itc osts us something to bring this show here, but we want to see what you like best and we are willing to take a shot on anything that we think will please U for it is you individually that we are trying to entertain. If you want to see some special picture call us up and let's have a friendly talk about it and you will find that we want to do our best to give you the best in entertainment, so speak right up. Let us hear what you have to say.

PERSONALS

Mr. Harry Holliday of Roanoke, Va. recently visited his cousin, Miss Jessie Creswell.

Miss Susan Carson has returned after enjoying the flu at her home in Madisonville.

Miss Lillie Briggs who was called home on account of illness returned Monday.

The flu claimed for its choicest victim Miss Helen Newell who is now around after enduring the disease for an unusual length of time.

The Misses Stella Murphy and Frances Houser of Knoxville were week-end guests of Miss Catherine Wilson.

Miss "Buzz" Crowe of Middlesboro, Kentucky visited recently with old friends.

Miss Ina Secor entertained, Saturday evening at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Davis, in honor of Miss Frances Houser. There were "eats" in abundance and a general good time was enjoyed by the invited guests.

Lieut. G. A. LaBelle, Commander of the Maryville S.A.T.C. unit that was, writes that he is enjoying a rest at Ashland, Oregon after a strenuous two weeks in Chicago. He says that he misses Maryville and wishes many times that he were back with the boys.

THETA EPSILON ELECTS CARMEN PARK PRESIDENT

There was an election of officers at the business session of Theta Saturday night before the program was given. The new president is Carmen Park; Vice-President, Genevieve Tetedoux; Recording Secretary, Helen Horton. Sarah Lee Lloyd was elected Treasurer; Sue Nuckols, Program Secretary, and Maude Hite, Sergeant at Arms. Such a corps of leaders and workers assures the members that progress and efficiency will as truly mark the new term's work as they have characterized that of the past.

The program:

Piano solo - - - Stella McCrill
Reading - - Valle Higginbotham
Vocal Duet - - - Misses Purdy
Letters of a French Nurse - - - - - - - - Janet Ensign
Piano Duet, - - Lucile Middleton
Mabel Ritchie

If a pen could picture a good time or more words adequately express appreciation business and program would be ruled out of this article. All space would be devoted to the hour the Thetas spent at the "House in the Woods" last Friday evening after the "Doings of Dorothy" had been given at Rockford. But the happiness felt in the home atmosphere of the "House in the Woods" is akin to that one knows in ones own home—and for this pleasure and the kindly thought that planned Friday evening for them, the Thetas thank Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson.

CAMPUS QUIPS

A SAD STATE OF AFFAIRS

"Bob" Bartlett staring into space causes Cotton to say:

"Aw! Come out of it, Bob!"

Bob: "I can't. It's easy to get in but I can't get out."

The subject was "Love".

BANG!

Zip! Snip! Snip! And there was a bang. Zip! Snip! Snip! And there was another. So the story goes. Now there are numerous bangs on the campus. Yea, banging has become THE style.

THERE IS NOTHING LIKE OPTIMISM

The patient one who waits in Pearsons parlor when he knows the basketball game has commenced: "She said that she would be here by seven. My watch must be wrong."

"Women are not friends to one another—they are text books."

ALPHA SIGMA WELCOMES FORMER MEMBERS

The Alpha Sigma Literary Society is very much alive these days. Last Saturday evening great interest was shown, there being a large attendance.

The program was unusually good. A male quartet was the first feature of the evening. The singers sang well and were heartily encored. This quartet, by the way, was made up of members of both societies and sang in both halls during the evening.

Mr. Joel Georges, in a very interesting way, gave an oration on "The Theory of Flight". This was a concise, and well illustrated treatise on the theories put in practice in the building and manipulation of the modern aeroplane. Mr. Georges has been in the aviation section of the service and was well prepared to give such a treatice.

Next Mr. Adams delighted the listeners with a beautiful and well rendered piano solo.

The debate, "Resolved, that Bolshevism should be stamped out of Russia", was a very interesting and a very profitable one. The debaters showed in their arguments much preparation and forethought. They were, Mr. Chester A. Osborn and Mr. Isaac Husky on the affirmative; and Mr. Luther Johnson and Mr. Stacy Howell on the negative.

After the debate three old members who have been away in the service spoke. Messrs. Turner, Purdy, and Norton told of their appreciation of the Alpha Sigma Society and of its benefits to them.

Three new members took the oath of allegiance and one new man was accepted for membership.

PRAYER MEETING LED BY MISS CALDWELL

Miss Caldwell, the Dean of Women, led the Thursday evening prayer service, taking for her theme, "The Work of the Leaders."

The speaker called attention to the fact that in all the variety of the leaders of the Bible, there were no two with the same characteristics, but each one had a cause for which to give his life.

Examples from the Bible from Eve to Esther in the Old Testament, and Mary, Anna, and Lydia in the New Testament, were cited to illustrate the characteristics present in different leaders. Some of these qualities are to be imitated while others should be discarded as unfit for a true leader.

Contrary to a popular idea, God has not limited men to their opportunities. What is needed is for men to meet their opportunities and use what they have. Leadership is not always restricted to the person of many talents. The "left-handed" service, which does the less important acts, is as necessary as the "right-handed" service, which accomplishes the big tasks. The very number of the people in the former class, make them a powerful force. The Master by His acts and example recognized the importance of this type.

Opportunities are like ports, which open and also close every day. In order to take advantage of these and develop leadership, it is necessary to guard against certain hindrances. The first of these is timidity—being afraid of one's limitations. The second is selfishness—the reluctance to give up pleasures in order to help someone else. Thoughtlessness is another great hindrance.

Obligations come in the same ratio as opportunities. Those who have the privilege of acquiring an advanced education, also have the obligation of leadership. An urgent necessity impels such a person to measure up to his opportunity.

In conclusion, the speaker emphasized three ways in which every Maryville student can be a real leader in the February meetings; namely, to support the meetings by his presence, to invite someone else, and lastly to pray for them.

DR. WILSON ON RETURN FROM CHICAGO TRIP ADDRESSES STUDENTS

FORWARD MOVEMENT DISCUSSED: RAISING OF THE FORWARD FUND; MOVEMENT OF THE BOYS TOWARD HOME; AND FORWARD MOVEMENT IN CHARACTER DURING THE MEETINGS.

The chapel exercises Thursday morning were brightened by the presence of Dr. S. T. Wilson who returned from a middle-western trip in order to be on the Hill at the opening service of the February Meetings.

In his speech, following the devotional service, Dr. Wilson said there were three subjects about which he would speak and the word "forward" could be applied to each.

First, the Forward Fund was discussed. The campaign for this Fund of $325,000 was begun in 1916 but was somewhat delayed because of war conditions. In this the Centennial year and the last year allotted by the General Education Board for the raising of the prescribed sum, eighty thousand dollars remain to be subscribed. It is imperative that the Forward Fund be raised for the college has grown too rapidly for the funds on hand. There are already twenty classes which should be divided but which cannot be because of a lack of money with which to employ additional teachers. As a result of heavy schedules the teachers already employed are unreasonably overworked. It is needless to state that they are underpaid. Last year the coal bill alone raised the expenses $5,000.

It will not be long until Maryville will require a $2,000,000 endowment fund. At present a similar fund of $400,000 inadequately meets the growing expenses of the school.

Dr. Wilson said that while he was away he spent a week in Cincinnati planning a bulletin on annuities. The college is paying annuity on $240,000 of invested funds. It is hoped that this sum will be greatly increased in the near future.

Second, the forward movement of the boys toward home was spoken of. Everywhere one meets the home-coming soldier and sailor. Some are returning more physically fit than when they left, while others are coming back having been wounded, and maimed in the service of their country. What will be the attitude of those who remained behind toward these crippled heroes who come back? It is their duty to make life enjoyable and profitable for these men. And then there are those who will never come back in this life. The twenty gold stars on the service flag bear eloquent testimony of their sacrifice—a sacrifice which we the living will always remember.

Lastly Dr. Wilson spoke of the forward movement in character in the February meetings. The students should volunteer for Christian service as willingly as men did for the service of home, country, and humanity. The call of Christ for enlisted men comes even above the call of country.

In conclusion, Dr. Wilson said that his greatest desire for the Maryville man and woman was that he should have character, be unselfish, and finally have eternal happiness.

OVER THE TEA-CUPS

On Monday afternoon at "The House in the Woods", the Equal Suffrage League entertained its faculty associate members and other guests at tea. The gloomy, rainy afternoon kept none away, but served rather to create an atmosphere of cosiness and charm. Mrs. Stevenson, as patroness, poured tea. Ponderous subjects were discussed over the cups, and the soft glow of the candle light and the attraction that sandwiches and tea have for normal human beings made all loath to leave the tea-table.

The guests present were: Professor and Mrs. Gillingham, Professors Bassett and Knapp, Mrs. Alexander, Miss Elizabeth Smith, Madame Dennee, Miss Green, Miss Bliss, the Misses Bernice Jones, Rachel Sells, Mildred Campbell, Celeste Moseley and Helen Park.

SOPHS ENJOY PARTY

The Sophs enjoyed a big "feed" in the gym Monday afternoon. Miss Bliss chaperoned and added considerably to the afternoon's enjoyment.

MARYVILLE DEFEATS MARTHA WASHINGTON

Miss Bailey Stars by Making Eleven Field Goals. Final Score 28-3. Sophs and Fourth Preps Play Fast Game.

The girls' basketball team defeated Martha Washington last Friday evening, 28-3. The game was witnessed by the largest crowd to date and the rooting was attempted in a more systematic way than heretofore with a cheer leader to conduct the yells. Let's save all the enthusiasm we have worked up and have it ready for the games with U. T. after the meetings.

Miss Bailey featured in this game by making eleven field goals. The M. W. girls were unable to score in the first half and only succeeded in making three points during the last half.

A class game of ten minute halves was also played between the Fourth Preps and Sophomores. The prep team won 19-8.

The first half was played before the girls' game and the last half during the intermission. This was the fastest game played on the court this season.

The interclass series is being arranged by a special committee and games will begin in the near future.

MEETING OF ADELPHIC UNION A SUCCESS

Classical Music and Readings Together With The Seriousness and Jest of The World Statesmen Furnishes a Varied Program.

"Let a man do a thing incomparably well and the world will make a path to his door, tho he live in a forest."

The world is always appreciative of real ability. Maryville is not unlike the rest of the world. Ability may be sought any where; but it is sure to be found in the chapel at the date of a program showing certain names. Inhabitants of Carnegie, Pearsons, and Baldwin did not need to blaze a new trail; but had only to follow the big, broad walk and their inclination to the chapel Saturday night.

The occasion of the second joint meeting of the four literary societies found the front seats occupied. The auditorium was well filled. The impatience and curiosity of the audience awaiting the program were satisfied as the performers appeared.

Each of the first four numbers of the program was persistently encored. The male quartette sang "Sweet Kentucky Babe", following this favorite with a touching little new song, "The Old Family Toothbrush." Miss Mary Emma Armentrout played Chaminade's beautiful "Autumn", and gave as encore "Octave Intermezzo". Mrs. Edwin Ellis delighted her hearers with two readings. "A Scene from Othello", and "The Fisher Maid". Miss Marie Townsend made vivid to her audience an incident from "The Reign of Terror" as given in "The Minuet" by Louis N. Parker.

The Peace Conference met in mortal argumentative combat. The engagement was terrible; the firing constant; the missiles sharp, long, and innumerable. The German tongue alone was bridled. The people present at the final session need no written summary to make lasting the impression received of the world's greatest artists at play; the earth's greatest eaters at work; athletes in motion; and orators, rising to heights of eloquence, in action. After five year's deliberation a satisfactory disposition was made of every international trouble. In securing justice for all, the President of the United States wept, but he was not moved by the Kaiser's tears. The Kaiser's fear of "no place in the sun" became his fate.

SOLDIERING IMPRESSES NEED OF HIGHER EDUCATION

If the hopes of former M. C. army and navy men yet in service are realized by fall the enrollment of men in September ought to progress by leaps and bounds. One of the most recent to express his desire of being at Maryville next fall is James P. Reagon of the 66th Aero Squardon which is part of the Army of Occupation. Reagor says further that he has received the Echo and he thanks the person who made it possible for him to receive the paper.

DEBATE PRELIMINARIES HELD MONDAY AFTERNOON IN BARTLETT HALL

ALL THE OLD INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATERS MAKE TEAM. MISS LEWIS WILL REPRESENT THE WOMEN. TUSCULUM FIRST OPPONENT LAST OF MARCH OR FIRST OF APRIL.

Intercollegiate debates have long since taken their place on the calendar of the school year at Maryville, and this year will prove no exception. The Forensic League, which controls all debating contests, has arranged a debate with Tusculum to come the last of March or the first of April on the question. "Resolved: That the United States Government should control all means of Interstate Transportation for a period of five years after the conclusion of Peace". With such a good question for debate, the interest among those who compose the team, is at the highest pitch.

The preliminaries for the team were held Monday afternoon in Bartlett Hall. Twelve contestants tried out for the honor of representing Maryville against her ancient rival, Tusculum, and from these contestants the teams were chosen. The teams will consist of the following debaters: Adams, Briggs, Forrest Brown, Helen Lewis, Turner, and Weisbecker, with Horace Brown and Johnson as alternates.

Adams is the veteran debater of the Hill, having been on intercollegiate teams for three consecutive years, winning every debate he has entered. Briggs with two victories over Tusculum during the past two years, will add greatly to the team with his experience. Helen Lewis has been prominent in this line although not in intercollegiate debates, but she has taken part in interclass debates. Judge Turner, on the Carson-Newman team three years ago, and with a gift of gab rarely found, will undoubtedly strengthen the team. Weisbecker with two years prep debating to his credit and as alternate last year on an intercollegiate team, is well steeped in the debating principles, and will lend his lustre to the defenders of the Orange and the Garnet. Forrest Brown, altho new on the Hill, showed his temper in the preliminaries, and the uncovering of his talent may mean the winning of more than one debate for Maryville in the future. The alternates, Horace Brown and Johnson can be depended on to do their share of the work. Credit should not fail to be given to those who tried out for the team but were not among the lucky ones. It is only through strong competition such as was given Monday afternoon, that Maryville will bring forth her best talent and win debates.

Professor Hunter will serve as chief coach for the teams, altho other professors will help. The placing of the debaters upon the affirmative or negative side of the question will be done this week, and then watch the fur fly!

LIEUT. G. P. HOWARD OF 117TH INFANTRY ADDRESSES STUDENTS

One of the first chapel talks of the year was given last Wednesday morning by Lieut. Geo. P. Howard. who was in active service with the 117th Infantry in its drive against the Hindenburg line last summer. He was wounded and was sent to Totsham hospital in England, and later was transferred to the convalescent home, Ford Manor. On December 28th, he sailed from Southampton, England for America.

Lieut. Howard, whose home is in Benton, is a former pupil of Polytechnic. He enlisted in 1916, and served on the border as a brother officer in Company A. with Lake Russell. Later he was stationed at Camp Sevier.

The speaker expressed his profound gladness to be back from the scenes of war, and intimated that he might, in the near future, become a student at Maryville. He said that his great lesson from the war was the need of an education and a broader understanding of the new life. "The greatest things in the world are the church and the school", he declared.

An interpretation of Robert Service's war poem, "Jean Dupree", formed a very fitting conclusion to Lieut. Howard's talk.

THE SUPREME HONOR ROLL OF MARYVILLE

Nineteen Gold Stars on the Service Flag Represent The M. C. Men Who Died While In The Service of Their Country.

The following is a complete list, according to the knowledge of the office, of the men whose names compose the Supreme Honor Roll of the college:

LIEUT. CECIL J. FRENCH—Killed in action in France.

LIEUT. THOMAS W. GODDARD—Killed in action in France on June 1, 1918. He was a First Licutenant in the Seventh Machine Gun Battalion. He was struck by a shell while bringing up ammunition, a service for which he volunteered.

LIEUT. MILTON L. HARPER—Killed in action October 8, 1918.

CLAUDE O. LOWE— Instructor Aviation Department, United States Army, died from accident, March 26, 1918, at Arcadia, Florida.

Watch for a big announcement the latter part of February.

:--:--:--:

What became of the women who voiced their intention of trying out in the debate preliminaries?

:--:--:--:

The Echo will not be published next week because of an absence of student activities during the period of the February Meetings.

:--:--:--:

When it comes to pep the new cheer leader is right there. With a little more support he could make the welkin ring. How many of the students think a fellow enjoys getting out on the floor and rah, rahing by himself? That is the position the cheer leader found himself in Friday night. And yet a good many of the same people who would not respond to a call for cheers at the proper time, did not fail to make known their presence, and unpleasantly too, at most inopportune moments. Something is radically wrong. The entire student body cannot be accused of discourtesy and yet the thoughtlessness of a few may bring this reproach upon the college. Size yourself up. If you have been guilty, take a course in psychology under the Dean next term or if you have already done so, make practical application of some of the lessons you have learned. Let's have pep but let's display it on the proper occasion.

Yes, the students need pep and yet more pep. There has been a noticeable absence of it this year. Not only has this lack of spirit been noticed when it comes to cheering, but in the work of the literary societies, in religious undertakings, and in enterprises of whatever sort. The one who would start something going is disheartened at the off-set by the unresponsive attitude of the people who could make a great success of the venture if they choose. Interest and co-operation are needed and needed badly.

Let's go Maryville! Let's make the remainder of this year one of pep and action.

An anonymous communication has been received in answer to the editorial in the Echo of Jan. 23 which editorial protested against the use of the O. T. S. hat-cord by those not entitled to wear it. The letter just received cannot be published because it is contrary to the rules of the Echo to print an article the author of whom is unknown. This letter was signed by "A Prep". He said Lieut. LaBelle made the statement that the red, white and blue hat-cord was absolete in the U. S. Army and that it was all right for the members of B company to wear it. We think Lieut. LaBelle was exceeding his authority when he allowed it to be worn. It is as up-to-date as any other hat-cord in the army and has a meaning as distinct as any other.

It is still being used in all the training camps over the country, and denotes the highest rank of any hat-cord except the gold and black of the commissioned officer. It was the dream and ambition of every member of A company to be given the privilege of wearing it.

It is still being used in all places where a soldier is only alowed to wear the insignia he properly deserves. Any abuse would not be tolerated. We have no objection to the wearing of leather puttees, but are still convinced that the unauthorized use of the O. T. S. hat-cord is an injustice to those entitled to wear it. —R.S.

THE ATHENIANS HOLD GOOD MEETING JAN. 25.

Saturday evening, Jan. 25, the Athenians, together with many visitors, met in the Athenian Society Hall, and enjoyed a splendid program.

A quartet was the first number of the evening. This, as all who were present know, needs no comment. For the second number Horace Moore read a parody on "The Charge of the Light Brigade." And then there came the usual debate, accompanied by it's usual pep. The question, Resolved that aid should be sent to Siberia to help destroy Bolshevism, was upheld on the affirmative by Lee Herndon and James Ensign, and pulled down on the negative by Chester Moore and Bert Jody. Indeed the efforts for supremacy will not be forgotten soon, even by the negative who suffered the defeat. The final number was "Spices", given by Fount Robinson. He was not interrupted more than four or five times by the applaud of the attentive audience.

Then came the interesting part to all old members, as well as to many new ones that happened to be in the business part of the meeting. Listen! Seventeen names were presented and accepted for membership; and because there was not likely to be a separate meeting for several weeks, the motion that all of those present whose names were presented be taken into active membership, was made and carried. The following men then came forward, and took the oath of allegiance for membership: Charles Murry, Dewey Shaver, C. S. Hicks, Laurence Crawford, Vernon Flowe, Laurence Kennedy, Gordon Holmes, Meals Baas, Ralph Ingle, Edgar Martin, Leroy Nicholson, Charles Neace and Donald Buchanan.

Y. M. C. A. BEGINS WORLD FORUM SERIES

The first of the World Forum series was conducted Sunday afternoon by Dr. Stevenson. The subject for discussion was "The Call for reality in religious life."

The need for a new national spirit, a Christianity of a high moral order for nations as well as individuals was emphasized. Christianity as the only hope of democracy must be the code and standard of republics. Just as the whole is no greater than the sum of its parts, the nation is no greater than the sum of its citizens.

The Forum will alternate with the regular Y.M.C.A. meetings, the next one coming on February 16th The subject will be "The Call for Christian Internationalism." The class is studying Murray's "The Call of a World Task". Anyone desiring these books for study can get them from the secretary, Mr. Miller.

CONCERNING THE COLLEGE ORCHESTRA

As leader of the college orchestra for the past three years I wish to offer a few words of thanks for the editorial paragraph in last week's Echo regarding our recent playing and asking why the orchestra does not play more frequently.

This desire for more orchestra music seems to mark a stage when the students have come to realize the place which an orchestra can fill in college life and the demand for more organized efforts along this line. Such organizations in the past have only been temporary and have not been thoroughly trained, dependable units, able and competent to add cheer, zest and diversification to any public event.

Charles Alexander, the noted gospel singer, once developed a band here, then Prof. C. W. Henry and later Prof. Hall. Also Miss Wilson had an orchestra at one time, but these have all been transient, incomplete and therefore regrettable.

Now there are only two ways in which to have a good band or orchestra: one is to get players and the other is to make players. Getting players means inducing students of musical ability to come here by offering them special tuition rates, room-rent or such recognition. But this method is not practiced by the college, though, frankly, I think more would be gained than lost if such a policy were adopted and musicians advertised for.

The other way—of making a musician simply means taking the raw recruit and hammering it into him by daily drill. But under a college curriculum a daily drill period for say fifteen students from all classes is next to impossible to arrange, and let me say emphatically only a daily workout would accomplish anytihng. Just take up a horn or a vliolin if you will, and see how far you get even at the end of two years. Dr. Stevenson even secured new band instruments last year, but lack of talent and opportunity for practice has made a band impossible.

We do not like to consider Maryville College behind other institutions, but if on the same standpoint we believe ourselves superior, even so must we admit ourselves lacking if other colleges have these organizations and we have them not. Pardon the personal allusion, but when I attended Berea College we had an orchestra that played for the college Sunday School and night service, accompanied for the annual Christmas Messiah Concert as well as other public occasions. We also had a band that played for ball games and even gave a concert of its own. From Berea I went to Syracuse University, N. Y. and there each bandman was granted a $60 scholarship, and the band not only played for all athletic events and debates but also furnished the commencement music, I mention these items merely because they show what goes on elsewhere.

Now it may seem strange to many that I a local business man should come over to the college and play a fiddle, but I attended M. C. myself six years and have an intimate reason for wanting to see such an organization flourish. Once a bandman always so, and an old student likes to have an active connection with his Alma Mater.

Each year I have contributed my own music, lent my bass viol and even brought over friends to give further aid. This year also I was chiefly responsible for securing Prof. Garratt to conduct the Violin Department as he himself will tell you.

Yes, what we should have is more music, better music, lively music and also high class music. We should have a live band and a more active orchestra, and the orchestra rehearsals at present should be better attended and manifest a better spirit of co-operation.

Students, make your desires in this matter felt and let us take some forward steps, otherwise I intend to desist after this year.

Very sincerely,
Chas. B. Tedford.

MARYVILLE COLLEGE
1819-1918

REV. SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON, D. D., PRES.

I. ITS PAST. Founded in 1819 by the Synod of Tennessee, it now celebrates its Centennial, in continued service to the church and country. Thousands of its former students are scattered over the world.

II. ITS PRESENT. Its enrollment in 1918 was 748—347 young men and 401 young women—of whom 297 were collegians. 480 students from Tennessee, and 268 from 33 other states and countries. Its teaching force of 60 professors and assistants.

III. ITS PLANT. It has property of all kinds amounting to $1,100,000. Twelve buildings, including the new swimming pool; water works, sewerage, steam heat and electric lights. The campus contains 250 acres.

IV. ITS COLLEGE CURRICULUM. It offers nine groups of study leading to a B. A. degree: Classical, Modern Languages, Science, Mathematics, Education, English, Literature and History, Psychology and Philosophy, Social Science and General. Fifteen units are required for admission to the freshman class. A two-year premedical course is offered.

V. ITS OTHER DEPARTMENTS. 1. Preparatory. 2. Bible Training. 3. Teachers. 4. Home Economics. 5. Agriculture. 6. Bookkeeping. 7. Music. 8. Expression. 9. Art.

VI. ITS MORAL ATMOSPHERE. The College is strongly Christian, and the discipline is careful. The Students' spiritual welfare is the first concern. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are very efficient. The Bible is the required text book.

VII. ITS INEXPENSIVENESS. 1. Tuition is $6.00 a term. 2. Room rent for each student with two in the room, $18 to $35 a year. 3. Board in Cooperative Club of 500 is $2.25 per week. 4. Text books rented. General library free. 5. Opportunities for selfhelp afforded.

DARE YOU REFUSE?

College women, do you know that in India not one girl in twenty-five is in school, and that the overwhelming proportion of those who are, does not advance beyond the primary grades? That of one hundred and forty million women of India, less than a million can read and write; forty million are lifelong prisoners in a condition worse than death; while the child widows alone number twenty-five millions; a hundred thousand of them being under ten and twenty thousand under five years of age. They are crying in their distress for deliverance from the chains that have held them bound in darkness so long. You have everything in your hands they need—health, education, ideals, the Bible, Christ. Will you refuse to take these gifts where they belong?

College men, do you know that with a population equal to all Europe save Russia, and more than double that of North and South America, a population which represents a fifth of the inhabited world crowded into one-thirtieth of its area, India has less missionaries than New York City alone? Yet it has four times the population of the entire United States! If the United States had the same proportion of missionaries according to the population as India has, Chicago would have but one minister or doctor and New York but two! In one large province there is just one missionary to 1,000,000 people. A close study of India reveals the fact that there are more than 100,000,000 unevangelized, beyond the utmost reach of the present force of workers. Filth, disease, and famine are on every hand yet there are not enough doctors to save one life out of every thousand. Is there such need for you at home, as a teacher, a minister, a doctor? DARE you say you have not heard the call to foreign service when millions are crying aloud in their bitter need to America, to you? Can you say "no"?

VESPER SERVICE BEGINS FEBRUARY MEETINGS

The first of the series of February Meetings was conducted by Dr. Stevenson at the usual vesper hour. His text was taken from Acts 16:13, "What Must I Do to Be Saved?"

The College Pastor vividly described the circumstances attending the asking of the above question by the Philippian jailer. He showed that the jailer needed material and moral light at this time. Paul's mission to Philippi was to serve Christ by telling others about Him. A woman, Lydia, was his first known convert in Europe. The jailor was no greater sinner when he questioned Paul than he was before, but he now saw his sin. The man who is in the most perilous position is the one who does not recognize his condition.

What must be had before salvation comes? The answer is belief in the Lord Jesus Christ. Two things are needed: forgiveness of the past, and fitness for the future. These cannot be attained by one's own efforts, even by sacrifices or sufferings. God does for the sinner what the unsaved one cannot do for himself. In order to receive the benefits of all that Christ did, the person must believe and have faith. Many unconverted people think if they could see, hear, or touch Christ that they would believe. In that case faith which is necessary for salvation would not be needed, and the words of Peter could not be applied "Whom having not seen, ye love; in whom, though now ye see him not, yet believing, ye rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory."

BURNETT SMITH DIES IN FRANCE

An article in the Newport Herald January 15, 1919 gives the following account of the death of Burnett Smith a popular Maryville student of 1906-07, 1907-08.

"Last Saturday a message from Washington was received by George F. Smith, announcing the death of his son, Burnett, somewhere in France. The message read:—

"Deeply regret to inform you that Private Burnett Smith, Medical Department, died of pneumonia about Dec. 18th."

No further news has been received of his death, and the family do not know exacty where he was when he died.

He was working in the Evacuation Hospital, and the last letter from him was written from Chillonville, at which time the Hospital was being moved to some point which he did not mention.

He enlisted in the Medical corps at Washington City, Dec. 5th, 1917, and was sent to Ft. Oglethorp, near Chattanooga. He remained there in training until last May, when he was sent to France. He was connected with one of the largest hospitals in France, and his letters home, descriing his work and experience, were very interesting. His last letters spoke of the hard work he was doing, and the privations they were encountering because of shortness of supplies and poor quarters. The last letter received from him was dated Dec. 12th, six days before his death."

EXPRESSION GIRLS READ BEFORE TOWN CLUB

PRIVATE C. C. BROYLES DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Pneumonia claimed another victim when Private Cecil C. Broyles, an M. C. student during 1910-11, died at the U. S. Army debarkation hospital No. 1, at Ellis Island, N. Y., December 14. He had been in the service one year and two days at the time of his death, having enlisted in the quartermasters' corps at Knoxville on December 12, 1917. He was transferred to the aviation signal corps and sent to Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas where for three and a half months he was in training in the 610th Aero Squadron. From there he was sent to Camp Morrison, Newport News, Va. There he completed his training in the 617th Aero Squadron and was sent to England in August with the 320th Aero Squadron. As a pilot in an aeroplane he was on coast guard in England until he embarked for the United States. He arrived at Ellis Island, N. Y., on board the "Lapland" Dec. 4, 1918. Soon afterward he contracted the flu which developed into a fatal case of pneumonia.

ANOTHER DEATH FROM PNEUMONIA

The funeral of Pvt. Albert B. Simpson, 1911-12, 1912-13, was held at Rockwell January 21. Pvt. Simpson died of pneumonia at an eastern military camp after having been in service sometime. The remains were sent under military escort to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Simpson, on Fork Creek.

PRATER—WHITE WEDDING ANNOUNCED

Miss Lola Beeler was the recipient recently of the following announcement:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roberts White announce the marriage of their daughter Martha Irene
to
Mr. Samuel Fred Prater
on Wednesday, January the twenty-ninth nineteen hundred and nineteen

Mrs. Prater attended Maryville College in 1916-17 and the large circle of friends she made while here will be interested in the account of the wedding as given in the Knoxville Sentinel.

"A wedding of quiet simplicity was that of Miss Martha Irene White and Mr. Samuel Fred Prater. It was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. McNew, 300 Morelia Avenue.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor, the bride and groom standing under an arch of smilax and evergreen. Ferns, cut flowers, and wax tapers were used in the decorations of the home, a color scheme of pink and white being carried out most artistically.

Rev. D. M. Kerr of Greenback, was the officiating minister. He used the ring service. The nuptials were witnessed only by relatives and intimate friends.

Miss Hazel White, a younger sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor, while Mr. Andrew Johnson attended the groom as best man.

The bride was attractively gowned in a coat suit of taupe with accessories to match. Her bouquet was a shower effect of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Prater left immediately after the ceremony for their home near Louisville, Tenn."

PERSONALS

Miss Eva Ritchie is recuperating from a severe attack of tonsilitis.

Misses Jonnie and Kittie McMurry were week-end guests of relatives in Knoxville.

Mr. E. M. Hudson of Oliver Springs paid a visit last week to his daughter, Volena Hudson.

Mrs. Herman Schenk, Jr. visited over the week-end with her daughter, Ruth.

Miss Laura Whebee has been entertaining her sister, Miss Mae Whebee.

Miss Eva Lloyd was the guest of Knoxville friends over the week-end. Incidentally Eva did some entertaining on her own account.

The M. C. Co-eds of the basketball squad gave the girls of Martha Washington a "spread" after the game Friday evening.

The Misses Isabel and Margaret Cox of Armona were recently the charming and popular guests of Miss Maud Pardue and the Misses Nancy and Emily Wright.

Friends of Miss Myrtle Rendon offer her deepest sympathy in the death of her friend, Louis Larrazolo, son of the governor of New Mexico, following an attack of influenza which developed into pneumonia. Miss Rendon and Mr. Larrazolo attended the New Mexico Normal University at Las Vegas, and while there began a lasting friendship.

The topic of last Sunday's meeting "Making a Kindergarten Out of College", an especially fruitful and interesting one, was discussed and applied by Celeste Moseley as leader. Irrovia Corry, and Margaret Fisher also spoke on the subject. We make a kindergarten out of college by failing to grow up and to leave behind the petty ways of childhood which become real faults when carried into adult life. One of these faults is thoughtlessness and another is irresponsibility.

Ethel Burchfiel sang very sweetly "There's a Beautiful Land on High".

The meeting of last week was led by Miss Lois Wilson, who gave an exceptionally fine talk on "Enthusiasm for Missions". It aroused all her hearers to a greater interest in and enthusiasm for the most important cause in the world, that of being "Soldiers of the Cross."

CAMPUS QUIPS

Miller: "He was married three times."

Sue: "Elsie what makes your pen scratch so?"
Elsie: "It's got hives."

"It's all off for tonight", said Louise Hartung whipping her face vigorously with a towel.

Weisbecker: "Watcher doin?"
Callahan: "Pickin' a splinter out of my finger.'
Weisbecker: "Watcher been doin' scratchin' your head?"

Gus Templin in Home Ec.: "The reason you can never tell where all the pins go in here is because they are always pointed in one direction and headed in another."

Miss Green asked one of the boys in Biology class to bring a frog to class that the students might see the blood in circulation.
Walter Gibson: "Do you want a live frog?"

MISS CORRY GUEST OF HONOR

After the meeting of the Adelphic Union, last Saturday evening a progressive party was given in honor of Miss Irrovia Corry who had had another birthday. Misses Helen and Ruth Gamble were also guests of honor. The girls assembled first in the room of Miss Claudia Bogart where chocolate and wafers were served. From second floor a progression was made to fourth, where the Misses Mary Key Dolvin and Christine Copelan entertained very delightfully with ice cream and cake. The next progression should have been to the room of Miss Mattie Hamilton, but of course the lights had to flash and the girls journeyed to the room of Misses Martha Robison and Hattie and Mary Hayes. There a delicious fruit salad (the contribution of Miss Hamilton) and ham and pickles were served. The departure of the guests and the lights was simultaneous.

FAREWELL SERVICE FRIDAY MORNING CLOSES FEBRUARY MEETINGS

DR. ELMORE DESIGNATED BY MANY AS THE "PRINCE OF PREACHERS", DELIVERS A SERIES OF UNEQUALED EVANGELISTIC SERMONS.

In keeping with the Centennial spirit, the evangelical meetings, which closed last Friday, constituted the best series of February meetings that the students of Maryville College have had the privilege of experiencing. With 74 decisions for Christ and 371 reconsecrations, the power of Dr. Elmore's sermons speaks for itself. Old College Hill has been blessed greatly by these decisions and by the inspiration, encouragement, and helpfulness imparted to the students to enable them to live a better and more useful Christian life.

Two striking factors, which greatly helped to win the success of the meetings, were the interest shown on the part of the alumni and friends of the College, and the attitude of the students themselves. Many letters were received by Dr. Wilson, some of which were read from the platform. They came from various sources, from nearby and from distant points, from some of the boys in the camps, and from those pursuing their calling at home, from ministers of the gospel, and from those in the business world. They all, however, breathed a spirit of encouragement to the unconverted, and expressed wishes for the success of the meetings and the speaker. Just as important, was the excellent spirit with which the students entered into the atmosphere of the meetings. A large number cheerfully volunteered their services in doing personal work among their student friends. Those for whom the meetings were especially intended showed a fine spirit of willingness to receive the approaches of the Christian workers and to interview the college president and pastor, and others about the welfare of their soul. The choir should also be commended for their excellent co-operation in rendering inspiring and helpful music, including many special numbers which did much toward creating the right atmosphere in which to receive the gospel message.

Dr. Elmore, who has been characterized by many as the prince of preachers, delivered an unequaled series of sermons. They were progressive, exceptionally clear, convincing, and persuasive. The speaker kept close to his text and in a remarkable way extracted gems of truth that are usually concealed to the casual reader.

The texts used during the series of meetings were as follows:

Feb. 2—Vesper service, Acts 16, 13; "What must I do to be saved?" (Preached by Dr. Stevenson.)

Feb. 3—Heb. 11:30; "By faith the walls of Jericho fell down".

Feb. 4—Morning, Gen. 3:19; "Where art thou?"
Evening, Ex. 32:26; "Who is on the Lord's side?"

Feb. 5—Morning, Ps. 51:10; 'Create in me a clean heart."
Evening, John 11:28; "The Master is come, and calleth for thee."

Feb. 6—Morning, Dan. 5:27; "Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting."
Evening, Matt. 7:13, 14; "Enter ye in at the strait gate", etc.

Feb. 7—Morning, Mat. 10:4; "Judas Iscariot who also betrayed him."
Evening, Mat. 27:22, "What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ?"

Feb. 8—Morning, Matt. 16:16, "Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God."
Evening, Judges 1:13; "Come up with me into my lot."

Feb. 9—Morning, Jer. 6:16; "Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and yet shall find rest for your souls". (Preached in New Providence church.)
The fourth chapter of Jonah. (Preached at the joint meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.

MARYVILLE DIRECTORS HOLD RECENT MEETING

Commend Effort of Union Presbytery to Raise $25,000 For The Centennial Forward Fund.

The Board of Directors met February 5 in an important session. Previous to the meeting the Directors attended the morning devotional service in Voorhees chapel. Dr. E. A. Elmore, Chairman of the Directors presided. The following resolutions adopted at the meeting will be of interest to the students and friends of the college:

"That the Directors of Maryville College rejoice in the happy termination of the war and the victory of the cause of liberty. They thank God for His sovereign grace that crowned the efforts of the allies and of our own armies with success and that rescued the world from the selfish brutality of the Prussians. They are proud of the six hundred sons of Maryville who rallied to the Great Cause and dared all things for it. And they regard as a priceless heritage of honor the twenty gold stars on the service flag. These precious young lives were part of the price that civilization has had to pay to rid the world of autocracy, and they were a great price to pay.

"That the Directors rejoice that Union Presbytery has appointed a committee to try to raise a Union Presbytery Fund of $25,000, to be a part of the Centennial Forward Fund of $325,000. For a hundred years the Presbytery and the College have striven together to advance the cause of Christian education in their field and beyond that field. The Presbytery has profitted by and conserved the results of the work done by the College; and now it is a very happy event in connection with the Centennial celebration of the College that the Presbytery has decided to make a substantial contribution to the ability of the College to carry forward an enlarged work in the second century upon which it is about to enter. It was in the Presbytery of Union on October 8, 1819, that the overture was adopted that led the Synod of Tennessee the following week to establish "the Southern and Western Theological Seminary", which was the original name that Maryville College bore. Now in the present crisis in the affairs of the College, a hundred years later, it is a happy event and a happy omen that the Presbytery is still promoting the interests of the institution.

$500 CENTENNIAL GIFT FOR FRED HOPE

Girls to raise $250 and Boys the same amount. Pearsons Girls have raised $100, and hope to make it $125. The Boys will have to work to beat the Girls.

NAVY GIRLS GIVE PLEASING PROGRAM

Music, Readings, Clever Costumes, Together With The Pleasing Personality of Each of The Six Players, Furnish Delightful Entertainment.

Who failed to see the Navy Girls last night? Why nobody, of course. Everybody was there and everybody is talking about them now. Clever, good-looking, talented, accomplished, certainly highly entertaining,—these are only a few of the descriptive adjectives that may be applied, and it is safe to say that Maryville has not put on anything this year of that kind that can equal the high class entertainment of last night. There was something for all tastes,—music, instrumental and vocal; readings of a most pleasing character; and clever little bits of acting. For the first part of the program the girls appeared in gypsy costume and captivated their audience at once with charming gypsy songs and instrumental selections unusually well rendered. The second part consisted of light opera and readings. Here too, exceptional talent was displayed and the performers had the appreciative attention of the audience. The last and certainly a very winning feature of the program was the appearance of the six entertainers in navy costume, and the sparkling songs of the waves. The hour and a half seemed all too short and the audience reluctantly received the "good-night number".

The group consisted of Mrs. Ruth Bendell, cellist and vocal soloist; Miss Ethel Giviun, contralto soloist; Miss Urith Mosher, violinist; Miss Kathleen Colpitts, reader and singer; Miss Irene Hummel, pianist; and Miss Vira Pittenger, flutist and singer. The Senior Class, under whose auspices the program was given, counts itself fortunate in having secured this Redpath Lyceum number and is gratified that such a large and appreciative audience had the pleasure of being so highly entertained.

ADELPHIC UNION TO MEET SATURDAY NIGHT

Saturday night, February 22nd, the Literary Societies will hold their second joint meeting of the year. It will seem, no doubt, to many, that this meeting is following very closely upon the heels of the previous one, but it must be remembered that the time set for the occasion is the last Saturday of each month, and that the meeting which took place on February 1 was on account of the midwinter, postponed from January 27.

Do not allow the other attractions of the week to dull your interest in this program, and do not fail to come, for it is your own entertainment, and upon your interest and support depends its success.

The program is as follows:

Piano solo - - - Jonnie Catlett
An Appreciation of George Washington - Dr. Stevenson
Selection - - - Double Quartette
Reading - - - Mattie Hamilton
Vocal solo - - Winston Newton
Reading - - Mary Louise Hayes

THE MARYVILLE TEAM DEFEATS U. T. QUINTETTE IN EXCITING GAME

SCORE OF 21-18 INEXPRESSIVE OF VIM AND INTENSITY OF GAME. CLEAN PLAYING A NOTICEABLE FEATURE. ORGANIZED CHEERING ADDS PEP.

Another scalp hung to Maryville's belt when the quintette from the University of Tennessee was towed into camp in a fast, close, and exciting game last Saturday afternoon on M. C.'s court. A crowded house witnessed a royal treat, for the score of 21-18 but dimly indicates what heights of playing the two teams approached. For the first five minutes not a point was scored by either team, only to be broken by U.T. getting the first blood. A foul soon made the score 2-1, then a goal by Brown made it 3-2 in Maryville's favor, but a moment later U. T. took the lead again with another pretty shot.

But that was all. From that time Maryville had things her way for the remainder of the first half. The score at the close of this period was 11-4. Good guarding kept the Vols from shooting more than their first two baskets.

With such a lead, and with the team determined that the victory which was within reach should not escape them, M. C. came off victorious with 10 points garnered in the last half as against 14 by her opponents.

The game was won for three reasons: first, the team worked better as a machine, getting all their baskets from underneath the goal and not depending on long shots from the center of the floor as U. T. did; second, because the team had wonderful support from the sidelines, with some organized rooting that has been absent from most of the games; and third, because U. T. did too much individual playing. The feared Lum Reeder could not connect with the hoop even when he did shoot, and his teammates could do but little better. Superior play won for the Highlanders.

For Maryville the whole team played well. Brown topped the list in number of points with five goals. Weisbecker tossed all the fouls and played a pretty floor game. Cotton stood next to Brown in the scoring, while Briggs and Fraser at guards stuck to their men like glue. Reeder was held to no baskets during the first half.

A large crowd witnessed the game which was interesting from every standpoint. Alternate cheering by the two ends of the floor kept enthusiasm at a high pitch. The game was quite free of any personal encounters, making an agreeable change from many previous U. T. and Maryville games. Only four personal fouls were called, two on each team, and no two of these on any single man. A friendlier feeling was manifested than is wont at such games.

Contrast this with last year's game when twenty-one personal fouls were called; when one man was put out because of four, when three other men had three apiece when the game ended. Also add to this the fact that twenty-three technical fouls were called, thus making an average of over one foul a minute, and the difference between the games is readily apparent.

The splendid support from tht side lines helped to maintain the spirit of the home team, and the victory over our most hated rivals ended a very happy holiday.

UNION COLLEGE LOSES FIRST GAME TO M. C.

Kentuckians Put Up Good Fight But The Fast Playing of the Orange and Garnet Team Proves Their Undoing.

Union College lost their first game of the season Monday evening when the M. C. quintette romped on them to the tune of 33-21. The game was played on the local floor and a large, enthusiastic crowd was present. The first half was rather slow, but things livened up considerably during the last half. At one time Union was only three points behind Maryville and affairs were pretty exciting for a few minutes. Brown shot seven field goals and Weisbecker six, while Overby of the visiting team, made eight.

MRS. ALEXANDER ENTERTAINS

The Senior girls and the girls of the Shakespeare class were delightfully entertained last Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alexander. Mounting Shakespeare pictures and stringing beads was the order of the day, and much skill and artistic taste was displayed. Later in the afternoon delicious refreshments were served, while Caruso, Alma Gluck, and Harry Lauder entertained. Then followed a Shakespeare quiz in which was shown a very broad knowledge of the subject, together with much gratitude that the beloved Shakespeare instructor was not personally conducting the quiz. Everybody had such an altogether pleasant time that adjectives failed them in number and expressiveness when the hour came for departure, and all who had the good fortune to be present are congratulating themselves on being either a Senior girl, or a Shakespeare student, or both.

Prof. H. J. Bassett is attending a meeting of the Philological Association at Chattanooga this week where he will give a paper on "The Emperor Macrinus."

Can some one explain why it always rains on holidays?

:-:-:-:

The cheering at the game Saturday afternoon was the real thing, wasn't it? And there was system, too, in the way the cheer leaders led the yells. Competitive cheering seems to work—so why not make it a permanent feature of the games?

:-:-:-:

The program this week is rather varied: athletics, Hawaiian music, teas, The Navy Girls, prayer meeting, (a special kind), the joint meeting of the societies and numerous club meetings as that of The Red Headed Club. Let's keep busy!

:-:-:-:

We hear much these days about the value of technical training. Why asks the querist should a man spend four years in college and come out in the end fitted only for the position of school teaching? Why does he not after the completion of his high school course, enter a technical school and, at a great saving of time and money, fit himself for his special line of work?

The wise man goes to college and works for his B. A., his B. S. or whatever the degree may be, because he realizes that in doing so he is becoming the well-rounded man he aspires to be. He sees new visions; he develops confidence in self and a sympathetic cosmopolitan spirit, all of which are a necessary foundation on which to build a technical career.

In an address made at a banquet of the Association of American Colleges recently held in Chicago, President James of the University of Illinois said:

"I have been for fifteen years president of one of the large technical schools of the country—one of the large engineering schools of the country. Friends, I would today, if I were a betting man, which I am not, bet my money on a graduate of the college of liberal arts and sciences who had decided to go into engineering after he had graduated and had never studied engineering a single hour before he left the institution and went into the practical work; there is far more certainty of his making a success if he has the right attitude toward the world and the right feelings in himself than the man who has had four years of technical work preparing to be an engineer.

"The older I grow and the more I see of the things that college students do after they leave college, the more I am convinced that after all the important thing for a young man in college is to get his face set in the right direction, to get the proper ideals and the proper inspiration in himself; far more important than any particular amount of knowledge which he receives. And, that is just as true of the engineer and the physician and the lawyer as it is of the graduate of the college of liberal arts and science."

A THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR YOU

The National Industrial Conference Board offers a prize of one thousand dollars for the best monograph on any one of the following subjects:

1. A practicable plan for the representation of workers in determining conditions of work and for the prevention of industrial disputes.

2. The major causes of unemployment and how to minimize them.

3. How can efficiency of workers be so increased as to make high wage rates economically practicable?

4. Should the state interfere in the determination of wage rates?

5. Should rates of wages be definitely based on the cost of living?

6. How can present systems of wage payments be so perfected and supplemented as to be most conducive to individual efficiency and to the contentment of workers?

7. The closed union versus the closed shop: their social and economic value compared.

8. Should trade unions and employer's associations be made legally responsible?

The contest is open without restriction to all persons except those who are members of or identified with the National Industrial Conference Board.

For other rules concerning the contest consult the bulletin board in Anderson Hall.

MR. M. W. BRABHAM ON CAMPUS, PRAISES COLLEGE HILL "Y" WORK

Mr. M. W. Brabham, field secretary of the South Eastern Division was on the Hill Friday in the interest of the local Y. M. C. A.

At a special meeting of the cabinet, he told of the changes in student association work made necessary by the S.A.T.C., and explained the new program and its aims. This is in a large part the program now being effected in the college. Special stress was placed on athletic and religious activities. The purpose of this program is the development of initiative and leadership among students by having each one take an active part in affairs. The War Work Council hopes in the next four months to develop such a Y.M.C.A. spirit as will be permanent.

Mr Brabham seemed to be very favorably impressed with the work here. The mass athletic program met with his hearty approval. The recent issue of The Echo explaining the Y. M. C. A. program at Maryville has caused quite a bit of comment in Y.M.C.A. circles and especially among those of the Southern colleges. The local secretary regrets that he is unable to furnish the desired sample copies of the "Y" issue.

DR. E. A. ELMORE, SPEAKER, AT JOINT MEETING OF Y. M. AND Y. W. C. A.

Sunday afternoon, February 9th, Dr. Elmore addressed the joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. in the chapel. He spoke in his usual sympathetic manner of questions which are of vital importance to the professing Christian.

As a basis of his discussion, Dr. Elmore used the story of Jonah, drawing a parallel between the life of the prophet and that of a Christian. Every life contains four chapters: first, one of Sin; then of Repentance followed by a Second Chance; and lastly, God's Re-action. Every Christian is confronted by these four problems the satisfactory solution of which he must find if he expects to attain salvation, for "Salvation is of the Lord." The sin chapter in our lives never ends. Nothing but the mercy of God saved Jonah, and so His mercy alone can save us.

Special music for the service was given by Robert Adams and the Brown-Gamble quartet.

RALPH SMITH NEXT PRESIDENT OF ATHENIAN

The Athenian Society held one of its usual live, interesting meetings Saturday evening. There was a remarkably good attendance, considering the fact that it was the evening of a holiday and that the thrilling effect of the basketball victory over U. T. was no conducive to quiet, sober work.

It was decided to hold an early election of officers for the spring term, and the program was cut to two numbers. The first number was a debate "Resolved, That the United States should enter into the league of nations", argued by Damiano and Reagin on the affirmative vs. Minarick and Martin on the negative. It was a rapid-fire logical battle which the negative won by a margin of one. Next Jones entertained with a reading, which was a translation from Maupassant.

The next regular meeting was announced for March 1, at 6 p. m.

The election resulted as follows: President, Ralph Smith; Vice President, Frank Minarick; Program Secretary, Moss Farmer; Recording Secretary, Lee Herndon; Critics, Herbert Kiger and Forrest Brown.

SUFFRAGE LEAGUE PREPARES FOR FUTURE WORK

The new era with its new responsibilities has aroused the Equal Suffrage League to a new determination to make this the biggest year in its history. In preparation for the duties of the future, the suffragists are learning the why and how of voting, as presented by Charles Willis Thompson in his book, "The New Voter". At the meeting Monday afternoon Miss Marie Townsend gave a summary of the first two chapters of this book. Miss Helen Newell summarized an interesting article on "How the Suffs got the Vote", written by Mrs. Pankhurst. Miss Claudia Bogart read some news items, and Miss Marion Henry and Miss Carrie Sheddan rounded out the program with excellent music.

All college girls interested in "Votes for Both" are invited to attend the next regular meeting Monday afternoon, Feb. 24.

At a recent business meeting of the Equal Suffrage League the following officers were elected for the remainder of the year:

Prsident - - - J. Maud Pardue
Vice-President - - Licia Johnson
Secretary - - - Frances W. Hickey
Treasurer - - - Carmen Park
Editor - - - - Claudia Bogart

TEXANS ENJOY ST. VALENTINE SPREAD

The members of the Texas Club had their first social meeting Saturday evening in the Misses Ludeman's room on fourth floor Pearsons. The decorations, in honor of St. Valentine, were in red and white. Around the long table on which shaded candles glowed and narcissus bloomed, covers had been laid for eleven. The Texas appetite was proved to be enormous and heartily appreciative of the fruit salad, tuna sandwiches, cake, chocolate, olives, mints and pickles.

Texas shaped place cards showed the following names: Mayme Carol Ludeman, Henry Etta Ludeman, Irma Schwab, Lucile Middleton, Bertha Duncan, Nina Belle Caldwell, Vance Hudgens, Ruth Johnson, Alura Moore, Sue Nuckols, Corin Humphries.

THETA EPSILON

Theta Epsilon Literary Society met in Theta Hall Saturday night. After a short business meeting a very interesting program was given. Elsie Dawson rendered a piano solo, then Minnie Hunter gave a reading which was enjoyed very much. Bertha Duncan played some of the popular songs of to-day. The last number of the program was a one act "movie" play, "The Fate of Fanny or Death's Triple Triumph".

Cast

Fannie - - - Sue Nuckols
Hubby - - - Elsie Dawson
Wifey - - - Carmen Park
Office Boy - - - Helen Park

The audience was very much amused and pleased with the "movie" although it ended very disastrously.

M. C. ALUMNUS PRAISES ALMA MATER

The following extract from a letter written by a Blount County man in France is such a concise statement of the sentiments of hundreds of Maryvillians that we take the liberty of printing it although the original was not written for publication:

"Probabilities have become certainties and now I am sure of being home for the celebration to be held by my Alma Mater this year. Since my graduation I have looked forward to this—the one hundredth year of the college's existence. Maryville can be justly proud of the century of valiant and efficient service which she has rendered to the world. I would award the school a medal of honor for the noble and heroic work which she has done along the line of Christain education. The great leader of the institution, Dr. Wilson, with his corps of workers reflects the spirit of all those noble men and women who labored so tirelessly and effectively during the early days of her glorious history. From a mere handful of students the school has grown into a mighty institution which is known and recognized throughout our great nation and in foreign lands. The present plant is valued at over a million dollars, I believe, which is one sign of the great progress which has been made. However, a college is to be judged by its products and not by its buildings and endowments. The college leaps toward the top of the list when we consider the great number of men and women which it has turned out. You notice that I say men instead of graduates because not every graduate is a MAN in the true sense of the word. The reason that I prefer Maryville to many other institutions is that it aids the student in forming character as well as giving him an education. As an alumnus of the college it will give me unlimited pleasure to attend the celebration of the Centennial. Maryville has rounded out the century in good form and now she crosses the threshold of another century which holds for her nobler service and greater glory. It will be a great joy to set my feet on the old "Hill" again and have the thrills of former student days chase through my veins once more. My word of compliment and appreciation need not be spoken to add to the honor of old Maryville for she has been the recipient of continual praises from eminent sources. Yet as a graduate I have the deepest interest in the college and it is not amiss for me to give vent to my feelings."

ALPHA SIGMA

The program of the Alpha Sigma Literary Society last Saturday night was a short one, yet the success of it showed that much work had been done by those taking part, in order that they might entertain well.

Mr. Hunter, one of the newest members, gave a short talk on his reason for becoming a member of the Alpha Sigma Literary Society.

The next number was a debate: Resolved, That the United States should have the largest navy in the world. Mr. Osborn and Mr. Jennings defended the affirmative; Mr. Myers and Mr. Weisbecker the negative. All debated as if facing a large audience in an inter-collegiate debate, putting all their energies behind the desire to beat the other side. Tho the negative won the votes of the judges, yet the affirmative did some good work, and are to be commended for it.

The program as a whole, was a good one, and Alpha Sigma looks forward to a greater interest in the work of the society than, as yet, has been expressed.

INTER-CLASS GAMES COMMENCE

The first games of the interclass series were played Monday afternoon. Two snappy games were played by the girls. The Sophomores defeated the Seniors, 21-4, and the Freshman won from the Juniors.

FORMER CONDUCTOR OF FEBRUARY MEETINGS VISITS CHAPEL

Rev. Joseph M. Broady of Birmingham, who conducted the February Meetings in 1913 and 1917, was a visitor on the Hill Tuesday. He had just held a series of revival services at Tusculum College and was enjoying a short rest with his relatives here.

In his chapel talk, Dr. Broady congratulated the students for their progress, for their spirit, and for their opportunities. Thorough preparation, a need for the new era of achievement was emphasized, and the enlargement of the vision of service. Mr. Broady's inspirational talk was very appropriate, coming as it did in the wake of the meetings.

ATTENTION!

Every event in our lives is determined and explained by preceeding events, and the influences received while in college tend to build up or break down a life. Those who attend the Bainonian meetings know how much this statement means, and those who are absent miss a great deal of the pleasures of the Hill.

Saturday evening the Bainonians enjoyed a discussion of political affairs in Germany by Laura Putman; the latest activities of the Peace Conference by Virginia McConkey, and a reading by Gail Wilson. The music of the evening was furnished by Mary Emma Armentrout.

THE WAIKIKI HAWAIIAN QUINTET IS FOURTH LYCEUM NUMBER

On Tuesday night of this week the fourth number of the Lyceum Course was given before a very good audience. The Waikiki Hawaiian Quintet entertained in a most novel manner and in typical Hawaiian fashion. Music, instrumental and vocal, kept the audience interested throughout the evening. One especially attractive feature of the program was the solo work with the Hawaiian steel guitar. This number was encored again and again.

The final number of the course will be presented in Voorhees chapel on March fifth, when Reno Welbourn will entertain. This is a highly recommended number and it is hoped that a large audience will avail themselves of this opportunity.

PALACE THEATRE

THURSDAY—Wm. S. Hart in "WOLVES OF THE RAIL". A story of western life in the days of bandits and "hold-up" men, when the pay-roll train was the prey of bold robbers and each one tried to out do the other in gathering more spoils. In this picture Wm. S. Hart takes the role of "Buck" a bandit and the quickest on trigger in the west. You will see some real straight shooting mixed with death-daring stunts that look almost impossible but they are not 'cause its "Bill" that does 'em. Also a Mack-Sennett Comedy entitled "THE SUMMER GIRLS". Now, believe me, this is some comedy and the scenery is great. These two pictures together with Mutt and Jeff in "Dog-gone Tough Luck" will be the show for today.

SATURDAY—LOOK! PEARL WHITE IN "THE LIGHTNING RAIDER", a Pathe Serial. The Lightning Raider is a serial of amazing adventure. In 15 thrilling weekly episodes. There is no "Mystery Character" in this serial, each episode contains scenes and stunts of breathless suspense and tremendous thrills. The story takes the principals of the serial into many strange places, to the underworld resorts, to society functions, to an abandoned hut in the woods. Thrill after thrill follow one another, in an attempt to secure possession of the Mysterious Ebony Block, and its contents, which makes the story on which the Lightning Raider is based. Don't fail to see the opening of this serial superior. We will also show "Hands Up" if it comes, and we are almost sure it will be here. Current Event No. 88 and a real good comedy. Also Broncho Billy in "His Punishment."

MONDAY—Iron Test No. 10, the circus serial. Also Brass Bullet No. 10, a serial of mystery and adventure. Clara Ridgeway in "Tapering Fingers", a two-reel love drama. Also a Big V Comedy entitled "Humbugs and Husbands", reel fun. War Review No. 27, latest Peace Conference News and war dope.

TUESDAY—Fox Film Company presents an all-star caste in "FOR FREEDOM". A story based on the cruelties of the war. This is a war picture, and tells of the love for "Old Glory" in every American's heart—a wonderful story told in the most beautiful language. Silence—we will also have a L-Ko Comedy "The Cabbage Queen" two reels of fun.

Miss Emma Jane Miles spent the holiday with her family at Madisonville.

George Callahan, business manager of the Chilhowean, is in the hospital with an attack of tonsilitis.

Miss Ethel Burchfiel spent the week-end at her home in Dandridge recuperating from an attack of over-work.

The Misses Myrtle and Amelia Rendon have been entertaining their cousin, Sgt. Albrt Cox of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Walker are the proud parents of a daughter, Arta Susan. Congratulations are freely and sincerely offered.

Dr. W. P. Stevenson was called to Yonkers, N. Y. Monday to officiate at the funeral services of a former parishioner. Mrs. Stevenson accompanied Dr. Stevenson and before her return will visit with her son and his wife at Shields, Pa.

Miss Blanche Bailey was hostess at a luncheon given in the Domestic Science apartments Tuesday. The guests were: "Shorty" Newell, Maud Pardue, Grace Bailey, Ralph Smith, Bob Adams, and the other members of Miss Bailey's table at Pearsons.

The many friends of Miss Nellie J. Garrison, '17, regret to learn of the sudden death of her father, Mr. J. H. Garrison, of Byington, Tennessee, which occurred on February 6. Miss Garrison was called home from Murphy College, but has since returned and taken up her work again in that institution. Miss Garrison has the sympathy of her Maryville College friends in her bereavement.

CAMPUS QUIPS

Callahan in Physics: "So this is all we have to remember about lenses, prof.?

Prof. Knap: "Yes, if you have this theory in your head, you have it all in a nut-shell."

Class in unison: "Amen!"

WE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW

Why Jarvis looks so sad week ends?

Why "Elephant" is always looking for an Iowa letter?

Why "Sheenie" doesn't patronize his own laundry? Ask him.

"Sheenie" after downing the pan cake: "Boys, I feel like I've swallowed an elevator."

Kiger in Shakespeare: "What does it mean 'to wear my heart upon my sleeve'?"

Lady Jane: "Evidently you don't believe in that."

Laughter follows.

Sometime ago a worthy gallant, Sir Walter Raleigh by name, sacrificed his rich cloak that England's queen might brave the mire. Here there has been discovered another youth who more fearless than that gallant of old lightly transported his lady fair across a muddy pool. The first time the charm worked charmingly but the second attempt, alas, found both on bended knee.

"You cal(low) han(d)", she hissed.

Mrs. West giving directions at a rehearsal: "Run up, Mary Louise, run up".

Mary Louise H. innocently: "Run up what?"

SNAP WELL ATTENDED

Friday evening the Maryvillians engaged in another of those delightful but rare social events known as "snap". Not even the driving sleet kept away the ardent lovers of the sport. The nervous tension of the past few weeks was soon forgotten in the mad chase to and fro. When is the next snap? Everybody come!

ADELPHIC UNION ELECTS OFFICERS

At a call meeting of the Adelphic Union Tuesday, officers were elected for 1919-20. It was the time of the Alpha Sigmas to select a president and George Callahan was elected to fill the office. Mildred Campbell was elected vice-president; Winifred Decker, secretary; and Dewey Beck, treasurer. The Adelphic Union is planning to have a banquet sometime during the spring term. For the past two years a banquet has been inadvisable because of war conditions, but now when all college activities are being resumed it seems fitting that the one-timed annual Adelphic Union Banquet should occupy its honored place on the calendar of festivities. It is all the more imperative that such an affair should be given this year for this is the first year the four literary societies have held joint monthly meetings. The brotherly ties of intellectuality should be strengthened by those bands of conviviality which only a feast affords. All those in favor of a banquet please signify by working for one.

VITAL PROBLEMS DISCUSSED IN WORLD FORUM

The World Forum conducted by Dr. Stevenson last Sunday dealt with "The Call of Christian Internationalism."

The church now has a vision of the infinite need of the world, a need which the love of Jesus Christ alone can satisfy. In China there may be seen the spectacle of heathens praying to their gods for a peace between the Christian nations. Everywhere it is evident that these Christian nations have been carrying on an iniquitous trade with the same peoples whom their missionaries have been laboring to bring to the light of Christianity.

The day has come when the same code of morals must govern both state and individuals. There must be an interdependence between nations, and a spirit of inter-national righteousness. The armament of world friendship is stronger for preserving peace than any fleet or display of arms.

The great problems of the application of Christianity to nations were very ably discussed by Dr. Stevenson. No part of the program of the Y. M. C. A. is more vital or more interesting than these World Forum discussions.

Fellows, prepare to take your place in the world of tomorrow! Keep posted! The next lesson will deal with "the call of new opportunities in the mission fields."

ANOTHER GOLD STAR

A recent casualty list reports Plina Hurst, formerly of Sevierville, as having been killed in action in France. Hurst's death probably occurred during the last days of the fight previous to the signing of the armistice. While at Maryville, Hurst proved himself a manly man and the college deems it an honor to place the twentieth gold star on the service flag in tribute to his memory.

VOLUME FOUR — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1919. — NUMBER EIGHTEEN

THE DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC GIVES ITS FIRST BIG RECITAL OF THE YEAR

PUPILS OF MISS HALE, MISS GREGG, AND PROFESSOR GARRETT PARTICIPATE IN A VARIED AND WELL-BALANCED MUSICAL PROGRAM.

On Monday evening the first opportunity during this school year of hearing an entire program by the Music Department, was given—, the appreciation of which was shown by the large crowd and the hearty applause. The numbers were well balanced and with such contrast that the listeners were ready and eager for each succeeding one.

Rummel's "Scherzo" for two pianos furnished a brilliant and attractive introduction—, being especially well played by Misses Waller and Bassel at the first piano and Miss Tedford at the second. Following this, Miss Hayes played the Japanese Etude of Poldini—attractive to the hearers because of its rather odd melody which was attractively brought out by Miss Hayes.

Miss Newton held her audience throughout the rendering of Caro Nome, a election from the opera, Rigollette, and containing very difficult passages which she sang with ease—, her high tones standing out with perfect clearness. Later in the program she again showed her ability in her interpretation of the beautiful Slumber Song of Gretchaninoff.

Miss Sullinger played Paderewskis' Polonaise—, a number well developing that composer's love of a piquant rhythm which Miss Sullinger well expressed in the rendering of the composition.

The Violin Department should be congratulated on its rapid growth. It was well represented on this program by a trio—Misses Drinnen, Montgomery and Rendon with Miss Moore at the piano. This number was given with accurate rhythm and splendid musical expression.

College audiences are always glad to see Mr. McCall appear and especially was his solo appreciated at this affair. His number was "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride". He was followed by Miss Howard who played Mendelssohn's "Scherzo", a number attractive for its delicacy and contrast.

In Miss Armentrout's playing of "March Wind"—MacDowell, she showed her splendid technical ability and in addition gave such a very realistic interpretation of this attractive number that the audience fairly shivered at the howling wind.

The next number was "Come Where the Lilies Bloom", sung by the college double quartette.

This was followed by Miss Caldwell's piano solo, "The Lark" by Balakerev—, a number that appealed to all because of its wonderful interpretation. It could easily be seen that Miss Caldwell loved the selection and enjoyed playing it. The men's quartette then sang Bliss' Serenade which served as a most fitting close to a most excellent and enjoyable program.

This entertainment was given for the benefit of the Young Women's Christian Association. The Association considers itself fortunate in having had such an attractive program arranged for its benefit.

HEARTY CONGRATULATIONS NOW IN ORDER

If you haven't congratulated the college pastor don't fail to do so, for even now you will be a little late in offering felicitations. The worthy object of the good wishes is the first grandchild, Jane Walker Stevenson who was born Feb. 19. Mrs. Stevenson is still in Shields, Pa. where she is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Stevenson, Jr.

"DOC" FRATER LANDS

"Doc" Frater is one of the first overseas M. C. men to return to the United States. He landed Feb. 16 and was stationed at Camp Merritt, N. J. He is, doubtless at the present time, visiting his wife at Sparta, Tenn. for he expected to be sent immediately to a southern camp and to have thirty days sick leave.

LIVE BASEBALL SCHEDULE IS BEING PLANNED

Lake Russell Elected Manager By Athletic Board of Control. Opening Game With Hiwassee.

The relentless grip of the heartless demon "hay fever" is tightening with the coming of balmy days such as Monday, and many are the victims thereof. All of which goes to remind every true baseball fan that the season for America's great national game is rapidly approaching.

Already bats are being pulled out of their hiding places and gloves are being oiled to loosen their stiff joints. Already Professor Ellis has begun holding his breath for fear a stray ball may accidently go sailing through one of his windows.

The first regular practice will be called in the near future and all prospective candidates are urged to get their equipment ready for the big day. There have always been a large number of men on the squad and it is certain there will be a big squad this year. This is the time for all men to show up who have any ability for the game. Under the able leadership of Coach Everett many comparatively new men will be developed into good players and some into stars. The management has authorized the statement that Maryville will not be used as a training school for men who expect to play league ball next summer, but every man that goes out will be given a fair deal. Those that have been in school all year or longer deserve and will get the right kind of treatment. With such old players as Lowry, Ruble, Drake, McCall, King, Weisbecker, Pugh and possibly La Rue together with the new talent which has come in and that which will be developed, the prospects are bright for a winning team this season.

Baseball like all other things is getting back on a peace basis and an interesting schedule is insured under the able management of Lake Russell. The opening game will be with Hiwassee College March 24 on the home grounds. A series of four games is being arranged with U. T., and also with Tusculum. Emory and Henry, Milligan, T. P. I. and L. M. U. will also meet the Maryville team at various times. Everybody get behind the team and support the players in every way possible.

Extra Lyceum Number

Due to the disappointment caused by the substitution of several of the lyceum numbers an extra entertainment will be given Tuesday evening, March 4, by the Knowlton Glee and Banjo Club. General admission will be 50cts., but all holders of season tickets will be admitted free of charge on presentation of the tickets at the door.

MARYVILLE VARSITY RETURNS FROM TRIP

Team Loses Game to Union. Score 37-23. Cumberland Game Ends Disastrously.

A rather disastrous road trip for the varsity basketball team ended last Saturday, when it returned from a three days' jaunt to Kentucky. Two games were scheduled, one each for Thursday and Friday night, but only one was played.

The first stop was made at Williamsburg where Cumberland College was to be the foe. But instead of having a game, the Cumberland players and crowd attempted a fist fight, and instead of a clean basketball game, the scrap ended during the first half when the Cumberland players had slugged Briggs and Weisbecker five times. The crowd had surged onto the floor and had interfered with the playing; the opposing team had made very slurring remarks; the referee had refused to call the game by basketball rules, a copy of which M. C. had; and the ungentlemanly and unsportsmanlike attitude of all present was so plainly manifest that the seven players decided that their efforts could avail nothing against such a crowd, and so left the floor, thereby forfeiting the game 2-0. The score when the play was stopped was 10-9 for the home team, but Maryville had gained all her points after Cumberland had thrown five baskets on a fast get-away.

It is to be regretted that the game ended as it did. The hotheadedness of one player in particular, the ignorance of the referee, and the hostility of the crowd, all made it necessary for the Maryville players to quit the floor or else get mobbed. Not even entertainment while in Williamsburg was given to M. C. and needless to say the guarantee either. The return game at Maryville was canceled.

The following night the team journeyed to Barbourville where Union, who had been at M. C. the Monday previous, took a fast, close and exciting game by the tune of 37-23.

The game was played on a floor that had been an old abandoned church. A low ceiling interfered with long shots, while the baskets being placed on the walls with no space behind handicapped the visitors. It is doubtful if very many teams in this section could beat Union on their own court.

However, the game was clean and fast, Maryville putting up a great game. It was considered the biggest game of the season at Union. The "officiating" was splendid, the treatment royal, and the crowd evenly divided in rooting. Altogether the team had an enjoyable time. Complimenetary lyceum tickets were given the team after the game for a number in the chapel.

Weisbecker and Cotton played the best games for M. C., while all

$500 TO BE GIVEN AS A CENTENNIAL GIFT TO THE FRED HOPE FUND

MONEY BEING RAISED ON A COMPETITIVE BASIS. UP-TO-DATE THE WOMEN HAVE SUBSCRIBED MORE FREELY THAN THE MEN.

In 1899, a big-hearted fellow from Flat Rock, Illinois, came to Maryville College. At once he became active in athletics, in literary society, and in religious work, and in the social activities of the Hill. Soon he became a leader, and like all fellows of strong personality, made both friends and enemies.

During the years 1901-03, he was president of the Y. M. C. A. and he was the first man to attempt a lyceum course under the auspices of the "Y". His business ability was remarkable although his recitations were not always perfect. There was no more influential man on the Hill than Fred Hope at the time of his graduation in 1906.

The year or so following his graduation, he was employed by the Presbyterian Mission Board. During this time, he married Miss Johnson, one of his old Maryville classmates.

In 1908, the Mission Board sent Hope to Elat in Kamerun (now Cameroun), a German province on the central western coast of Africa. The climate there is very bad and his wife died before one year had passed. Three years later, he came to America on a furlough and visited at Maryville as he has often done since. During his first furlough he married a second time.

The work with which Hope is now connected at Elat is the Frank James Industrial school for the training of the natives in the industrial arts. A few years ago Maryville students bought for the school an engine to run its saw mill. Since, they have added much equipment to the plant. This school was founded by a philanthropic lady as a memorial to her son, and she now pays the salary of Hope. The mission is known as one of the largest and most successful in the world and the Sunday School has reached the record attendance of 22,000!

This is the kind of work engaged in by a Maryville man, a work largely supported by Maryville College. $200 has been hitherto the largest sum subscribed by the students to the Fred Hope Fund. This year they are going to give $500.00 as a Centennial gift.

On either side of the chapel entrance clocks have been placed to record the gifts. The girls' clock already registers $100.. Which will strike the hour of twelve first? It is not a question of what I think my share of the fund is, but rather a question of what God is holding me accountable for. What about YOU? Fred Hope may be here for Commencement. What kind of a greeting will YOU give him to take back to Africa?

RULES FOR THE BATES PRIZE IN ORATORY

Contest To Be Held Tuesday of Commencement Week. Prize Will Go To Person Taking First Rank.

It is certain that The Bates Prize in Oratory will be given commencement week for more than the necessary number of Seniors have already signified their intention of entering the contest. This will be the first year that this contest has been held and it is expected that it will be one of the features of the Centennial celebration. The prize this year will amount to nearly $50. It is hoped hereafter that the Bates Prize may be obtained yearly by some member of the graduating class. In order to hold the contest it is necessary that at least, six Seniors submit orations.

The subjects for this year's Bates Prize Orations are:

1. The Wonders of Modern Surgery.
2. The Soul of Russia.
3. General William Booth.
4. The Battle of Verdun.
5. Kitchener of Khartum.
6. Nationalism and World Patriotism.

The faculty committee, after conferring with the Reverend William H. Bates who is the donor of the fund, the income of which is to be the annual prize, submits the following rules governing the contest:

1. The entire prize will be given to the person taking first rank.
2. The maximum length of the orations shall not exceed 1,500 words.
3. The work of composition is to be entirely original.
4. The manuscripts must be submitted to the faculty judges the last week in April.
5. There will be six orations in the final contest which will take place Tuesday of commencement week.
6. For delivery each contestant may have the service of some member of the faculty for four private rehearsals.
7. The final contest will be judged on both composition and delivery.

"THE OLD PEABODY PEW" TO BE GIVEN MONDAY NIGHT

Don't fail to attend the Y. W. recital Monday evening. The recital given the evening of the twenty-fourth by the Music Department was one of the most enjoyable musical numbers of the year, and those who were absent were the real losers. March the third, the Expression Department will entertain. A feature of the program will be the presentation by the Dramatization Class of "The Old Peabody Pew" as written and dramatized by Kate Douglas Wiggins. This is a story of New England village life as portrayed by seven typical village women, and a one-time village man, within the walls of a quaint New England church. An outstanding feature of the cast is the assumption by a man of the male role. This is the first incident of the kind this college year. Another big number of the evening will be Miss Maude Pardue's interpretation of the one-act play, "Maid of France" by H. Binghouse. Miss Pardue needs no introduction as a reader for her skill in character delineation is well-known on the Hill.

Come to the chapel Monday evening and help support the Y.W.

:--:--:--:

The social program seems a little slack after last week's gayety.

:--:--:--:

Where does Prof. Brittain find the subject matter for the many chapel announcements?

:--:--:--:

It has often been said by foreigners of the American people that they don't make enough of birthdays and the accusation is a just one. For example, the birthdays of two of America's great men, Lincoln and Washington, have just passed and few people here remembered the day. Lincoln's birthday slipped by and the flag was not even raised in recognition of the national hero. Neither was the flag raised the twenty-second, but before the day had passed public respect was paid the Father of his country at the Adelphic Union Meeting—, thanks to the program committee. Educators are realizing more and more the necessity of instilling patriotism in the hearts of the children of the country and grammar grade teachers are carefully instructed to observe the special holidays with appropriate and stimulating exercises. Is there not the danger that college students may lose some of the warmth of patriotism if no attempt is made to foster it? Let us not forget the birthdays of the nation's founders. Let us indulge in hero worship of the great and good men who have builded our nation upon the stable cornerstone of democracy.

INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATING TEAMS SELECTED

The intercollegiate debating teams have been chosen from among the winning contestants at the recent preliminaries. The affirmative team will debate at home, and will be composed of Robert Adams, Helen Lewis, and Forrest Brown. The negative team is composed of David Briggs, J. H. Turner, and Homer Weisbecker. The teams are well along with their work, and are gathering material constantly. Arrangements are being made for some debating room where material may be kept and Prof. Hunter the coach, is plannng the schedule of workouts for the teams. At present there is some possibilty that the dual debate with Tusculum may be changed into a triangular between Tusculum, Emory and Henry, and Maryville. The outcome of present correspondence is as yet uncertain, but M. C. may look forward to her teams making another addition to her splendid record of victories during the past three years, regardless of her opponents.

The Carnegie boys would appreciate anything from a cinder path to an aerial trolley these rainy days.

Y. M. C. A. BULLETIN

At the last meeting of the Leaders' Conference it was decided to alter the organization of the Groups in order to do better work and arouse more enthusiasm in both religious and athletic activities. The ten groups will be consolidated into four large groups, having one to each floor with the exception of the first floor which will unite with the basement group. Each group will have a leader, assistant leader, secretary, athletic captain, and two or three boosters. The fourth floor has already organized on the new basis and the other groups are expected to do so by next Sunday.

A change has also been made in the Inner Circles. Instead of the ten-minute devotional meeting every morning, except Sunday, only one meeting will be held which will come on Wednesday evening after supper. However, in addition, every boy will be asked to pledge himself to observe at least ten minutes each day in communion with God, consisting of Bible reading, prayer, and meditation. A number have already taken this pledge and it is hoped that by this method, the boys of Carnegie will come into a richer and deeper prayer life and a closer fellowship with Jesus Christ.

The Monday afternoon sports which were canceled last Monday on account of the necessity of having group pictures taken, will be as follows for Monday, March 3:

Competitive Group Sports
Event 1—Dodge Ball
Event 2—Leap Frog Race
Event 3—Straddle Ball Relay
Event 4—High Jump
Events 5 and 6—Inter-class Basket Ball Games.

The secretary is very sorry that, by some mistake or mishap on the part of another college, the moving picture film did not arrive last Monday.

An effort will be made to have Saturday night after 8 o'clock reserved for moving pictures, and lectures. If this arrangement can be made, it is very probable that either an illustrated lecture or an educational film can be given each week. This privilege will be given to the Y.M.C.A. only thru the cooperation and endorsement of the four literary societies. If the students of the school want this arangement let them discuss it at their society meetings next Saturday evening and if endorsed, communicate with the faculty and the "Y" secretary.

A REAL CHINESE PARTY

Miss Elizabeth Hudson and Miss Grace Sydenstricker entertained seventeen of the Student Volunteers, with Miss Lois Wilson as guest of honor, at a Chinese affair Saturday evening. The room of the hostesses was attractively decorated in the blue of the Chinese government and the weird lighting effects surrounded the girls with an oriental atmosphere. Chinese stories, customs and songs were told and sung for the delighted guests. The "eats", real Chinese food which came from China from the mother of Miss Sydenstricker, were eaten in true Chinese fashion—, chop sticks and all. The elaborate Chinese costumes worn by the hostesses and the dainty kimonas of the guests added much to the reality of the Chinese social event.

AN IN HONOR GEORGE WASHINGTON SPREAD

The Misses Sina Parrott and Gypsy Fowler, of Knoxville were the week-end guests of the Misses Janet Ensign and Julia Anderson.

A George Washington feast was given in their honor at which a number of girls were present. Minature red and white hatchets were presented as favors. After eating was impossible, games were played until the lights flashed and summoned the crowd to dream of cherry-trees et cetera.

Y. M. C. A. OBSERVES DAY OF PRAYER

Rev. Schuler of the Methodist Church Addresses Meeting.

The students' day of prayer was duly observed by the Y. M. C. A. Sunday. The morning classes discussed the subject of prayer, and the theme of Rev. T. C. Schuler's address to the men Sunday afternoon was "Prayer."

Rev. Schuler spoke of prayer in a direct and personal way. "Prayer is not a duty. It is a privilege of fellowship and communion with God, together with God's promise of an answer."

We should pray that we may be well pleasing in the sight of God. Mankind is to be tested as never before in these days of reconstruction. Loyalty to God must be greater than even loyalty to our country. The hopes of the world rest on our prayers and so we must put all on God's altar as we placed everything on the altar of our country.

The world is now in a plastic state and the students will, to a large degree, influence the shape and course of events. Just as our armies made the world "safe for democracy" so "Christianity must make democracy safe for the world." We must be anxious over God's victory.

"No man can live on public prayer or on family prayer", said the speaker. "We must be alone with God, so He can see inside." Last comes the reward, promised by God; of character, influence for good, a happy life, and of redemption.

PARABLE OF THE WISE AND FOOILSH HOUSE BUILDER DISCUSSED AT VESPERS

The theme of the Vesper sermon was taken from the parable of the wise man who built a house on the rocks, and the foolish man who built his house upon the sand as recorded in Matthew 7, 24-27. The statement was made that every person desires a home of his own sooner or later, and that the universal possession of lands and homes would be a great guarantee for the best kind of democracy.

Next, the story of the parable was made real by a comparison of the wise and the foolish builder.

It was emphasized that each one must build his or her own house. When the individual reaches the proper age the building should be started. There is plenty of material all about us, waiting to be used.

After this first stage, the plan or form must be made. A great variety of architecture in buildings is in evidence in America and the same thing is true in soul buildings. But with the soul it does not matter about the architecture so long as the material in it is good, strong and sound.

The structure of the soul must be built on solid rock if it is to endure. When temptations and adversity come, those not built on a solid foundation will fall. There are certain unshakable and unmovable truths that should be observed. These are embodied in the preaching of Jesus Christ. The individual must take these underlying truths and build his or her own soul structure.

THE TIGERS WHIP MARYVILLE HIGH

The Tigers completely overwhelmed the team from Maryville High which met them on the home floor last week. The boys from the high school put up a good fight but were hopelessly outclassed. The final score was 40-16.

MARYVILLE COLLEGE
1819-1918

REV. SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON, D. D., PRES.

I. ITS PAST. Founded in 1819 by the Synod of Tennessee, it now celebrates its Centennial, in continued service to the church and country. Thousands of its former students are scattered over the world.

II. ITS PRESENT. Its enrollment in 1918 was 748—347 young men and 401 young women—of whom 297 were collegians. 480 students from Tennessee, and 268 from 33 other states and countries. Its teaching force of 60 professors and assistants.

III. ITS PLANT. It has property of all kinds amounting to $1,100,000. Twelve buildings, including the new swimming pool; water works, sewerage, steam heat and electric lights. The campus contains 250 acres.

IV. ITS COLLEGE CURRICULUM. It offers nine groups of study leading to a B. A. degree: Classical, Modern Languages, Science, Mathematics, Education, English, Literature and History, Psychology and Philosophy, Social Science and General. ED. CAMPBELL LISTS BATTLES HE FOUGHT IN

The following extract from a letter written by Ed. Campbell, a former '19'er to a classmate tells something of his part in the great war:

"I, too, was knocked out of a commission by the armistice. I was in the Army Candidates' School of the A.E.F. at the time, and as it is only a six weeks' course for noncoms I would have had a commission in a week or ten days. But I am awfully glad it is all over and don't regret not getting my Sam Brown one bit. In fact I am glad I am an enlisted man, for they won the war, not the officers. I refused a commission in the Reserve Corps".

"We sailed from New York May 11, 1918, landed at Liverpool, England, May 23, crossed to Dover and went from Dover to Calais where we landed May 24. We trained in Northern France until July 1, and then hiked to the line. We were given some instructions under the British and were in the First British Army under Plumber. We held the Ypres salient from July 17 to Sept. 5. During this time we made an advance of 8 kilos in August, capturing Kemmel Hill that Jerry had taken from the British in the spring. We then went south on the Somme. The great offensive on the Somme had gained back all the ground to the famous Hindenburg line. We went in twelve miles north of St. Quentin, and about sixteen miles south of Cambrai, near LeCatelet. We broke the Hindenburg line near Bellicourt on Sept. 29-Act. 1, and then came back for a short rest. We went in again Oct. 7, and drove until the 10th, came out again, and again went in on the 16-19 of October. Of course we lost heavily. We started in Company B with 197 men who went over first. There were 27 killed and about 125 wounded. That was an awful loss. However, there were a few of us who came through it without a scratch, although I missed the last stunt on account of going to school. The 'Battle of the Hindenburg Line' was the worst fight. Captain Lones was killed in it. I sure am glad it ended when it did. About a few more like that we were in, and I'd have been finished. * * * *

The Germans are beat all right. A battle isn't a picnic, I can assure you. It takes men to go through what we went into and through, and the Huns aren't monsters with four horns and forty tails seeking whom they may devour, or babies with hands raised high shouting "Kamerad". They're fighting men, and hard to whip. They weren't yellow. They were simply whipped."

A WORD ABOUT THE PAGEANT

Extensive preparations are being made for the pageant which will be given commencement week. The plans are complete and many of the parts have been assigned.

Then Seniors have decided that they will dispense with the class play this year and so be able to help with the pageant which will crown the century of Maryville's existence.

UNIQUE AND INTERESTING PRAYER MEETING

The prayer service of last week was in charge of the Volunteer Band. The service was unique but very interesting and impressive, the call to the mission field being made forceful and vivid by word, music, and pantomine.

Miss Hoffman, the President of the Band, spoke first about the urgency of the call to the foreign mision field, which is in great need of recruits. In conclusion, the objections most commonly heard as reasons for staying at home were met and answered. The principle objections are inability to learn the language, ill health, the lack of spiritual qualifications, the need at home, the previous start in a career, and the love of home.

Next, the need of more hospitals and equipment was impressed on the audience by a short sketch picturing a scene in a Chinese hospital. Various patients were brought in for treatment, who suffered from a number of diseases many of which were incurable and the result of superstition and social customs.

After a song by a mixed quartette, the needs of Japan, Korea, and China, were presented by three girls dressed in native costume.

Miss Copeland gave an appropriate reading, after which, the song "O Zion Haste" was beautifully illustrated by a pantomine acted out in accompaniment to a solo by Miss Heard.

The whole service was very imposing and given with the hope that the need of foreign missionary work might be better realized and that some might be moved to seriously and honestly consider this call for their life's work.

PALACE THEATRE

FRIDAY—D. W. Griffith presents George Fawcett in "GREATER LOVE". This is one of D. W.'s Greatest pictures (that is of the Drama type), and has an all-star cast; the story is one of the different kind from the ordinary pictures and one you will long remember for it will bring back and refreshen memories of something that has or will happen in your life. When we say it is a D. W. Griffith Production that's "nuf sed" for you can rest assured it is of the best class of pictures and will entertain. Also a Christie Comedy.

SATURDAY—Yes for sure, "Hands Up" will be here; also Pearl White in "Lightning Raider". Now believe me this is going to be some serial, and it is going to be packed jam full of punch and thrills and adventures never before seen in pictures for this "Lightning Raider" is some character and when it comes to the facts she is the best serial star on the stage, and if you will see her in "Lightning Raider" we think you will agree with us. "Lion's Claw" No. 15; the serial of death defying adventures with wild animals. Harold Lloyd Comedy entitled "WHO IS YOUR HUSBAND"; 15 minutes of continuous laughter. Current Event No. 5, all the latest Peace Conference news and developments. Last but not least comes Tom Mix in "FAME AND FORTUNE". A story of the early days in the West when the man with the largest Gun ruled the rest and had what he wanted. And now believe me if it takes Hard Hitting and Straight Shooting to get by—Well—"Old Tom" has got it and he knows how to put it over straight from the shoulder stuff. This is one of Mr. Mix's best dramas of the Western type, and he is seen at his best in this picture, for he portrays his REAL LIFE in REEL Pictures. 12 big reels today, the best show yet.

MONDAY—Double bill today. "BRASS BULLET" No. 12 and "IRON TEST" No. 10. These two serials are filled with excitement and adventures that look to be almost impossible and the stars are of the best in the serial productions. We will also have a two reel western entitled "CANYON MYSTERY"; and a big V Comedy, "DARING AND DYNAMITE", a Henry Lerhman production and featuring an all-star cast of the funniest types known. Broncho Billy in "THE WESTERN GIRL"

TUESDAY—First National Exhibitors Circuit present MME. PETROVA in "THE LIGHT WITHIN". A story of a young woman doctor who has invented a cure for Anthrax, but thru the jealousy of her husband she is induced to use the serum on a young man whom the jealous husband thinks to be her lover; and after she has injected the Anthrax germ into his system the jealous husband then destroys the cure and leaves the young man to die. But thanks to the quick wits of the young doctor, she is able to render "first aid" and he recovers. But then how they manage the rest is better told in the picture. There is some wonderful photography and the most perfect scenes in this picture that possibly could be had. War Review No. 28 or "With Our Boys in the Occupation Army in France and Germany". Also a L-KO Comedy "Pluck and Plotters", and a race with the police that will tickle you 'most to death.

WEDNESDAY—Paramount iPcture Corporation presents Mme. Petrova in "EXILED". A story in which an unfaithful husband forces his loyal and true wife in company with a man who has the "goods" on the husband; but the man proves to be a gentleman and in return for the disloyal husband's treatment of his wife the Hero and the husband have a first battle in which the husband is beaten and afterwards reconciled. Mme. Petrova certainly does good work in this feature, and we get some of the best "Close ups" to be had on account of the story calling for facial expressions that only Petrova can have. Also Eddie Polo in "LURE OF THE CIRCUS" No. 10, the most exciting of any chapter yet shown. A Nester Comedy that will keep you laughing from the first to the last of the reel.

PERSONALS

Horace Dawson, president of last year's senior class, has decided to enter the ministry, and is planning to attend the McCormick Theological Seminary. He is in Chicago now.

A. D. Bryson a graduate of last year, is located with the Air Nitrates Corporation at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, doing government work. He has a good position in the purchasing department.

Myron Barbour, a former member of the class of '19 sends his thanks to the Echo for the copies of the paper he received during the time he was in the hospital at Plattsburg, New York.

Miss Ruth Bartlett has given up her work here and returned to her home in Sault Ste Marie, Mich. because of ill-health.

Eckles West was recently honorably discharged from the navy and is now at home. Eckles' many friends were glad to welcome him back and some there were who were especially glad to do so.

Miss Grace Russell entertained a number of her friends Saturday night at a big feed. The room was attractively decorated in pink and green, the favors being in the same color. After an extensive menu was hugely enjoyed by all, the lights were put out and ghost tales were told with thrills and shiver. (Of course the lights had to flash.)

Wanted: To know why second floor Baldwin's washroom is so popular!

CAMPUS QUIPS

It is rumored that "Sheenie" is contempiating establishing a barber shop on College Hill. Last week he attempted to carry off a striped pole from a Kentucky town, but the natives were loath to part with it. Now the question is, will "Sheenie" patronize his own barber shop?

Has every one seen Prof. Walker's new cap?
"Ain't it a lulla?"

THOSE FLAGS

Forrest Brown says he prefers the black flag which flaunts the golden disc to all others.

Certain inhabitants of the realm governed by the pink flag are about to bring suit against Prof. Brittain for slander. Century plants—, the monstrosity of the insinuation.

Sauchy: "There has been something trembling on my lip for over a week!"
Mattie Hodges: "I noticed it, why don't you shave it off?"

If you want to keep on the right side of a fellow don't remind him of that girl with whom he couldn't get a date because she had "already made arrangements."

Elsie Dawson comes out of the Home Ec sewing room with her serge dress sprinkled with specks of white.
Inquiring one: "Elsie what is that all over your dress?"
Elsie: "O, that's Cotton. It always sticks. (Much tittering follows.)

SIDELIGHT ON THE BASKETBALL TRIP

"Sheeny" is becoming rapidly accomplished in the arts of the prize-fighter.

Weisbecker has some new marks. Have you seen them?

"Pretty Boy" fell for a good-looking Kentucky girl. Ask him about her.

Bechk states he likes to do the tickle-toe.

"Brownie" spent all his time reading those train letters from his two girls. Poor boy!

Fraser was the only man to behave himself.

Cotton was forever and eternally talking about the "sweetest name on mortal tongue." The rest of the team got no peace with him around.

Several members almost got pinched too.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM GIVEN AT JOINT MEETING

As the regular meetings of the various societies crown the end of the week, the monthly gathering of the Adelphic Union is a pleasing finish for the month.

The boys' societies try to produce a better program than that of the girls'—, but in vain. The girls' societies do the same with as much success. This scheme was carried out to perfection Saturday night.

The spirit of our forefathers was sustained in Miss Mattie Hamilton's interpretation of "The Ballad of the Sweet Pea", an incident of the Battle of Trenton. Another reading, "Trouble" by Miss Mary Louise Hayes, added much to the variety and pleasantry of the program. Both co-eds read so charmingly that the girls began to think there could be nothing better when to their dismay and delight also, Dr. Stevenson appeared and gave "An Appreciation of George Washington". The speaker dealt with the human interest side of Washington's career and emphasized the fact that we need to observe and follow the lessons of unselfishness of Washington and the founders of our government whose sacrifice and service have made us the great country of today. Roy McCall sang "When the Great Red Dawn is Shining" and made the boys feel that their part of the program could not be equalled.

As the plan worked so well in both capacities, the Union compromised and sent forth a double quartette, composed of the Misses Miles, Decker, Newton and Heard and Messrs. McCall, Herendon, Adams and Smith; which gave as a closing selection "Anchored."

I DON'T

(A composition of a former Maryville student.)

My parents told me not to smoke.
I don't.
Nor listen to an Irish joke.
I don't.

They made it clear, I musn't wink
At pretty girls, or even think,
About intoxicating drink.
I don't.

To flirt or dance is very wrong.
I don't.
Wild youths chase women, wine and song.
I don't.

I kiss no girls—not even one.
I do not know how it is done.
You wouldn't think I'd have much fun.
I don't.

DR. CHARLES S. BUTLER PRESENTS NEW ERA MOVEMENT

The students were favored with an interesting and timely chapel talk Thursday when Dr. Charles S. Butler of Buffalo, N. Y. spoke of the New Era Movement which is being propagated by the Presbyterian Church. This movement is in keeping with the Forward Movement of the various denominations in preparation for the reconstruction period which is at hand.

Dr. Butler said that the responsibility for the success of this movement rested heavily upon the college people. They must decide what part they are going to play in upholding the idealism of service which was so splendidly shown during the war. One of the most important phases of this New Era Movement is the Americanizing of the foreigners. Hitherto the church has largely neglected the stranger on American soil. Now she realizes her responsibility and will do her part in endeavoring to Americanize these people. Another object of the Forward Movement is to strengthen and stimulate the people who are already church members and thru them to reach the non-christians.

Dr. Butler was very earnest and his appeal to the students for greater service was most urgent and pelling.

UNION PRESBYTERY WILL RAISE $25,000 FOR THE CENTENNIAL

HON. M. H. GAMBLE APPOINTED CHAIRMAN OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE AND DR. R. I. GAMON, SECY. THE CAMPAIGN WILL BE CONDUCTED IN MAY.

At a meeting of the Presbytery of Union, held in January, it was resolved that a Special Committee should be appointed to conduct a campaign to secure $25,000 to form a Union Presbytery Fund, to be a part of the Maryville College Centennial Forward Fund of $325,000. Moderator Broady of the presbytery, himself a member of the Class of 1884, appointed a Special Committee of nine, consisting of six laymen and three ministers, as follows: Hon. M. H. Gamble, L. H. Spilman, Esq. A. E. Mitchell, Esq. F. L. Proffitt, W. E. Minnis, and S. O. Houston, Esq., and Revs. R. E. Vale, D. D., G. L. Hamilton, and R. I. Gamon, D D.

The Committee met at Knoxville on Monday of this week, and, after taking luncheon together, spent the afternoon in session in the pastor's study of the Second Presbyterian Church in organizing for the campaign. Hon. M. H. Gamble was made the Chairman of the Committee, and Dr. Gamon, Secretary. It was decided that the campaign should be conducted during the month of May, which is the last month of the campaign for the Centennial Forward Fund of $325,000. It will be a special feature of the New Era campaign now being conducted by the Presbyterian Church throughout the United States.

Sub-committees were appointed on different departments of the work. The utmost optimism was felt with regard to the outcome of the drive. It was reported that several friends had already indicated their purpose to subscribe a thousand dollars each. Instead of falling short of the total, it was confidently believed that a larger sum than $25,000 would be secured.

It was decided that contributions to this fund could be designated for any special part of the work of the College, according to the wishes of the donor. For example, it could be given to permanent endowment or scholarship endowment or a building fund or the improvement of the campus or even to a current fund of the institution. The fund contributed could also bear the name of the donor.

Sub-committees were appointed to make suggestive apportionment for the forty-eight churches of the presbytery, and to appoint subcommittees in each church to have general charge of the local drive. Rev. R. I. Gamon, D. D., was appointed manager of the campaign. Assistant managers will be added as needed. A special issue of the college bulletin will be published about the first of April and sent out to all the families of the different churches of the presbytery.

The fact that over half of the ministers of the presbytery and a very large number of the elders, deacons, and other members of the churches are old students of Maryville College will make this movement a very popular one indeed. It will be a labor of love. Coming when it does, the campaign will contribute decisively to the success of the larger campaign of which it is a part.

Union Presbytery has done nothing as a presbytery for the College since the days when the Rev. Thomas Brown before the war was raising endowment for the institution. We are very hopeful now that the committee will be able to raise $25,000 or more from Union Presbytery towards the final $80,000 of the $325,000 that must be secured by June 1 of this year.

MARYIVLLE MEETS MURPHY COLLEGE

Murphy Sucumbs With a Score of 45-13. The Game Scheduled With U. T. is Called Off By The Vols.

Murphy College met Maryville on the local court Friday afternoon and came off with the small end of a 45-13 score. The game started with a rush and for a few minutes it looked as though it would be a toss-up between the two teams. Maryville soon settled down to business however, and by the end of the first half had a lead of 13 points. During the last half Murphy succeeded in making only three points. Weisbecker got ten field goals and Brown six. The whole team played well and is to be commended for its good work.

A return game at Knoxville had been scheduled with U. T. for Monday but was called off owing to a severe attack of cold feet which broke out in the U. T. ranks early Monday morning. It is to be deplored that the game could not be played and sympathy is extended to the stricken school.

Line-up

M. C.		Murphy
Brown	f.	McNelly
Weisbecker	f.	J. Allen
Cotton	c.	Delozier
Briggs	g.	Ballard
Frazier	g.	G. Allen Williams

Scoring, M. C.: Field Goals; Weisbecker 10, Brown 6, Cotton 3, Briggs 1; Fouls, Weisbecker 5.

Murphy: Field Goals, Delozier 2, V. Allen 2, McNelly 1. Fouls, McNelly 3.

AN INCIDENT OF TURKISH WAR-FARE

W. R. Momary, an Armenian who attended college here last year and part of the fall term, remarked in a recent letter to a professor on the Hill that twenty-one of his relatives had been killed by the Turks in their recent brutal slaughter of the Armenian race. Mr. Momary's mother and several young children have been left helpless and starving and he is endeavoring to bring them to this country where he can properly care for them.

KNOWLTON GLEE AND BANJO CLUB ENTERTAIN

Selections From Light and Grand Opera and Medleys Of Old Favorites and Popular Songs Compose an Evening's Pleasant Entertainment

An extra lyceum number was given Tuesday evening, March 4, when the Y. M. C. A. presented the Knowlton Glee and Banjo Club. This additional number was offered by the Piedmont Lyceum Association because of previous dissatisfaction caused by the non-appearance of Mr. Flowers and the substitution of several of the numbers. The personnel of the Knowlton Glee and Banjo Club consisted of Mr. Knowlton, baritone and director; Mr. Daubert, first tenor; Mr. Michel, second tenor; Mr. Hoehn, first bass; and Mr. Quin, second bass. The opening number was a medley of southern plantation songs which was played on the banjo. "The Soldiers Chorus" from Faust and an arrangement of the sextet from Lucia were well rendered. "The Owl and the Pussy Cat", a favorite melody from the opera Robin Hood, caused much amusement as well as enjoyment, while the applause which followed a medley of popular war songs showed that there is still a fondness for things which relate to the great struggle. Mr. Hoehn's interpretation of "The Old Turnkey" was well done and received great applause. The most popular of all war ballads "Just Break the News to Mother" was sung by Mr. Daubert with chorus accompanient. "Old Uncle Ned" proved a taking number as did a lullaby, adapted to Dvorak's Humoresque which was sung and acted by the chorus. Among other numbers were 'Til We Meet Again, Kentucky Babe, Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground and The Star Spangled Banner.

The men of the Knowlton Glee and Banjo Club are members of the Keith Circuit which fact speaks for itself.

THE SECOND CO-ED TEAM PLAYS

The girls' second team met and defeated the East Side High School team on the home floor last Wednesday afternoon in one of the fastest and most interesting games of the season. The large crowd of spectators waxed enthusiastic during the latter half. The M. C. girls made the first goal in the first few seconds after the game began but were soon passed by their opponents. From then on until the end of the half it was a neck and neck race, the East Side girls being ahead one point, when the whistle blew.

During the second half the high school team succeeded in scoring but once while the Maryville girls made nine points. The final score was 21-14.

THE EXPRESSION DEPARTMENT ENTERTAINS THE Y. M. C. A.

MEMBERS OF MISS BUXTON'S DRAMATIZATION CLASS PRESENT KATE DOUGLAS WIGGINS' "OLD PEABODY PEW" TO A LARGE AND APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE

The prophecy uttered from the chapel platform several days ago proved to be a true one for the recital given by the Expression Department of the College on last Monday evening did benefit not only the Y. W. C. A. under whose auspices it was given but everyone who was present to enjoy the splendid display of home talent.

The light and airy "Greetings to Spring" by John Strauss which the Girls' Quartette gave as the introductory number was the very thing to drive dull care away and put the audience in a happy frame of mind for enjoying the main part of the program.

This was followed by a reading "Maid of France" given by Miss Maude Pardue who never fails to charm her hearers by her power of interpretation and her own pleasing manner. The closing number of the first part of the program was greatly enjoyed not only because of the ability of the performer but because the musical instrument used has seldom been heard on the Hill. It was a selection on the xylophone played by Mr. Ray Sullinger, and the applause with which it was greeted showed how greatly it was appreciated. Miss Marguerite Sullinger, the accompanist, is well known for her musical ability.

The second part of the program was the presentation by the members of the Dramatization Class of Kate Douglas Wiggins' charming play, "The Old Peabody Pew". From the moment that the curtain rose on the interior of the plain little meeting-house and the gathering of its faithful Dorcas Society, until the close of the second scene when the old Peabody pew was so happily occupied again, the audience seemed to lose themselves and to be transported for a little while into that wholesome, sweet and simple atmosphere where dwell those quaintest, most amusing, but most lovable people, the New England country folk of our grandfather's day.

It is difficult to say which were the leading parts, for the Dorcas Society would certainly not have been complete with a single of its members missing, and each girl entered so fully into the life of her character that one does not know where to draw the line in praise of the cleverness and ability of the actresses.

The calm business-like president of the society, who worked with such solicitude to keep peace in her little flock was very skillfully managed by Miss Mattie Hamilton. Perhaps the most smiles were produced by Miss Minnie Hunter as Miss Lobelia Brewster who plied her needle, her dustcloth and her tongue with equal rapidity, and who had her own opinion about the "menfolks". Another prim old maid, Miss Maria Sharp, who although she talked but little, bobbed her curls in approval at Miss Lobelia's every sentiment, was cleverly depicted by Miss Marie Townsend. But not so the Widow Buzzel who was willing to take a second risk at the first opportunity, Miss Sue Nuckols, Maryville's popular reader, played the Widow's part. The society would not have been complete without the village historian and Miss Gail Wilson as Mrs. Miller made her very real. The sweet-faced, grateful little minister's wife in the person of Miss Troy Haddox

LECTURE "POTTER AND THE CLAY", MARCH 11

Mr. J. Smith Damon, a Practical Potter and Noted Lecturer Will Illustrate The Lecture With Tangible Illustrations.

Next Tuesday evening, March 11, the sixth and concluding number of the Lyceum will be given. It will be a demonstrated art lecture. "Potter and the Clay", by Mr. J. Smith Damon.

This is an art lecture on character building. Mr. Damon is a practical potter, having worked at the trade for years. He is an expert with his potter's wheel and in full view of his audience he makes several vessels of clay on an old fashioned potter's turning wheel.

The work he does in this oldest handcraft known to man, is most fascinating and instructive. He describes the preparation of the clay, glazing, decorating, and burning, and gives a brief history of the art of the potter. Valuable information regarding the manufacture of pottery is also given.

But Mr. Damon is not only a moulder of clay. He is likewise a moulder of character. The splendid lessons on character building found in this lecture cannot be surpassed. He is also an entertainer of the choicest type, presenting much wit, humor, and philosophy. He quotes many real gems of literature, demonstrating the author's thoughts through the evolution of a piece of clay.

Here is a lecture with actual demonstration, a discourse with tangible illustrations, an entertainment with happy action.

GIRLS SUBSCRIBE $250 TO FRED HOPE FUND

The girls have gone over the top in subscribing their quota of $250 to the Fred Hope Fund. Not content with having reached the set goal, the girls are planning to hold a Parcel Post Sale which will take place in Pearsons Saturday evening to increase the state of the general treasury. Up-to-date the boys have given $160.

EFFICIENCY TEST GIVEN STUDENTS

The first hour was given Wednesday to the taking of the Efficiency Test which has been sent out by the government to the colleges of the country. Dean Barnes conducted the examination which every student was required to take.

Great were the mental strain and physical effort exerted to complete the test in the allotted time. Many interesting facts were discovered in the process of testing. For instance, one senior stated that a Korean has six legs. The government will doubtless gain much desired information as a result of the test.

When is the Men's Glee Club going to make it first appearance?

:-:-:-:-:

Yes, spring is coming! Didn't you hear voices raised in song at ten o'clock Tuesday evening? That is a sure sign, as sure as the inevitable game of marbles.

:-:-:-:-:

Again exams are drawing near. March 15 is the day when the trial begins and all who survive until the twentieth will be acquitted—, perhaps. The sentence guilty or not guilty is practically yours to decide. However it is within the power of the presiding judges to show mercy. Will the trial be a fair one?

:-:-:-:-:

Some of the people who believe in preserving the college traditions and customs want to know what has become of the good old yell, "Howee How." Cheering has been a feature of recent games, but the college yell has been noticeably absent. Let's have it now and then, ye cheer leaders!

:-:-:-:-:

There is a time and place for everything—even talking, but it is decidedly bad taste to talk while a person is performing. Some real annoyance was caused Monday night by the continued conversation of several particular people during a special number.

:-:-:-:-:

Many ills and miseries escaped from the box lid of which Pandora peeped beneath centuries ago. Not the least of these was trouble which flew boldly forth to harass and try future generations. "Men are born to trouble at first and exercised in it all their days", an eminent man, who had drunk deeply of life's experience, once said. Trouble in a great or less degree comes to every mortal being. It comes to all indiscriminately. Everyman has his turn of trouble whereby all men are in their turn miserable. He is miserable once who feels it but twice who fears it before it comes. Consequently there are many persons who are twice miserable because it is a natural trait to cross a bridge before it is reached. Much unhappiness could be avoided if people would learn to accept their trials as they come instead of going out to seek additional burdens.

There is some good in everything and trouble is not without its balm. Seneca says: "There is no man more unfortunate than the man who has never been unfortunate, for it has never been in his power to try himself." Is his statement true? Consider the men and women whom you know who, as yet, have encountered no difficulties. They are never sure of themselves for they have not felt the pangs out of which dearest hopes are often born. The girl or boy in school who lives the care-free, faun-like life is not the one who does the important things. He or she could not bear the responsibility. Therefore instead of considering trouble as a bug-bear accept it as necessary in the formation of your character. When days are darkest bear in mind the old adage, "When things come to the worst, they'll mend."

Lastly remember that trouble is for the most part an individual thing and that it is not going to help the world if you publish your woes abroad. Each one has his difficulties and each person must bear his load for so it was ordained in the beginning of things.

AS SEEN FROM THE CAMPUS

This is the way it happened: As I was walking across the campus last Saturday night, I heard the most wonderful strains of music floating from the windows on the eastern side of Pearsons Hall. I went nearer the building and looked above to a brilliantly lighted window, but by that time the music had ceased, and a curious-looking figure, mouth wide open, and eyes ablaze, stood waving wildly in the air with enthusiasm. Now and again I caught the words "idiot", "matron", and I wondered if I might enter the building. I did, and was ushered into Bainonian Hall where a strong debate was at its most interesting stage. The subject for debate was: "Resolved: That an asylum keeper's profession is more profitable than that of a matron." Willodine McIver and Ashton Clayton argued for the affirmative side of the question, while Anne Clemens and Rachel Sells ably defended the negative. Needless to say, the affirmative won since budding girlhood cannot win over blooming idiots.

The music was a violin duet by Amelia Rendon and Sue Drinnen with Lila Hembree as pianist. Miss Hembree played a piano solo and Winston Newton, in her own sweet way, sang two selections.

I felt that my time was well spent, and if I were a Maryville student I think I should not hesitate to become a Bainonian.

DEAN BARNES LEADS PRAYER MEETING

The prayer meeting service was led by Dr. Barnes, who spoke on the "Formation of Christian Habits."

He stated that there are certain laws of habits which should be observed—, namely, the law of exercise, of effect, of service.

Repetition and intensity are two factors of the law of exercise. If the stimulus is very strong, it will tend to fix habits. The stimuli act in both a physical and mental way.

In the law of effect, it was noted that the nervous system tends to act in the same way as it did before.

Christ, all through His life, taught the law of loving service, and seized every opportunity to apply it. The Christian, the speaker enjoined to make resolutions and then take the first chance to act upon them and to act strongly. If such a person falls, he should get up and not depend upon his feeling.

The Christian's habits should include prayer and practice. Prayer must come first because everything else depends upon it. It is to the soul as oxygen is to the body. Secret and private prayer count most.

The second rule is to study the Bible. To do this properly, we must first get into the right attitude. We should also attend prayer meetings, church services, and sabbath school.

In reference to practice, when a person knows a duty, he must do it and leave the rest with God. We should not worry, but use every power to have prayer answered. We should practice benevolence, veracity, integrity, and purity so that all our powers may be kept intact, thereby having complete control of ourselves and living to the glory of God.

THE ETERNAL CITY

The " faith" chapter of the New Testament, the eleventh chapter of Hebrews, was used by the college pastor as the background of his thought for the vesper sermon. The particular text used was the tenth verse, "For he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God."

In beautiful language the "city that hath foundations" was described as being a lovely and magnificent city with a definite location. Attention was drawn to the fact that no one is a permanent citizen of this world, but day by day each person is journeying towards the land beyond. Those who are following Christ may be sure of a home where there will be no sickness, no sighs, no hunger, and no sin. Sin is the occasion of the cup of bitterness, and selfishness empties the cup of joy.

The belief in the "city that hath foundations", was the means of strengthening the faith of the saints of old. It was this that caused the men and women of the Bible to practice self-denial and to endure persecution. It is in this city that friends will meet, and loved ones will be together again. No one can afford to fail to come to that "city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God."

DR. STEVENSON CONDUCTS WORLD FORUM DISCUSSION

The forty-five minute period for the World Forum Discussion was all to short last Sunday afternoon.

The former lessons were hastily summarized by Dr. Stevenson in which was shown the need of reality and virility in religion; the need of a wider horizon of thought and action; a need of a keener realization of the world needs which the student is facing and his part of the responsibility.

In many places the war has interferred with mission work, and in all, made the presenting of the faith of so-called Christian nations very difficult. But people have emerged from the slaughter more thoughtful, more filled with the spirit of service, more consecrated to the privilege of giving. With the spread of democracy, the fear of a Holy War is gone, and all minds are focused on the realities of life. It is realized that the war cost of $200,000,000,000 invested in the cause of Christ and education would have saved countless suffering ones and made love rather than hatred, the ruling motive. These great lessons must be taught to all peoples.

EXPRESSION DEPARTMENT ENTERTAINS FOR THE Y. W. C. A.

immediately won the love and sympathies of the audience.

But after all it must be admitted that a play is not worth while without a romance, and it fell to Miss Jessie Creswell to be the sweet and gentle Nancy Wentworth who for ten long years had gone quietly on her way keeping to herself the secret of her love and devotion to an apparently faithless lover, and there was not a single one in the audience but shared Nancy's happiness when at last Justin Peabody came home from the west, to reward her faithfulness with words of love and appreciation and to take again his seat beside her in the Old Peabody Pew. Justin Peabody was none other than Mr. J. H. Turner who displayed ability that none knew he possessed.

There was not a moment when the players did not hold the interest, sympathy and appreciation of the audience and there was a touch of pride in hearts of the Hill folks as they realized that back of the curls and powdered hair and queer old-fashioned dresses and back of the quaintness and cleverness of the "as real as life" characters there were Maryville College girls capable of presenting the fruits of their ability and labor in so charming a play.

MARYVILLE COLLEGE
1819-1918

REV. SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON, D. D., PRES.

I. ITS PAST. Founded in 1819 by the Synod of Tennessee, it now celebrates its Centennial, in continued service to the church and country. Thousands of its former students are scattered over the world.

II. ITS PRESENT. Its enrollment in 1918 was 748—347 young men and 401 young women—of whom 297 were collegians. 480 students from Tennessee, and 268 from 33 other states and countries. Its teaching force of 60 professors and assistants.

III. ITS PLANT. It has property of all kinds amounting to $1,100,000. Twelve buildings, including the new swimming pool; water works, sewerage, steam heat and electric lights. The campus contains 250 acres.

IV. ITS COLLEGE CURRICULUM. It offers nine groups of study leading to a B. A. degree: Classical, Modern Languages, Science, Mathematics, Education, English, Literature and History, Psychology and Philosophy, Social Science and General. Fifteen units are required for admission to the freshman class. A two-year premedical course is offered

V. ITS OTHER DEPARTMENTS. 1. Preparatory. 2. Bible Training. 3. Teachers. 4. Home Economics. 5. Agriculture. 6. Bookkeeping. 7. Music. 8. Expression. 9. Art.

VI. ITS MORAL ATMOSPHERE. The College is strongly Christian, and the discipline is careful. The Students' spiritual welfare is the first concern. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are very efficient. The Bible is the required text book.

VII. ITS INEXPENSIVENESS. 1. Tuition is $6.00 a term. 2. Room rent for each student with two in the room, $18 to $35 a year. 3. Board in Cooperative Club of 500 is $2.25 per week. 4. Text books rented. General library free. 5. Opportunities for selfhelp afforded.

THE "Y" SITUATION IN FRANCE DISCUSSED BY AN M. C. ALUMNUS

Co. C, 105 F. S. Bn.,
American Ex. Force.
February 9, 1919.

To the Editor of the Highland Echo,
Maryville, College,
Maryville, Tenn.

Having an abiding interest in my Alma Mater, and in the noble work which she is doing, as all true Maryvillians have, I take this opportunity to write briefly on a subject greatly agitated today.

I do not have to assume that everyone on College Hill is interested in the proposition I intend to discuss. The report given in the Highland Echo of your enthusiastic and, perhaps on the part of many, sacrificial contribution to the War Work Campaign Fund, is sufficient evidence of your interest in Army Y. M. C. A. Work.

The "Y" as an organization, and especially the "Y" service in France, has been and is being severely criticised. The magnitude of this criticism is shown by the space given to it in our newspapers and magazines. That there is cause for some criticism is not denied by our great "Y' leaders who have written in defense of the organization.

However, I think most of the criticism by the enlisted men, from whom the greatest part of it comes, is due to their failure to see things in the true proportion.

The soldier has had the "Y" pictured to him as a friend who goes wherever he goes and satisfies his every want and need, even in the front line trenches. This of course has not been done.

Too much was expected of the "Y" at the start, due in part to unintentional misrepresentation in campaign work. Many mistook the final goal for the preliminary stages and expected the whole program to come into full swing over night, as it were.

The average soldier judges the work of the whole organization, from the service rendered him, by the "Y" man or men he has had dealings with, and from what he has seen of the work in his particular unit or division. He does not consider what the "Y" has done in the leave areas and in areas back from the lines, where the work can be handled more succesfully. I know the men in the back area had service when men in the trenches had none.

The soldier overlooks the fact that the canteen business was an enormous task which the "Y" was not prepared to assume. The "Y" fully aware of this fact, took the work in charge at the request of Gen. Pershing. I think it has rendered better service than the Quarter Master would have rendered, at the same time bringing upon itself a great storm of unjust criticism.

During the past month the men of the Thirtieth Division have seen something of what the "Y' is doing, in way of entertainments, movies, serving hot chocolate, etc.

If one "Y" man proves inefficient all are put in the same category. Some other smaller organizations give away a few articles. The soldier concludes that the "Y" should give away everything, including canteen goods, free of charge.

I have been at times where there was no "Y" service to be had. I have walked quite a distance to stand in line an hour and longer while officer's orderlies went in the canteen and purchased what the chosen ones desired, at last to hear the announcement, "Finished". I have heard the "Y" man in the canteen say, "We haven't any" to an enlisted man, and one minute later, "How many sir?" (of the same article) to an officer.

On the other hand the 'Y" does give some things to the men. The "Y" has kept me supplied with stationery. It has given me hot chocolate and cookies, several moving picture and vaudeville shows, and other entertainment. In fact I have received more benefit from the "Y" than any other organization including the Red Cross. These two are the only organizations I have seen in France.

SENIORS BEAT THE JUNIORS

The Senior girls came into their own Monday afternoon when they defeated the Juniors in a basketball game by a score of 19-3. The interest in inter-class games is warm while the contest wages, but otherwise pep is not as much in evidence as it has been in past years.

LOST—A volume of Hudson's Shakespeare, left in the front window of the library last Thursday. Had label inside of Rev. C. S. Adams. Will give reward for its return.

Robert W. Adams.

When we consider the enormity of the task, along with the conditions and difficulties under which the "Y" has labored, we must conclude that the "Y' has successfully filled its mission in France as elsewhere.

C. E. M., 16.

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting last Sunday led by the Freshman Class was an especially good one and thoroughly appreciated. "Helps and Hindrances to Christian Character" proved a fruitful and highly interesting subject as brought out by Irma Schwab, Ruth Greenlee and Nina Belle Caldwell. The second chapter of II Timothy was the scripture lesson. Miss Greenlee gave a good exposition of the Helps—, Home, Each Other, Love, Prayer and Small Things. Miss Caldwell explained how these same helps could become hindrances if not rightfully used and appreciated.

Sue Drinnen gave the "Angel's Serenade" as a violin solo. She was accompanied by Miss Hembree at the piano. "The Life of Louise Andrews" by Dr. Robert E. Speer was very beautifully read by Miss Evelyn Eastman.

Miss Susan Green and Miss Mary Howk were in Knoxville the first of the week buying their spring hats.

PERSONALS

Mr. Tien Ze Chang who studied for several years at Maryville is engaged in government work in Washington, D. C.

The Rev. W. R. Dawson of Knoxville visited on the Hill the early part of the week.

The Misses Marion Henry and Marie Townsend entertained over the week-end Chaplain Reginald Rowland, formerly of Camp Green, Charlotte, N. C. Chaplain Rowland conducted chapel service Saturday morning.

G. A. Fogleman, a recent Maryville student, is stationed with the Canadian Expeditionary Force at Vladivostak, Siberia. Fogleman writes that he is endeavoring to learn Russian and French in the time he has free from his duties as orderly in the No. 11 Stationary Hospital. Before embarking October 26, 1918 he took unto himself a Canadian wife.

Miss Augusta Templin and Miss Mildred Campbell spent Sunday and Monday in Morristown at the home of Miss Templin's parents.

Lieut. M. G. Cleveland, the first commandant of the one-time local S. A. T. C., is pursuing his studies in the Engineering Department at the University of Alabama preparatory to receiving his degree in June. Adjutant Reel has resumed his academic work at the University of Ohio and hopes to graduate with the 1919 class.

Miss Ruth Caldwell had as her guests last week her small sisters, Nellie and Elizabeth Caldwell of Rockford.

Miss Robison of Greenburg, N. C. visited the college one day last week to make arrangements for Dr. Nobel's visit in April. She came in the interest of the national Y.W.C.A. which is planning an extensive social education program to be carried out in the co-ed and women's colleges of the country. Dr. Nobel, a noted and experienced physician, will likely spend a week in Maryville during which time a course of lectures will be given to the college girls and to the town women on subjects which are of vital importance to the American woman of today.

A number of the men including 'Sheeny" Briggs, Bob Adams, Jarvis Cotton and Luther Johnson, were in Knoxville Monday attending Griffitt's mammoth production, "Hearts of the World."

CAMPUS QUIPS

Mrs. Alexander in English class: "Mr. McCurry will you give me a quotation from Othello?"

Mr. McCurry: "Commend me to 'your' kind lord."

Ardent debater in Bainonian: "There is nothing uplifting about an insane asylum."

A voice from the audience: "What about the elevator?"

WHY IS RED HAIR SO POPULAR?

Some people with brown locks strained a point to get into the picture of the Red-Headed Club. It has been suggested that the club become an inter-collegiate affair. U. T. has had such an organization for a number of years.

FACTS WORTH REMEMBERING

That "Red" Turner alias Justin Peabody knows how to make love.

That the fountain is not a waste receptacle.

That U. T. forfeited the game Monday

That Rachel Sells and Anne Clemens are rooming together.

That it is permissable to scream in Pearsons Hall, particularly at mail time.

That Dean Barnes subjected the entire student body to an efficiency test March 5, 1919 and many were found wanting.

ALPHA SIGMA

Saturday evening the Alpha Sigma Literary Society, that organization the meetings of which are always looked forward to by the boys that are anxious for entertainment, held its regular meeting in its regular hall and at its regular time.

And that program to which those present were permitted to listen was one that was really inspiring as well as entertaining.

Luther Johnson read the Adelphic Advance, an interesting newspaper filled for the greater part with plain old every day gossip. In this were revealed some of the campus secrets, such as the peculiarities of certain members of the faculty (nothing harmful of course)—, happenings on the campus, and even the diary of one of the most illustrious moonshiners. How the editors of the paper got possession of the latter is not known, but it is known that the dairy was exceedingly interesting, and humorous. There were also some selections of poetry.

The next number was a piano solo by Charles Edgemon who played a selection entitled "Poet and Peasant" which was heartily encored.

Then came the debate, Resolved: That the students of Maryville College should have self-government. This was well debated by Mr. Hunter on the affirmative and Mr. Taylor on the negative.

ATHENIANS FULLY RECOVER FROM WAR CONDITION

Eleven Members Join At The Meeting Saturday Night.

Athenian spirit grows by leaps and bounds. A full house greeted the first March meeting.

The opening number was a mandolin solo, "Ave Maria", a composition of Genuod's, by James Ensign. Following this was a snappy debate on Resolved: That labor unions are a menace to public welfare. The affirmative was upheld by Delemo Beard and Charles Dilworth against Dewey Shaver and Thomas Vance of the negative. "Spices", a collection of humor, was given by Moss Farmer. The last number, by James Martin was a forceful interpretation of scene 1, Act IV. from "King John".

The names of Luther Thomason, Jack Petty, Herbert Burkhart, Lawrence Moore, Ernest Flowers, Edgar Buchanan, and Travis Gibson were presented and accepted for membership. Eleven took the formal oath of Athenian loyalty. The growth in numbers speaks but in a small way of the many fold development of the Athenian Society and dimly foretells of future accomplishment.

The society voted unanimously to reduce the war expedient of joint meetings to the one of the Adelphic Union held in the chapel. War conditions no longer hamper the Athenians.

THETA EPSILON

Ye fellow Thetas and friends hear and rejoice! Henceforth Theta Hall will be spotless! Elsie Dawson was appointed chairman of the Clean-up Committee last Saturday. Moreover lend me your ears and you shall hear of what else took place on that eventful Saturday night. The Misses Lucille Middleton and Mabel Ritchie rendered a piano duet. Celeste Moseley made her debut with a reading. Grace Majure gave a much enjoyed piano solo. Bernice Lowry, all in frills and curls, gave, in a charming and bewitching manner, a piano-logue entitled "I Wish I Was a Janiter's Child."

The special event of the evening was a talk on the Peace Conference by Prof. Hunter, in which he gave in brief outline the most important details of the Conference, including the three main factors to be decided, and the different views held by England, France, and the United States.

FRANK JAMES INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL PROGRESSES IN SPITE OF WAR

FRED HOPE WRITES THAT HE WILL BE UNABLE TO ATTEND THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION, BUT THAT HE EXPECTS TO RETURN NEXT SUMMER.

A letter received by Professor Bassett from Fred Hope, dated January 3, 1919, brings word that he will be unable to be present at the Centennial Celebration in Maryville as he had hoped to be, for, his furlough has been postponed on account of the war. He expects to return next summer, and it is hoped that he will visit Maryville some time during the next school year before returning to Africa.

At the time of writing, the Spanish Influenza had closed the school and there were 250 cases in the vicinity of the mission. Mr. Hope and his family, however, were in good health.

The annual report from the Frank James Industrial School, of which Mr. Hope is Superintendent, was inclosed in the letter. All of the report is extremely interesting but too long for publication. We give the following extracts from it:

"The school ran only eight and a half months the past year, having lost one month and a half on account of the epidemic of influenza. The year's work has been in some ways the best year yet. Especially has this been a good year financially in spite of the fact that we were hampered by not being able to get orders from America filled satisfactory. * * * * *

"CARPENTER CLASS—The class has had all the work that it was possible to do; in fact it was not able to do near all the work that was offered. Since the last report they have put up two new dwelling houses, one of seven and one of eight rooms, a new dormitory, a school house for the French school, a dry shed for the plant, have rebuilt a large part of the boys' town at the plant, and built a town for the evangelists to accommodate one hundred and twenty-five families. Furniture has been made for the new dwellings and quite a number of new pieces have been made for the other station. More ivory work has been done than ever before. We have kept our four or five men on that work all the time. * * * * * * * * *

"TAILOR CLASS—The class has been crowded with work the whole year and left a great deal of unfinished work when the class was closed because of the influenza. The class now has fifteen machines. The gross returns from September 1917 to November 15, 1918 are a little over $8,650. The number of pairs of pants made this year has been 794, shirts 698, dresses 597, coats 40, and cloths such as the natives wear, both men and women, were turned out by the hundreds, no account being kept of the number. * * * * * * *

"BLACKSMITH CLASS— The class has surely justified its existence. It has been invaluable in its services to the mission in the repair work that the class has done. During these war times old things had to be made to answer, for new could not be had. The class has done a great deal of all kinds of repair work, from putting a new blade in an old jack knife to rebuilding automobiles and a steam engine. One of the valuable things was keeping the bicycles, Smith Pushers, and motorcycles in repair for the missionaries; thus making a great saving of the missionaries' time.

"When the carpenter class ran out of nails and they could not be had from America, they were made in the blacksmith shop from old wire that the Bulu has used in days gone by in place of money. When the garden hoes were worn out the class made a hundred new hoes besides repairing many old ones. When the supply of solder

MARYVILLE CO-EDS WIN MURPHY GAME

Game Played on Murphy Court. The Maryville Girls Ran Score up to 19-6

The M C. co-eds met the Murphy College girls last Saturday afternoon on the latter's court, and defeated them by the score 19-6.

The fast floorwork and passing of the ball by the M. C. team could not be checked by the Murphy girls while the M. C. guards so completely covered the Murphy forwards that they were compelled to shoot usually from long difficult angles. The score at the end of the first half was 18-1. During the second half a change was made in the Murphy line-up and the M. C. girls were able to score only one point, while Murphy scored 5.

The line-up and score were as follows:

Murphy		Maryville
P. Montgomery	f.	M. Whedbee
E. Montgomery	f.	B. Bailey
E. Cox	c.	C. Moseley
G. Blalock,	g.	A. Samsel

LYCEUM NUMBER PROFITABLE ONE

Mr. Smith Dammon, an Expert Potter, Gives Interesting Pointers in Regard to China And Pottery.

On Tuesday night of this week a most interesting and instructive lecture and demonstration was presented in the chapel as the final number of the Lyceum course. Mr. Smith Dammon gave his lecture on "The Potter and The Clay", and illustrated it with the actual moulding of the plastic clay into vases, jugs, pitchers and other "vessels of honor' before his audience. The potter's art is one of the oldest in existence, but modern devices, with their time-saving advantages, are rapidly supplanting it, so that it is fast becoming a lost art. The spectators watched with eager interest the shaping of the wet clay, the yielding of it to the slightest touch of the skilled workman, and the mysterious manner in which it seemed to rise from the wheel and take the desired form.

A very informing part of the lecture had to do with facts regarding chinaware. Samples of the various well-known makes of china were exhibited with comments and demonstrations showing the merits or defects of each. By a series of simple tests it was clearly shown that American-made table-ware is superior to most, if not all of the famous French and English makes. Some elucidating facts were also given in regard to the so-called "hand-painted' china on the market today.

This entertainment closed the series of six numbers offered this year in the Y. M. C. A. lyceum course. The attendance at each of these numbers has been excellent and in most every case a pleasing entertainment has been the reward.

MISS BEWLEY SAILS FOR FRANCE

Miss Irene Bewley, a graduate of the Maryville Expression Department and the Leland Powers School of the Spoken Word, who has so often delightfully entertained an audience here, recently sailed for France as a member of the entertainment bureau of "Y" service in that country. Since Sept. 21, 1918 Miss Bewley has been in the entertainment service of the Southeastern Military Department. Her many friends in the college wish her the best of wishes for continued health and success in her venture overseas.

DEAN HOSKINS ACTING PRESIDENT OF U. T.

Professor James D. Hoskins has been transferred from Dean of the College of Liberal Arts to the position of Acting President of the University of Tennessee. This appointment follows the recent demise of the President, Dr. Brown Ayres. Dr. James Porter, Professor of Physics and Astronomy in the University has been selected to act as Dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

This startling bit of news caused many a precious document on College Hill to be brought forth and sent on its way to the Finance Officer.

A LOVE LETTER 400 YEARS OLD DISCUSSED AT Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY

PROF. GILLINGHAM EXHIBITS COPY OF ORIGINAL LETTER WHICH WAS IMPRINTED ON A CLAY TABLET. THE PARCEL POST EXISTED IN 2000 B. C.

The subject of Prof. Gillingham's talk to the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon was a very unique one; one interesting to both moonshiner and archæologist.

Prof. Gillingham exhibited a small grayish brick of plaster about four inches long, two inches wide, and one-half inch thick on which were imprinted the peculiar symbols of the Sumerian language. This, he explained, was an exact reproduction of the love letters of a Babylonian youth to his sweetheart, written over two thousand years before the birth of Christ. After an absence from Babylon, this youth had returned and found his lady gone, and had written to her these words:

"To Bibea say, thus saith Gimel-Marduk. May the gods, Shamash and Marduk permit thee to live forever for my sake. I write to inquire concerning thy health. Tell me how thou are. I went to Babylon, but did not see thee. I was greatly disappointed. Send the reason for thy leaving, that I may be happy. Do come in the month Marchesvan. Keep well always for my sake."

In this short message of sixty-eight words, no adjectives are used. The original tablet was made of sun dried clay and until a few years ago had lain in the ruins of Napur. Either the lady must have greatly prized the letter, or the dead letter office must have carefully preserved it.

Very few inscriptions on soft metals or stone have lasted, and only the clay tablets have endured the ravages of time. This clay was kneeded in water but after being dried in the kiln or by the sun, became impervicus to moisture.

The speaker showed an imitation of the stylus, which is the instrument used by the ancients for writing, and a clay cylinder such as they used for the recording of business and historical documents. Every man of importance used a sign or trade mark for his signature. This was an inscription cut on a gem of cylinder form, the value of the gem depending on the wealth of the owner.

Recent evacuations at Napur have unearthed a vast variety and number of documents such as deeds, contracts, legal forms, ledgers, and notes. All these are enclosed in clay envelopes on which are written the nature of the contents and to which are affixed the signatures of the parties.

Forgery in those days was impossible, for any one breaking open the envelope to change an item would first have to destroy the debtor's signature. Large clay tablets have been found on which were multiplication tables, the multiples running into the thousands. Even have been familiar to the ancients. Dictionaries in the Sumerian language have also been discovered with exercise books, indicating the existence of public schools. The earliest known civic improvement was the Babylonian parcel post system of 2000 B. C. The archæologists are continually unearthing new signs of ancient culture. One evacuation has revealed eleven cities built, one on the ruins of the other.

"These contributions to modern knowledge have a two-fold value", said Prof. Gillingham. "They teach us of the antiquity of man and his past history; and they confirm the word of God." Not a single discovery of the archæologists contradicts a biblical account, but rather helps us to understand its meaning.

GIRLS' VARSITY LOOSES GAME TO E. T. NORMAL

Normal Team Proves to Be One of The Fastest in East Tennessee. Final Score Was 27-15.

On last Friday afternoon one of the best girls' games of the season was played on the local court, when the co-eds met and were defeated by the girls of East Tennessee Normal. The first half was played with a running center and three courts, and at the end of the half the Normal girls were only three points ahead.

The second half, which was played with one center and two courts, was more interesting, and the enthusiastic cheering from the side lines added pep. For a few minutes excitement waxed high, when Miss Bailey succeeded in caging two goals in succession, making the score 11-10. But the Normal girls began to pile up their scores so fast that the co-eds were unable to catch up with them, and the game ended with the score 27-15.

Miss L. Williams starred for the visiting team, making 24 of the 27 points, and Miss B. Bailey starred for Maryville, making all of the 15 points.

The line-up and score were as follows:

E. T. N.		M. C.
Cook	g.	A. Samsel g.
L. Williams	g.	E. Burchfiel, g.
Rockwell	c.	C. Moseley c.
Roberson	r. c.	C. Ridgeway r. c.
L. Williams	f.	M. Whedbee f.
T. Reece	f.	B. Bailey f.

Score: Field goals: E T. N., L. Williams 10; Reece 2. M. C.: B. Bailey 6. Fouls, E. T. N.: L. Williams 3; M. C., Bailey 3.

INTERCLASS GAMES

Interclass basketball is continuing with its usual enthusiasm and spirit. The Senior and Sophomore boys met in one of the most hotly contested games of the season last week. The spectators were treated to a good game and several wrestling matches on the side just to keep up interest. The Seniors won 19-13.

On Monday the two Freshmen teams were defeated. The boys by the Juniors, 29-19, and the boys by by the Sophs, 48-3. Elsie Dawson was the shining star of the Sophomores, throwing nineteen field goals during the game.

Standing of teams in interclass league:

Boys	Won	Lost	Average
Senior	1	0	1.000
Junior	1	0	1.000
Freshman	0	1	.000
Girls
Sophomore	2	0	1.000
Seniors	1	1	.500
Freshman	1	1	.500
Junior	1	2	.000

The tablet given the college by the class of 1918 has been placed on the front wall of the chapel as the class requested. However, it is the consensus of opinion that the tablet would look much better on the men's side of the chapel, directly opposite the tablet in memory of Dr. P. M. Bartlett.

FRANK JAMES INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL MAKES GOOD PROGRESS

finished we melted up the bullets and metals the Germans left when they used the plant as a munition factory, and made a substitute that did the work. Another valuable work was repairing cooking utensils for the mission and for natives. They made knives with ebony and ivory handles, forks, spoons, carving sets and many other useful articles.

"When the Germans fled from here they destroyed or wrecked all their bicycles, motorcycles, autos and auto trucks. Some they wrecked with sledges and some with dynamite. After wrecking the autos and auto trucks they burned them. The French officers considered this only junk and allowed the mission to take it as scrap iron. Out of this junk the school has an automobile and an auto truck that they were able to make or assemble from these wrecks. Also an auto engine was turned into a steam engine and when connected with our engine was able to run the shaft that had on it a planer, a boring machine, a shingle mill, a grinder and a large lathe. * * * *

"SHOE CLASS—This class is in the school to stay and its usefulness will be great in the future. The class has been constantly busy on repair work. No leather could be gotten from home so the class was forced to tan native skins. We secured native cow hides, also antelope skins, and tanned them by an acid process. We are also working on the process of tanning from the native bark. While neither of these has been anything like as good as home made leather it has helped out during these war times, and we expect to keep on with the tanning of the skins here. They will greatly help out even when we are again able to bring leather from home. Also we hope to be able to make such good leather that in time we will be independent of home supply.

"Because of the war we have been unable to add some features that we had been hoping to do. Some experiments we have tried have been quite satisfactory. We sent to the states for some broom corn and found that it grew well here and we made some good brooms, enough to assure us that we will be able to add broom making to the school as soon as we can get the necessary equipment.

"Some years ago Mr. Hillis of Peoria, Illinois, gave the school a cane press. It was burned in the first fire the plant had. During the war when sugar was so scarce the mill was rebuilt and we have been making a fine syrup of sugar cane. We have been able to have syrup on our cornmeal pancakes in spite of the war. We believe also that this mill will be of great help to us in the future.

"For some time we have been making soap of the oil expressed from the pulp around the palm kernel. We also made some from the oil of the kernel. This makes the very best soap but we will not be able to make much of that kind till we have machinery for expressing the oil.

"The most satisfactory experiment in the soap line with "bek", the native castor bean. We bought about a ton of this bean, and with a press made by the blacksmith class we were able to express the oil, which makes a fine grade of soap and cheaper than we are able to import soap from Europe. We also experimented with peanut oil soap. While this makes a very fine soap it is too expensive to consider.

"The night schools have been going all the time. We have a native of French Congo who teaches French. Classes for the workmen are conducted in Bulu. The wives of the workmen, also those of apprentices, who have not been in school before, go to school in the afternoons.

"The religious training is as follows: All are required to attend all the regular services of the Elat church. Morning prayers are held every day, one of the missionaries conducts a course of Bible study and a native minister gives his entire time to the school.

"November 15, 1918, when the school was closed on account of Spanish Influenza, the invoice showed the net present worth of the school to be $24,323.11.

"When the school came under its present management ten years ago the property of the school was worth less than $100. During this time the school has received from outside sources $7,533.28; from Mrs. Hoe $1000, from the students of Maryville College (and some other gifts included) $1,453.28, from fire insurance when the plant burned in 1912 $1,435, the rest of the $7,533 coming from the Board. This leaves the school a net profit of $16,789.83 for the ten years, as the little that the school had was burned in the first fire, soon after the school was taken over in 1908. During the ten years the total expenditure has been $92,465.80. The school now has about a hundred graduates."

You can always tell a Senior
He's so sedately gowned.
You can always tell a Sophomore,
By the way he struts around.
You can always tell a Freshman
By his timid ways and such—
You can always tell a Junior—
But you can't tell him much.

UNIQUE VESPER TEXT

The sixteenth and seventeenth verses of the forty-fourth chapter of Isaiah were used as a text by the college pastor at the vesper service Sunday evening.

The verses read as follows: "He burneth part thereof in the fire; with part thereof he eateth flesh; he roasted roast, and is satisfied; yea, he warmeth himself, and saith, Aha, I am warm, I have seen the fire; and the residue thereof he maketh a god, he falleth down unto it, and worshipped it, and prayed unto it, and saith, Deliver me; for thou art my god."

These verses picture the easy going man. His ax was sufficient to furnish him with food and fire. It also served him to make an idol. There is not a great difference between the Waldorf Astoria and wigwam when one thinks about it, because the man in the wigwam gets all the comforts that the modern man does, and is probably more contented. The more a person has, the more dependent he is upon others. The man in the forest can be more independent in reference to material needs.

It is different however with spiritual wants. Many go though the world with no other ambition than to make themselves comfortable, but they often come to God when in distress as the forest man bowed to the idol when overcome with fear.

Another point to notice, is that this man of the forest appropriated to religious purposes that which he did not need for anything else. Some modern people put off accepting Christ until very old and then give Him the remnant of their lives. If religion is only a postscript of life to save from punishment, it is no improvement over the device of the forest man. People who go to church on Sunday and forget God through the week are no better than this man. To devote the remnant of anything to God is a flat and flagrant denial of the teachings and example of Christ.

True, genuine religion is not a part of life—, it is the life of God in man. It must fill the whole being of man, dominating every activity. Neither is religion the chief part of life but life itself. It is all or it is nothing.

LUTHER JOHNSON PRESIDENT OF ALPHA SIGMA FOR SPRING TERM

The program of the Alpha Sigma Literary Society last Saturday night was as follows:

Debate: Resolved that co-education is the best method of education for colleges. Affirmative, Barker and Adams; negative Taylor and Davidson. The League of Nations was discussed by Professor Hunter, and a short talk made by Mr. Turner.

In the business meeting, officers for the next term were elected. Luther Johnson was elected president.

Mr. Thurmond was sworn in as a new member of the society, and Mr. Frazier was accepted as a member.

A FEW THINGS TOMMY LOFT IS DOING AT PRESENT

Since he was discharged from the Coast Artillery, Tommy Loft has undertaken an immense amount of work at his new station at Newport News, Va. Twice a week he instructs three evening classes of ship-yard workers in trigonometry, blue print reading, and solid geometry. Through his efforts, religious services have been established at Camp Stewart and Camp Hill. Then the First Presbyterian Church got hold of him and appointed him to the work of selecting boys for concert work. In addition to this he teaches a Bible class, preaches on Sunday for the Episcopalians, and holds street meetings on certain nights. Maryville friends may rest assured that Tommy has not much time for getting into mischief.

"BEHOLD THIS DREAMER COMETH" PRAYER MEETING TEXT

The prayer meeting of last week was led by Dr. Stevenson who took for his text Gen. 37:19, "Behold, this dreamer cometh." A picture was drawn of Joseph's early life and his relations with his father and his brothers. It was pointed out that Joseph was loved more by his father than were any of his brothers because he was the only son that had any qualities to command him to a special love. His life was attractive and full of interest. It started with dreams but ended in practicing the realization of his dreams.

No doubt Joseph possessed certain undesirable characteristics when a boy, some of which were probably developed as a result of his dreams. But more than ambition and vanity resulted from these dreams. Joseph became God-fearing and conscious of the fact that God called him to perform an important work.

His brothers at first laughed at him, then envied, and at last hated Joseph. It is far better to have impracticable visions than none at all. Dreams melt away in the world and only realities survive. The high places can be acquired only by hard work, perseverance, and labor. Experience took the deceit and vanity out of Joseph as it is doing today for men and women. It is also to be noted, that Joseph did his best. A man who does his work efficiently and well is sure to be promoted. The final suggestion to remember is that God is the real master and service for Him is imperative.

ATHENIAN

At the sign of the owl and crescent, a goodly number of loyal Athenians gathered as usual, last Saturday evening, and forgot the inclemency of wind and weather while they enjoyed an hour together.

The chief interest of the evening centered around the debate, regular and extemporaneous on the question, "Resolved, That the Philippines should be granted independence". Johnson, Ogden, McConnell and Martin were the speakers. Some good debating material for the future is revealing itself in the society. In an open discussion, following the set speeches, several new men took part. Later the boys enjoyed a few minutes parliamentary practice, a bogus proposition being introduced by Minarik.

This was the last regular program of the term. A meeting will be held Saturday evening, beginning at 6 o'clock. A short extempo program will be rendered, and the officers will be sworn in for the spring term.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. service Sunday afternoon was in charge of Miss Claudia Bogart who gave a concise resumee of the work the Y.W.C.A. has been engaged in during the war. The importance of the hostess house and the recreational centers for women workers was stressed. Not only in this country, but in Europe the Y. W. workers have been active and much good has been accomplished as a result of their efforts.

Miss Winifred Decker added to the enjoyment of the program with a piano solo.

Y. W. work this year has been very successful under the capable leadership of the president, Miss Grace Bailey. The election of officers for 1919-1920 will take place within the next two weeks.

DEBATING!

Some changes in the debating teams have been made necessary since Red Turner will not be in school next term. The alternates are working hard to attain the coveted position made vacant by Mr. Turner's withdrawal. April 19, the date of the first debate, is drawing near and with its approach the debaters and their supporters are becoming the more convinced that Maryville will win the contest.

THE SUFFRAGISTS MEET

The Suffragists were much enlightened Monday afternoon by the reading of current events and by the naming of prominent personages and the reason of their fame, in answer to the roll call. They were further instructed on matters of importance to 'The New Voter", and have learned the difference between a Democrat and a Republican.

The Misses Hayes contributed much to the interest of the program with a reading and a vocal solo.

Have you noticed what an active and industrious group of girls belongs to the Equal Suffrage League? They expect soon to take an active part in the life of the nation and are preparing themselves for full citizenship. To be enlightened citizens should be the aim of all college women.

The University of Tennessee lost six out of the eight basketball games played this season.

GRAND OPERA

DID YOU SAY!

Did some one on the Hill say that the opera season was over?

By no means. Had you been at Theta last Saturday night you would have been fully convinced that that idea was merely a delusion. Corrin Humphries so vividly and charmingly interpreted "Parsifal" from Wagner that you could easily imagine you were listening to the real thing from a cosy little box seat. Orchestra music followed, in the form of a cornet and violin duet by Sarah Lee Lloyd and Orma Montgomery—a treat which Theta enjoys quite frequently. Grace Russell gave a vocal solo and Vivian Hall played, and both numbers were equally enjoyed.

Don't speak to any of the people who take Bible. If you do you are likely to be greeted with "Lift up your eyes." If you should notice some of the biblical scholars muttering to themselves don't be alarmed because their frenzy will disappear after exams are over.

PERSONALS

Ralph Hamilton, who before enlisting in the aviation corps was a member of the 1919 class, was on the Hill Monday renewing old friendships. "Ham" is now taking a pre-med course at the University of Tennessee.

Dr. S. T. Wilson left Monday for the east where he will be engaged in raising money for the Centennial War Work Fund.

Miss Emily Fowler had as her week-end guest, Miss Elizaeth Mee of Rockford.

The Harriman girls recently entertained Mrs. W. A. Rockwell and daughter, Miss Katharine who is a member of the East Tennessee Normal basketball team.

Captain Jim Gardner of Chattanooga called on his old friend Miss Carmen Park Monday.

Bob Bartlett, president of the Sophomore class and official cheer leader is recuperating from that infantile disease, the mumps. Bob's vocal organs were not affected, however, for he has several times daily, since his arrival at the hospital, demonstrated the fact that he has not forgotten the art of yelling. A certain Pearsons lass is aspiring to the position of assistant cheer-leader.

Miss Mary Mason of Woodstock, Alabama will arrive in time to register for the Spring Term. Miss Mason will reside with the jolly three in 38 Pearsons.

Miss Maude Pardue and Miss Helen Newell entertain Bob Adams at a chafing dish party Monday afternoon. Bob's condition Monday evening was critical.

Charles Edgemon spent the week-end at his home in Englewood.

Miss Mary Louise Hayes is now the official college post-mistress.

Ensign Ralph Thomas of Ashby, Alabama is spending several days on the Hill as the guest of Miss Myttye Stovall. While in training at the New Orleans Naval Base Ensign Thomas chummed with Harry Wagner, a last year's student.

The Misses Edith Marchant and Carrie Mann, of Ducktown, were the guests of Miss Erma Witsel last week.

Miss Elsie Taylor has as her guest Mr. Tom Cantrell who was a former student of M. C.

Miss Alma Moore spent the week-end in Knoxville as the guest of Miss Ruth Schenk.

The "fillum" arrived for Saturday night, and were hugely enjoyed.

There are more mis-placed eyebrows adorning the campus.

MISS WARE ENTERTAINS

Everybody wondered why ten girls looked so happy Tuesday morning and wondered still more when they went to Science Hall instead of Pearsons shortly before dinner-time. The reason was that Miss Leila Ware was giving a luncheon and these same ten girls were her guests. (Fortunate creatures!) The centerpiece was a beautiful bowl of jonquils—, the color scheme being green and yellow which was carried out in the place cards and in both courses. The 1:10 bell rang all too soon as it forced the girls to leave. However March 11, 1919 will always be remembered with much pleasure by the ten guests who were: Misses Jones, Rough, Duncum, Henderson, Robison, Core, Mary and Hattie Hayes, Kain and Greenlee.

SUFFERING IN SYRIA

George McKanna received a letter last week from his brother who is in the Syrian Protestant College, a Presbyterian institution at Beymouth, in Syria. This was his first word from home since March, 1914.

His family who reside at Mt. Lebanon escaped unharmed from the war, though that section was the scene of heavy fighting.

The letter told of the famine in Syria; how many people had died because the Turks would not let them have food; how they were forced to subsist on grass and such forage as was fed the horses; and of "a time so hard and a people so miserable that they not only wish to die, but they envied the dead."

CAMPUS QUIPS

Edith Davis: "The only thing I know in Spanish is Mon Dieu."

Chemistry student: "Why is my chem. knowledge akin to Prof. Leavenworth's moustache?"

Answer: "They both vanished at the same time."

BECK SHINES

Beck: "That must be a Shakespearean Sonnet (rather than Italian) for the last two lines end with paw and maw."

Myttye Stovall in Bible 2—"Joseph won favor in Pharaoh's sight and became the head servant of his household. He even ordered the meals, I think."

Mrs. Alexander during the study of Paradise Lost: "To what does this refer?"

Beck: "The fall of o-er-mich-o-demus."

"Thinking is the next best thing to loving, and loving is the best thing one can do".— Prof. Ellis

Moss Farmer can quit using other people's soap now that he won a box of "candy" from a Freshman co-ed.

Wanted to know: Why Wisie and Brownie were so interested in getting a "correct copy" of a Babylonian love letter?

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

The Seniors nearly had no class pins and rings. The new adornments arrived Saturday night and were put in the safe at the Southern Depot for safe keeping. An attempt was made to rob the safe sometime between then and Monday morning, but all the would-be burglars got was the handle of the safe. That, however, was enough to delay the delivery of the rings and pins several days. But what might have been didn't happen and the Seniors are now gayly sporting the badge of their about-to-be alumni state.

THE BALLAD OF MARY JANE

One of the most interesting meetings of the year was enjoyed by the Bainonians, Saturday night. Not only was the meeting very instructive, but also entertaining. Misses Jane Waller and Elizabeth Bassel played a piano duet, and Helen Gamble reviewed several of the greatest world questions of the day.

The Ballad of Mary Jane was then read by Maude Pardue, and pantomimed by several of the girls. Myrtle Rendon as Mary Jane was loved by Benjamin, better known as Helen Lewis; but poor Benjamin's hopes were banished by the haughty Miss Mary Jane's father, Anne Clemens who wished her to marry Lord Mortimer, Nellie Lippert. By this time Mary Jane found that she loved Benjamin. As the proud parent was compelling his daughter to marry Lord Mortimer, brave Benjamin, who had become a rich pirate, arrived, and, with a bag containing a trillion dollars, won the father's heart. Benjamin won Mary Jane's heart when he was chased by an angry cow, Sadie Black and Jane Morton. Needless to say, they lived happily ever after.

VOLUME FOUR — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, MARCH 20, 1919 — NUMBER TWENTY-ONE

TWO MARYVILLE MEN RECEIVE DECORATIONS FROM THE ALLIES

ITALY DECORATES PRIVATE E. M. BIRDSALL WITH CROSS AND ENGLAND BESTOWS THE MILITARY MEDAL UPON SERGEANT EDWARD CAMPBELL.

Maryville students and alumni are justly proud of the news that two former M. C. men have been decorated recently for bravery under fire. One of these men is Edgar M. Birdsall who was here in 1914-15, he and his twin brother being widely known as "Punch and Judy". Private Birdsall enlisted at Allentown, Pa. in April, 1918, and sailed in June of the same year. His work is that of driver in the United States Ambulance Service, assigned to Italian territory.

In a letter to his brother, Lieut. Julian Birdsall who until recently was at Camp Zachary Taylor, Kentucky, he tells modestly of his decoration: "I am very proud of my blue and white bar, bearing the significance of the Croix de Guerre. I have kept this from you until I had actually received my certificate, which awaited me upon return from my trip. I knew that I had been recommended for the war cross and that my name had been in Rome for a month or more. It was simply a question of time when I should receive the medal.

"You will no doubt wonder what it is for. As you know, I was in the last offensive from beginning to end and I drove my car constantly under shell fire for two days. I stayed with the Italian army, away from the rest of my section, for seven long days, without food and with very little sleep. Four others in our section have been decorated and our entire section has received two citations from the government for faithful efficient service."

The other Maryville man to be thus honored is Sergt. Edward Campbell who is a member of the valiant 117th Infantry which fought with the British troops in various conflicts of the war. Sergt. Campbell was decorated by the British government with the Military medal.

It is likely that Sergt. Campbell will visit Maryville the early part of April since the 117th is being brought across on the Pocahontas which is scheduled to dock at Charleston, March 28.

Latest reports from Lieut. Howard Wilson, who is stationed with the army of occupation in Germany, would indicate that the division to which he belongs will soon embark for the United States. Lieut. Wilson has had the pleasure of holding down numerous Deutsch towns since his residence in Germany, but this experience cannot be compared with that great experience of "floating down the Rhine on the way home to America."

Y. W. SECRETARY VISITS HILL

Miss Elizabeth Lawson, Y. W. C. A. Secretary of the junior colleges and normals who is connected with the St. Louis Y. W. Headquarters, spent Monday and Tuesday in Maryville. Tuesday Miss Lawson led the chapel service and gave a very instructive and inspiring talk to the students. A notable result of her visit was the organization of ten group discussion classes among the girls which will meet once a week. These groups will discuss practical questions which vitally concern the girl of to-day.

The Seniors are on a moonshining spree today. Never mind, "every dog has its day."

MURPHY CO-EDS LOSE TO MARYVILLE

The Murphy College girls came to Maryville last Thursday afternoon with blood in their eyes expecting to retaliate for the drubbing our girls gave them on the previous Saturday. But their hopes were blighted and they left with the small end of a large score. They obtained the first field goal, but were unable to score again until the last minute of the game when they succeeded in placing two more balls in the basket.

Miss Bailey's work at forward was especially commendable. She was credited with eleven field goals by the end of the game. Miss Davis also gave a good account of herself at forward, as did Miss Middleton at center.

That the M. C. guards were on the job all the time is proved by Murphy's score.

Line-up

Maryville		Murphy
Bailey	f.	P. Montgomery
Davis	f.	E. Montgomery
Middleton	c.	Cox
Samsel	g.	Blalock
Ridgeway	g.	Wear

Scoring—Maryville: Field goals, Bailey 11, Davis 5. Murphy: Field Goals, P. Montgomery 2, Blalock 1. Score 32-6.

The Senior and Freshmen girls locked horns for the first time Thursday afternoon, and the Seniors came off winners by a bare margin, the final score being 10-8. The game was exciting and full of pep all the way through. An early lead was taken by the Seniors but they were almost overtaken in the last few minutes of the game, at which time the excitement became intense. After time was called there was an argument in which everyone present participated and it was settled by the teams playing thirty seconds longer. Neither side scored, however.

S. V. B. CONFERENCE AT U. T. MARCH 22-23

First State Meeting of Volunteers Will Be Held. Movement Initiated by The Maryville Band. Thirty Colleges Will be Represented.

Some weeks ago the Maryville Student Volunteers asked the National office for a state conference. Their request was declined on the ground that as yet, there were not enough student volunteers in the state to make a conference a success.

Soon other Tennessee colleges in correspondence with local leaders, asked for their help in organizing the movement in their schools. Among these was the University of Tennessee. One of the U. T. Volunteers came to Maryville for an interview and out of this grew the State Conference to be held on March 22-23 at the University. Thirty of the colleges of the state were written to and most of them will be represented.

This number won the approval of the National headquarters. The Student Volunteer Band and the Young Men's Cristian Association desire that as many students as can, will go to the conference. Each person going will have to pay train fare and fifty cents registration fee. Anyone interested in mission work and student leadership is urged to go. The names of all delegates must be handed in not later than Thursday to the leader of the S. V. B. Students going from here will leave Saturday afternoon and return Monday.

This Conference will be held in Science Hall chapel. The program is as follows.

Saturday night, Conference 7:30
Devotional and music.

SECRETARY OF VOLUNTEERS, PRESENTS NEEDS OF MISSIONS

CHRISTIANITY WILL WAGE A WAR AGAINST COMMERCIALISM. COLLEGES MUST PREPARE MEN AND WOMEN FOR LEADERS.

Miss Mary Fleming, Travelling Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, addressed the students at the chapel hour Thursday morning. In her talk Miss Fleming emphasized the fact that there is a great need for people of vocation on the mission field. Foreign missions to-day are more vocational than locational. A person of any talent whatever can find a place for the expression of his talent in missionary work.

Many people wonder what it means, or what the requirements are, to become a Student Volunteer. There are no requirements beyond a sincere consecration to the pledge that if possible the person will become a missionary. However, just as a man who is preparing to become a doctor desires to affiliate himself with medical associations so a person preparing for the foreign mission field should desire to become a member of the international association known as the Volunteer Movement. Entrance to this association is by card upon signing which the person admits that he or she is planning to become a foreign missionary.

Every one faces at some time or other the question, "What shall I do with my life?" Happiness or unhappiness rests on this decision. What could be better than to devote one's life to the service of others? Christianity is needed in all vocations. Whatever one's life work, it should be undertaken in the spirit of Christian service. The statement of missionaries is that their lives have been particularly happy. Happiness is a gift from God and His richest blessing is upon His workers everywhere.

The particular needs of the mission fields were noted. There is much work to be done in America. South America has 70,000 educated students who have discarded the Catholic religion and who at present have nothing to take the place of the old faith. Brazil has sent a woman delegate to New York to select a corps of trained teachers to lead in educational work. The most important qualification is that these teachers are Christian women.

There are one hundred and forty-nine doctors and ninety-eight nurses needed at once to fill places in the foreign fields. The need for doctors is shown in its right proportion when one realizes that there is one doctor to every six hundred and seventy-three persons in the United States; while in non-christian lands there is but one doctor to every one million.

Persia is calling for one hundred Christian workers. This number must be gathered from the students graduating from the American colleges this year. Will any of Maryville Seniors answer Persia's call?

Japan's most urgent needs are kindergarten teachers and social service workers. The factories of Japan breed tuberculosis to such an extent that 20,000 new girl workers are required every year to take the place of those who have died of the loathed disease. Something must be done to remedy the unsanitary factory conditions of Japan. The Japanese girl lacks the three things essential to make the Christian life a happy one:

1. Liberty to choose a life work.
2. Liberty to choose a religion.
3. Liberty to choose a life partner.

China is fast becoming commercialized. Dr. John Mott said after studying Chinese conditions, "If China is not christianized before she is commercialized she will become a world meance." China with its vast population needs every type of christian worker: engineers, carpenters, book-keepers, stenographers, teachers in elementary and high schools, colleges and universities, electricians, chemists, dentists, physicians, and sanitation experts.

Industrial work in Africa is teaching the negro a method of living a self-supporting christian life. More industrial workers are needed as year by year the work is growing beyond the present corps of workers.

A great world war between Christianity and commercialism is the expected outcome of the great changes trade is causing in these countries. Do you want a part in the war or will you be content to be a slacker?

FORMER STUDENT VISITOR ON THE HILL

Ralph E. Smith, a student here in the nineties, was a visitor on the Hill last week.

Mr. Smith was for some years a missionary to China, and is now connected with the Bible House in Los Angles, Cal., which distributes Spanish testaments and literature to all the mission fields where Spanish is spoken. He has been several times around the world in the interest of mission work and is intimately acquainted with the present mission needs.

After a long absence from the campus, Mr. Smith expressed himself as being pleased with the changes and varied opportunities not available in his day. His commendation to the student was: "God wants us all to make a success, he has no place for failures. God has a plan for each of us and will reveal that plan at some time or other."

The basketball season has passed and now the baseball fans are looking forward with interest to the time when the first game will be played on the home field. We are anxious for the game because we want to see our team prove its mettle by carrying off the big end of the score of that game and all succeeding games. The students are going to get behind the team and support the players by being present at the games and adding pep with cheers and yells. Everybody is going to work for the cleanest, peppiest, and most telling baseball season Maryville has ever had.

SOUTHERN WOMEN ON NEGRO LOYALTY

Miss Kate M. Herring, Director of Publicity for the North Carolina War Savings Committee, has recently published in Northern and Southern magazines some interesting facts in regard to the thrift campaign among Negroes in her state. In the "Black Belt", where in fourteen counties the Negroes average of 56 per cent of the population, the average subscription was 80 per cent of the allotment, 4 per cent more than in the state at large. In the county which subscribed 128 per cent of its allotment the Negroes form 47 per cent of the population. They furnish from 42 to 61 per cent of 13 of the 19 counties which subscribed 100 per cent or over. Subscriptions ranged from that of a Negro who took the limit of $1,000 for each member of his family to those whose subscriptions were paid for in 25-cent stamps, including a washerwoman with a blind husband who subscribed for $50 worth for herself and him.

Miss Herring gives three reasons for this remarkable showing: the "black" counties are agriculturally rich; the Liberty Bond campaigns did not draw largely on this section; and North Carolina recognized the Negro as an American citizen, and gave him responsibilities the same as white men. Like the colored soldier at the front, he heard the call and responded."

PROFESSOR BASSETT ENTERTAINS MYTH CLASS

At seven-thirty last Wednesday evening Miss Mollie heard the third floor stairs creaking dreadfully—, she stuck her head out the door with a look of pain (and at the same calculated to cause pain) and was greeted with the seven-fold whisper "We're Prof. Bassett's party." It was the mythology class so she wished them good luck and they went on their way rejoicing and continued to rejoice until ten-thirty. The evening was delightfully spent in looking at pictures and curios, which Prof. Bassett had collected while abroad, playing game, and hearing Mrs. Bassett tell amusing incidents about Prof. Bassett, when he was small. At ten o'clock the girls caught their breaths ecstatically for they were served to chocolate ice cream, cakes, and macaroons. They sighed blissfully to think how at that time, in the hall, the lights were out and the girls were being lulled to slumber to the familiar tune "Let's have the hall quiet, please." Too soon the time came when they must leave and after many exressions of pleasure they went, through the moonlight, to dear old Pearsons. The personnel of the class is: Misses Helen Lewis, Marie Thompson, Marjorie Lloyd, Eva Ritchie, Lilah Hembree, Hattie and Mary Hayes.

THETA ENJOYS LIVELY PROGRAM IN SPITE OF EXAMS

Despite the rush and hurry occasioned by exams, Theta kept up her reputation with an excellent program on Saturday night. Elsie Dawson rendered a piano solo. Valle Higgenbotham gave a very clever reading entitled, "An A-1 Trimmer", picturing an amusing scene in a fashionable millinery shop. A vocal solo which followed by Maude Hite, was accompanied by Alura Moore pianist, and Orma Montgomery violinist. Lucille Middleton and Ruby Dawn played a lively piano duet which brought an encore. The grand finale was a selection by the Theta Quartet.

PROF. GILLINGHAM LEAVES FOR THE EAST

Prof. Clinton H. Gillingham left today for the east where he will assist Dr. Wilson in the work of completing the Centennial Forward Fund. Prof. Gillingham's work will center largely around Philadelphia. The Bible courses taught by Prof. Gillingham will be omitted this term.

MUCH REDECORATING GOING ON

The interior of the chapel is looking very gay since it received its recent coat of calcimine. Anderson Hall in also wearing some new colors. The registrar's office in particular looks very well since it has discarded its ancient dress of gaudy blue for one of a more sedate hue.

ATHENIAN

The Athenian Literary Society held its usual meeting in the Athenian Hall Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. Because of examinations a program had not been prepared, but with the Athenian spirit and pep, an unusually good meeting was the result. Each member responded with a pun or the funniest thing that happened during the week. Laughter and applause received no rest during the hour, and not a fellow left the hall without a smile on his face, despite the effects of the last number. Only those who were present and who took part fully understood this number.

A good meeting is being prepared for the next time, and all Athenians are expected to be present, as well as all non-members of any society.

Come or a real treat will be your loss.

Prof. Brittain in History: "Why was the narrowest part of the Dardanelles called Hellespont?"

John Montgomery: "Because it was the spot where hell fell."

MISS CLEMMIE HENRY LEADS THURSDAY EVENING MEETING

The Prayer Meeting service was led by Miss Henry. The life of Moses was used to illustrate some commendable qualities that every Christian should possess.

The speaker emphasized the fact that God helps a person most by being with him day by day. God in that way cared for Moses and gave him what he had. At one time Moses' mind became wavering, but later he gave up the king's palace to serve God. Moses thought he was performing God's will when he slew the Egyptian, but it was not a God-chosen act when Moses had to look this way and that way. He was ambitious but needed preparation for his task. It was necessary that he should know God's plan first. Moses planned that he would be the leader of his flock, but God planned that he should be a leader of the people. One reason that many Christians do not have more of God in their lives is because they do not spend enough of time alone with God.

God wants to add to a person's service in order to make it a better service. Moses had a large service to perform and felt incapable, but God gave him the necessary wisdom and strength to do it. When God says that He will go with the person, as He said to Moses, this should be a sufficient answer to overcome any doubt or fear. God never calls one to a task that is impossible, although He sometimes sends the person back to begin anew. This often happens where the sin is proving to be the greatest hindrance to success. Each one should ask for a larger place and for the power to fill it.

ST. PATRICK'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

"The wearin' o' the green" was permitted Saturday night at Bainonian, and to the "Emerald Isle" Miss Myrtle Rendon led the audience with her enchanting Irish melodies. "Home Rule" was presented by Miss Catherine Wilkinson, and the history of good old St. Patrick was briefly told by Miss Ethel Doctor. Music led the audience back to Bainonian, and they suddenly found themselves listening to Jeanette Hibbert.

The officers for the following term were elected:

President - - - Maude Pardue
Vice President, - Helen Gamble
Secretary - - - - Irma Schwab
Treasurer - - - - Carrie Sheddan
Chairman of Program Committee, Eva Lloyd
Censor
Music Critic - - Myrtle Rendon
Editor - - - - Anne Clemens
Sergeant-at-Arms - Barbara Higgins.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR BASEBALL SEASON

The baseball season has begun. Last Thursday familiar sounds were heard on the old diamond, which has been deserted since the S.A.T.C. disbanded. This was the first workout given by Coach Everett and he was gratified by the apearance of over forty candidates on the field. M. C. is also pleased to welcome back a star outfielder, Wagner, who made his appearance the first of the week.

The first game will be played with Hiwassee College on the home field Monday, March 24.

QUALITIES FOR CHRISTIAN CHARACTER

Dr. Stevenson in his vesper sermon took for the theme the need of more personal workers in the battle for Christ The text was taken from the tenth chapter of Matthew.

In the introduction, the college pastor drew attention to the fact that the object of Maryviille College is not only to give mental equipment but to develop the moral side of the sudents. It is more important what kind of character a student moulds than how much knowledge he gains.

Three qualities were named which are essential in order that one may be attractive, acceptable, and useful. First, one must be brave. The Christian life is a warfare and hence requires soldiers. Although the war is over there is still need of physical courage. Business, politics, the church, and other phases of human activities have great problems to solve. This can be done only by individuals and there must be enough brave Christians to undertake the work.

Next, the Christian must feel a keen responsibility to do definite Christian work. Incidences from the Bible where certain promises were made to the disciples of God, were shown to apply not to a limited number but to every Christian who fulfills his obligations to his Maker. For instance when the Spirit at Pentecost was poured out, the tongues like fire fell on all who were present. There is an ample supply of people who are continually putting the work on the shoulders of others. The need is for more Christians who are willing to do personal work. Machines are doing a great deal of work previously done by hand, but the most difficult work is still done by individuals.

The last requirement, is to be hopeful, optimistic, and confident. The work confronting the real Christian at this time is tremendous. Therefore that person must not despair but should be encouraged by what man has done before. He should also be encouraged by the lives of those men who have withstood temptation and overcome hardships. Some illustrations of such men are: Noah, Abraham, Joshua, Gideon, Jethro, Samuel, and the prophets, all people who did heroic deeds, then were human like those living today. The Christian worker should believe that he will be triumphant and that God will do as much for him as was done for those who lived in earlier days.

Y. M. C. A. BULLETIN

Let us make the slogan for the Spring Term "Nothing Good Enough, but the Best". This refers to your intentions, your efforts, and your enthusiasm. It means a a hundred percent increase in attendance at the Group Bible Study Meetings, the Inner Circles, and the Sunday afternoon meetings. It means a strenuous and earnest effort on the part of every officer of the association and the groups, Let us all pull together from now on and show the other colleges of the South what we are made of and what we can do.

The subject of the movie film for next Saturday evening (8 o'clock) is "The Bachelor's Children."

This is a delightful love story of three homeless waifs, and one in particular, who came to a lonely bachelor's home. He takes them in and restores the fortune which rightfully belongs to them, and to one of them he gives his heart.

Senior: "Have you any thumb tacks?"

Brilliant Junior: "No, but I have finger nails!"

A CERTAIN FRESHMAN AND SOPHOMORE CONVERSE

Soph: "Do you know, I think my girl gets prettier every day."

Fresh: "How long have you known her?"

Soph: "About fourteen years."

Fresh: "Well, she should be pretty some day!"

This new way of writing verse,
Poor prose lines off by phrases,
Minus most of music's mellow measures,
Lame in every one of its overnumerous club feet,
Lacking rhyme

Program for following week

—THURSDAY— You can't go wrong if you consult The talking Clock at the Palace.

LITTLE MARY PICKFORD
IN
"THE LITTLE AMERICAN"

A stirring photodrama with a patriotic appeal never before drawn out; a story of the greatest sacrifice one can give for the love of her country and humanity's cause. In this picture Mary iPckford has been given a chance to prove just the worth of her talent and she certainly does things up right. Also Mack Sennett Comedy entitled "Her First Mistake", with an ail-star cast. Double bill today. Mutt and Jeff.

PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT SPECIAL
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS
IN
"IN AGAIN—OUT AGAIN"

A scream from start to finish you will laugh until your sides are sore, yet there will be just enough pathos in it to make the mellow spot in your heart ache for the Hero. But he gets there just the same; of course, he may have to run up the side of a wall, or scrap a whole pen full of men, but that is only pastime with "Doug". Also a Christie Comedy with Bobby Vernon in "Mum's the Word". Laughing Bobby will keep you smiling too

—SATURDAY—

(The talking Clock at the Palace)

Pearl White in "Lightning Raider" No. 5. Marie Walcamp in "Lion's Claw" No 18—This will be the last of this serial and of course will be the most exciting chapter of the whole series. Harold Lloyd Comedy "Would You", a reel of real fun. Screen Telegram No. 8, all the latest news told in pictures. Feature, Peggy Hyland in "CAUGHT IN THE ACT", the comedy of a society Bud's love adventures. It will keep you guessing.

—MONDAY—

(Watch the Clock at the Palace)

BRASS BULLET No 14 withp lenty of action and thrills. Also IRON TEST No. 15, featuring one of the Feather-weight champions of the sporting world, Antonio Moreno. Fatty Arbuckle in "The Champion" 350 pounds of heavy laughing that wil shake you all over. CAMPUS QUIPS

The Three Bears were the first to remember that Monday was St. Patrick's day.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT EXAMS

It has been stated officially that practically all the Seniors passed in Theism.

Senorita Spanish teacher regrets that she had to give a low grade to her heretofore most brilliant student.

The night watchman vows that he saw mysterious flickering lights in Pearsons at all hours Friday, Monday, and Tuesday evenings.

The Boarding Club made a profit of ten dollars from March 15 to 19. Whither went the appetites?

WHAT SHE THOUGHT OF MEN

The following composition was found recently. It may be that one of Licia Johnson's young hopefuls wrote it:

"Men are what women marry. They drink and smoke and swear, but don't go to church. Perhaps if they wore bonnets they would. They are more logical than women, also more zoological. Both men and women sprang from monkeys, but women sprang farther than the men."

This little incident didn't happen here but there are some people who could tell tales almost as funny:

'Look here", the poet gasped to the editor, "I wrote a poem about my little boy and began the first verse with these words: 'My son, my pigmy counterpart.' "

"Yes?"

The poet drew a newspaper from his pocket. "Read", he blazed. "See what you're compositor did to my opening line".

The editor read: "My son, my pig, my counterpart."

"Frances always begins a novel in the middle of it."

"What's that for,"

"Why, then she has two problems to be excited over: how the story will end and how it will begin."

Mildred C. teaches Ancient History at the East Side School, and now and then something like this happens:

Miss C.: What happened to Babylon?

Students: It fell.

Miss C: And what happened to Nineveh?

Students: Destroyed.

Miss C.: And to Tyre?

The Clever Student: Punctured.

MUMPS

'Tis quite stylish, don't you know,
To have the mumps and look just so,
And very nice you'll not forget
To stay with Mrs. Lowery and be a pet.

The brilliancy of these English students.

Ruth Greenlee while using the Hunt and Peck method on the typewriter: "Is a semicolon, a dot and a period?"

And again "Dog take it!"

Mittye Stovall soothingly, "Aw! You keep it yourself, honey!"

We have the pleasure of announcing that there is a new and accomplished voice in the Vesper Choir; the aforesaid belonging to Miss Celeste Moseley.

Miss Trent in Home Ec. "What are the by-products of silk?"

Julia Anderson: "Worms".

Ruth Johnson to Vance H.: "What are you in such a hurry for?"

Vance: "I'm trying to get this written before my fountain pen runs dry!"

Prof. Knapp in Physics: "What is the smallest part of a combination?"

George Pugh: "A button!"

"The smallest cows in the world are from the Samoan Islands", explained Prof. Bassett.

Mary Louis H.: "Is that where they get condensed milk?"

PERSONALS

The students are glad to welcome Mrs. W. P. Stevenson back to the fold after an absence of several weeks.

Miss Margaret Alexander spent the week-end in Pearsons. However, her mother called on her Sunday afternoon.

The many friends of Mary Ray and William Anderson offer their deepest sympathy in the death of their mother. Mrs. Anderson was well-known and liked by many of the students of present and former days.

Lieut. and Mrs. H. B. Frater visited on the Hill last week. They will be located at Camp Taylor until Lieut. Frater receives his discharge.

Miss Mary Fleming was guest of honor at an after-study-hour party Wednesday evening, given by members of the S. V. B. Refreshments consisted of ice cream and chocolates.

The Misses Mary Emma Armentrout and Ruth Allen are spending a few days at their homes at White Pine.

Ensign Harry Wagner who recently completed his course of study at the Naval Officer's Material School, Hampton Roads, Va. is visiting here. Ensign Wagner may register for the Spring term.

Miss Licia Johnson entertained a numer of her friends at a "spread" last week.

Among the girls who are spending between terms at their respective homes are Miss Lola Beeler, Miss Helen Horton and the Misses Callie and Lora Speck.

Miss Emma Darby, of Washington, a yeoman in the navy, is visiting her sister, Miss Lulu Darby.

Miss Marietta Davis has returned to her home in Chattanooga. She will not register for the Spring term.

An early breakfast was partially enjoyed by the following girls in college woods Monday: Sara Lee Lloyd, Helen Brown, Ina Secor, Ethel Doctor, Louise Dunn and Helen Horton. It has been noted that squirrels are very clever and often have a ravenous appetite.

Miss Hazel Bevan recently entertained in honor of Miss Frances Bush's birthday. The table decorations were red and the cake with its nineteen candles also carried out the color scheme. A two course supper was served. Special friends of the hostess and the honoree were the guests.

Oh, the leanness of the Senior,
when he's lean,
Oh, the keenness of the Junior,
when he's keen.
Oh, the meanness of the Sophomore,
when he's mean.
But worse than the keenness of the keen, or the meanness of the mean,
Is the greenness of the Freshman,
when he's green.

Dean Barnes calling the roll: "Miss Lloyd, Miss Eva Lloyd."

No anwser.

"Miss Lloyd "

Chorus of voices (coming to the rescue): 'Here "

Dean Barnes: "Good team work, class "

Wisie: Did you hear about the circus being unable to perform?

Beck: "No, why?"

Wisie: "The cook left the coffee pot outside and the elephant swallowed the grounds."

Mrs. Alexander: "Where was the charge of the Light Brigade made?"

Sarah Lee Lloyd: "In the battle of Waterloo, wasn't it?"

THE SENIORS SPEND A FEW DAYS VACATION AT ALCOA AND CHEOAH

DR. AND MRS. W. P. STEVENSON CHAPERON PARTY OF TWELVE. ALL RETURN GREATLY BENEFITED BY THE BRIEF SOJOURN IN THE MOUNTAINS.

Perhaps, dear reader, you are expecting this to be a descriptive narrative, recounting the experiences of certain Seniors on a mountain trip. Such it may appear to be at a cursory glance, but it has a deeper purpose than to entertain you. If you will read between the lines, you will see that it is really argumentative. It aims to prove that examinations either should or should not be abolished. And what, you ask, can be the connection between examinations and a mountain trip? Just this, dear reader: certain Seniors—, Seniors, mind you, were so prostrated after having come, successfully or otherwise, through a series of grilling questions on Theism, Shakespeare, and the like, that they were compelled in the interests of their future health and happiness to seek the solitude of the mountains, where nought save the murmur of streams and the sweet singing of birds might intrude upon their thoughts. Thus it was that last Wednesday afternoon, a worn and haggard group, under the tender care and guidance of Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson, boarded the train for Alcoa. Upon arriving, just in time for supper at Hotel Ragle, some improvement was noticeable. The bracing mountain air was proving beneficial already, and the appetites of these jaded, exam-wearied Seniors arose even as did their spirits. After supper, a walk about town followed by a social chat in their private sitting-room to the accompaniment of the player-piano, endued them with new vigor, so that early the next morning they were in a state of health sufficiently improved to continue their journey on up to Cheoah. Here they were allowed the freedom of the woods and hills so welcome to them after the repressions and restrictions of college life that will at times becomes irksome, and in the course of that day many a wondrous high mountain peak was graced with a group of Maryville's fair Seniors. The famous dam was viewed from every possile angle, above and below, and its spray cooled and soothed the brows so lately made feverish with the arduous work of preparing for examinations. At noon the party dined most elegantly at the "Yellowhammer" where no comfort or luxury was denied them. In the afternoon they again dispersed in search of the solitude of the mountains, some to gather wild flowers, others merely to get a little nearer the clouds. The last mentioned group included the moonshiners, who showed no particular interest in arbutus and galax leaves. But kind reader, do not pass harsh judgment or criticism upon these four people. Remember that each member of the party was seeking recuperation and rejuvenation in his or her own way, and the efficacy of a little mountain moonshine has frequently been proved.

The shades of night witnessed the party back in Alcoa and strolling along the board-walk that leads to the movies. Clara Kimball Young entertained in her usual charming manner, and after the rather prolonged homeward stroll, everybody admitted that they were weary enough to indulge in a little life-giving sleep. Early the next morning they boarded the train for Maryville, and were delivered by their chaperones, who were ever solicitous but not over-solicitous for their welfare, to the college authorities. They have taken up their work with great enthusiasm and there is every prospect now that they will remain here as students until June and may even survive one more set of examinations.

And now, dear reader, this short treatise may or may not have proved to you that examinations should be abolished. It all depends upon your viewpoint. If you think that such dissipation as is involved in a mountain trip lasting two days and nights is really harmful to a student, why of course examinations should be abolished in order that there may be no excuse for such a trip; but if, on the other hand, you see the possibilities (and they are many and varied) of such a trip, then you must admit that even examinations have their good points in that they may furnish a valid excuse for a mighty good time.

ADELPHIC UNION MEETING MAR. 29

The Big Meeting of The Societies—"The Piper's Pay" Will Be Presented by The Bainonians and Thetas.

The first spring term Adelphic Union Meeting will be held in the chapel Saturday evening. From the beginning of the monthly joint meetings a number of excellent programs have been given. The crowning event of the year is to be presented March 29. Representatives from the Athenian and Alpha Sigma Society will entertain the first half of the evening. Robert Adams will sing and Eckles West will give a reading.

At the conclusion of the first half of the program the Thetas and Bainonians will present a very charming one-act play, "The Piper's Pay", which was given by Irene Bewley's graduation class, at the Leland Power's School of the Spoken Word, as a graduation number. The play is a clever satire on modern society life. Among the characters are: a young society matron who because of her fad for collecting spoons finds herself within the grasp of the law; Mrs. Hereford Carr, an established leader of society whose favor is eagerly sought; an intelligent society miss; an unsophisticated newly-wed; a wrongly accused maid; a detective who assumes the role of a maid; and a newspaper woman who is always looking for a "scoop". Come out Saturday night and you will see who is who in the cast.

Not only the members of the Adelphic Union, but friends of the societies are invited to attend the Big Meeting. Don't miss it!

M. C. ERWIN FELLOWS DEFEAT HOME TEAMS

The M. C. fellows from Erwin went back to their home town over the week-end and defeated both the Y. M. C. A. and the town basketball teams. It would seem as if the best part of the Erwin basketball material had migrated to Maryville.

M. C. DEFEATS HIWASSEE IN BASEBALL

Dean Barnes Opens Season For Maryville. Score 9-0 at The End of Six and a Half Innings When Game Ended.

The Hiwassee College baseball team invaded the campus Monday morning. A large crowd of spectators, and moonshiners turned out at three o'clock to witness the contest between the visiting team and the M. C. players which lasted for six and a half innings.

The season was opened by Dean Barnes' pitching the first ball for Maryville. Although a little rusty, at present, the dean gave conclusive proof by the way he handled the pill that he has been more familiar with the national sport in days past. Some of the spectators were probably surprised to see the dean throw an out-drop which cut the center of the plate squarely.

Hiwassee failed to score during the first half of the first inning. On the second ball thrown during the latter half Wagner sent a two-bagger between right and center fielders. He was advanced by Ruble and came to the plate on a wild throw.

Two errors by Hiwassee brought in a score during the third and another was made in the fifth. Sloan lived at first on a fielder's choice, and Weisbecker, who ran for him, was advanced to second by Wagner's sacrifice and scored on Lowery's double to left field.

In the sixth inning four hits, two errors, and a walk brought in six more men for Maryville.

The Maryville team showed up exceedingly well for the first game of the season, and for the first time the men have ever played together. The team as a whole batted .250 and the fielding was all that could be expected this early in the season, only two errors being made in the six and a half innings played. A successful season may now be safely predicted.

THE NEXT S. V. B. CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT MARYVILLE 1919-1920

MISS MILDRED HOFFMAN OF M. C. WHO INITIATED THE STUDENT VOLUNTEER UNION OF EAST TENNESSEE MOVEMENT IS THE FIRST PRESIDENT.

Thirty-eight students representing seven colleges of East Tennessee met in conference at the University of Tennessee Saturday and Sunday, March 22 and 23.

The colleges which sent delegates were: University of Tennessee, Carson and Newman, The Athens, School, Tusculum, Hiwassee, Johnson Bible College and Maryville. The latter had the largest number present, nineteen enthusiastic men and women having gone from here.

The delegates and the five speakers were entertained by the U. of T. Volunteer Band at a dinner at the City Y. W. C. A. rooms on Saturday night. After the dinner they went in a body to University Hill where the first session of the conference was held in the Y. M. C. A. chapel.

Mr. Raymond Paty of the U. T. Volunteer Band led the session. After the devotional service the Rev. C. E. Hounshell, Educational Secretary of the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions and formerly a missionary to Korea, gave the evening's address. He spoke of the world needs as being especially pressing in this the reconstruction period following the great war.

After the evening session the University Y. W. C. A. entertained with a social hour at which time the delegates had the opportunity of becoming better acquainted.

The morning session which began Sunday at 9:25 was led by Miss Mildred Hoffman of M. C. The opening address was given by Miss Elizabeth Lawson of St. Louis, Student Secretary of the Southeastern Division of the Y. W. C. A.

A series of talks, "What It Means To Be a Volunteer" were given by Miss Laura Putnam and Miss Elizabeth Hudson of Maryville, and Raymond Paty of U. T. The first talk was "What is Involved in Signing the Declaration Card"; the second, "The Function of a Volunteer Band in College"; and the third, "Prayer Life of a Volunteer".

A prayer list was made up by the delegates and a committee appointed to consider the advisability of organizing a Student Union.

At the conclusion of the morning session the delegates went to the church of their choice, the majority of the Volunteers going to hear Rev. Hounshell at the Church St. Methodist Church where he delivered a stirring address on the political situations which are facing the world. He proved that the religion of Christ is the only solution to the many problems of to-day

Promptly at 2:30 the delegates met for a business session at which the students were organized into the Student Volunteer Union of East Tennessee. After the business meeting addresses were delivered by the following people:

Mildred Hoffman presented a picture of the call of the world versus the call of Christ; Rev. Hounshell followed with a splendid talk on "Needs of the World To-day", based on the 1919 Bulletin of the Volunteer Movement.

Mr. Morgan of the U. T. Y. M. C. A. spoke of his war work activities in Russia and Roumania. The audience was inspiired by his rapid fire delivery and the message he put across from the Russian people.

The Rev. Stevens, assistant pastor of the First Baptist church of Knoxville then gave a talk on his experience in Africa taking his hearers with him on a tour through southern Africa. The laugher and interest which accompanied the trip showed the appreciation of the audience.

The last session of the conference was held at 7:30. The following delegates were chosen officers for the ensuing year:

Mildred Hoffman, Maryville, President; Tom Maston, Carson and Newman, Vice-President; Dorothy Daly, U. T., Secretary; David Watts, Johnson Bible College, Treasurer.

The conference was invited to meet at Maryville next year and the invitation was accepted.

Dr. Hattie Love of the Woman's Medical College of Soochow, China, the Sunday evening speaker, gave her hearers some idea of the great responsibility that America, as a world leader, has of bettering the human race.

1919-20 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE ARRANGED

Game With U. of N. C. Sept. 27 Will Probably Begin Season. A Number of Old Stars Will Be Back, Among Them Hal McNutt.

Football will be placed on a pre-war basis next fall, and a good schedule is being arranged by Manager McLaughlin. Some of Maryville's old rivals will be met in deadly conflict on the gridiron. With several old reliables back and plenty of backing from the sidelines it seems probable that Maryville wilil put out another winning team to match the records made in previous years.

The schedule as it is planned at present is as follows:

Sept. 27—University of N. C. at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Oct. 4—U. of T. at Knoxville

Oct. 11—Georgetown University at Maryville

Oct. 18—Centre College at Danville, Ky.

Oct. 25—Mercer University or University of Chattanooga at Maryville

Nov. 1—Mississippi A. & M. at Starksville, Miss.

Nov. 8—King College or Kentucky State University at Maryville

Nov. 15—Emory & Henry College at Maryville.

Nov. 27—Tusculum College at Greeneville, Tenn.

All Fools' Day will soon be here and that is the date set for the payment of subscriptions to the Fred Hope Fund.

It appears that certain rules previously perfunctorily considered are being enforced which fact causes much dismay to certain collegians when they consider their term grade. Perhaps the habitual absentees were taken unfair advantage of for they had tried cutting before and carried off the honors. They might at least have been told that the absence rule was going to be enforced. Perhaps they would not have believed it even then. It is a question.

Tennis is the campus sport from now on. The courts are occupied at six a. m. and from then until after the supper hour, when twilight gathers and the study bell summons indefatigable players to Ethics, Greek, Math or sleep, cries of "serve", "thirty all", "love set". or "deuce" are heard in off-hours. The girls and boys have but six courts in all and this number is proving to be inadequate. This is especially true in the case of the girls, there being more girls in school now than previously. Many who would like to play tennis cannot do so because of the lack of courts and the rule that tennis cannot be played during study hours which causes a rush in off-hours. More courts are needed and needed badly in order that all who desire to play tennis may have the privilege of doing so.

THETAS ENJOY MUSICAL AND READING PROGRAM

The Thetas gathered Saturday night to enjoy a program that was entirely in keeping with spring time. The whole program consisted of music and readings.

Vance Huggins rendered a piano solo, "Barcarole"; Mildred Striplin read one of the favorite war poems; Orma Montgomery entertained with a violin solo, "Just You"; and Licia Johnson read a number of letter from "Dere Bill" which called forth much laughter from the audience. The last number on the program was a pianologue by Sue Nuckols.

The boys in Carnegie would prefer to have their hot water at night or in the mornings rather than at noon, if it's all the same. At least they would like to take a hot shower Saturday night or Sunday morning.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF Y. M. C. A. CABINET

Some very important matters were acted upon by the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet Tuesday night.

A nominating committee for officers for 1919-1920 was appointed, the election of whom will be held soon. A lyceum committee of three members was elected to select and conduct next year's lyceum course. This committee consists of: James Martin, Chairman; Forrest Brown, Treasurer; Harry Pearson, Head Usher.

Action was taken to buy a curtain for the gallery in the chapel, and to present the same to the college in appreciation of its co-operation. The advisability of publishing a handbook for this year was discussed and a committee appointed to investigate the probable cost. The cabinet decided to erect an association bulletin board to be used exclusively for Y. M. C. A. notices. Other matters of importance were brought up but action was deferred on most of them.

MISS CRESWELL NEXT Y. W. PRESIDENT

The following capable corps of Y. W. C. A. officers was recently appointed for the college year 1919-1920:

Miss Bailey, the 1918-1919 President, will resign her position in favor of Miss Creswell who has proved her executive ability to the satisfaction of Maryville students. There is no question but that the coming year will be as satisfactory as the one that has just closed. The other officers of the organization are:

Mary Kate Lewis - Vice President
Mary Bigelow - - - Secretary
Grace Sydenstricker - - Treasurer

The cabinet consists of:

Martha Robison - Program Secy.
Sarah Lee Lloyd - Social Chairman
Ruth Newton - - Music Chairman
Mildred Campbell - - - Bible Study
Eva Lloyd - - - Mission Study
Barbara Higgins - - Assoc. News
Bernice Jones - - - Librarian
Helen Horton - - - - - Editor
Ailene Rutherford - Social Service

The formal installation of the new officers will be held soon.

IN THE SPRING, IN THE SPRING, IN THE SPRING!

Due, probably to the time of year, the Bainonians have of late been indulging in a bit of romancing, in addition to their regular programs of debates, orations, and musical numbers.

On Saturday night, March the twenty-second, the Bainonian's star comedians gained the rapt attention of that august body, while they unravelled the mysteries and difficulties of a maiden (Mildred Campbell) beset by a bewildering number of ardent suitors.

The regular debate was held, the subject being Resolved: That there should be no spring term examinations. This complex question was upheld by Mary Bigelow and Jeannette Hibbert, and opposed by Bernice Jones and Edith Davis. Each side was very interesting, and the debaters took their audience into all the intricacies of this profound question. It should not be surprising to anyone to know that the decision was unanimous in favor of the affirmative.

These meetings on Saturday nights are most enjoyable, and are always met with a large crowd.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. had a very impressive meeting on Sunday afternoon. The leader was Miss Hazel Cleveland who had for her subject the Twenty-third Psalm. Miss Cleveland gave an interesting and instructive explanation of this beautiful Psalm.

Miss Bernice Jones played the "Spring Song" by Liebling, and Mabel Ritchie and Hattie Hayes sang a duet, "The Lord is My Shepherd." The meeting closed by repeating the Mizpah benediction.

It seems that Pearsons' bathrooms are for ornamental rather than practical purposes.

ATHENIANS HEAR TWO DEBATES

The Athenians met with their usual full house Saturday night. The new officers took up the work.

Interest centered about two debates. The first of these, on the question, Resolved: That returning soldiers should receive grants of land, was discussed by Junior Athenians; R. L. Nease and Edgar Martin were on the affirmative, and Charles Ellis and Roy Nickolson on the negative. The negative won the decision of the judges and the house.

The second number, an extemporaneous debate on the momentous consideration Resolved: That the nursing bottle is more useful than the handcuffs, was supported on the affirmative by Harry Wagner and Forrest Borwn, and on the negative by Herbert Kiger and William McConnell. New uses for both of these articles were exploited, and some startling facts revealed concerning certain Athenians.

Let's keep the good spirit going for the few remaining weeks of the school year. Athenian loyalty will not fail now!

STUDENT SPEAKERS AT Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY

Speakers chosen from the students gave the program for the Sunday afternoon Y. M. C. A. meeting. The topic under consideration was "Lessons From the Lives of Great Men of the Present Crisis." J. H. Kiger led the devotions. Frank Minarik gave a short and graphic delineation of Marshal Foch's wonderful power of thinking, of acting, and of worshiping, which made him the idol of the Allies, and the "gray man of Christ." Jason Purdy by means of biographical sketch of Woodrow Wilson, told how the principles of Christ had governed his every motive and action and brought success to his works. The last speaker, Isaac Husky spoke on the life of John R. Mott, the "greatest religious organizer since John Wesley". Mott had planned to be a materialist and had educated himself for that purpose, but the call of God came. As head of the War Council for the Y.M.C.A. he has made efficient that great organization in the service of the American soldiers.

This program was very interesting and instructive. All come out to the World Forum next Sunday at 1:15.

JUNIOR ALPHA SIGMA REORGANIZES

Sure there has been another society organized, but it is neither a secret society nor one whose works are carried on against the will of the faculty. It is a real live, wide-awake literary society made up of the preparatory boys who are out for the best things the college affords.

There has been a Junior Alpha Sigma on the Hill in former years, but last fall on account of the scarcity of members in each, the Junior and Senior sections were combined. Both sections have recruited many new members since that time, so it was thought best that they should work separately again. A meeting was held a few Saturday nights ago for the purpose of electing officers. An excellent corps of officers was elected and each one promised to do his best to make the society a success. A little "pep" meeting was held last Saturday night at which the officers, from President Taylor to Janitor Baldwin, were sworn into active duty. After this, plans for the future were discussed. Everything is now in fine shape to roll off and unfold some splendid programs. The first of these will be given next Saturday night Come out boys! If you miss it you're the loser.

Question: Why did Bob Bartlett return from the conference before two o'clock Monday?

Room 427, Pearsons has been in good order for two whole days, as the owners were in Knoxville.

Are we going to have class parties or a mountain trip this spring?

MARYVILLE COLLEGE
1819-1918

REV. SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON, D. D., PRES.

I. ITS PAST. Founded in 1819 by the Synod of Tennessee, it now celebrates its Centennial, in continued service to the church and country. Thousands of its former students are scattered over the world.

II. ITS PRESENT. Its enrollment in 1918 was 748—347 young men and 401 young women—of whom 297 were collegians. 480 students from Tennessee, and 268 from 33 other states and countries. Its teaching force of 60 professors and assistants.

III. ITS PLANT. It has property of all kinds amounting to $1,100,000. Twelve buildings, including the new swimming pool; water works, sewerage, steam heat and electric lights. The campus contains 250 acres.

IV. ITS COLLEGE CURRICULUM. It offers nine groups of study leading to a B. A. degree: Classical, Modern Languages, Science, Mathematics, Education, English, Literature and History, Psychology and Philosophy, Social Science and General. Fifteen units are required for admission to the freshman class. A two-year premedical course is offered

V. ITS OTHER DEPARTMENTS. 1. Preparatory. 2. Bible Training. 3. Teachers. 4. Home Economics. 5. Agriculture. 6. Bookkeeping 7. Music. 8. Expression. 9. Art.

VI. ITS MORAL ATMOSPHERE. The College is strongly Christian, and the discipline is careful. The Students' spiritual welfare is the first concern. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are very efficient. The Bible is the required text book.

VII. ITS INEXPENSIVENESS. 1. Tuition is $6.00 a term. 2. Room rent for each student with two in the room, $18 to $35 a year. 3. Board in Cooperative Club of 500 is $2.25 per week. 4. Text books rented. General library free. 5. Opportunities for selfhelp afforded.

—THURSDAY—
DOUGLES FAIRBANKS
IN
"IN AGAIN, OUT AGAIN"

This is one of the greatest pictures that Fairbanks has ever produced. He says so himself, so it must be true. Talk about your athletic exhibition you certainly get all of it in this feature, for "Doug" goes after things and keeps them moving from start to finish. Also we will have a Mack-Sennett Comedy "Romance and Brass Tacks" with an all-star comedy cast including Myrtle Lind and Ben Turpin.

—FRIDAY—
MARY PICKFORD
IN
"LITTLE AMERICAN"

Little Mary—as she is generally known—demonstrates true American citizenship and as for Patriotism she goes the limit, and in one of the greatest times of the History of this world she shows just what and how a real American should do to save his or her country, and she does it in such a "cute way" that you can't help but cheer when she does the big stuff. A Christie Comedy entitled "CIRCUMSTANCIAL EVIDENCE", featuring Bobby Vernon, the war hero.

—SATURDAY—

Pearl White in "LIGHTNING RAIDER" No. 6. Screen Telegram No. 10. George Walsh in "I'LL SAY SO", one of the best melodramas. You will cry and then you will laugh. He keeps you in "hot water" all the way through, but you will enjoy it all the same 'cause it's "George". A Harold Lloyd Comedy entitled "HELL'S ON FIRE"; and Look Francis Ford in "THE SILENT MYSTERY". A serial with a big thrill and something exciting happening every minute, featuring a man that sure knows how to scrap and especially when his girl's life is at stake. Don't miss a single installment of this wonderful serial.

—MONDAY—

Last of the "IRON TEST", featuring Antonio Moreno and Carol Halloway. The title of this Chapter is "Riding with Death". Does Craven accomplish his dastardly mission of trying to kill Forde? What will the end be, will there be a marriage? Or what? "BRASS BULLET", one of the best serials ever shown. Also another Western-er, "THE BLACK HORSE BANDIT" featuring Helen Gibson, the dauntless little western actress. Big V Comedy entitled "BUMS AND BOARDERS". Two reels of solid laughter. A good show. "War Review" No. 31.

—TUESDAY—

Joseph M. Schenck presents NORMA TALMADGE in "THE FORBIDDEN CITY". A story of mystery linked with love, featuring one of the most pleasing characters in pictures. This story was written especially for her by George Scraborough, and she certainly does not disappoint him in his "Dream Character". Also a L-KO Comedy entitled "MUGS AND MASHERS". This show will run 1 hour and 30 minutes, consult the clock and start right.

SOUTHERN EDUCATORS ON THE NEGRO

Gainesville, Fla.—The Southern Education Society, in its annual session here, drew educators from every Southern state. The Society requested the new president, Dr. McConnell, of the Virginia State Normal for Women, to appoint committees for a careful study of the South's most important educational problems. One of these committees is to study Negro education, and report its recommendations at the meeting next year.

G. W. Tedder, of Madison, Fla., the retiring president, in his annual address spoke of the patriotism of the Negroes, as shown by soldiers and civilians alike, and also bore witness to the fact that the schools for colored children are not what they should be.

"The schools", he said, "should be so reconstructed as to develop whatever latent powers the Negro has. I believe his salvation lies in an industrial education which will enable him to earn an honest living, and thus fit him for his proper place in the development of the nation."

LOUISIANA BREAKS THE RECORD

Lake Charles, La.—This city of 15,000 inhabitants has just set a new standard for the state in providing for the education of its colored population. It has voted a bond issue of $200,000, $150,000 of which is to be spent in building and equipping three brick schools for Negroes. The vote was six to one in favor of the issue, and the property majority was even larger. Ample playgrounds are provided for; and Supt. Yeager is planning to introduce industrial training as well.

Shreveport, Baton Rouge and Alexandria have already put up substantial brick buildings for colored schools; and these, as well as the vote at Lake Charles, are significant of the growing belief in the state at large of the moral and economic importance of good schools for the Negro population.

Everybody enjoyed the one-reel film Saturday night. There is something in imagination and those who are very clever at supposing just knew how the romance ended.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Carrie B. Llewellyn who had many friends and acquaintances in Maryville among them, Miss M. E. Caldwell, Miss E. M. Jackson, and Mrs. John Webb, died suddenly at her home in Chattanooga, March 24. The sympathy of the college is with the bereaved friends.

Miss Helen Bryan is enjoying a visit with friends in North Carolina.

Miss Frances W. Hickey spent the week-end in Knoxville, at the Farragut, recuperating from the blow she received when she was informed that she reached the century mark on her zoology exam.

Miss Emma Miles spent a pleasant in-between-terms season at her home in Madisonville. The Ensign was also away from the Hill a few days.

Mrs. J. B. S. Alexander has been ill with a cold since the beginning of the spring term.

Maryville delegates to the student Volunteer Conference at U. T. were: Mildred Hoffman, Ethel Doctor, Maude Hite, Laura Putman, Lois Wilson, Mittye Stovall, Bonnie Jones, Ashton Clayton, Elizabeth Hudson, Grace Sydenstricker, Helen Brown, Miss Bliss, Miss Hauck, Bob Bartlett, D. L. Beard, Harold Smith, Harry Pearson, Chester Osborn, and Cedric Miller.

Miss Jessie Loy of New Market was a visitor in Pearsons this week.

Misses Ruby Dawn and Margaret Graham have received telegrams stating that their brothers have arrived in the U. S.

Miss Nina Parks of Ceveland is one of the new students this term.

Misses Nealie Avery, Annie Margaret Carson and Louise Gleason, have just returned from a pleasant trip to their homes.

Miss Mary Mason of Woodstock Ala., made her appearance Monday afternoon. As a result of her coming study hour in thirty-eight has seemed more like a combination of circus and meal-time than ever before.

Misses Eunice Taylor, Irma Schwab, and Ruth Newton were in Knoxville Saturday. Miss Nina Belle Caldwell accompanied them and stayed over for the week-end.

About three dozen girls enjoyed seeing Billie Burke in Gloria's Romance, Wednesday night at the Palace.

Clarence Lashblack and Frank Heron who are just back from France were on the Hill Sunday night visiting Miss Gertrude March.

Misses Jessie Magill and Mary Patton entertained at a breakfast party on Tuesday morning.

MID-TERM SNAP

About 6:30 Thursday night, the alarm sounded through the girls' halls to the effect that the powers that be had relented and granted the privilege of snap. The news echoed to Carnegie and the boys who had not already left for town, slipped on tennis shoes.

The girls brought out the larger representation and the boy who got sixty seconds rest on the gym floor, hid in the corner for that space of time.

The strain of exams had been very heavy so that by the time the lights flashed, only a few couples were left on the floor.

VARIED ALPHA SIGMA PROGRAM PRESENTED

There were not many present at the meeting of the Alpha Sigma Literary Society on last Saturday evening, but much interest was manifested by those who attended.

Mr. Luther Johnson entertained delightfully for several minutes with some quotations from Shakespeare. Following this was an extemporaneous debate on the old subject, Resolved: That capital punishment should be abolished in the United States. This was argued by Mr. Briggs on the affirmative, and by Mr. Purdy on the negative.

As a final number Mr. Weisbecker read the Alpha Sigma Advance, which was immensely enjoyed by all.

CAMPUS QUIPS

Prof. Walker in Physics: "What evidence do we have that the earth is a magnet?"

Mary Key Dolvin: "The planets stay in one position and different things go around it."

Mayme Carol Ludeman excitedly at the M. C.—Hiwassee game, (Wisie at second base was playing off a little): "Stay close, Wisie."

Another time when the catcher took his position this question was asked: "What's the pitcher got those things on his legs for?"

POSITIONS WANTED

Miss M. Rendon hereby applies for the position of instructor in astronomy. Individual lessons given star-lit evenings.

Sheeny Briggs resigns his position as movie operator and is thereby free to accept a good position. In a statement to the press Sheeny said, "Experience is a good teacher, but it was too hard on the audience and the films."

Bob Adams and Luther Johnson wish the permanent task of escorting parties of ten or more girls, on pleasure trips. They guarantee to suffer any hardships that may be encountered.

An expert modiste is about to put out her shingle. For particullars address 426 Pearsons.

HELP WANTED—FEMALE

Wanted: A girl with gray matter to read French at the noon hour. L. Mc. and F. C.

Wanted: Several bright, quick girls, age not a factor, to be on time at chapel. Dean Barnes.

The members of the ukulele club are wanted to give after-supper concerts—The Student Body.

Wanted: A girl who will accept me the first time I propose. See M. Anderson Hall.

HELP WANTED—MALE

Wanted: A brave man who will guarantee to cage Wisie's laugh. —The Movie Fiends.

Wanted: Twenty-five men of senior standing from neighboring colleges who will act as escorts to theater parties, dances, etc. For further information consult this year's college catalog—, the senior class enrollment.

Wanted: A modern Aladdin to provide for the whims and fancies of the student body.

Wanted: An experienced detective to ferret out the Kiger-Thompson case. Address The Matrons.

Prof. Bassett knows. When is a cigarette not a cigarette? Ask him.

The all-important question under discussion at present is "How did Maude Pardue get her nose skinned?" Ask Bob Adams for particulars.

SURPRISE FOR MISS HALE

Tuesday afternoon Miss Hale was persuaded by a nature-loving friend to take a walk in college woods. Imagine her surprise when in the vicinity of the House in the Woods' spring house, numerous other friends sprang from behind trees and shrubbery and joined in wishing her a happy birthday. The greatest surprise of all came some time later when a cake bearing ten candles was transported to the scene of festivity. This, the climax, had been preceded by a delicious supper of fried chicken, hot biscuits, and other tasty dishes. The people who composed the jolly picnic party were: Miss Hale, the guest of honor; Mrs. Stevenson, Miss Green, Miss Bliss, Miss Gregg, Miss Bassett, Miss Coulter, Miss Darby, and Miss Buxton.

COLLEGE WILL HAVE HOLIDAY TOMORROW

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS GIVE FIRST GRADUATE RECITAL

MISS TROY HADDOX, READER, AND MISS EDITH CALDWELL, PIANISTE, ENTERTAIN IN CHARMING MANNER. DATES OF SUCCEEDING RECITALS TO BE ANNOUNCED LATER.

The first graduate recital of the year was given in Voorhees chapel on Monday evening. The participants in the program were: Miss Edith Caldwell, pianiste, and Miss Troy Haddox, reader.

As the opening number, Miss Caldwell played McDowell's "Preludium Op. 10, No. 1" and by this number the attention and interest of the audience were at once attracted. "Hark, Hark the Lark", Schubert-Liszt was the next selection and in the rendering of this beautiful and difficult number was clearly shown Miss Caldwell's ability, not only to master difficult passages, but also to keep the theme clearly, yet delicately, accented throughout.

Miss Haddox appeared after these musical numbers and gave the reading, "The Littlest Rebel" by Edward Peple, a thrilling story of civil war days, which showed the power and influence that a little child may have in the moment of greatest danger.

From the beginning Miss Haddox won the sympathy of her audience, as she impersonated the different characters: the father, a loyal soldier of the South, who would risk all the danger involved in passing through the Northern lines, in order to visit his little girl; and again, the captain, a Northerner in the truest sense of the word, yet a father, too, and one who understood the meaning of sympathy for one's fellowmen. Miss Haddox so clearly brought the different characters before the audience, that each one commanded a real personal interest—, but perhaps, she was most appealing as Virgie, that lonely little Southern lass, who lived by herself in the overseer's house, her only company, her faithful doll and the hope that her father would return to her. The appreciation of the audience was shown in their deep interest throughout this number and the hearty applause which followed its close.

Miss Caldwell then played three more numbers—"L'Alouette" by Balakirev, which was beautifully interpreted. Then followed "Liebestraume", Notturno III. perhaps the best loved of the well-known Liszt consolations. A fitting close to the splendid program was the Rhapsodie d'Auvergne by Saint-Saens, the most brilliant selection and one which displayed the splendid technique and musical ability of the pianiste. One of the charms of Miss Caldwell's playing, is the enjoyment she herself seems to receive from it.

The entire program was a great compliment to the excellent work being accomplished by those in charge of the Expression and Music Departments. The student body showed their appreciation by the large attendance and excellent attention given, and with this splendid beginning, all will look forward eagerly to the other graduate recitals which are to follow.

The date of the next recital will be announced soon, also the names of those who will take part. The girls who will receive their diplomas from the special departments are: Music Department graduates, Miss Edith Caldwell, Miss Marguerite Sullinger, Miss Adah Howard and Miss Emma Miles, pianistes, and Miss Winston Newton, vocalist; Expression Department graduates, Miss Troy Haddox, Miss Sue Nuckols, Miss Gail Wilson, and Miss Marie Townsend. The recitals will probably come in the order in which the names of the graduates are arranged.

The departments will hold separate graduation exercises following the plan of last year. These exercises have been deferred until Commencement week for the benefit of the Centennial visitors. Contrary to the usual custom, graduates of the different departments will, at the graduation exercises, entertain for the guests.

The special departments are preparing to assume much of the responsibility for the success of commencement week.

SENIORS RENEW THEIR CHILDHOOD DAYS

They Enjoy One Last Juvenile Fling Before Donning Caps and Gowns. Party Held at French Residence on Court Street.

A charming little party was given last Friday night at the home of Mrs. French on Court Street to the children of the Senior Class. They were all there—, the boys in their cunning little Buster Brown suits, and the little girls with curls and very much dressed up in their party frocks. Most of them were permitted to come alone or in the company of one of their little boy playmates. Little Miss Edith Davis was accompanied by her "Daddy". She is one of the youngest members of the class and her "Daddy" doesn't let her go anywhere without him.

The children spent a very happy evening playing with their toys, putting together picture puzzles and blowing soap-bubbles. At about ten o'clock, their usual bed-time, the fact that they were getting tired and sleepy was evident. They began to be a little peevish and quarrelsome, but Mrs. Stevenson in her tactful way, prevented any serious discord and kept them in good order. Refreshments consisted of ice cream cones, cake, and all-day suckers. At rather an early hour they were chaperoned home almost too sleepy to get there without assistance, and the next morning they awoke to find themselves dignified Seniors again.

Miss M. E. Caldwell, Miss E. A. Jackson and Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Stevenson spent Tuesday evening in Knoxville where they attended a session of the Mountain Workers' Conference.

HURRAH!

The faculty has granted an all-day holiday Saturday in honor of the East Tennessee boys of the 117th Infantry who will parade in Knoxville about 3:30. Many Blount County men will be in the p'rade and a number of M. C.'s own who enlisted in Maryville, among them Sergt. Ed. Campbell and Chaplain Frank Cody. Everybody go to Knoxville tomorrow to help welcome the returning heroes.

ALL FOOL'S DAY A JOLLY TIME ON HILL

Boarding Club Issues Mysterious Hand-bill. Members of Co. B. Show Their Love of The Almighty Dollar.

April 1, 1919 will remain forever a memorable day, in Maryville College so far as the Boarding Club and Company "B" are concerned. All Fools' Day reminds us that all are not fools from choice.

People in and around Maryville going to work saw in the early dawn, imposing posters attached to telephone poles, buildings, and shop windows. The students also saw these posters which had mysteriously found their way even into the halls. They told of a new need of the Boarding Club, and read thus:

CATS
Wanted Immediately!
Mice are destroying supplies of Maryville College
Boarding Club
ONE DOLLAR
Will be paid for all grown cats delivered before 6:30 today
to
E. R. Walker, Carnegie Hall or
Miss Coulter, Pearsons Hall

Although the managers are loath to admit any definite succes, reliable authorities declare many cats were delivered. One man was seen in the vicinity of the campus with a sackful of writhing contentious animals, and apparently was headed for Pearsons. A young boy entered Pearsons' back door with an old gray cat under one arm, and a white one under the other. The telephone was kept unusually busy by inquiries as to whether or no the demand had been supplied.

At least all can rest assured that the added quantity of supplies thus made available will not increase the H.C.L. A certain individual was very anxious to pay his board with nine cats and a forty-cent kitten, but Prof. Walker declined to accept anything less than ten cats.

The complaint of Pearsons' girls about the cavalry charges in the attic will likely be alleviated. We congratulate the Boarding Club management on its foresight.

Another poster as seen on Carnegie bulletin board aroused infinite joy in the souls of the veterans of Company "B". It read thus:

"According to the act of Congress on March 15, 1919, a twenty dollar bonus will be paid to each student enrolled in Company "B" of the S.A.T.C. for a term of three months or more. This bonus will

"THE PIPER'S PAY" PROVES TO BE A POPULAR AND PLEASING PLAY

A TRYING PROBLEM OF SOCIETY LIFE IS PRESENTED BY WELL-SELECTED CAST FROM GIRLS' LITERARY SOCIETIES. ROY ANDERSON OF STELLAR FAME SINGS TWO SOLOS.

A certain professor on the Hill was heard to make the remark, not long ago, that within one day's notice, from among the students in Maryville College, could be arranged ten excellent entertainments which might be staged the same evening in ten neighboring towns. That, considering the size of the student body, was considered by some to be a rather broad statement, but after having carefully observed since then various entertainments in the chapel all doubts must needs be dispelled.

On the evening of Saturday, March 29, a goodly crowd enjoyed the excellent talent of the Adelphic Union.

The main feature of the evening the play, "The Pipers' Pay" was preceded by several vocal selections. To mention the fact that Mr. Roy Anderson, an 1918 alumnus, who during his college course so often delightfully entertained with tenor solos and who last year was a member of the celebrated College Quartet, sang two numbers is only another way of expressing the fact that the audience was enraptured. Eckles West, newly out of the service, gave as a musical reading, "The Story of the Red, White and Blue". Eckles is always a favorite with college audiences and everyone welcomed his "apres la guerre" initial appearance. Bob Adams also sang two selections which were greatly enjoyed.

Those who have been secretly collecting spoons from Pearsons' dining hall and The Busy Bee were warned by the fate of the very charming Mrs. Burton (Sue Nuckols) who played the lead in "The Pipers' Pay". This pleasing one-act play was a clever take-off on society and had a distinct moral. Mrs. Burton in the presence of a few of her special friends, Mrs. William Dover (Marie Townsend) and Freda Dickson (Jessie Creswell), boasted of her collection of spoons which she had gathered from various hotels and cafes, quite unaware that the newspaper reporter (Gail Wilson) who had come to interview her about a tea was in search of a big "scoop" and that she was in league with the detective who was playing the role of maid (Troy Haddox). This detective, Mrs. Burton had employed to watch a maid whom she wrongly suspected of stealing. The detective, in turn, was employed by the Association of Hotel and Restaurant Men to watch society women who were making a hobby of collecting silver. She found a number of spoons in Mrs. Burton's possession and the day was saved only by the appearance of Mrs. Hereford Carr (Minnie Hunter), an established leader of society, who was hated and feared by all. Mrs. Carr proved a very present help in the time of need and prosecution by the head of the association was not pursued. Just when everything seemed right with the world, the reporter, who concealed behind a screen had witnessed the whole perfomance, made her appearance and dampened the renewed spirits of the party by saying that the story would be published in the next day's paper, so Freda's warning held and The Piper Paid.

The story as it was enacted was most interesting throughout and the "men haters" of the school must surely by this time, be won to the decision that there are a few men in this world who are "different" as gathered from the testimony of Billy's wife (Marie Townsend).

The students wish they could have such entertainments each week, but the fact that this is impossible does in no wise, lessen their great appreciation for such affairs when they are privileged to have them. We are all proud of the talent of the Adelphic Union, and of those who are the means of the development of that talent, and the writer has not skepticism about the wisdom of the remark made by one of the popular professors.

TIGERS REORGANIZE FOR ACTIVE WORK

Lookout Varsity! The Tigers Are Coming and Coming Strong. The College Is Asked to Support Team.

The old and well-known Tiger organization met and reorganized last Tuesday, April 1. The purpose of this meeting was to get started in baseball. With Richard Bechk as chairman, Raymond King, manager, Clifford Perkins, captain, and Cecil McLaughlin, treasurer, the Tigers have the stuff that put the ge-r-r- in Tiger. The prospects for a successful year are very bright with E. King, Roy McCall, Cecil McLaughlin and R. King of last year's squad back and also much promising new material. There is no reason why the Tigers should not have as successful a season as that of last year.

The Tigers formerly made many friends on the Hill by their excellent work in athletics and by their conduct which showed them to be sportsmen of the best type. As an organization working for old M. C. they ask for, and deserve the support of the College.

MISS JONES ENTERTAINED

Birthdays are becoming a very frequent occurrence in official circles. Saturday evening Miss Jewell entertained at her home on Indiana avenue in honor of Miss Anna Jones. A birthday cake was a feature of the celebration, but the number of candles it contained is a secret shared by the guests who were: Miss Clemens, Miss Goddard, Miss Pleasants, Miss Darby and Miss Hawk. Miss Hawk also enjoyed a birthday the first of the week.

Now that the men are returning so rapidly from overseas and national and local life are assuming a pre-war basis we are apt to forget the financial burden imposed on our country by its entrance into the great struggle. The day of the War Saving and Thrift Stamp is not over. If you have failed to make any 1919 purchases buy now and prove that you are not going to be a reconstruction slacked.

The suggestion heralded in one of this week's articles that the boys use the early part of Monday morning to clean up the campus in preparation for Centennial week is an excellent one. There is no reason why the grounds with a little work and some money cannot be made one of the most attractive college campuses in the south. However, the work should be started at once in order that nature may have a chance to play her part in the beautifying process. The girls will be very glad to do all they can to help in this work. Flower beds might be started and numerous improvements made. Let's have a general clean-up time!

:--:--:--:

"It is dishonorable to say one thing and think another" is a statement that goes back to the time of the Roman writers and there is as much truth in the saying to-day as there was in the days of the learned of old. How often we are led to believe that people are saying one thing while they are thinking another, and some imp of Satan prompts us to answer in the same mood. Yet if we think twice we hesitate and vow inwardly that we will not place ourselves on the same level with those who practice insincerity. The insincerity that is unpremeditated may be forgiven but intentional insincerity is not only dishonorable but dishonest. That person who in his or her profession makes a practice of deceiving is soon known for what he is and cannot hope to command the respect of the people whom he hopes to influence. If you learn nothing else from your college course, learn sincerity. To be sincere you do not have to be a "goody-goody" or a C. D. Just be sure your thinking is straight and mean what you say. "Of all the evil spirits abroad at this hour in the world insincerity is the most dangerous." Save yourself from contagion by comparing the sincere person with the insincere one, the comparison will prevent you from succumbing to the dread malady.

Y. M. HOLDS WORLD FORUM DISCUSSION

"The Call of the World's Present Task" was the World Forum subject discussed Sunday afternoon at "Y".

The sympathies of the Christian world have never been so responsive to the sufferings of humanity as they are today. In one year, America gave to philanthropy, $330,000,000. Most of this has been spent on Christian peoples but the greater need comes from the non-Christian nations. The people of India and the Orient have suffered more for a hundred years than Belgium ever suffered in the war, and our sympathy must reach out and supply their needs. The non-Christian world is bound with fetters of caste and oppression. They have no hope and can have none till Christ enters.

Not only our own destinies are in our hands but also the destinies of the inhabitants of India, Asia, Africa, and South America. One half of the people of South America can neither read or write, 94% of the natives of India are illiterate. The responsibility is ours. How do we accept the call?

JOLLY WEEK-END PARTY

A jolly party of Pearsons girls journeyed to Riverdale last week-end for a rest after exams. The said party were the guests of Miss Sue Drinnan and Miss Irene Campbell. Among the many restful diversions indulged in only a few can be mentioned. Miss E. Brocklehurst won the prize for daring to walk the nearest to the river's edge—she did win, but took part of the river bank with her into the river which caused her disqualification. A baseball game was the main feature and the day was saved by Miss M. Zimmerman's superb playing, she having scored three runs. She is unreservedly recommended to report to Coach Everett. Mule-back riding is a little ancient, but to give the girls a taste of old customs the mules were saddled and the girls mounted—, one quickly dismounted, Lucile Hodges, and with the assistance of the domestic science department she has almost recovered.

The last stunt was a great disappointment and was arranged by Miss L. Middleton and Miss R. Brocklehurst—a ride in a Ford—but just as they got started the Ford headed for Knoxville and stopped dead outside the Southern depot. By a strange concidence a train was about to start to Maryville, and the party was hustled abroad.

Miss C. Messler in a quiet and unassuming manner acted as chaperone.

Y. W. INSTALLATION SERVICE HELD AFTER VESPERS SUNDAY NIGHT

"Feeling and Willing in a Girl's Religion" was the subject for Y.W. C.A. last Sunday afternoon. The leader, Miss Marsena Galbraith spoke of how Feeling is the result of Willing and of the many ways in which feeling is a help to the Christian life. Always a feeling of great joy comes after a decision that requires a sacrifice on our part. It is then we feel that God is very near. The special music consisted of a vocal solo by Miss Jessie Magill with violin accompaniment by Orma Montgomery. Miss Marion Henry played Grieg's "Asa's Tot."

A short but beautiful installation service was held after Vesper in the Y. W. C. A. room when the members of the new cabinet lighted their unburned candles by the flame of the burned-down candles of the retiring cabinet.

Sue (whining for a rubber ball with a whistle in it): Bob said I could have it an' I'm goin' to have it.

Reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body. As by the one, health is preserved, strengthened, and invigorated; by the other, virtue (which is the health of the mind) is kept alive, cherished, and confirmed.—Addison.

VESPERS

The qualities of the true disciple of Christ were outlined by the college pastor at the vesper service. The text was found in Luke 12, 35 and 36; "Let your lives be girded about, and your lights burning; and ye yourselves like unto men that wait for their Lord."

In these words, it was shown, is the attitude of mind that the true disciple of Christ should possess. Men gird themselves that they may put forth their best effort for activity and endurance. It is sometimes said that Christ is a back number, but it is His power that everyone wants and needs. God intended that men should have power and have dominion over all but not for dominion's sake. No one can estimate the power that has come out of the Psalms, 1 Cor. 13, and other chapters of the Bible. If Christian men and women would work together with one accord there would be no limit to what could be accomplished for Christ.

Another characteristic that should be possessed is illumination. A torch should be carried with the Christian wherever he goes. One of the duties of the Christian is to dispel darkness and permit the light to shine into benighted souls. There is no need to make the light shine but simply to let it shine. Do not be a "bog"—, one who is continually absorbing but who never makes any effort to impart to others the good things he has acquired. It is very possible that there are a few "bogs" in Maryville College. Lights should be carried in order to guide others. People who are able to do great things should not be content with small accomplishments, while those who cannot do big things should not overlook the opportunities to do the little things, because in the aggregate these are powerful in their influence.

Finally, the Christian should be watchful. This characteristic will make souls sensitive to the light of God by the study of His Word, by prayer, etc. Many chariots of opportunity have been allowed to roll by. The Christian needs to bestir himself and heed the exhortation contained in the text.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

"President M. B. Adams, of Georgetown College, chairman of the Kentucky Committee of Selection for Rhodes Scholars, has received from the Rhodes Trust of London, England, the following important announcement:

'During the year 1917 and 1918 the organizing Secretary of the Trust, Dr. G. R. Parkin, C. M. G., visited most of the states of the American Union and the provinces of Canada, and made an exhaustive study in consultation with university and college authorities, of the operation in those countries of the system pursued in the selection of scholars since the foundation of the Trust. As a result of this investigation, certain changes in the methods of selection have been under consideration.

"Among other changes, it has been decided that candidates in the United States, who are otherwise eligible, shall no longer be required to pass a qualifying examination, but shall be selected, with due reference to the suggestions of Mr. Rhodes, on the basis of their university or college standing, subject to any further test which the Committees of Selection may in their discretion impose.'

Information as to the procedure and date of election will be issued as soon as possible. Professor Frank Aydelotte of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has become American Secretary to the Rhodes Trustees and will keep the State Chairman of the Committees of Selection supplied with information."

Friends of Miss Marjorie Blazer regret that she will no longer remain in Baldwin as sickness at home makes it necessary for her to commute from Walland each day.

MARYVILLE COLLEGE
1819-1918

REV. SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON, D. D., PRES.

I. ITS PAST. Founded in 1819 by the Synod of Tennessee, it now celebrates its Centennial, in continued service to the church and country. Thousands of its former students are scattered over the world.

II. ITS PRESENT. Its enrollment in 1918 was 748—347 young men and 401 young women—of whom 297 were collegians. 480 students from Tennessee, and 268 from 33 other states and countries. Its teaching force of 60 professors and assistants.

III. ITS PLANT. It has property of all kinds amounting to $1,100,000. Twelve buildings, including the new swimming pool; water works, sewerage, steam heat and electric lights. The campus contains 250 acres.

IV. ITS COLLEGE CURRICULUM. It offers nine groups of study leading to a B. A. degree: Classical, Modern Languages, Science, Mathematics, Education, English, Literature and History, Psychology and Philosophy, Social Science and General. Fifteen units are required for admission to the freshman class. A two-year premedical course is offered

V. ITS OTHER DEPARTMENTS. 1. Preparatory. 2. Bible Training. 3. Teachers. 4. Home Economics. 5. Agriculture. 6. Bookkeeping 7. Music. 8. Expression. 9. Art.

VI. ITS MORAL ATMOSPHERE. The College is strongly Christian, and the discipline is careful. The Students' spiritual welfare is the first concern. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are very efficient. The Bible is the required text book.

VII. ITS INEXPENSIVENESS. 1. Tuition is $6.00 a term. 2. Room rent for each student with two in the room, $18 to $35 a year. 3. Board in Cooperative Club of 500 is $2.25 per week. 4. Text books rented. General library free. 5. Opportunities for selfhelp afforded.

Y. M. C. A. BULLETIN

Mr. Harvie Banscomb, one of the traveling Secretaries from Atlanta, will visit the college on Friday and Saturday of this week. He will lay before the boys the theme of "Opportunities for Life Investment."

Personal interviews will be arranged for, and Friday evening at 6:45, Mr. Banscomb will address all those who are trying to decide on a life calling. This should include every boy in school, so let everyone be present at Bartlett Hall at the time set.

On next Monday evening, a Pep meeting will be held at Bartlett Hall for the members of the Advisory Committee, and of the old and new Cabinets, and for the officers of the Groups. Speeches, discussions, and refreshments will strive with each other to boost the "Y" work for the rest of the year. Let every officer be present at Bartlett Hall at 7 o'clock sharp, prepared with notebooks and ideas.

FELLOW STUDENTS!

"This is what I saw—

"I saw glittering Oriental cities, the pride of the East, and under the shining lacquer and gold paint I saw suffering and filth and want, such as no man could describe.

"I saw a mother selling her babies that their older brothers might not die of starvation.

"I saw a pitiful little tot whose entire clothing consisted of a pocket strapped over the right shoulder. He was drearily picking up the tiny scraps of wood and paper from the street and placing them in his pocket to trade for food.

"I saw pallid factory girls of twelve and even ten years of age who worked thirteen hours a day, seven days a week, standing constantly while at work, and receiving a pittance of a third of a cent per hour. This, moreover, not in the worst of the factories but in a mill advertised as the "model factory of the Orient".

"I saw the ominous cloud of illiteracy in a land where only two percent of the children are being educated.

"I saw things which I have not the heart to set down, and you would not have the heart to read.

"I saw life in its lowest terms.

"And yet—

"I saw the dawning of a new China, not in the political kaleidoscope but in the spiritual changes which have brought six thousand of China's strongest leaders to accept Christ and induced idol-makers to turn to the making of busts for chow windows because their old business has proved unprofitable!

"I saw a beaten man board our ship at Wuhu and heard him tell of the crushing over-burden of medical work that had killed his predecessors and was killing him.

"I saw everywhere undermanned hospitals, undermanned schools, undermanned churches; a missionary force powerful in quality, petty in quantity.

"I saw Asia, sore, ragged and dull, with her feet on the threshold of the house of Christ, hoping for an invitation to enter.

"I saw upon returning to America, a rich and happy nation, eager and generous to a fault, but unthinking, storming the movie theatres, swallowing the lump in their throat, for pity of the ragged child of the play—while Asia waits."

If you are interested in the needs of the world attend the Student Volunteer Band Meetings.

Zollie Howard who has seen active duty in France visited the Hill Wednesday. Zollie is one of the first overseas M. C. men to return to old haunts.

"A little philosophy inclineth man's mind to atheism; but depth in philosophy bringeth men's minds about to religion."

FIRST CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

The first cross-country run was pulled off on Tuesday afternoon at three-thirty. There are to be three of these races and "Ms" will be awarded to the men taking the three highest places in the three contests. The course for Tuesday's run started at Science Hall, went out through the woods by Dr. Stevenson's to the pike, and back by the pike to the starting point—, a mile and a half being the total distance.

The first five to get back were: Sanchez, Callahan, Beck, Horace Brown and Ralph Smith.

The other two races will be held in the near future and will both be three and a half miles long. Watch for the dates and be present to welcome the runners when they arrive at the goal. Cross-country runs deserve as much support as baseball.

ALUMNI ATTENDING LONDON UNIVERSITY

Lieut. Charles Walker, C. E. McCurry and Wood Wright are enjoying a course of study at the University of London. The young soldiers expect to complete their course the latter part of June and to return, at that time, to the States.

MISS GREEN GOES TO CHICAGO

Miss S. A. Green, Professor of Biology has been granted a leave of absence by the faculty and is in Chicago where she is taking a special course in bacteriology at the University. Miss Anne Pleasants is teaching Miss Green's classes this term.

HARRY WAGNER NEXT "Y" PRESIDENT

The Y. M. C. A. officers as elected for next year are:

President - - - Harry Wagner
Vice President -- Forrest Brown
Secretary - - - George Callahan
Treasurer - - - James Ensign

Next year's work will be much more important than "Y" work has been for some time. New activities begun this year, will succeed or fail according to fidelity of next year's staff. Y.M.C.A. work during the fall term was hampered by war conditions and the constant changing of the staff, but next year should be one of steady progress. Only the support of all the fellows can insure this.

Palace Theatre
Program for Coming Week

—FRIDAY—

Mme. Nazimova in her latest and best, "TOYS OF FATE" As you are already acquainted with this Star there is little to say about her, except the fact that she is President Wilson's favorite Star, which proves beyond a doubt she is the best Actress on the screen today; and in this special feature she goes the limit when it comes to talent and ability to exert it to the best advantage. This is a story of love and adventure with its many advantages and disadvantages, which makes it one of the greatest love-dramas of the times. Also a Harold Lloyd Comedy entitled "LOVE MY WIFE", which is a scream from start to finish.

—MONDAY—

Pearl White in "Lightning Raider" No. 7. Will she come out victorious with Wu or will he gain possession of the Mysterious "Ebony Black". Also Francis Ford in "SILENT MYSTERY" No. 2; one of the greatest two reel sensatioal pictures ever shown. Screen Telegram No. 10 showing the landing of our boys in New York Harbor. The feature will be announced later, as we have not as yet received confirmation on the title.

—MONDAY—

William Duncan in "THE MAN OF MIGHT"; a new serial but an old star, and one of Maryville's favorite actors. You can rest assured this is going to be a serial full of "pep" and action for "Bill' is there when it comes to thrills. Brass Bullet No 17; full of love and adventure. A two-reel Big V Comedy entitled "Beauty and Booty". Also another one of those good two-reel westerners entitled "The Gun Runners".

—TUESDAY—

Billie Rhodes in "THE GIRL OF MY DREAMS"; a story mixed with Mystery upon Mystery that will keep you in suspence from beginning to end; the very first scene will hold you spellbound until the last vision of the picture has passed. It is a Melodrama, and one of the most pleasing of its type of photoplays. Also a good comedy entitled "SING ROSA SING", featuring an all star comedy cast.

—BIG STUFF COMING—

"THE HEARTS OF HUMANITY" featuring Dorthy Phillips, who takes the role of a "Red Cros" nurse, following her husband onto the battlefield. Love of mother and sons, wife and husband, woman and orphaned children, love of country; and almost every element of the better side of human life that is shown to exist, and that appeals to the deeper emotions, has been enterwoven in the plot. Coming April 10th and 11th.

During study hours when eating was forbidden the girls chewed ninety sticks of chewing gum. Can you beat the record?

COME ON LET'S CLEAN UP THE CAMPUS!

Early Monday morning, about thirty of the boys, with Dr. Stevenson and Prof. Ellis, met for a general clean-up, which was followed by the first swim of the season. For their field of enterprise, they choose the edge of the college woods. During a couple of hour's hard work they collected and burned great heaps of rubbish.

A few hours every Monday spent in this way would put the campus in fine shape for Commencement. What do you say, fellows?

BIRTHDAYS GALORE

Stacey Howell's friends surprised him with a birthday party at six o'clock, Wednesday morning. Sandwiches of strapped ham and hard tack were liberally served to the host. The guests found the reception to be a delightful one and enjoyed the hour immensely.

be paid by the treasurer of the college in which the member of Co. "B" was enrolled. Each applicant must bring his registration slip of the Fall Term which will be filed and sent to Washington together with a form which the applicant will fill out. This must be done in order that the college may be credited by the government for each twenty dollars paid out.

"All members of Company "B" will call for their bonus slips between one-thirty and five-thirty this afternoon at the treasurer's office.

About noon the teachers and girls were shocked to see certain of the young men embracing each other saying, "I told you we'd get it. Sure we deserved it, an' I'm goin' to Knoxville when I get mine."

Quite a bit of disturbance was created by one second-floor person who stacked his own room in a vain search for his registration slip, all the while denouncing the fates who had so mistreated him.

All during the aftrenoon demands were made on the treasurer's funds. The smiling face that presented the slip turned to a sickly grin when the treasurer pointed to the calendar—APRIL 1!

STUDENTS HEAR FIRST HAND OF HEROISM OF SECOND DIVISION

MR. A. P. WATSON OF KNOXVILLE WHO FOR SIXTEEN MONTHS SERVED AS COMRADE AND "Y" SECRETARY TO THE BOYS OF THE SECOND DIVISION TELLS OF THEIR COURAGE AND IRRESISTIBLE FIGHTING.

Mr. Alexander P. Watson of Knoxville, who for sixteen months was comrade and "Y" secretary to the boys of the Second Division, spoke at the joint service of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon.

Dr. R. E. Vale, in introducing the speaker, recalled his first acquaintance with him when two years ago he came to Knoxville as pastor of the Second Presbyterian church in which Mr. Watson was an officer. Mr. Watson attended the second officer's training camp but did not qualify physically for a commission. After receiving his discharge, he sailed for France where he served as "Y" secretary for the Second Division. "The men of the division loved this man", said Dr. Vale, "because he was always ready to help them". At one time he carried the seventy-pound equipment of two men ten miles when they were exhausted; at another time, he carried a soldier, whom he found drunk, a mile to the barracks where he sobered him up so that he might not be court-martailed. With the Second Division, Mr. Watson took part in the great battles of Chateau Thierry, the Argonne Forest, Belleau Wood, and St. Mihiel, being wounded three times, and gassed six times.

He was very modest and declined to tell his personal experiences except as they might be interwoven in his story of the heroism of the Second Division which he said was the most remarkable division that has ever fought. It was composed of the 5th and 6th Marines, 9th and 23 Infantry, the 13th, 15th, and 17th Artillery, the 2nd Engineers, and the 4th, 5th and 6th Machine Gun Batallions; men selected from all over the United States. These men had to qualify in marksmanship, every man having a record of thirty-five or more hits out of a possible fifty.

On the twenty-fifth of January, they were on the St. Mihiel-Verdun sector where for some time they were safe n the trenches. About the ninth of April, the Germans made a raid and captured some of the Forty-second Division, also stationed there. A few nights later, while reliefs were being changed, a party of the enemy, flying a Red Cross flag, which flag Mr. Watson now has in his collection of souvenirs, came over in the uniform of French Red Cross men. This party went from dug-out to dug-out, giving the gas alarm, and then capturing the Americans. After a few dug-outs had been entered a German-American soldier suspected the accent of the would-be Frenchmen, and the alarm, "Germans" rang out. Sixty-four of the raiding party were left dead on No Man's Land.

The American tactics were much more aggressive than those of the French. French officers would not permit their men to fire at the Germans who hung their weekly washing out in plain view of the Allied lines. One evening, the Germans mockingly played the Star Spangled Banner within hearing of the American lines. A few days later a big rolling kitchen appeared in view with two hundred and fifty Germans in chow line. Needless to say, the act was never repeated.

About the middle of May, Mr. Watson was sent back with some of the men to Bar-le-Duc. Here he visited some of the famous French girls' schools where he found only children of thirteen and under attending.

At this time the Germans had broken through the line only thirty miles from Paris. The Second Division fifty miles away did not know of the serious situation when they received orders to join the British to help check the German advance. The spirit of the French was broken. As the division moved along the Metz road that day on their way to Chateau Thierry, they passed endless lines of French refugees fleeing southward. They cheered the Americans, and implored them to "Save Paris!"

About nightfall, the men were taken out of the trucks, and kept marching the rest of the night. During one halt, a boy carelessly struck a match. In a few minutes five German planes were bombarding them. The men hid under their helmets and in three minutes were off the field which was being torn to pieces by the bombs. At 10:30 the next day, the Americans went into position. Even the Allies laughed at the idea of untrained Americans going up against the picked Prussian divisions. Propaganda came over the lines, only two hundred and fifty yards distant, asking for surrender. A sign "Welcome Second Division" went up over the German trenches. The French were falling back. A meeting occurred in which several of their officers were killed. Raiding parties came over from the enemy lines but the marksmanship of the Americans picked them off. The German Intelligence Department sent over balloons which reported "Americans in front". The Fifth Marines went single file across the open and over the top. Not once were the ranks broken, nor was a single marine killed. The only meal eaten that day was from a German kitchen. Beginning with the charge of the marines at Chateau Thierry, the Second Division led the irresistible American advance up to November 11th.

"One of the many questions I am always asked", said Mr. Watson is 'how did the Americans behave?' Of the hundreds I have seen, wounded and killed, I have never yet seen an American go down except facing the enemy. That's how they behaved.

"Pershing won the war", said the speaker. "Foch was leader by fate. Pershing achieved the impossible; the Americans took positions which the French would not even try. Pershing asked Marshal Foch if there was any place which the French could not take, to which the Field Marshal replied 'yes'. This, a strongly fortified position on Mount Banc, was soon taken, with the Huns in a hurried retreat, eleven miles away.

"The American Army went to France, not because Germany must be defeated, but because Militarism must perish. The Christianity of America did not fail for that is why our boys went over there. I have taken from the pockets of our men, killed in battle, mottos like this: 'I would be true, for there

ORANGE AND GARNET DEFEATS T. M. I.

Score 13-9. Game Very Exciting at Times. Vols Will Play M. C. Here Saturday. A Tight Game is Expected.

The M. C. baseball team journeyed down to Sweetwater Monday for the purpose of drubbing T. M. I. in baseball. They started from Maryville at 8:15 in cars and after an eventful cross-country trip by way of Niles Ferry finally succeeded in reaching their destination about 11:30. On account of a government inspection of the academy, that was in progress, the game could not be called until 4:00 p. m.

Lowery started things for Maryville by scoring in the first inning on a three bagger and an error. T. M. I. scored in their half on a walk, an error, a stolen base, and a long fly. King scored in the second on an error and Hicks, a two bagger. Hicks came in on a passed ball by the catcher and Pugh's sacrifice. Two more runs were put over in the fourth, on a walk, two hits, an error, and a sacrifice.

T. M. I.'s second score came in the last half of the fourth, when Carr made their first hit of the game. The crowd became very enthusiastic at this time and continued so during the remainder of the game. At times the umpires had to force the rooters back from the first and third base lines. No more hits were allowed by Pugh until the seventh inning. Both teams slackened considerably and during the last three innings hits, errors, and runs followed each other in rapid succession until each side had added seven more scores to their list, making a total of 13 for M. C. and 9 for T. M. I.

Many of Maryville's errors were caused by the bad condition of the infield.

U. T.'s showing against the Chattanooga team Tuesday would indicate that the former is of about the same strength as the Maryville team and a tight game is expected when the Vols come over here next Saturday.

MANY M. C. PEOPLE REVIEWED 117th AS IT PARADED SATURDAY

KNOXVILLE ENTERTAINED LARGEST CROWD IN HISTORY OF CITY. SERGT. ED CAMPBELL ONLY FORMER M. C. MAN IN P'RADE. MEN OF 117TH FIT PHYSICALLY. MANY BLOUNT COUNTY BOYS RETURN.

Many were the rumors abroad last Thursday regarding Maryville College's part in the big celebration which was to be given the men of the 117th Infantry in Knoxville Saturday. Wild reports were stilled and fears were almost allayed when Dean Barnes announced in chapel Friday that the college would have an all-day holiday and that everyone that desired to go to Knoxville to welcome the returning soldiers might do so. All during Friday there were a few who suffered—, a select few who doubted if holiday privileges on the campus would be extended to the scene of festivity. However, doubt and gloom were dispelled Friday evening when at a call meeting of the young women, Miss Caldwell announced that moonshining would be allowed and that Seniors and others "wise in the ways of the world" might chaperon.

Saturday morning found over half of the student body wending their way stationward and in order to give them a taste of what was coming they were allowed to fight for their tickets at the Southern depot. Some were given the privilege of standing all the way to Knoxville and it may be stated that these were the seasoned warriors who held the front line ranks when the men of the 117th marched on p'rade.

With this foretaste and the sight that greeted the eyes of the Maryville arrivals in Knoxville they were prepared for the unusual air of excitement and appearance of liveliness in the city. There were gala trimmings galore and khaki clad figures were seen everywhere in the midst of the civilian crowd. Fortunate was the student who was able to see a movie or secure a bite of lunch, before or after the p'rade at 3:30, for Knoxville, with all its accommodations, was not prepared for the crowd that thronged its streets last Saturday.

As the on-lookers watched the men of the 117th p'rade they did not wonder that the Hindenburg line broke under their attack—for it is doubtful if there are better physically equipped men in the A. E. F. than these men of East Tennessee who fought so valiantly and so successfully for democracy. While the spectators were thrilled by the sight of the marching soldiers some of the most observant of them could not dismiss the thought that the returning men would rather dispense with p'rades and the labor that attends such affairs and hasten at once to the place of demobilization. The p'rading inspired the spectators without a doubt, but it was hard work for the men who had little rest since they embarked from France.

Sergt. Edward Campbell was the only M. C. man in the 117th. He expects to leave at once for Meridian, Miss. when he receives his discharge, so his Maryville friends who saw him Saturday count themselves lucky.

The 6:45 train to Maryville was crowded with students and again many were given the privilege of ending the perfect day (of agony and bruises for many) by occupying the aisles. Distracted chaperones endeavored to thread their way through the mass looking for their absent charges, but their search was soon abandoned. However, all must have managed to return by some hook or crook for when the roll was called there were no absences in the ranks. Were they tired? Well, perhaps they were, but then the 117th does not return every day.

FORMER MARYVILLE STUDENTS MARRY

News of Barbour-Crum Wedding Comes as a Surprise to Many College Friends. Sergt. Barbour Had Thrilling Experiences in France.

A wedding of particular interest to present Maryville students is that of Sergt. Myron F. Barbour and Miss Miriam Crum, both formerly of the class of 1919, which took place, March 29, at Cincinnati. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Stevens, an alumnus of Maryville and a personal friend of the bride and groom.

After spending a short honeymoon in Cincinnati, Sergt. and Mrs. Barbour went to Rising Sun, Ind. where he is assistant to his father, managing the latter's large estate, and where for the present they will make their home. Later Sergt. Barbour may pursue the study of law which he was interested in, previous to his enlistment, November, 1917, in the aviation corps of the U. S. Army, at Knoxville. He was first sent to Ft. Thomas, Ky. from which place he was transferred to Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas. He was then placed in the 649th Aero Squadron and in February 1918, went overseas.

His company reached France in time to take part in the historic March drive, and later in the spring and summer he saw service on several different fronts. Mr. Barcur at this time a sergeant, doing observation work, was recommended to be sent to the big American and French training field at Issadone, France, to take training for fighting pilot. Here on July 5, while making a flight, his machine got out of control, crashed to the ground and Sergt. Barbour seriously injured, was sent to the base hospital in Southern France and later was transferred to the general hospital in Plattsburg, N. Y. His recovery, though slow, was steady, and on January 15, 1919, he was given an honorable discharge.

The members of the coupling committee of the 1919 Freshman days believe that they deserve much credit for starting this, another college romance which has had so pleasing a culmination. It is the wish of this ex-committee and the desire of the numerous other Maryville friends of Sergt. and Mrs. Barbour that they may have much joy and happiness in their married life.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A REAL COLLEGE PAPER?

We take the liberty of printing an editorial which was published in the April 1st. number of The Orange and Blue, the Carson-Newman College paper. It fits the criticism which we also noticed, and expresses ideas as to the mission of the college paper.

"We read a criticism in one of our exchanges (in itself a most excellent little magazine) of the larger part of the college papers because they contain so little of "real literary material." We gather from this that the thing that makes a college paper is its purely imaginative content—essays, original stories, poems, etc. This has set us thinking—the result of our thought is given below.

What is the mission of the college paper? Is it a place to display Freshmen English themes? Is its place to furnish the students with plotless, lifeless, worthless, amateurish stories—the peers of which can be found in our most ordinary magazines?Is it the task of the college publication to bore the student body and the friends of the college with half-baked thoughts "capsuled' off under the title of essays or poems? Is this worthless thing that for which we must neglect our studies, "cut" our classes, worry our advertisers, and make miserable so large a part of our lives?

"CHRISTIANITY AND WORLD DEMOCRACY" GIVEN SUNDAY NIGHT

The missionary lecture, "Christianity and World Democracy" was given last Sunday evening in place of the Vesper sermon. This was the first of the series of lectures to be given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

After the usual preliminary exercises, Dr. Stevenson read the lecture, supplementing it by remarks gained from his experience and observation. The lecture was illustrated by seventy-five slides and, in effect, was a sermon on missions visionalized. It was divided in seven parts. Put together they gave a portrayal of Christian ideals as the foundation of true liberty.

The first group of slides showed the various nationalities which were engaged in the war. One interesting slide was a diagram showing that the area of China which holds one-fourth of the population of the world, is equal to the combined area of Russia, Italy, Germany, Great Britian, France, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, and several smaller countries.

The second series pictured the commercial enterprises, many of which have been harmful and detrimental to progress, that have penetrated into the Far East. The liquor traffic, the importation of cigarettes, the slave holding of Africa, the poor labor conditions, and other industrial features were shown, that have exploited, debased, and oppressed heathen lands.

The third group showed the results of missionary effort in foreign lands. The work of Sam Higginbottom of Princeton and of Joseph Bailie was illustrated.

The next set of slides impressed the need of greater medical attention for the people of Africa, China and India. There are 1600 doctors in America to every million people, while there is not the average of one to a million in the non-Christian countries. The effective work of the Christian organizations along physical lines was shown.

The prevailing ignorance among these people and what is being done to better their educational condition was shown in the next series. One-half of the world cannot read but many schools are being established although the number is still proportionally small.

The religious aspect of the situation was also illustrated. The evils of Buddhism, Hinduism, Mohammedanism, and the Caste system of India, were impressed by interesting scenes from the lands where these religions prevail.

The last set of pictures showed the corrupt moral condition of the people in heathen lands, and also the results of the Gospel of Christ in many communities. A picture was shown of Bishop Azariah of India who is the only native to be ordained a bishop by the church of England. Some of the congregations are very large. At a recent communion service in one locality there were 21,400 present.

Be Fair to The Negro

There are good things to be said about some negroes, but these seldom appear in our daily newspapers. The Southern Publicity Committee for making known the constructive aspects of race relations in the South, from time to time sends to the "Y" Secretary extracts and news items along the line of its work. As space permits these are being published in the columns of the Echo. Read them and broaden your knowledge of one of the South's greatest problems.

What is the the mission of the college paper? It is to depict the life of the college, to give an account of the college happenings, yes, even to publish the college jokes. We have to offer in proof of this not our word, but our publication; not only our publication, but the publicatons of the largest majority of the best colleges and universities of America. The athletic, the literary and the social happenings and aspirations should fill the columns of the college paper."

PROF. BRITTAIN PRAYER MEETING SPEAKER

The Prayer Service was led by Prof. Brittain who in a most attractive and impressive way brought home to his hearers the necessity of givng Christ a large share in life's activities. A verbal picture was given of a man who through the agencies of a little ship, a mountain flower, a blind bird, and a broken vase was finally led to realize that God was speaking to him. This person had, as a child, possessed faith in God, but had gradually become skeptical and wavering until he lost his grip on God. He was a great painter but there was something that hs paintings lacked. They did not invite the criticism or commendation of the critics.

The man became dscouraged and hid his work. But one day as he watched a little ship, which in spite of the rough sea, conquered the waves and reached port safely, he received an inspiration to continue his labors. Again, he became discouraged and God spoke to him through the mountain daisies. Once more he received encouragement, but did not recognize the Divine voice in nature.

One day he noticed a bird flying against the window in a vain effort to get out. He caught it and noticed that the bird was blind. The brd could not live by itself. He fed and cared for it and in so doing, a great thought came to him. He realized that the trouble with his pictures was that there was nothing in them to help someone else. Still he did not recognize the voice of God speaking to him.

A vase that was destined to be his masterpiece was just completed, when for some unknown cause, it went into a thousand pieces before his eyes. He had given years of time and all his material means for the completion of this vase. God spoke through a great sorrow and this time He was recognized. The man realized now that all the world might perish but only spiritual things survive.

Five lessons were drawn from this beautiful illustration, namely:

God speaks to men by little things.

He does not speak through the ears, but through the heart.

When men fail to hear the voice of God, He speaks through a great sorrow.

God will bless when He is recognized.

There is no fear of death when the person listens to God's voice.

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting last Sunday afternoon was a unique and most interesting one, being led by Mrs. Webb on the subject of "Alsace-Lorraine". Patriotic hymns and a patriotic Scripture lesson preceded, a very fine paper and talk by the leader on this always appealing topic. She read some little anecdotes and compositions of French children in Alsace showing the never-dying spirit of those noble people. All present enjoyed every minute of the splendid talk and gained a great deal of knowledge and help from it. The special music was a solo by Maude Hite—"Just for Today".

"America is now beginning a new age. When we welcome back our boys, we must give them the best of Christianity. The governments of the world will be based on America's democracy, their schools and churches must be given the right foundation. Our duty is to prepare ourselves to carry the message of Christ, as we know it, to them. There was never such a call, such an opportunity as now.

CHAPEL TALK THURSDAY

The Rev. Mr. Cunningham of Louisville, Ky., a member of the Board of Education of the Southern Presbyterian church, who lately served as army chaplain at Camp Sevier, visited the college Thursday and led the morning chapel exercises. In his speech to the students Mr. Cunningham gave three points to be followed in the investment of one's life. First, do not drift into life's work. The person who drifts into a profession, like the bark upon the stream, often drifts downward. Secondly, find the profession for which you are fitted. Do not engage in work which is distasteful. The last point emphasized by the speaker was that one should place himself in a position where he will be of service to his fellowmen. Woodrow Wilson's noted phrase "Universal liability to service" still rings true and every American must realize his duty to the homeland and to the world. The greatest joy is found in service.

Mr. Cunnngham said that of all the men with whom he came in contact at Camp Sevier the badly wounded ones, those who had given and suffered most, were the most optimistic.

MARYVILLE HONORED BY WORLD FAMOUS SINGERS

Very First Appearance, Monday Night, April 14, in the College Chapel.

An amazing opportunity which none should miss will be given April 14, to hear the would-be world's most famous Singers! The usual price to bear these celebrities is $1.50. For Maryville College only, a war tax of 10 percent will be charged.

Famous the world over is the Maryville College Glee Club which has sung before all the crowned heads of Ritchianbateheranooski and Bolshevmonteafricase. The singers have been pronounced the most Joyous Jugglers of Jesting Jaws in the World.

Don't fail to hear them!

It was discovered just before going to press that the Vols have called off the game scheduled for Saturday. We hope it will be thoroughly understood that the game was cancelled by U. T.

Prof. Hunter has discovered a new kind of bird which he calls the "nanny bird".

"Y" HOLDS GENERAL CONFERENCE

Monday evening a general conference composed of the Cabinet, Advisory Committee, and officers of the Bible discussion groups was held in Bartlett Hall.

Dr. Stevenson gave a talk on "The Call of Leadership". He said that the instinct of depending on a leader is a general characteristic of each person. He made this clearer by showing that all through history the people have followed some leader. He said further that God put this characteristic in man, because He expected man to look to Him as the Leader.

Some of the qualities that are required of a leader, are goodness, piety, knowledge, and sincerity—, yet a leader cannot meet the requirements with these alone. The necessary thing for a leader is "VISION", and without this, he is not all he might be.

Lastly, Dr. Stevenson stated that the two agencies for preparing leadership are the Church and the School.

Prof. Hall told about some of his experiences in Y.M.C.A. work while in camp. He said that the Bible discussion groups were the most effective way of teaching the Bible to the soldiers, as the groups seemed to create more interest than other methods of Bible study. He also said that in as much as ignorance leads to Bolshevism, and education to German Kultur, that there must be some place between the two extremes. This place has proved to be Christian Education.

Dr. Barnes then explained some of the things that the college man needs. The two points that he emphasized the strongest, were the need of Christian fellowship, and Christian activity.

Next, Prof. Bassett told of the Y. M. C. A. work when he was in college, showing how the work was conducted at that time, and the great enthusiasm that was manifested in all branches of activity.

Finally some lively discussions on different phases of Y.M.C.A. work followed. Present problems were discussed and many good remedies were suggested.

Palace Theatre
Program for following week

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY
"HEARTS OF HUMANITY", a stupendous feature starring Dorothy Phillips, the sweetest girl in Dixie. This is a war picture of the great war between the U.S.A. and Germany and her allies, told in vivid reality; many of the battle scenes taken from actual trenches during some of the fiercest fighting This is said to be a greater picture than the "Birth of a Nation", because it deals with the war that we all know about, and the Birth of a Nation was a story of the Civil War that only a few remember. Dorothy Phillips is certainly the only star that could have carried out her part to such an advantage; as "Id" the world's greatest critic says, she is just simply there with the goods, and her support is equally as good accordingly.
Get your tickets for reserve seats at Mitchell's Drug Store; on sale now. Notice the color of the ticket, and you will know exactly when your seats will be held for you. This picture is the greatest appeal to the Red Cross that has ever been attained. It shows their heroism in time of greatest peril caring for the wounded on the battlefield when it looked impossible for them to get back to their hospital without being killed; but they bravely faced the shot and shell to do their duty, as those they were caring for had done. Even the dogs were loyal to their country. See the fight between a patriotic dog and a Hun. Blue tickets call for reserve seat for show beginning 4 p. m. until 6 p. m. Thursday and Friday.
Pink Tickets call for reserve seats for show beginning 6 p. m. and until 8 p. m. Thursday and Friday.
Yellow tickets call for reserve seat for show beginning 8 p. m. until 10 p. m. Thursday and Friday.
Price of Admission for children, 22c; Adults, 33c; Reserve seats 55c
All seats down stairs are reserved for the night performances.
From 10 o'clock a. m. until 4 p. m. no seats are reserved. Special orchestra music after 4 p. m.

SATURDAY
Pearl White in "LIGHTING RAIDER" No. 9. Francis Ford in "SILENT MYSTERY" No. 3. Tom Mix in "TREAT 'EM ROUGH"; a western feature properly played and with plenty of punch and action. International News No. 3 and a Billy West Comedy, "Shorty's Falsely Acused". A good show today.

MONDAY
William Duncan in "MAN OF MIGHT"; "BRASS BULLET" No. 18, the last chapter of this thrilling serial. Comedy "BOOBS AND BUMPS", and a western "FIGHTING BROTHERS", a two reeler.

TUESDAY
Norma Talmadge in 'SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE', a nerve straining thriller. Kinogram No. 9 and Silent Mystery No. 4. (We have changed the date of this serial, don't forget.

WEDNESDAY
Henry Walthal in "A STILL SMALL VOICE". Talk aout some real fighting it's in this picture. Also "Lure of the Circus" No. 16.

—COMING—
Cleopatria, Salome, Les' Miserables, and Annette Kellerman in "QUEEN OF THE SEA". Some of the greatest features on the market, and you are going to get them.

PERSONALS

Prvt. Freeman A. Greene is still with the A. E. F. in Chaumont, France. His address is: Co. C, Hq. Bn. S. H. O. A. E. F. France, A. P. O. 706.

Miss Elizabeth Jackson of Concord was the guest of Miss Frances Hickey, Sunday.

Mr. J. E. MCampbell was on the Hill this week visiting his daughter, Ola.

Miss Mabel Ritchie is sadly afflicted with symptoms of the mumps.

Miss Manie Wtherspoon is now doing government work in Washington, D. C. She was recently visited by her brother, John Ollie, and by Mr. Frank Cross.

Miss Annie Jonnie Owens has returned from the hospital where she has been enjoying the mumps.

Mr. John Hite is visiting his sister, Miss Maude Hite. Until recently Mr. Hite was in San Antonio, Texas where he was in the aviation corps.

Misses Janet Ensign and Effie Erickson spent the week-end at their homes.

Mr. Zollie Howard was the guest of Miss Licia Johnson this week.

Miss Mary Emma Armentrout is attending a "swell" affair in the hospital.

Miss Mabel Zimmerman has had news of the death of a much loved cousin. Her many friends extend heart felt sympathy.

Miss Katherine Hale is at home on account of sickness.

Miss Julia Anderson visited relatives in Knoxville during the holidays.

A very enjoyable feast and game of blindman's buff took place in the room of Miss Mildred Kimble on Saturday evening. Those taking part were: Misses Lilah Hembree, Charlotte Messler, Irene Campbell, and Lucille Hodges. Needless to say the room was in a frightful state the next mornng.

WATCH THE SUFFRAGISTS!

If you want to know how the president of this great republic is elected ask the members of the Equal Suffrage League for they learned all about the process, at an interesting meeting of the League Monday afternoon, when Miss Marion Henry expounded from "The New Voter". Miss Helen Park clearly demonstrated that she is following in the footsteps of Paderewski, and Miss Robison, in her thorough and interesting way, told of the happenings in the world of Suffrage. Miss Carrie Sheddan gave an original song as the concluding number of the program.

Keep your eye on the suffragists for they are going to do some real constructive work in a few days!

GIVEN, A DOUBLE ENTERTAINMENT

The Dramatization Class of The Department of Expression presented "The Piper's Pay" and "The Old Peabody Pew" in the Presbyterian church, Monday night, for the benefit of one of the missionary circles. Bob Bartlett substituted for "Red" Turner in the role of Justin Peabody. Numerous favorable comments were made concerning Mr. Bartlett's skilful interpretation of the part.

Miss Mary Heard, accompanied at the piano by Miss Winifred Decker, sang several pleasing selections.

After the program, the members of the cast and Miss Heard, Miss Decker, Mrs. West, "Billy" West, and Miss Buxton were served with delightful refreshments by members of the missionary circle.

SECRETARY BRANSCOMB ADDRESSES THE "Y"

Friday evening Mr. Harvy Branscomb, traveling "Y" secretary spoke to the Y. S. C. A. boys on "The Things to be Considered in Choosing a Life's Work". First, he emphasized the real importance of this decision. In choosing a work for life one is not choosing something that is temporary, or something in which errors are minor things; but on the contrary, he is choosing the thing to which he wishes to devote his entire life.

His talk was divided into four parts, which should be considered by every young person. First, he showed that there is no aristocracy of jobs, and that each person in the United States has equal opportunity with the other in securing a position. He proved this by facts in history which are familiar to all.

Second, one should choose a work in which he will be interested, otherwise life will be a drag. Happiness, comfort, pleasure and all things that are necessary for success will not be known.

The third point Mr. Branscomb mentioned was that a job that is bigger than one's self should be chosen. In making this selection there will be something to work up to; something to arouse the ambitions, and a sincere effort to get on a higher level in life will be made.

And fourthly, to choose the place where one can do the most good for the sake of humanity and the cause of Christ is the duty of each Christian. Illustrations were used to show that one does not know what real happiness is until he has done something that is of real service to some one else.

Lastly, the speaker showed what part the minister plays in the community: he is the public conscience of the community; the leader of all organized good; the one who puts personal element in the community; and the interpreter of life in spiritual terms.

STUDENTS ATTEND PERFORMANCE OF VERDI'S "AIDA"

A large delegation from the college attended the presentation of Verdi's Aida" which was given by the Creatore Grand Opera Company at Staub's theatre Wednesday evening. Guiseppe Creatore himself directed his company of 118 of the best artists in the country. The Maryvillians who saw the performance of "Aida" which is perhaps the most popular of all operas, were highly pleased with the artistic rendition of the Creatore company.

Mr. W. P. Hood very kindly arranged for a special train which left Maryville at seven o'clock and returned at eleven-thirty.

PROF. BASSETT SPENDS LATTER PART OF WEEK IN ATLANTA

Prof. H. J. Bassett is spending the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth of April in Atlanta, where he is attending a conference of the Southern and Middle-western Classical Association.

ARMY MEN RETURN

Guilford O. Bicknell and Elmer Brewer are enjoying a rest at their homes in Maryville after their strenuous work in the army in the United States and France. Horace Dean, who also served with the A. E. F. in France, is visiting friends on the Hill.

COLLEGE SADDENED BY THE DEATH OF ONE OF THE FRESHMAN GIRLS

MISS VATA BARE OF VARNELLO, GEORGIA DIED MONDAY MORNING AFTER A FEW DAY'S ILLNESS. MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD IN CHAPEL.

The entire student body was saddened Monday morning by the news of the death of Miss Vata Bare. Miss Bare became ill Wednesday and the services of a town physician were employed at once. As her condition continued to grow worse her family was summoned and the services of a Knoxville doctor and nurse were engaged, but human skill was of no avail and the end came Monday morning at six o'clock.

Miss Bare, who came from Varnello, Georgia matriculated in September and was classified as a Freshman. During her short stay in Maryville she endeared herself to the students and teachers who knew her, and although naturally of a quiet disposition, she had made a number of loyal friends among the girls of Baldwin in which hall she roomed. As a faithful member of the Morning Watch Circle and the Y. W. C. A. she showed her devotion to the Christian life and an earnest effort to live up to her high ideals.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bare and two children and Mrs. Sapp, an aunt of the deceased, accompanied the remains to Varnello where the funeral services were conducted.

Before the departure of the family, a memorial service was held in the chapel Monday morning at ten o'clock. Dr. W. P. Stevenson, the college pastor, officiated. After the invocation a double quartette, composed of the Misses Miles, Decker, Newton and Heard, and Messrs. Adams, Smith, Weisbecker, and Herndon, sang "Abide With Me" and later the grls' quartet sang very beautifully, "Nearer My God To Thee".

Dr. Stevenson, in his message of comfort and hope to the mourning family and saddened friends, said that although we are apt to rebel when Providence takes our youth we must realize that God has need of the young in His Divine Kingdom. There, as on earth, there is work for each to do. We should be glad rather than sorrowful that this young girl, just in the bloom of life, had escaped the trials and hardships of the world, and gone fresh and unsullied by care and trouble to meet her Maker. Then there always remains the hope of the Christian, that of meeting his loved ones in the life beyond.

The impressive service was concluded by the double quartet's rendering of the comforting hymn, "In the Hour of Trial".

The following resolutions have been drawn up by the Freshman class and the Bainonian Literary Society in honor of the memory of their deceased classmate and sister:

FRESHMAN CLASS RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, our Heavenly Father in His love hath seen fit to take from our Class of 1922, Vata Bare, a lovable and loyal member, be it

Resolved, that we have a high regard for the example of her beautiful character, her high ideals, and the strong determination to live up to them, and be it,

Resolved, that we deeply appreciate her presence in the class and her faithfulness to it at all times; and be it further

Resolved, that we extend to her parents and all loved ones our sincerest sympathy, commending them in their sorrow to Him who is able to always sustain them, and be it finally

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be submitted to the parents, and a copy be published in the college paper, The Highland Echo.

M. C. ALUMNUS OF PRE-CIVIL WAR DAYS DIES

Mr. Charles T. Cates, a Graduate of 1857, Who For Many Years Was One of The Leading Lawyers of The State, Passed Away April 11.

Charles Theodore Cates, an alumnus of the college, died at his home in Maryville April 11, after an illness of several weeks.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon at the Cates' residence on West Main street, the service being in charge of the Rev. T. C. Schuler, pastor of the M. E. Church, South.

Members of the Maryville bar, the greater part of whom are Maryville College graduates, acted as pallbearers.

At the time of his death, Mr. Cates was 79 years, 3 months, and 3 days old.

He graduated from Maryville College in 1857 when he was only seventeen years old. Later he read law and was admitted to the bar in 1865 or 1866. From 1861 to 1864 he served in the Confederate army as a volunteer.

In February 1862, Mr. Cates was married to Miss Martha Kidd. To thisu nion five children were born among whom are, Charles T. Cates, Jr., one of M. C.'s distinguished alumni.

The Cates family for three generations has produced District Attorneys for this district while Charles T. Cates, Jr. was Attorney-General for the State of Tennessee.

During his life time Mr. Cates stood high in the profession of the law and all who knew him considered him an expert in his profession, a perfect gentleman, and an upright citizen.

NOTED WOMAN PHYSICIAN COMING NEXT WEEK

Dr. Hannah Morris, instead of Dr. Noble as previously announced in the Echo, will be in Maryville April 21, 22 and 23 to lecture to the young women of the college and town on social problems of the day. The first lecture will be given at 6:45, Monday evening, in the chapel. Dr. Morris, is one of the physicians who is being sent out by the government to outline and impress the extensive social reconstruction program that has been planned by capable national leaders. She is a specialist in her line and none of the girls can afford to miss this opportunity of hearing all of the lectures of this interesting, practical, and instructive three days' course.

CANTATA TO BE GIVEN TO-NIGHT

"Calvary" the beautiful Easter Cantata by Henry Wessel will be given by the choir, in Voorhees Chapel, to-night in place of the usual prayer-meeting service.

A. C. O. A. TEAM DEFEATS MARYVILLE

Aluminum Aggregation Was Composed of Former M. C. Players, Including Bob Clemens, "Little Jack" and "Cooty" Drake.

A game was called with a team from the Aluminum Company of America on the home grounds Saturday afternoon. The A. C. O. A. team, took the large end of the score without much trouble, their team including some players familiar to the Maryville students of former years, such as "Little Jack", Bob Clemens, and "Cootie" Drake.

The Maryville team on the whole played well, but a few inopportune errors turned the tide against it and caused the opponents to pile up a lead which could not be overcome.

King led in batting honors, making three hits out of four trips to the plate, two of which counted for two bases each. The longest hit of the game was Ruble's three bagger to right field.

The only earned run of the Aluminum team came in the first inning on two hits and a grounder down the third base line. They scored again in the first, once in the fifth, twice in the seventh, and once in the eighth.

M. C.'s scores came in the eighth, on an error, two hits, and a sacrifice.

BRADFORD—JEWELL

Married, at the home of the bride's mother in Maryville on Friday afternoon, April 11, Mr. Frank R. Bradford and Miss Ruth E. Jewell. The bride graduated from Maryville in 1911 and since then has taught school in Tennessee and neighboring states. At present she is teaching in the Maury High School at Dandridge, and will complete the term's work at that place. The groom is engaged in welfare work at the Aluminum plant. The wedding was a very quiet one, and Mrs. Bradford returned on Monday to her school work in Dandridge. In a few weeks, however, the newly married couple expect to take up their residence in Maryville. The Echo joins with many alumni friends in extending to them the most cordial good wishes.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET A BIG SOCIAL EVENT OF THE YEAR

JUNIORS PLANNED SURPRISE AND "MYSTERIOUS REALMS" PROVED TO BE A BANQUET-HALL. PROF. BRITTAIN SERVED AS TOASTMASTER.

It is quite safe to say that the grave and reverend Seniors in their whole four years of college days have not been privileged to attend a social event of greater importance or more completely enjoyable than that of last Friday night when they were the guests of the Junior Class at a Banquet given in the parlors of the Presbyterian church. And as happy surprises are always delightful, this event was made especially charming by the fact that the invitations failed to state the nature or place of entertainment, and the Seniors were led hither and thither, they knew not where, until their guides landed them safely at the appointed place. Here they were ushered into a room decorated with the Senior colors, and for an hour or so they were pleasantly entertained with games and contests of various kinds. They were then invited to come to the dining-room and their eyes grew wide with astonishment as they beheld the elaborate preparations that the crafty Juniors had made for them. The decoration scheme was carried out in the Junior colors, yellow and green, and under a canopy of yellow and green crepe-paper streamers, they sat down to the tables, attractively decorated with huge bunches of Jonquils. The menu consisting of several courses beggars description, but Juniors and Seniors alike did it full justice in a more practical way.

When the pastime of eating had progressed to the point where it had no further attractions, Prof. Brittain, presiding as Toastmaster, gave the first toast. Using the twelve months of the year, he found twelve corresponding reasons why this banquet was a happy occasion. Miss Jessie Creswell followed with a splendid toast to the Seniors to which Miss Marie Townsend, although taken unawares, responded. Then Mr. Georges gave a very interesting toast to the girls and last, Miss Mildred Campbell toasted the boys with a clever original bit of verse. It was past the hour of midnight when the Seniors and their gracious hosts appeared on the campus. They are still talking about the affair, and the memory of that happy evening spent together will linger with them always as one of the good things of their college life. The Juniors may have established a precedent, but it is a mighty good one and future Junior classes will make no mistake in following their example and making the Junior-Senior banquet one of the traditions of the college.

VARIED PROGRAM GIVEN MONDAY NIGHT

Many of the Performers Made Their First Public Appearance. The Glee Club Scored Heavily. Nuckols-West Feature Enjoyed.

The Student Volunteer Band entainment given at the chapel Monday night by the members of the Music and Expression Departments, was a decided success. The boys' Glee Club made its first appearance and hearty appreciation of this new feature of college life was shown by the hilarious applause of the audience.

Misses Emily Wright and Irene Smith delighted the audience with a duo. Miss Jessie Magill sang in unusually pleasing tones. Miss Evelyn Eastman gave three selected readings, which were highly appreciated and Miss Grace Majure rendered a piano solo in a very skillful manner. Most of these young ladies gave their first public performance in the chapel and the skill of their work was a striking testimony to their zeal and the successful teaching of their instructors. The boys' Glee Club very touchingly sang "O Lovely Night" (from Tales of Hofmann.) They immediately captivated the audience. Miss Elizabeth Bassel's interpretation of Paderewski's "Melody", was remarkable, while Miss Marie Townsend's portrayal of "Pauline Pavlovna" showed keen insight into the characters of the play. Miss Mary Heard sang beautifully "How Much I Love You." Miss Hattie Hayes displayed unusual efficiency in rendering the piano solo, "Fan Waltz"—Poldini.

The Glee Club's last appearance in "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" was quite humorous, and exhibited to the audience their varied repertoire. The crowning feature of the evening was a play "One Maid, One Man, One Word" and the pantomime "Tit for Tat", presenting Miss Sue Nuckols and Mr. Eckles West. These stars even surpassed the expectations of the audience.

MISS SMITH ENTERTAINS

Monday afternoon while six hundred and thirty-seven of Maryville's students vainly sought for a cool place, thirteen of them found a most delightfully cool one in Miss Elizabeth Smith's attractive apartments. After admiring the apartments to their heart's content and vowing to have some exactly like them, the girls sewed and talked for awhile and then were served to the most bountiful of luncheons by a hostess who insisted that they eat until none was left. What a concert was enjoyed after-ward! McCormick, Melba, and Harry Lauder entertained loyally. Five o'clock came all too soon and reminded the girls that they must go back to every day life once more. With many thanks to Miss Smith for their good time, they sadly departed. The guests were: Ruth Clayton, Laila Williams, Jennie McCurry, Mattie Hamilton, Grace Blank, Mary Bigelow, Mary Mason, Mary Hayes, Hattie Hayes, and Martha Robison.

Don't forget that the big debate with Tusculum comes off in the chapel April 18. The debaters have been working tremendously hard to make their arguments invulnerable. The entire student body should be present Friday evening to cheer and support the team for its earnest endeavor and willingness to give its time to the maintenance of the forensic standards of old Maryville.

SENIORS WILL GIVE PLAY

The call for a Senior play proved too strong and having decided that they could manage their part in the pageant and in addition, the usual play, the Seniors have voted with the approval of the faculty, to produce a worth-while drama. The committee is religiously searching for the right manuscript and a selection will soon be made, the cast chosen by Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. West, and rehearsals started. Everyone is breathing easier since the Seniors have taken this step for the Senior play is always looked forward to as one of the most pleasing of the collegiate events. The play will probably be given May 30 as all the following nights are taken.

BAINONIAN LITERARY SOCIETY RESOLUTIONS

Whereas God, the Supreme Ruler, in His love and wisdom, hath seen fit to take from the Bainonian Literary Society one of its new, yet loved and faithful members, Vata Bare; be it

Resolved, that we deeply esteem her beautiful character and example, her faithfulness as a member of our society, and be it further,

Resolved, that we extend to her immediate family and relatives our deepest sympathy commending them in their grief to the Father who is able to sustain and comfort them in their hour of trial; and be it finally,

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be submitted to the family and that a copy be published in the Highland Echo.

THE GILLINGHAM TWINS MAKE THEIR MUSICAL DEBUT

On last Saturday night, one of the largest audiences of the season attended Bainonian. Interest is certainly not flagging in Bainonian these days, either on the part of the membership, or on the part of the program secretary who on this occasion offered a very unusual and most delightful variation in programs. The Gillingham twins, who made their initial appearance, sang song after song. Then, when they were tired, and the souls of all, were lifted musicward, Miss Winifred Decker, with her wonderful human pipe-organ favored the society with several plaintive melodies, the rendition of which was marvelous. The note on the left end just would stick, but realizing the humor of the situation and having a full appreciation of Miss Greenlee's disposition, Bainonian voted she did well.

The program as a whole was well rendered, and greeted by an attentive (may it ever be so) audience.

The complete program was as follows:

Piano Solo - Marguerite Sullinger
Reading - - - Anne Clemens
Duet - - - - Gillingham Twins
Our American Poet, Jennie Lequire
Selections on the Human Pipe-Organ - - - Winifred Decker

REVERENCE, HUMILITY AND SERVICE DISCUSSED AT VESPERS

The text for the Vesper service was found in Isaiah 6:2, "Above it stood the seraphims: each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly."

The college pastor said that this is a description of life at its highest and best. The meaning of the symbolism is very plain. The seraphim represents ideal and redeemed humanity. "With twain he covered his face". This represents one of the qualities of life—that of reverence. The lowest life has the spirit of boastful knowledge with no feeling of gratitude, wonder, or worship. The spirit of reverence is somewhat lacking in the present generation, being noticed in the breaking of the Sabbath, and being evident in both the home and the church.

The second characteristic illustrated by the text is the spirit of humility. The best life always conceals itself behind its work. All great lives have been concealed, as for example Shakespeare, Lincoln, Livingston. The mistake that all are apt to make is to forget the exercise of the virtue of humility. One of the greatest compliments paid to Jesus Christ was that He did His work humbly and modestly.

Finally, the best life is dominated by a spirit of service. There are two classes of people—, those who serve and those who are served. The first class can be represented by the plus sign, and the latter by the minus sign. Some people add to life by their usefulness and service, while others subtract from life, continually taking and receiving. There is an infinite difference between the plus and minus quantity.

The great cry for helpers, for plus people, still goes forth. These are momentous days. Within the next ten years there will go forth a great call for young people to give their unselfish service and strenuous endeavor for the promotion of Christian principles in the world.

LICIA JOHNSON NEXT THETA PRESIDENT

Last Saturday night the Thetas elected the following officers: Licia Johnson, president; Mildred Striplin, vice-president; Corin Humphries, secretary; Sarah Lee Lloyd, treasurer; Alura Moore, program secretary; and Janet Ensign, sergeant-at-arms. After the election of officers a piano solo by Grace Majure and a reading by Minnie Hunter were very much enjoyed.

WORLD FORUM DISCUSSION

Dr. Stevenson led the World oFrnum Sunday afternoon, speaking on "The Call to the Christian for a World Task".

He stated that a world-wide obligation has been impressed upon us by the war, and that all people are obligated to one another for material things. The Christians, or the followers of the laws of God, are the only ones who are up-to-date, for God made the world and all it's contents; and therefore, He knows what laws are best for a peaceful humanity.

Christianity is the only world religion. All other religions are religions of a certain country or city. This proves that God is father of all men, and that He has intended His truth for all people. It seems that the Christian world is gettng further behind every country since the time of Christ, for there are more heathens now than there were at that time. The whole of any Christian has not undertaken to do missionary work. It is only the few that have done it. This brings the appeal to the man who has been inactive.

It is imperative that this generation try to bring the Gospel to all the world. Nearly all missionary movements were started during some great world stress. There are dormant energies that need to be stirred up. This war has stirred up the people, and opened a wide field. Now it is up to this generation to carry on this work. It takes four times the power to double the speed of a railroad train, but it takes less power to decrease the speed. There remain only three things to be done: decrease, continue at the same old speed, or increase.

Over two million men answered the call to their country and went abroad to fight for it. Shall the Christian not consider the call of Christ more valuable than the call of country?

The people of this generation must be active servants of God in order to make up for the past. The majority of professing Christians have been slackers. Most menl ive as if the chief end of man is to make money, and forget the teaching of the Shorter Catechism.

The need of the world was never greater than now, and never was as well-known. Therefore more responsibility is upon the Christian. "To him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

The resources of the Christian world are sufficient to evangelize the entire world. There is plenty of money for this work. $500,000,000 are spent in movies alone per year. The contributions for benevolent purposes eah year average less than five cents per Christian. If this average were maintained it would provide adequate funds to carry on all missionary work.

'BUILDING OF A HOUSE"

Y. W. C. A. Sunday afternoon was led by the Sophomore class with Miss Elsie Dawson, the vice-president, in charge. The subject was a discussion of life, and the necessity of building a useful and successful Christian life, as compared with the building of a house. The subject was divided and different members of the class prepared the following sub-topics:

Miss Anne Clemens spoke on the necessity of a sure foundation in the building of a house. Our intellectual selves, or the first story of the house, was treated by Miss Mary Mason. The spiritual power of God, as compared with the roof of the house was given by Miss Sarah Lee Lloyd. Miss Francis Hickey treated the house as a whole.

The special music consisted of a quartette composed of Misses Vivian Hall, Elsie Dawson, Maude Hite and Margaret McSpadden; Miss Winifred Decker played Torjussen's—"To The Rising Sun".

MRS. ALEXANDER DISCUSSES DYNAMIC MEMORIES

"Dynamic Membries" was the subject treated by Mrs. J. B. S. Alexander at the Prayer Meeting service. Mrs. Alexander said that in "The Haunted Man" by Dickens, the character in the story could see all his troubles in the fire, in the wind, and in the silence of the night. When he wished that he might be able to forget, a spirit appeared to him and offered him forgetfulness of the past, but in accepting this gift he brought forgetfulness into the lives of all with whom he came in contact. He soon ceased to have the sympathy of his fellowmen, and then he wanted memory restored to him so that it would be a power for good in his life.

The memories of college life are welcome as well as memories of other past days. Therefore why not all utter the prayer "Lord keep my memory"? Nature recalls old memories—, writers like Wadsworth and Van Dyke were lovers of memory. The beauty and truth of memories enter into life and become a part of experience. Charles Lamb, Gladstone, and Tennyson got much delight from old memories. Dante always treasured the memory of a woman who influenced his life. Memories of great experiences come to each person and have been a power in life.

The things that are stored up in the memory are the acquaintance with the institutions and customs of the past; great men and their deeds; and the truths and ideals of those who have lived through all the ages.

"When the fat years return, and rich and free,
You half forget, as men have ever done,
The price once paid for your security,
Thinking too much of fortune lost or won,
Too much of pride and laughter, food and ease,
Or of some public favor cheaply earned,
Oh, then turn back the page and think of these
Who gave their bodies for freedom to be burned—
For these lived too; they too loved ease and laughter,
Sunlight, the green earth. All that you still keep
They had, and more—vision. If you come after
And dare forget them, buried so young, so deep,
And dare forget this faith for which they stood,—
Oh, but you will not, being of their blood!"

ATHENIAN HAS A SURE-ENOUGH SPRING MEETING

Last Saturday evening the Athenian habit proved to be stronger than "all of the out-of-doors"; and there was a good attendance in the old hall.

A debate, partly real argument and partly humorous was pulled off. The question was, Resolved: That moving pictures should be allowed on Sundays. Jones and Dilworth argued for Sunday movies, and came within one of losing to Sanchez and Regin. But in spite of their very emotional pleas, the vote of the house showed that they won only one fellow to their views—and that was an affirmative debater.

Fount Robinson then rendered, with a wonderfully sympathetic interpretation, the poetic tale of a courtship.

After this, the members that arrived late were penalized by being required to entertain impromptu. Martin concluded this feature with a story of a disappointed lover.

New plans are being worked out, including, musical and other variety features, for the remaining spring meetings. Let every fellow do his part, and see old Athenian finish with a flourish a good year's work.

EASTER SUNRISE SERVICE

Have you ever been to an Easter Sunrise Service? If not, here is your opportunity to attend one. Next Sunday morning at six o'clock on Baldwin lawn the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. will have a joint meeting, led by Dr Stevenson with special music by the double quartette and the orchestra. Don't fail to go—, the benefit and inspiration received will more than repay you for rising early.

JUNIOR ALPHAS ENJOY FIRST PROGRAM

The Junior Alphas met last Saturday night to enjoy the first program since their organization. The program was well rendered and was a real treat to the audience.

The first number was a debate, Resolved: That the carnival should be allowed within the city limits. The affirmative was upheld by Webb and Miles, while Davidson and Hunter opposed them on the negative. The affirmative won the decision of the judges. Following the debate Mr. Husky read in an entertaining way "The Counsel for the Defense". Everyone enjoyed the entire reading to the utmost. The audience then listened to a well rendered and very helpful oration on the "Blue Ridge Mountains" by Mr. Maye. The program ended with the reading of the Alpha Sigma Advance by Mr. Baldwin. In the short business session that followed several new members were welcomed into the society.

Try us boys! We will endeavor to make it pleasant and helpful for you. Come up next Saturday night and receive what we have in store for you.

PERSONALS

Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Stevenson are entertaining at The House in The Woods, Mrs. Alexander F. Denniston and Miss Allen Bourn of Yonkers. Mrs. Stevenson gave a tea Monday afternoon in honor of her guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Rankin, 1917, are the proud parents of a son, Robert Creswell. Mr. Rankin is a professor in the Dwight Indian Training School, Marble City, Oklahoma.

Miss Mary Hawk is recovering from a double attack of the mumps. During Miss Hawk's illness, Miss Grace Bailey has been teaching the prep Latin classes.

Lieut. and Mrs. Homer B. Frater are on the Hill and are planning to enjoy the delights of Maryville until commencement.

Misses Maude Pardue and Mildred Campbell read for the Tuesday Club on Tuesday of this week.

Miss Clara Armentrout, who teaches at Charleston, was the guest of her sister on Sunday.

Miss Clara Wattenbarger was the guest of Miss Sue Nuckols during the week-end.

Miss Helen Lowery is entertaining her sister, Mrs. C. E. Thomas of Charlotte, North Carolina.

The Rockwood Group gave a party on Saturday night in honor of some town visitors.

Misses Claudia Bogart, Irrovia Corry, Martha Robison, Mary Mason, and Mary Louise and Hattie Hayes, entertained themselves very highly on Saturday night with a rook party. Dull cares (lessons included of course) were forgotten and ice cold lemonade and wafers served as refreshments.

Miss Mildred Hoffman and Bob Bartlett, accompanied by Miss Bliss, were at Hiwassee College as Student Volunteer delegates April 12 and 13.

"Buncum" Kelly has arrived from overseas and was on the campus this week visiting old friends.

A number of the Y. W. girls enjoyed a hike and breakfast Monday morning.

The Rev. R. W. Lewis of Chattanooga visited his daughtors the early part of the week. The chapel service Tuesday morning was conducted by Dr. Lewis, the keynote of his excellent talk being cheerfulness. Flowers were recommended as being antidote for all ills.

CHOIR ENTERTAINED

The members of the choir and Miss Hale and Miss Gregg were delightfully entertained at the House in the Woods, Tuesday night. The main entertainment of the evening was the opera "Aida" given on the victrola. This music was kindly loaned for the occasion by Mr. McNaughton. After listening to the grand opera, the guests were permitted to do as they desired and naturally Elsie and Cotton were among those who sought a quiet secluded nook. Refreshments consisted of ice cream and cake in abundance.

DEBATE TOMORROW NIGHT!

Don't forget the debate in Voorhees Chapel, Friday evening, April 18 at 8 o'clock, on the question: "Resolved that: The United States Government should control all means of interstate transportation for a period of five years after the conclusion of peace". The debate will be of a dual nature and while Miss Helen Lewis, Forrest Brown and Robert Adams are debating the affirmative at Maryville, Edward W. Johnson, Homer G. Weisbecker and David Briggs will be defending the negative at Tusculum.

"Hiwassee College has lots of pretty girls—but so has Maryville!"

INTERESTING HAPPENINGS

April 9: A certain professor was seen at Staub's in the company of a certain professoress.

April 10: "Hearts of Humanity was attended by a goodly college delegation.

April 11: The Seniors were conducted to the Mysterious Realms by "Weisie" to the tune of a whistle.

April 12: The A. C. O. A. jester entertained the baseball fans. A medium-sized "cooty" was noticed darting around the diamond.

April 13: A number of Dame Fashion's devotees stayed in seclusion wishing to make their first startling appearance Easter Sunday.

April 14: The Glee Club made its initial showing. Bottles of soothing service were seen in the possession of the singers.

The question originated, "Where was Eckles when the lights went out?"

April 15: The choir braved lowering clouds and went to The House in the Woods to hear "Aida" as presented by Mr. McNaughton.

L. M. U. WINS SHUT-OUT GAME FROM MARYVILLE

The following special to the Knoxville Sentinel is an adequate description of the M. C.—L. M. U. game of April 15.

Harrogate, April 16—Lincoln Memorial university won a smashing shut-out victory from Maryville college Tuesday with the score of 19 to 0. In the first inning the Lincoln boys piled up four scores which knocked the spirit out of the Maryville players and during the rest of the game the visitors left themselves at the mercy of "Big" Bolden, who did the hurling for the university. Pugh started the pitching for Maryville but he was withdrawn the second inning in favor of Sloan. Maryville gave poor support to Sloan. They could not recover from the knockout blows of the first and second innings.

Claude Byrd, who did beautiful catching, batted a clean thousand, and Bolden; Roy Byrd, Malcolm and Thomas came in with comfortable averages. The following was the line-up:

L. M. U.	Maryville
C. Byrd, c.	Wagner, l. f.

HOLIDAY SATURDAY TO HONOR BLOUNT MEN

DUAL DEBATE BETWEEN MARYVILLE AND TUSCULUM CAME OFF APRIL 18

M. C. AFFIRMATIVE TEAM WON UNANIMOUSLY. NEGATIVE LOST AT TUSCULUM. MISS LEWIS IS FIRST MARYVILLE CO-ED TO ENTER INTER-COLLEGIATE DEBATING.

The dual debate between Maryville and Tusculum took place last Friday evening, April 18. The question proposed for discussion was: "Resolved that: The United States Government should control all means of interstate transportation for a period of five years after the conclusion of peace". In accordance with the usual custom the home team in each case upheld the affirmative and the visiting team championed the negative side of the question.

A large and enthusiastic crowd of students and friends gathered in Voorhees chapel to see Tusculum go down in defeat before Maryville's standard bearers. Maryville's home team consisted of Forrest D. Brown, '22, Miss Helen Lewis, '20, and Robert W. Adams, '19. The visitors from Tusculum were Edward P. Day, '22, H. Reed Rowan, 22, and David P. Buchanan, '21.

The debate was on a live subject, the constructive arguments on both sides were carefully thought out and well outlined, the rebuttals were vigorous and pungent. Tusculum's debaters, however, were clearly outclassed. They argued that government control for five years was sure to result in government ownership and that the latter policy was undesirable; that the five year extension of the present system would bring the railroads into politics and cause confusion and corruption. They contended that the business interests of the country demanded the return of the roads to private ownership as soon as possible. Freely admitting that a resumption of the old system would be a colossal blunder, they proposed a definite plan for the future regulation of the railroads under private ownership and control. Maryville, on the other hand contended that the government had brought order out of chaos during its control of the roads and gave promise of succeeding in peace times as well as in war times, but that time was needed to try out various systems and decide upon the one best suited for a permanent policy. This delay would be beneficial to all parties concerned—owners, employees and the public. They called attention to the vast amount of preliminary legislation necessary for establishing a satisfactory permanent system and showed the danger of rash, ill-considered action on so momentous a question and the utter impossibility of a wise decision without a chance to test in normal times the various plans that might be submitted. The strength of Maryville's position lay largely in the fact that her representatives did not advocate any one definite plan but simply plead for additional time in which to arrive at a decision, while Tusculum weakened her position by pinning her faith to a specific, untried plan proposed by a single faction, and in pressing for its immediate adoption.

Judge W. O. Mims of Newport, Mr. L. H. Spilman and Prof. W. E. Evans, both of Knoxville, were the judges of the debate. They rendered a unanimous decision for the affirmative.

All the members of the team and the substitute, Horace Brown, with the coach, Prof. Hunter, deserve the highest praise for their hard hard work and successful efforts. Special mention should be made of the fact that this is the first time that Maryville has had a young lady as one of her representatives in an inter-collegiate debate. Miss Lewis proved herself fully equal to the occasion and will doubtless be followed by others in years to come.

The presiding officer was Hon. M. H. Gamble, '05. The music furnished by the young ladies' quartet and by the Misses Waller and Bassel added to the evening's enjoyment. At the close of the debate the visiting team, their coach Prof. McConagha, and the judges were the guests at a delightful informal reception held in the basement of the chapel.

The M. C. negative team, composed of E. W. Johnson, H. G. Weisbecker, and David Briggs, although they put up a good fight at Tusculum, failed to win the decision of the judges. They, as well as the affrmative, deserve much commendation for their untiring efforts to uphold creditably their side of the argument.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBIT

Still another feature has been added to the already formidable list of Commencement attractions. There is to be a Centennial Exhibit. It is felt that there are, in the vicinity of Maryville many articles which are of interest because they had to do with the history of the College. Quarters will be provided, and the exhibit will be in charge of some one who will be responsible for its safe keeping. Obviously the success of this sort of an exhibit depends upon the response which the people who have such relics and curios make to the request for assistance.

You may wonder as to just what is considered a curio in this connection. Bric-a-brac, portraits of members of the pre-war faculty, portraits of pre-war classes, letters or autographs of men who played a part in the development of the college, old canes or spectacles which belonged to the pre-war faculty, old text books and early Literary Society Programs, newspaper items of the pre-war period which related to the College, presbyterial records and the like which referred to the College. This does not pretend to be an exhaustive list, it is simply suggestive.

The Committee in charge of the exhibit is Rev. John M. Alexander, Major Will A. McTeer, Mrs. Florence A. Bartlett, and Miss Mary E. Caldwell. Send any article you have early. It will be safely kept and returned to you promptly after Commencement.

ATTENTION!

The students of the college will be given a holiday Saturday in order that they may join with the town people in honoring the soldiers and sailors of Blount County. The celebration proper will begin at ten o'clock with the arrival of a tank imported from France. This tank will be equipped for field service and demonstrations of its climbing ability and other features will be given by Blount County soldiers. Get ready for the big day!

M's WILL BE AWARDED TO FIVE TRACK MEN

Sanchez, Beck, Callahan, R. Smith and H. Brown Make Highest Records in Series of Cross-Country Runs.

On Tuesday of last week the second cross-country run was held. This race was three and a half miles long, starting at Science Hall and going up the cinder path through the baseball field and out the pike. At the place where the road forks, about half a mile out, the course takes the left, and leaves the pike at "Uncle Joe" McIlvaine's and goes through the woods, coming back on the right fork of the pike.

Tuesday was a dry hot day, making it hard on the runners and lengthening the running time a little. Seven men turned out for the race and six of them finished in the following order: Sanchez, Callahan, Beck, Podesta, Smith and Brown.

The last race was held on Friday afternoon which was a better time for running than the preceding Tuesday. The same course was used as in the second race. The order of arrival at the finish was: Sanchez, Beck, Callahan, Smith, Brown and Podesta. The first five of these men will be awarded track M's in the near future and will have their names engraved on the track cup in Dean Barnes' classroom.

MOUNTAIN TRIP TO ALCOA AND CHEOAH

The students of the college and prep department will enjoy an all-day trip to Alcoa and Cheoah Monday. Superintendent W. P. Hood is arranging for a special train to convey the sight-seers to Alcoa. This train will leave at 8 a. m. and return about 7 p. m. The round trip fare will be $2.00 each. To quote the Dean: "The faculty has decided that each person shall pay his or her own fare but moonshining will be on an equal basis". Why did the left side of the chapel clap so heartily when the first statement was made?

SYMPATHY EXTENDED TO THE McCURRY FAMILY

Friends of Miss Addie McCurry, Luther and William McCurry were saddened last week to hear of the death of their father, Mr. E. R. McCurry at his home in Mosheim. The sympathy of the student body is extended to the family in their bereavement.

Luther will remain at home for a few weeks, but hopes to return to take his examinations and receive his B. A. with the 1919 class.

UNEXPECTED INTERESTING CHAPEL SERVICE HELD TUESDAY MORNING

MR. HOMER HAMMONTREE '09, DR. L. W. GASNELL, OF MOODY BIBLE SCHOOL AND THE REV. MR. EVERETT OCCUPY PLATFORM. MR. HAMMONTREE SINGS FOR STUDENTS.

Maryville students were greeted with an unusual and delightful surprise Tuesday morning at chapel.

Homer Hammontree, the well-known evangelist singer who is an alumnus of the class of 1909, Dr. L. W. Gasnell, Assistant Dean of the Moody Bible Institute, and Rev. Mr. Everett of Greenback were the visitors. They stopped over in Maryville on their way back to Chicago after a visit to Mr. Hammontree's home at Greenback.

Dr. Gasnell read the Scripture lesson, 1 Peter 5:7, and commented on the passage. He said that true faith in Jesus Christ is the note of character building. Virtue, manly energy which is required in true religion; knowledge, particular knowledge which enables one to do the right thing at the right time; temperance which is self-control in the use of all the powers; steadfastness, a reserve force that has been given to meet trals without; Godliness, and finally, brotherly kindness, were all emphasized as being component parts of that character that is based on Christ's teachings.

After the invocation by the Rev. Mr. Everett, Mr. Hammontree sang several gospel hymns that have been especially popular in the camps. Repeated encores brought three songs from the singer who himself played the accompaniment to the last two.

Old "How we How" hardly recognized itself so heartily was it yelled by the students under Mr. Hammontree's leadership. The students of these latter days could easily see that cheering in ye old days was an art with Homer Hammontree as cheer leader.

Mr. Hammontree has been engaged in evangelistic singing for several years. During the last eighteen months, he has been doing work in the army camps, having sung to over a half million soldiers and sailors in fifty-seven different cantonments. He is again under the auspices of the Moody Bible Institute.

Mr. Hammontree is a member of the Centennial Quartette which may sing here at the celebration in June. James Goddard is another noted member of this quartette.

EASTER SUN-RISE SERVICE HELD SUNDAY

Y. W. and Y. M. Met on Baldwin Lawn. Program One of Readings and Music. Orchestra With Miss Eunice May as Organist Played Two Selections.

A sun-rise Easter service was given jointly by the Y. W. and Y. M. Sunday morning.

About five o'clock, the sweet melody of "Christ Arose" floated in through the windows of the dormitories from a female chorus on the pavement below. Some, half-awake, imagined that angels had descended on that beautiful resurrection morn. morn.

At six-fifteen, some two hundred students collected on Baldwin lawn where they formed a half circle on the green around the orchestra and choir. The air was cool and refreshing. The spirit of Easter seemed to be in every one's soul. The order of the impressive service was:

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION PASSES RESOLUTIONS

At a special meeting of the Ministerial Association, held April 18, the following resolutions were passed:

Whereas God has called to rest the father of William E. McCurry, a member of the Ministerial Association; be it

Resolved, that the members of said Association extend their deepest sympathy to William E. McCurry, and all the bereaved family, and commend to them the Holy Comforter, who is always a present help in time of grief; and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be submitted to the bereaved family; a copy be placed upon the minutes of the Association; and a copy be published in the college paper.

CANTATA "CALVARY" GIVEN LAST THURSDAY EVENING

An Easter Cantata was given last Thursday evening in place of the regular mid-week prayer meeting. The selection given was "Calvary" by Henry Wessel.

Under the efficient directoring of Miss Gregg the choir did splendid work and all the listeners seemed to enjoy the choruses, especially. The soloists—Miss Heard, Miss Newton and Mr. McCall sang their parts effectively and well.

The program on the whole was greatly appreciated and all are grateful to the Music Department for presenting the story of the resurrection through the always appealing channels of music.

Rella Hurst of the U. S. Navy was a recent campus visitor.

The time has come and passed for the election of the 1919-20 Highland Echo staff. The delay was partly due to the unsatisfactory existing plan for the election particularly, of the editor-in-chief. The plan as published in Vol. 2, No. 21 of the Echo provides that the editor and business manager shall be selected by a committee composed of faculty members appointed by the faculty, and a Junior and Senior nominated by the presidents of the four college classes, and of the third and fourth prep classes. This committee has the power to make the selection on any basis it desires.

The fault in the present method of election lies mainly in the fact that the students hesitate to present themselves as candidates to the committee. Modesty seems to over-power the would-be candidates. Heretofore the editors of the Echo have had little or no competition. This is by no means an ideal situation. There should be at least a half dozen capable men and women among the upper classes who would try-out for the position. The editorship of the college weekly should be considered an honor rather than a drudge.

The societies and organizations when electing their representative on the staff should use care and foresight in the selection. The reporters in turn owe their best efforts to those whom they represent.

The student body must awake to the realization of the fact that the Highland Echo is supposed to be published by and for the students of Maryville College. As it is, a very small percentage of the students are concerned in the preparation of the paper. The paper is yours, individual students, and you should take enough interest in it to contribute some article frequently.

Conditions would approach the ideal if the editor had material from which he could make a selection. Often necessity compels that articles be published which should rather be consigned to the waste-basket.

The staff demands and should have the support of the students.

New methods of election are being investigated and definite plans for the 1919-20 election will be published next week. The election will probably take place May 3, in order that the new editor and business manager may have a month in which to become acquainted with their new duties.

EASTER VESPER SERVICE

The proof of the resurrection was taken for the Easter theme by the college pastor at the Vesper service. His text was found in John 20:29, "Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed".

It was pointed out that the great central fact in the Christian's faith is the resurrection. If Christ did not arise then the Christain's faith is in vain. If anyone doubts and wants to see the nail prints, he can take a mental trip to the grave.

There were no braver soldiers than the Romans, but something happened that made them fear. They were astonished at the superhuman power displayed and were compelled to acknowledge that Christ was not in the tomb. There was no evidence that there had been any struggle or haste. The angels testified that He was no longer there but had risen.

It is not necessary for those of this generation to have been eye-witnesses of that event. The Lord is impartial and treats all alike. The patriarchs and prophets had many advantages given them, and the disciples and apostles were privileged to look on the face of the Son of God. But along with these blessings, they had to endure persecutions and sufferings. It was a severe trial of their faith. The people of the present generation labor under the disadvantage of living so long after the days of Christ but they have the advantage of a perfect authentic record of his life and teachings.

Some claim that the resurrection is impossible because it is contrary to all human experience. It is just as unreasonable to suppose that twelve men would live and die as the apostles did without a motive back of their belief in the divinity of Christ. They had no hope of material gain and only received persecution and death.

Every generation since Christ appeared has furnished martyrs to the Christian faith. This fact was illustrated in the Boxer rebellion and more recently in the Armenian atrocities. What motive could have sustained them except a belief in Christ?

Without Christ, life would be like a deserted banquet hall, or a ruined temple with its altars defiled by sacrilege. There would be nothing worth while in life without faith in the divinity of Christ.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE BAINONIANS!

This week, the Bainonians had a shorter meeing than ordinary, but as usual quality made up for quantity. If the crowds keep on increasing it will be necessary to build an upper deck in order to accommodate the overflow. However, it is certain that not even excessive crowding could have decreased the excellent attention paid the interesting numbers.

Miss Ugie Stump, who read for the first time, gave a clever cutting from Booth Tarkington's charming novel, "Seventeen".

Callie Speck sang in her usual engaging manner and the musical readings "Flanders Field" and America's response were well read by Miss Ethel Burchfiel who also made her first appearance as a reader.

Miss Annie Mae Faulk did the "Highland Fling" to perfection and because of the insistent encoring of the audience had to do it all over again.

Some mighty interesting programs are being planned for the remainder of the term. Strange things are about to take place in the hall of the green and white.

Watch the Bainonians!

RECITAL MONDAY NIGHT

The second graduate recital of the year will be given Monday evening when Miss Sue Nuckols of the Expression Department and Miss Marguerite Sullinger of the Music Department give a joint recital. This should be a very popular number as both Miss Nuckols and Miss Sullinger are widely known not only on the Hill, but in town, as pleasing and artistic entertainers.

Y. W. EASTER EGG HUNT

The children of the Y. W.—, that is the younger ones, were highly excited Saturday afternoon when they spelled out this notice on the Pearsons and Baldwin bulletin boards, "Easter egg hunt on Baldwin lawn after supper. Everybody come!" The older children awaited the hunt with more placid satisfaction for they had experienced the pleasures of such an affair previous Easters at Maryville.

Supper over, the excited and the calm children hurried to the rolling green that is the front of the campus. Some of the suspecting ones said they saw boys hurrying away from the charmed spot; others knew they saw the male of the species looking with yearning eyes across the boundary line but be that as it may—.

Much was the scrambling and many were the shouts of triumph as a red, blue, lavender or orange colored egg was unearthed from the spot where the Easter rabbit had cleverly concealed it. Some of the children were so adept at finding eggs (they were the ones who always found the cookies that their mothers had hidden) that they had, by the time the hunt was over, a good-sized nestful; while others, unfortunate victims of unfriendly providence, showed by their doleful expressions and empty hands that their search had been fruitless. However, all the fortunate and skilful children (properly imbued with the spirit of the season) generously shared their spoils with their hapless playmates. The good Easter bunny had provided an egg apiece and a few to boot, so even if some of the nests were previously robbed by prowling marauders the children did not suffer but all agreed that they had enjoyed one of the happiest play-times of the year.

DOCTOR MORRIS SPENDS THREE DAYS ON CAMPUS

Dr. Hannah Morris of New York who has been visiting the women's colleges of the country in the interest of the government social reconstruction program was in Maryville, April 21, 22, and 23.

Dr. Morris has a charming and strong personality and is an easy forcible speaker which facts enhanced the attractiveness of the important problems she presented. Many women students and townspeople attended the three-lecture course in which were discussed questions with which every American woman of to-day should be familiar. Maryville women feel that they owe the government a personal debt of gratitude for giving them the opportunity to hear these wide-awake problems discussed by so capable a physician as Dr. Morris.

During her stay on the Hill, Dr. Morris gave the girls the opportunity of interviewing her personally and many of them took advantage of this generous offer.

Dr. Morris' visit has increased the belief that this important work should have a permanent place in the college course.

TEXAS GIRLS CELEBRATE SAN JANCINTO DAY

The Texas Girls celebrated their state holiday, San Jancinto day, with a picnic in the woods Monday. After scouting the woods for wild animals they sang and played their ukuleles around the campfire until dinner time. Then came savory odors of bacon and eggs cooking over the embers of the fire. The girls had devoured water-cress sandwiches, mustard, pickles, and cakes by one o'clock. On their way back, it is reported that one could hear screams and splashing in the near-by brook, but no one has found an explanation of this.

LOST—A bar pin between town and college campus. Finder please reurn to Miss Jonnie Henry, Montvale Avenue and receive reward.

JUDGE W. O. MIMS ADDRESSES STUDENT-BODY

Saturday morning, Judge W. O. Mims of Newport, who acted as a judge in the Maryville-Tusculum debate Friday evening, addressed the student body. In beginning his remarks, the Judge said that the older he grew the more convinced he became of the worth of education, and particularly of Christian eduation, the type of education that Maryville maintains. Germany would not have started the war if her educational system had been built on Christian rather than materialistic principles.

The worth of character was the key-note of his excellent talk. A vivid picture was given of Sam Houston, the idolized hero of Tennessee who did so much for his adopted state in the early days of its existence. Judge Mims said that the students would do well if they strived to live as nobly and to maintain as high ideals as did this man.

The student who has developed character while in college will go out undauntedly to meet the future. He will not be ashamed of the old home and the home folks, however homely may have been his birthplace, but rather he will work diligently to repay his parents for the sacrifices they have made for him. In closing Judge Mims payed a glowing tribute to the most wonderful thing in the world—a mother's love.

ABILITY OF NEW THETAS TESTED

The Theta Epsilons displayed much of their rare ability in their meeting Saturday evening. The program was partly extemporaneous, bringing to light talent which hereto-fore has lain dormant. Several new Theta girls added much spice to the program by their prompt response.

Miss Helen Park overcame her usual reticence enough to play.

Ann McGlashan made her first appearance in a new impersonation of the familiar little boy in "Who Ate the Cake?"

A debate, "Resolved That tight skirts should not come into vogue on College Hill" was discussed. The affirmative was upheld by Janet Ensign and the negative (tho she confessed she was in favor of pleated skirts) by Valle Higginbotham. Both gave strong arguments; but the affirmative was won by the speaker's dexterity.

Marjorie Lloyd gave several items of college gossip which was received exultantly.

The extemporaneous part of the program was as follows:

A piece of ragtime was played by Mary Ridgway. Julia Anderson gave an interpretation of our matrons in the form of a ghost story which was hugely enjoyed. Vivian Hall and Orma Montgomery gave a vocal duet without music.

Miss Coulter was asked to give her experience as a Pearson's matron, and now the girls know the intricate workings of the matron's control.

Mayme C. Ludeman voiced her opinion of "An Ideal Husband", and the whole society concluded that that husband does not exist.

"There's a Long Long Trail" and "Over There" were sung together by two couples, namely Minnie Hunter, Ruth Kain, Celeste Moseley and Mildred Striplin.

THE SOPHOMORES HAVE ONE MORE GOOD TIME

The Sophomore male aggregation enjoyed an Easter celebration at "Uncle Joe" McIlvaine's hospitable farm Saturday night. It is reported that there was an egg-eating contest in which one enterprising Soph succeeded in breaking all records made by the famous gormand duo, Witherspoon and Hayes Eats were the principal feature of the evening, and ice cream and cake disappeared in unbelievable quantities. It was noticed Sunday that Beard partook quite delicately of the Pearsons' meals.

Misses Hale and Buxton have gone to Atlanta for the Grand Opera Season.

ALUMNI NOTES

Reid Garrison, '18 writes that he expected to return to the U. S. early in the year, and while he was waiting for orders to sail, he made application for appointment to an English University. He was sent to Potiers, France where he is attending the U. of Potiers.

Irma Russell, '17 and Muriel Mitchell, '17 who went to Porto Rico to teach last year expect to return to the States this summer. They had hoped to be here for commencement but will not be able to secure passage until June 28.

"Uncle Tom" Mitchell, a popular member of the Class of '16, who was with the A. E. F. in France is enjoying a course of study in a French university.

"Hijo" Wilson, '16 has sailed for the States and within a few week's time will be at his home in Maryville.

BASEBALL TEAM ON TRIP

The baseball team left early Monday morning for an extended trip through upper East Tennessee and Southwestern Virginia. Two games were to be played with Tusculum, two with Milligan and two with Emory and Henry. Up-to-date, they have won one game and lost one. Monday's game was lost to Tusculum, 7-3, while the game scheduled with Tusculum for Tuesday had to be called off on account of rain. On Wednesday Milligan's heavy hitters were defeated in a tight game resulting in a 3-1 score in Maryville's favor.

The team has been strengthened recently by the re-appearance of Davidson, a former basketball and baseball star, who has just been discharged from the navy.

BEASON—ELLIS

A marriage that will be of interest to Maryville students is that of Miss Edyth Ellis of Maryville to Mr. L. W. Beason of Washington, D. C., which took place April 15 in Gadsden, Ala., at the home of a cousin of the bride.

Miss Ellis is the daughter of Dr. Edwin L. Ellis, one of the college physicians.

Both the bride and groom have attended Maryville prep school.

The Echo extends most cordial wishes to the newly married couple.

"STILL ONWARD" EQUAL SUFFRAGE LEAGUE SLOGAN

The artistic side of the Suffrage League members was given a chance to display itself Monday afternoon. Miss Winston Newton sang and Miss Minnie Hunter read. These numbers were followed by a chapter from "The New Voter" which was read by Miss Frances Hickey. A liviely piano duet played by Miss Marion Henry and Miss Rachel Sells completed the musical part of the program.

Even tho the women of Tennessee have been given the right to vote in presidential and municipal elections the league feels that its period of usefulness has not passed. A number of states from which the various members come have not as yet taken this progressive step. Existence and work until every state in the Union has equal suffrage is the purpose of the M. C. Equal Suffrage League.

Mr. C. V. Miller, "Y" secretary recently announced that there would be no more feature movies in the chapel this term. It is the present plan of Mr. Miller to have several interesting lectures in the remaining few weeks of the school year. These lectures, if given, will take place after the society meetings.

PERSONALS

Miss Vera McCampbell has returned after a week's illness at her home in Knoxville.

Miss Frances West, a Y. W. Secretary, was the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde West and a visitor on the Hill Tuesday.

The Chilhowee Club entertained at the home of Mrs. J. B. S. Alexander Saturday afternoon in honor of Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Stevenson's guests, Mrs. A. F. Denniston and Mrs. Allen Bourn of Yonkers.

Miss Claudia Bogart gave a tea-party on Monday afternoon.

Miss Mary Heard is in the hospital at Knoxville, undergoing an operation.

Misses Emmaline Warwick and Lola Beeler spent the week-end at their homes.

Miss Irrovia Corry of the Expression Department, and Miss Jessie Magill of the Music Department gave numbers at Mrs. Waller's on High Street Monday afternoon.

Miss Jackson and Miss Caldwell were luncheon guests at The House in the Woods Monday.

from the hospital where she enjoy-from the hospital where she enjoyed the usual thing—the mumps.

Miss Ailene Chase of Knoxville visited on the Hill this week-end.

Miss Janet Ensign gave a birthday party Saturday night.

Miss Helen Horton spent the week-end at her home in Harriman.

Miss Bliss, Miss Howk and Mr. George Adams spent Monday at Mt. Nebo.

Dr. W. P. Stevenson acted as chaperone for the Maryville debaters at Tusculum.

Allen K. Turner has resumed his customary haunts on the Hill after a short relapse of the flu.

Dewey M. Shaver spent the week-end at his home in Dayton. His brother, Wallace Shaver, and a friend, Carroll Hixon, both recently back from France returned with him for a short visit.

Early Dawn who was through some of the fiercest fighting in the Argonne and St. Mihiel Sectors with the 114th F. A. visited his sister, Miss Ruby Dawn Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Miss Mary Howk has been entertaining her fiance, Mr. George Adams, who is engaged in army Red Cross work.

Percy Buchanan, one of the youngest M. C. representatives in the army, has returned from France and is now living the routine life of the student. Percy is a clever cartoonist and his services are always in demand on the Hill.

Harold Huddleston, a former Maryville student, has returned from overseas and is visiting his parents in Maryville.

The Misses Marsena Galbreath, Ruth Kain, Willodine McKeeva and Mary Perry spent Monday with Helen Tedford in Knox county.

Mr. Carroll Hixson of Dayton, Tenn. was the guest of Miss Mildred Reagan for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Davis have announced the birth of a son Cecil Thomas. Mrs. Davis who was Vola Runyan before her marriage will be remembered as a former student of Maryville and a member of the Class of 1919.

Mr. W. S. Hickey and daughter, Miss Sara were the guests of Miss Frances Hickey Wednesday.

CAMPUS QUIPS

EASTER GOSSIP

Miss Helen Newell wore Sunday a most startling creation in the shape of a liberty blue, victory red ribbon, poppy crowned, black lace hat. The hat-box was stamped Philadelphia, and bore the seal of an exclusive shop on Hebrew street.

Echoes: from Pearsons and Baldwin Saturday night:

"Girls, have you seen my lilies? What! You've got some roses? Well, come in and see mine, then I'll run down and look at yours."

"Say, how many flowers are you going to wear tomorrow? Only three! Why I'm going to wear every one of mine. What's the use of having lilies if you can't show them?"

Echoes from Carnegie Saturday night and every night since:

"O, I say, lend me a dime, wont you? You know you didn't buy lilies or American Beauties for your girl."

"Gee, you can't borrow enough coin in this hall for a postage stamp since Easter."

Two uninvited guests slipped into the dining-room to enjoy the Easter supper, but they found if they had the opportunity to think, that they had entered the camp of Philistines. The weapon of attack was a plate which issued whole from the combat. Pearsons' china is guaranteed to be the most satisfactory American make.

Sunday night during the supper hour, Emily Wright and Callie Speck were seen standing on their chairs, screaming a duet, "Where is he? Show him to me!"

Cotton chatting with neighbor in French class:

Madame: "Can't you keep the baby quiet, Miss Ridgway.

Prof. Hunter: "What is the definition of episode, Miss Conaster?"

A negative response.

Prof. Hunter: "Well, where are episodes found?"

Frances Conaster: "In the picture-show!"

News from Walter Gibson says that he has turned school-master at his home town in Missouri.

ATHENIAN SPIRIT GROWS

The paying of premiums to college athletes was ably and seriously discussed in Athenian Hall Saturday night. David King and Delemo Beard supported the affirmative against Floyd Watt and Thomas Vance, who won the unanimous decision of the judges and the house.

Leslie Jones read in his usual sarcastic manner, the latest funny happenings on the Hill.

Mr. David Friedman was accepted for membership.

Spring days seem to increase rather than diminish the spirit of the Athenians. We are going to have an "in the woods" meeting soon.

It is the desire of Athenian that every unattached fellow come out and share the fellowship of these meeings and take a part in the program. Training for the platform is one of the most important parts of the college course. Ask any professor about it.

A good program is being prepared for the next meeting. Come! Bring yourself and your "Old Lady".

MOUNTAIN TRIP TO CHEOAH MONDAY ENJOYED BY MANY STUDENTS

AN INSTRUCTIVE AND INTERESTING DAY WAS SPENT SIGHT-SEEING. THE DAM, MOUNTAIN CLIMBING, DINNER, AND MOONSHINING WERE THE GREAT ATTRACTIONS.

Did you go on the mountain trip to Alcoa and Cheoah Monday? Well, if not, just read on and see what you missed.

Supt. W. P. Hood arranged for a special five-coach train for the occasion. Over two hundred students encumbered with baskets, boxes, kodaks, and a bountiful supply of chaperones boarded the train at eight o'clock. Queries, of "Oh, where is he? Have you got my ticket? Do we get back in time for supper?" passed around freely.

The lowlands were soon crossed; then the train skirted the banks of the Little Tennessee for the remainder of the journey of thirty miles. Wooded hills and mountains rose up from either side of the river. Here and there through a gap appeared still other craggy peaks. The river was a succession of rapids and falls, holding a new and wonderful surprise at each turn as it passed beneath the brow of some wooded cliff.

A change of locomotives was made at Alcoa. A small dinky engine of the Knoxville Power Company pulled the train the rest of the way. The grit and energy of small engine was so strange that one girl remarked that it must have some kinship with the Ford.

About 10:45 the party arrived at Cheoah, just across the boundary line in North Carolina. First, a visit was made to the power house at the base of the dam. This plant furnishes power to the Aluminum Company at Maryville. The workings of the powerful, buzzing generators and dynamos were explained by the foreman.

Leaving here, the party ascended the mountain from which they were able to reach the top of the dam. The following data is interesting to note:

(1) The Tapoca Dam is the largest one east of the Rockies.

(2) The labor of 2000 men was required for two years in building this plant.

(3) This dam is 350 feet long at the base, 725 feet long at the top, 175 feet wide at the base and 12 feet wide at the top.

(4) It is built on a curve with a radius of 400 feet.

(5) It is 210 feet from the lowest foundation footing to its crest.

(6) It is 180 feet from the river surface to the crest.

(7) It is 209 feet from the river surface to the extreme top of the dam.

(8) It contains 200,000 cubic yards of concrete.

(9) It has impounded 1,500,000,000 cubic feet of water, producing a lake 7 miles long.

(10) Six days were required to fill this lake.

(11) The plant furnishes 150,000 volts.

(12) One of the spans on the transmission line is 5,010 feet. the longest in the world.

(13) This work was first supervised by R. S. Peotter, and is now being carried on by I. G. Calderwood.

After absorbing all the accessible points of interest on and about the dam, attention was again turned to the wonders of natural scenery. The word passed around that dinner would be served on the top of the mountain above and that very soon. Only the pangs of hunger forced some up the steep acclivity. The young men did double duty acting as hoisting motors for their less agile companions.

When at last the top was reached, dinner parties were formed and the boys dispatched for water. Lucky were they if this did not mean another descent and ascent of some perilous cliff. Never could Pearsons' hash taste half so good, half so appetizing, nor could Pearsons' Easter scenery be nearly so inviting, so inspiring.

Dinner over, the parties separ-

HIGHLANDERS RETURN FROM ROAD TRIP

The Scores of Three Out of The Five Games Played Were Captured by The M. C. Players. Emory and Henry and Maryville Broke Even.

The M. C. baseball team is to be congratulated on returning from the long trip last week with three more victories to their credit out of the five games played. The most encouraging feature of the trip is the fact that the Maryville players broke even with Emory and Henry who had previously divided honors with L. M. U. This shows that the Highlanders are developing rapidly and makes the prediction safe that a majority of the remaining games will be won by them.

The second Milligan game was taken by a larger margin than the first one. McLaughlin and Pugh were the moundsmen for the day. Several batting averages were fattened in this game. Ruble, Weisbecker, King and Flowe all succeeded in knocking two baggers, while Davidson poled out a home-run and brought in two much needed scores. The team as a whole batted .361. The final score was 12 to 6.

At Emory and Henry the going was a trifle rougher and everything did not go in Maryville's favor. But the first game was taken by the Highlanders in spite of the fact that they made ten errors during the game and the Emory and Henry team only made six. Wagner carried off the batting honors by making two safe hits out of three times at bat.

This afternoon a double-header was played with Emory and Henry on the home grounds. The game that was scheduled for Wednesday was postponed until today on account of Mrs. Hunter's death.

CAMPUS UNUSUALLY QUIET YESTERDAY

Mrs. Mary Ellen Hunter, Mother of Prof. E. R. Hunter Passed Away Wednesday Morning. Services Were Held at The Hunter Residence Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. Afternoon Classes Did Not Meet.

The students and faculty were grieved Wednesday morning to learn of the death of Mrs. Mary Ellen Hunter, mother of Prof. E. R. Hunter. Although her death brought a degree of sadness in its train yet those who remain behind are happy in the thought that at last she has been released from the pain and suffering which she endured for three and a half years.

A short but impressive service was held at the Hunter residence on Washington avenue Wednesday afternoon at three-thirty o'clock. The Rev. John M. Alexander was in charge of the service. After the scripture reading a short biographical sketch of Mrs. Hunter's life was given. This in part was as follows:

"Mary Ellen Wood was born October 7, 1863, near Greencastle, Indiana and died April 30, 1919, at Maryville, Tennessee. At the time of her death she was aged fifty-five years, six months and twenty-three days. Her father was Stephen Wood and her mother Samantha Youngman Wood. Three brothers and two sisters survive.

On October 11, 1883, she was united in marriage to Rev. Alison Hunter of Greenville, Illinois. The best of her life she gave, through the years that followed, to the work of the ministry, for her husband's work was, most really, hers also. On June 24, 1915, her husband died and since that time her life has been greatly broken."

Dr. Alexander took as the text for his appropriate and consoling remarks Lamentations 3-31:32: "For the Lord will not cast off forever: but though He cause grief, yet will He have compassion according to the multitudes of his mercies." During the service the college double quartet sang "Eventide", "Asleep in Jesus", and "In the Hour of Trial."

The remains were accompanied by Prof. Hunter and Miss Florence Hunter to Greenville, Illinois, where interment will take place.

The deepest sympathy of the students, the faculty, and alumni is extended to the bereaved family in their hour of grief and trial.

The following are the resolutions drawn up by the student body. The faculty sent a letter of condolence to the family and caused the same to be spread on the college records.

THE COLLEGE PARTICIPATED IN TOWN CELEBRATION SATURDAY

FORMER S.A.T.C. AND R.O.T.C. MEN IN P'RADE. TANK SENT OUT IN INTEREST OF VICTORY LOAN ATTRACTED MUCH ATTENTION. DINNER, THE GREAT FEATURE OF THE DAY.

Saturday was one of the greatest days in the history of Maryville. All day the town was crowded with people who came to greet the returning soldiers. Relatives, friends, college students, the whole aggregation of Blount county joined in the welcome.

Early the deep rumbling of the catapillar tank attracted much attention. Later in the morning it took part in the parade headed by a company of overseas heroes, together with the men in the service at home, and the women of the local Red Cross chapter. These women prepared and served dinner to the men in uniform.

After the parade at noonday, the tank crew explained the operations of the tank and the part these machines played in winning the war. The iron box like monster preceded the infantry, clearing out all the machine gun nests and "pill boxes." The particular tank on exhibition was a two-man machine driven by a ninety horse power motor. This tank, a cross between a British Whippet and French Renault, was made by an American concern, and carried a one and one-half inch field piece capable of piercing armor plate. Later in the afternoon, the crew gave a demonstration of the tank's ability to overcome physical obstacles. They forded the creek down by Williams Mill, climbed the bank, charged through the saplings and a barb wire fence and on up a very steep ascent. The effectiveness of this instrument in war was satisfactorily proved.

Two convalescent soldiers who had seen service at St. Mihiel and the Argonne told of their experiences in driving back the Huns. Other speakers were Congressman J. Will Taylor, Hon. M. H. Gamble, Rev. J. M. Emert, Lt. Carson and J. M. Clark. Of these Congressman Taylor paid this tribute to the Blount County heroes:

"The same high character of tenacity and intrepidity which their distinguished fathers exemplified at King's Mountain, New Orleans, Gettysburg and Franklin, these brave Blount countians exhibited, perhaps under more trying circumstances, at St Mihiel, Ypres and the Argonne forest. By their heroism and self-sacrifice, they have added new chapters to the grand volume of freedom, and right pages of glory to the military archives of of the world."

The dinner was by no means the least important event of the day. Main street from College street northward was blocked. A double row of tables, loaded with chicken, ham sandwiches, coffee, pie cake ice cream, candy and other delicacies extended for a block. No one left feeling hungry that day.

The occasion was a boost for the Fifth Liberty Loan. Blount has always gone over the top, so no anxiety is felt regarding the results of this drive. Dr. Wells' statement, "Blount County has gone over the top and is still going" has become a slogan in all parts of the country.

Maryville College gladly welcomes back these men for among them are many of her alumni and students. Some will never be welcomed back. Twenty gold stars on the service flag testify to that truth. To them we owe a debt payable only by serving that humanity for whom they so nobly died.

GRADUATE RECITALS ARE COMING FAST

Miss Sullinger and Miss Nuckols Entertained April 28. Next Tuesday Night at 8 O'clock Miss Miles, Miss Newton, and Miss Wilson Will Give a Joint Recital.

The second of the series of graduate recitals was held in the college chapel on Monday night. The participants were Miss Sue Nuckols from the Expression Department and Miss Marguerite Sullinger from the Piano Department. An unusually large crowd, including the many town friends of Miss Sullinger who is one of "our town girls", were present.

The musical part of the program was especially attractive because of the variety in the selections. The first number was McDowell's Preludium, and this was found a very fitting introduction. Miss Sullinger from the first showed her splendid technical ability with marked clearness in the brilliant parts. The second number was the Staccato-Caprice by Vogrich—, a piece which is very difficult and which was played with the dainty yet firm touch that is required for a correct interpretation.

At the close of this number Miss Nuckols appeared and in her charming manner gave a reading of William Barrett's "The Sign of the Cross". A selection with many characters and difficult to read was made beautifully clear to all. Though Miss Nuckols has always been thoroughly enjoyed in her readings perhaps on this particular night she made an even stronger appeal than usual to her audience.

Miss Sullinger appeared at the close of this number and played her three remaining solos. A Chopin Waltz and a Liszt Liebestraume, both of which were played with good interpretations. These were followed by a Polonaise of Paderewski, which gave a brilliant touch to the program, for this number has a truly military air. A fitting close for the entire program was the piano number by Miss Sullinger and Miss Howard, in which splendid ensemble work was done.

The entire program was a great success and these entertainments are showing not only college folks but the town people as well, the talent to be found on College Hill.

The next recital all are now eagerly looking forward to. It will be held on Tuesday night—May the sixth. Miss Gail Wilson will represent the Expression Department, Miss Emma Miles the Piano Department, and Miss Winston Newton the Voice Department. An attractive and varied program is promised from these students, well-known on the Hill for their ability along their respective lines.

Circumstances will prevent the election of the new editor and business manager this week. If the submitted plan is approved the election will take place within the next week. The names of the candidates for the editorship will be posted so that you may know who is who. Then it will be up to you, students, to elect the best person for the position. Let's arouse a little enthusiasm and make this election one of the biggest and snappiest student events of the year. Watch the bulletin boards for the names and the date of the election, then come out prepared to vote intelligently and wisely!

Believing that the former method of electing the editor-in-chief of the Highland Echo has not produced the most satisfactory results the executive staff, after due consideration, submits this plan of election for the approval of the students and faculty:

The English professors shall nominate from among the members of the Senior and Junior classes any number of persons whom they believe capable of satisfactorily filling the position of editor of the Echo. Aspirants to the position may hand their names to either Professor Hunter or Mrs. Alexander for consideration.

The list of nominees shall be submitted to the faculty for approval. The approved list shall then be posted for one week in order that the students may become familiar with the candidates.

The election shall be held in the college chapel at the time specified. College students will vote and the voting will be done by ballot.

The presiding officer will be the president of the Senior class, and the secretaries of the college classes will act as tellers. The candidate who receives the plurality of votes will be the editor for the following college year.

The old method of electing the business manager has proved satisfactory. The only recommended change in this system is that the president of the college classes only shall elect the two representatives, one from the Senior and one from the Junior class who meet with the two representatives appointed by the faculty to judge the merits of the material and recommendations offered by the candidates for the business managership.

Hereafter, it is recommended that the election of both editor and business manager take place during the first week of the spring term.

Respectfully submitted by the Echo staff for the approval of the faculty and students of Maryville College.

FOR SOME THE AGONY IS OVER!

If you are wondering why the Seniors are looking so relieved, let it be known that it is because AT LAST the Bates orations are typed and copies of the notable attempts are in the hands of the unknown committee.

ENTERTAINING GYPSY TRIBE VISITS THETA

The Thetas were highly entertained by a gypsy program Saturday night.

The curtain rose on an early morning scene with all the gypsies asleep around the camp-fire. Suddenly they were awakened by one of their fellow wanderers just coming in from an early walk. She delighted them with a folk dance. With such gracefulness, such elegant and easy steps this could have been no other than Miss Higginbotham.

The tribe was then favored by a truly romantic story of how a man from the outside world had won her heart. This touching piece of eloquence was given by Miss Minnie Hunter.

Miss Catherine Barber sang "The Gypsy Trail" in a very pleasing way, putting especial stress on "the heart of a man to the heart of a maid."

Misses Sara Lee Lloyd and Vance Hudgins rendered a beautiful cornet duet.

The last number was a chorus "My Gypsy Rose of Romany" by the entire tribe.

Let's have all the Thetas out for the next meeting. Words fail to tell you of joys to come—, but just come and see! ! !

THE SENIORS WILL STAGE "THE PIPER"

If in the days to come you want to find any of the Seniors, go to the chapel for you will very likely find them there practicing their various roles in "The Piper". This play written by a noted American writer, Josephine Preston Peabody, won a British drama prize, and was first produced in England. A dramatic critic has said concerning it, "The Piper" must stand alone incomparably beautiful in the world of modern plays."

Based on the poem "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" many characters are introduced and the action is at all times intensely interesting. Under the cover of artistic words of imagery and quaint customs, real problems of life are discussed. Greed and selfishness, two of the most deplorable sins of any race, are ruthlessly disclosed and the people are made to realize their erring way of living. Love, earthly and spiritual, is exalted.

Combining as it does the ideal with the practical and blending the two into a wonderfully attractive whole, "The Piper" will be one of the most worth-while plays ever presented by a Maryville Senior class.

BALDWIN HALL TALENT DISPLAYED AT BAINONIAN

On the evening of the twenty-third something unusual, in the line of programs, was offered to the Bainonians. The entire program which was a most excellent one, was composed of Baldwin Hall talent.

Annie Mae Faulk delighted her audience with two humorous readings, and put them in a right frame of mind for a lively debate. The question, "Resolved that: It is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all", was upheld by Miss Mittye Stovall and opposed by Miss Jessie Brown.

It is rumored that the girls got points from some of our matrons, and it is hardly necessary to say that the decision was in favor of the affirmative.

Baldwin Hall musical talent was also well represented by six girls dressed as grandmothers, who sang their history, from the time they were babies in the cradle, through the moonshining age, up to grandmotherhood.

Bainonian hopes to hear from the Pearsons girls soon, but it is really doubtful whether they could offer a better program.

The next meeting, May 3, is to be a joint meeting in the chapel. Everybody out!

GEORGETOWN TIGERS WILL PLAY HERE FRIDAY

The Tiger baseball team from Georgetown College, Georgetown, Kentucky began a five-day Southern trip Tuesday. They play the University of Tennessee today, and Maryville tomorrow. The last game will be played with U. T. on Saturday. Three pitchers accompany the team. The Georgetonian reports that Jack Lacey will pitch in the game here.

A TRIP TO SOUTH AMERICA

We often have the privilege of following a missionary as he conducts us through heathendom, but, an unusual affair took place in Bainonian Hall, Friday evening, which was unique indeed. Mittye Stovall presented some imaginary pictures of South American mining regions, and quite a number of girls followed her, enjoyed the scenery, learned some of the customs of the natives, and returned, regretting only that the visit was so brief. One would think that Mittye was a returned missionary, her presentation was so vivid.

Each Friday evening there is something equally as instructive and interesting at the meeting of the Student Volunteer Band. Shouldn't you like to take such journeys?

MOUNTAIN TRIP TO CHEOAH MONDAY ENJOYED BY MANY

ated. Chaperones forgot their duties. The afternoon was spent in exploring, kodaking, moonshining, and in collecting botany specimens.

The information that Cheoah boasted of a drug store got out in some way. The proprietors were kept busy washing and distributing the half dozen spoons and glasses. The supply of cream and cold drinks was not able to withstand the onslaught of so many tired college students.

At three o'clock, the train started on the return trip. Baskets, formerly full of eats, were now filled with shrubbery, rocks, insects, and all manner of souvenirs.

A stop of one hour was necessary at Alcoa. Again, the ice cream parlor was depleted of its stock. Amidst it all, came the news that several couples had been left at Cheoah, ten miles away. They were being rushed down on a freight car so the message said. Just as the train was again departing, they came in sight, perched on a flat car. These were: Ruth McCall, Mildred Kimball, Rebecca Young, Genevieve Tetedoux, Idella Hemphill and Delemo Beard. The rest of the trip was made in safety. The home coming being just at supper time.

A final count revealed the absence of Edith Davis and Lake Russell. The Tuesday morning Alcoa special brought them, none the worse for their experience.

Say, aren't you sorry you didn't go on the mountain trip, through the land of the sky? Yes, and so are all who didn't go. Never mind, you will have another chance next year.

The students take this opportunity of thanking Supt. Hood of the Southern, the officials of the K. P. Co. and A. C. of A., and the employees for their kindness and courtesy which made the trip possible.

THE REV. MR. STEARN HAS CHARGE OF VESPER SERVICE

In the absence of Dr. Stevenson on Sunday night the Vesper services were in charge of the Rev. Mr. F. H. Stern, assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church, Knoxville.

Mr. Miller in introducing Mr. Stern mentioned that he had spent fourteen years in South Africa, and so would speak on the South Africans and their needs.

The speaker took for his text Luke 11:5, the parable of the man asking bread at midnight of a friend. In drawing a comparison with the parable he said that Africa is asking the Bread of Life of America.

Interesting facts concerning Africa were disclosed in the course of the address. The population numers 150,000,000. If the Africans were placed side by side from New York to San Francisco they would stand nineteen deep.

Africa is four times as large as the United States but there are only fifteen people to the square mile. One missionary would have an average of 43,000 people to work with.

Northern Africa is entirely Mohammedan and the danger of the remainder of the continent turning Islam is greatly to be feared.

The customs of the natives are strange. The use of red clay on their blankets and over their skins gives them, the title of red native.

A man must give the father of the girl he wishes to marry a number of cows to recompense him for the loss of his daughter.

The festivals are seasons of drunkeness and license where young boys and girls are taught immorality. The native witch doctors have such power over the people that a great deal of the fighting and sinning of the black men is initiated by them.

Mr. Stern ended his plea by stating that there are three things we as Christians can do. "We can go, we can give, we can grieve".

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting last Sunday afternoon was led by Miss Mamie Wilson. The leader gave us an interesting insight into conditions as they exist today in our mountain settlements, making us realize the needs of the people, and how much we can do to better their condition, by the giving of ourselves, or our money in aiding them. Miss Carrie Sheddan sang a solo, and Miss Ina Secor played Greig's Twilight.

The meeting next Sunday will be led by the Junior class and promises to be a good one.

Let all help to make a large attendance.

ENGAGED

The engagement of Miss Aleen Chase, a former student, to the Rev. Mr. Stern, assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church, Knoxville has been announced. Miss Chase whose home is in New York is at present private secretary to Dr. L. G. Broughton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Knoxville.

IT'S COMING—THE ADELPHIC UNION BANQUET

The preceding heading is not a false report. This year there is to be an Adelphic Union Banquet and it is to be the biggest and best planned affair of its kind that the four literary societies have ever enjoyed. The various committees are hard at work and definite announcement concerning the banquet will be made at an early date.

It seems especially appropriate that the banquet should be held this year, for by the institution of the monthly joint meetings, the literary societies have been brought in closer and more intimate contract than ever before. The banquet will strengthen and foster the existing feeling of good fellowship.

Students! Provide yourselves with pennies in abundance to pay that war tax on candy, ice cream, etc., etc. Such is war!

REMARKS ABOUT THIS AND THAT

Wanted: Hot water in Baldwin Hall at least once a day.

Miss Edith Davis and Mr. Lake Russel had an extended stay in the mountains, the first of the week, studying nature.

Miss Lucile Carter says she can sympathize with the poet when he said, "loved not man the less but nature more" since she saw the dam, but the question is, was she moonshining or not?

"The difference between a permutation and a combination", said Licia in the Algebra class, "is that one is the same and the other different.

Whether it was rats or midnight feasts there was certainly some moving around on fourth floor Sunday night. And as to rats the girls of room 58 were especially favored on Saturday night by a tennis tournament. The probability that both girls crawled on the top deck of the bed is 100 divided by 1.

Girls! guard your photographs well, especially if you happen to have any of good-looking men! Room 42 Pearsons will hold a few more and the occupants persist in collecting. Be careful!

The joys of the mountain trip were very moaningly expressed by one young lady as two stone bruises, a dizzy head, a torn middy, a blistered face and ten million freckles, and a severe attack of indigestion.

A new Y. M. C. A. secretary made his appearance on the Hill early Monday morning, but did not remain on the campus very long.

TIGERS WIN TWO GAMES

The second team won two games on the home grounds last week. On Thursday they easily overcame Central High of Knoxville by the one sided score of 12-2. On Saturday Knoxville High came over and put up a better fight than Central. The high school team took the lead in the fifth inning, but were passed by the locals in the eighth when they scored six runs. The final score was 12-9.

A return game will be played with Knoxville High in Knoxville on Friday.

Palace Theatre
Program for following week

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

J. STUART BLACKTON'S Masterpiece "THE COMMON CAUSE" with an all-star cast including HERBERT RAWLINSON and SYLVIA BREAMER—the War story with a laugh and a thrill and a throb. America, the human side of the great struggle—America fighting side by side with her allies. This story so graphically presented by J. Staurt Blackton, master of Screencraft, is one to make your heart leap—a tale of love, of sacrifice. Action—heart interest—whimsical humor—pathos—you see them all at close range. "Poilu" and "Tommy" shoulder to shoulder with United States Marines;—invincible "devil dogs" fighting forward ever forward—and PERSHING'S Gallant Boys; and the TANKS—all this you see in "THE COMMON CAUSE"; the war picture that is different. ACTUAL SCENES YOU WILL SEE—Refugees fleeing from their homes with only enough clothing to cover them. An exponent of Effiaiency over-estimates his capacity for Wine and "Kultur".

FREEDOM'S CRUSADERS ON THEIR WAY TO THE "RHINE". Shell torn Europe with all her future possibilities laid waste before their very eyes and no remedy except "The Valorous American Tommies". We will also have a Mack-Sennett comedy entitled "Her Mistake" on Thursday, and on Friday a Harold-Lloyd comedy.

SATURDAY

Fox presents Peggy Hyland in "THE GIRL WITH NO REGRETS"; a story of love and adventure told in an unusual way based on a mystery that soon reveals itself. "Raiders" No. 11, with Pearl White. Silent Mystery No. 6 with Francis Ford; International News and a Fox comedy, entitled "Soft Tenderfeet".

MONDAY

"Man of Might" with William Duncan in a big V comedy, "Tugs and Tumbles"; also a good western "Dead Man's Cave" with Pete Morrison. Also a Loan reel with one of your favorite stars.

TUESDAY

Fox presents THEDA BARA in "SIREINS SONGS"; a story with Theda Bara taking the usual role of the "Vampire"; but in a new way and really she means to do right. Kinogram No. 16, all the news in pictures. Also a "U no me Al" Comedy, for the baseball fans.

—COMING—

Fannie Ward in "COMMON CLAY", the greatest picture since "The Spoilers", and one of the same lines based on the same subject, but better portrayed and with a better cast of characters. Mary McLaren in "Creaking Stairs"; George Walsh in "PLUCK AND LUCK"; Harry Carey in "THREE WOUNDED MEN"; Mitchell Lois in "THE CODE OF THE YUKON", a story of the great northwest; Mildred Harris in "THE DOCTOR AND THE WOMAN"; Dorothy Phillips in "Mortgaged Wives"; Norma Talmadge in "The Heart of Wetonia.".

The above specials together with Paramount, Artcraft and Regular Program is what you will see at the Palace. A special every day. Don't miss one of them. They are all good.

PERSONALS

Miss Ola McCampbell visited her home during the week-end.

Miss Margaret Graham spent the week-end at her home.

Madame Dennee has been ill since Friday with the tonsilitis.

Mr. Harold Leyshon visited Miss Ruth Newton on Friday.

Miss Maude Pardue is able to attend classes again.

Lieut. Raymond Smith has returned from overseas service.

Mr. Homer Hammontree, '09 was the soloist at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

Misses Claudia Bogart and Irrovia Corry were charming hostesses at an "eats" party on Saturday night.

Miss Mary Mason has received news of the arrival of her brother in U. S.

Miss Frances Bush of Hotel, Tenn., is visiting Miss Effie Erickson.

"Greaser" Greer, former M. C. football guard, is in Maryville after an extended period of camp life.

Miss Margaret McMillan had as her guests for the week-end, her mother, Mrs. R. L. McMillan and cousin, Miss Bessie McMillan.

Miss Mattie Lou Stacey of Sparta who has been entertained by Miss Callie Speck for several days has returned to her home.

"Sheeny" Briggs is recuperating from an operation in the process of which his tonsils were removed. He has not been able as yet to take any food.

The Carson-Newman baseball team spent Wednesday and Thursday on the campus enjoying the various pastimes the old Hill offers.

Miss Celeste Moseley taught at East Side High School in the places of Misses Johnson and Campbell on Monday.

The girls of Pearsons Hall are very much pleased with the appearance of the lobby and the hall on second floor. The new furniture is very attractive.

Sympathy is extended to Miss Helen Ott, of the Freshman class, who is suffering the loss of a beloved sister as the result of a railroad accident.

Dr. W. P. Stevenson has been preaching numerous bacculaureate sermons lately. At one place a sermon was given to graduates of years to come, the 1919 class being a minus quantity.

Misses Hattye Hyder and Ethel Jackson have been the charming guests of Miss Helen Horton. Miss Jackson was formerly a student at M. C. and has many acquaintances among the student body.

The Rev. and Mrs. James P. Jewell and young daughter, Miss Fauline of Fredrictown, Missouri, are spending a week at the Bassett residence. Mr. Jewell is a graduate of the class of 1910.

Mrs. Thomas Durbee and Mrs. Bates of Middleton, Con.., were the guests of the college recently, stopping at Maryville on their way north after a pleasant sojourn in Florida. Saturday evening the they were entertained at the House in the Woods. Mr. Homer Hammontree was among the guests.

Dean Barnes and Professors Knapp, Davis and Bassett attended the meeting of the East Tennessee College Association that was held Friday evening in Knoxville at the Hotel Atkin. Dinner was served but the Maryville faculty representatives unwittingly missed that part of the program.

FRESHMAN BOYS HAVE A CELEBRATION

Uncle Joe and Aunt Hattie McIlvaine were the host and hostess of the Freshman boys Friday night. Those who have ever shared their hospitality hardly need a further account of the evening.

Camp-fire and fire-side songs were sung before the great open fire place. Weinies with hot biscuit—the latter a gift of Aunt Hattie—were served around and around the circle. Then came two heaping dishes of strawberry sundae, a Freshman special, and cake enough to satisfy the most avaricious.

When stories were almost exhausted, the time came to depart. It was a happy bunch that disappeared into the darkness with their host's and hostess' "Good nights", and "Come again, boys" ringing in their ears.

About ten Pearsons' girls answered the advertisement of Mr. Minarick in last week's Echo. Does advertising pay?

VOLUME FOUR — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1919. — NUMBER TWENTY-EIGHT

STUDENTS' SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON VICTORY FUND IS STARTED

ENTHUSIASTIC CHAPEL SERVICE WEDNESDAY MORNING. DR. R. I. GAMON AND DR. R. E. VALE OF KNOXVILLE SPRING A WELCOME SURPRISE ON THE STUDENTS. A WHOLE HOLIDAY IS THE RESULT.

Two events occurred at chapel, Wednesday morning, May 7, that will long be remembered by the students of Maryville: the Centennial Seniors made their appearance in caps and gowns, and Dr. R. E. Vale of Knoxville proposed the plans for the Students' Samuel Tyndale Wilson Victory Fund.

The Rev. T. J. Miles led the devotional part of the service after which Dr. R. I. Gamon, the live manager of the Union Presbytery Campaign Fund of $25,000 which is to be a part of the Centennial Forward Fund, told how last January the Presbytery had passed a motion that this sum of money should be raised within the bounds of the Presbytery. Dr. Gamon, said although he was rushed with work he was willing to give the month of May to this campaign for three reasons: first, because his son, Bob Gamon is an alumnus of the college; secondly, because of his deep regard for Dr. Wilson as a man and of his sincere appreciation of his devotion to the cause of Maryville; and thirdly, because this is the Centennial year and the work that has been so nobly begun must go on.

In presenting Dr. Vale who is the chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Union Presbytery Campaign, Dr. Gamon characterized him as a "master of detail" and his characterization was soon seen to be appropriately true.

In commencing his remarks, Dr. Vale said that two kinds of colleges are found in this country: those that educate people away from the folks, and those that lead them back to the folks. The latter type is in the minority. Maryville has the distinction of being one of this kind. Her aim is education for the purpose of serving the world.

In order to carry on this extensive educational program, income is needed. During the past three years the cost of living has increased 87 percent. The Centennial Forward Fund of $325,000 was started to meet this problem, and the need of the college for more equipment. The Rockefeller Foundation guaranteed $75,000 on condation that the college raise $250,000 by the first of June. At the present time $75,000 remain to be subscribed. Of this amount Union Presbytery will raise $25,000. Dr. Vale said "The Presbytery has a special interest in Maryville because Dr. Isaac Anderson its founder was the first man licensed by the presbytery to preach."

In continuing his remarks, Dr. Vale said there were two things that would greatly hearten Dr. Wilson as he toils to put the Forward Fund over the top. The first of these would be to let him know that the students were raising a fund to boost the Centennial Fund and the second would be the arrival of a telegram announcing that Union Presbytery had subscribed its quota. Dr. Vale suggested that the students start such a fund and call it the Students' Samuel Tyndale Wilson Victory Fund. The suggestion met with hearty approval. Committees were appointed to solicit the classes and the morning was given to the work of campaignnig.

At twelve o'clock the student body reassembled to hear the returns. Great was the shouting and the applause when Dr. Gamon announced that the subscriptions had exceeded the $3,000 mark.

Dean Barnes was so elated that he looked pleased when he heard the cries of "holiday this afternoon". Above the din could be heard "Prof." Proffitt's voice crying "give it to them, Dean. Give it to them". That, with the approving nods of various faculty members decided the matter, and after singing the doxology, the students marched out to enjoy another half day of freedom.

Subscriptions to the Fund are still coming in. Each student is being given a chance to have a share in contributing to this small fund which is to be added to the Centennial Fund for the enrichment and enlargment of Maryville. If you have not subscribed, do so now! Every student should have a personal part in giving to old Maryville.

BUSINESS MANAGER TO BE CHOSEN MAY 13

The business manager for the 1919-1920 Highland Echo will be chosen Tuesday, May 13.

To be business manager of the Echo is an honor of which any one ought to be proud. The Echo is one of the best college papers in the South. The manager receives besides the honor and experience, 10 percent of the gross income. This should be sufficient to attract a large crowd of aspirants. Competition will insure a good manager and it is hoped that the same interest will be shown this year as has been manifested heretofore.

The contest is open to all college students. All those who wish to try for the managership should sesure recommendations, as to their business ability and experience. The choice will not be made entirely on the recommendations. These will count, but the applicants are to appear in person before the committee for further examination. The recommendations with the name of applicant must be turned in to D. H. Briggs on or before chapel Tuesday, May 13.

HARK YOU!

The college students are called to meet in Voorhees Chapel Friday evening, May 16, at 6:30 to elect the editor-in-chief of the Highland Echo for the year 1919-1920.

Marie P. Townsend,
President of the Senior Class.

NOMINEES FOR 1919-1920 EDITORSHIP

In accordance with the plan for the election of editor-in-chief of the Highland Echo proposed by the present Board of Editors and adopted by the faculty with slight alterations, the Faculty submits the following nominations for editor-in-chief of the Echo for the year 1919-1920:

Mildred Campbell.
Mary Louise Hayes,
Stacey Howell,
James Martin.

H. J. Bassett,
Secretary of the Faculty.

WORD FROM DR. WILSON

The following telegram was received from President Wilson early Thursday morning in reply to the telegram sent him by the class presidents Wednesday notifying him of the Students' Samuel Tyndale Wilson Victory Fund:

"New York, May 7, 1919.

'Class Presidents,
Maryville College,
Maryville, Tenn.

"While I was talking wth Lieut. Howard Wilson of victories won across the sea, I was thrilled by your announcement of the Vctory Fund at old Maryville. My heart thanks you. Please God we shall celebrate the winning of the Victory Fund of Three Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars, June Fifth.

"Samuel Tyndale Wilson."

THE RECITAL DRAWS A CROWDED HOUSE

The Misses Newton, Miles, and Wilson Present a Charming Program. Last Recital, May 19—Participants, Miss Adah Howard and Miss Marie Townsend.

As the graduate recitals continue the student body and town people are appreciating more and more the splendid work that is being done in the special departments of the college. An extremely interesting program was that which was held in the college chapel Tuesday evening when Miss Gail Wilson from the Expression Department, Miss Winston Newton from the Voice Department and Miss Emma Miles from the Piano Department appeared in their graduate recital.

The program given was as follows:

Barcarolle, Op. 60 (for two pianos) Schytte, Miss Miles and Miss Winifred Decker

Oh Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me?—Handel

Rose Softly Blooming—Spohr, Miss Newton.

The Finger of God—Percival Wilde Miss Wilson

Prelude Op 28, No. 7—Chopin

Prelude Op. 28,No. 22—Chopin

Prelude Op. 28, No. 15—Chopin Miss Miles

Care Nome (from Rigoletto)-Verdi Miss Newton

Etude Artistique—Godard Miss Miles

An Indian Love Song (with violin obligato)—Lieurance,

Slumber Song—Gretchaminoff

Wake Up!—Phillips, Miss Newton

This varied and interesting program was enjoyed by all present. Miss Miles won her audience with her first appearance. The group of Chopin Preludes showed well her ability to express music as Chopin gives it in these numbers. Perhaps the third of the group—the well-known Raindrop Prelude, was appreciated the most, Miss Miles playing it with a daintiness of touch that well interpreted this attractive number. On the last piano number Miss Miles was able to show her technical ability—, clearness in the difficult octave passages—, yet always holding before her audience the interesting melody.

Miss Newton's singing has been greatly enjoyed this entire year and her numbers on a program are always looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure. Tuesday evening her voice seemed even more attractive than usual. Her high notes were beautifully clear and the wide range of her voice was displayed to very good advantage in the variety of her numbers. It would be hard to say which of the selections was appreciated the most They were all beautiful. The difficulty of the selection from Rigoletto was not thought of as she sang the most difficult passages with ease. The last group of songs was very attractive. Miss Rendon's violin obligato added much to the Indian Love Song, and Phillip's "Wake Up!" as the last number was a brilliant ending.

Miss Wilson, with the very introduction of her beautful reading "The Finger of God" held her audience with that power whch is the gift of a good reader. Her selection appealed to all and her very pleasing manner added greatly to the success of her number. Her characters were portrayed so that the entire audience felt a personal acquaintance wth them. Miss Wilson's voice is so clear and strong that it was possible to understand clearly throughout the house, all that she said.

The entire program was successful throughout—, everything going off with smoothness and to the very evident enjoyment of those present.

Miss Zelma Kennedy, '16 of Straw Plains attended the Miles-Newton-Wilson recital Tuesday evening.

ADELPHIC UNION BANQUET TO BE SOON

May 23, Date For Adelphic Union Banquet. Will Be Biggest Student Affair of The Year. Tickets on Sale Now. Buy Early or You Will Get Left.

One of the biggest event of the school year at Maryville has always been the Adelphic Union Banquet. Perhaps this banquet is being looked forward to with greater zest than ever before this year, for when our country was at war it was thought best to do away with the dispensable things, the banquet coming under that category.

Now plans are being made for what is hoped will prove to be the best Adelphic Union affair that has been given in a long time. A meeting of the four societies was held in the chapel Tuesday night, at which time a vote was taken as to the price of tickets. It was the will of the students that a charge of one dollar a plate should be made—because of the increased prices of food stuff for the last couple of years.

A limited time is given in which to buy the tickets for it is necessary that the committees know how many to plan for. Buy your tickets before next Tuesday, the thirteenth and everybody get ready for one of the biggest events of the school year.

THE HIGHLANDERS HAVE ADDED MORE SCORES TO THEIR CREDIT

TUSCULUM LOSES GAMES TO THE M. C. PLAYERS. GEORGETOWN ALSO SUCCUMBS TO THEIR SUPERIOR PLAYING. MILLIGAN WILL PLAY HERE THURSDAY AND FRIDAY.

Less than a month ago the baseball fans on the Hill were all very blue and the chances for a successful season seemed near the zero mark. At that time more than one person was heard to remark that the best thing for the team would be to cancel all the remaining games of the season and be saved the disgrace of losing them. Since that time however, the outlook has brightened so much that these same fans take it as a matter of course that the Highlanders will win over all comers. "Hooky' Everett, the veteran coach of many successful seasons, predicts that our boys will not lose more than one game during the remainder of the season.

The winning streak began when the team started on a trip on April 21, and returned the following Saturday after winning three of the five games played. Since their return four games have been played at home, one of which was lost to Emory and Henry by a 2-1 score in one of the best games of the season. The features of the game were spectacular catches in the outfield by Cortner and Wagner. Pugh was the moundsman for the Highlanders and only allowed six hits.

The next day Georgetown came over, after holding U. T. to a 5-4 score, expecting to even up scores for the drubbing given them two years ago; but they only succeeded in scoring once while Maryville put over twelve points. Five of these came in the first inning while the southpan Lacey was in the box for the visitors. The other seven scores were made off Ogden. McLaughlin held the Tigers to seven hits and struck out seven men. Flowe, a newcomer on the team, carried off the batting honors with three hits in five times up.

Tusculum, the oldest of Maryville's rivals came down for two games Monday and Tuesday and lost both—, the first day 7-4 and the second 4-0.

Weisbecker pitched a good game for the Highlanders, but Gilman was easy for our batters. Tusculum took the lead in the first inning but four bunched hits off Gilmer in the fourth frame lost the game for them. Flowe again knocked three safely while batting for times. Two of these counted for extra bases and each brought in a score. Campbell, the big Tusculum second baseman, walloped a liner into deep center field in the fourth frame which put him all the way around. Tuesday's game was rained out in the seventh with M. C. four in the lead and two men on bases. Two of these scores were made in the first and the other two in the seventh, after the rain had begun. Pugh struck out four and only allowed one hit in the seven innings played. This was the best pitching record made to date in the present season.

Milligan defeated U. T. Monday. Maryville has already won twice from Milligan so that the Highlanders have the dope on the University.

Milligan plays here again Thursday or Friday.

Who said that the Seniors looked dignified Wednesday morning?

:--:--:--:

Here's all hail to the person who conceived the notion of the Students' Samuel Tyndale Wilson Victory Fund!

:--:--:--:

Have you seen the new score board? It is a regular one.

:--:--:--:

It is less than a month until the great celebration. Maryville seems mighty impatient to start a new century.

:--:--:--:

The business manager wishes to inform the Echo subscribers that unless back subscriptions are paid within the next week it will be impossible to run any addtional numbers this year. This is the great year in the history of the college and we will want an Echo record of the Centennial happenings. Pay up! If you in any doubt as to whether or not you owe your dollar consult Horace Brown.

:--:--:--:

Everybody out Monday night to help elect a capable Athletic Board of Control for 1919-1920. Athletics ought to boom next year. To use a non-trite expression, the war is over; the men are returning—men who are doubly interested in athletics—an interest that was increased by the routine of camp life. These men have also acquired an insatiable thirst for knowledge and next year they are coming, in large numbers, to our colleges and universities. Maryville will receive her share of men who are desirous of learning and fond of athletics.

With the new era upon which the old college is about to enter, there will come a renewed interest in all kinds of college activities. Athletics which have been on the wane, a condition that exists in all of the schools of the country, will reach the state par excellence. Next year the football season will be the best ever; the scores of the basketball squad will outshine that of any previous records; and the baseball team will be the old M.C. invincible.

With conditions so favorable, and we presume they are about the same in the other colleges of the south, is it not time to urge an inter-collegiate meet of perhaps, the colleges and universites of Tennessee. We will want to give our athletes a chance to display their ability; they will want to work for the glorification of their Alma Mater; a spirit of friendly rivalty should be fostered between the colleges of this section, so let's urge a 1919-1920 Tennessee inter-collegiate athletic meet.

PROF. LEAVENWORTH CONDUCTS THURSDAY EVENING SERVICE

The prayer meeting service of last Thursday was led by Prof. Leavenworth. In his talk, he echoed the call for the right kind of people to labor in the interest of humanity.

He said that the cry goes out for men of heroism who will stand up and fight for the right. Men who are self-centered are not wanted, but only those who are contented with any choice that God gives them.

Everyone cannot reach the summit of earth's renown but all can be noble The potential great rise above their environment and are something more than oil that lubricates other people's machinery. Such men are sometimes considered cranks, but these are they who have revolutionized the world, as St. Paul, Luther, Cromwell, and Fulton.

Be honest, because it is right and not because it is the best policy. The moral laws govern the world and work day and night. Eternal vigilance is their motto. They make an impression on every man, recognizing neither rank nor position.

Successful men do their own thinking and live largely in the future tense. If anyone contributes to the world's welfare, he will be received with open arms. That one must use his eyes and other organs of sense and perceive what is about him, especially the beauty of his surroundings, which has its source in God.

"GOING FORWARD" IS THE BATTLE CRY OF THE BAINONIANS

Hep! Hep! Watch us grow! We've been cured of all our diseases! Big, little, old, young, fat, thin, were at Bainonian Saturday night to consult Dr. Cure-all, well-known physician of local fame, and to get some of his still better known pink pills. "Variety is the spice of life", so said a learned sage, and the patients were certainly variegated! Nervous, thin, halt, lame, came to get a pill or two,— and—whisper it softly, it is rumored that some members of the faculty also came and got a prescription.

The waiting audience was cleverly entertained by Miss Hazel Cleveland as pianiste and Miss Amelia Rendon, violinist. Then followed by a heated debate between Miss "Billie" McIver and Miss Ashton Clayton.

After a prolonged argument the judges decided that the Bainonian programs should not be entirely literary.

The entire program was composed of the talents of the first floor Baldwin girls. Come on Pearsons! It is your turn next! Watch out for the Bainonians they are doing things these days!

CEDAR TREES

The meeting last Sunday afternoon was led by the Junior class, with Miss Licia Johnson in charge. The subject being "Cedar Trees", a comparison was drawn between cedar trees and the Christian Life, and it was found that many lessons could be taken from this, one of the commonest of trees. The subject had been divided into subtopics and different members of the class took part.

Miss Helen Lewis spoke on the symmetrical growth and strength of the cedar tree.

The majesty and fragrance of cedar trees was given by Miss Mary Hayes. Miss Mildred Campbell told where cedar trees are found and their uses. The music which was especially good, consisted of a duet by Misses Winnie Newton and Helen Gamble, a piano solo by Miss Cerena Pope, and a vocal number by Miss Hattie Hayes.

Don't forget to get your tickets for the Adelphic Union Banquet before Tuesday night—the thirteenth. Everybody is urged to come! Readings and Music! Dandy Eats! Big Time!

ATHENIAN THE FOUNDER OF ANNUAL MID-WINTER

On the evening of May third, the Athenians enjoyed something out of the ordinary. It was a war program. Minarik lead off with an excellent exposition of the opening events of the European war and the Battle of the Marne. Harold Smith discussed the two battles of Ypres, giving accurate details of the battles and their significance in the progress of the war. Donald Buchanan, a very promising new member, gave a war reading. It was the poem, "Bay Billy" based on a story of an equine hero of the battle of Fredericksburg.

The Rev. James Jewell, an enthusiastic Athenian of the years just preceding 1910, favored us with a talk. Even this may be said to have been a war story, for he told about the old time "war" between the Athenians and Alphas. He described an oratorical and debating contest between the two prep sections, in which the Athenians captured all honors, celebrated with a big banquet, then took a hike to "Sheep Pen Cave" where other students had gone. They arrived there at 3 a. m. and, under cover of a heavy barrage fire of flanks, captured the cave. The speaker told also of one of the precedents established here on the Hill—, this one chargeable to the Athenian society. It was a special feature program for a "mid-winter". The first mid-winter was a "Southern Evening". Their next was the famous Wild-west performance—, the greatest sensation ever sprung by a literary society here. It was preceded by a street parade, and drew a crowd that taxed the capacity of the chapel.

On May 17 the Athenian program will be rendered out in the open, near the House in the Woods. All who wish to meet with the Athenians are cordially invited to do so.

B. L. GLASCOCK ADDRESSES Y. M. C. A.

Does it pay to stay away from "Y"? Indeed, it does not!

Mr. B. L. Glascock, superintendent of the Aluminum Company of America, addressed the Y. M. C. A. at the college chapel Sunday afternoon. Those who were present can conscientiously say that it was one of the best meetings of the year. They received something that will be helpful for the rest of their lives.

Mr. Glascock spoke on "Some Mile Stones to Success'. The steps as described are: birth, training, judgment, endurance, determination, love for others, a life of service filled with a love for God.

These Sunday afternoon meetings mean a great deal to the fellows. You cannot afford to miss the message that is meant for you. Come out then, and hear it.

COMING! MEETING OF THE ADELPHIC UNION

Everybody out!

Joint meeting in the chapel Saturday night, May 10. Come and hear the noted readers and musicians of the day, including the famous Maryville Glee Club.

Come out and enjoy one of the happiest surprises of the year.

Come one, come all, and show your spirit.

MRS. JARRETT SINGS

Mrs. Jarrett, of Knoxville, wife of Prof. Jarrett, the violin instructor, sang in chapel Saturday morning. The audience was delighted with Mrs. Jarrett's pleasing voice and charming manner and "invite her to come again."

MARYVILLE COLLEGE
1819-1918

REV. SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON, D. D., PRES.

I. ITS PAST. Founded in 1819 by the Synod of Tennessee, it now celebrates its Centennial, in continued service to the church and country. Thousands of its former students are scattered over the world.

II. ITS PRESENT. Its enrollment in 1918 was 748—347 young men and 401 young women—of whom 297 were collegians. 480 students from Tennessee, and 268 from 33 other states and countries. Its teaching force of 60 professors and assistants.

III. ITS PLANT. It has property of all kinds amounting to $1,100,000. Twelve buildings, including the new swimming pool; water works, sewerage, steam heat and electric lights. The campus contains 250 acres.

IV. ITS COLLEGE CURRICULUM. It offers nine groups of study leading to a B. A. degree: Classical, Modern Languages, Science, Mathematics, Education, English, Literature and History, Psychology and Philosophy, Social Science and General. Fifteen units are required for admission to the freshman class. A two-year premedical course is offered

V. ITS OTHER DEPARTMENTS. 1. Preparatory. 2. Bible Training. 3. Teachers. 4. Home Economics. 5. Agriculture. 6. Bookkeeping 7. Music. 8. Expression. 9. Art.

VI. ITS MORAL ATMOSPHERE. The College is strongly Christian, and the discipline is careful. The Students' spiritual welfare is the first concern. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are very efficient. The Bible is the required text book.

VII. ITS INEXPENSIVENESS. 1. Tuition is $6.00 a term. 2. Room rent for each student with two in the room, $18 to $35 a year. 3. Board in Cooperative Club of 500 is $2.25 per week. 4. Text books rented. General library free. 5. Opportunities for selfhelp afforded.

DR. STEVENSON RETURNS TO CONDUCT VESPER SERVICE

The text of the Vesper sermon was taken from Matt. 25:8, "And the foolish said unto the wise, Give us of your oil; for our lamps are gone out."

The college pastor mentioned that these words are the most dramatic ones in the most dramatic of the parables. After a vivid description of the story was given, the lesson of the parable was pointed out by explaining the symbolism of the lamps and the oil.

The use of oil in the Old Testament was an indication of divine tasks. For instance, the prophets were always set apart by the anointing with oil.

The New Testament enjoins Christians to let their lights shine. The flickering of the dyng flame is very symbolical. Notice that the going is very gradual, just as day very gradually merges into night. People seldom give up spiritual things all at once. It is only gradually that their attitude toward God changes. Some drop Bible reading and private prayer first, while others go through the form but do not have the spirit in their devotions. Their light slowly goes out and there is no oil to supply the vessel. The spirit of God, however, can replenish it if faith is exercised. A constant watch must be made for the beginning of the indication that the light is fading.

Dr. Stevenson concluded by showing that it was not due to any malicious purpose or wish that the lamps of the parable went out. It is the same way wth the spiritual life of individuals, which is usually extinguished through neglect.

The Vesper services have become one of the most attractive features of Maryville College. With a college pastor who knows how to appeal to the interests of the students and at the same time to direct them into a fuller and deeper spiritual life, and with a faithful choir that enriches the services by its music, these Sunday evening meetings are now an indispensable part of college life. Much of the impressiveness and beauty of the service is due to the Vesper choir. Too much credit cannot be given to those who have devoted themselves to this part of the service. The anthems, solos, and other special music given by the choir during the past year, have been of the best and have been greatly appreciated by the students.

STUDENTS ATTEND DELIGHTFUL CONCERT

Those students who attended the Maryville Library Benefit Concert which was given in the M. E. Church, South, Monday evening, count themselves highly favored in having been permitted to listen to such a pleasing and varied program.

Mrs. Godwin, vocalist, and Prof. Frank Nelson of Knoxville, Mr. F. J. Zeisburg, Supervisor of the Piano Department at Martha Washington College, and Mr. William H. Burkel, violinist also of Martha Washington, were the entertainers.

Mr. Zeisburg played among other selections a number of his own composition, including Reverie, Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind, and an Old Fashioned Polannaise.

Mrs. Godwin, who has a very pleasing contralto, voice, sang as her final number 'O Don Fatale from Verdi's opera "Don Carlos". Prof. Nelson accompanied this and the preceding solos.

The violinist, Mr. Burkel charmed the audience with Kreisler's "Caprice Vennoise", "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell, Bruch's "Concerto in G Minor", Meditation from 'Thais"—Massenet and a number of other selections.

All of the artists gave their talent gratis and those interested in Maryville's library project are deeply indebted to Mrs. Godwin, Mr. Zeisburg, Prof. Nelson and Mr. Burkel for their kind assistance in making that plan so much nearer definite realization.

After the recital, a reception was tendered the musicians and the members of the library executive committee at the home of Miss Belle Smith.

ALUMNI NOTES

1901.

Mr. J. E. Tracy, who has been practicing law in Wisconsin most of the time since his graduation, is now connected with the War Trade Board in Washington.

1906.

Mr. Chester F. French, a former student of Maryville with his wife Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas French, '06 and their two children, who are located in Albuquerque, New Mexico, are planning to make a trip east this season and hope to reach Maryville for the Centennial.

1907.

The Presbyterian church at Barton, Maryland, of which Rev. S. H. Jewell is pastor burned down last February and he and his congregation are now very busy erecting a new one. Mr. Jewell will be too busy to be present at the Centennial but his wife expects to be here at that time.

1914.

Rev. A. G. Hinkle, of Fort Gibson, Oklahoma, is another possible commencement visitor. Just now, however, he is considering a call from the church at Tahlequah, Oklahoma. If he accepts he will probably make the change about the first of June and so will be unable to reach Maryville.

1915.

Mr. Alfred D. Biggs is in Pikeville, Kentucky, assisting with the business management of the school at that place. He is a medical student in the University of Chicago, but is out of residence for a few months. He was in the Medical Enlisted Reserve Corps, but did not see actual service. Mr. Biggs is looking forward to meeing old frinds in Maryville at commencement time.

Mr. Ralph W. Lloyd now holds the position of President's Assistant to President Reherd of Westminister College in Utah. Mr. Lloyd is travelling in the east in the interests of the college and is making his headquarters at Du Bois, Pa. He was discharged from the army some time ago, but retains a commission in the Reserve Corps Field Artillery.

Mr. A. D. Bryson since severing his relations with the Air Service has been connected with the Purchasing Department of the Air Nitrates Corporation and is located at Muscle Shoals, Ala.

Mr. F. H. Scruggs, Business Manager of the Echo, last year, and now a member of the A.E.F. is attending Grenoble University, at Grenoble, France.

CARD OF THANKS

We are very deeply grateful to the members of the faculty and student body for the sympathy and service which they so freely and beautifully extended to us on the occasion of our Mother's death.

PERSONALS

Miss Theressa Newton has been visiting her sisters, Misse Ruth and Winston for several days.

Mr. Nathan S. White, of the Journal and Tribune staff, made a short visit on the Hill last week.

Miss Margaret Graham has been very happy during the past week to have as her guest, her brother from "over there."

Miss Mary Emma Armentrout spent the week-end at her home. Telegraph messages often work the charm.

Frank and Carl Hall came safely through their campaigning overseas and are enjoying some time at their home in Maryville before resuming again the duties of civilian life.

The Rev. T. J. Miles of Madisonville and daughter, Miss Mary of the Class of 1918, were the recent guests of Miss Emma Miles. Miss Mary Miles has just completed her first year's teaching experience.

"G" Cooper of the U.S.S. Mercury has returned safely from another journey overseas. Prior to resailing he is spending a few days in Chester, Pa., as the guest of John Witherspoon. Cooper, John Ollie and Bob Gamon recently had a "party" in Philadelphia.

Sgt. Hal McNutt is enjoying a course in Ag. at the University at Bearvne, France. He writes that former Prof. A. F. Southwick is an instructor in the School of Law of the university and that other Maryville men on the grounds are A. H. Webster, '18, and W. Riggs.

The Rev. W. C. Clemens, 1882 who is now situated at Tusculum was present in chapel Tuesday morning and gave an inspiring talk. Maryville students are always overjoyed to welcome chapel speakers and when the speaker is one of the alumni their joy is without bounds. Why? Who knows what interesting thing may not be told about what the faculty (some of them students, some without the experience that comes with years) did in former days. You never can tell.

SOCIAL EVENT

Miss Jessie Magill in her delightful way entertained at a tacky party last Saturday night. The time was very pleasantly spent in games and in admiring the various new costumes just out from Paris. These gowns were worn very becomingly by the Misses Nealie Avery, Emily Fowler, Emogene and Bessie Copeland, Francis Bush, Vivian Hall, Orma Montgomery, Maude Samsel, Elora and Callie Speck and Mabel Zimmerman.

During the night calls were made, the honored people being the Misses Caldwell, Darby, Lewis, and Jackson. The girls were not made very welcome by the last named as Miss Jackson was moonshining with a very promising sailor.

At the latest hour possible to Pearson girls the hostess assisted by Callie Speck, served punch and cake.

TIGERS KEEPING UP THEIR REP

The Tigers with Frazier pitching played Central High at Knoxville Tuesday, May 6 and brought back a 8-4 score. The Tigers are proving that they have the stuff and they will doubtless furnish some good material for the varsity next year.

Athletic Board of Control to Be Elected Next Monday Night

The Athletic Board of Control is elected by the student body. Every student is a member of the Athletic Association and should deem it his duty to help elect this Board. The meeting will be held in the chapel immediately after supper Monday evening. All the students are expected to come out and help elect an efficient Board. This means YOU. Don't forget the time and place—, Monday evening after supper, Voorhees chapel.

SENIORS CELEBRATE

Unable to face the thought of having a holiday without proper celebration the Seniors held an impromptu party in the gym Wednesday evening. The most ardent moonshiners among the reverend body (they are so well known that they need not be mentioned "couply") drifted into the gala place about nine-thirty. Drop- the- handkerchief, In and Out the Window and other games befittng the dignity of the Seniors were freely indulged in. Emma Jane Miles very selfishly took the prize in the foot race contest, while Thompson-Norgan demonstrated how to get to a place on time. Confidences and a general meeting of the various members of the faculty took up the remainder of the time allotted to entertainment, and ice cream and cake served as a satisfying close to the celebration.

RUSHING THE SCHEDULE!

The opening performance of the Grand-Opera Co. of the Redpath Chautauqua was given Saturday evening in Theta Hall. This company is said to be the best in the world, having with them Senorita Francesca Conatser and her world-famed orchestra. This orchestra is very widely traveled and has played before many courts of Europe, the greatest celebrities of the United States and the elite of Hawaii. Their repertoire ranges from the most classical to the popular airs of the day. This renown body of musicians is composed of the following: Lucile Middleton, Maude Powell, Orma Montgomery Garret, 1st. violin; Ruby Dawn Gadski, Emalene Warwick Swanwenska, 2nd violin; Sara L. Lloyd Blawhardski, 1st. cornet; Vance Hudgins Marion Oski, 2nd cornet; Marjorie Lloyd Madame Sousa, Baritone; Mary Ridgway Thumpenella, Drums; Alura Moore Rubenstien, pianist.

This company has also secured one of the greatest prima donnas of the present day, Vivian Hall Alma Gluck.

Still other features were two celebrated readers, Celeste Moseley Henrietta Clay and Ruth Quinn Nitawest.

The program given was:
Music by Orchestra
Reading—A Far Country
Solo—Nothing to do but Dream
Orchestra
Reading—Libby Ann
Orchestra

Enthusiastic applause followed each number and encores were cheerfully given. After the exit of the Grand Opera Company, ten pieces of inside information were let out by different members of the society.

THANK YOU

The students are very grateful to Ellis-Chandler Co., Inc. and Mitchell's for the score board that has been paced on the baseball field. With the new board which shows the marks to good advantage the students will be able to see all the better the score the Highlanders will pile up against U. T. when she comes over to play.

Mitchell's have also placed a number of comfortable benches in advantageous spots on the campus.

VOLUME FOUR — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1919. — NUMBER TWENTY-NINE

BLOUNT COUNTY PEOPLE SHOW THEIR APPRECIATION

TWENTY-TWO MARYVILLE MEN VISIT CHAPEL TUESDAY AND TELL OF THEIR PLAN TO COMPLETE CENTENNIAL FORWARD FUND. DR. WILSON WILL PROBABLY ARRIVE THURSDAY.

And still surprises continue to come. How can the students of Maryville be expected to be satisfied with the commonplace when interesting, exciting and vital things are taking place within their sight almost daily? Tuesday morning when the student body assembled in chapel their astonished gaze met that of twenty-two representative Maryville men who were holding the platform. Some had an inkling of what it all meant when "Jimmy" Jones, the promoter of the Carnegie Rebuilding Fund Campaign was spied in the midst of the crowd.

However, the curiosity of the most impatient ones was not fully satisfied until the devotional part of the service was over. Dr Graham conducted this and read the 103 Psalm—, "A good one" he remarked, "for a thanksgiving occasion".

Then "Jimmy" Jones arose and took away the breath of the interested listeners when he said that at a meeting of town business men the previous evening, the men had unanimously agreed to guarantee $36,000 for the Centennial Forward Fund and to send a telegram to Dr. Wilson telling him to come home at once. The walls of the old chapel resounded again and again with the terrific applause that followed this statement. "And", continued, Mr. Jones, "it is the purpose of the committee to double this subscription. We will go over the top. In fact, we don't know where the top is. We will just keep on going." East Tennessee is not a poor country. It is rich in untold wealth. Why then should Dr. Wilson waste his life away soliciting in the north when East Tennesseans are so able to help in the work of old Maryville? Manhood is worth more than money. The people of this section will give because they realize this and are appreciative of the great work Maryville College is doing for the men and women of the country.

Maryville, as a town owes much to the college, for had it not been for such an institution and her products, the great capitalists would not have been so eager to put their wealth here. The Aluminum Company of America realized the cultural influences of the college and its relation to her when the company gave $10,000 to the Carnegie Fund.

The residents of Blount County realized the debt they owed the college when they decided to campaign in its interest.

There is a big day coming soon. When Dr. Wilson enters Knoxville all the college and practically all of the town and county will be over there to meet him. The day will be known as Maryville College Day and the celebration will outrival anything of the kind that has ever taken place in the county.

An outburst of great enthusiasm followed "Jimmy Jones' ardent speech.

Mr. B. L. Glascock, superintendent of the Aluminum Company of America, said in the course of his enthusiastic speech: "We, fellows of the city don't know you students well enough. You don't know us well enough. We don't know Dr. Wilson well enough and you don't know Dr. Wilson well enough. We have taken it upon our shoulders to say that the Centennial Fund is over the top. Woodrow Wilson would not get a bigger reception here than Samuel Tyndale Wilson will get when he comes back."

Next Colonel Harper who "met with the faculty every time it met" while in college made a few remarks. The Colonel said that he was not much on making speeches but if he were out on the baseball field he could yell. The students appreciated this statement for Ed. Harper is one of the most ardent athletic supporters the college has.

Mr. J. L. Clark "expressed his sentiments" and said when he and some of the rest of the town men heard how much the students had given to the Centennial Fund it "made a lot of us old tight wads feel like wooden nickles." Mr. Clark concluded by paying a tribute to the "richest man in the county"—, the man who is richest in the things that count—Dr. S. T. Wilson.

The Mayor of Greater Maryville Mr. D. F. Young showed the spirit of the town when he said "we are going to do our best in this work."

The drive will be sure to go through with a zip with "Jimmy" Jones as permanent chairman and Mr. Ben Cunningham, secretary.

The working committee of business men who were appointed by the committee Monday night to raise the $36,000 is: "Doc" Mitchell, chairman, R. W. Wells, W. H. Willard, Jas. L. Clark, Mayor D F. Young, Ed. F Harper, John H Webb, M. H. Gamble, W. L. Webster, John M. Clark, Chas. D. Chandler, B. L. Glascock, Lowry McCully, J. S. Jones, W. P. Hood and J. A. Cox.

The faculty and the students are eagerly looking forward to the big day—Maryville College Day—when college and town people will gather to welcome Dr. Wilson, to celebrate the glorious victory, and to strengthen the ties of brotherhood that exist between Maryville College, Maryville, the city, and Blount County.

BATES PRIZE ORATORICAL CONTEST

The faculty committee on composition which was composed of Mrs. J. M. Alexander and Profs. Knapp, Ellis, Davis and Hunter, after reading the nine Bates orations submitted by members of the Senior class, selected the orations of the following six people for delivery in the final contest: Robert Adams, Luther Johnson, Luther McCurry, Cedric Miller, Maude Pardue and Marie Townsend.

INTERCOLLEGIATE TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Adams and Belt defeated the two Bittner brothers from Carson-Newman in tennis Saturday afternoon. M. C. won the first set 9-7, lost the second 7-5, and then easily took the third 6-3. A return game will be played on the Carson-Newman grounds this week.

HURRY!

Adelphic Union Banquet. The Only Event of its kind throughout the year. Of utmost advantage to one's training. A year at Maryville is incomplete if this banquet is missed.

"Eats?" The best ever—a real banquet.

Amusement? A companion (or plural), an orchestra (eight pieces of Maryville and Knoxville talent) and spicy toasts.

See Licia Johnson, Mary Louise Hayes (at Bookroom), Dewey Beck or Percy Buchanan for a place. Get your tickets before Saturday noon. Number who will attend must be known then.

A collection of curios and relics having interest in connection with the history of the College will be exhibited during commencement week. The loan of any bit of property in any way interesting for its connection with the past of Maryville College will greatly aid the collectors. Every precaution will be taken for the safe keeping of the articles on exhibit. Rev. John M. Alexander is in charge of the exhibit.

HIGHLANDERS CONTINUE THEIR SUCCESS ON THE DIAMOND

MILLIGAN IS DEFEATED IN TWO FAST, EXCITING GAMES; L. M. U. LOSES THURSDAY'S GAME. TEAM STANDS GOOD SHOW FOR SECURING EAST TENNESSEE CHAMPIONSHIP.

The M. C. Highlanders have come off victorious after matching themselves up for two games against a formidable opponent in the form of the Milligan nine. The Milliganites, under the leadership of the redoubtable "Bob" Taylor had just taken a game from Tennessee and expected to even up scores for the two, Maryville took from them last month. But they had reckoned without their host for they were unprepared for the brand of pitching met with the first day when big McLaughlin was in the box, nor were they any better prepared for that kind of fielding, met with the second day, which enabled Maryville to win after her opponents had obtained double the number of hits.

The first day's score was 1-0. This lone score came in the third frame. Flowe hit a slow grounder to second which Taylor fielded but failed to throw to first after his foot slipped causing him to fall. Weisbecker followed with a hit over second and was forced out at second on Lowry's grounds which advanced Flowe to third. Flowe then came in on Ruble's sacrifice. The only hit allowed by McLaughlin was a liner over third by Anderson in the ninth inning.

The second game, unlike the first, was a regular slugging match, Milligan making 14 hits and Maryville 7. This was by far the most exciting game on the home grounds. It went into three extra innings and during the first six the lead was taken by first one side and then the other. Milligan led off with three runs and Maryville came back with one. In the second, Milligan made one and Maryville three, while Maryville scored again in the fourth. At the end of the sixth, the score was tied with six runs for either side. Both teams were shut out until the twelfth when Milligan scored one in her half. The first man up for Maryville in the twelfth was Weisbecker who grounded to short and was caught on first. Lowery hit over second and then stole second. Ruble flied to short making two out and a man on second. After Davidson had missed two balls and fouled three more, most of the Maryville fans had about lost hope but he connected with the next one and lined out a three-bagger into left field and was brought in by Wagner's single.

Milligan's big twirler, Ford, was robbed of a home run in the seventh when Cortner made a spectacular one-handed catch near the right field foul line.

L.M.U. plays here Thursday and Friday, and U. T. is played in Knoxville Saturday. Contracts have been signed with U. T. for four games. They will play here Monday and again on June 3. Maryville plays over there again May 31. Maryville is now in the race for the East Tennessee Championship which will be taken, if L. M. U. is defeated in two games and U. T. in three.

Yea, the students are pining, too, for that day when Mr. Jones' dream shall come true and old College Hill will be a veritable pattern of artistic landscape gardening. Can not you picture the campus with modern driveways, impressive entrance ways (more than one), a well kept lawn, well-planned flower beds, more verdant hedges, beautiful shrubbery and the veteran cedars, the finest that grow? It is this picture of natural beauty that the people of Blount County are going to give Maryville College Faculty, alumni, students, and friends will appreciate this gift more than they would that of a priceless old masterpiece, for this picture unlike that which is put on canvas, will be ever changing and always on display for the delight of all.

:--:--:--:

Maryville College Day is swiftly approaching. In one great body the students and faculty of the college and the people of Blount County will go to Knoxville to welcome home our President, Dr. S. T. Wilson. We laud the returning soldiers and sailors as heroes and saviors and in no less degree will we hail the man who has given the best part of his life for the attainment of a greater Maryville. To him belongs the enviable joy that comes as a reward of work well done. To him belongs the everlasting gratitude of the students past and present, for whom he so valiantly toiled. To him belongs also the reverence of the future generations that will partake of the fruits of that endeavor. At home and abroad his name should be honored by the supporters of Christian education. At home his name is honored and his praises sung for as one of the townsmen aptly said, "We love him."

And for this reason and multitudinous others, we, the students, welcome our beloved President, Dr. Wilson, "home again".

REDRAFTED AND PERMANENT PLAN FOR THE ELECTION OF THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF AND BUSINESS MANAGER OF THE ECHO

1.—The editor-in-chief of the Highland Echo for the following year shall be elected during the first two weeks of the spring term.

2.—All the professors in the English department shall recommend to the Faculty members of the incoming Junior and Senior classes whom they consider capable of satisfactorily filling the position of editor-in-chief. Public notice shall be given at least one week before these lists are submitted so that any aspirants for the position may hand their names to some one of the professors in the English department for their consideration. These lists shall be submitted to the Faculty before the close of the winter term.

3.—The Faculty shall pass upon these lists not later than the last week of the winter term and shall place in nomination candidates for editor-in-chief The names of these candidates shall be posted for one week in order that the students may became familiar with them.

4.—The President of the Senior class shall call a meeting of all the college students in the chapel not less than one week after the names of the candidates are posted and shall give at least a week's notice of the time of this meeting. At this meeting the election of editor-in-chief shall take place. All college students shall be entitled to vote. The voting shall be by ballot, and a majority of the votes cast shall be necessary for an election. If no candidate receives a majority on the first ballot the name of the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes shall be dropped. If on the second ballot no one receives a majority of the votes then cast, the name of the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes on this ballot shall be dropped and this system shall be followed until some candidate is elected. The President of the Senior class shall preside at this meeting and the Secretaries of the four college classes shall act as tellers. It shall be the duty of the Secretaries of the Junior and Senior classes to act as a committee to prepare blank ballots of uniform size and color for use in the election, and the cost of these ballots shall be met from the funds of the Echo.

5.—In the choice of a business manager the following system shall be followed:—The Presidents of the four college classes shall select two representatives, one from the outgoing Senior class and one from the Junior class to meet with two representatives appointed by the Faculty to judge the merits of the material submitted and the recommendations offered by candidates for business manager, and to examine the candidates in any way they may desire. They shall then select a business manager for the following school year, subject to the approval of the Faculty. This committee shall be appointed not later than the last week of the winter term. The representative of the Senior class shall act as chairman and shall give public notice of the time when the business manager is to be selected at least one week before such selection, so that candidates may have opportunity to make formal application and to secure proper recommendations. As in the case of the election of editor, the business manager shall be chosen during the first two weeks of the spring term.

6.—In case of a vacancy occuring in either of these offices during the school year, the vacancy shall immediately be filled in accordance with the system above outlined.

Approved by Faculty,

April 14, 1919.

H. J. Bassett,
Secretary.

BIG TIMES ON COLLEGE HILL

Who said there was not any pep on College Hill? Two succesive shirt-tail parades would not indicate any lessening of morale. Even the citizens admit that they can't sleep for the noise!

The night following the first Milligan game, the boys gave their snake dance, and under the leadership of "Doc" Mitchell, saw the 'Birth of a Nation" by courtesy of the Palace management

Following the second game, the girls held a big celebration, in which the contents of Mitchell's Drug Store were heavily drained. As soon as they were safely returned, the fellows got together and held a bonfire in celebration of both victories, the games having been the most exciting for some time. Look out for the L.M.U. and U. T. victories. Everybody out!

Dean J. C. Barnes attended the meeting of the Tennessee Psychologial Association which was held in Nashville last week.

A. U. HAS LAST LITERARY PROGRAM

Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works, Scene From College Life by The Glee Club, Music and Reading Make an Enjoyable Evening's Entertainment.

'Tis sad but true that the last regular meeting of the Adelphic Union for the year has been and is no more. However, this last time everybody had the joy of anticipation—, such an unusual kind of anticipation for no one knew what the program was to be until Saturday evening.

Then came the meeting itself. The continuous applause and laughter, and the breathless silences, were certainly proofs of the pleasure the program gave the beholders.

Now there only remains the pleasure of remembering. Do you not still hear some illusive strain from those orchestra selections? If the tune is not from the first one it's from the last and if it isn't from the last it's from the first. Of course everyone will agree that there was never such an orchestra as Maryville's, anyway. Shall Mrs. Jarley's Waxworks ever be forgotten? Splendid acting, together with Mrs. Jarley's descriptions and witty remarks made the sketch altogether enjoyable.

Even though Miss Haddox has been heard on the Hill many times, the story she read Saturday evening was new and interesting, and, honestly now, wasn't it the best ever?

Whether it was the idea of several boys or several ideas in the head of one boy the Scene from College Life was a Maryville production and consequently "couldn't be beat". Why you really would have thought Purdy's girl had deserted him, and Weisbecker must have spoken from personal investigations when he said "There's lots of girls this year." Do you remember, too, those glee club songs? The audience actually didn't have to encore to get more than one short selection but were "favored" with several numbers. Now while you are remembering, can't you hear three violins playing very softly "Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight"? Yes, everyone slid down in their seats and listened just like you did and were sorry when the end came.

Aren't memories good? And just because you will want it for that memory book, here's the program.

REV. R. C. JONES SPEAKS ON SIAM

Rev. R. C. Jones of the class of '94, who is on a furlough from his mission work in Siam, was the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Jones and his wife are two of the six Maryville representatives in that far eastern field. They are located at Pitasmitake. The others are Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Post located at Petchaburi, and Rev. and Mrs. R. O. Franklin who are at Bangkok.

The missionaries have many kinds of work to do, chiefly evangelistic, medical, and educational. Of these, many missionaries have to do all three. Mr. Jones, himself, went over as an evangelist, but was given much teaching to do. At one time he and his wife had charge of a large hospital where they handled an average of 10,000 patients a year. The workers must be prepared for any emergency, as the tropical climate makes life very uncertain. The only physician at Pitsamitake died since the departure of Rev. and Mrs. Jones.

Much of the missionaries time in Siam is taken up with "touring work", the visiting of the outposts. Each year thousands of gospel tracts and portions of scripture are distributed in this way to the natives. The means of travel are by train, motorboat, and by walking. Since the people live along the river banks the motor boat is the most useful means of conveyance. The sudden floods however, make this mode of travel dangerous. At one time, Mr. Jones' party was caught in deep rapids when the steering gear was broken. They were hurled downstream against some rocks and only by the mercy of God were spared from drowning. At another time as Mr. Jones and his native helper were cycling across country, they were fired upon by men who had been mistreated by European lumber exploiters.

"With all the difficulties of the foreign field, and the obstacles that must be encountered, the missionaries are the happiest of people", said Mr. Jones. "It gives one a great joy and thrill to represent Him among so many who know not the love of God. No missionary ever regrets his course. The joy of service for Christ fully repays. He is calling us and we must let His will be done in our lives."

AN APPROPRIATE MOTHER'S DAY SERVICE

In the absence of the College Pastor, the preliminary part of the Vesper service was conducted by Prof. Bassett. The sermon was preached by Rev. E. W. Hall, who is best known to the faculty and students as Professor Hall.

Last Sunday being Mother's Day, the speaker choose the observance of this special day as his theme. The text was taken from John 2:5, "His mother saith unto the servants, whatsoever he saith unto you, do it", and from a part of John 19:25, "Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother."

The speaker pointed out, that these passages give some characteristics of the mother of Jesus. She believed implicitly in her Son. This should be true of every mother and should be a great inspiration for the child. Faith is one of the traits of motherhood, and hence womanhood. The mothers are playing an important part in the world. The reason for the patriotism and courage on the battlefield was the belief and trust that the soldiers had in their mothers.

The text also implies that the mother of Jesus trusted in God. The highest in life must be found in Jesus Christ. Where Christ goes, women can go with perfect freedom.

Certain implied lessons for sons can be found in the text. The first one is, that the confidence of a mother should not be misplaced. Boys must measure up to their mother's hones, ideals and desires.

The courage and devotion of the mother should be rewarded by seeing her sons and daughters exercise the same virtues.

Finally, every child should make the pledge that he will be a man, or that she will be a woman above reproach.

THE IMPORTANCE OF MAN

The prayer meeting of last week was led by Prof. Davis.

He said that the greatest work of God is man. The works of nature are the thoughts of God and man uses the powers that God gives him to seek out the treasures of the Almighty. The study of mankind is man. Man must know the problems of men before acquiring control over God's treasures.

Every man is favored by God, but he may do foolish and wicked things if he desires. Man must leave his foot-prints on the sands of time. If he chooses, he can be a blank or neutral character. The lives of men who made history should be studied in biography, fiction, and histories.

The power of the ideal is a most important consideration. The ideal must triumph over all else. Stephen, Saul of Tarsus, and others were controlled by an ideal. An ideal of religious devotion held the Pilgrims and Puritans together. John Patton had an ideal of love for his fellowmen and trust in God, and was wonderfully blessed in his work. One should watch to see what ideal controls the heart in order to know in which direction it is leading him.

GET BUSY!

Which organization on the Hill is going to have the most attractive float in the big p'rade that is coming—, perhaps Thursday? Let's make the p'rade a worth-while one.

THE SENIORS ARE ENTERTAINED AT THE GLASCOCK HOME

All good things come in due time, including parties galore in the Senior year. The Seniors enjoyed another of these very delightful events Tuesday evening where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Glascock at their charming home on Main street. Music, games, and contests, figuring a 1930 Highland Echo, were among the attractions of the evening. The marvelous visionary power of various members of the Centennial Class was displayed in the composition of the Echo. If the May 13, 1930 number can be relied upon many of the 19'ers will achieved singular and enviable fame while the college will establish a secure nation-wide reputation.

A delicious salad course was served by Miss Nina Belle Caldwell, cousin of Mrs. Glascock, and Miss Irma Schwab. Mrs. Brown of Brooklyn, mother of Miss Helen Brown was the guest of honor.

The Class of 1919 is very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Glascock for their kind hospitality. The party of Tuesday evening will always be remembered as one of the happiest events of the Senior year.

Eckles West has left college and gone to Akron, Ohio where he will resume his former position.

Palace Theatre
Program for following week

THURSDAY

MILDRED HARRIS (Mrs. Charlie Chaplin) in "DOCTOR AND THE WOMAN". A special "Weber' attraction with a pleasing star. A Mack-Sennett Comedy, "Hide and Seek". Plenty of fun.

FRIDAY

Fox presents the "LOVE AUCTION" with Virginia Pearson, a beautiful story with a beautiful star. Harold Lloyd comedy.

SATURDAY

"RAIDERS"; "SILENT MYSTERY", International News, Fox comedy and Tom Mix in a good two reel western. The biggest show this week.

MONDAY

Little Mary Pickford in "THE EAGLE'S MATE", the first six-reel feature Little Mary ever played in and she has never beat it yet. A big V comedy, plenty of fun. "MAN OF MIGHT" No. 7 with William Duncan.

TUESDAY

Jane and Katherine Lee in "SMILES"; a Fox special attraction and very pleasing characters. Also a Baseball comedy and Kinogram No. 26, and a two reel western with Pete Morrison.

WEDNESDAY

DOROTHY PHILLIPS (The star of Heart of Humanity) in a "Mortgaged Wife". Miss Phillips has certainly done good work ever since she appeared in the Hearts of Humanity, and she is at her best in this play. Also "Red Glove" with Marie Walcamp and a Universal Comedy.

THURSDAY

We will have "WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH HIM"—the Kaiser. The question that is now taking more attention and causing more disputes the question that Versallies is boiling over with. A wonderful presentation of what should be done with "him" Also a Paramout Comedy "Fiendish Flagan".

PERSONALS

Miss Elizabeth Gouffon spent the week-end in Knoxville.

Miss Janet Ensign spent Monday in Knoxville.

Miss Catherine Wilson entertained her brother, T. D. Wilson, Saturday.

Mrs. Wright is visiting her daughters, Misses Nancy and Emily.

Miss Ruth Schenk entertained her uncle, Mr. John Schenk for the week-end.

The two society halls in Pearsons' are being renovated and consequently greatly improved.

Miss Nina Parks entertained her brother, "Red" Parks for several days last week.

Mr. Pearson Ramsey of Marshall, N. C., visited Miss Ethyl Proffitt during the week-end.

Misses Ruth and Winston Newton have just returned from a several days' visit at their home in Harriman.

Miss Helen Brown is very happy to have as her guest her mother, who will be a campus visitor until after commencement.

Dr. S. T. Wilson is in St. Louis attending the meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church. It is expected that he will return to Maryville next week.

A very remarkable rummage sale took place in the room of Misses Celeste Moseley and Licia Johnson Monday afternoon. Quite a lot of trading took place.

Gordon McKoy of North Carolina, a well-known student of former days, has been visitng friends in Maryville. Mr. McKoy was one of Uncle Sam's gallant warriors and saw active service in France.

"Chief" Pritchett, '16 of Thomasville, Ala., who saw service in the navy chasing "Sea Diving Devils" during the last year of the war, visited the college the first of the week.

ATHLETIC BOARD OF CONTROL FOR 1919-1920

At a meeting of the Athletic Association Monday evening the following officers were elected for next year:

President - - - Harry Wagner
Vice President - - - Jarvis Cotton
Secretary - - - - Rachel Sells
Treasurer - - - - F. L. Proffitt
Faculty Representatives - - Professors Knapp and Brittain
Town Representatives - "Doc" Mitchell and Ed. Harper
Women Representatives - Katherine Ridgeway and Blanche Bailey
Men Representatives - Frank McLaughlin and Lake F. Russell

The above will constitute the Athletic Board of Control for next year.

It was decided to give an Old English track M to those taking part in intercollegiate tennis and to give no more M's to the winners of cross-country races. Hereafter managers shall be given a gothic M of the sport for which they act as manager.

At a meeting of the Athletic Board of Control last week Lamar Wilson was elected Athletic Editor for the Echo for next year.

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting on Sunday was led by Miss Mary Bigelow, who had as her subject, "The Sabbath Day"—the sign of God's covenant with his people. The scripture lesson was read by five girls. The open part of the service was especially good. Many took part, giving good thoughts and helpful suggestions. The special music consisted of a duet by Misses Myrtle Rendon and Vivian Hall, accompanied by Miss Mary Perry and Miss Amelia Rendon violinists.

"All the girls like me."—Sheeny Briggs.

SUGGESTION TO THE MANAGER OF THE BOARDING CLUB

See the lower left hand corner of page 62 in the current number of the Physical Culture Magazine, Article: How to feed nineteen students on one bean.

Miss Rutherford in English class: "Johnson was so peculiar that people thought he was great because they did not know what else to think."

ONE ON BEARD

As Barker and Beard were coming from town they noticed a brood of chickens. Barker remarked: They look like bantams, don't they?"

Beard: "Huh, you can't tell—, they may be roosters."

IS IT SO?

Some of the members of English 6 have requested that Mrs. Alexander call for Miss Humphries' report last because when she finishes there is nothing left for the others to report on.

Wanted to know if E. K. Reagan has been revived yet?

Take heart, E. K.! Wisie said, you know, that there were plenty of girls on the Hill this year. "Variety is the spice of life" anyway.

Prof. Hunter gave the English class some work to define. A certain young man handed in these items and they were accepted:

Cemetery—"The one place where princes and paupers, porters and presidents are finally on the dead level."

Jury—"Twelve men chosen to decide who is the better lawyer."

Lie—"A poor substitute for the truth, but the only one discovered up-to-date."

Moon—"The only lighting monoply that never made money."

Question—"Is marriage a failure?"

HEARD ON THE CAMPUS

"I do wish something would happen—, something different from anything that has happened this term."

"Well, I guess your wish is granted. All the girls are going out to Mrs. Bassett's for Y. W. meeting next Sunday."

"To Mrs. Bassett's? Well, did you ever. That will be fine. Where is it to be?"

"On the lawn under the trees. We are going to take pillows to sit on and just have the finest kind of a time."

"What is the subject?"

"The Sacred Symbolism of Watch."

"Well how unusual. I believe that will be the most interesting thing I've heard this year. What time is it to be?"

"Sunday afternoon at 1:30".

"Let's be sure to go. I wouldn't miss it for anything."

VOLUME FOUR — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1919. — NUMBER THIRTY

THE TOWN AND COLLEGE COOPERATE IN WELCOMING DR. WILSON HOME

MAMMOTH P'RADE COVERING MILES GOES TO KNOXVILLE TO BRING BACK THE RETURNING PRESIDENT. EVERY DEPARTMENT AND ORGANIZATION OF THE COLLEGE WAS REPRESENTED BY FLOAT OR EMBLEM.

A Students' Samuel Tyndale Wilson Victory Fund of $3,100, a Blount County subscription of $35,000 over the top, a welcome and victory parade through the streets of Knoxville, to greet Dr. Wilson, all these are red letter events in the closing days of Maryville's Centennial year.

Maryville College and Maryville, Tennessee have been alloted a new and larger space on the map. The friends of the college do not all live north of the Mason and Dixie line. New opportunities and new responsibilities of a happy and commanding nature face the old college in the opening of its second century. Maryville's parade last Thursday was but an outward expression of this progress.

Mayor David F. Young was in charge of the parade, with "Doc" Mitchell as chief marshal. "Turkey" Smith, of former M.C. football fame, was general chairman of transportation. The college marshal was Prof. Brittain who had as his assistants, Bob Adams, Homer Weisbecker, Andy Norgan, and Luther Johnson. The efficiency and promptness of these men was demonstrated by the arrival of the parade on Gay street on scheduled time. As the train entered Knoxville it was met by Chief of Police Ed. M. Haynes and Capt. J. B. Walker with other officials, who led the procession through the streets of the city. Not a single accident was incurred, except a few punctures and a chopped-off telephone pole.

About three hundred cars formed the line. The band went first followed by the faculty and committee of business men. Then came the Seniors robbed in somber dignity. Trucks of rooters, the Y.M. and Y. W., the literary societies, clubs, and college departments followed. Many beautiful floats represented these organizations, and banners telling of Maryville's activities were borne by these cars. The Y.W.C.A. and girls' literary society floats were the most attractive, though the western girls' car should most certainly not be omitted.

All along the road to Knoxville people were waiting the great "Maryville Throng". Two bands which were drowned out by the lusty cheering from hundreds of throats brought all Gay street business men to the sidewalk.

Dr and Mr. S. T. Wilson were at the Farragut Hotel where they witnessed the parade, and after the return from north Knoxville they became occupants of the car of honor which lead the p'rade.

Almost before the p'raders realized that they had gone thirty-two miles, they were back on College Hill. Dust had played well its part in camaflouging, but did not prevent Dr. Wilson from recognizing the majority of the p'raders as the same crowd of students whom he left three months before. After the procession reached the President's residence the p'rade broke up and the people gathered on the lawn to listen to Dr. Wilson's address. In keeping with his modest nature Dr. Wilson said that the parade should have been in the honor of Maryville students and Blount County, not in his honor. He remarked that he had felt very much embarassed when he found that he was to be accorded such a reception.

When Dr. Wilson went north this term he had decided that it would be necessary to raise $10,000 a week but ill health prevented him from carrying out all his plans and the future seemed very dark. He and Prof. Gillingham had worked hard and long for Old Maryville, and when the news came of Blount County' gift, their hearts were relieved, and they came home ready to rejoice at the great victory. The fund has been over-subscribed, and a big sum of annuities secured which will soon become added endowment. About $125,000 of the Centennial Fund has been raised in Tennessee. Union Presbytery pledged $25,000 and the Aluminum Company gave an additional $10,000.

"I would be willing to go through fire and water for these men who have so magnificiently supported the college and helped it onward to a greater era of usefulness", declared Dr. Wilson.

Maryville students congratulate themselves on again having their beloved president with them. No Centennial Fund could ever mean so much to them as Dr. Wilson, the man who has made possible the larger development of the college.

A new feature of this year's commencement program will be the Bates Prize Oratorical Contest which will be held Friday evening, May 30. The fund for the prize which is to be awarded the winner of this contest has been in the hands of the college authorities for several years, but previous Senior classes did not start the contest. This year, the Centennial year, the contest has been established. Will you not show your interest and lend your support to this new innovation by being present in the chapel Friday evening to encourage and inspire the contestants?

PREPARE FOR THE LAST BIG GAME

Maryville Will Meet and Must Beat U. T. June 3. Game is Called for 3:30 p. m. Will Be Witnessed by More Than A Thousand Spectators.

Many big things will happen on the Hill within the next week—, the biggest of which will be Maryville College's first Centennial Celebration. However, by no means the least important of the great happenings will be the last baseball game of the season on June 3, at 2:30 p. m. This game will be played wih one of Maryville's oldest rivals, namely, the University of Tennessee. The rivalry between the two schools has always been very intense in athletics, but never has it become so hot as it is at the present time. Both teams will go upon the field with the firm determinaton of fighting to the last ditch and of never giving up until the last man is out in the ninth inning.

The University team feels confident that with both Mager and Calloway covering their respective positions they can easily repeat the performance of May 19. But we, on the other hand are equally confident that, with one of the best teams that ever went under the appelation of Highlanders, the scores will not merely be evened but the opposing team will be given such a thorough trimming that they will not forget it for years to come.

The interesting feature of this approaching contest lies in the fact that it will come during Commencement Week. Commencement games are the rule in some schools rather than the exception, but this will be an innovation for Maryville. It is expected that not less than two thousand people, including numerous M. C. baseball fans of other days will be interested spectators at the U. T.—Maryville game scheduled for June 3.

SOCIAL EVENTS OF HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

The members of the Home Economics Department who will be awarded diplomas this year are: Jessie Hastic Brown, Margaret Fisher, Anna Mae Sharp, Lela Agnes Ware and Margaret Alexander.

Tuesday, June 3 at twelve o'clock noon the Department of Home Economics will give a graduation luncheon in honor of the Senior Home Economics Class.

At 4:00 p. m. of the same day, a reception will be tendered the faculty, students and guests of the college by the Senior Ec. Class.

FIRST ADELPHIC UNION BANQUET SINCE 1915-1916 HELD MAY 23

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY PLATES SOLD. DR. W. P. STEVENSON, TOASTMASTER OF THE EVENING. TOASTS GIVEN BY REPRESENTATIVES OF THE FOUR SOCIETIES, THE SENIOR AND JUNIOR CLASSES, AND PROF. E. R. HUNTER.

One of the biggest social events of the year occurred Friday evening, May 23 when members of the four college societies and interested friends met in Pearsons dining hall where they enjoyed the first Adelphic Union Banquet that has been given since 1915-1916.

The hall was transformed for the occasion into a veritable honey suckle bower, the green color note being accentuated while the bowls of red rambler roses and the red candles which decorated the long tables made the color scheme of red and green charmingly complete.

The color idea was also well carried out in the menu which was as follows:

Cocktail aux fruits
Poulet Presse
Pommes de terre au gratin
Petits pois en timbale
Croissants beurres
Hors d'oeurres Radis
Salad de la laitue au tomate
Biscuits
Creme glacee bisque
Gateau
Cafe
Bonbons

The president of the Adelphic Union, Mr. George Callahan introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Dr. W. P. Stevenson, the college pastor, whose excellencies and worth are now well known over East Tennessee by reason of the several bacculaureate sermons and commencement addresses he has made this spring. With a toastmaster so experienced and so equal to the occasion, it is not to be marvelled at that the literary part of the evening passed as smoothly and delightfully as the more distinctly refreshing part of the affair had previously done. When Miss Maude Pardue had toasted the Thetas and Miss Corin Humphries had aptly responded with good wishes for the further success of Bainonian, and Cedric Miller had spoken of the merits of the Athenians and Forrest Brown had responded with a toast to the Alpha Sigs, it seemed to the listeners, as Dr. Stevenson remarked, that the millenium must be at hand. Miss Jessie Creswell, president of the Junior class, gave a toast to the Seniors of Today while Miss Marie Townsend, president of the Senior class, gave some kindly advice to the Seniors of Tomorrow. Alma Mater was toasted by Prof. E. R. Hunter. The closing toast was a clever Goodnight one which was given by Miss Licia Johnson.

Music was furnished throughout the evening's entertainment by the town orchestra.

The affair which broke up at the witching hour is considered to have been the most successful event of its kind ever given on College Hill.

Much unstinted praise is due the officers of the Adelphic Union and the committee chairmen, Mr Jason Purdy entertainment, Miss Marguerite Sullinger, refreshment, and Miss Winifred Decker, decoration, for their untiring efforts to make the banquet the success it was.

BALDWIN GIRLS ENTERTAIN SENIORS

A Lawn Fete Was Held on Baldwin Green With Music, Games and Delightful Eats

As the day faded and lights were turned on, gay figures moved to and fro on Baldwin Lawn, Saturday evening, May 17. Under the somber cedars which held the dazzling lights, the Baldwin Hall orchestra played softly until the Seniors appeared and were greeted by Miss Jackson and her great famil, of merry girls.

When all were seated, the music ceased, and games, snappy and full of merriment, were played in quick succession so that the bewildered Seniors did not know what to expect next.

Unique refreshments carrying out the color scheme of the Senior class, garnet and white, delighted all present while Willodine McIver portrayed the future of the Senior girls. Laura Stevens and Helen Tedford delightfully played their part as hostesses, and Myrtle Rendon sang Spanish melodies with guitar accompaniment.

The town clock seemed to sound the hours very rapidly and the Seniors reluctantly bade good-night to their delightful companions and revelries.

The 1919-1920 Highland Echo will be edited by Mr. Stacey Howell '20 who was elected by a majority vote at the mass meeting of college students which was held in Voorhees Chapel last Saturday evening. Mr. George Callahan, '20 has been selected by the faculty and student committee as Business Manager for the ensuing school year The best wishes of the present staff are extended to the incoming staff. May the Echo continue to keep pace with the rapid progress of old Maryville!

:-:-:-:-:

Maryville College is fast coming into her own. It is the hope of those intensely interested in her career that she will soon be ranked as one of the best first-class educational institutions of the country. With this larger growth and development the need of the student body for expression in literary lines will be felt. Is it not time to revive the college monthly, to make it a truly literary magazine, representative of the best literary talent of M. C. alumni and present student body? The Highland Echo is, as it claims to be, a newspaper of the weekly college happenings. It does not pretend to climb to the top of the literary ladder. The student body is able to support two college publications. A monthly magazine is needed. What will you do about it?

PRESIDENT OF U. T. Y. M. C. A. SPEAKS

Mr. R. R. Paty, president of the University of Tennessee Y.M.C.A. spoke to the boys, May 18. Mr. Paty is a Student Volunteer, so spoke on the new call of the mission field. He urged the necessity of launching out for the new service, leaving behind selfish ambitions and overcrowded fields. The vastness of the appeal, of the opportunity, and of the field speaks to everyone who is not called to stay at home. More of us need the faith to obey the injunction of God.

A closer relationship of the college Y. M. C. A.'s seems probable in the near future. Maryville is glad to be among the first to welcome the president from her rival institution.

GET READY FOR THE BLUE RIDGE TRIP

Southern Students' Conference Will Meet in The "Land of The Sky" June 13-22. Prominent Leaders of The Country Will Address The Delegates.

Fellows, if you want a vacation of two weeks that really counts—then attend the Southern Students' Conference at Blue Ridge, June 13 to 22.

Besides enjoying a vacation, you will receve a mental and spiritual uplift that you can not estimate in money. If you expect to do active Chrstian work next year or later, you cannot afford to miss this opportunity. This conference held in the "land of the sky" will prepare you for a greater service to your school and to your fellow men

The Y.M.C.A. will pay half of your expenses, or about $15.00. At least six fellows should go. Other colleges will be well represented—why not Maryville? Georgia Tech is sending a delegation of forty.

Below is a list of the speakers who are going to be at Blue Ridge to speak to YOU. Can you afford not to go? Face the question fairly, and see the secretary at once for accomodations.

Robert E. Spear, Dr. W.W. Alexander, Dr. O. E. Brown, Dr. Edward Mims, E. L. Wolslagel, Mr. G. C. Hounshell, and a dozen others will be there.

Consider that each of these men has a personal engagement with you at Blue Ridge from June 13-22, and do not disappoint any of them.

After the conference, you will be much better prepared for the summer's work, and certainly better prepared to take part in student activities next fall.

Act at once!

STILL THE CRY BOLSHEVIK IS HEARD

Who said that there were not any Bolshevik on College Hill? No matter who said it, he can not prove it to Mr. Robert W. Adams, the attorney for the state, in an effort to convict "Sheeny" Briggs of being allied with the Bolshevik forces in Russia. Although the jury handed in a decision of not guilty at the trial held in the Alpha Sigma Hall Saturday night, May 17, it does not prove anything to the people of the Hogwollow community, for it is the common opinion among them that they were all Bolshevik as well as Mr. Briggs. However, the defense, for which Mr. Joel Georges was the attorney, made some very forceful arguments and may be"Sheeny" is not so bad after all.

Here are some of the things proved against him: That he has very often been seen carrying bomb-like objects in Carnegie Hall; that he receives many packages from Indiana, which, though they look harmless, contain explosives; that he led rebellions against the Dean of Women and the Proctor of Carnegie Hall.

However, the defense argued that the bomb-like objects were harmless, and that the defendant was a perfectly harmless fellow.

At the meeting on May 24, the following officers were elected:

Isaac Husky - - - - President
Lake Russell - - - Vice President
George Callahan - Cor. Secretary
Dewey Beck - Recording Secretary

The treasurer is to be selected by the junior section.

MISS BEWLEY ENJOYS WORK ABROAD

Miss Irene Bewley is having many delightful experiences with the "Y" entertainment bureau in France and Germany. She is the only reader in a coterie of finished artists, including a noted Philadelphia grand opera singer, and a skilled French violinist, who are everyday putting on high class entertainments for the boys who are still over there. This special unit was requested to give the first "Y" entertainment at the celebrated American Officers' Club in Paris. They have entertained in shell-torn cellars, railroad stations, and at the home of General Dickson, commanding officer of the Army of Occupation on the Rhine at an affair given in the honor of General Pershing.

Miss Bewley relates among other interesting incidents how one day as she was sitting by the Rhine a little ten year old German chap sat down beside her on a rustic bank and commenced to whistle "Katy". She began to sing the words of the song and he chimed in and sang the entire stanza, although when later she questioned him he was neither able to understand nor speak sufficient English to answer her.

MARYVILLE COLLEGE
1819-1918

REV. SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON, D. D., PRES.

I. ITS PAST. Founded in 1819 by the Synod of Tennessee, it now celebrates its Centennial, in continued service to the church and country. Thousands of its former students are scattered over the world.

II. ITS PRESENT. Its enrollment in 1918 was 748—347 young men and 401 young women—of whom 297 were collegians. 480 students from Tennessee, and 268 from 33 other states and countries. Its teaching force of 60 professors and assistants.

III. ITS PLANT. It has property of all kinds amounting to $1,100,000. Twelve buildings, including the new swimming pool; water works, sewerage, steam heat and electric lights. The campus contains 250 acres.

IV. ITS COLLEGE CURRICULUM. It offers nine groups of study leading to a B. A. degree: Classical, Modern Languages, Science, Mathematics, Education, English, Literature and History, Psychology and Philosophy, Social Science and General. Fifteen units are required for admission to the freshman class. A two-year premedical course is offered

V. ITS OTHER DEPARTMENTS. 1. Preparatory. 2. Bible Training. 3. Teachers. 4. Home Economics. 5. Agriculture. 6. Bookkeeping 7. Music. 8. Expression. 9. Art.

VI. ITS MORAL ATMOSPHERE. The College is strongly Christian, and the discipline is careful. The Students' spiritual welfare is the first concern. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are very efficient. The Bible is the required text book.

VII. ITS INEXPENSIVENESS. 1. Tuition is $6.00 a term. 2. Room rent for each student with two in the room, $18 to $35 a year. 3. Board in Cooperative Club of 500 is $2.25 per week. 4. Text books rented. General library free. 5. Opportunities for selfhelp afforded.

NEW AND OLD "Y" CABINETS FEAST

Saturday night, the old and new Y.M.C.A. Cabinets met for a joint and farewell conference. The program of this year was reviewed, and the successful features were noted and referred to the new administration for future use.

An abundance of egg sandwiches, lemonade, strawberry short cake, and chocolate helped fill in the evening.

The Y. M. C. A. program for 1919-20 is full of vigor and interest. The wheel is out of the rut now, and a new era of service for the College Y.M.C.A.'s means more and better service for the Maryville College Y.M.C.A.

Sunday afternoon, the new officers took their oath of office. Harry Wagner, the president, briefly sketched the hopes of the new cabinet for 1919-1920. Above all, he stressed the need of a close companionship with Christ in whom all things are possible.

ATHENIANS HAVE A BIG YEAR

The final meeting of the Athenian Society last Saturday evening rounded out a very good year's work. More new members have been received than in any other recent year. And, altogther, the college Centennial year and the fifty-first year of the Athenian society has been a year of preparation for big things in the larger college life of the future.

The two sections of the society have reorganized, each with a strong corps of officers for next year. Those of the college section are:

President, Frank Minarik; Vice President, Chester A. Moore; Treasurer, Floyd R. Watt; Editor, James Martin; Program Secretary, Forrest D. Brown; Recording Secretary, Percy Buchanan; Critics, T. B. Vance and J. L. Ensign; Janitor, Moss Farmer.

JUNIOR ATHENIANS ARE READY

At the last meeting of the Athenian Literary Society, the Juniors elected their officers for 1919-20. The Seniors took part in the election. The following men were elected: President, H. Moore; Vice President, B. Jody; Presiding Secretary, D. King; Editor, D. Friedman; Recording Secretary, D. Buchanan; Treasurer, F. Corry; Critics, G. Holmes and C. Neace; Janitor, C. H. Yang. With officers elected and everything in good shape, the Junior Athenians expect to put on a big program for the coming year.

SENIOR Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. service Sunday afternoon was in charge of the Senior class. The president of the class, Miss Townsend presided. The subject a very appropriate and interesting one was, "The College Girl". This subject had been divided and different members of the class presented these sub-topics:

"The College Girl's Temptations" Miss Moseley. Miss Brown told of "The College Girl's Idols". "The Intemperance of the College Girl" was amply explained by Miss Bailey. Miss Ritchie spoke of "The College Girl's Ideals".

The special music which added much to the enjoyment of the program consisted of a solo by Miss Burchfiel; Senior quartet, Misses Burchfiel, Bailey, Miles, Sheddan, and a piano solo by Miss Miles.

COLONEL SPENCE CHAPEL SPEAKER

Colonel Harry Spence, commandant of the 117th Infantry of Hindenburg fame, spoke in chapel recently. He told the story of the 117th and of its heroic men. Most of the officers and men came back with wound stripes, and thirty-three of them were decorated. One batallion lost fifty per cent of her men in a single engagement. These men were "Tennessee's own" and Col. Spence had nothing but the highest praise for the valor of her fighting men.

EAST TENN. STUDENT VOLUNTEER UNION OFFICERS VISIT COLLEGE

Miss Dorothy Dailey and Mr. R. R Paty of U. T., Mr. Tom Maston of Carson-Newman, and Mr. Watts of the Johnson Bible School, officers of the East Tennessee Student Volunteer Union met on the Hill recently, at the request of the president, Miss Mildred Hoffman, to discuss plans for next year's conference which will be held at Maryville.

An informal reception was given Miss Dailey and Mr. Paty in Pearsons parlor Saturday evening.

Sunday afternoon Mr. Paty addressed the Y.M.C.A. in the interest of the Blue Ridge Conference, and talked of the plans for next year's Student Volunteer Conference. Miss Dailey also addressed the girls of the Y.W.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The following data tells the tale of the Tennis Tournament which was held at Jefferson City, May 16. Doubles: Robert Belt, Ensign, M. C.; J. B. Bittinger, W. P. Bittinger, Carson-Newman. C. N. C. won in four sets. 6-2, 1-6, 6-1, 8-6.

Singles: Robert Adams, J. B. Brown. C. N. C. won in five sets. 2-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.

OUTDOOR SERVICE

All who missed Y.W.C.A. Sunday, May 18, missed a rare treat. In the beauty of God's out-of-doors the Y. W. C. A. girls gathered, to hear Mrs. Bassett, a woman close to God, tell of "The Sacred Symbolism of Water". Scripture lessons treating different phrases of the subject were read and discussed by twenty-five or more of the girls. The special music consisted of solos by the Misses Winton Newton, Maude Hite, and Mary Heard.

Dean Barnes, calling roll: "Mr. Brient, Mr. Brient!"

"Mr Brient, are you not present?"

NEW AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION OF ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The following amendments were made to the constitution of the Athletic Association at a call meeting held Tuesday evening:

1. The wearing of the track M shall be restricted to the point winner in inter-collegiate track meets.

2. An old English M shall be given to intercollegiate tennis players who play in one half of the scheduled games.

Tentative amendments which will be voted on again in the fall.

The manager of the various ous athletic teams shall be given an M and bar.

4. Winners of M's shall be allowed to wear one bar for each letter won.

ALUMNI NOTES

1903.

Rev. E. Lysander Grau, of Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, and his little daughter were visitors on the Hill week before last. Mr. Grau and his family, consisting of his wife and three little girls have been spending their vacation with relatives near Knoxville. This was his first visit to Maryville since his graduation sixteen years ago.

1913.

The followng item from a recent issue of one of the missionary magazines will be of interest to many Maryville alumni. Prof. Seel was in charge of the German department for several years and Mrs. Seel was formerly Miss Mirian. Rood, '15.

"Over a thousand dollars in gold represents the value of articles of which Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Seel, of Taltal, Chile, were robbed and which there seems no hope of recovery. Clothing, such as winter suits, overcoats, etc, kodak and field glasses, outfit supplies and wedding presents of silver—all had vanished when the owners returned to the home which they had carefully locked before leaving."

PERSONALS

Miss Edith Davis has been so ill as to require the services of a trained nurse. Her condition, is steadily improving and it is hoped that she will have recovered by commencement.

Miss Carrie Sheddan recently had as her guest her brother Captain W. E. Sheddan who has lately returned from France. She is now entertaining her sister, Miss McLin Sheddan '11 who will remain on the Hill for the commencement festivities.

Lieuts. "Hijo" Wilson and Earl Martin have been discharged from the army and are visiting at their homes in Maryville.

Miss Cora Hopkins, a recent alumna, is the guest of Miss Anna Jones, assistant registrar.

Miss Jane Morton and Miss Katherine Guess of the Senior class are entertaining their mothers, who will be here for the entire centennial celebration. Miss Guess is also entertaining a younger brother.

Miss Grace Sydenstricker was recently tendered a surprise party in honor of her birthday.

Among the early commencement alumni visitors are Lieut. Frank Cross of the Marines and Chaplain Frank Cody.

The college is delighted to have as its guests, Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Hill of New York, who are being entertained by Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Stevenson at The House in the Woods. Dr. Hill is secretary of the General Education Board of the Presbyterian church.

Prof. Frances McClenahan of Pittsburgh, commonly known to old students as "Prof. Mac" is enjoying a visit in Maryville.

DR. HILL SPEAKS ON THE NEED OF EDUCATION

Dr. Edgar P. Hill, Secretary of the General Education Board of the Prebyterian Church of the United States addressed the chapel audience Thursday morning.

In his introductory remarks, Dr. Hill said that he had looked forward to his visit to Maryville with almost boyish eagerness, because he knew that Maryville was one of the few ideal Christian institutions of the country and he wished to see first hand the workings of the existing system.

This is a great day for education. The war, as some one has said, was a war of school masters. The educators of Germany were the men who worked out the effective mobilization system, who designed the aeroplanes, and the submarines.

America entered the war at the crucial moment. Immediately her college men were given wonderful tasks to perform. The American army was largely officered by college men. It is true that Belgium won the war, that France played her great part as did the British with their navy, but it is equally true that the colleges and universities of America won the war.

At the present time all classes of people are recognizing as never before the importance of education. Th American Federation of Labor recently sent out pamphlets emphasizing the need of education not for the few, but for the many.

Education maybe a great power, or a great peril. The leaders of the bolshevik in Russia are clever and well educated, but they are educated in the wrong way.

There is a great opportunity for people of christian education. Leadership is the key to the situation. The leader who acts from unselfish motives and who has caught a vision of the Master can do much for the salvation of the world.

The most important thing in life is not to do a certain task but to express a certain spirit—, that spirit which came from and still radiates from the lonely Man of Galilee.

MARYVILLE LOSES A GAME AND WINS ONE

L. M. U. Scores 6-3. The Vols Took The Game of May 19 From the Highlanders by The Close Score of 6-5. Wagner Was The Individual Star of The Game.

M C. won from L.M.U. May 15, 6-3. Nine hits were made off Weisbecker but these were all scattered and did not count for scores except in the ninth frame, when L. M. U. bunched four and made three runs. M. C. made four in the third inning as the result of a walk and three hits. Lowery ropped out a three bagger which brought in McLaughlin and Weisbecker, and Ruble followed with a "homer" in right field. The other two came in the fifth on an error and two singles.

The next day "big" Bolden pitched for the visitors and held the Highlanders to five hits and three runs while he made four hits himself out of five trials. One of these was a single, two were two baggers and another counted for three bases. All the L.M.U. team hit safely except the third baseman.

A game was scheduled with U.T. in Knoxville for May 17 but was rained out. The Tennessee aggregation came to Maryville May 19, and after a close and exciting game went off with a one point margain. The final score was 6-5.

Tennessee made two runs in their half of the fourth and M.C. retaliated with three in their half. U. T. also scored twice in the sixth and twice in the seventh while the Highlanders scored twice in the eighth. Wagner was the individual star of the game, both in the field, where he made several difficult catches, and with the stick, making two singles and a double.

VOLUME FOUR | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, JUNE 3, 1919 | NUMBER THIRTY-ONE

THE MAJESTY OF GOD SUBJECT OF BACCALAUREATE SERMON

THE THREE HERALDS TELL OF PHYSICAL, INTELLECTUAL AND MORAL MAJESTY OF GOD. DR. WILSON UNABLE TO BE PRESENT.

One hundred years ago Dr. Isaac Anderson heard a Macedonian call from the Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, and answered the call. Later Dr. Nathan Bachman, founder of the February meetings, served that church for ten years. Dr. Vale, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, in addressing the Class of 1919 spoke, on Sunday, June first, of the pioneers who made this tic between Maryville College and the Second Presbyterian Church, and asked,

"What would these men say if they were speaking today to the Centennial Class?" "Something," he said, "true, not only for today; something that will not change in value; something that will, like the Bread of Life, satisfy throughout the future years.

The text was from the one hundred and forty-fifth Psalm, the fifth verse: "I will speak of the glorious honor of thy majesty, and of thy wondrous works".

The power of men rests upon the conception they have of God. The pioneers of the greatest movements, the forefathers of our country were men who had a great idea of God Isaiah had a clear vision of God and his majesty. Isaac Anderson and Nathan Bachman were men who had the strength of the everlasting hills, believing in God, his power and majesty.

Dr. Vale gave the messages of Three Heralds, who proclaimed the majesty of God as shown by Time and Space.

With our limited conception of time, we think a man to be of venerable age when he has lived three score and ten years. The history of the human race covering a period of six thousand years, seems to us a long time.We are told the sea has reached its present state of salinity in not less than ninety million years. Geologists say the globe is one hundred million years old. Mr. Huxley tells that one billion years have been required for the evolution of present forms, while chemists maintain that two billion are required for the formation of radium.

Back of all the time and the creations of the ages is God, Creator of all, who is from everlasting to everlasting, in whose sight a thousand years are as one day.

We are filled with wonder of the world, of the immensity of creation, of the majesty of the Creator. Yet how limited our idea of space is, we realize if we suppose a trip to the sun by airship. Travelling from the earth at the rate of two hundred eighty miles an hour, forty-six and one half years would be required to reach the sun. Even then we should have taken only one step across space. Consider the expanse of the solar system. Imagine a voyage across, that if begun in the time of King David would extend through the life of Ceasar to the present day. Even such a voyage, great beyond our comprehension, would be only a begininng.

Abraham, with God's promise that his descendants should be as the sands of the sea for multitude, pictured perhaps five thousand of the millions of stars of the heavens. Miles are too little for measuring light A lightning flash on the Pole Star requires forty-five years to be seen by men on earth.

We stand amazed at the God who by his fingers could bring forth a universe like this: the heavens that declare his glory, the firmament that shows his handiwork.

The second Herald told of the Intellectual Majesty of God.

Man after a life of study must say he has just begun to learn. The realization of this truth has made the present age one of specialization upon specialization. Henry James has devoted his life to the study of the human mind. But from him we have not heard the last word. The work of Ridpath, the great historian, has many errors in facts. These statements show man's limitations.

How about God? All knowledge is His— the mysteries of anotomy, the intricacies of the mind, all knowledge of geology and electricity is His who hurls the thunderbolts. Human knowledge in comparison is only a drop in the bucket. No human knowledge is hidden from Him, and morever, He knows the secret of every human life.

"Never forget", Dr. Vale said, "that we live in God's presence continually. Remember 'Thou, God, seest me'."

Though we lay on the altar our best, though we sacrifice all for conscience sake, and the world may not know, the same God who said of Jesus "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased", cares for us, and we may have that same assurance.

The third Herald told of the Moral Majesty of God—the greatest of the three. He told of God who made man in his own image, endowed with mind and reason. While no earthly monarch would dare surround himself with courtiers who might oppose. God filled heaven with angels having power to obey Him or reject Him. God likewise created man, giving him the same power of choice. The fact that God gave his creations this freedom and ability to oppose him is the most striking proof of his omnipotence and security.

The Herald told of God, able to incarnate himself in the likeness of man.

BATES ORATORICAL CONTEST STAGED

Miss Maude Pardue Winner.

The William H. Bates Oratorical Prize Foundation had its first trial last Friday night. The contestants would have been a credit if they competed in any such contest. Each contestant had an oration which showed that much time was spent in ascertaining facts and then for the developing of those facts into an orderly and inspiring oration.

The first speaker, Mr. Luther McCurry gave an interesting an inspiring oration entitled, "Nationalism and World Patriotism". He spoke of the prime need of every nation—high ideals which are able to stand the acid test of time. He presented arguments against the federalization of the world because of the many different codes employed by the different nations.

The second speaker was Miss Marie Townsend. Her subject of discussion was "The Soul of Russia". Throughout she was guided by this thought. Miss Townsend pictured to us weak Russia falling into an abyss socially and politically but brought out also that when she began to climb back to the summit she would be greatly benefitted and would benefit the entire world when she became eligible for the new brotherhood of nations.

Next in order was Mr. Robert W. Adams. The life of Kitchner of Khartm was presented in an interesting manner by him. He portrayed to us K. of K. as a man of affairs not only in England but showed that K. of K.'s personality influenced the entire world's history in handling the British war affairs at the outbreak of the hostilities of the great war.

Then came the best of the evening, Miss Jamie Maude Pardue's oration. Well was it said by the presiding officer, Hon. T. N. Brown that if any one was to win over her, he would have to clutch an eagle's wings and soar. A well balanced, masterly delivered address on the battle of Verdun is the criticism. From a military viewpoint she pointed out that Verdun did not count for much but the civil authorities demanded that the city be held as an incentive for the people. It was here Germany expected to give France her second Waterloo, but instead of this the battle proved to be a Gettysburg for France. Humanity was saved because the brave Frenchmen held their lines at Verdun.

Mr. Luther Johnson spoke also on 'Nationalism and World Patriotism". He pointed out that nations have combined successfully in times of war for the purpose of overthrowing giant military powers, so why can not nations combine in times of peace.

The last speaker of the evening, Mr. Cedric V. Miller spoke on the great religious worker— General William Booth. He showed that the entire war work of the Salvation Army lassies and men was made possible by the eminent General Booth. He sketched in a good style the entire life of the General which ended after a life of service at the age of eighty-three.

We are very grateful to Dr. Bates for making possible this oratorical contest. Such contests as these have a great deal to do with giving an institution a very high reputation in oratory. It is hoped that the contest will stimulate efforts along oratorical lines. Already we are hearing from the student body, many statements which indicate that a great interest is being displayed for the future contests.

MOST INTERESTING PLAY IN MANY YEARS PRESENTED BY SENIOR CLASS

CROWD BLOCKS STREETS IN FRONT OF CHAPEL LONG BEFORE DOORS ARE OPENED. MARION HENRY STARS.

Long before the doors were opened on Monday evening, June 2 a great throng filled the streets in front of the chapel, expectantly waiting to see The Piper by Josephine Preston Peabody as presented by the Seniors of '19. Nor was one disappointed for this drama so full of meaning that the deepest does not get it all at one presentation; so picturesque and interesting that little children enjoy it, so beautiful and so poetic was presented in a truly marvelous way. The costumes, the splendid stage settings and the music combined with the dramatic talent of the Senior class made it one of the best things ever presented on the hill in its entire history of one hundred years.

The Piper is founded on Robert Browning's poem the Pied Piper of Hamelin. The first act was in the market place where the children played and the women knitted while Kurt the Syndic and Jacobus the Burgomeister discussed whether the Piper should be given a thousand guilders as he had been promised for piping the rats away. After due deliberation it was decided to offer him fifteen guilders or nothing as he was an outcast, a wandered, and therefore according to the laws had no rights. The only one who dared or perhaps, cared to stand up for the Piper's rights was Veronika, a foreign woman, Kurt's wife. When the piper heard their decision he talked a while to the children, then played on his pipe and they all followed him to the Hollow Hill, even Veronika's son Jan, the little crippled boy.

The first scene of the second act showed the children in the Hollow Hill a week later, happy and freed from the love of money. On fear of what the neighbors will say, and like petty things which crowd out the really worth while things of life. In the second scene at the crossways on the road to Rudersheim the piper rescued Barbara the beautiful young daughter of Jacobus who had been given to Holy church as a Nun to atone for the sins for which all the children had been taken away. He then helped her to realize that she loved his friend Michael, the daring young sword eater.

The third act took place at the crossways too. Here Veronika begged the piper to bring back her little son, showing that she was above and free from the petty life of Hamelin and had a true mother's love. Then the Piper after pleading with the Lonely Man that he might keep the children, finally submitted saying , "Thy will be done."

In the fourth act the children were restored to a Hamelin that had learned at least to pay its debts and in a way was beginning to acknowledge the rights of humanity, even of outcasts.

Each person in the cast was unusually well suted to the part which he played. Marion Henry

M. C. DEFEATED IN FINAL GAME OF SEASON

The largest crowd in the history of Maryville baseball witnessed the game yesterday with U. T. Both teams were handicapped by having crippled players and by having to use several substitutes. The University used three different catchers and two shortstops while several changes were also made in the Higihlanders lineup. It was a good game however, and was close up to the seventh, when the visitors succeeded in bunching four hits in rapid succession which, together with four errors, netted a total of six runs and cinched the game for them. Maryville's four runs came in the third, fourth, fifth and seventh. In the fifth inning Cortner made his second trip all the way around when he lined out a hot grounder which the right fielder missed, allowing it to roll into Court street before it was recovered. This was Cortner's second safe hit out of twice at bat. Smith was the individual batting star for the visitors, making three clear hits in four trips to the plate.

Wagner and Weisbecker did excellent fielding and McLaughlin made a sensational catch in the ninth, when he dived after a fly that had almost reached the ground before he got to it.

The college is proud of its alumni —Look around on the Hill and you will see why.

Freshmen and Sophomores keep your ears open for tricks. Those alumni must have been tough customers according to the stories which have been going around on the Hill for the last week.

For the first time in its history Maryville College has had a real Alumni reunion. Many alumni are returning for the first time since their graduation. They have had little or no connection with the college. Why not have a meeting at the college every ten years. This could be carried out by having a representative of each class keep in touch with each of its members. The alumni would be better informed as to the conditions on the hill. The college and its graduates should help each other.

The end of another year brings the commencement season with its usual joys—joys of looking backward on another completed year, and forward to a pleasant vacation. Also along with the close of the school year comes the thought of separation—, separation perhaps never to meet again.

Members of the Class of '19 may all the true joys of this life be yours. Many happy days have we, your junior classmates, spent with you. May you in the future be true to the principles which your Alma Mater has instilled into you. The members of this class which is about to leave us represent thirteen states. The roll is: Robert W. Adams, Grace I. Bailey, Claudia Bogart, David H. Briggs, Helen R. Brown, Ethel L. Burchfiel, Edith M. Davis, Charles L. Edgerton, Katherine E. Guess, Marion F. Henry, Adah H. Howard, Luther Johnson, Herbert J. Kiger, Luther R McCurry, Emma Miles, Cedric V. Miller, Jane P. Morton, Celeste M. Moseley, Helen E. Newell, Maude J Pardue, Carmen Park, Jason G. Purdy, Eva Pitchie, Carrie B. Sheddan, Ralph E. Smith, Marie L. Thompson, Marietta P. Townsend, Carrie T. Wilkinson, Margaret C. Wilkinson, Gail W. Wilson.

WHEN SHALL YOU SETTLE THE QUESTION?

Many are preparing to leave M. C. without knowing whether they shall ever return. Some have arrived at the point where they will discontinue their college course for a year or more, in order that they may obtain the necessary funds; or that they may give their gray matter a little time in which to develop. Do you realize that many who come to this decision never continue their education.

The greatest need of the age is educated men and women. Your first requirement in life is that you obtain an education—the best possible education you can afford. Maryville College offers to help young men and women meet this requirement.

The purpose of this article is to give a few reasons why old students should return to college and why others should continue their education in Maryville College.

Next year M. C. will have better athletics than ever before. A large number of former star players are returning. An excellent schedule in football has been worked out for next year. The financial situation is very good. Many improvements are to be made on the athletic fields.

Besides the athletics new departments are to be installed, and others improved. The faculty is to be increased in number. Before the fall term opens Maryville expects to be ranked as a first class college.

May these few facts be incentives to prospective students and to those who are now enrolled as students, to return next year. Above all let not fate determine your future course. Make your plans and with the help of God work them out.

HOME ECONOMICS DAY

At noon Tuesday, June 3, the second year of Home Economics served a graduation luncheon to the Seniors in Home Economic and their guests.

After being ushered into the reading room the guests were delightfully entertained by music from the victrola played by Miss Vance Hudgens. The dining room was beautifully decorated in red roses and the following menu was served:

Strawberries au Natural
Meat Loaf Tomato Sauce
Potato baskets with Peas
Rice Croquettes Radishes
Tomato Salad Cress Sandwiches
Marshmallow Salad Angel Cake
Iced Tea

Miss Bay Davis proved a very interesting toastmistress. Miss Anne Sharp spoke on "The Warp" and Miss Bliss, head of Home Economics Dept. told of the "The Woof". Dr. Stevenson then gave an excellent talk on "The Woven Pattern" and presented the diplomas in his unique way by bestowing a different degree on each graduate, such as M. D., mender and darner, D.D. dumpling distributor, etc. Miss Ruth Johnson delivered the diplomas to the following graduates: Margaret Alexander, Jessie Brown, Margaret Fisher, Anne Sharp, and Lela Agnes Ware. Three others Misses Elizabeth Ellis, Blanche Bailey, and Bay Davis received a certificate in Home Economics.

The Home Economics department is growing and is now one of the best represented departments in the school. The standard has been raised and next year the Home Economics work will be divided into prep and college work, another full year added and all graduates of the course will be awarded a B. A. in Home Economics.

At five in the afternoon a reception was given by the H E. Department. Miss Bliss and the graduates formed the receiving line. Over five hundred guests were served with punch and cakes and enjoyed the dress exhibit.

JUNIOR ALPHAS HOLD ELECTION

Big Year Ahead!

The Junior section of the Alpha Sigma Literary Society held its election of officers Saturday evening May 24. Sam Franklin, president; Charles May, vice president; Van Hunter, recording secretary, and Walter Webb program secretary. The minor officers will be filled next year. Our efficient president, Charles Taylor, and our capable secretary, Sam Hall, graduate this year from the Preparatory Department.

The Junior Alphas have held separate meetings this term. These have been very profitable, and now we are planning and preparing for a society next year that will be bigger and better than ever. Watch us go!

FAREWELL PRAYER SERVICE HELD BY SENIORS

The subject at prayer meeting, led by the graduating class, was, "What M. C. has done for the Seniors". Literary, athletic, and christian organizations were discussed by Miss Morton, Mr. Briggs and Miss Bogart.

The literary phase has been to the outgoing class a very important factor in each one's development in trying to become able to think upon the problems that will soon be met after taking up work. Every one must communicate with each other, to give and receive ideas. This development was compared to a full, well balanced meal.

Man's physical, mental and spiritual parts are inseparable. The Senior Class at M. C. has gained not only physical development through athletics but mental and moral training as well, These things must be proportioned in order to be fully developed. Life is a hard game and the student who has not fought fairly in games of athletics is likely to fail when he takes up the task of life. The athlete while in college has gained pep and determination which lasts him throughout life.

The literary, physcal and spiritual phases must be developed. The later has been developed through the February meetngs, Y. M. and Y. W., Vesper Services, Prayer Meeting, and Student Volunteer Band. The Seniors have through participating in these, improved their own powers of usefulness.

They have learned a reverend respect for all things sacred and have obtained invaluable spiritual guidance.

JOINT MEETING OF Y. M. AND Y. W.

In the quiet of the late Sabbath afternoon the Y. M. and Y. W. met on Baldwin lawn. The scripture lesson was led by the Y. W. president, Miss Cresswell, after which Miss Heard very beautifully sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul". It was very appropriate that in this our last meeting, we should be privileged in having Dr. Stevenson as speaker. He had chosen for his subject "The Power of Personality", this he illustrated by instances both scriptural and modern. The need and power of a consecrated Personality was emphasized. "Great deeds can be accomplished only through Great consecration". The power of consecrated personality dedicated to service was shown—it is our privilege as Christian workers to give our blood, our very selves to his service.

After a selection by the male quartette Prof. Gillingham closed with prayer.

ALUMNI LEAD CHAPEL

The Rev. Tom Fred Campbell, '09 and Rev. W. H. Tilford, '14 had charge of the chapel exercises Friday morning. The honors were evenly shared, Mr. Tilford led the devotional exercises and Mr. Campbell gave an interesting talk. In his discussion he emphasized the fact that this is a time to look forward and not backward. The war has taught us many lessons, not the least of which is the fact that college men are leaders, because they have proved themselves to be so in the hour of need. The best of leadership is that of service and not for personel gain or glory. The important thought stressed was that, "Life is a measure to be filled—and not a goblet to be drained."

On May 30, the Alpha Sigma Literary Society met and presented diplomas to the number of its members who are graduating. They were presented by Mr. Campbell, '09. While a student on the Hill Mr. Campbell was one of the leading and most active members of this society.

The evening following the M. B. Hunter Medal Contest was held. The participants were C. V. Miller, Homer Weisbecker, and Andy Morgan. The winner in the contest was Homer Weisbecker.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC AND EXPRESSION

Saturday evening, May 31, at Voorhees Chapel the Department of Music and Expression held its graduation exercises.

The processional was led by Miss Buxton, class sponsor. The graduates carried large bouquets of field daises.

After the invocation by the Reverend Charles Newman of Philadelphia, the music department presented the following excellent program:

Orchestra—Mosaic Overture
Laurendeau - - - - Reynannd
Burlesque - - - - - - Gorno
Miss Mary Armentrout
Norman Cradle Song - De Koven
Miss Jessie Magill
Andante (Surprise Symphony) - - - - - - - - - Haydn
Double String Quartette
Ciribiribin - - - - - Pertalozza
Men's Glee Club
Dance Macabre (for two pianos) - - - - - - Sarie-Saens
Miss Jonnie Catlett and Miss Winifred Decker
Orchestra—Overture - - - - Rossini
Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 2 - Liszt
Miss Jonnie Catlett

Miss Armentrout exhibited her usual brilliance and fine technique in her rendition of Gorno's Burlesque.

The Andante from the Surprise Symphony was well done and showed the work that had been put upon it. The theme was clear throughout. The orchestra played two overtures, both of which were exceptionally well done. This branch of music at Maryville is comparatively very young; its growth is gratifying and reflects the interest and work of the director, Professor Garrett.

The last number on the program was Rhapsdie Hongroise No. 2. The light dainty passages were brought out in exquisite contrast with the heavy brilliant parts. Miss Catlett's technique is as notable as her artistic interpretation.

The Reverend Wm. E. Graham made an address and presented the diplomas to the graduates.

The graduates were: Misses Emma Miles, Edith Caldwell, Adah Howard and Marguerite Sullinger in piano; Miss Winston Newton in voice; and Misses Troy Haddox, Sue Nuckols, Marie Townsend, and Gail Wilson in expression.

CHAPEL EXERCISE TUESDAY MORNING OF UNUSUAL INTEREST

With the orchestra occupying seats at the left of the chapel platform, and Mr. Samuel W. Boardman, son of one of Maryville's most distinguished presidents in the speaker's chair, the chapel exercises on Tuesday morning proved of unusual interest to both students and visitors. The opening hymn and announcements were the only part of the exercises which savored of school days.

The devotionals by Mr. Boardman, a graduate of 1894, were followed by a beautiful piano solo by Miss Edith Caldwell, a graduate of the piano department.

The clapping which preceded the rendering of the Barcarolle from Contes d'Hoffman, by the Glee Club was ample proof of its ever increasing popularity. The audience would not be satisfied until the Glee Club gave a most sympathetic interpretation of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

CAMPUS QUIPS

Mildred Reagin says, "You can't tell by the morning mail, what the evening male will bring forth".

HEARD IN A DREAM

"The editor of the Echo has more material than he can use."

"Here's a pencil—you needn't bother about returning it".

"You needn't bother any more about coming to me for an excuse. If you miss, just go on to your classes. We realize now that no one would deliberately 'cut'."

"Professor, I cannot lie. I haven't opened my book for a week."

WHY TEACHERS NEED PENSIONS

"The alimentary canal joins the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and was built by Uncle Sam at an expense of millions of dollars.

"Stability is the taking care of stables."

"Nature absorbs a vaccination".

"To live one must breathe pure peroxide."

"If an unmagnatized magnet is placed close to a permanent magnet the bar becomes magnituded by introduction."

"Friction is resistance to work. Example: Me and my lessons."

Mrs. Alexander: "Mr. Beck who wrote Gray's Elegy?"

Beck: "I don't believe I remember."

Use good horse sense and be a stable thinker.

Prof. "Your answers are as clear as mud."

Student: "Well, that covers the ground, don't it?"

Ignatz: "Yes, I had Latin last year, but I got encored."

"He wore my photograph over his heart, and saved his life."

Im not surprised, darling. It would stop a bullet.

AT THE PARADE

"Did you see those autos skid?"

"Sir! How dare you call me that?"

Howfunnyalinelookswithoutspaces.

Pearsons balcony is a splendid sleeping porch.—Ask Miss Mollie.

Following the Glee Club Miss Sue Nuckols one of the most popular readers in the college gave in her clever style "Neghbors", a one act play by Zona Gale.

The encore which Miss Nuckols gave was "Luke at the Telephone", a negro sketch in which art Miss Nuckols excels.

The orchestra then gave two marches in a brilliant style which showed the result of earnest work.

As the pageant was next in order, the signal had to be given for dismissal and the students filed slowly out to the Theater in the Woods.

SECOND COMMENCEMENT OF PREP DEPARTMENT

Dr. Jno. G. Newman Speaker, Mr. Lee Herndon and Miss Grace Blank Represent Class

Tuesday, June 3, 1919 marked the second Preparatory Commencement ever held at Maryville College. The graduating class is also the largest that has ever graduated from the preparatory department of the college, it being composed of sixty-three members who represent fourteen states. The exercise was opened with an invocation by the Rev. James L. Ritchie of Biggsville, Ill.

Mr. Lee Roy Herndon, one of the class then delievered an excellent oration on, The Ideals of Anderson and Lamar. He spoke of the wisdom shown by the founder in choosing Maryville as the location of the college; of the self-sacrificing and hard-working Dr. Anderson; of Reverend Thos. Lamar and his hard-fought campaign for funds to buy the present site of the college. His conclusion was an appeal to the students to carry on the work of these two men who had lived lives of true self-sacrifice in order that the world might be uplifted.

Miss Grace Blank, the other class orator, followed with a well delivered oration on the too little thought of subject, Woman's Hand in Maryville's History. Woman's work, she said, is too often overlooked because it, unlike man's work, does not assert itself with force, but is quiet, deep, and far-reaching. She first spoke of Mrs. Anderson, wife of Maryville's first president, and her motherly love for, and her deep understanding of the students of her day. A brief sketch of the work of Mrs. Mary A. Wilson was then given followed by a word of appreciation for the splendid work of her successor, the present manager. Instance after instance of how women help the college was piled up. Mrs. Dodge and Mrs. Willard, who gave the library; Mrs. Lamar the hospital; Mrs. Voorhees, the chapel; Mrs. Thaw the third floor of Pearsons, etc. But, she said women have not given money alone. They have given themselves, and she spoke of Miss Margaret Henry whose whole heart was bound up in her work for the college. The final note of the oration was that the students of Maryville College, shown the way by the kindliness and helpfulness of others, could do nothing but serve humanity as agents for good.

The Reverend John G. Newman, D. D., of Philadelphia, Pa., a graduate of Maryville, delivered the address of the evening. He said that Maryville College should be as true to her high ideals in the future as she had been in the past, but that she could be only as high as the students would place her. After telling of his own deep love for his Alma Mater he fell into a line of reminiscences which caused ripple after ripple of laughter. Now and then he punctuated his humor with a forcefully presented moral, a truth which was made even more impressive because of the humor which surrounded it. Turning to the graduating class he told them he would speak to them personally on the subject of Our Preps. There are four things he said that our preps must have: Purpose, responsibility, endurance and patience. They must have purpose in order to achieve, for achievement can never be had without purpose. Responsibility must be had, but that no man is made by responsibility, but by the fact that he responds to responsibility. Endurance must be had for ability alone does not bring success, but must have proper backing. The fourth thing is patience, patience to endure, and to work, without a whine.

If one has these four things the thing most desired by all, SUCCESS, is assured, but that success is to be measured by what it achieves fairly and squarely, and that one who is defeated rather than to stoop to crooked ways is the most successful of all.

The audience was given an unexpected pleasure by the singing of the Synodical quartet, a number that was not on the program but that was thoroughly enjoyed as was shown by the fact that they were encored twice. The other musical numbers were furnished by Misses Irene Smith, Emily Wright, Elizabeth Bassel and Mr. Roy McCall.

The exercise was concluded by the Rev. John Newton McGinley, D. D., who pronounced the benediction.

MOST INTERESTING PLAY IN MANY YEARS

took the part of the Piper. Her deep understanding of the play and its meaning and her sympathetic feeling for the piper enabled her to present even the complex character, so full of fun, yet so serious, such a lover of all mankind especially outcasts and prisoners, yet so misunderstood; so beautiful in his tender sympathy for Veronika; so strong willed, yet at last submissive to the Lonely Man, so tender with the children; so scornful toward narrow, hypocritical Hamelin. If Browning's Piper was anything like Marion Henry was Monday night, no wonder all the children followed him.

And yet Miss Henry's work would have been in vain without the loyal support which every other member of the cast, and of each of the committee gave her. Robert Adams of oratorical fame was a most excellent sword cater and an ideal lover. And who wouldn't have loved beautiful, graceful, captivating Barbara as portrayed by Marie Townsend. Celeste Moseley did excellent work in the double role of Cheat—the Devil and Peter—the Sacristan. No wonder the piper counted Cheat among his friends. David Briggs played the part of Jacobus the Burgomeister as well as he played basketball and football. Luther Johnson was the real article in the character of Hurt the Spndic. Cedric Miller was an efficient cobbler and molder of public opinion. Grace Bailey, a hard hearted butcher; Luther McCurry a faithful watch; and Ethel Burchfiel a most interesting young priest. Jane Morton portrayed Veronika in her usual interesting and pleasing way; Emma Miles and Carrie Wilkinson were model wives, always obeying their husbands; while Gail Wilson was a typical old woman continually saying, "I told you so."

The usually grave seniors took the parts of children so well and the real children were so at home on the stage that it was hard to tell which was which. The entire audience as well as the piper fell in love with Claudia Bogart as Jan; Catherine Wilkinson was a cunning little Hamsel; Carmen Park a most faithful little mother who never forgot her dolly; Katherine Guess, a charming little Hamelin girl and Marie Thompson a real caution as Rude; while the Brown, Sanders, Johnson, Calloway, Crawford, Stanley, Caldwell and Gamble children did their parts to perfection.

It is impossible to do justice to the able way in which the Centennal class presented the Piper. Suffice it to say that the Seniors of '19 has set up a standard which those of coming years will do well to live up to.

THE MAJESTY OF BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Has any man of any age been able to claim immunity from sin? Moses, immediately after communion with God on Mount Sinai, sinned. David, the sweet singer, a man after God's own heart, displeased God by his many sins. Isaiah with his clear spirituality cried, when given a vision of God, "I am unclean." Man after man has lived and died, none without sin.

Only the Son of God, a day laborer, has lived in the earth and overcome sin. He, tempted by every power of evil, alone could say "Which one of you convictest me of sin?" In telling of Him, the Conqueror of Sin and Death, the Herald of Moral Majesty speaks of a sacrfice greater than any of us know. A sacrifice greater than that of the gold stars. God's eyes are too pure to behold sin, yet for our sake and to save us from our sin God gave his only son to the Cross. And resting upon His Son was the responsibility of the sins of the world.

"If I could paint", giving Dr. Vale's word in part, "I would picture across on a lonely hill, and on ture a cross a figure writhing in agony, at the foot of the cross bows the Mother Mary; here, are the Scribes and Pharisees, they who said 'He saved others, himself he cannot save'; beyond, those others casting dice for the garments; beyond these stand the indifferent onlookers—; in the outskirts is Peter, he who denied Him; Peter, grieving but lacking courage to take His place. Back of all, the black clouds of wrath, behind which God had withdrawn Himself.

I would hang this picture on the stars of heaven and write these words on every human heart: 'For God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.'

Different feelings result from hearing the Heralds of God's Majesty. One feeling is that of man's unworthiness, the feeling well expressed by the Psalmist. Think further, and there comes the feeling of the dignity of the human soul, created like God's, redeemed in the blood of Juses.

"Fifty years from now the most of us shall be in the dust; but our souls shall be like unto Him, with Jesus. A thinking man dare not forget his responsibility. Remember the dignity of the human soul and do not stoop from that dignity.

Gypsy Smith said to his son, 'You are the son of a king, dress like one.' Members of the Centennial Class, you are sons and daughters of a king, act like sons and daughters of a king.'

Speaking for Dr. Wilson, who was unable to be present at the Baccalaureate service, Dr. Vale urged the members of the Class of 1919 to keep always the inspiration gained from Maryville College and her president, and "go out to serve.'"

"The best years are not behind. While none of you may regret that school examinations are behind, examinations by the world await you". He spoke of the privilege of standing shoulder to shoulder with classmates, adding that greater privileges of standing shoulder to shoulder and heart to heart with many people await every graduate. He told them to be glad for the future. "Days will come in which you shall seem alone; days when you shall long for the old class; days where the turn in the road awaits."

What shall be done in that time? Dr. Vale gave this illustration:

The day of hard test came to a French soldier. He had come to a halt at the end of the road. In his despair he accused even God of having left him alone. Then a voice seemed to remind him, "it was for love of you, son, I died on the tree"—and "can you bear this for me"? The soldier was ready and turned to his Lord,

"Jesus take my whole soul".

RESOLUTIONS TO AN ILL-FATED MOONSHINER

WHEREAS, the calamitous hand of Fate has deemed it expedient to disunite the affectionate regards of our dearly beloved and highly respected moonshining colleague, and

WHEREAS, we are deeply concerned and greatly interested in the general well-being and future happiness of the unfortunate victim of such an atrocious and unspeakable calamity as has befallen the aforesaid moonshining colleague, and

WHEREAS, in view of the above considerations,

BE IT RESOLVED, that we extend the aforesaid our deepest heart felt sympathy and intense sorrow that has befallen him, and

AND BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED, that a copy of the aforesaid resolutions be presented to the bereaved suitor, and another copy of the same be submitted for publication in the college paper.

The Highland Echo

VOLUME FIVE | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1919 | NUMBER ONE

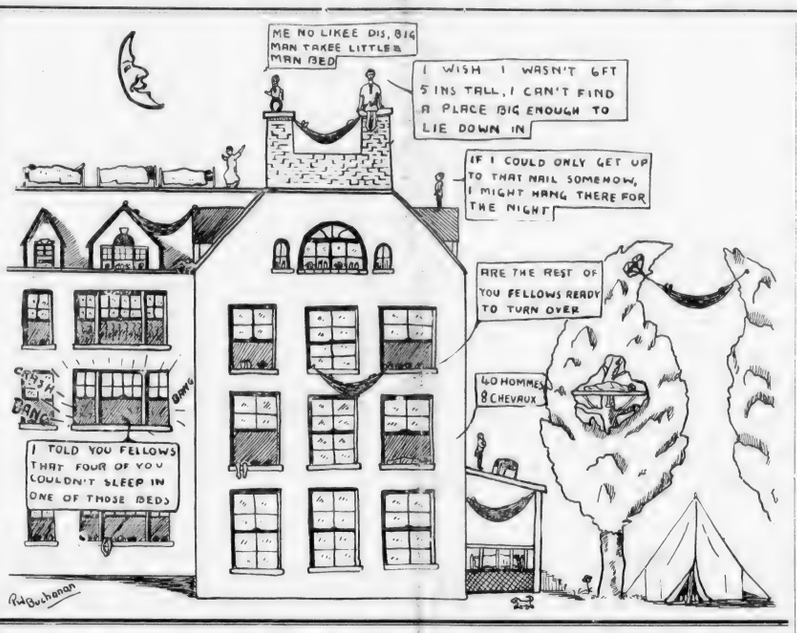
The First Year of the Second Century Is The Greatest Year In The History of Maryville College

THE FIRST LADY PROFESSOR OF CHEMISTRY

Largest Class Ever. Six Assistants Chosen.

Miss Ethel Fanson, who has recently returned from the University of Chicago, is now at the head of the Department of Chemistry in Maryville College. Miss Fanson is the first lady in the history of the college to fill this position. She is well known on the Hill, having formerly taught Latin and History in this institution; and during this time she took a post-graduate course in Chemistry.

In 1917 Miss Fanson entered the University of Chicago where she specialized in Physilogical Chemistry and Chemistry of Drugs and Medicines. She spent seven terms at the University where she won recognition. Her medical work was under Dr. Haine who has a nation-wide reputation in his profession. Also she was assistant to Dr. Koch one of the University's most distinguished professors.



For the past week Miss Fanson has been busy making arrangements to meet the needs of the largest chemistry class in the history of the college. This year there are 128 students in first-year Chemistry. With such a large number of students in first-year chemistry, and an increase in the number of students in advanced chmeistry, it was necessary to divide the first-year students into two classes. Consequently a larger corps of assistants was demanded. Miss Martha Robinson, Miss Carrie Nelson, Mr. Frank Minarik, Mr. Oscar Stanton, and Mr. Moss Farmer have been selected for assistants; and there is still another to be chosen. The laboratory has been re-arranged, the locker keys numbered, and the apparatus placed at the desks. Every effort is being made to procure sufficient equipment to meet the needs of the different classes; and the necessary apparatus will be had in the shortest time possible.

Despite the fact that it was necessary to take an inventory of all the chemicals and appartus in the storeroom, the laboratory work will not be delayed. The first laboratory period will be on Wednesday of the second week of the Fall term, which has been the regular date for beginning the laboratory work. With this good beginning it is predicted that this will be one of the most successful years in the Department of Chemistry of Maryville College.

ANOTHER CHANGE

On account of illness Miss Susan Green, who was formerly professor of Biology in Maryville College is unable to be with us this year. The college authorities were fortunate in finding a worthy successor to the position held by Miss Green. Miss Lena Aikin was formerly a student of Maryville College and while here specialized in Latin and Biology. She graduated with the class of 1911 and after spending several years as instructor in common schools and high schools, she took a course of study in the University of Chicago.

While at the University she specialized in Biology and was continuing her course when called to the service of her Alma Mater.

Second Century of M. C. Opens With Enrollment of 815

1000 Expected Before The Year Is Up.

Maryville College is certainly on the boom. All dormitories are full, including Memorial which is being used for girls. Rooms in town are hard to secure, and even the hospital is being used to house girls. Many rooms contain three girls instead of the usual two and one room in Pearsons is said to have four occupants. The Freshman class alone is two hundred strong It took one whole extra day to register it and then some were not through. Many new classes have been formed as Maryville is now A1 and can have only a limited number in each class. Instead of the usual fourteen tables there are sixteen this year, and several new tables have been crowded into the dining hall. It is interesting to know that the boys have a proportion of seven to nine of the entire enrollment, compared to one of six to eight last year. The balcony is having to be used at chapel every day for the first time in the history of the college. The mail sack is three times as large as last year's and old girls firmly believe that it takes at least six times as long to sort out and deliver the mail.

It can easily be seen that the enrollment will be one thousand before the end of the year.

Even though the College is in a crowded condition at present, yet Maryville College is better prepared than ever before to meet the situation, in which she has been placed.

The endowment has been increased and incoming students will be given bigger opportunities to help themselves.

New departments have been added and a larger teaching force has been secured.

Thus we see in the first year of Maryville's Second Century, a greater college, which is adapted to the needs of the students. But it is hoped that though material changes have taken place, the high standards which were upheld by Maryville College during her first century will be retained during her second century, and the many centuries following.

Prospects For a Champion Foot Ball Team Are Good

H. W. Feeman Athletic Director.

The first year in the second century of Maryville College promises also to be the first year in a period of unexcelled and unprecedented athletics. With the return of so many ex-service men and the arrival of new men in such unexpected large numbers, the prospects for a record-breaking year in athletics are very bright indeed.

The most valuable advance in the promotion of better athletics is the engaging of a Director of Athletics this year who will devote his entire time to the coaching of athletic teams, the direction of the gymnasium, swimming-pool, and all out-of-door sports on the Hill. The new Director is Mr. Harry W. Feeman, popularly known as "Doc". Mr. Feeman was a former student of Maryville College who during the years '15-'16 and '16-'17 was the College's best all-around athlete, winning an M in each of the football, baseball, and basketball. The College is very fortunate in procuring the services of such an exceptionally fit man as Mr. Feeman. He will be assisted by Mr. Homer Weisbecker and Miss Ruth Harrington, who will direct the boys' and girls' gymnasium work.

Gymnasium work will probably begin next week, but it will be impossible to open the swimming pool until physical examinations have been given all those desiring to use the pool. These examinations will be given sometime within the next two or three weeks.

The first football practice of the season on Monday afternoon revealed some very good material from which to build a winning team. In spite of the fact that the store of equipment was very inadequate to supply the demands, the men turned out in large numbers. Coach Feeman was very much pleased with the first showing and expresses confidence that he will be able to turn out a scrappy, hard-boiled team. New equipment has been ordered and will be here within a few days.

The wearers of the football M who are back this year are Ernest James, Meade Johnson, Andrew Norgan, Frank McLaughlin, and Leslie Davidson. There is also a possibility that Cecil Tulloch and Herbert Ford, both M men, will return to M.C. this fall.

Harry Wagner, Young Hayes and Andy Norgan, former Varsity men, will be welcomed back to the gridiron this season.

Three S. A. T. C. Varsity men who made themselves famous in last year's short football season will be given a chance to uphold their reputations in "civilian" football. These men are Roy McCall, Jarvis Cotton, and Searight Hicks. It has been rumored that Lake Russell may return a little later in the season.

With this excellent supply of old material upon which to build, Maryville will undoubtedly have an aggregation which will pass through a season of success. It is difficult as yet to make any statements about the new men, but to them Coach Feeman is giving special attention in order to sift out the promising material. "What we shall strive for this season", Coach Feeman declared, "is not only to build up a strong team for 1919, but also to lay the foundation for a much stronger team for 1920".

The first game of the season will be played with Carson and Newman College, Saturday, September 27th on the local gridiron. Carson and Newman always puts up a hard scrap, so the initial game promises to be one of the best frays of the season. Let everybody get together and stir up some old-time pep for September 27th! ! It is impossible to have a winning team without proper support from the side lines.

Manager F. S. McLaughlin announces the following schedule:

Sept. 27—Carson and Newman College at Maryville.
Oct. 4—University of Tennessee at Knoxville
Oct. 11—Open date.
Oct. 18—Mississippi A. & M. at Starksville, Miss.
Oct. 25—University of Chattanooga at Chattanooga
Nov. 1—Oglethorpe University at Maryville
Nov. 8—Georgetown College at Maryville
Nov. 15.—Emory and Henry College at Maryville.
Nov. 27—Tusculum College at Greeneville.

PROF. SOUTHWICK IS BACK AGAIN

Professor of Social Science and History.

Professor Southwick is back at M. C. after an absence of over a year. His work here as Professor of Public Speaking and History was cut short by a call to the colors, which came after he had been here only a few months. In June, 1918 he went overseas with the 83d. Division, Intelligence Section of the U. S. Army.

Professor Southwick's home is in Cleveland, Ohio. He graduated from the College of Wooster in 1917. His experience as an instructor began in the public schools near Cleveland, where he was teacher and superintendent for five years. While a student at Wooster he was instructor of history in the Academy of that institution. He has also had some practical experience in the field of sociology, having been a Social Service Worker in Cleveland, Ohio, for two summers. While in the Army he was for three months Instructor of Political History and Economics in the Army School at Le Mans, France, immediately after which he was for three months Instructor of Argumentation in the

A. E. F. University at Beaume, France. After returning home he joined the staff of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, which position he resigned to come back to M. C. where he is now Professor of Social Science and History.

SENIOR DOINGS

The first meeting of the Senior class resulted in election of the following officers: President, Fred Cagle; vice-president, Minnie Hunter; secretary, Catherine Ridgeway; treasurer, Homer Weisbecker; Editor, Mary Louise Hayes.

The Highland Echo, the weekly paper of Maryville College, is published for the interests of all the students; and in order to make the paper a success each student should in some way contribute to the welfare of the paper. The paper will be just what the students make it. Will you do your part?

Although a large corps of editors has been been selected to represent the various organizations and activities on the Hill, it will be impossible for them to make the paper a success without the aid of the entire student body. The purpose of the respective editors is to serve the students. The editor-in-chief is putting forth every effort to make the college paper an interesting publication. He has chosen the following as his Assistants. Mr. Oscar Stanton, Associate Editor and Mr. Frank Minarik, Exchange editor. He has also chosen the following reporters: Miss Martha Robinson and Mr. Leslie Jones, general; Prof. H. J. Bassett, Alumni; Mr. James Martin, Religious; Miss Janet Ensign, Society; Percy Buchanan, Cartoonist. With this corps of workers it is hoped that every interesting activity of the various organizations and every interesting news item will receive proper attention.

It is impossible for every one to be appointed to perfom special duties. However, the columns of this paper are open to any student who has interesting material that he or she would like to have published. Articles, poetry, jokes, witty sayings, or anything of interest to the student body will be gratefully received. The contributors will receive recognition for their work. Let every Maryvillian endeavor to make the Highland Echo the best college paper in the South.

Evening Entertainments

Any one who has been attending Maryville College for the last five years will remember that during their first year there were a number of prominent musicians on the Hill. Meetings were held in the evening after supper, where duets, quartettes, solos, and most every other thing were played or sang.

This year we have among our number several promising musicians. Already we have heard many popular strains and folks songs. Why not have meetings in front of the chapel or elsewhere in order that this talent may be developed, where everybody may have a general good time.

Y. W. C. A. GIRLS HAVE GREAT TIME SATURDAY NIGHT

Good Crowd, Good Games, Good Eats.

New girls forgot to be homesick Saturday night when the Y. W. C. A. had a most informal good time for them on Baldwin lawn. First, they went down a most dignified mock faculty receiving line composed of such popular "old" girls as Catherine Ridgeway, Mattie Hamilton, Ruth Cain and Elizabeth Moore. Then they got acquainted with other girls—a very easy matter as each one was labeled with her own name. When everybody knew who everybody else was, all were ready for games. And what a time even dignified seniors and student teachers had playing "London Bridge is Falling Down", "Drop the handkerchief", "Cat and Mouse", while others gathered around the piano and sang popular songs. By the time folks were tired of singing and playing they were given a delightful chance to rest, and at the same time listen to Miss Mary Louise Hayes as she told of Penrod and the letter he had to write, and of the little girl who was so sorely tempted to eat the pie on the pantry shelf. Just before the lights flashed sandwiches, peanuts and ice cream cones were served to a crowd of tired, hungry, but happy girls. After yells for the matrons, Y. W. and "How We Howl", the girls went home singing Alma Mater.

THIS WEEK

If you would keep abreast of the times you must read some magazine of current events. This week you have the opportunity to secure any one or more of four standard magazines at remarkably reduced rates. See Professor Southwick or Professor Hunter in regard to this any time before Saturday afternoon.

Anyone having news items for the Echo will please hand them to the Editor-in-chief, or place them in the box which is in the North entrance of Anderson Hall.

This year the college chapel will be filled. The balcony which heretofor has never been used for the morning devotional exercise will be used this year.

Trunks! Trunks! Trunks! Did you say? Well, I should say so. They came upon college hill some seven hundred strong and each trunk had to find its own room and its own owner. And yes, girls do change rooms at the first of the year quite often, so that "from the third floor of Pearsons to the second floor of Memorial, Please", was heard quite often, by those "Y. M. C. A. Boys" who were helpful enough to handle those trunks that meant so much to us all. It was WORK for Brown, Percy, Beard, Lee, James Lee, who put it thru, but still it was fun for it was service. Here's to them each and all and to the "Y" for this stunt.

HIKE TO LOOK ROCK

All those who wish to desert their studies for a day in the mountains of East Tennessee should go on a hike with the "Y" boys Monday. The expedition is to leave Bartlett hall Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock. The places to be visited are Montvale and Look Rock. This is the first of a series of hikes which will be taken from time to time throughout the college year

Everybody Come and have a Jolly Good time.

PROF. SOUTHWICK MAKES FIRST ADDRESS TO. Y. M. C. A.

One of the largest crowds that ever attended a Y. M. C. A. meeting here filled the auditorium Sunday afternoon to hear the splendid address given by Prof. Southwick. Prof. Southwick said that the way he felt and the way many other men felt after passing through the five years of World War, was that the biggest job a man has, is to govern himself. The theme discussed was: "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." The question naturally arises, what is the truth? The question is answered in Jesus' own words. "I am the way, the truth, and the light". Those men who have given courageously, unselfishly, and unreservedly are the men who have risen in rank and stand above the mass of people. Some have attained high positions in life but because of greed, hate, jealousy, selfishness and discouragement have fallen back into the mass. We will not know freedom as long as these qualities last. All we live for starts from the heart and it behooves each of us as college men to lay up a reserve energy, to develop initiative, self-control, and judgment.

A farmer was one time crossing a barren country when he came to a large granery. In this granery he saw seeds of envy, greed, fear, jealousy, selfishness, and many other kinds of seed, but the largest quantity of seeds were those of discouragement. The devil plants many kinds of seeds, but when he gets a chance to scatter a few seeds of discouragement he always lets them fall. Beware of discouragement! Cultivate a reserve force an do not be afraid to call upon it. If you do not need it now you will later.

THETAS AND BAINONIANS GIVE JOINT RECEPTION

No new girl finds time to became lonesome or homesick while the Thetas and Bainonians are "on the job". Every year it has been the custom for these two societies to entertain for the new girls, so on Monday night a joint reception was given in the college woods. Both old and new girls, gathered around the big bonfire and joined in having a rollicking good time, The girls were divided into groups, each group represented a bird or flower. Then followed a song contest. All of the songs were parodied from the popular songs and were especially appropriate for life on College Hill, and were judged for the cleverness of the words as well as the sweetness of the tones in which they were sung. The College woods resounded from the melody worked by each group. Competition for the prize seemed to center around the "Sweet-Peas" and the "Wrens".

The Wren's sang in a charming way

"Good-by Ma, Good-bye Pa,
Good-bye Sis with the old See-saw
Oh my sweetheart don't you fear,
We'll have gooc eats when you come here
We'll give you hash and some apple stew
And that's about all I can promise you."

Although the judges were unable to render a decision, by a popular vote the honors were given to the Sweet Peas who sang, to the tune of Beautiful Ohio,

"Strolling on the Campus with a beautiful man
While upon the gallery "Miss Mollie" stands
And the clock strikes five—Time for the boys to leave
Wishing for a Paradise of love divine
Dreaming of a pair of eyes that looked in mine
Oh handsome man for you I shed a tear."

A NEW DEPARTMENT

William Pleasants Heads Manual Training Department.

Maryville has again taken a forward step with the times. The need of the time is for skilled men. Men who are efficient in some branch of work are necessary for the reconstruction work which will take many years to finish.

The war has taught us many lessons. Whether we profit by the lessons or not depends greatly on whether we follow some of the precepts laid down to us. Before the war nearly everyone wanted to be a jack-of-all trades, and in a large sense most of us succeeded. The result was that when skilled men were needed to help win the war—skilled labor was at a minimum. Today the world is clamoring for the skilled man or woman. Everyone recognizes it, few take advantage of it.

Maryville plans to offer a course in Manual Training, so as to make skilled laborers of them. The course will be elementary cabinet making for the first year, but if any man has had work along this line, his program will be fixed accordingly, because each man will work individually. The course will comprise four years of work which if passed, will lead to a diploma.

If one wishes to be an instructor in Manual Training he must have two years of practical work. This extra work can also be gotten at Maryville.

Mr. William Pleasants, who is in charge of this department, obtained his college course in this Institution. While here he specialized in Chemistry and was for several years assistant in that branch of study.

Whenever seen Bill was busy. He had charge of the erection of several of the buildings and the fountain which now adorns our campus.

After his graduation, which was with the Class of '17, he taught Manual Training in the Asheville schools. While holding that position he was drafted into the service of his country. Upon being discharged, he returned to Maryville College, to take charge of the department of Manual Training.

Mr. Pleasants can accommodate any number of students at any period. The department is conveniently located on the ground floor of Bartlett Hall. A preparatory credit is given to all students who successfully complete the year's work.

A special privilege of registering for this course at any time this year has been granted. All college men who wish to take this course should arrange with Miss Jones; all men of the preparatory section should arrange with Professor Ellis.

The material will be of the best. Every tool will be of the highest quality, and best grade. The power machines are equal to any and are exactly like the ones which equip our highest grade mills. So a man who can run the power machine here can prove himself an invaluable workman in any lumber shop in the country.

The fellows who are taking the course, and who desire to work their way through school will be given an opportunity to do so. Mr. Pleasants will place men at different kinds of work. The salaries are to be in proportion to the deree of skill one shows. This affords a great opportunity to all who wish to take advantage of it.

Schools everywhere are giving similar courses. The need for skilled men is not local; it is universal. A skilled man is a help to a community—an unskilled man is a drag on it.

Let everyone take an interest in this work. Let us be in the vanguard of all the schools which are giving a course similar to this one. Maryville should have a very large percentage of boys taking the course. It is up to us.

A certain young man has made up his mind to join the church and act better, as he heard something mysterious while passing the graveyard the other night.

NEWS FROM AFRICA

March 24, 1919.

My dear Dr. Wilson:

We were sure glad to get your greetings. Delighted to know that you took time from your busy life to write us and more to, that you remembered us in prayer.

For I still take it that the "gang" that is there now take as much time to keep them in line as it did in days gone by. Although as I see my little daughters romping about my feet I can't but help pray that young people will have more sense in this coming generation than I belonged to.

I am glad your sons were in the great struggle for liberty. It seems all right for Howard, to be in the war but when it comes to that little yellow headed Lamar there seems to be something wrong. It seems only last week that I filled that little curly headed chap's waist so full of pears that he couldn't climb the fence. But when I look at my own little girl, who ought to be in school this year, then I must admit that he is likely old enough.

We are just getting over an attack of "Flu". Mrs. Hope, Arta and I were all down at one time, but are safely over it now. The school lost four men. Thousands of natives died here in our district of Cameroun.

While we were down with it five of our own personal boys were down with it, one died.

It is a strange thing, I was not able to do any thing much for a week or ten days, after I felt I ought to be back at work. It left me so weak.

I am indeed sorry that I can not be with you next Commencement. It is sure a disappointment to me. We will get home about September.

I do not know yet whether my wife will be able to come back next term or not. If there is anything hard (I haven't found the hard things about a missionary's life yet), that is it—, to leave your children with some one else or leave one's wife and come out alone. I must get a home someplace where they can stay, while at home this time, and my thoughts turn to Maryville. My wife is not acquainted there at all and this is a drawback.

With love for both you and M. C. I am sincerely,

Fred H. Hope.

"Y" BIBLE STUDY GROUPS

True—Yes Old Man I'm afraid it is true—that we do not study systematical and quite often enough in that book which reveals to us unsearchable riches, and shows us the way of life and salvation. Opportunity! Well, I should say so—Did you know that every Friday night during the college year Doctor Stevenson will train a group of leaders to lead a Bible Study group. And that these same fellows are going to invite you to a room on your floor of Carnegie every Sunday morning at 8:00 o'clock to join with them in this Bible study and discussion. Books Why there will be given each fellow free the book he will study, and it's to be just the size of his vest pocket too. Opportunity, Yes Mac, and I for one am going to join the group on my floor, and get some training in religious leadership and at the same hour learn more of that old Book.

FACULTY SICKNESS

On account of serious illness, Dean Barnes was unable to be with us the first few days of the term, but he is now back in his old position. The Dean says, "That he would not mind being sick if he did not have to stay home and in bed."

All old students will remember that when they started for their homes last spring, our College President was very ill. Dr. Wilson has been spending the summer in the mountains away from the college and work. All of the students, both new and old, welcome Dr. Wilson back to the Old Hill.

FIRST MEETING OF THE ALPHA SIGMA SOCIETY

The Alpha Sigma Literary Society will hold its first meeting on Saturday, September 20th. The Program Secretary has prepared a special program for the first meeting. The evening will be one of fun and entertainment. The following program will be rendered:

Music - - - - - Edgemon
Welcome - President D. K. James
Reading - - - Weisbecker
Violin Solo - - - - Davidson
Debate: Resolved, That the United States should ratify the Peace Treaty without Alterations.
Affirmative, Howard McGrath;
Negative, Oscar Stanton
Talk - - - - Professor Knapp
Alpha Sigma Advance - - - Cody
Refreshments

This year promises to be one of success for the Alpha Sigma. Many of the old members who were in the United States Service have returned, and among these men is some of the best material in the society. They were active men when they were here before; some of them participated in the various forms of entertainment and others took part in the inter-collegiate debate.

The combined efforts of these old members with those of the boys who did not drop out of college will be a stepping-stone for a successful year in this literary society.

All the new boys are cordially invited to attend the first meeting and enjoy the evening in the Alpha Sigma Hall with Alpha Sigma men. Every effort is being made to give you an evening of fun and entertainment. Refreshments will be served after the program. Come enjoy the evening, and see the Alpha Sigma spirit. A cordial welcome awaits you.

ANOTHER COLLEGE ROMANCE ENDED

A report was received on the Hill that Herbert Kiger is to spend his last day of freedom on December 24, next. He is to be married, so the report goes, to Miss Marie Thompson on the 25th of December. Both of these people graduated last June. The students and faculty extend their warmest congratulations to both and wish them successful lives. Their friends sympathize—their enemies are glad.

FOUR MEMBERS OF CLASS OF '19 ON THE JUNIOR FACULTY

As there have been many changes throughout the college department, there have also been several changes in the personel of the faculty of the Preparatory Department.

Misses Carmine Park and Catherine Wilkinson and Messrs. Charles Edgemon and Jason Purdy, all members of the class of '19 are now holding positions on the Junior Faculty.

It has been said that "a man is without honor in his own country", but maybe this is an exception to the rule, and it is hoped that they will succeed in their new work.

Y. W. C. A.

The first Y. W. C. A. meeting of the year was held Sunday afternoon in Bartlett Hall. We were greatly pleased to have Mrs. Wilson lead. She had chosen for her subject "An Epoch Making Year". We were told in a forceful and interesting way just why this is an epoch making year, and our part in making it one. The special music consisted of song by Brown-Gamble quartette and piano solo by Elizabeth Moore.

It has been thought best to divide our Y. W. C. A. and on Sunday afternoon Junior Y. W. C. A. was organized. We are expecting great work from both organizations and all of us should determine to be loyal members and live up to its ideals.

One On Your Old Lady

New Student: "Who is the fellow they call old Lady?"

Old Student: "I don't know".

New Student: "Well, when my brother was here he used to talk about a fellow named Old Lady all the time."

Beware of small expenses; a small leak will sink a great ship.

ATHENIAN

The last meeting of the Athenian Literary Society of the year 1918-1919 was held June 4. The meeting was in charge of the honorary members, Mr. Hunter presiding. Many were the reminiscenes exchanged by the "Old Athenians", as they told of their days in Athenian meetings and debates. A notable feature was the passing of resolutions recommending a decennial celebration, and a set of resolutions to Dr. Wilson on the completion of the forward fund. A surprise was then sprung which astonished the present members who constitute the Athenians of today. The said surprise was the gift of a medal to be awarded annualy for debate or oratory. The donor is Mr. C. V. French, of Albuquerque, New Mexico. It was noted that the medal be known as the "The French Oratorical Medal". Not to be outdone, Mr. Parks of Harriman, Tenn., donated a prize of ten dollars annualy to the Junior Athenians. It was voted to name this prize, "The Parks Prize".

The Athenians for the year 1919-1920, after the services of the "Old Athenians" are greatly encouraged for the outlook of long years of literary work. With such noble traditions behind them Athenians cannot lag behind.

The officers for the fall term are: President, Frank Minarik; Vice-President, C. Moore; Program Secretary, Forrest Brown; Recording Secretary, Percy Buchannan; Treasurer, Floyd Watt; Editor, James Martin.

CPENING VESPER SERVICE

The opening vesper service was remarkable for the large attendance of students and visitors. Dr. Stevenson spoke directly to the new students, but the message was applicable to all. The keynote of his address was "Preparation".

The message was an assurance, and an encouragement that no mistake is made in preparation. As a basis of his address the pastor chose the old familiar story of David and Goliath. It was David's preparation that gave him the courage to seize the opportunity to free Isreal. The first thing of importance is to notice that "Life presents opportunities to everyone." To achieve, all must need be prepared to seize the opportunity. The sacred thing was, "Life's opportunities were not afar off, but here within the grasp of every one." To lay hold of them so to do every day the task set before one; it means a willingness to do. This willingness to do turns the world into doors and gates that lead to service. Service for others and not for self is to enjoy the full sweetness and satisfaction of life. As David prevailed so may all men prevail in a world of utter darkness.

THE FIRST AND LAST

Friday afternoon the Faculty reception was held on Baldwin lawn at two-thirty o'clock. Many of the faculty were new, even to the old students. The students lined up and passed down the long line of over fifty teachers. The way the faculty felt after shaking hands with about six hundred students is unknown, but some of the students gave very impressive descriptions of the way they felt when all was over. Some of the students passed along the line for the last time, others for the first time, but all received a common reward. After the reception was over, the students amused themselves by playing various games and moonshining; the faculty went home to nurse their tired hands.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

The department of Home Economics opened this year with a larger enrollment than ever in the history of the department.

The college and preparatory departments have been separated, and another year added to the course, making a three-year college course.

Miss Sievers, head of the department, has charge of college work and Miss Lela Ware has all the preparatory work.

OUR RED CROSS NURSE HAS RETURNED

Miss Postlethwaite Tells of Her Experiences.

Miss Henri Frances Postlethwaite, who was the college nurse for two years—'15-'16, '16-'17—is on duty again at the college hospital after an absence of almost two years. Miss Postlethwaite in telling of her experiences as an army nurse says:

"I left Maryville November 1st, 1917 and started work as an Army nurse at Camp Taylor, near Louisville, Kentucky. Later I was transferred to Camp Gordon near Atlanta, Georgia, and from there was sent to a moblization camp in New York, where on July 12th, 1918 we were ordered aboard the steamer Olympic. There were twelve thousand soldiers and nurses on board. The trip over took seven days, and on July 19th we landed at Southhampton, England and were ordered to Sarisburg Court, an army hospital located seven miles from Southhampton. This hospital eventually became the largest U. S. army hospital in England. Boats loaded with wounded landed at the private docks of the hospital, directly from France, and discharged their cargos of wounded soldiers.

"On August 13th, I left Southhampton for Paris, going via Harve, and reached my destination on the night of the 15th in the midst of an air raid. The night was so dark I could not see my hand before me and there was not a ray of light to be seen anywhere.

"In Paris I was assigned to duty at the A. R. C. hospital Number 5. This was a canvas hospital and I was glad when the armistice was signed, for the ground was getting muddy and the weather cold. From this hospital I was transferred to camp hospital Number 4 at Joinville, near Pershing's stradium in the Bois de Vincennes.

"I was relieved from duty December 28, 1918 and travelled via Savaney to Saint Nazare. Here I boarded the Kronland, a former German liner, and landed at Newport News twelve days later, after a voyage through all kinds of weather—wind, rain, storm, calm. Since landing I have been stationed at Debarkation Hospital 51, Nashville Soldiers' Home. I received my discharge at that place a little over a month ago, and then went to my home at Chattanooga for a short vacation before returning to Maryville."

ANNOUNCING
The Operation of The PALACE AND PRINCESS THEATRES

Under the direction of the SIGNAL AMUSEMENT COMPANY of Chattanooga and Knoxville, and the personal supervision of Mr. E. A. Booth Manager.

Acquisition of the PALACE and DREAMLAND Theatres, the latter to be opened under the name of PRINCESS Theatre, will be followed immediately by material improvements in both houses.

As soon as the process of renovating has been completed, New Organs—the most modern instruments to be had—will be installed and the lobbies remodeled.

The Princess Theatre will be reopened to the Public immediately after the necessary appointments and improvements have been made.

Only the best Productions of the best Producers will be shown in these two Theatres. No effort will be spared in making the comforts and delights of these Theatres equal to any in the State.

We solicit your patronage and will endeavor to merit your good will in every respect.

We thank you.

"Y" RECEPTION THE BEST EVER

Games, Eats, and Songs Feature.

About seven o'clock Saturday night a crowd of long, lank, lean, hungry looking ginks assembled in front of Carnegie Hall. Some looked as if they were ready to sing "Hail! Hail! The Gang's All Here", while others looked as if they were expecting something to happen at any minute, in which they could participate and which would cause them to forget, for a time at least, the painful pangs of homesickness and which would enable them to feel at home and sing "There's No Place Like Maryville" instead of "Home Sweet Home". A few loud whoops were given and the crowd moved off toward Bartlett to the cadence of double time. While awaiting further orders, in front of Bartlett Hall, our, to-be, football coach spoke a few words of encouragement and solicited the support of every fellow on College Hill, in all kinds of athletics for the ensuing year.

Then to the tune of a peanut-shower from the roof of the porch of Bartlett Hall all were easily convinced that it was time to "Pack Up Their Troubles" and be one of us. After the superfulous peanuts were sufficiently disposed of, companies were formed and competitive sports were engaged in upon the football field, until the shades of night grew quite dense. Then for the first time in more than three months was the solemn stillness of the giant oaks in the darkness of the College Woods broken by the happy voices of so great an aggregation passing down the "Long, Long Trail" to the ampitheatre near the House in The Woods. Here gathered around the bon-fire, the College song and yell were rehearsed by the old students and introduced to the new. Also many other popular army camp songs were sung in which an enormous amount of pep was exhibited. Then after a few inspiring and encouraging words from our College Pastor, came the long looked for course of buns and wienies which were followed by courses of apples and marshmallows. By this time the flames of the huge bon-fie played leap-frog with each other and joyfully leaped to consume the sticks which were held over the blazes, and incidently the hot-dogs and marshmallows which were pierced by them. Nevertheless the appetites of all were sufficiently quelled and all beat it for the Hall with continued yells and rahs for good time and the "Y".

FUTURE SKY PILOTS HOLD FIRST MEETING

The Ministerial Association held its opening meeting Tuesday night in Bartlett Hall. Old members were welcomed back and six new students admitted to membership. With such fine reinforcements and the backing of the old faithful guard the President, Floyd Watt predicts a most successful and helpful year for the association. Dr. Stevenson spoke for a few minutes in a very fine way on, "The Call of the Ministry".

Say fellows, if you are considering any kind of Christian work, or if you are interested in doing something for the master, come and be one of us, either as an active or associate member. Don't miss our special program meeting. "God had only one son and he made Him a Minister".

LARGEST SNAP EVER KNOWN HELD ON BALDWIN LAWN

Thursday night the largest snap ever known in the history of Maryville was held on Baldwin lawn. Old pupils and new joined in the time-honored game finding it quite complicated as a larger proportion than usual did not know how to play and it was very easy to either get lost or catch the wrong person. Percy Buchannan caught six girls in red dresses before he caught the one who snapped him.

This poem was written by a member of the Class of '76, and was found in the records of the Athenian Literary Society.

SORGHUM

I love to think of days gone by,
When I was young and strong and spry.
Of when I went to Maryville,
Where I was sent my brain to fill,
With Latin, Greek, and all such stuff,
That makes a fellow's mind grow tough.
I love to think of schoolmates dear,
Whose forms before me now appear,
Altho so many years have flown
And I an aged man have grown.
The maidens fair who caused my heart,
To be sore pierced with Cupid's dart,
They too appear to me once more
As fair as in the days of yore,
And too, I love to think of those
Old hills which in the distance rose,
The cedar trees, the buildings three,
And all such things are dear to me,
But time would fail one to relate,
The many things both small and great,
Which with sweet memories fill my brain,
To boyhood taking me again.
But one thing I must not pass by,
For held on the Pedestal high,
Its very name much pleasure gives,
And 'mong my sweetest memory lives
But do not smile to hear me say,
That that which claims my voice today.
Is Sorghum, and my voice I raise,
To speak its worth, and give it praise.
It on the table was each day
In its glass pitchers—and say
No dish more patronized than that
By big or little, lean or fat.
How beautiful and O, how grand,
It did upon the table stand,
In crystal pitchers shining through Golden beauty, fresh and new.
"Meliflunous" extract sweeter far
Than nectar of the gods: There are
On tables filled with splendid things
Prepared for Emperors or Kings
Few things, if I the judge may be,
Oh Sorghum! that can rival thee.
Don't talk of lucious fruits or rare,
And tempting things. They can't compare
With Sorghum. No! it can't be beat.
When looking for a thing that's sweet,
And it's so good to have on hand!
When you have not at your command
Good butter, gravey or such things
To put on things, then Sorghum brings
Sweet consolation, or 'tis good
On almost any kind of food—
Bread, biscuits, pies or batter cakes
Stews or roasts or fries or "bakes"
But words cannot its merits tell,
And so I bid you all farewell,
But when grief comes and sorrows fall
Take Sorghum it will cure them all.

Had you noticed how excited all the girls are? Do you want to know the reason why? It's just this—Mrs. Stevenson is going to lead Y. W. next Sunday out at the House in the Woods.

PERSONALS

First chapel exercises of the year were led by Rev. W. F. Goff.

Mrs. Carson has been visiting her daughter, Miss Susan Carson.

Mrs. John Ott visited her daughter, Miss Helen Ott last week.

Mrs. Alexander spent a month at the sanatarium this summer.

Prof. Davis of last year's faculty was a guest on the Hill last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Parham visited their daughter, Ruth on Sunday.

Mr. Worsham and Mr. Cameron came from Knoxville Saturday to visit their daughters.

Miss Helen Newell, '19 is teaching English Literature and History at Pikeville College, Pikeville, Ky.

Miss Claudia Bogart, '19 is teaching Modern Languages in a New York high school.

Miss Mary Rhea Anderson, a former town student is staying in Pearsons this year.

Miss Jennie Montgomery spent Friday afternoon visiting relatives in Maryville.

Miss Mittye Stovall and Miss Mildred Hoffman are detained at their homes, but will matriculate later.

Miss Gladden Ewers, '10, and Dr. W. E. Robertson were married May 29. Dr. Robertson has charge of the hospital where they are stationed in Hang Chow, Hunan, China.

Misses Emmaline Warwick and Effie Erickson were guests of friends in Pearsons. Miss Erickson will attend school this year in Alabama.

"Pretty Boy" Adams was a visitor on the hill last Thursday. How will the college get along without Bob?

Miss Effie Erickson made a short visit to the Hill last week while on her way to the Woman's College at Montgomery, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Holmes and baby expect to leave Alabama for Virginia this fall. Mr. Holmes will go into the Y. M. C. A. work there.

Mr. and Mrs. Deck Williams, also of '17 have a little son, John Pershing, who will be two months old the twenty-fifth of this month.

Miss Grace Sydenstricker arrived on the Hill Monday morning. She says Rebecca Young will be here the twentieth and Mildred Hoffman the first of October.

Mrs. Chester Leonard of Chicago and Misses Tyler and Anderson of Chattanooga visited Misses Mary Bigelow and Florence Leonard last week.

Dr. Ernest M. Ewers, '08, a graduate of Maryville College, is now at work in the South China Presbyterian Mission, which is situated in South China. His address is Yeung Kong, China.

Proof that old students of the college are well pleased with and interested in the future of their Alma Mater is the fact that most of them brought back with them brothers, sisters, or intimate friends.

Miss Mattie Fisher of the class of '17 is teaching in Roanoke, Alabama. She says there's nothing like it. Three of "her seniors" of last year are in Maryville now. They are Misses Nelle Baker, Laura Reed and Beulah Hatchett.

All old M. C.'s are rejoicing that so many old boys are back after serving in camps or overseas. Among that number are "Red" Hayes, Mike Parks, "Red" Stanton, Tex Middleton, Meade Johnson, and Earnest James.

A report has been sent to the Echo that a certain young man worked for his W-L-ife this summer.

Query: Did Professor Purdy grow a mustache for the same reason that the worthy head of the Latin department did so, namely to keep Freshman from taking him for a prep?

New Student: (in the dining room): Tell me, do they have mashed potatoes and apple sauce every day?

While Hattie drank her pop at the Bainonian-Theta reception, she was heard to murmur dreamily, "Cold as ice, sweet as honey, the more you drink the more you want."

Mr. Stanberry (at the snap): "What hall are you in, Miss Caroll?"

Miss Caroll: "Why I'm in the infirmary, I got homesick and they sent me there."

Miss Mason asked while Madame Dennee was calling the roll the first day in French, "What do they all say 'easy' for?"

Whoever it was in Carnegie who played "Home Sweet Home" last Sunday afternoon should be shot! The music was good—but the sentiment (and the effects.)

"Well, my boy", said the visitor to Bobby, "I suppose you expect to step into your father's shoes some day?"

"Oh, I suppose so", said Bobby gloomily, "since mother learned how to cut 'em down, everything else he wears comes to me in the long run." —Foreward.

BEST FOOTBALL TEAM AND BETTER GAMES

Many Old Men Return

The first week of football practice revealed even better material than had been expected. The "new" men, although some of them are old-timers at the game, are all showing up well and there is no doubt but that some of the old men will have to put up a hard fight to hold their former positions.

Since the last Echo went to press Charles Jellicorse, Cecil Tulloch, and Herbert Ford have returned to M. C. They are all three football stars of pre-war teams; Tulloch and Ford of the 1916 team, and Jellicorse of the 1917 team.

Last year Jellicorse palyed fullback for a Marine team.

With these new additions to what had already turned out, Maryville will undoubtedly have a team with a kick to it that will put wood-alcohol to shame.

At a meeting last week of the wearers of the football M, Ernest James was elected Captain of the 1919 Varsity.

The first game of the season will be played with Carson and Newman on Saturday afternoon. Central High School of Knoxville walloped them 12 to 6 on last Saturday, so they are coming down here this Saturday with the determination to regain their lost reputation. It will be a good practice game to toughen the men up for the big fray with U. T. on October 4th.

Several other changes have been made in the schedule as published last week. The game with the University of Chattanooga has been canceled and the game with Mississippi A. & M. has been moved up from October 18th to October 25th. Games will be played with Center College and Cumberland University, the former on October 11th at Danville, Kentucky, and the latter on October 18th at Maryville.

The schedule this year is one of the hardest in the history of Maryville College football.

GROWTH IN MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The music department has grown steadily from year to year, but the growth this year exceeds all former records. This year it was necessary to provide twelve additional practice rooms. These rooms occupy what was formerly the Y. W. C. A. hall in the basement of the chapel and they are being equipped with new pianos.

The piano department is now employing seven teachers and the enrollment is the largest it has ever been. Miss Winston Newton of the Voice department has been appointed assistant to Miss Gregg. The instructor of violin, Mr. Garrat, reports thirty pupils in his department. This is by far the largest year for Music on College Hill, and we do not doubt but that it will be the best.

FRESHMEN ORGANIZE

The Freshmen held their first meeting Thursday, for the purpose of organizing the class. The following officers were elected after a spirited contest:

President - - - - - - Leslie Jones
Vice-President - - Elizabeth Bassel
Secretary-Treasurer - - - - - - - - - - Howard McGrath
Editor - - - - - Alyce Andes

The Freshmen, one hundred and thirty-one strong, the largest class every assembled here in the history of the college, expect to make themselves felt, seen and heard, by taking part in all the activities of the Hill.

Just keep your eyes on the Class of '23.

COLLEGE COOPERATES WITH BLOUNT COUNTY CITIZENS IN BUILDING A MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

$100,000 Building Planned. Every Student Subscribes.

All Maryville students were very curious Friday morning when they saw Dr. Gamble and Dr. McCulloch sitting in the front of the chapel. Were we to be quarantined again? Was some dreadful disease sweeping over the county? No, we found that their mission was something entirely different. They came to tell us of the splendid hospital the citizens of the county are going to erect as a memorial to the sailors and soldiers who represented the county in the World War. It is to be a $100,000 structure, three stories high, with about forty private rooms, providing wards for male and female, black and white; a children's ward and a contagious disease ward. The doctors of the town, feeling that they know the medical situation more than others, perhaps, have offered plans for the hospital which they think will be large enough and inclusive enough to meet all the needs of all the people of Blount County. They have also kindly offered to treat all charity cases free of charge, thus preventing an increase in taxes for this purpose.

The drive for raising $100,000 began on September 14th, and will continue until October 4th. By that time it is hoped that every member of every family in the entire county will have contributed his utmost to the cause.

Of course we all want to do something for those who made the peace we are enjoying today possible, and what could be more appropriate than an institution which for years to come will make life more worth while for so many people. The boys know what a tremendous part the Red Cross with its medical aid played during the war and feel that if a tribute is to be paid them it should be in the form of a hospital. As it is now many have to travel to Knoxville every year to receive medical attention which could be given them much better right here in the county. It is often dangerous to move the sick so far, and always painful and unpleasant. Just last summer a little girl died while on the way to Knoxville for an operation. A hospital in this county would keep for our own use a large sum of money which is now spent in other places.

A hospital in or near Maryville would be a splendid thing for Maryville College. Every year we have a few cases of serious illness in the college, many of which have to be taken elsewhere for treatment. A short time ago three of our students were operated on for appendicitis within two weeks. We have our own little hospital, it is true, and we couldn't get along without it, but it has no operating room, and it is entirely unadquate for all the cases which need treatment during the year. If there was a first-class hospital in the county we could be treated with less expense to ourselves and others, and at the same time be with our friends instead of with strangers.

The students are citizens of Blount County for the time being and want to help in this campaign for funds, not just because this local hospital will be a splendid thing for them—, but because of the warm feeling they have for the citizens of the county who have stood so nobly by them in their campaign for Carnegie Hall and the Forward Fund. Dr. McCulloch said in chapel that the committee realizes that the students are never flush with money and so the most they ask is a dollar from each student. This is to be subscribed now and paid sometime between now and Christmas. Who can't save a dollar in three months? It would perhaps mean doing without a few feeds, or set-ups, but what are they compared to a large, up-to-date, well equipped hospital? The students of Maryville want to do their part to make this campaign go over the top—they not only want to, but they will.

NEW STUDENTS SEE BEAUTIFUL SCENERY

Hike and A Big Time Under Direction of Y.

The Y. M. C. A. hike conducted by Professor Southwick and George Howell to Montvale and Look Rock was enjoyed by the thirty-one fellows who took the trip. The bunch left Carnegie Hall about 7:45 Monday morning dressed in their old clothes and carrying a paper bag of lunch consisting of a rather nutritive quality of food, egg and jam sandwiches, fig newtons and an apple. Since the lunch was provided by the Y. M. C. A., all the fellows enjoyed it. Ask those that hiked if it wasn't the best lunch they ever ate.

The hike proceeded down Indiana Avenue and upon the Montvale road without a rest at a 4-mile an hour clip until about 9:30, when a stop of ten minutes was made for refreshment and rest at a well beside the road. Another stop was made at the sulphur spring where each tasted the savor of sulphur water. Most of the fellows made wry faces and even went so far as to say that it tasted like rotten eggs.

Thence the hike continued until Montvale was reached. Here at the mineral spring which is one of the sites of the summer resort, a rest was granted, at which time all thirst was assuaged as well as a good lounge upon the soft grass secured. After resting sufficiently the noisy crowd proceeded to the Montvale lake to have a swim.

Half of the fellows took advantage of the swimming hole and enjoyed a good refreshing bath as well as a swim. Having had their swim they were taking a sun bath, when their equilibrium was disturbed by the sight of some women and all fell overboard to cover their unprotected bodies with the cold attire of water. After the excitement of falling overboard, the swimers leisurely dressed.

Then came the trip from Montvale to Look Rock, the rather arduous mountain climb which took over a half hour. It was work to climb the percipitous slope but when the pinacle of the mountain, Look Rock was gained the difficult ascent was forgotten in the delight of the distant beautiful scenery of mountains and valleys. Such scenery was well worth the energy spent to obtain it. Upon the rock, the fellows ate their lunch and rested while searching out the familiar spots in the valley beneath. Could they see Maryville College? I guess they could. Ask some of the boys if they didn't look through a pair of binoculars and see Jimmy Martin moonshining.

At 1:30 the boys reluctantly began their descent of the mountain. In the decent there was no time to question footing. All was done in double quick time. Being thirsty after the descent all stopped at a beautiful little spring for drink and rest. Then began the hike back. It seemed to be a race to see who could get back first. Some rested by the way, while others did not. Those that lingered behind complained of sore muscles, blisters and stiffness. Even some necks were sore, in attempting to see to much. The first of the bunch arrived at the college at 4:30 and the rest came straggling in bunches.

Talk about prespiration, sore muscles and blisters, all had their share. But considering everything all agreed that the time taken for the trip was time well spent.

MARYVILLE MERCHANTS

There are a large number of the Maryville merchants who advertise in the Highland Echo. This is evidence that those merchants are interested in the college and in the welfare of the students. It is a well known fact that the Highland Echo is one of the principal factors in promoting the interests of the college; but it would be absolutely impossible to run the Highland Echo without these advertisers.

The price of subscriptions alone will not support the paper, it must have advertisers. The Highland Echo has advertisers who believe in advertising because they have confidence in the students of Maryville College.

Now, since it is clearly seen what the merchants who advertise in the Echo are doing for the paper, the students' duty is evident. It is unnecessary for this matter to be mentioned to the old students, for they all patronize the merchants who advertise in the college paper, but we would suggest to both new and old students that they look at the ads in the Echo, before they make their purchases. Let us make our advertisers know that we are going to give them the support they deserve.

A WORD FROM THE DIRECTORS

At a recent meeting of the directors of the College the following resolution was passed:

That the Directors learned with peculiar pleasure of the very generous subscription of $3,200 made by the students to form what they named the Samuel Tyndale Wilson Wilson Victory Fund. The subscription was made at a critical moment in the history of the Centennial Forward Fund Campaign, and, besides the substantial value of the fund itself, it has a much larger additional value in the general interest it aroused and the impetus it gave to other movements in behalf of the general Centennial Fund. The Directors thank the students for their generous loyalty, and congratulate them on the stimulus it gave to co-operation on the part of others.

SPLENDID TALENT COMING HERE ON LYCEUM COURSE

Sale of Season Tickets Should Be Large.

ATTRACTIONS WELL SELECTED

Numbers Will Be Both Inspiring and Enjoyable—Course Is a Community Asset.

An excellent list of attractions has been selected for the Lyceum Course here this season, and the sale of season tickets should be unusually large.

Reports from the well-known Redpath Bureau, from which the attractions on the course were secured, state that never before have so many communities arranged for Lyceum courses. People everywhere are welcoming the great opportunity offered by the Lyceum for good, clean entertainment and lectures of an inspirational and authoritative character.

A Lyceum course is certainly an asset to any community. It brings to the community men of note to talk on important themes, and it also furnishes music, song and story of high standard. The Lyceum cannot but make for better citizenship.

The local course has been carefully selected, and the attractions will be found to be both inspiring and enjoyable.

JUNIOR OFFICERS

A meeting of the Junior Class was called last week for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. The results were as follows:

PROFESSOR HALL LEADS CHAPEL

Wednesday morning the students of Maryville College received a welcome surprise when they saw Professor Hall, a former instructor of music on the platform. He spoke a few minutes on "The things you see when you look up". Some people when choosing their life's work see only rich plains and dollars; others see things that are spiritual. A striking illustration was used of two brothers who were selecting their plans for life. One saw only material things. He went to the oil and coal fields of Western Pennsylvania and became wealthy. His children, who became criminals, squandered his wealth and in the end he had nothing.

The other brother settled down on a farm and gave his children an education, and later on three of his sons became ministers.

In planning for the future one should think of others, for you are not only planning for yourself but for your family also.

After the devotional exercises Professor Hall lead a few popular songs such as, "Smile a While", "Long, Long Trail", and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny."

WEDDING BELLS RING

A wedding of unusual interest to graduates and former students of Maryville as well as to many who are now in college occurred at Cedar Falls, Iowa, August 18, 1919, when Mr. Arthur S. Kiefer, a former coach and physical director at Maryville, and one of the most popular and efficient that the college ever had, was married to Miss Josephine Knapp, a member of the class of 1918 and a daughter of Prof. G. A. Knapp of the Maryville College faculty. Mr. and Mrs. Kiefer are living in Columbus, Ohio, where Mr. Kiefer is in charge of the athletics and physical training in the city schools.

Did Congress pass on the prohibition of water too? If the scarcity of water continues the Hill will be a desert.

Those who have been in College for the past two weeks have experienced weather which has been the usual run for the past two months. The springs in the mountains from which the College receives its water supply are about to run dry. At present there is just enough water for necessary consumption. For this reason the swimming pool has not been opened. The fountain which was running the first week has been shut off. The college authorities have been so busy for the past two weeks preparing for the incoming students that they have not had time to arrange for an additional supply of water. Now that the rush is over and the students have been started to work, the college officials have planned to obtain a supply of water from a different source. The town water-line is to be connected with the college line and soon we will have all the water we need.

:--:--:--:

Many students have left home for the first time. It is natural for new students to be dissatisfied with their new homes as they are so different from the homes which they have left behind. The old students have been doing their best to make the new students feel at home.

The familiar proverb, "When in Rome do as the Romans do", is very applicable in this instance. The old students and the college cannot adapt themselves to please each student. Each and every student must apply himself or herself to Maryville College.

Every new student should immediately take part in college activities. Forget the friends you have left behind you by forming new ties of friendship. Let the old students and the faculty know what you can do—not by making yourself rediculous, but by doing something that is worthwhile. There is plenty of work for those who will do it.

While in the class room you will learn various theories. If you are studying a science you will be required to practice these theories in the laboratory. If you are taking a literary course you will be required to deliver speeches or write essays. The same is true of all other courses. But no matter what course you are taking there is a great opportunities for you to test the laws, rules, theories, or hypothesis which you learn in the class room, in the pages of the Highland Echo.

LET US MEET TOGETHER AGAIN

Last year the four literary societies held a joint meeting every fourth week of each month, in the college chapel. The joint meetings were held so that those who were well advanced in literary work would have an opportunity to develop themselves along lines different to those offered by the respective societies. Many of the boys and girls were able to speak well in their own society, but when the time came they were unable to speak before a large audience.

The joint meetings were directed by a committee from each society. These committees arranged the program for each meeting and selected an equal number of members from each society to perform. The programs for these meetings were composed of plays, readings, songs and music of various kinds. The meetings were always interesting and well attended.

The purpose for which these meetings were held was, to create an interest in society work. This year there are a large number of new students on the hill, many of whom, do not seem to be interested in society work. If they were to attend a few meetings such as were held last year they could not help being interested in literary work.

Last year the joint meetings were started near the end of the fall term. The fall term in Maryville College is the quieter of the three. Now is the time for the societies to start the meetings. The demand for orators and public speakers is as great if not greater than ever before. Why not start the good work—NOW

A REMEMBRANCE FROM THE CLASS OF '19

A somber shadow fell upon "The House in the Woods" when the Centennial Class graduated and left College Hill, for the members of this splendid class had become very dear to the hearts of the College Pastor and his wife. But shortly after their departure a welcome ray of light gilded the gathering clouds of gloom with memory's affectionate and unfading hues, when a beautiful gift in the form of a graceful Bird Fountain arrived, and it now stands upon the lawn a daily and perpetual reminder of the young men and young women whose diplomas bear the date of 1919.

The love and gratitude of the inmates of "The House in the Woods" go out to the Centennial Class, and they are assured that a warm welcome awaits them there whenever they revisit their Alma Mater.

A FOOTBALL GAME

The game of football which was to have been played here Saturday has been called off by Carson and Newman College. But a game is being arranged for that day.

Intoxicated man at jail service just after the close of the leader's talk: "Say keeper, hic, can't you let this fellow out?"

ATHENIANS HOLD BIG MEETING

The representatives of the "Oldest Society" on the Hill with their guests held their first open meeting Saturday night under the shade of Athena. The room rapidly filled and as the newcomers piled upstairs, the window sills, and platform were utilized. It was a great and manly crowd that greeted President F. Minarik's flowery speech in which he urged the men to join a Literary Society, but be careful and not join either the Bainonians or Thetas. Time after time the soloist of the evening, P. Buchanan was recalled to thrill his melodious notes.

Both Farmer and Jones scored a hit with the new men by presenting their papers, the first on "Antiquities" and the "Athenian". Jones' concluded his paper with a dissertation on table manners which brought down the house.

The meeting was a characteristic one of Athenian spirit with its good fellowship; its pep and its good cheer; which was emphasized when the new names were presented for membership. Thirty new men were given the hand of fellowship. A tremendous cheer resounded through the rafters of Old Anderson at this reception of new men. With these reinforcements the Athenian goes marching on and to "carry on".

"Red" Hayes, Moss Farmer and Harry Wagner starred in the refreshment part of the program.

The next meeting of the Athenians will be held at "Uncle" Joe McIlvaine's farm, who gives an invitation to the Athenians and their friends, to a camp-fire meeting. An excellent program (see bulletin board) has been prepared. The Athenians invite you to attend this meeting. There is a well founded rumor that "Aunt Lizzie" McIlvaine will have a surprise for the boys, just what it is—well, come and find out.

THETA EPSILON

The First Meeting of The Year

The girls of Theta Epsilon are back again with their heads full of new ideas; and the usual result of a Theta girl's idea is a program of such superior merit as to make everybody wonder "what those Thetas will pull off next".

The first meeting of the year was held Saturday night in Theta Epsilon Hall. The president, Lycia Johnson gave an opening address of welcome to the new girls. Then Miss Minnie Hunter rendered one of her most entertaining readings; a group of Theta's famous comedians, in the capacity of a Backward Chorus, delighted the audience with an uproariously funny song. And Misses Maude Hite and Valle Higginbathan reproduced a scene from "Romeo and Juliet Up-to-Date". Misses Grace Majure, Lucile Middleton and Vivian Hall furnished the music for the evening. Miss Majure rendered a piano solo, and Misses Middleton and Hall, a violin duet..

The concluding number was entitled "The Family Photograph Album". For this number, Miss Catherine Wilson played the part of a very small girl entertaining her mother's visitor by showing her the photographs in the family album and, incidentally, revealing the family secrets. Well-known Thetas represented the various aunts, uncles and cousins and posed behind a wooden frame provided for the purpose.

Before adjourning the girls both old and new manifested their enthusiasm for Theta Epsilon in a number of stirring yells.

Maryville College 1819-1919

Rev. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, D. D., President

I. ITS PAST. Founded in 1819 by the Synod of Tennessee, it has served the church and the country for one hundred years. Thousands of its former students are scattered over the world.

II. ITS PRESENT. Its enrollment in 1918 was 826—386 young men and 440 young women—of whom 320 were collegians. 567 students from Tennessee, and 257 from 35 other states and countries. Its teaching force of 60 professors and assistants.

III. ITS PLANT. It has property of all kinds amounting to $1,100,000. Twelve buildings, including the new Swimming Pool; waterworks, sewerage, steam heat and electric lights. The campus contains 250 acres.

IV. ITS COLLEGE CURRICULUM. It offers ten groups of study leading to B. A. degree: Classical, Modern Languages, Science, Mathematics, Education, English Literature, and History, Psychology and Philosophy, Social Science, Home Economics, and General. Fifteen units are required for admission to the Freshman Class. A two-year pre-medical course is offered.

V. ITS OTHER DEPARTMENTS. 1. Preparatory. 2 Bible Training. 3 Teachers. 4 Home Economics. 5 Agriculture. 6. Manual Training. 7. Bookkeeping. 8. Music. 9. Expression. 10. Art.

VI. ITS MORAL ATMOSPHERE. The College is strongly Christian, and the discipline is careful. The students' spiritual welfare is the first concern. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are very efficient. The Bible is a required text-book.

VII. ITS INEXPENSIVENESS. 1. Tuition is $6. a term. 2. Room rent for each student, with two in room, $18 to $35 a year. 3. Board in the Cooperative Club of 600 members, $2.50 a week. 4. Text-books rented. General library free. 5. Opportunities for self-help afforded.

FATAL FORGETFULNESS

Discussed By Professor Hunter At Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

The Bible gives many examples of character. Some men have many good qualities while others have bad qualities; the latter are given as warnings of negative character and should not be patterned after.

Here is a list of Bible men and the things they did which displeased God: Jonah tried to run away from God; Saul was strong physically, but he was disobedient and was rejected by God; Samson, the strongest man did evil in the sight of God; Absalom was a murderer; the sons of Eli were evil; Judas betrayed Jesus; Gehazi, the servant of Elisha was forgetful. Gehazi had forgotten that he held next to the highest office in the land and was subject to promotion if he deserved it. He, like many others, wanted to take things into his own hands a little bit; so when he saw that Elisha had sent the leper, Naaman away without taking anything for his services Gehazi went and overtook him and told him that two sons of phophets had come from Mount Ephraim and that he wanted a talent of silver and two changes of garments for them. Naaman gave him two talents of silver and two changes of garments. But Gehazi did not take the gifts back but hid them in a secret place. Gehazi forgot that success is not always measured in dollars and cents and changes of raiment. There are at least two things for which money is no substitute. They are a clear countenance and a clear conscience. He lost his ease of conscience in exchange for gold, and exchanged a clean record for twenty-five thousand dollars and two suits of clothes. Gehazi had forgot that evil cannot remain hidden but it always leaves the brand indelibly stamped on our countenance. He knew there were at least two men who knew the deed and there was one place he always had to shun. Gehazi forgot that Holy associations cannot be trifled with. He might have become a leader but instead he became a thief; he might have become a healer, a physician, but instead he became a leper; he might have had a worthy name but instead he had a loathing memory.

We should keep in touch with God by being in active service. Let us not forget that there is no substitute for a clear conscience and a clear countenance—not even good grades in the class room.

VESPERS

A most inspiring address was given on the seventh verse of the eighteenth chapter of Matthew. "Woe unto the world because of offences." Any man may be a hindrance or an impediment to himself and to those around him. There are students in college naturally dragging millstones around with them. It is to all of these offences that the woes deal. As an illustration the speaker used Bramner's words as he thrust his hand into the flames, "Oh thou unworthy hand thou shall burn first."

The second class to whom these woes are directed, is those of superabundant piety—the pharasiac type. Men may err by being too pious, but the great masses offend by their passive attitude, and delude themselves that they shall escape. They rail criticism at the church and its members and forget that Christ is the perfect, flawless and matchless church and life. Such men are as stumbling blocks on the way. "Woe unto you who hinder and block the way". Again there is the do nothings who live as if there were no God, and hold themselves aloft, also come under the condemnation. Each one is a saviour—each is thy brother's keeper—so live for others.

COMING!

Theta members of the faculty will give the next Theta program. Mrs. E. L. Ellis, Mrs. Raymond Smith, Miss Edna Dawson, Miss Mary Kate Lewis, Miss Carmen Park are among the number who will take part. Nuff said!

ALPHA SIGMA

The Alpha Sigma Literary Society held its first meeting Saturday, September 20th. A very delightful evening was had by everyone present.

The program was full of fun, entertainment and instruction. A musical selection was rendered by Miss Gregg, the teacher of voice in the college. After this selection President James gave the welcome address in which he defined the Alpha Sigma spirit and urged all the new students to join one of the Literary Societies. Then Mr. Weisbecker gave his readings, which were very much appreciated by the entire audience. Following the readings was a debate: Resolved, that: The United States should ratify the Peace Treaty without alterations. The affirmative was upheld by Howard McGrath, the negative was supported by Phillip Sheffey. After a heated discussion by both the debaters, the decision of the judges were given in favor of the affirmative. One of the outstanding features of the program was the talk given by Professor Knapp. The Professor said, although he was a professor of mathematics he was deeply interested in public speaking and literary work. The program was concluded by the reading of the Alpha Sigma Advance by Cody who had prepared a very interesting paper.

The Alpha Sigma Society wishes to extend its thanks to the two members of the Faculty who gave their services in taking part in the program. The music given by Miss Gregg was intensely appreciated as was shown by encores. The talk by Professor Knapp was one that will long be remembered as being humorous and instructive, by all that were present.

There are bright prospects for the Alpha Sigma for the coming year. Several new names were added to the list of members; and the old members are showing enthusiasm and pep. The spirit has started, and it will continue to grow throughout the year.

SUFFRAGETS ON THE JOB

The Suffrage Club held its first meeting Tuesday night in Theta Hall. Numerous plans of work for the year were discussed, one of which is the readoption of the little French orphan. The officers for this term are:

THURSDAY EVENING MEETING

Dr. Stevenson gave a very informal and practical talk to new and old students, the occasion being the first Thursday evening service of the new century, as well as the new school year.

His theme naturally was one specially for the occasion, "First Decisions". The beginning of a college career to any student is a crucial year; it involves great and weighty decisions which if made right enhances life. It is a year of great responsibilities; responsibilities never dreamed of, and which make necessary, decisions of far-reaching importance. After enumerating some of the recent decisions made necessary by elective studies, the pastor urged the new students to choose the hard tasks, for, they are the "acid test" of character. To give the proper emphasis the Doctor told Mr. Dooley's story of the president of a new modern college who takes the new student into his sumptious office and tenders him a cigarette, and asks, "What branch of learning he would have one of his competent instructors study for him?"

In summary the pastor gave a list, rather startling, to be sure, both to old students as well as timid Freshmen, as to what an educated man ought to know. The educated man ought to know the literature of three other languages besides English. The great movements in History should be as familiar to him as the history of his own country. He must know how to investigate—in other words he should have had mastered the scientific method. Sociology, Economics, and Philosophy must have a place in every life. Life should be linked to the whole realm and be a part of the whole. Life should have a broad and wide foundation, yet room should be made that, "you may be mistaken."

Y. W. C. A.

Although the rain prevented us from enjoying Y. W. at the House in the Woods, Mrs. Stevenson braved the storm and came over to lead the meeting in Bartlett Hall.

The subject for discussion was, "What Can I Do For Maryville?", and after giving a very helpful talk with many worthwhile suggestions, Mrs. Stevenson asked each girl to mention some practical way in which each of us could really contribute something toward a better Maryville through the Y. W. girls.

There was a report from the nominating committee of the Junior Y. W. C. A. and the following officers were elected:

President - - - Rebecca Calderwood
Vice-President - Nina Belle Caldwell
Secretary - - - - Marjorie Lloyd
Treasurer - - - - Christine Copeland

Next Sunday there will be a short Recognition Service in connection with Y. W. Those who are missing the Y. W. C. A. meetings, are not getting their "money's worth out of College life". Start now and be a regular attendant.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS MEET

New Students!
Old Students!

Do you know that there is always one place where you are all welcome? Every Wednesday night a short informal meeting of the Student Volunteer Band for Foreign Mission Service takes place in a Pearsons Society Hall? If you are NOT interested come! If you are, come all the more and if you are a Volunteer come by all means!

Wednesday night, September 17th a short meeting was lead by Mr. McGrath. As the year leader was not present, no new business was brought up and the time was occupied by a short, well directed talk by the evening's leader, and devotions.

Some new faces were there, but we need more of them—or rather the world needs more of YOU for our purpose is "The Evangelization of the World in This Generation."

Every Wednesday evening, immediately following supper in Pearsons Hall. Show us that you're here!

ALUMNI NOTES

The Alumni editor especially requests that the Alumni and Alumae send him items of interest in regard to themselves and others. We are all anxious to keep in touch with each other, and this is the only way it can be done. Do not be too modest to let us know of your own progress. Your fellow alumni are as much interested in you as you are in them. You probably know news of other Maryville graduates that has not reached the Alumni editor. Send it on, so that all may share it.

1903.

DORTON-FRANKLIN—On the fourth of June at St. Elmo, Tennessee, a suburb of Chattanooga Miss Mabel L. Franklin of the class of 1903 was united in marriage to Mr. James Monroe Dorton. They are making their home at St. Elmo.

1916.

SMITH-CATLETT— This was a Maryville wedding and both bride and groom are well known to Maryville graduates. Mr. Raymond O. Smith, '16, is a resident of Maryville and has a position at the Aluminum Plant. The bride, Miss Jonnie Willie Catlett, is a former student of the college and since graduating from the Department of Music has been an instructor in Piano in the institution. The wedding took place on the seventh of June. Mrs. Smith is continuing her work at the college this term.

1917.

KELLY-SUGG—At the home of the bride's parents in Christiana, Tennessee, July 2, 1919, Mr. Charles Francis Kelly and Miss Margaret Sugg, '17, were united in marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly are making their home in Cleveland, Tennessee.

1916.

Evidence that His Eminence Daniel Cupid has not laid aside his arrows is seen from the fact that cards are out announcing the approaching wedding of Mr. Harwell B. Park and Miss Bernice Lowry, both of the class of 1916.

JUST FOR FUN

Mrs. Towndweller: "What is that horrible perfume, Mary? Where did you get it?"

Little Mary: "Miss—, in Pearsons Hall gave it to me, Mamma. She's got a whole bottle full and she says its violent essence."

Never mind, new students, even the faculty makes mistakes, when Miss Ruby Dawn reached the end of the receiving line Friday she was Miss Morning, and Miss Jena Parrott by a process of evolution not understood by Freshmen found herself Miss Byrd.

Sentimental New Student, putting a piece of steak on her plate—"Doesn't it seem a shame that this poor animal should have to die for us?"

Cynical Old Student—"Ah, yes, indeed! It is rather tough."

Dean Barnes (to his Psych Class): "I'm going out for a minute and will be back when I return."

PERSONALS

Harold Leyshon was visiting on the Hill Sunday.

Lake Russell was on the Hill Sunday. He is to attend U. T. this year.

Bob Adams was here again last Sunday.

Homer Wallace, a graduate of our Prep Department last year is to attend U. T. this year.

Ralph Smith, '19 has matriculated at U. T. for an engineering course. We did not believe he could stay very far from the Hill.

James Ensign and Eugene Williams are to attend Cornell University. The former is going to specialize in Agriculture—the latter in Engineering.

VOLUME FIVE — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1919. — NUMBER THREE

HALF HOLIDAY FOR FIRST FOOTBALL GAME

EVERYBODY OUT FOR THE FIRST FOOT BALL GAME OF THE SEASON

MARYVILLE TEAM FULL OF CONFIDENCE FOR VICTORY OVER U. T. ON WAIT FIELD. A GOOD GAME IS GUARANTEED.

The football game to be played with U. T. on Wait field at 2:30 Saturday afternoon will not only be the first of the season but will also be the first in importance as viewed by the students of M. C. and all Maryville fans. U. T. has long been our greatest rival in all branches of athletics, but especially in football.

It has been a good many years since a Maryville football team has "brought back the bacon" from Wait field but we have an aggregation this year which will hit Coach Bender's bunch with such momentum that they will not forget it for many days to come. U. T. will fight as long as there is life, and then some, rather than be defeated by Maryville, but there is also the same fighting spirit present in our Orange and Garnet clad Warriors whose cry has always been, "Get U. T.'s Goat", and who will support this cry with all that's in them, until the blowing of the last whistle.

On last Saturday afternoon the Volunteers defeated Tusculum to the tune of 27 to 6, but unless they make remarkable progress during this week they will do surprisingly well to cross Maryville's goal line for even one touchdown.

We will be at one disadvantage, however, in that this is our first game of the season. Owing to the fact that Carson and Newman cancelled their game at such a late hour, it was not possible for Manager McLaughlin to secure another team to play us on that date.

But Coach Feeman has a scrub team selected which will give the Varsity some real stiff opposition every afternoon this week, so that the team which bucks the Vol machine on Saturday will by no means be green.

As has been the custom for many years a half holiday will be given and a special train will be run to Knoxville shortly after dinner. Special seating arrangements will be made whereby a certain section of the grandstand will be reserved for Maryville boosters.

An effort is also being made to secure reduced rates for M. C. fans on tickets to the game. The return trip will be made on the 6 o'clock train arriving at Maryville at 6:45. The supper hour will be moved up to 7 o'clock.

FORENSIC LEAGUE MEETS

The Forensic League met last Tuesday evening for the purpose of organization. The following officers were elected:

Oscar Stanton - - - - President
Jason B. Deyton - Vice-President
Earnest K. James - - Secy.-Treas.

These men were former members of the league and all had won places on intercollegiate debates. From this corps of officers a successful year is expected for the Forensic League.

The purpose of this league is to make arrangements for intercollegiate debates and to conduct the preliminaries by which the intercollegiate debaters are chosen. All new men who expect to try out for intercollegiate debate are requested to investigate this matter at once. Any of the old members will gladly give prospective debaters any information they desire concerning the league.

There are bright prospects for the league this year. Already arrangements are under way for at least two intercollegiate debates. The officers and members are very active. Professor Hunter who was the coach last year is putting forth every effort to arouse enthusiasm and interest in the league. Already he has begun to make plans for this year's inter-collegiate debating. So we have sufficient reasons to believe that Maryville will put some successful debaters in the field.

LAW CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The year's first meeting of the College Law Club was held in Alpha Sigma hall, Tuesday, September 23, with a gratifying large number of both new and old men present. The temporary chairman, Mr. Harry Pearson, and several other speakers called attention to the fact that in the past the Law Club had been a mere dead-letter organization, having no time or place of meeting and accomplishing no more than having its name in the annual and College catalogue.

The following officers were elected:

President - - - - - Oscar Stanton
Vice-President - - - Harry Pearson
Secretary-Treasurer - Frank Minarik
Program Secretary, C. E. Edgemon
Editor - - - Hammond Fowler, Jr.

On Friday, Sept. 26th, a second meeting was held for the purpose of voting on the constitution and perfecting plans for real activities during the college year. A regular time of meeting was appointed, a course of active work along legal and political lines was suggested, and sentiment was expressed in favor of making the Law Club an organization in which membership would be an honor. After some discussion and amendments the constitution was adopted.

Let's have a mass meeting in the Chapel Friday evening!

MISS NEILSON READS "THE DOLL'S HOUSE"

Miss Edna Dawson Plays

A large crowd was at the chapel Friday night to hear Miss Hortense Neilson read "The Doll's House" by Obsen, under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. The audience was most pleasantly surprised by a piano solo—a Liszt Terantelle by Miss Edna Dawson. Her playing is always enjoyed, but Monday night it was especially good.

"The Doll's House" is a drama of three acts deputing the modern woman in her struggle against the old conception of womanhood. The first scene shows us Nora, the loving self-sacrificing wife who has just returned from doing her Christmas shopping. She had been brought up by a doting father who had always formed her opinions and even governed her very moods. He had always considered her as a doll with whose dancing and laughter he could while away the time when he had nothing better to do. He had not attempted to teach her anything.. As she herself acknowledged when she went to Torwald's house to live she merely became his plaything, his little bird who laughed and danced ever so prettily whenever she wanted anything. Though her outward life was so cramped and narrow her woman's soul was waking even if she did have to work in an underhand way. Eight years before the play opens she had borrowed money from a lawyer of rather shadey reputation with which to take her husband on a trip which the doctor prescribed as the only thing which would save his life. In order to borrow it she forged her father's signature and thoughtlessly dated it three days after his death. This was all a profound secret from Torwald and she used ever cent she could save or beg from him to pay back the principal and interest.

Torwald was a man most upright in his own eyes, one who would never stoop to the slightest deception, or would never be dictated to by any one. But when he thinks that by forging her father's signature his wife has ruined his reputation, he immediately loses his temper—declares that Nora is not fit to bring up his children, that they can no longer live together as man and wife, save in appearance, and that perhaps the scandal could be hushed. Though he does not realize it he plainly shows that his idea of crime is not doing wrong, but getting caught. When he finds that the one man who knows of the forgery is willing to keep it quiet his fears are at once relieved and he munificently forgives his wife, expecting her to laugh and sing immediately. Then it is that her womanhood excits itself. She calmly tells him to sit down for a long talk—the first serious one they have had in all the eight years of their married life. Then she tells him that she is going away because her first duty is not that of a wife or a mother, but her duty to herself as an individual, and that she must learn for herself about the laws and religions and troublesome problems of this world before she will be competent to help others. However, she holds out the hope that perhaps, sometime, when they have both changed, very, very much, they may live together again in the beauty of common understanding.

Like most of Obsen's plays "The Doll's House is so simple that it is difficult. Only a master can read into it all that is there, bringing out the delicate touches of character and the climax so important to an understanding of the whole, and yet so apt to be presented in a way that the hearer will not grasp it. Too, Nora's character made of the clinging type of woman, and also the independent modern type is so unusual that it is trying to say the least. Those who heard Miss Neilson Friday night have just begun their study of Ibsen, he is the kind that it pays to read and hear again and again.

KRYL'S ORCHESTRAL SEXTETTE COMING OCTOBER THE 8TH

This year the Redpath Bureau has a Kryl company organized by Behumir Kryl, and he states it is one of the best he has ever organized.

Miss Agnes Knoflickva is the leader of the sextette, and as an individual artist, is indeed competent. She has a splendid position among the younger violinists of the country.

Miss Bernice Arthur is another artist of the sextette whose work stands out prominently. She is the pianist of the Company, but she also features with the accordian. In addition with her brother, Edward Arthur, who has been a drummer with the Kryl band for a number of years, she appears in a marimlaphone duet.

THE FIRST CLASS PARTY OF THE YEAR

Seniors Entertained at The "House in The Woods".

September 30, 1919.

Dear Lower Classmen:

Who says we, the class of '20, don't know what a Senior Party is, nor how to give one? The first one (which will not be the last) was a decided success. To begin with Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson met us at the door and gave each such a cordial welcome that we immediately felt at home and began playing school. Miss Campbell was teacher and, although Riverside and West End tied for the prize in recitation both were penalized for mis-behavior and the Little Red School in the corner obtained first honors.

A bit of history made by the class (unbeknownst to them) follows:

"And it happened in the month of September of the year 1919 there assembled at Maryville a class of Seniors, destined to be we know not what, but surely something great! Those who make this class roll come from far and near. From Los Angeles, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Hangchow, Albany, Dubois, Pa., Kansas City, and Sunshine. At an early date they assembled for organization selected a tall, juicy, sweet, slimy, slushy, slick, slippery, oozy, streaky man for their president. The vice-president is the slouchy super-obnoxious, heterogenous, homogeneous, spiffy, categoramatic Catherine Ridgeway. Miss Hunter, another unsophisticated, pugnacious, delicious, sunshiny, superstitious, girl was made secretary and because his peachy, snubby, simple, magnanimous, outlandish, curlish, finecky, sesquipedalian, (this means 1 1-2 feet long and was contributed by Dr. Stevenson) hands are capable of handling money, Homer Weisbecker was made Treasurer. And to her whose figure is small but whose brain is mystical, silly, precocious, grouchy, noisy and black, falls the duty of recording our actions in that white, green, adorable, divine, exquisite paper the Highland Echo. These Seniors are at this minute assembled at the attractive, puscilaneous House in the Woods enjoying the hospitality of their genial, well-beloved, beautiful, angelic, taciturn, magnanimous, logical, solidified, beautiful college pastor, and his attractive wife."

After this bit of history readings and music were given by Misses Irrovia Corry, Hattie Hayes, Cerena Polk, and Homer Weisbecker. A faculty meeting, having been called, the refreshments were served and enjoyed and we meant to bring everybody a sandwich but Weisbecker got into the kitchen and was only exterminated after Ruth promised him a lunch for his breakfast.

Thus ended the party. Oh it was great and the Stevensons were the chief reason for the success. Wishing you may be Seniors some day we remain,

The Class of '20.

P. S.—Edith Moore celebrated her ——th birthday, but we aren't allowed to tell it.

THIRD PREPS ORGANIZE

September the twenty-fourth, the Third Preparatory Class elected the following officers:

President - - Rebecca Calderwood
Vice-President - - James M. Brown
Secretary and Treasurer - Barbara Higgins.

The Faculty has granted a half-holiday for Saturday afternoon so that the students will be able to attend the game with U. T.

Tickets will be sold for the game at half-price, 50cts.

A special train will leave for Knoxville at 12:30 on the Southern Railroad.

Let's support the team by accompanying them and cheering for them during the game.

Subscription price $1.00 everywhere, paid in advance. Thirty issues guaranteed.

Entered as Second-class mail matter in the Postoffice at Maryville, Tennessee.

Why is it that an audience composed of college men and women who are able to come away from home and live among strangers, that they may receive an education, is unable to sit still for the space of two hours and listen to those who are trying to entertain them, especially when they have paid to hear what is going on. It looks as if they would listen to every word to make sure they get their money's worth, but instead they seem to think they have paid to hear themselves talk. Surely, only a small percent of our students belong to this annoying class, but the number is so large that the whole school is judged by these comparatively few people. Babies are not allowed in picture shows and theaters lest they disturb someone; people who cannot listen quietly are politely but forcefully asked to leave most places of amusement. We are all too old to be prohibited from going to entertainments at the chapel or elsewhere or to be asked to leave after we get there, so let's follow that rule which was a habit with George Washington who was called a perfect gentleman, and "never talk when others are talking", or in a little broader motto, "Do unto others as you'd have them do to you."

MARYVILLE'S ORCHESTRA

"Is that not great music?" This question was asked by a student as he passed the chapel the other night. Of course, the answer was "yes". And be it further known the orchestra which was the source from which these streams of melody emanated so as to provoke the question above, is going to be the best ever.

Professor Garrett, who is instructor on the Hill in violin, is to be the leader of the Orchestra.His accomplishments as a musician are many, and under his leadership this orchestra ought to surpass anything we have had in the past along these lines, if it were entirely dependent upon him—, but no it can not be that way.

The co-operation of the students who can play is necessary. It is an honor to belong to the orchestra and everyone should help boost his Alma Mater in orchestral endeavors if he or she, can do so at all.

So be advised—all you people who can play an instrument which can work in on an orchestra hand in your name IMMEDIATELY at the Treasurer's office—here is one time you can go to the treasurer's office and not leave money there.

BRASS TACKS

Mr. Weisbecker's Subject At "Y" Sunday Afternoon.

For what are brass tacks used? Some say brass tacks are used to hold things together; others say they are used to hold things up. If these are their uses, then, what are the brass tacks of our Christian Life? The brass tacks that are of the greatest importance in our Christian Life and the ones that hold us the closest to God are the brass tacks of prayer.

The need of prayer is greater than we often realize. Many of us often forget or neglect to pray until we are almost forced to prayer, because of some accident or when we are in trouble; then sometimes we try every other available remedy and when all other things fail and comforts flee we always fall back to prayer. Prayer should not be looked to as the last possible source of comfort but as a first aid station, where the remedy for all ailments can be administered without delay.

The little secret sins often do more harm than the larger sins because they pass by unnoticed. Prayers of pride, insincerity and selfishness pass by unnoticed because we cannot tell just what is in the heart of a man when he prays, even when the prayers are audible. Such prayers may sound reasonable to the ears of men, but God looketh on the heart. We should cut loose from these secret sins, and beware of fear, wealth, and pleasure which often hinders prayer.

BAINONIANS HOLD FIRST MEETING

And still they come!

Tall girls, small girls, neat girls, sweet girls, girls old and girls new flocked to Bainonian last Saturday evening in such large numbers that those who were present no longer believed, "There's always room for one more".

Bainonian programs are always good and of course the first program of the new year could be nothing less than the best.

After a week of hard, strenuous, laborous study it was delightful to be led into a bright and sunny flower garden where "Mistress Mary", alias Miss Mary Louise Hayes, had her Human flowers perform for "her country Rube", Miss Hattie Hayes, and incidentally the audience.

First there was a chorus by a number of sunflowers—whom seemed easy enough to get started—but once started required all the magical art of Mistress Mary to subside.Next came the "Iris", known outside the flower realm, as Miss Jessie McGill whose solo charmed the "country swain" as well as the entire audience.

The Forget-Me-Not's, alias Miss Imogene Copeland's humorous reading evoked shouts of laughter from her hearers. Next into flower land came a cactus and a rose, Miss Myrtle Rendon and Miss Francis Hickey, who on the light fantastic toe tripped through the measures of "Coming Thru The Rye".

Miss Sue Drinnen who represented a gladiolus rendered a very beautiful violin solo.

The "buttercup", alias Miss Irrovia Corry delighted the audience with "Buster", a reading of both humor and pathos.

The program was completed by the "Four O'clock" quartet. And the audience agreed with the Country Lad that, It was pretty good, pretty good!

The President, Miss Mildred Campbell in her address expressed the sentiment of every Bainonian "We are going to have a big year—wont you be one of us?"

THE ALPHA SIGMAS MEET

Did I? Well I should say so!

Where were you? Studying! On Saturday night! Well you sure missed the time of your young life.

The old Alpha Sigma is certainly getting a fine start. Everything points to the best year in the history of the society, and every fellow in the society is there for good literary work; that's what all the societies were started for and we mean to make that work so valuable that no fellow can afford to miss it.

Of course that kind of work doesnot appeal to every fellow and we don't want those who came to school primarily for a good time. But we do want fellows like you who came here to get the best and most that Maryville offers, and we'll guarantee you a mighty fine time every Saturday night.

Last Saturday we had piano solos, orchestra music, a fine reading, an extemporaneous debate, and about fifteen minutes of Parliamentary drill. Can you beat that?

Resolved, that there is more pleasure derived in attainments than in pursuit. An old subject, but there were some extremely new and interesting points brought out by our two married men, which will certainly serve as a warning to some of us who have had less experience along that line.

Note:—I'd tell you the substance of the debate if it were not for the fact that the better halves of both speakers are in hearing distance, and it might prove injurious to the negative speaker, and after all he's an Alpha Sigma.

It may be true that a rolling stone gathers no moss, but sometimes its just that moss that's the trouble with some of us. Do your studying on study nights and put on a new record for Saturday. The Alpha Sigma extends a Royal Welcome to such as you.

A SONG SERVICE PRAYER MEETING

The Thursday evening prayer meeting was very successfully led by Professor E. W. Hall, a former choir leader and professor in this institution. For some time he was engaged in Y.M.C.A. work in the camp, and he has acquired the art of bringing out in song the best that is in his audience.

After the congregation had shown their ability to sing, Professor Hall encouraged community singing on the Hill and also the sending forth of leaders into the communities of the town and surrounding country. The organization that would be formed would be a pleasure and recreation to the communities as well as an education. The entire audience enjoyed and appreciated the solo, "His eye is on the Sparrow", which was sung by Professor Hall. The service was concluded by singing one verse from each of eight songs, all in five minutes. Community singing is customary in a great many cities and schools. Why should it not be in Maryville and Maryville College?

ATHLETIC BOARD OF CONTROL

On Saturday the Athletic Board of Control met and the following managers and captains were elected for the year 1919-1920:

Catherine Ridgway, Manager Girls' Basket Ball Team, Grace Bailey, Captain; Horace Brown, Manager Boys' Basket Ball Team, Harry Wagner, Captain; Jarvis Cotton, Manager Base Ball Team.

Elsie Dawson was elected secretary of the Athletic Board of Control. Young Hayes was elected to take the place of Lake Russell as Student Representative.

THE CHILHOWEAN STAFF

At a meeting of the Junior class held last Friday morning the nominating committee for the Chilhowean officers made their report, and the nominees were unanimously elected. Martha Robison was chosen Editor-in-Chief; Lamar Wilson, Business Manager; and Jarvis Cotton, Advertising Manager. Other members of the staff are to be appointed at a later date.

ATHENIANS HELD CAMP FIRE MEETING

A stranger driving along the Crooked Creek pike early Saturday evening was heard to exclaim, "I wonder where all those boys can be going!" To a lot of the boys they wondered also, but as the woods resounded with their songs and yells, and the warm glow of a fire gleamed through the distant trees, they knew an Athenian welcome awaited them at "Uncle Joe's". "As the boys marched past the house", said "Uncle Joe", "it sounded like an army."

Gathered 'round the camp fire the boys sang a few songs and then Professor E. R. Hunter gave a talk, using as a basis the preamble to the constitution of the Athenian Society. The chief end of the society is, "To promote virtue, to encourage philantrophy, and to encourage the study of literature. "Uncle Joe McIlvaine", in his usual witty and inexhaustable humorous way told of the early days of the society's work. His speech was full of stories of men and events prominent in the work of the college. A "Pennington" story was read by Miss Ethel Fanson in her delightful boyish manner.

The business part of the meeting was made very brief, but in that short space of time thirty-five men signified their intention of becoming Athenians. Then in the red glow of the fire with the tall silhouettes of the pines for a background, an inspiring sight was witnessed as sixty-five men swore alleigence to the Athenian.

As the "eats" were being served the boys and their guests passed around the stories, and such stories, big stories, ghost stories, fishing stories, cat and dog stories; stories never to be forgotten, even the ladies caught the spirit and told credibly good stories.

For the next meeting the Athenian quartet will render a selection; instrumental selections, readings and a debate, will complete the program. Place, at ye sign of ye Owl and ye Crescent.

"TEXAS CLUB" ORGANIZED

A meeting of all students from the Lone Star State was called by Miss Ludeman, President of 1918-1919. The Texas bunch of this year is larger than the old Hill has ever seen from that distant state.

Miss Ludeman conducted a "peppy" meeting in which everyone got acquainted, so there will be no more lonely Texans roaming the campus.

The following officers were elected:

Mr. Tex. Middleton - - President
Miss Henry Etta Ludeman - - - - - - - Vice-President
Miss Nina Bell Caldwell - - - - - - - Secretary-Treasurer
Miss Lucile Middleton - - - Editor

VESPERS

An unusually appropriate address was given by the pastor from the tenth verse of the ninth chapter of Ecclesiastes which reads, "What soever thy hand finds to do, do it with thy might: for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest."

Opportunity presents itself to all men, but it must be done now, before we pass on. It is necessary that the young people improve the chances presented and then "Do whatever thy hand find to do". The successful life is but the reflection of the inward life.

The life that is dark within is dark without. The trait of character of all successful lines has two qualities, "A sturdy faith and steadfast love." Cyrus W. Field is an embodiment of these qualities. Despite his failures, the ruin before him thru the ravages of war, he persisted in faith and love to a decisive triumph in 1866 when he sent the first message across the Atlantic cable. Given these two qualities nothing can stand in the way. But they must be joined, they must co ordinate, they must cooperate and work harmoniously; it is not sufficient to have one, for one is the engine without steam, the other steam without engine. They are the qualities which give strength in weakness and carried on the Apostle Paul. We pass through life only once and so it is the only chance men have to do something in a hurrying, jolting world.

OH, THOSE HAPPY COLLEGE DAYS!

Charles Ray, the Thomas H. Ince-Paramount Star, Revives the Spirit in His New Starring Vehicle, "The Girl Dodger"

Charles Ray's new photoplay, "The Girl Dodger", a Thomas H. Ince-Paramount picture, which will be shown at the PALACE Theatre next FRIDAY is clean-cut entertainment from start to finish. It has the ingredients of a thoroughly fascinating tale of school days—or college days. The adventures of Cuthbert Trotman, a dreamy student, who is compelled to take the place of a lively associate when a dinner in honor of a chorus lady and her friends planned by the other conflicts with a more serious affair, is the basis of a plot that involves the hero in some of the most amazing adventures. He finally extricates himself by his fistic prowess and despite his dreamy outlook and his studious tastes, wins the other fellow's girl. Needless to say, Charles Ray is the dreamy student. Doris Lee is the girl.

The pranks of students, the distracting experience of the student when he mistakes the fashionable affianced of his friend for the chorus girl, the ensuing contretemps and a series of the most amusing and exciting complications, provide material for what is termed the most rapid fire film that has been produced by Mr. Ince in a long time.

1908.

Miss Mary V. Alexander sailed for Japan in August where she will take up work under the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. Her mother, Mrs. E. E. Alexander, also a graduate of Maryville, in the class of 1875, accompanied her. This is not a new field for Miss Alexander as her father, Rev. T. T. Alexander, and her mother were for many years missionaries in Japan and she herself was born there. Miss Alexander and her mother have a host of friends among Maryville Alumni. Miss Alexander was for a number of years one of the most efficient and popular teachers in the Preparatory Department and her former students will join with the Alumni in best wishes as she enters upon her new work.

1909.

Miss Almira C. Bassett, after spending the summer at home in Maryville has returned to her work in the East Waterloo High School at Waterloo, Iowa. Her brother, Prof. H. J. Bassett, '04, after spending the summer in the University of Michigan met her in Chicago and went on to Waterloo with her for a few days visit before returning to Maryville.

1911.

Mrs. Andrew Waggoner, (formerly Miss Blanche Proffitt), has been visiting with home folks in Maryville. Her husband, who was a member of the class of 1914, was in Maryville over Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Waggoner and their little son returned to their home in Morristown this week.

1913-1914.

William Moore, '13, and Addison Moore, '14, were in Maryville this summer selling their household goods and closing up their affairs. William is teaching again at Okernah, Oklahoma. Addison who has but recently returned from service in France has accepted a position in the schools at Albuquerque, New Mexico. Their father, Rev. Arno Moore, is also in Albuquerque. Horace is a student at Maryville.

1916

Born to Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Proffit, of Cleveland, Tennessee, a son. Mrs. Proffitt was formerly Miss Grey Webb. Both she and her husband were members of the class of 1916.

1917

Chester Leonard who has been in charge of the church at Varely, Tennessee, during the summer has returned to Chicago for his last year's work in McCormick Seminary. Mrs. Leonard, formerly Miss Josephine Wicks, visited friends in Maryville and Chattanooga before returning to Chicago.

Y. W. C. A. IS DIVIDED

The first meeting of the Senior Y. W. C. A. as a separate organization, was held in the chapel Sunday night, after Vespers. The meeting a Recognition Service, was in charge of the Membership Committee. The scripture lesson was read by Valle Higginbotham. An appeal to the new members for co-operation was given in a beautiful and inspiring talk by Ethel Doctor. Hattie Hayes very sweetly sang "I Came to Jesus".

The most impressive part of the service was the Recognition of the new members, the membership committee lighted each new member's small candle, and placed upon her the badge of the Y. W. C. A. Then with only the lights of the many candles, the new members formed a circle and repeated the Mizpah.

The Y. W. C. A. membership at present is the largest in the history of the college, and we have every reason to believe that this year will be the best. Let us all do our share in making it one.

LOST—A military ring, (with American coat of arms on it) it was lost between the Maryville wholesale house and the Purdy home. Return to college office. Reward offered.

UNUSUAL THEME OF "WILDFLOWER" ITS CHIEF CHARM

Dainty Marguerite Clark Seen As Sweet Woodland Girl In Photoplay.

Marguerite Clark, the fascinating Paramount star, will appear in "Wildflower", at the Palace theatre next MONDAY. The photoplay is a delightful tale of sweet innocence and eternal youth, admirably exemplified in the personality of Miss Clark.

"Wildflower" is a refreshing note in the regular routine of film production. It transports the spectator into far, green fields, out into the open spaces, where the guile of the city does not penetrate. Yet we catch a glimpse of the city, too, with its yellow lights and yellow hearts, and its numerous infamies. But always the wholesomeness of the great outdoors dominates the plot and the action, and the final victory over villiany and deceit brings us back again to the forest and its purities.

The action in "Wildflower" is closely knit, and the pleasing tale is unfolded with ever-increasing interest. Miss Clark makes the character of "Wildflower" a genuine delight, an elfish, untutored whimsical little nymph who learns the ways of civilization and who is made the victim of its delicate tortures in the learning. But in the end she masters the culture of the city, and incidently the heart and soul of a devoted and faithful lover.

PALACE PROGRAM

FRIDAY—

A Paramount Attraction featuring Miss Enid Bennett in "HAPPY THO' MARRIED"; an old story told in a new way, is married life the only happiness? This problem is solved by dainty little Enid Bennett. Harold Lloyd comedy "Count Your Change."

SATURDAY—

Constance Talmadge in "A TEMPERMENTAL WIFE", a story of love and adventure, a comedy-drama unsurpassed with filmdom's greatest little comediene. A Fox Comedy "SHADOWS OF HER PAST". News. No. 38.

TUESDAY—

Constance Talmadge in "Happiness A'La Mode" a melodrama with an unusual story, something new in entertainment. Pete Morrison, western "At the Point of a Gun" a western love drama. Ham and Bud comedy, "Ham's Strategy."

WEDNESDAY—

Lina Cavalieri in "Two Brides" a Paramount-Artcraft production. He tried to reach her heart through gifts, flattery and money; and he failed. But there was one way open, a most mysterious way. Did he find it? Did he fail? Lyons-Moran Comedy "ALL BOUND AROUND". Railroad Raiders, a Helen Holmes serial.

THURSDAY—

A Paramount Attraction starring MARGUERITE CLARK in "MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH"; which shows Marguerite Clark at her best as the lovable, comical little lady who is always trying to do things for other people. See this picture, you are bound to like it. Mack-Sennet comedy, "THE VILLAGE SMITHY". Mutt and Jeff in "Paris".

ALABAMA CLUB

Did you hear us laugh? Then you know we had a good time at the Alabama Club last Monday afternoon on the ideal picnic spot of the campus. There were thirty-three of us there, all from Alabama. We played a lively get-acquainted game, then had our lunch of sandwiches, punch and fudge.

After the lunch we elected the following officers by secret ballot:

James Jackson - - - - President
Mildred Striplin - - Vice-President
Geraldine Odel - - - - Treasurer
J. Lynn McClung - - Secy.-Editor
Young Hayes - - - Cheer Leader
Lucile Harris - Chairman Social Committee
Mary Louise Hayes - - Chairman Program Committee

Miss Jenny Montgomery who has been sick at the hospital has gone home for a week.

VOLUME FIVE — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1919 — NUMBER FOUR

MARYVILLE ELEVEN LOSES HARD FOUGHT FOOTBALL GAME TO U. T.

TEAM WELL SUPPORTED FROM THE SIDE LINES BY 500 MARYVILLE ROOTERS. PEP SHOWN UNTIL LAST BLAST OF WHISTLE. U. T. YELLS COMPLETELY DROWNED OUT.

In a game showing the weaknesses of the team due to lack of experience and practice, Maryville opened the season by losing a hard fought contest to U. T. at Knoxville on October 4th.

Maryville, outweighed and outplayed except during the first quarter, fought an uphill fight for the four quarters of the game. The final score was 32 to 2, but the game was not so one-sided as the score might lead one to suppose. Never during the entire game did Tennessee find it easy to make lengthy gains against Coach Feeman's machine, but the superiority of the Bender machine must be admitted.

Although our team was not entirely lacking in these respects, there is much room for improvement and this improvement is possible only through experience and coaching.

The game was frequently interrupted by time being taken out and by frequent substitutions by both U. T. and Maryville. U. T. played almost three teams and Maryville almost two. Coach Feeman gave twenty-one men a chance to display their powers under fire.

The punting of Jellicorse who sent the ball 60 yards downfield in one instance, and who frequently kicked out of danger was a decided factor in our defense. Also his powerful line plunges netted some very substantial gains. The Cullis brothers showed the real stuff in their first game on a M. C. eleven. Their deadly tackling was one of the outstanding features in Maryville's part of the show.

Ford showed that he is still the hard fighter that he was in the season of 1916. To say that his tackling and blocking was stellar is to put it mildly.

The two points which saved Maryville from a shutout came toward the end of the first quarter, when, with the ball on Tennessee's 35 yard line Powers attempted to punt, the Tennessee line did not hold and Cullis blocked the ball which bounded back over the goal line, where Powers recovered it, giving Maryville a safety and two points.

The spirit shown and noise made by the five hundred rooters who went over from Maryville is to be commended. Even up to the blowing of the last whistle, yells and songs which completely drowned out the U. T. rah, rahs, were forthcoming from the Maryville section of the grandstand. The Knoxville Journal and Tribune said: "But if Maryville was outplayed on the football field the five hundred rooters who came from that city to the game partially made up for lost glory, by out-shouting and by making more noise than did the two thousand odd Tennessee sympathizers present."

THE GAME IN FULL

First Quarter

Maryville won the toss and chose to receive in the south end of the field. Powers kicked off, the ball going for 50 yards to Moore who returned 20 yards placing the ball in Maryville's possession on her own 30 yard line. Cullis gained 3 yards over center; Hayes 2 yards over center; Tennessee penalized 5 yards for off-side making first down. Three attempts to gain through U. T.'s line failed; Jellicorse passed 20 yards to Moore making first down. Hayes no gain; Cullis gained 2 yards; Weisbecker lost 3 around end and Hayes gained only 1 yard through tackle on fourth down. Tennessee's ball; Powers went through the line for 3; Smith went 2 around right end; A. Lowe, no gain; Powers punted 40 yards to Weisbecker who returned 10 yards before being tackled by Lindsey. Time out for Lindsey.

Maryville's ball on 15 yard line; Cullis gained 1 yard over tackle; Tennessee penalized 5 yards for off-side; pass from Jellicorse to Moore failed; Jellicorse 6 yards around end; Jellicorse punted 35 yards but the ball was called back and Maryville penalized 10 yards for holding; Jellicorse attempted to punt, but the effort was blocked and Ford recovered the ball on Maryville's 20 yard line.

Maryville's ball; Cullis made no gain around end; pass to Hayes failed. Jellicorse punted 55 yards to Powers who let the ball bound by him and was downed on Tennessee's 35 yard line; Power's attempt to punt was blocked and Maryville made their only scores when Powers was thrown for a safety after recovering the ball. Score: Maryville 2; U. T. 0.

The ball was in Tennessee's possession on the 13 yard line; center tossed the ball past Powers, and after it had rolled 20 yards up the field Powers recovered it and returned 20 yards; Hatcher relieved Lowe at fullback; a pass from McCabe to Powers failed, making third down; Hatcher attempted, a drop kick which went wide and Maryville was given the ball on the 20 yard line.

Cullis and Hayes both failed to gain; a pass was incompleted; Jellicorse kicked 40 yards, McCabe returning 20; Hatcher gained 5 yards over tackle and then failed completely in the next play when Johnson cut him down. Powers plunged the line for 1 yard.

The first quarter ends with the ball in U. T.'s possession on M. C.'s 35 yard line, fourth down with 3 to go.

Second Quarter

Hatcher went 5 yards over tackle; Powers ran 20 yards around left end for a touchdown. Hatcher kicked goal. Score: Maryville 2; U. T. 7.

Ruble relieved Tulloch who sprained an ankle. Jellicorse kicked 50 yards to Deitzen who returned 15; Hatcher gained 6 yards off tackle; McCabe and Powers failed to gain; Norgan went in for Moore; Hatcher pushed through center for 10 yards and first down. Deitzen 8 yards around left end; McCabe 3 yards through tackle and first down. Powers 4 yards over center; Hicks replaced James. Dietzen 3 yards through center; Powers ran 15 yards around left end for first down; Maryville was penalized to her 1 yard line for "piling up"; Blair in for Powers; Buchanan in for Hayes; Blair made Tenessee's second touchdown. Hatcher kicked goal. Score: Maryville 2; U. T. 14.

Jellicorse kicked off 50 yards to Evans who returned 10; Evans replaced Deitzen; Evans no gain; Tennessee penalized 10 yards for

SECOND LYCEUM NUMBER OCTOBER 14

RALPH BINGHAM.

Ralph Bingham, the second number of the Lyceum is a humorist who for forty years has been making audiences laugh, and is still in the prime of life. This is accounted for by the fact that his first appearance was at the age of six years when he traveled as the "Boy Orator of America". He has made more than 10,000 platform appearances. He is an impersonator, a humorist, a violinist, a pianist, and a vocalist. De Witt Talmage has said of him, "Bless Bingham and all the apostolic college of humorists. The man that makes me laugh is my benefactor. Bless all people who mirthfully surprise us with unusual juxtaposition of words. Theirs is a divine mission."

Mr. Bingham will appear at the chapel on October 14th.

CHARLES WALKER VISITS THE HILL

Addresses American Literature Class.

The class in American literature was more than delighted when Mr. Charles Walker who stopped in to see Mrs. Alexander for a few minutes last Friday morning, was prevailed on to tell the class something of his experiences while abroad. He told of a trip he took through parts of England, Scotland and Ireland. He saw Robert Louis Stevenson's home, and not only Scott's birthplace, but much of the country in which his plots are laid. He said that the country around Burn's home was so beautiful that anycne could write poetry there. He also saw Shakespeare's home, the shipyards of the Clyde, the Giant's Causeway, the Darby and Asquith races. One thing which particularly impressed Mr. Walker was the fact that the castles which were the homes of kings and queens three hundred years ago, were not nearly so comfortable as the homes of the common people in America today. The class was amazed at his familiarity with English literature so long after having had English five and six. He referred to different works of Scott and Keats and Shelby as familiarly as to the A B C's. The class is hoping he will give it another talk sometime soon.

SPLENDID MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT RENDERED BY KRYL'S ORCHESTRA

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS GOOD PROGRAM IN COLLEGE CHAPEL. VARIOUS INSTRUMENTS USED. CLASSICAL AND POPULAR MUSIC PLAYED. MISS KNOFLICKVA THANKS AUDIENCE FOR ATTENTION.

On Wednesday evening in Voorhees chapel a large audience was royally entertained by Kryl's Orchestral Sextettte. Practically every year for some time past Bohumir Kryl, the famous bandmaster and cornetist, has organized an important musical company for the Lyceum department of the Redpath Bureau. Several of these companies have entertained us in former courses but surely no performance has been more pleasing than the one given last evening. The program, was carefully selected and consisted of popular and classical music in enjoyable proportions.

Miss Agnes Knoflickova, leader of the Sextette was very competent indeed both as director and an individual artist. She displayed unusual ability and her playing was marked by sympathetic feeling and a wonderful technique.

Miss Bernice Arthur, pianist of the company, displayed a well developed technique and an accuracy and ease of execution that was very pleasing. Her selections on the accordian were also highly appreciated.

Mr. Wheeler player of the clarinet and saxaphone and Mr. R. Klinst cornetist showed great competence in the rendition of their numbers. Miss Fox, violin and piano and Miss Fox, cello and cornet completed the company.

The variety of the program and the apparent ease of execution of the various numbers together with the appreciativeness and close attention of the audience made our first lyceum number of the year a decided success.

TRYOUTS FOR INTER-COLLEGIATE DEBATE

The first preliminary try-out for the intercollegiate debate teams will be held Friday, December twelfth at three o'clock. The following questions will be debated in this try-out. Men who have not up to this time made a place on a Maryville team are urged to enter this preliminary. All prospective candidates are requested to report their candidacy to Professor Hunter by October twenty-eighth.

1. Immigration should be prohibited for three years.
2. All men physically fit should be required to serve one year in the National army.
3. A national board of compulsory arbitration should be established to settle disputes between labor and capitol.
4. The United States should accept a mandate for the administration of Armenia.
5. Congress should enact the Plume Plan for the control and operation of interstate railroads.
6. The United States Senate should ratify the proposed alliance with England and France for the protection of France against Germany.
7. The British Form of responsible cabinet government is superior to the American system of irresponsible executive.

REV. WILLIAM McCLUNG LEADS CHAPEL

The chapel services Tuesday morning, were led by Rev. William McClung, who was a member of the class of '92. He told a few of his experiences which occurred in his college life and what induced him to answer the call of the Macedonian, "Come over into Macedonia and help us."

His aim in life is to tell the people how to be saved. The reason that he has undertaken this work is, on account of his own experiences, and from his observations Not one in ten thousand unsaved persons knows how to be saved.

The purpose of life should be to give all you can to the world. In the long run the life of service is the one that counts.

Miss Postlethwaite has been giving an average of twenty treatments a day for bad colds. All pupils are urged to take this precaution. It costs two cents.

SOCIAL SURVEY OF BLOUNT COUNTY

A social survey of Blount County will be made in the near future by students in the Department of Social Science. The survey will be directed by Professor Southwick, but will be under the auspices of the Interchurch World Movement which is making a social survey over the entire United States, the director for Tennessee being Dr. Thos. F. Dixon of the University of Tennessee.

Part of the work of the survey will be to gather information on the topography of the community, population, economic conditions, extent and kinds of improved roads, number of farms worked by owner or tenant, schools, denomination and strength of churches, number and strength of granges and other farmers' organizations, social feeling and all community activities. The entire county will be mapped to show the boundary line of each "trade center" of each community, and of each parish within that community.

The purpose of the survey will be to gather facts underlying social and economic problems of the county, with a view of working out plans of co-operation between the various churches, schools, granges, and other community organizations toward a solution of these problems.

This work is strongly endorsed by the college authorities, pastors of the town churches, and leading business men.

A county committee will be worked out later through the churches, granges and other organizations. The duties of this committee will be to carry out a program of community betterment formulated as a result of the social survey.

The students who will work on the survey are, Messrs. Morgan Cox, Pascal Fields, Virgil McClung, Ralph Armstrong, H. T. Nace, Frank Oats, Eugene Stanbery, Donald Talor, John Moss, Karl Kirkpatrick, Roy Griffitts, and the Misses Ethel Doctor, Elizabeth Irwin, Mary Hayes and Mrs. Morgan Cox.

The football game with Centre College, which was to have been played at Danville, Saturday has been canceled. Another game has been arranged to take its place. Cumberland University of Lebanon, Tennessee will play here Saturday October 11th.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

George B. Callahan, '20 - - - - - - Business Manager

Subscription price $1.00 everywhere, paid in advance. Thirty issues guaranteed.

Entered as Second-class mail matter in the Postoffice at Maryville, Tennessee.

It is recognized by everyone connected with Maryville College that the college paper is an important factor in promoting the interests of the college. Athletics have their position. Everyone knows that a college must support athletics, and this college takes great pride in its efficient athletic teams. Debating is also essential to the upbuilding of the college, and Maryville has always shown a great interest in debating. Consequently an athletic and forensic fee is charged each student. Now, since the college paper is equally as important as either of the above named activities why not charge a fee for the college paper?

Each student should be a subscriber to the college paper; and a fee charged at the time of matriculation would be an easy, business-like method of increasing the number of subscribers, which would inevitably secure more advertisers, and besides be a great help to the students. No student will admit that he should not be a subscriber, then why not use this simple method of putting his name on the subscription list?

:--:--:--:

Dormitory life in Baldwin is beginning to drift into its normal course again. At any rate the "Saturday night feasts" have been renewed with great vigor, as was surmised by the delicious smell of cocoa that escaped through the key hole of number six, when the inmates Misses Mary Bigelow and Florence Leonard entertained a number of their friends at a big "feed".

Friends of Miss Eva Gammon an old student of M. C. will be interested to learn of her marriage to Mr. Williard Percy Slaughter.

CONCERNING ECHO SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENTS

On or before next Wednesday, October 15th the Echo subscriptions are due. The Business Manager is visiting the various halls at times announced at chapel and on Bulletin boards. Arrangements will be made to collect from town students on a day to be announced.

Let everyone be ready to respond with his or her dollar when the hour comes for collection. This means a service to all concerned. The paper will be paid for and the Manager and Editor can put out extra pages oftener when definite income has been secured. Then too, the proper names and addresses can be adjusted. If any copy has failed to reach a subscriber we want to hear this. Extra copies are kept at all times for making good this missing issue. Let us know if any address is changed. "Every subscriber to get every issue" is our aim and we purpose to do our share if told of the copies not received. In a few weeks we shall have a printed mailing list and sure delivery will be certain. Until then co-operate with us and you will get your paper.

Mistakes are possible in every work of life, you know. So if we do something you dislike, let us know. We will remedy the cause.

Subscriptions are still coming in and we are solicitors of them. They are good for us and helpful to you. If your friend hasn't subscribed have him do so at once. But above all—Pay Your Subscription On Or Before October 15th. Listen and watch for announcements of dates of collections. A chance will be given every one. And if unpaid for, a paper may be discontinued within a few weeks.

Thanking you, Subscriber, for your dollar.

"The Echo."

JUNIOR ALPHA SIGMA

On account of the unusual strain on all the literary societies last year, the Junior and Senior sections of the Alpha Sigma united. But the old Alpha Sigma is "swinging back to normal". The Junior Alpha Sigma will hold its first meeting next Saturday evening in the Junior Alpha Hall at 6:30 o'clock. The program will consist of:

Reading - - - - Clarence Davidson
Current Events - - Wilbur Templin
Debate: Resolved, That the present war tax on all luxuries should be removed. Affirmative, Mason Mann; Negative, Malcolm Miles.
Alpha Sigma Advance - - Charles Mayes.

All new Preparatory men are cordially invited to attend this meeting. The program will last only one hour and if you don't think that this will be an hour well used just ask any one who has been to one of these meetings.

Clara Boring was visiting old friends in Baldwin last Monday.

Miss Campbell Discloses The Secrets of the Golden-Rod.

Time was when the fairies lived, among the flowers, talked to human beings and gave them beautiful gifts, but since man has grown so wise and skeptical, these little people have lost their power of human speech so that we are often unaware of the presents that they have so bountifully bestowed upon us.

One of these fairy gifts which many of us may not be aware that we possess, is that which was given to each of us on the date of our birth by the faries who live in the golden-rod. For convenience sake it was made to fold up so that it might be made every small, take up only the tiniest bit of space, as it lies tucked away in some corner of our heart. You may or may not have guessed by now that this fairy gift is a measuring stick—but because it is to be used for a purpose much greater than that of measuring our mere physical height the fairies made it pure gold, so that we should never confuse with a common yard stick or measuring tape; and because they wished us to remember that it came as a special gift from the golden-rod fairies they made this tiny measuring stick, when unfolded to be a rod in length—since it is possible for us to grow very tall in some ways, a rod is not one bit too large for a unit of measure.

And on this very useful gift we find that, instead of inches and feet, the spaces are marked off and named in a manner which suggests some of its magical power, and was at some time the fairies way of telling us what we should call this measuring stick—first came "G" for the good, we might accomplish through its use, "O" for the Others whom we may help, and so though to the end of the rod. "L" for love, "D" for diligence, "E" for Earnestness, "N" for Nerve, "R" for readiness.

We may use this gift often, and always to our advantage, but it was the wish of the fairies when the gift was bestowed that at least once a year, at the time when the goldenrod blooms, we should draw from its secluded corner in our hearts, this little golden measuring we have attained when measured in golden-rods.

THURSDAY EVENING PRAYER MEETING

"Swinging back to normal" was a very timely subject for the weekly meeting. Dr. Gillingham showed that the people of the world as well as the people of the United States are living in abnormal conditions. This was first brought to the country's attention during the Balkan war of 1912. But long before that there has been abnormal conditions. For since 1500 B. C. there has been only about 250 years of world-wide peace.

Therefore any corrective agency is a return to normal conditions. But corrective agencies are slow. The deliberations of the peace treaty, the ratification of the same, the demoblization and the attempts at readjustment, all require a long period of time. The present movement is like a great pendulum at the moment of pause. That pause cannot be part of the stroke, any attempt to make it so will result in failure. Henry Ford's peace mission is an example of interferring with the swinging pendulum. The pause may be prolonged through strikes, by I. W. W. agiators, and by Bolshevism, but the swing is surely back to normal. No, not the old normal for that was destroyed through four years of war. From the ashes of the old a new and higher normal shall be established. The present need is confidence and equilibrium on this higher basis. Economic conditions illustrate this fact, war destroyed but people rise to the need and production increased. Naturally prices rose and some artificially, but time will correct these. The natural changes will remain.

The task is not back to the old normal, but to establish a new normal safe for posterity.

BALLAST

Professor Brittain's Subject At Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

Professor Brittain told us of an island that had been formed during the war. This island was made on the Atlantic Coast of the United States and it was made of French soil and rock. We wonder why an island should be made on our shore of French soil and rock. Do we not have enough soil and rock to make an island if we wished to or needed to? Certainly we do. But during the war our ships took over loads of men an other necessary supplies and there was nothing to bring back.

It was necessary to load these ships down with something to keep them from being so easily tossed about or even upset by the tempest and winds. They were loaded with ballast in order to balance them and to sink them in the water so that they would run more smoothly and be more easily controlled. This ballast must be loaded on while near the shore for when the ships get away from land it is difficult and often impossible to get ballast.

Several instances were given of men who had tried to steer their frail barks without any ballast and they were all stranded on rocks or completely lost in the sea of life. Other instances were given of men who were well loaded with the ballast of responsibility who made their voyage on the sea of life more successfully. We should never let our ship be entirely empty, but keep it loaded with the ballast of responsibility so that our character will be protected from the tempests on the sea of life.

VESPERS

The rains of the Sabbath brought forth the topics which involved the use of nautical terms. Professor Brittain used such a theme and Dr. Stevenson later in the evening chose a nautical setting.

The Vesper service, therefore was a consideration of the text found in Acts 27:17; "They used helps undergirdling the ship". This was not an uncommon experience of travellers and many times resort had to be made to the use of chains. Against his advice the companions of Paul launched out only to run into this experience of strengthing the ship with chains.

The ship of state is a common expression of government, but it also stands for life, for life is a voyage, often storm tossed, and like governments, often on its beam's end. Life like the frail lark of our text is easily shipwrecked—made a shipwreck of his character, of his career, of his home, and he has gone to pieces, are common, everyday epithets applied to life. What are the chains undergirdling and strengthening men for the voyage of life? They are all within easy reach, none are heaven-high, none are buried in the earth, or in the depths of the sea; the temple of eternal truth was not reared by man's hand and is within the reach of all. The first of the chain is prayer. Prayer links the world with golden lands and links all men to God.

The second chain is the acquaintance of good literature. Here, and through them one may summon the noblest and best of the world for thy companions. Generol Wolfe said "I would rather be the author of that poem (Gray's Elegy Written in a Churchyard) than the man to take Quebec." The third chain is that of friendship, but that includes qaulties that bring about friends, as courtesy, kindness, and generosity.

The fourth chain is that of being linked to a divine spirit of unlimited power. This is the great sustaining chain; it is the means by which the latent power may be used; it is the unbreakable chain that will sustain the shipwreck.

ALUMNI NOTES

1906.

The many friends of Roy H. Beeler will be pleased to learn that he has just been appointed City Attorney of Knoxville. The appointment is for two years and the position is a lucrative one. The appointment of Mr. Beeler was one of the first acts of the new commissioners who were elected last month.

1908.

Rev. Theron Alexander, who has been pastor of a Presbyterian church in Florida, is now located at Springdale, Arkansas.

1912.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Duggan, of Detroit, Mich., have been spending a brief vacation with Mr. Duggan's relatives in Sevierville. They were in Maryville last Saturday morning and at the Maryville-U. T. game in Knoxville that afternoon. They left for Detroit that night where Mr. Duggan is Traffic Manager in the General Offices of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton.

Mr. Orton Duggan, who for several years has been Pastor's Assistant in the Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian church at Detroit is now located in Chicago where he has charge of the Boy Scout work in the section of the city between Lincoln Park and Evanston. There are about seventy-five organizations under his control.

1913.

Mrs. Hattie Lester Felkner, is now living in Oak Park, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago. Mr. Felknor has an excellent position as night superintendent of a factory in an adjoining suburb. Miss Mary Kate Rankin, '14, of Dandridge, visited with the Felkner's in Chicago for a week or two during the summer.

1914.

Rev. A. G. Hinkle, who has been located at Fort Gibson, Oklahoma, is now pastor of the Presbyterian church at Tahlequah.

1915.

First Lieutenant Emmett Kilpatrick is located in Paris, France, where he is connected with the American Commission to Negotiate Peace.

1918.

Mr. John Pershing Williams arrived on the 25th of last July at Bluefield, West Virginia, to share the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dock Williams, both of the class of 1918. It is predicted that the Maryville class of 1940 or 1941 will have as one of its leading members John Pershing Williams.

1919.

Friends of Miss Jane Morton, graduate of the class of '19, will be interested to know that she is now teaching English Literature and History in the High School of Frostburg, Maryland.

CHATTANOOGA CLUB

The Chattanooga Club met and organized last week. The following officers were elected:

A. Woodworth Cullis - President
Miss Margaret Huston - - - - - - - - Vice-President
Miss Mary Newwell, Treas.-Editor
Miss Jeanette Ensign - - Secretary

The bunch had lots of pep and immediately planned a picnic which the rain spoiled for us. We're not discouraged tho, and plan to have it soon. It will be followed by lots of other good times. We are looking for every Chattanoogan to be present at the next meeting.

BAINONIANS HAVE BUSINESS MEETING

On account of the lateness of the hour, and because so many of the girls returned from the game, tired, sad, weary, and wornout, the Bainonians did not carry out the program they had planned for Saturday evening. A short, peppy business meeting, however, was conducted at which time many new names were presented for membership.

The Bainonian program for next Saturday evening will be one of unusual interest. All new girls are invited to attend.

VOLUME FIVE MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1919 NUMBER FIVE

RALPH BINGHAM THE FAMOUS COMEDIAN ENTERTAINS

SECOND LYCEUM NUMBER WHICH WAS GIVEN OCTOBER 14TH WAS A GREAT SUCCESS. AUDIENCE KEPT LAUGHING FROM START TO FINISH.

Ralph Bingham, humorist, impersonator, violinist, pianist, vocalist, and general worry killer proved himself to be a master of his art in the way he swayed the crowd which packed Voorhees Chapel Tuesday evening, October 14th. At times the crowd was rippling with laughter, but in the intervals between laughter there was perfect silence in order that not one word might be lost.

Mr. Bingham in his introduction said, "I ain't not no distinguished lecturer" but he would have a hard time convincing the people who heard him that this is true, for by his work he proved himself to be a lecturer of the first class. But lecture is not all he can do—he is not a one-talented man—for he is a musician of no mean skill. In fact one of his musical numbers, the monologue story of Bill Johnston, proved to be one of the most popular parts of his lecture.

In this story he follows Bill through a variety of experiences, in each of which it is necessary for Bill to play his one and only piece, "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight", on the piano. The piece is played six times, the first time as Bill plays it at home; the second in church modified into a hymn tune; the third to waltz to at the home of a lady friend; the fourth as a jazz tune; the fifth as a wedding march; and the sixth at a funeral.

As a violinist alone Mr. Bingham could take a place on the Lyceum platform, as he proved by the way he rendered the old tune, "Listen to the Mocking Bird" and other popular selections.

If there was anything in the whole lecture that merits unfavorable criticism it is that part in which the lecturer, in a serious vein, gives his vision of the reason why American entered the war. This is a theme which has been thrashed over in the minds of all Americans, on which thousands of articles and numerous books have been written and of which the average American is very tired. It is no doubt well to have something of a serious nature in a humorous lecture, but there are better subjects than this to choose.

The lecture, however, taken as a whole was very popular and practically nothing but favorable criticism was given by those who heard it.

LAW CLUB

A well attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Law Club was held in Alpha Sigma Hall Monday night, October 13th. Routine business was attended to, and reports were heard from the committee on membership, and from the program committee.

Extemporaneous speeches on various subjects of great moment followed, in which several members were given opportunity for displaying their forensic and argumentative qualities. Among the speakers were Mr. Poe and Mr. Edgemon.

Interest centers at present around sensational divorce suit that is to be tried at the next meeting, Monday night. Following is a list of participants therein:

Plaintiff, Mrs. Kirkpatrick (alias Moss Farmer); Defendant, Mr. Carl Kirkpatrick; Judge, Jason B. Deyton; Clerk, Mr. Edgemon; Sheriff, Mr. Poe; Attorneys for Plaintiff, Frank Minarik and Oscar Stanton; Attorneys for Defendant, Hammond Fowler and Harry Pearson; Witness for Plaintiff, Mr. Hardgraves; Witness for defendant, Mr. Ryburn.

Attorneys for both sides are busily engaged in gathering evidence, searching the statutes, and preparing eloquent pleas. This promises to be one of the most hotly contested cases ever heard in Blount County, and all interested persons are invited to be present.

PRE-MEDICAL CLUB

At a recent meeting of those students who are interested in the study of medicine, a club was organized and the following officers were elected:

Horace Brown - - - - - - President
Marvin Price - - - - Vice-President
George Callahan - - - Secy.-Treas.

The purpose of this club is to help those who are taking a pre-medical course to select their studies while here in college and to help them choose the college where they expect to study for a degree. Several of the doctors of town belong to this club and in the past have given lectures at various meetings of the club.

Every student who is studying medicine should belong to this club.

FIRST PREPS ORGANIZE

The First Preparatory class met Friday at noon in Professor Brittain's room, and elected the following officers.

Lee Moore - - - - - President
Gladys Smith - - - Vice-President
E. M. Hosten - - - - Secy.-Treas.
Edward Hargraves - - - - - Editor

There was a large number of students present and much interest shown. We intend to have the liviliest class organization on the Hill. We are planning for a great many social activities in the future.

It was reported that the First Year Prep students had the best class party last year, but we intend to make it greater this year than ever before. We have members of all sizes, shapes, and eating capacity—especially our honorable President who has an extraordinary gastranomy for stewed apples and "Old Lady".

All the members have to look up to our beloved Secretary and Treasurer; our noble vice president is a very modest young lady, and our brilliant editor is beyond description.

BALDWIN GIRLS TO POSSESS A PIANO

Baldwin girls are rejoicing over the fact that theirp iano is now on the way! The girls of the hall worked hard to raise the money for a piano last year, but were not able to secure one before school was out. But in June friends of Miss Jackson's in the Third Church of Elizabeth, N. J., presented the Baldwin girls with a beautiful instrument. All things come to those who wait, but the Baldwin girls are very thankful that their waiting is over.

MARRIAGE

Miss Ida Gilbert, who was a student at Maryville College last year and whom has many intimate friends among the students and faculty, is engaged to be married to Mr. Hubert Taliaferra, October 28, in the Second Presbyterian Church of Chattanooga by Dr. Elmore.

Misses Florence Collins, Mabel Hartung, and Era Card who were Miss Gilbert's best friends, will take part in the marriage ceremony.

ANOTHER COLLEGE ROMANCE ENDED

Park-Lowry

Of vast interest to many old Maryvillians is the marriage of Miss Bernice Lee Lowry and Mr. Harwell Bennette Park, which was solemnized Saturday night, October 11, at eight o'clock in the Presbyterian church at Maryville.

The altar, at which the ceremony was performed was artistically decorated in golden rod, autumn leaves and ferns.

The double ring ceremony was used. Dr. S. T. Wilson, president of Maryville College, and Dr. William E. Graham, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in a most impressive manner.

Miss Elizabeth Jones sang two selections, "At Dawning" and "God Made You Mine". Following this little Miss Gladys Haddox sang "O Promise Me". To the strains of Lohrengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Harriet Gregg, the bridal party entered.

The matron of honor was Mrs. D. W. Proffitt of Cleveland, Tenn. The Maid of Honor was Miss Troy Haddox of Maryville. The four bride's maids were Miss Ruby Hitch of Knoxville, Miss Helen Park, Miss Carmen Park, and Miss Marie Lowry of Maryville College.

Little Miss Ruth Proffitt was flower girl and Master James Proffit was ring bearer.

The groom had as his best man, Mr. D. W. Proffitt of Cleveland, Tenn. The ushers were Messrs. J. E. Kidder, Geo. M. Adams, Hugh Waggoner and Jack Dillebay.

After the ceremony the wedding party left the church to the strains of Mendelsoon's Recessional.

After October 25th, Mr. and Mrs. Park will make their home in Culleoka, Tenn., where Mr. Park is in business with his father.

Mr. and Mrs. Park are both graduates of Maryville College. During their early college days, this love affair, which has grown into marriage, was begun.

OHIOANS ORGANIZE

The first meeting of the Ohio Club was held on the fourth day of October, 1919. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

President - - - - - Harry Wagner
Vice-President - - - - Miss Kimbls
Treasurer - - - - Miss Duncan
Secretary - - - - - Miss Kain
Reporter - - - William Montgomery

Let's show old M. C. that we have the livliest bunch of "Buckeyes" that ever grew on a southern tree.

RECEPTION FRIDAY NIGHT

Who said the Y. M. C. A. was not going to give us anything this year? Well, if you think we are not going to give you a chance to have a good time just come to Bartlett Hall Friday night, and let us enjoy some eats and have a jolly good time together. We are going to have some good games in which all may participate. Yet this is not the most interesting feature to boys. Listen! A similar event will be pulled off at least once in two weeks the remainder of the year—but that is not what I intended to say. Who wants to get turned loose on a real pie like you can be when you are at home. Well, come to Bartlett Hall Friday night and enter the pie-eating contest. Come! Nuf sed!

SOUTH'S GREATEST READER ENTERTAINS

Miss Irene Bewley Reads At Chapel.

Maryville students and faculty had a real treat at chapel Saturday morning when Miss Irene Bewley read three delightful selections—a monologue "The Music Lesson", Kipling's "Ballad of the East and West", and the "Legend of The Little Red Hen". Miss Bewley is such a great reader that one cannot see any of her technique. Her work is absolutely natural and spontaneous. She tells a story with such enthusiasm that the most indifferent are interested, her character work is excellent for her audience can feel the character she is portraying as well as see it. She has no equal when it comes to telling kid stories. After hearing her the students join with Dr. Wilson in pronouncing her the best reader in the South, first because she is a graduate of Maryville and we feel that she is one of us, and second because she really is the best.

THE CHATTANOOGA CLUB

The Chattanooga Club held its picnic indoors Monday on account of the rain. Eats predominated the program, but to show that we remain true to our purpose that no serious thought shall ever intrude upon our good times we submit the minutes of the meeting as written by the secretary.

The Chattanooga Club held its first meeing in the Theta Epsilon Hall. The meeting was called to order by our president, Mr. Woodworth Cullus. As there was no business, the meeting was turned over to the chairman of the program committee. An excellent program was rendered by the members of the club. A solo was rendered by Miss Julia Anderson, while Mr. Ed Hargraves accompanied on the piano. Mr. Edward Cullis gave us a tone on the Jews Harp. After a piano solo by Miss Margaret Newell the club was entertained by a trio by the Misses Lewis. The meeting then adjourned.

The Chattanooga Club of this year is the most incomprehensible. Some of the club's talent was displayed in its first meeting, and it will probably be one of the most active clubs on the Hill.

THE VIRGINIANS AND WEST VIRGINIANS

Hark! A noise like thunder comes down from the mountains and meadows, for the Virginians and the West Virginians have again united, and have formed a Club, to be called, "The Virginian".

The officers of this Club are:

Dexter Cox - - - - - President
Harry Pearsons- - - - Secy.-Treas.
Ashton Clayton - - - - - - Editor
Minnie Hunter - - Social Chairman

The number of members has greatly increased, and they are hoping to have a truly worthwhile club with a very worthwhile spirit.

There is only one thing for you all to do—just watch us enjoy ourselves and wish that you could be one of us.

GREENE COUNTY CLUB

The students from Greene county met October 7th, and organized a Green County Club, with officers as follows:

Miss Blanche Bailey - - President
Reed W. Rowan - - Vice-President
Miss Nita Brooks - - - Secy.-Treas.
Frank F. Lamons - - - - - Editor

This is the first Greene County Club ever organized at Maryville, and it is hoped that Greene County will always be represented in the ranks of the Orange and Garnet.

PRAYER MEETING LED BY DR. VALE

Select Your Job and Stick to It.

Dr. Vale is always welcome, no matter in what capacity he comes. Thursday evening proved no exception and a large audience heard him in a very pointed address. His theme was, do one thing, and do it well, or in the words of Paul, "This one thing I do." No one intentionally fails, all seek success. If anyone desires to win a high place no better motto could be chosen than the words of Paul. His life as a whole was devoted to one thing. Can one then let circumstances decide? Shall one drift, or shall others choose your life work? The work you have in mind to make a name at?

The speaker then pointed out the factors that entered into the selection of a life's work. He emphasized the fact that most people are of the one talent variety, so that one thing is all that should be attempted. This point he illustrated by Herman Goff's religion. It was Herman's view of religion that it was just as important to make good shoes as to preach good sermons.

After selecting your job then stick to it. At this point he introducted his audience to the common characters of the quitter in school, the man who had the streak of yellow in the game, the army dodger the man who had tried every business and failed, all failed because they could not stick to one thing. Again he used a very apt illustration of the boy who was chasing butterflies, he was on the point of catching it when his attention was turned to one that was more beautiful, and so in life, young people by the thousands are chasing butterflies and chase them all through life.

The one thing that Paul had in mind was Jesus. The ambitions of Him changed his life. The desires of Jesus were the desires of Paul. Only one thing concerned Paul and that was what Jesus thought of him.

ALABAMA NOTES

The Alabama Club met in Baineonian Hall Monday afternoon and decided on future activities. After the business meeting we had an interesting program, then some delicious eats. For an hour and a half we forgot that we were college students and played childhood games. The meeting broke up by drowning the Chattanooga Club out with yells. We're all for Alabama.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The Ministerial Association held their second meeting on Wednesday night with a large attendance. Three new members were welcomed which makes a grand total of nine admitted to membership this year. Some sound advice was given by Dr. Stevenson in his talk on, "The Most Important Things that a Minister Should Have". Dave Friedman was appointed as head of devotions for the Battle Branch Mission.

Come on fellows, all of you who feel that call for Christian service, and let's make things "boom" for the Master. He says, "Lo, I am with thee always, even to the end of the world."

A meeting of the second preparatory class was held Thursday, Oct. 9, 1919. The following officers were elected: Clay Lequire, President; Joe Gamble, Vice-President; Vernon Benfield, Treasurer. The other officers will be elected soon.

Last year on account of the regulations of the S.A.T.C. the lights were turned out at ten o'clock. That was a war measure and the war is over. Why not have the time extended to ten-thirty o'clock which was the custom in the days of peace and study?

:--:--:--:

Every college should be aware of the fact that the school which promotes the best athletics and has a majority of the winning teams, is the one which has the least amount of trouble in securing students.

A number of years ago, the colleges and universities of the North started to comply with the need by building large athletic fields and stadiums, costing hundreds of thousands of dollars.

There is not a single up-to-date athletic field in East Tennessee at present. The University of Tennessee is now planning to build an athletic field and stadium costing one hundred thousand dollars.

Maryville always has a larger number of champion teams in athletics of all kinds than any other college in East Tennessee. No other college in this vicinity has a decent place to play athletics. But Maryville leads in athletics, why not lead in being the first college to have a first-class athletic field This college would not need a very large sum of money for the gymnasium when it is enlarged would take the place of a stadium; all that is needed is a good fence, bleechers and a grand stand, and a little grading.

At present the athletic field is inadequate for the line of athletics which are played here. The baseball diamond should be level instead of having a big hump in centre field. Also there should be grandstand and bleechers for the spectators to sit comfortably and watch the game. The gridiron should be situated so that the fans can see the game—a place to sit down instead of standing behind a fence, cranning to get a view of the game.

The main benefit and most direct result to be obtained from a first class athletic field is that athletics would be promoted. Better games would be played and all those who attend the games would enjoy them much more.

In order to obtain good athletes there must be an inducement. A number of the colleges in this state pay part or all of the expenses of students who are good players. Maryville does not do this; but what could influence a prospective student more than a first class athletic field and stadium, good equipment, and a champion team.

So is it possible for Maryville College to obtain enough money to construct an athletic field? During the past year many students have dreamed of what is being written here, but their dream has always ended in a dream.

The cost of construction would be greatly lessened through student labor. The students built the greater part of the gymnasium. They subscribed two thousand dollars toward and built practically all of the swimming pool. The construction of the athletic field is not a bigger task than the building of the gymnasium and besides there are a larger number of students here now than there were about twenty years ago, when the gymnasium was built. Last year Maryville College succeeded in obtaining a large centennial fund of $325,000. As there is no other drive being conducted at present, now is the time to strike.

This plan should be endorsed and supported by every student now in college, the alumni, the faculty and business men of the town. There is no need of persuasion on the part of the students, alumni, and faculty for the facts of the case should be as plain as daylight.

A mass meeting should be held in the near future when a committee should be appointed to take charge of the campaign. And when we DO get the athletic field and stadium for they must come if Maryville College is to keep up her present rate of growth, Athletics will be improved to such a degree, that Maryville College will be able to boast of having the best athletics in ALL the South.

Students, faculty, and business men of the town, get busy—grasp your opportunity.

MISS BEWLEY VISITS THETA

An Old Theta Tells of Her Experiences Abroad.

Theta program was opened Saturday evening with a talk by Miss Irene Bewley. This well-known reader entertained the large crowd of girls in an original and very delightful way. Although her work abroad commenced after the Armistice was signed she was truly a witness of the war. She had the honor of reading before the Army of Occupation at Coblenz and before their special guests, Major-General Dickman, General Pershing and Prince Albert of Belgium. In the short time that she could stay she gave the girls an insight into her work with the soldiers and ended with a reading from Riley.

Then the Bainonians girls whom Thetas had been glad to have as their guests for the talk returned to their hall and each society commenced their regular program. Theta opened her doors to the new members and ninety-five girls signed the pledge. Miss Ruth Quinn read a humorous paper. All girls joined in singing Theta song. An original story "Grandmother's Wedding Call", was read by Miss Janet Ensign. This subject was in keeping with the wedding of Miss Bernice Lowry, our Sister Theta. Although Theta girls were unable to accept the kind invitation they showed their appreciation and love by a rembrance from the society.

The program was closed by giving the girls an idea of "A Carnegie Boy's Dream."

Come, new girls, you are always welcome!

ATHENIAN

The old form of active literary society work with its thrills and surprises was much in evidence on Saturday night at the Athenian hall. The chief interest centered in the debate. The question of labor unions was the bone of contention between four stalwart Athenians. The negative won out by an unusual flow of oratory which if the terms used could be analysed would do credit to the students in Argumentation. Each side proved and disproved, each claimed the other wrong, but the final appeal to the judges revealed them both right as the house voted one way and the judges the other. The open discussion was lively and many new points were brought out that all felt enriched by what the labor unions had done, and all were disgusted by what the labor unions had done. Therefore everybody was pleased and in a happy frame of mind for the musical numbers which Mr. Arenano rendered with unusual ability as a finger artist on the keyboard. A Kipling reading by James Martin was well received and added much to the quality of the meeting.

VESPERS

The service Sunday night was devoted to the consideration of Paul's words to Timothy, "This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

Reliable statements are not a drag on the market. Consider the great truths of science how they have changed in the course of the century. Fifty years ago they taught that the earth at the poles was flat or had a depression. A Norwegian explorer has proved that the earth at the South pole is 9000 feet above sea level. The scientists taught that the atom was the smallest unit of matter, now the electron is the smallest and can float with room to spare in the space of the atom.

No human expression is infallible. If this expression were of Paul's own opinion there would be nothing in it for christians today. The message would resemble a life belt stuffed with saw-dust instead of cork. But this message is a reassurance,not by reason, but by the spirit.

It is worthy of all acceptance and the important thing for the people today is the acceptance of it. Surrounded as the people are with hum bugs, with adulteraded foods, quack medicines, sensational legislation; it is repressing to find a saying that all can accept just as a little child.

Christ Jesus came to save sinners. The need of the world two years ago is the need of the world today. The need is a God who can save. Sin is crouched at everyone's door. The reward, the pastor illustrated by a beautiful story of a nobleman who was visiting in Wales and while staying at the cottage of a humble peasant fell in love with his daughter. They were married and after a time the husband proposed a trip to a large castle in England, they journeyed thither and at the door, the oldest retainer laid the keys at her feet and said, "These are thine sweet lady." God in his mercy places the keys of his mansions at the feet of his people.

JUNIOR ATHENIANS ARE AT WORK

Due to the abnormal conditions which existed last year both sections of the Athenian Society held their meetings together. But this plan has been abandoned, and on Saturday, October 11th, the Junior Athenians held its first meeting independantly of the other section.

The officers being elected at a meeting last spring, enabled the Juniors to start right in to accomplish the task before them. The program was as follows:

Reading - - - - Donald Buchanan
Debate: Resolved, that the United States would be justified in resorting to armed intervention in Mexican affairs. Affirmative, Bert Jody and Floyd Corry; Negative, David King and George Hamby.

Both sides put forth a hot fight. When left to the decision of the judges the affirmatives were favored with 2 to 1.

The next on the program was the Junior Athenian by Charles Wather, who with his funny jokes caused his audience to make funny faces.

All preparatory students are cordially invited to attend all the meetings of the Junior Athenians. Don't miss one.

KNOXVILLE CLUB HOLDS MEETING

All the Knoxvillians who were willing to risk being late at dinner, met in Prof: Hunter's room, Thursday. Oct. 2, at 12:15, for the purpose of electing officers.

After much squabbling over the comparative merits of certain members, the following were successful in obtaining offices:

Chas. Sharp	- President
Sue Drinnen	- V.-President
Elizabeth Gouffon	- Secretary
Frank Oats	- Treasurer
Bertha Floyd	- Editor

Plans for a party will be arranged at the next meeting. This party will probably be at the home of one of the members at Knoxville. So every one from Knoxville be sure and come to our next meeting.

ALL-STAR PLAYERS SHOWN AT BAINONIAN

The famous "All Star Players" were shown at Bainonian last Saturday evening in their latest production "The Ballad of Mary Jane", a comedy of humor, pathos, tragedy, and romance.

Mary Jane, a little country school Marm was loved by Benjamen, a poor country boy, but she scornfully ignored him. The rejected lover, tore in shreds his raven locks and vowed vengeance on the object of his affection. But finally, Mary Jane realized that she did love Benjamen after all, and she longed for some means to show him so. One day while Benjamen was hoeing corn in the field he was attacked by a monstrous, ferocious looking cow, and would have been killed had Mary Jane not arrived in the nick of time and frightened the beast away with her umbrella. Thus the young couple were reunited. But, Benjamen's troubles were not over, for Mary Jane's cruel father forced him to leave the house and forbade his daughter to see him again. After a lapse of three years a wealthy duke came to the community and he also fell in love with Mary Jane. She, true to her love for Benjamen, refused to marry him, but her father was just about to force her to do so. When Benjamen dashed in with a bag of gold which he had secured by becoming a pirate. This he gave to the father who then readily consented to the marriage, and the young couple lived happily ever afterwards.

Cast of Characters

Mary Jane - - - -	Myrtle Rendon
Her Father - - -	Della Carpenter
Benjamen - - - - -	Helen Lewis
The Duke - - -	Eunice Taylor
The Priest - - - - -	Ruth Newton
The Cow - -	Irma Swab and Nina Belle Caldwell.

An entertaining and educational feature of the program was a lecture on some of the most stirring topics of the day, given by Ashton Clayton, who is an artist along this line.

Bainonian programs are intended to be helpful as well as entertaining. Even the advertisements put you in touch with all the business opportunities open today. Again, we wish to call your attention to the fact that Free lessons may be had in the Art of Making Apple Sauce. For further information see Miss Mary McKenzie, demonstrator for Maryville College. Please remember also that candidates for the A. M. degree should see Doctor Fine at once, and avoid the Rush.

Bainonian is open every Saturday evening at 7:15. Admission: one pillow.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

Several years ago Maryville College boasted of having a girl's baseball team. For the past few years the girls have shown interest in only one of the many college sports.

The girls pay as much towards supporting athletics as the boys. Why is it that the boys have so many more games than the girls? Last year the girls did not even conduct a tennis tournament.

The girls of this college do not seem to be very deeply interested in their own branch of athletics. Too many of them are afraid of exercise and the hot weather—freckles and blisters.

At present there is no sign of a game for the girls until Winter. Of course the girls are supporting the boys and cheering them on, but—why not have a game of your own so that the boys can return the favor.

There are more girls in college this year than boys. They have the majority when the time comes to vote for or against appropriations or officers. But why speak of this? There is no reason to be found why they should not have athletics during the Fall and Spring terms as well as in the Winter term.

U. of T. is taking steps to organize a school post of the American Legion. This is a good idea and might be one that could be carried out here. The minimum membership is fifteen, but this requirement would not be hard to meet for some years to come.

JUST A WORD TO SUBSCRIBERS

October 15th is passed. To many this will have no need of special significance. But, to others—THINK Was any duty left undone? Any subscription unpaid? Yes, there were many. Perhaps yours was only one, but the ones made dozens. So it comes about that the Business Manager "has troubles of his own" for a few more days. However, these troubles must not last much longer. Collecting subscriptions must not be a task drawn out through the entire school year. We want to permanently increase our paper fifty percent in size November 1st. This is possible only through a large number of subscriptions (paid ones) and liberal advertising. The latter is assured. Wont you pay your dollar? The price will not increase as our paper in size.

See the Manager at once and—the Word? Yes it is—PAY.

ALUMNI NOTES

1901.

BEWLEY-MORRIS—Married in Manila, Philippine Islands, on August 16, 1919, Mr. L. B. Bewley, '01 and Miss Helen Morris of Idnianapolis, Indiana. Soon after his graduation Mr. Bewley accepted a position in the schools in the Philippines and except for a few visits home has spent all of this time there since. He rose rapidly in his profession and has for some time held the position of Assistant Director of Education in the Islands. Mr. Bewley has many friends among the alumni who extend cordial congratulations and best wishes. Undergraduates and recent alumni will be interested to know that he is a brother of Miss Irene Bewley, who has so many times entertained Maryville audiences so delightfully The bride, Miss Morris, is a teacher in the schools in the Philippines. Mr. and Mrs. Bewley will continue to reside in the Islands.

1911.

Mrs. Frank Bradford, formerly Miss Ruth Jewell, of Tellico Plains, has been visiting with Maryville relatives recently.

1916.

An account of the wedding of Harwell B. Park and Miss Bernice Lowry, both of the class of 1916 will be found in another column. The alumni extend best wishes.

1917.

M. B. Crum, a former Business Manager of the Echo, who saw service as Second Lieutenant in France during the war, since his return has accepted a position with the Aluminum Company and is now located at Maryville.

R. S. Gamon, editor of the Echo in 1917, is in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, this year where he is taking his final year's work in the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania.

A copy of the Alpine American, the organ of the A. E. F. students at the University of Grenoble in France has been received. It is a very interesting and newsy publication. We note from it that F. H. Scruggs, '18, another of our former business managers, and manager of the baseball team in 1918. was one of the pitchers for the University of Grenoble during the last baseball season.

Ben E. Watkins is at present at Indian Springs, Georgia, where he has a position with the Curtiss Airplane and Motor Co. He expects soon to take up graduate work in Chemistry in some school in the East.

1919.

Miss Ethel Burchfiel is teaching Home Economics and Science in the Divernon Township High School at Divernon, Illinois.

Friends of Miss Gail Wilson, graduate of '19 will be interested to know that she is teaching in the High School of Dupree, South Dakota.

JUST FOR FUN

Jarvis—"How would you like to have a pet monkey, Elsie?"
Elsie—"O, this is so sudden."

Marjorie Lloyd (after practicing "Oh, that I were a bird."
Mary Ridgeway, "O, that I had a gun."

Prof. Brittain (frowning at the waiter at the Busy Bee "Say Waiter, my cocoa is cold."
Waiter, "Put on your hat."

Geraldine Odell—"William declares that I have a perfect rosebud of a mouth."
Lucretia Dorsey, "That is very prett, but rosebuds are generally closed."

To a lady friend as she was slicing bread into transparent sheets of imagination—"Margie," if Professor Walker would see you slicing that bread you'd have a permanent job with his Boarding Club (Yes, Porter the Fish pulled the bright one.)

Mrs. Alexander "What is Bryant trying to teach in Thanatopsis?"
Miss Fine (who is taking chemistry) "The doctrine of conservation of mass."

Professor Gillingham spent most of the hour trying to explain that God never tempts people, and also that temptation sometimes comes as a test of character. After he had thoroughly convinced his class of these two facts he announced that he was going to give the class a temptation in a few days. Then it was that a bright girl held up her hand and said, "It seems to me that if God never tempted people, those who are trying to be God-like ought not to, either.

IN FRENCH CLASS

Madame Denee—"Mr. Jones, what is the future of deis (pronounced dear")
Leslie Jones—"Wife, I guess".

Jarvis Cotton: "Madame, what does Jarvis mean in French?"
Madame Denee: "It means a great nuisance to me."

When you're moonshining in the library
And having lots of fun
A-laughing and a-jabbering,
As if you're deaf and dumb,
You'd better mind your corners
And keep all 'ys looking out,
For Miss Smith's goin' to get cha
Ef y' don't watch out.

GIRLS AND FOOTBALL

The football spirit is spreading The girls have caught it. At a recent social event Willodine McIver and Katie Ridgeway made peppy guards of the ice cream freezers. They tackled Lefty Kirkpatrick who was about to get away with a good gain. In Home Economics a new stitch, the half-back stitch has been introduced and the girls are falling for it right and left.

THE "Y" DRIVE

This year the Y. M. C. A. is ranking among the most active organization on College Hill. Interesting programs are being given each Sunday, and a large attendance is reported. The old "Y" spirit is being revived. The old members are busy indeed, and they are already seeing the reward of their efforts.

In the recent campaign for membership, it is understood that more than two hundred new names were added to the roll. This is certainly an encouraging number, and it is hoped that more names will be added before the college year ends.

Every man and boy in college should belong to the Y. The fees have been placed at a rate that anyone can become a member; and the men should give this organization their careful consideration.

The members of the cabinet wish to extend the invitation to new men who have not already given in their names to take this step. The fact that such a large number of men have already become members proves that the Y is an active organization.

Special pains have been taken this year to make the new men feel that the Y. M. C. A. is interested in their welfare. A first-class reading room has been arranged. All of the up-to-date books and magazines can be found in the Y.'s library. A new victrola has been placed in the lounging room, and many other arrangements have been made for the amusement and entertainment of all the students. The members of the Y. M. C. A. want the new men to feel welcome, and asks them to become members.

THE OLD SWIMMING HOLE

Dere Mary:

I kame two this skool two dou many things. 1st. i wanted two hav a swim becaz i live where ther is no streem. Then of cauz i wanted two go two skool and learn some boies r funny things they r attrackted buy the athletics and amuzments too a larj extant. U no i like a skool for these things only.

So i am writing u to let u know that our athletics r all rite butt our amuzment swimmin is closed out for the seeson. i like the skool only 50% becauz swimmin counts that other 50.

if you dont receeve this note let me know your ad becauz i hav not wrot to u becauz i did not no your ad.

Well, i asked sum of the fellers when this swimmin pool would be oped but no noing. Ther is sumpthin a mater with it they say. but the only thing that i can sea is that ther is no water in the square that is dugged for the pool.

One fellow said too me that there is not cnouf water becauz of no rain. i looked this up an found in our woods ther is a streem which runs all the time with no stops. I folled this streem one Sunday ther be nothin too study on this day but i went the reng way becauz i could not get to the end for i wanted two sea jist wher all this water kame from. but the next time i folled it the other way. they ought too give me kredit like too Columbus and roosevelt, you no these men dont chou. the first diskovered America and the second diskovered the river of dout in south america. Well anyway ther is a place wher jist lots of water runs away without ever doin nothin. Everything is supposed to dew somethin in this world so why knot you writ them an tell them about this water goin to waist. tell them too connek a pipe with this water an run it intoo the pool its good water I am telled. U been uninterested they wood take it from u mor.

Othewiz this skool is allrite so do this lettle thing for all the boise an goils. U will receive manie thanks from all.

FROM A Y SECRETARY OVER THERE

12 rue d'Aguesseau, Paris, France,
March 3, 1919

Dear "Professor" Wilson:

I ought to have "given account of myself" before this, to let you know that I "came across" in a most delightful voyage, serving on the ship as a Transport Secretary. But I have been busy day and night from the time I left New York. And I have simply been compelled to write several lengthy accounts to the home papers in New Jersey.

You know that Service is the greatest thing in life; but the service over here seems to me the greatest of all—the most wonderful experience of my life. After preaching and ministering at home for thirty years, I count myself highly favored of God to be permitted to come "over here" and help in using the great opportunities that present themselves. It is simply wonderful! Almost like being born again. I have always believed that one should never grow old; but now I know it. I'm just as young as any of the boys over here.

From the first I had the honor of being assigned to the Religious Work Department of the Paris Division; and in addition to my duties as a singer and speaker and music director I was placed in charge of the distribution of literature in my Department for the Paris Division. I have tried to render good service in this capacity up to the present time. For example, I had charge of three services yesterday, all in different camps—one of them outside the city. But I have been praying for opportunity to come into more constant and intimate contact with the "dough-boys", instead of so much office work. So the call came to me spontaneously last week to go out to the field. I accepted it and I am to start out some time this week for Evangelistic work. I am to be associated with the Rev. Dr. Baggett, of Pittsburgh M. E. Conference, as a gospel singer and music director. I appreciate my experience in the Paris Division, but this will give me a wider field of service. And Dr. Baggett is a most genial companion and has had about a year's experience in field work over here. In fact, he requested Religious H. Q. office for my release here and for my assignment with him. If I am able to endure the mud and weather, and if Annie keeps well at home, I expect to render the greatest service of my life. I'm eager to get out with the boys and feel the throb of their life. Dr. Baggett said that he chose me because I was "full of pep". Pretty good for a man who is now fifty-five! And also I have a new name over here—handed to me by the French at my hotel, after I had been there for six weeks—"Toujours Gai"; which I found to mean "Always Happy". I shall try to live up to it.

Well, I have not yet had the pleasure of meeting your son over here—our boys are scattered all over France; but I am still hoping to meet him, if he has not returned home. My youngest son—Arthur Moore, is still at Washington, first Sergeant Q.M.C., the last man of his Division; retained in the office as "indispensable". But we are all longing for the treaty of Peace to be signed; and then we'll all come home.

I hope this finds you well, and that our old Alma Mater is still progressing.

Yours sincerely,
Edgar Cooper Mason—
"Toujours Gai."

BOLSHEVISM AT ITS HEIGHT

"Bolshevism has been reported to be agitating the inhabitants on Mars. We may soon expect stellar complications."—New York Evening Fun.

This tale is sad; o'er all the world a gloom
A pall of sorrow has descended quite
The useless sun his countenance hath hid,
And o'er the morbid earth descends the night,

The stars peep out; their sallow candles' light
Show them as old and wrinkled ladies, who
In night-capped glory peer beneath the bed
And wonder why on earth all men are few.

The moon doth rise, a slice of lemon sour
She wends her way disconsolate down the sky,
The Milky Way no more enchants the cows
And hating all, its channel soon runs dry.

The Dipper dips, no milk within she finds
She trembles over all with righteous ire
Forgetting space, her handle hits old Mars
Soon there's a fight, and sparks rain out like fire.

The Pole star stares indignant at the sight
She holds her breath, a careless thing to do.
For then it sticks, she puffs up like a ball
She Busts, and so to her we say "adieu".

And now the Bull, old Taurus he is called
His V-shaped horns above the edge we spy
And as he sees the bright star of the Dog
He rushes toward him with an evil eye.

Now Pleiades, the Seven Sisters fair,
With base Orion following with his club,
Hasten too fast, against the Dog's foot, one
Her own daintier foot doth chance to stub.

Oh! dire misfortune! There all in a heap
The seven ladies flop! The Dog doth bite
Taurus doth kick, Orion feels the blow
And vanishes completely from our sight.

In vain we stare, the Ladies fair to see
Taurus hath gone, the Dog himself hath hidden,
The stars are in disgrace, we wonder now
Is that the tail of Sirius? No, just kidden.

—M.H. '22

No doubt many of the Freshmen have had some strange experiences since landing on the Hill, but the majority of this "huge" and illustrious class have managed to survive. The class will regret, however, to learn of the serious downfall of one of its members, Miss Bunnie Abbott who tumbled down a flight of Baldwin stairs. Her friends wish for her a speedy recovery.

TABLE MANNERS; OR HASH HALL ETIQUETTE

As is well known there are a number of people who behave themselves well otherwise, but who at table do things that if not exceedingly outre and etouvantable are at least douleroux and affreux. It is to reach such people that this article has been written, and if, by it, we can induce one man who now wipes his hands on the tablecloth to come up to higher planes and wipe them on his pants we shall feel amply repaid. We feel, however, that anyone who reads this paper will be immensely improved in his table manners, and we feel that some, we san say it without boasting may rise to such planes of politeness, so as to be able to eat at the faculty table without embarassment.

Table manners are a relative matter. It is a well known and an undisputed fact that the table manners of the society of our great cities would be very much out of place at a country dinner. It is equally as self-evident that the manners displayed at a country dinner would be just as much out of place at a luncheon in polite society. At a society luncheon a cup of tea accompanied by a few thin scranny, but appetizing crackers are served. At a country dinner, however, we find chicken, dressing vegetables galore, pies, cakes, and possibly ice cream, besides other things to numerous to mention in this short article. From these instances mentioned we deduce the law that table manners depend upon the amount of food served; the less food the more manners, the more food the less manners. Therefore, these things being true, any paper dealing with table manners must give a few flexible rules that may be stretched to apply to the varying weight of the bill-of-fare. As this paper is intended for the use of Maryville College students, and as most of the students glean their sustenance from Pearsons Dining Hall, the few simple rules given herein will be made to conform to their use. Also, to make it convenient for references this paper will be divided into four parts, i. e.

I. Rules for Breakfast.
II. Rules for Dinner (without desert).
III. Rules for Dinner (with desert).
IV. Rules for Supper.

First we will take up rules for breakfast.

I. Before the blessing is said shove your saucer about one inch from your plate, then turn your plate over quietly while no one is looking. Preparedness always pays.

II. After the blessing is said grab the cereal dish, then sit down. After you have filled your saucer hand the empty dish to the lady at your side,—this will save you the trouble of putting it down.

III. If codfish coquettes are served do not pick one up, smell it and playfully ask the waiteress when the poor fish died. Remarks about death are very much out of place at the table.

IV. If the butter knife is missing do not clean your knife by passing it gently between your moisten lips, before cutting the butter, but rather wipe it upon your coat sleeve.

V. If breakfast is very light use suitable rules given for other meals.

Second: Rules for Dinner, (with dessert):

As bill-of-fare is rather light on these days more manners should be used. Therefore, choose at your own discretion suitable ones from those for other meals.

I. Stones in plums or other fruit should not be put either on or under the tablecloth, but rather should be slid quietly and sereptitiously into the pocket of a friend or tossed noisly under the table.

II. Apples should be held in the left hand and peeled gently and firmly, not with great effort as if you were skinning a dead horse.

III. If a gentleman at the table should sit upon some "old lady" which had been spilled in his chair, do not ask him when he rises if he feels all stuck up. This would not be very gentlemanly but would be very au revoir.

Third: Rules for Dinner, (without dessert):

As bill-of-fare is rather long on "Like most men, I have my shortcomings."

"Oh, it isn't your shortcomings I object to, it's your long-stayings." these days few manners are needed.

I. Use breakfast rule number one.

II. Use breakfast rule number two, but instead of cereal choose some other dish.

III. After eating a considerable amount do not rise and unbuckle your belt in order to make more room, for this is considered au fait and neglige.

IV. Do not make remarks about how much the person at your side is eating. If this person happens to be a lady do not slap her on the back and offer to pay Professor Walker extra board for her, neither say "Great Scott"! I hope you will not kill yourself because you have the opportunity", but be polite and gentlemanly, even though the food be cut short for a few days.

V. If you happen to drop gravy on your knife blade back near the handle, do not run the blade down your throat to remove the gravy as it might injure your epiglottis, and it is not considered good taste, anyway.

VI. Number of rules used must vary according to the length of the menu.

Fourth: Rules for Supper:

I. If milk is served, when you get to the bottom of your glass do not throw back your head and draw in your breath like the exhaust on a bath tub, in order to get the last drop, the milk may taste good but this is not considered good taste.

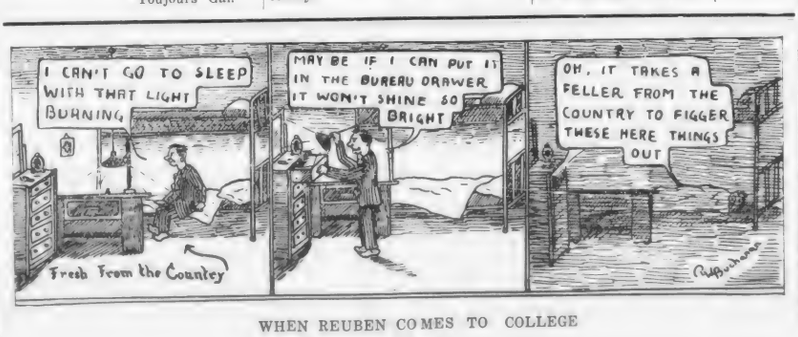
II. If wienies are served do not wonder in a loud voice how long it took Miss Coulter to dig them, neither inquire in a loud voice as to when Miss Darby's dog got killed. These inquisitive remarks are out of place and may effect the higher sensibility of the ladies at the table causing them to loose their manners and also their appetitites.

III. If you should in a forgetful moment drink from the milk pitcher make some facetious remark which will change the course of thought and renew friendly feeling among the members of the table.

ORATORICAL CONTEST

One of the most important parts of the Commencement exercises last year was the Bates Prize Oratorical Contest. The prize for this contest was given by Rev. W. H. Bates, D. D. in 1917.

The class of '19 was the first to contend for this prize. Last year there were six excellent orations delivered by as many Seniors. The number of participants is small as only the members of the graduating class are eligible. The prize which is fifty dollars or over is presented to the person who receives the largest number of points on composition and delivery.



The following have been chosen by the faculty as subjects for the orations:

1. The New Diplomacy.
2. Constantinople—The World City
3. Education for Service.
4. Joan of Arc.
5. Enemies of Society.
6. The Records of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Maryville, Tennessee.

PALACE THEATRE

Program for Week Commencing October 16th to 23rd.

FRIDAY—

Paramount presents VIVIAN MARTIN in "YOU NEVER SAW SUCH A GIRL". The story is adapted from "The Kingdom of Hearts Desire" by George Weston a comedy drama of life from the farm to the mansion in Newport. Of course they are unsued to High Society but don't worry about Vivian, making herself at home, for she has ways all her own about such things. Goldwyn Capitol Comedy featuring "Smiling Bill Parson". Two reels of continuous laughter.

SATURDAY—

Big Special Western, Emert Dalton in "BEYOND THE LAW"; a picture taken from life and featuring one of the most notorious outlaws that ever existed, and the only one of a band of 12 Oklahoma law-breakers living. Dalton served his time in the penitentary and is now trying to live down his career as an out-law and is making pictures showing the law and order side instead of the outlaw's part, Don't miss this picture . "GREAT GAMBLE" No. 2, this serial started out with plenty of action and we believe will be one of the best ever shown here. Fox Comedy "SMASHING CAREER, all star comedy cast plenty of fun. News Reel No. 40.

MONDAY—

Paramount Production featuring Geraldine Farrer in "CARMEN". If you have not seen this picture you have missed one of the greatest treats in "Movies", and if you have seen it you certainly will see it again for it is a picture that you will never tire of. The fight in the Cigarette factory, and the 'bull" fight are incidents long to be remembered, and they alone are well worth the price of admission. THUNDER MOUNTAIN, No. 14, the serial with a thousand surprises, each episode a feature. A good comedy.

TUESDAY—

ALICE BRADY in "THE DEATH DANCE", a picture filled with mystery and thrills, just the kind of a story you like to see, a little of love threadwinding all the way through makes it one of the best pictures of the day. Pete Morrison in "WINNING A BRIDE", a western picture filled with daring. HAM AND BUD COMEDY.

WEDNESDAY—

Paramount- Arteraft production starring Pauline Fredrick in "PAID IN FULL". The most tragic sacrifice that love asked is what? Not many women could stand the test of character portrayed by Miss Fredrick in this picture. A test in which against the richest temptation a woman is true to a husband who has treated her badly. Lyons-Moran Comedy "A DOG GONE SHAME".

THURSDAY—

Ethel Clayton in "MAGGIE PEPPER", a Paramount Picture.

Watch for Mary Pickford in 'DADDY LONG LEGS", coming soon. Anita Stewart in VIRTOUS WIVES, a coming production of the west.

Watch for opening date of the PRINCESS THEATRE, this is going to be one of Tennessee's best little "movie" houses, redecorated, repainted, rearranged. And only the best in pictures will be shown.

Miss Park—"What is a demagogue?"

Sam Franklin—"That's a school teacher, isn't it?"

Marvin Price—"I haven't gotten a single demerit this year."

George Callahan—"No?"

Marvin Price—"No, I get them by fives."

There is too much investigation going on.

That is right. Eat your hash, never mind what is in it.

Speech making in Argumentation begins today! Old students of these classes hereby wish to extend their deepest sympathy to those who undergo this painful and nerve-racking operation.

JUNIOR ALPHAS HOLD FIRST MEETING OF THE YEAR

Yes the junior section of the Alpha Sigma Literary Society is still here and is better this year than ever.

This was sufficiently proved last Saturday night at the first meeting of the year. A goodly number were present and a very interesting program was rendered.

During the business session, that followed the program of the evening two men were sworn into active membership and the names of five others were presented and accepted.

Important subjects concerning the welfare of the society were brought up and discussed. The following officers were elected to take the places of those elected last Spring who did not return to school this fall.

Recording Secy. - Mr. Webb
Program Secretary - - - Mr. Mann
Editor - - - - - Mr. Miles
Sergeant-at-Arms - - - Mr. Delozier
Janitor - - - - - - Mr. Seloger

Fellows you will always be warmly welcomed to our meetings and gladly accepted into the Society. It will do you good to become one of us and to work with us for the good of Alpha Sigma and each individual member. Give us a trial! Attend the next meeting!

"Arabella", Kenneth softly whispered to her, "I am going to tell you something. I do not know just how you will receive it, but hope for the best. For some time it has been in my heart to tell you of it, but I had not the courage, Arabella".

"Yes, yes, go on", the girl murmured, the third finger of her left hand itching perceptibly.

"It's this, then: The last buss leaves here in three minutes, and if I miss it I'll have to walk back to Barracks 241."

"Why do you call your place a bungalow?"

"The job was a bungle, and I still owe for it."

We want all the old and new students to know that our new store 206 Main Street is full of goods you want.

JUST FOR FUN

"Did you ever get a proposal, Aunty?"

"Once, my dear, a gentleman proposed over the telephone, but he had the wrong number."

Wife—The fact that there are germs on money doesn't worry me.

Hubby—No, my dear; it would take a pretty active germ to hop from the money to you in the brief time you have it.

When little Johnny was almost six years old, he pinned a note on the door of his room:

"Remember my birthday. Give till it hurts."

"When water becomes ice", asked the teacher, "what is the greater change that takes place?"

"The greatest change, ma'am", said the little boy, "is the change in price."

"Notice how she murders the King's English?"

"Well, I should say; isn't it killing?"

New Student (passing Theta Hall Thursday evening) Is that the Volunteer BAND?

Mildred: Yes.

New Student: Then what are they singing for, why aren't they playing?

One of the new girls is anxious to have this suggestion made to Prof. Walker, manager of Co-operative Boarding Club, namely, that the Ministerial Association be given a separate table in the dining hall as she considers it an outrageous injustice to the other students when as many as three of the Sky Pilots are congregated at one table.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Worthington and Miss Van Dyke from Annville, Kentucky, visited the students here from Annville.

Oh yes, the girls are bobbing their hair again. Such a sensation—Ted Higginbothan caused when she cut off her curls! And Irma Schwab, her camoflauge bob is causing equal astonishment. Who will be the next one?

Chester A. Moore, a graduate of our Prep Department last year is attending Rutgers College this year and is preparing for the ministry.

First Lieutenant Emmett Kilpatrick is located in Paris, France, where he is connected with the American Commission to Negotiate Peace.

Miss Ida Cox has gone home to recuperate from a siege of chicken-pox.

Love Whitworth is seriously ill in Carnegie.

Misses Anne Samsell, Belle Hedrick and Jonnie McMurray spent the week-end in Knoxville.

Rev. H. L. Walker of Florida while here in the interest of the Sunday School convention that is to be held in Maryville, spent a short time on the Hill visiting his daughter, Miss Nannette Walker and his nieces, Misses Mary and Catherine Ridgeway.

Misses Bobby Hall, Elizabeth Irving and Ida Cox are in the hospital enjoying slight cases of chicken-pox.

Misses Zola Fillers and Mable Gentry gave a birthday party for Miss Lustre Brooks Saturday night.

On last Monday evening a surprise party was given for Miss Mildred Hoffman who has just returned to the Hill. Those who helped to consume the huge supply of cake and cream were Misses Mildred Hoffman, Grace Sydenstricker, Nina Parks, Ruth Quinn, "Bettie" McIver, Ethel Doctor, Ruth Petty and Rebecca Young.

MARYVILLE BOYS AT ANNAPOLIS

Maryville College is now well represented in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland. Cadets C. Y. Latimer and James Cook are now being trained by Uncle Sam to become officers. James Cook has been in training for several years and visited old friends here Sunday. C. Y. Latimer entered the Naval Academy July 2nd., after awaiting for an opening for several years. Both of these men are graduates of the preparatory department of this college.

SOMETHING NEW

During the past week end the We-Eat Club held their first meeting in number six Pearsons.

The spread consisted of hamburgers, ham, pressed bacon, pimento-cheese sandwiches, olives, pickles, grapes, spiced dainties, margarites, coffee and candy.

The charter members are: Mattie Hamilton, Imogene Copeland, Hazel Bevan, Frances Bush, Christine Copelan, Suzie Copeland, and Rebecca Calderwood.

MIGRATION

Alabama is extra well represented this year. Most of those whom she sent last year are back, and a host of others. The Hayes girls followed scriptural example and brought back their own brother, as well as Misses Ruby and Lidah Carroll of Woodstock. Mt. Hope has sent six of her citizens, three Counts, one Hope, one Whitworth. There are nine here from Lawrence county, and Birmangham has sent Misses Lucile and Edna Harris and Geraldine Odell and Messrs. James Jackson and Donald Taylor as new students.

VOLUME FIVE — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1919 — NUMBER SIX

DIVORCE CASE HEARD LAST MONDAY NIGHT

Marriage Cannot be Dissolved. Verdict of Jury is Eight for and Four Against.

On Monday night, October 20, the Law Club was called to order as a regularly constituted tribunal of justice, the Chancery Court for Blount County, which was presided over by Hon. Jason Deyton, chancellor. The clerk, Mr. Edgemon, then read a bill in which Mrs. Moss Farmer Kirkpatrick prayed for the dissolution of the marriage bonds existing between her and Mr. Carl Kirkpatrick, whom she charged with habitual drunkenness and with maliciously attempting her life with a deadly weapon. This bill was duly sworn to, and sheriff Poe was directed to empanel men for the jury. After numerous challenges by both sides this body was finally selected and the trial commenced.

The plaintiff testified first, being examined by her attorneys, the well known firm of Minarik & Stanton, having been retained by her, and at the conclusion of this testimony was handed over to the attorneys for the defendant, Harry Pearson and Hammond Fowler, Jr. Afterwards the plaintiff's witness, Mr. Hardgraves, was similarly examined and cross examined. Their testimony was to the effect that the defendant was guilty of lewdness, drunkness, vagrancy, and attempt at murder, which latter offense had been frustrated only by the brave and self-sacrificing intervention of Mr. Hardgraves, who had not yet fully recovered from a wound alleged to have been received in Mrs. Kirkpatrick's defense.

The defendant and his witness Mr. Ryburn then took the stand and endeavored to establish the fact that Mr. Kirkpatrick's character was unimpeachable, that he was a total abstainer, and that the alleged assault was entirely a product of the plaintiff's nervous agitation upon seeing her husband's shotgun.

Then followed the appeals of the various attorneys, in which was heard oratory of the most stirring and emotional nature, which deeply moved the entire court room. Hon. Frank Minarik made the first address, painting a vivid picture of the base rascality of the vile criminal who had willfully wrecked the life and happiness of his fair and innocent client, and pleading for a full divorce immediately. Mr. Fowler then took the floor in favor of the defendant, declaring Mr. Minarik's speech to be false, misleading, unfair as to method and unsound as to fact, appealed against it as an attempt to profane the sacredness of the temple of justice and undermine the principles upon which the republic was founded. He was followed by Mr. Pearson, who eloquently plead the complete innocence of the defendant in a short but touching speech, and who likewise pointed to fatal weaknesses in the plaintiff's case. The case was closed by Mr. Stanton, who dealt crushing blows both against the defendant and his attorneys, charging the latter with falsification and perversion of the case by bringing in irrelevant matter, and holding that the only just course was to grant the divorce as requested in the bill.

The jury then retired and after exhaustive deliberations returned to report that they were hung, eight in favor of the divorce and four opposed. The case will be retried at some date in the near future, of which further notice will appear later.

JUNIORS LEAD PRAYER MEETING

First Class to Lead Weekly Meeting. "The Common Weal" Discussed.

The first class to lead the weekly prayer meeting was the class of '21. The meeting was different, by the large variety, and by the to the point speeches.

Miss Troy Haddox gave a beautifully rendered reading, "The Girl Who Walked Without Fear." Miss Myrtle Rendon in her artistic way gave a solo; Miss Vivian Hall accompanied with violin obligato. A double quartet however, was the chief surprise towards the end of the program.

The Juniors gave a very able discussion of "The Common Weal". Miss M. Mason, the first speaker told of the dangers to the common weal and how it was threatened by Bolshevism, by strikes, and by a disregard for order. To uphold the common weal is to uphold the ideals of the nation.

Mr. H. Wagner showed how the common weal is to be preserved. This can only be done by duty; duty to home life, to home ties, to our parents, to our school life, and to ourselves. Especially beautiful was the tribute to home and parents as the foundation of the common weal.

Mr. P. Sheffey gave a very optimistic outlook of the common weal. He showed how grateful it is to have citizenship in a land so optimistic as the United States. Here is a people who are not troubled about the outcome of the present unrest, then this optimision should be characteristic of everyone.

The meeting was a thorough Junior affair as Miss Marguerite Sullinger presided at the piano, and Miss Jeanette Hibbert at the organ. "Red" Hayes wielded the baton and Miss M. Robison announced the hymns.

REV. RIPPETOE ADDRESSES STUDENTS

Tuesday morning the chapel exercises were led by Rev. Rippetoe of Terre Haute, Indiana. He related the story of the six pearls and gold chain as told in the Psalm.

At present the peoples of the world are very restless and know not how to settle down. There are many old ideas which must be cast off. The speaker illustrated this point by the following illustration. A pot of metal must boil before it can be purified. When it is boiling the impurities come to the top and can be skimmed off.

During the war, although a retired minister he took charge of a church. In order to impress the need of co-operation upon his congregation he made a stool with three legs; with the church, schools, and roads each representing a leg. If one leg does not do its part the whole stool falls.

The duties of the church members were illustrated in the same way, but here the legs of the stool represented the words, Pray, Pay and Push. The speaker closed his address by saying that "some things as the liquor traffic and slavery were dead, but did not know it. We must work to overcome those evils which are still a live."

NEW OFFICERS OF VOLUNTEER BAND

The Volunteer Band elected new officers last Thursday. They are:

President - - Percy Buchanan
Vice-President - - H. McGrath
Secy.-Treas. - - - Maud Hite

All new students are cordially invited to attend the open meetings of the Band.

FOOT BALL GAME HERE SATURDAY

First Game of Season to Be Played at Home is With Cumberland University.

The second football game of the season will be played Saturday afternoon on the local gridiron with Cumberland University of Lebanon, Tennessee.

No doubt this bit of news will be greatly welcomed by all the students and local football fans. This is the first of four consecutive games which will be played on the home grounds. The other three games to be played here are: with Oglethorp University on November 1, with Georgetown College on Nov. 8th, and with Emory and Henry College on Nov. 15.

Mississippi A. & M. cancelled the game which we had scheduled to play with them this Saturday at Starksville, Miss., giving as their excuse that they wished to schedule a University team for that date in order that they might be able to compete for the Southern Championship. It seems that their victory over the University of Tennessee last Saturday gave them new hopes and visions of winning the Southern pennant, even to such an extent that they considered their time too valuable to waste in playing a game with Maryville College.

If all the reports from Lebanon can be taken at par Cumberland has a strong team and intends to put up a fierce fight here Saturday afternoon.

Coach Feeman has been putting the men through an extensive, hard practice this week, drilling them especially in tackling and blocking, in which respects our team showed their greatest weakness in the game with Tennessee.

A. W. Cullis and Hicks have been out of the game on account of injuries but it is probable that both will be in good shape for Saturday's contest. We regret to report that Cecil Tulloch will not be back in the line for some time on account of an injury to his ankle which he received in the U. T. game.

The probable line-up of the men who will start the game is as follows:

McLaughlin, C
James (Capt.) L. G.
Hicks, R. G.
Johnson, L. T.
Ford, R. T.
W. Cullis, L. E.
Hendrix, R. E.
Davidson, R. H.-B.
Cullis, L. H.-B.
Jellicorse, F. B.
Weisbecker, Q. B.

KEENEY—CROWE

No doubt many members of the class of '19 will be interested to hear of the marriage of one of their classmates, Miss Mildred Justina Crowe. Miss Crowe was a very active student while here on the Hill and took part in many of the student activities. The following announcement has been made:

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Harkness request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their granddaughter
Mildred Justina Crowe
to
Mr. Phillip H. Keeney
On Friday evening the twenty-fourth of October
At eight o'clock
First Presbyterian Church
Middlesboro, Kentucky

Miss Genevieve Gibson, who was one of her classmates and who graduated with the class of '18 is to be one of the bridesmaids.

STAG PARTY ENTERTAINED BY "Y"

Various Universities Represented. Penn State Wins. All Kinds of Contests Held.

The gym was the scene of much competition and friendly rivalry Friday night when, Harvard, Yale, Penn, and Washington and Lee Universities assembled their athletic teams, with their accompanying rooters, to exhibit their ability. Each University was well represented but on account of so many matriculating late it was necessary to hold a few preliminaries and tryouts for the varsity teams after the meet was in progress. Much enthusiasm was evidenced in the different groups while the teams were being chosen as well as when the varsity teams locked horns in deadly combat for the much coveted Silver Cup, which was to be given to the university winning the most points.

Each man wore a pennant, on the lapel of his coat, bearing the name of his Alma Mater with one of his colloge colors. This was the badge of honor and distinction which each student wore.

The intercollegiate contests began by whirling disks, which were made of large brown paper bags stuffed with carbon dioxide, which tested the strength of contestants right arms. Many of the disks were thrown so far that the contestants could not regain them—without moving out of their tracks.

A relay race was an important event of the evening. Each member of each team was provided with a large cracker. When the signal, to begin was blown the first man of each team was to begin eating his cracker and as soon as he had masticated and swallowed a sufficient amount of his cracker to be able to whistle the next man on the team could begin his, etc. The team that whistled first won.

The tug-of-war was another interesting sport which was engaged in. This feat was accomplished by attaching two boys to the ends of a twine string upon which a marshmallow was suspended equidistant from the mouths of the boys as well as the ends of the string. When the whistle blew the object was to devour the delicious marshmallow and not the fellow at the other end of the string.

The last contest before the sandwiches and lemonade were passed around, which was far short of making the entire circuit, on account of the multitude being so much larger than was anticipated, was the much talked of pie-eating contest. When the preliminaries to the pie eating contest were over, which was the measuring of mouths, the applicants were found to have mouths ranging from a few inches to from ear to ear. Of course, the latter were the ones who passed the preliminaries successfully.

When all the contests were ended and the points enumerated, Penn was found to have won the silver cup which took the form of a very small but delicious cake which was by far too small for each one of the contestants from that University to get even one bite.

Boys if you think we didn't have a good time come out next time and get into some of the contests!

The town library which is situated over A. E. McCulloch's Jewelry store is to be opened to the public Friday, October 24th.

Mr. Roy Scholtz an old student is back on a visit.

GIRLS GO ON HAY RIDE TO MOUNTAINS

About Fifty Girls Go On First Outing of The Year. Good Eats and Good Time.

For the past few weeks a trip to the mountains had been planned by a number of girls on the Hill. But as the weatherman would have it rain fell and destroyed all plans. But last Monday as the day was bright and warm a number of the inmates of Pearsons, Baldwin and Memorial halls made preparations for and went on a trip to the mountains. Some of the girls traveled in automobiles, while the majority were piled in a wagon covered with hay.

The procession started at eight o'clock and after a short time they arrived at the home of Mrs. McMurray their Sunday School teacher. Here the wagon was filled with eats of all descriptions and quantities. They then went on until they arrived at the sulphur spring when everyone was thirsty and wanted a drink. But, after some of the girls had tasted of the water and made a few timely expressions, the others decided they were not thirsty. From here the sight-seers and pleasure hunters continued on towards the mountains. Before arriving at their destination the roads became so bad that a number of the girls found it necessary to get off and walk.

While walking along these would-be sight-seers but who were really tramps, for their desires had been transferred from sight-seeing to the hope of satisfying the innerman, discovered a chestnut tree and there they stayed until every chestnut within reach was obtained. From here they proceeded until they arrived at Montvale, where the dinner which consisted of chicken, cheese sandwiches, jelly, pie, peanuts, cake and bananas was served.

After dinner a start was made up the mountain, but as the day was well advanced by this time, they went to the lake instead. On the way to the lake a large black snake was killed—just think of it, girls killed a snake. But upon arriving at the lake they found that the water was too cold to go bathing so they contented themselves by taking pictures.

When starting back to the hotel several of the girls thought they would like to bring the snake back with them, so they carried it to the hotel where they put it in a box. On the way back a stop was made to get some more chestnuts and when the owners of the snake were absent, a few of those who abhor snakes, threw it over the bank.

After getting some chestnuts the wagon was loaded again with girls and the start towards home was made again. The outfit arrived home safe and sound. All were tired and ready for hash, but every one reported of having a good time.

THE WE EAT CLUB

Who had a jollier time Saturday evening than the We-Eat Club? They were all present with a broad smile. Though folks grow older each year, age does not necessarily make us grouchy. We were convinced of this Saturday evening when Misses Hazel Bevan and Mattie Hamilton were rushed into an artistically decorated room where a surprise joint birthday feast awaited them. Misses Bevan and Hamilton were given the places of honor at a table set for eleven. There were two birthday cakes decorated with rosebuds and innumerable candles. The color scheme was pink and white.

There are times and places when and where political parties are the only organizations which can control the government. But why is it necessary for a minority to control the nation. Is it possible that good officials can be obtained only through political parties? In this great country of ours a political party is necessary, as many of the men who are candidates for an office, are unknown to the public. The party that puts the best men in office is the party that survives.

In the larger universities, where there are about five thousand students, a man is known only in his fraternity or among his immediate fellows and classmates. In the universities, fraternities act as political parties.

In a small college of from five hundred to a thousand students are political parties needed? Almost every student is known after he or she has been in college a year. An opportunity is given everybody to become acquainted with the abilities of a student, in the classroom, literary societies, Y, athletic fields, on the campus, or in the dining hall. Why should a political party even exist in a college? Of what use are they? Each person should be acquainted with the abilities of another person and the person most fitted for the position should always be the one that is elected.

Should literary societies act as political parties? Literary societies are places where students are supposed to learn to speak? They should obtain all of the members possible and the best men possible, but because they control the larger number of voters should the members of the largest society hold all or nearly all of the offices among student activities?

Often a certain man or woman wants a certain position. Should he or she appeal to the members of his or her society for their support?

There are times when the members of a society are afraid the members of the other society will get ahead of their society. The members of that society will get together and combine on a person of their choice never considering whether or not that person is fitted for the position. As a result the person is elected; and the club, class, or whatever it may be is divided against itself.

There is nothing more important to an organization of any kind than the officers which are at its head.

INTERESTING PROGRAM RENDERED BY THETAS

Theta was honored Saturday evening by the presence of Miss Elizabeth Jones who, for the opening number sang "I'm Lonesome That's All" in her delightful way. Miss Julia Anderson spoke on the the subject of books, mentioning such famous ones as the fashion book, pocket book, text book, cook book and notebook. Next followed the Hawaiian quintet composed of Elsie Dawson, Valle Higginbotham, Margaret Newell, Lucile Thorpe, and Pet Houston. These girls made Hawaiian life seem very real to us by their true interpretation of their selections. The next number entitled Mother Goose Rhymes in which Gladys Hutcheson and Nellie Neal starred as the old negro mammy and her little charge. Other characters represented were Jack and Jill played by Susan Carson and Blanche Lowry; Simple Simon, Ruth Quinn; Little Bo Peep, Mattie Hodges, Little Jack Horner, Mother Goose, Marjorie Lloyd.

A short business meeting was then held, and several new names were presented.

Every body out for Theta next Saturday evening, a great treat in store for you! ! !

SUFFRAGETTS ENTERTAIN

The Equal Suffrage League entertained the new members of the Club Monday afternoon with a tea at the House in the Woods. Although it is not generally known that there are dual personalities on the Hill, the new girls who went down the endless receiving line found that there are. After everybody had been received several times Miss Hattie Hayes played a piano solo. Miss Winston Newton delighted the guests with two solos and Miss Mildred Campbell gave two humorous readings. Then everyone was given an opportunity to show her poetic ability on the subject "Woman Suffrage". As soon as the poems were completed they were read by Miss Minnie Hunter, Dr. Stevenson being the judge. Very impartially he selected the two best ones and the prizes were duly awarded.

Miss Ashton Clayton, being the most poetic person present won the first prize. Her poem was:

From back behind the mountains of the long and distant past,
There came a wee small maiden with a wee small vote to cast.
She looked o'er all the country from shore across to shore,
To find a kindred company to lay her case before.
And hark! a strain of music, a note of laughter clear,
A jolly bit of chatting and she found us! She is here!

Miss Mary Louise Hayes won the second prize:

There's the dark-age, the bronze age, the stone-age,
There's the iron-age, the glass-age, and tonage,
We live through the teen-age, manage and old-age,
We girls are ready now for Suffrage.

Tea and sandwiches were served and needless to say everyone present spent a most enjoyable afternoon, and Dr. Stevenson proved himself an unequaled host.

If a person is worth anything his fellow students will find it out. Almost every body on college hill knows what everybody else is worth with the exception of those who have entered this year for the first time. Why not choose the various officers by competition instead of through political parties?

For "The Rivals" up to date, interview Pearsons No. 38.

VESPERS

The Vesper hour was devoted to the study of "What religion means." The attitude of the poet Burns was of a man haunted by religion. To some religion is a passion, governing and shaping every action of their lives; to others it means nothing, but the great middle class are influenced, and it is something that cannot be tarnished; they are haunted by it; it sticks and shapes every thought and action. The great difficulty with religion is that men have conformed it to their view and not as Christ would have it. To live it as He meant it is not to clear up in one's mind every theological question of the past centuries, but to live as the Apostle James teaches. True religion is the union of the spiritual with the physical. There is no mystery about it; it is as simple as the atomic theory of H2O.

True religion is not a restraint nor an incarnation of the "don't", but a power that broadens and widens the horizon of life; it makes men more of men; it does not stunt development, but encourages growth. Religion does not push in the stops of the organ, but opens them into a swelling chorus. Its sacrifices and denials are not an end, but the means to the end that life may be enriched and enabled.

To McKinley as he lay dying it meant the fulfillment of life as he said, "Good-bye it is God's way, it is His will, God's will not mine be done."

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting on Sunday was led by Miss Minnie Hunter, who had as her subject, "The Misunderstood Girl". The subject had been divided into sub-topics and different members took part.

Miss Licia Johnson spoke on "The Timid Girl." "The Wooden Girl" was discussed by Miss Valle Higginbotham. Miss Helen Lewis told us about "The Girl Who is Adventuresome", and "The Girl in a New Environment" was treated by Miss Mildred Copenhaver. Many took part in the open meeting which followed and many practical suggestions were given. The music which was especially good consisted of a vocal number by Miss Winston Newton and a piano solo by Miss Bernice Jones.

ATHENIANS HAVE SPLENDID MEETING

An excellent program was carried out by the Athenians Saturday night. It was a well arranged, a well proportioned, and well balanced program. The "Galley Slave", a poem of large dramatic interest was read by C. V. Hill. Piano selections and solos by Messrs. Middleton and Buchanan were an outstanding feature. Intensive was the interest that centered around the vital question of the prohibition of emigration. Four new men very creditably argued the question and brought many of the newer facts to light on the national destiny, if this measure were to be adopted. The one side claimed it would lead to anarchy if adopted; the other side claimed the country would wind up in chaos if the emigrants were prohibited from coming in for three years. The judges ended the fears of the breathless audience by deciding for the affirmative. Spices and Current Events by Farmer and Beard, brought to a close a very helpful and an enjoyable evening.

A program of equal merit is already prepared with another of these drawing cartoons. Keep in touch with the progressive Athenians if you can't come, but come to get the real Athenian spirit.

No further notice will be given those who have not paid their subscriptions to the Highland Echo. Pay the Business Manager before next Wednesday night, (October 29th) or your subscriptions will be stopped.

ENROLLMENT

There have been eight hundred and fifty students matriculated here this year. Four hundred and sixty-six of these are preparatory students, and three hundred and ninety four are college students.

JUNIOR ATHENIANS

New members are joining the Junior Athenian every meeting night. Going some!

The last meeting of the Juniors was held on October 18th, in the Junior Athenian Hall at the regular hour.

The program secretary, David King, displayed his genius when he surprised the members with an unusual program which has no equal. No one knew what he was going to pull off, but when Howard Hill started off with his pathetic piece of poetry it sort of relieved his hearers and caused an abundant flow of tears. Next came the debate. The question debated was, "Resolved, That the recent flight of the American aviators across the Atlantic was a greater achievement than that of Columbus in 1492." Eidson and Buchanan took the affirmative, while Friedman and King argued the negative. What a wonderful flow of oratory proceded out of the mouths of those four capable debaters. Finally Columbus was given the credit and the defenders of the American aviators never conceived such a defeat.

Edward Cornelius or Ralph Bingham the second, was the last number. Thus ended the end of a perfect meeting.

The society for all preps, join now!

ALPHA SIGMA

Those who were present at the last meeing of the Alpha Sigma Literary Society enjoyed a thoroughly prepared and well given program and left feeling that it had been an evening truly well spent. For did they not hear enthusiastic reports from the committee on decorations? Did they not hear that the Old Hall was to be made more attractive and that the literary standards of the society were to be raised still higher? Were there not suggestions made and acted upon for making the meetings still more interesting and beneficial to those who take advantage of the opportunity offered them for the highest kind of literary activity available.

The following program was given:

Paper - - - Stacey Howell
Debate: Resolved, that the Plumb Plan is the best method of controlling the railroads.
Affirmative, G. Meyers, William Mongomery; Negative, McGrath Poe.
Open discussion of the railroad problem.
Extempo Speech—"The Characteristics One should look for in selecting a helpmate, George Callahan.
Violin and Clarinet Duet—Southern Melody, N. F. Goff, Wm. Montgomery
Alpha Sigma Advance - - Stanton

The program was followed by a valuable business meeting during which the names of several students were given to the society to be voted on for membership.

An extremely interesting and somewhat unusual program has been arranged for next Saturday, and every loyal member of the society is urged to be present.

The whistle blows ten minutes early. Be there and bring a friend.

ALUMNI NOTES

1909.

Rev. H. B. Phillips, of Nashville, called on relatives and friends in Maryville this week. He was in attendance on the meeting of Synod at Knoxville.

1911

Dr. and Mrs. G. T. Tootell, of Changteh, Hunan, China, have arrived in this country for a year's furlough and are now visiting Mrs. Tootell's parents in Knoxville. Mrs. Tootell, formerly Miss Anna Kidder of the class of 1911, sailed for China in September 1913. She was married to Dr. Tootell in January, 1915. Her husband who has been in charge of the Presbyterian hospital at Changteh, expects to begin an intensive postgraduate course in medicine at the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia in January. Mrs. Tootell and her two children will probably remain in Knoxville during the winter.

1912.

Another visitor from Middle Tennessee, who renewed old acquaintances while attending Synod was Rev. H. E. Orr, of Christiana.

1913.

Rev. and Mrs. Augustus Klamm, of Rich Hill, Missouri are the proud parents of a son who arrived recently. Mrs. Klamm was formerly Miss Marcia Secor. Mr. Klamm is pastor of the Presbyterian church at Rich Hill.

1913 and 1918.

Miss Olive Wilson, '13 and Miss Mamie Wilson, '18, have been spending some time in Chicago recently. Miss Mamie returned to Maryville last week and Miss Olive is expected home soon.

1917.

W. E. Martin is now located in Atlanta, where he has a position in the accounting department of the Atlanta and West Point Railroad and the Western Railroad of Alabama.

1918.

A. D. Bryson is Purchasing Agent of the Varney Electrical Supply Co. at Evansville, Indiana.

JUNIOR Y. W. C. A.

Miss Geraldine Odell Discussed, "How I Can Honor My Father and Mother."

Miss Odell gave many ways by which we can honor our parents. One of the simplest and yet a most important way is that of writing long, cheerful letters home. Another of the innumerable ways is to continue the customs of prayer and Bible reading which your mother has probably taught you from childhood.

The subject may be summed up by this thought: We honor our Fathers and Mothers by honoring God.

There were three special numbers.

Piano Solo, By Miss Wilson; Reading, "Ninety and Nine", by Miss Imogene Copeland; Vocal Solo, "Boy O' Mine", by Miss Jewel Stevens.

JUNIOR ALPHA SIGMA

The Junior Alpha Sigmas held their second meeting of the year, last Saturday night. There was a good attendance and all those present enjoyed one of those "Always the Best" programs, consisting of the following numbers:

Violin Solo - - - - - Davidson
Debate: Resolved that all men physically fit should be required to serve one year in the regular army. Affirmative, Webb; Negative, Maye.
Current Events - - - Delozier
Some three minute talks on "The Literary Society from which I came to Alpha Sigma". The new members specialized on this number. We are certainly pleased with our new members and their powers along literary lines.

In the business meeting that followed the program important topics of business were discussed. One new member was sworn in and the names of two others were presented for acceptance.

If you are looking for an opportunity to develop your literary talents, join the Alpha Sigma Literary Society. You are always welcome.

FIRST PREPS MEET

The first prep class met Tuesday, October 14, in Anderson Hall. The meeting was called to order by president Moore. There was a good attendance, and much enthusiasm was shown. The regular order of business was disposed of. Mr. Clyde Furgeson was elected program secretary, and if the programs that he arranges are as good as his looks, we sure will have a nice time.

The date for our meetings was set for the second and fourth Thursday in each month, but owing to the fact, that a great many of the members have to take physical training on this date, it will be necessary to change the date previously announced.

Talks which were made by Miss Viola Smith and Miss Gladys Smith, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Prigmore showed their oratorical ability, which was very melodious.

We invite all students beginning upon their career as future philosophers to come to our shrine and be enchanted by the wonderful mysteries which transpire in our beloved shrine. Come one, come all.

PERSONALS

The Reverend Mr. Swann spent the week end in Maryville visiting his niece, Miss Mabel Zimmerman.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Lowry were in Maryville for the Park-Lowry nuptials. They motored to Knoxville Monday with their daughters, Blanche and Marie.

Lowry Weeks who has just returned from overseas service has been visiting Miss Nina Parks.

Miss Mary Heard, a former student is working in her father's office.

Miss Alice Wright was on the Hill for the Park-Lowry wedding.

VOLUME FIVE — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1919 — NUMBER SEVEN

ORANGE AND GARNET DEFEATS CUMBERLAND UNIVERSITY 32-3

NOT THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS, BUT---!

Intercollegiate Debate and Oratorical Contest Arranged.

Plans for an intercollegiate Oratorical and Debate League were launched at a meeting of the colleges and universities of this section which was held in the Hotel Virginia at Bristol, Va.-Tenn., on Saturday the twenty-fifth. Representatives were present from six schools. Emory and Henry College was represented by Professor D. H. Munson; Carson-Newman College by President W. L. Gentry; Lincoln Memorial University by Professor T. B. Ford; Tusculum College by Professor E. S. Hathaway; Hampden-Sidney College by Mr. G. W. Ropp, and Maryville College by Professor E. R. Hunter. A number of other colleges have expressed their interest in the movement and are expected to join.

Tentative arrangements were made for a central oratorical contest involving representatives of all the colleges in the league. This contest, it is believed, will furnish an excellent opportunity for all the colleges of the section to present their best literary ability in a joint contest. The college winning this contest will naturally be looked upon as champion of the league for that year. According to the arrangements, this contest will be held April 2, this collegiate year, and will take place at Tusculum.

The league will further seek to act as a clearing house for debate schedules among its members. No college entering the league will be obligated to debate solely within the limits of the league, but efforts will be made to secure an adequate schedule for all the members. For the present year it was proposed that Maryville, Tusculum, and Emory and Henry arrange a triangular debate; that Maryville and Lincoln Memorial arrange a dual debate; that Hampden-Sidney and Emory and Henry arrange a dual debate; and that Tusculum and Carson-Newman arrange a dual debate. Thus each of the schools will be provided with a program suitable to its location and the number of available debaters.

Professor Munson of Emory and Henry was chosen president of the new organization and Professor Hunter of Maryville was chosen secretary-treasurer. It is the desire of the league to secure the hearty co-operation of the students and faculties of each of the colleges represented in its charter membership.

MIDDLE TENNESSEE CLUB

Are you a Middle Tennessee man? If not, you missed a good time Monday afternoon when the club met in Bainonian Hall.

If you don't believe the above said, you just ask any one of the twenty-one members who were present, and they'll assure you that there's lots of fun in good ragtime music played in a good old ragtime way; and also there's fun in making snaps.

And last, as it usually is, but not least, were the eats.

The following officers have been elected:

President - - - - Hillary Park
Vice-President - - - Lillis Huffman
Secy.-Treas. - - - Elizabeth McCord
Editor - - - - Aileen Watson

ALTHOUGH BOTH TEAMS ARE EQUAL IN WEIGHT MARYVILLE SQUAD SHOWS BETTER TRAINING AND MORE PEP. GOAL LINE NEVER IN DANGER.

Displaying the real brand of football common to all M. C. elevens, working with machine-like precision, tearing the opposing team's defensive to smithereens, opening up holes big enough for a wagon, passing with great accuracy, the Highlanders on last Saturday administered bitter defeat to Cumberland University, the final score being 32 to 3.

Try as they might Cumberland could never get within hailing distance of our goal, and only 3 times during the game did they succeed in making first down. In fact the game was played almost entirely in Cumberland territory.

The visitors were a husky bunch apparently, and averaged about the same as ours, but in speed and pep they were simply outclassed and contending against the greater team work and the fresh men substituted, they could do nothing. But in spite of the fact that they were playing an up-hill game throughout the four quarters, the losers fought gamely and with pluck up to the blowing of the last whistle.

It would be a very difficult task to pick out individual stars of the Maryvilce team as every man played a stellar game and proved himself worthy of the orange and garnet football togs.

Jellicorse, Cotton and E. Cullis plowed through the line and skirted the ends at will, scarcely even failing to make a substantial gain, Jellicorse netted 119 yards, Cotton 87, and Cullis 82. Our line held like a stone wall against which Cumberland charged with no success. Five successful forward passes account for the five times the visitors were able to make first down, as line plunges and end runs availed them nothing.

During the third quarter Coach Feeman used a team which consisted almost entirely of second-string men but to them also Cumberland proved to be decidedly inferior.

The game started off as follows: Shook of Cumberland kicked off 35 yards to Weisbecker who returned 25 to the 50 yard line. Jellicorse gained 9 yards and Cullis 1 making first down. Cullis and Jellicorse in three line plunges netted 7 yards and then Cullis went around right end for 14 yards and first down. Jellicorse in two runs, one around the end and the other through center made first down again. Cullis gained 4 yards over right tackle and Cotton 5 yards over left tackle. Jellicorse plunged through center for 2 yards and first down. By a skin-tackle run Cullis made a gain of 8 yards and on the next play Cotton went 3 yards for the first touchdown.

The second touchdown was made by Cullis towards the end of the first quarter and Jelly kicked goal. In the second quarter Weisbecker increased the score to 19 by adding a third touchdown. The other two touchdowns were made in the fourth quarter by Jellicorse and Weisbecker respectively.

The three scores which prevented Cumberland from a complete shutout were made during the first part of the second quarter when Maryville fumbled and Cumberland came into possession of the ball on the 35 yard line. It was then that Shook, Cumberland's full-back, put over one of the prettiest drop-kicks seen here in several seasons.

The line-up was as follows:

Cumberland		Maryville

GAME WITH OGLETHORPE UNIVERSITY

With no casualty as a result of the game Saturday with Cumberland, the Maryville Highlanders are putting in a week of practice even more strenuous than that of last week, preparing for the game to be played with the strong Oglethorpe University team of Atlanta, Ga.

The Oglethorpe "Petrels" as far as can be learned are an aggregation of the first calibre, so the game Saturday promises to be one of the hardest fought contests of the M. C. season. It is reported that the Oglethorpe men are of large size and are good grid men to boot. This report is substantiated by the fact that they walloped Mercer University 73 to 0 last Saturday, and the University of Chattanooga 19 to 0 on October 18. Besides, football is Oglethorpe's long suite and they take great pride in turning out a team that can withstand the assaults of the best teams.

It is reported that there are eight old letter "Petrels" back this year, among whom is their 190 pound 1918 captain, Bob Nichols. They also have an end, Reeves, and a full back, Knox, who are terrors in their lines. John Knox last year broke through the Camp Gordon defense and raced 100 yards down the field for a touchdown. Reeves is reputed to be one of the best ends in the South.

In order to make victory possible for Saturday we must support the team with cheers and songs of such volume that they can be heard in Knoxville. The cheering and singing of last Saturday (and it was fine) must be outclassed and in fact put to shame this week in order to make possible that far-famed and long-anticipated co-educational bonfire which will come off on Saturday evening if victory is ours. The snake parade between halves last Saturday was a good beginning and the constituents thereof are to be commended but we are going to have a genuine old Boa-constrictor parade on November 1st., that will reach back and forth across the field a dozen times.

So, let everybody, large, small, vaccinated, or otherwise be lined up along the football field at 2:30 on Saturday afternoon with two good lungs and an uproarious voice, prepared to yell and sing as you never did before.

ANNALS OF M. C. SENIORS

VOL. 1. NO. 2

SOCIETY

Mrs. French Entertains

Tuesday evening, in spite of rain, proved to be a very enjoyable one for the Seniors of '20, the guests of Mrs. French, and for lower classmen, the guests of the Seniors. About eighty were assembled at the French home by eight and then the fun began (not meaning that the trip down was not fun). As a matter of fact the display of new dresses, suits, ties and handkerchiefs, as well as parasols, was a sight that it would take columns to tell.

It was proved too that the entertainment committee of the first party was not the only committee with new ideas. Poetry was written, songs were sung, puzzles were solved, in short: the poets poetized, the witan witted, the punsters punned, the puzzlers puzzled, the songsters sang, the gamesters gamed, the flirts flirted, and everybody joined in on the eats.

Dr. Stevenson proved a delightful chaperon, especially in the nursery rhyme games. In the poetry contest ten "best ones" were selected.

Late in the evening the class president sent word that time was up. "'20-'21-'22-'23 shift" toward Pearsons, so with regret the guests departed vowing to have another party as soon as possible.

AMERICA'S GREATEST NEEDS ARE DISCUSSED

Mr. Glascock, The Superintendent of The A. C. O. A. Leads Y. M. C. A. Service.

The question "What is America?" was asked, and "Is America Made up of money pigs or of individual citizens?" America the greatest country in the world, is made up of individuals.

To hear the coal dealer tell of the needs of the world, the coal cars are needed worse than anything else. To hear him tell his story the people would be much richer and happier if only the coal cars were more abundant. It is true that America needs coal cars but she needs lumber and food equally as much.

The greatest need of America today is the need of toilers and spinners. Today America is full of lilies, those who are seeking easy jobs, or who do not want to work at all, but the toilers and spinners are scarce. The men who will work for all there is in the work are few, but on the other hand you will find big, strong, hearty, sound and robust men applying for timekeeper jobs, jobs that cripples can do equally as well as those who are physically sound.

Labor threatens America with industrial war. Labor has risen up against labor, capital against capital and trade against trade. To illustrate this the coal miners demand a six hour day, five days to the week and sixty percent increase in wages. If the wages of the coal miners go up that means that the price of other necessities must advance also.

Above all America needs Americans. American christian men and women who are prepared for a life of service wherever the need is greatest and whenever the call to service comes. The capitalists, laborers and consumers must be able to serve together before conditions permit readjustment.

America needs toilers and spinners and yet there is room for the lilies if they will but heed the call of christian messengers.

GREAT NATIONAL STUDENT CONFERENCE

Students From All Over the World to Meet Dec. 31-Jan. 4

A great gathering together of students from every college in the United States will take place in Des Moines, Iowa on December 31st. to January 4th. About 6000 students are expected to be present as this student conference which is held in various countries every four years and is now back in the United States.

The greatest leaders of religious and social work in the world will be present to speak to the students and confer with any who wish private talks.

An exhibit from all parts of the world will be shown and 500 foreign students will be present as guests of the conference.

The first meeting on the night of December 31st will be opened by Dr. John Mott. Problems which are facing the world socially, politically and religiously will be the subjects of the speeches from the world's best thinkers. Do you know how strong a hold Bolshevism has in our nation or just how great is the evil with which the world is threatened today because of the spread of the Lenine and Trotzky teaching? This and similar subjects will be explained fully.

Each college may send a number of delegates based on her number of college students only. As a result Maryville is allowed three delegates. Will the student body get back of the effort the Y. M., Y. W. and other organizations are making to finance a way by which three college students can represent us at this convention? Money is needed to send any delegates. Can not the student body have sufficient pride in seeing Maryville's banner in the great auditorium December 31st, to really give the money necessary for expenses? We cannot put Maryville on the map in any better way.

Already U. T., Carson-Newman, Tusculum and other East Tennessee colleges have their student delegates selected and are after the money for expenses. Don't let us lag behind. The support of faculty and students is requested.

TAR-HEEL CLUB RE-ORGANIZED

The Tar Heel Club met last week and elected the following officers for theyear:

E. K. James - President
J. Deyton - V.-President
Oscar Stanton - Secy.-Treas.
Ruth Greenlee - Editor

There is a lively bunch from the Old North State on the Hill this year.

The one thing for you to do is to come to the next meeting and help get something planned, for we mean to have a good time this year.

A commandment some people would heartily endorse goes something like this—"Children, obey your matrons and proctors, for this is right."

DEVELOP THE OTHER HALF

The various courses are offered in this college, as in most colleges, may be classed as literary or science courses.

The literary societies were organized to give students an opportunity to develope their literary talents. Man has studied literature and allied subjects for thousands of years but science is of recent development. For the past fifty years or more there have been literary societies on the Hill. But no such thing as a science club exists. Why not have a Science Club? Students in Maryville College and the majority of other colleges are required to take science courses.

Science and scientific methods are being used more and more each year. College students should keep abreast with developments in science as well as in literature and other topics. Why not organize a club or society of those who are interested in sciences of all kinds?

WHERE DID YOU PUT THAT POSTAGE STAMP?

Are you one of the persons who talk by means of stamps? Of course you have heard that a stamp upside down means "Je vous aime", but have you ever heard what one on the back, or on each corner, or even perhaps in the center of the envelope means?

If you have heard would it not be instructive to many if you would disclose the secret of stamp talk?

If it means nothing more than the fun of sticking the stamps on in picturesque positions, let's stop putting them on in any position except in the upper right hand corner on the front of the envelope. It takes twice as long for a mail clerk to cancel the stamps on the back for he must turn the letter over, while if there are stamps on two or more corners it necessitates an extra cancellation. Then too, think of the mail clerks on the trains who must turn the letter, with stamps on back, over for fear of letting a stampless letter through.

Mail clerks are not overpaid these days, so lets be considerate of them

:--:--:--:

We have a beautiful campus at Maryville of which all are justly proud, but are we proud enough of it not to disfigure it with bits of test papers, wrapping paper, banana peels, anything which happens to be in our possession? In some cities to throw any trash on the street is a crime punishable by fine and by a term in prison. Surely we need no such law here to help us keep attractive the grounds in which we live.

You can tell the boy or girl that has been to Spraker-Atkins Co. the minute they reach the "hill", cause they have been supplied with all good things to eat they were looking for.

If you have not tried them go in and let them send you back to the Hill with that "Satisfied Expression on your face."

SPRAKER—ATKINS CO.

PROF. BRITTAIN LEADS PRAYER MEETING

Professor Brittain chose two of the old testament characters, Ruth and Job, as his subject matter to illustrate the best qualities of womanhood and manhood. He showed that the image of God is recreated in the heroes and heroines of history. True, many sinful men and women are known, but only those who were good, truly and patiently have left their stamp on the world. Among these Ruth, a daughter of Moab, raised in idolatory, holds a unique place. She left home for a strange land, she turned from a life of ease to one of hardship. She stood for the right and endured physical suffering for the right. Truly she reflected the image of God.

Job, when every force of evil, every loss that can be imagined, and worst kind of sickness, was turned against him, patiently clung to God. More than that, he blessed God for he gave and took away. Legions of devils commended by the devil himself assailed him. In the height of his distress his wife lined up on Satan's side and told him to "Curse God and die". Job blessed the name of the Lord. The greatness of a man is revealed in the testing. If a man fail shall he curse his God? The speaker concluded by reading Kipling's "If".

Mr. C. Davidson rendered a violin solo.

JUNIOR Y. W. C. A.

The Junior Y. W. C. A. was led last Sunday by Miss Lois Wilson. The subject for the afternoon was "Prayer". A very interesting and helpful talk was given. Miss Wilson showed that prayer should be a part of our daily life—a part of us.

The musical numbers were excellent, consisting of a violin solo by Miss Lucile Tharp, and a piano silo by Miss Sue Sugg.

Girls, the Junior Y. W. is really worth while. Come and join us. There are rumors flying around that some very interesting things are going to happen in the near future, and you don't want to miss them.

LET'S DO IT AGAIN

Who said eats? We did. Just a bunch from Baldwin and Memorial on a tramp through the College Woods. But you can't have a picnic without eats, so eats they had. No moonshining allowed.

GIVE US "SINGS"

Every one enjoys the sings conducted by Professor Hall. Why can't we have them oftener? As good congregational singing is so rare these days everything which tends to develop it should be sought most eagerly. By means of these 'sings' we are reminded that not all songs are funeral dirges, and therefore should not be sung as such. We become better acquainted with our college songs and not only love them more ourselves but make them mean more to others when we sing them as a school. We also have the pleasure of hearing and singing the American and English folk songs, which every one loves so much. Then, too, we might learn the popular songs of the day, most of which are quite aged before they are sung much on the Hill. So let's have more sings, sings at chapel, and sings on the campus and in the halls, after supper, on Saturday nights—any and every time a crowd can get together.

"THE GIRL WHO FOLLOWED THE STAR"

The Y. W. C. A. meeting Sunday was led by Miss Mildred Hoffman, who had chosen for her subject, "The Girl Who Followed the Star". It was a beautiful and interesting story of a girl who followed the guiding star of love, which led her through the narrow and rugged path of service, through cities where Sin walked openly with Ignorance and Greed. And finally becoming to feeble to go farther, she sank by the road scarcely breathing.

Then as she lifted her eyes, she beheld the great and throbbing star above her, and wonderful strains came to her as if all the good and beautiful things of life had been gathered into one mighty psalm which revealed to her the secret of Creation—and she heard in the music a sweet voice saying: "He who walks in Love shall wander far but God shall bring him where the blessed are."

The special music consisted of a solo by Miss Elizabeth Jones.

ATHENIANS

The Athenians met in joint session Monday night. A joint program of unusual interest was rendered. Hurgh, a native Korean gave a paper of clear intelligence on the present situation in Korea. A humorous debate on the question, "Resolved, that the hours for moonshine should be changed from 2 to 5 p. m. to 7 to 10 p. m. The debate was replete with all the thrills and surprises of an uprearious kind. Dayton and Jody upheld the affirmative in a manner which showed they had the interest of the great body of students at heart, for they portrayed beautiful pictures in soft tinted and serene moonbeam rays of this great change. Of course "Bill" Holmes and Friedman just had to throw cold water on the proposition which seemed to take all the joy out of life. The judges recommend this great innovation without reservations to the faculty. Sure, the president let everyone in on the proposition for a few minutes.

The midwinter theme which is to be presented December first is well under way and everything promises that it will be the largest production of its kind ever staged. There are fifty characters of national reputation who will pass in historic assembly on the night of December first. Make your reservations for this date, now.

VESPERS

A large attendance was present to hear a very old story brought up-to-date. The story was of Naaman a bold and successful general, one of the faithful counsellors, yet, there was one thing that marred him, he was a leper. His condition was such that the servants talked about him and one, a Jewish maid, told of a great prophet in Isreal who could cure him. Naaman resolved to go and the journey was replete with all the regal and gorgeousness of his state. His pride was shaken when told to wash in Jordon. His patriotic pride laid forth that the waters of Damascus were cleared than the muddy streams of Isreal. His wrath reached the sizzling point when he was prevailed upon by the servants to go and do the simple task.

The devotion of his servants showed the better nature of the man. Naaman with a feeling of foolishness performed the task as the servants watched and at the seventh plunge he was healed.

It was the dawning of the knowledge of the true God. He returned to give thanks to Elisha and to tell him of great truth, that there is no other God than the God of Isreal. Returning to his homeland he built an altar and with his family worshipped the living and true God.

The story teaches, first, that sin is a leprosy, incurable and eventually causes spiritual death. Second, God forgives sin and cures leprosy, if men will but come to Him. Third, our pride and prejudice comes between us and God and His salvation.

PALACE PROGRAM

THURSDAY:

Wallace Reid in "ALIS MIKE MORAN"; as usual Wallace Reid gets things moving just the minute he gets on the screen, and in this play he seems to be in a hurry for he is trying to win what he thinks is the greatest little girl in the world; in order to win her he is put to a number of trying tasks, many of which causes him to almost loose his life—but see the picture. As usual true love finds a way. This also is a Paramount Picture. Mack-Sennet Comedy "NO MOTHER TO GUIDE HIM", featuring an all-star comedy cast.

FRIDAY:

Another Paramount starring Lila Lee in "PUPPY LOVE". Would you marry a rich man if you despised him? This question is answered by Dainty Lila Lee in one of Paramount's best pictures, 'Puppy Love' if you like a nice clean story and Lila Lee, you will be more than pleased with this picture. Harold-Lloyd Comedy "STOP SHOOTING".

SATURDAY:

A big special all-star cast production "PAID IN ADVANCE"; a story of the great northwest in the days when the famous northwest mounted were startling the world with their deeds of valor in rounding up many criminals who had fled from this part of the country to seek refuge in what they thought to be a unsettled territory. A picture that will hold your interest from start to finish.

MONDAY:

Look— William Duncan's newest and best serial "SMASHING BARRIERS" will start today, don't miss a single chapter of this serial-superior if you like thrills, adventures and dare-devil stunts; this picture is packed full of 'em, a surprise in every episode. Don't forget it starts today, and you can't afford to miss it. A Big V Comedy "HIS HOME SWEET HOME". Big Feature, the title to be announced later.

TUESDAY:

A special attraction, the title of which will be announced later, but you can bet it will be a good one. Pete Morrison in a western Ham and Bud Comedy.

WEDNESDAY:

Paramount presents a typical Bryant Washburn picture "POOR BOOB", adapted from Margaret Mayo's famous stage success. Popular star ideally cast in role of ostensible failure who doesn't prove to be the "Boob" he appears to be. By a mistake he wins the girl and of course made a fortune; they say angels protect the "boobs" and "simps", and surely this is true, especially in this instance. Lyons-Moran Comedy and Railroad Raiders, a serial with Helen Holmes in the lead.

JUNIOR ALPHAS GOING SOME

The Junior Alphas were enthusiastic participants in the celebration of the football victory and there fore did not have the regular meeting on Saturday evening, but instead on Monday evening. An unusually large number were present and all enjoyed the short but excellent program.

The feature of the program was an impromptu debate. The subject was, "Resolved, that the crow of a rooster is more musical than the cackle of a hen." Affirmative, Delozier; Negative, Templin. The two speakers brought down the house with their unusual argument and witty sayings.

During the business meeting that followed the regular program, the following officers were elected to hold office during the second term of the society year.

President	Miles
V.-President	Webb
Corresponding Secy.	Franklin
Recording Secy.	Delozier
Ass't. Rec. Secy.	Toole

VOLUNTEER BAND HOLDS A PRAYER MEETING

At the last meeting of the Volunteer Band, which was in charge of Howard McGrath, vice-president, the evening was spent in prayer for the great student conference to be held in Des Moines in December. The Band hopes to be able to send a delegate.

THETA EPSILON

Theta Epsilon met Monday evening in Theta Hall. There was good attendance and an extremely interesting program was enjoyed by all those present.

BAINONIAN

The Bainonian Society met on Monday evening, and after a short business meeting in which new members took the oath of allegiance and other names were presented for membership, an interesting program was carried out.

A reading by Miss Mildred Copenhaver entertained the audience as well as put them in a suitable frame of mind to hear the heated discussion of the evening, "Resolved, that a Verbal Proposal is better than a Written One.". Those arguing for the affirmative were Ashton Clayton, and Mildred Hoffman; the supporters of the negative of this serious proposition were Willodine McIver and Laura Stevens. As the judges decided two to one in favor of the affirmative the matrons need not worry over the "Special Deliveries."

The medley given by Miss Eunice Taylor and Ruth Newton soothed and quieted the nerves of the girls who had become very excited and agitated during this vital discussion, and all left Bainonian eager to begin their studies.

KENTUCKIANS ORGANIZE

The Kentuckians met on October 21st. to elect the officers for this year. The officers are:

ALUMNI NOTES

1916, 1918, 1919.

Maryville is well represented in Princeton Seminary this year. William Powell, '16, Herbert Jordan, '18, Andrew Richards, '18, and Cedric Miller, '19 have all entered or are about to enter for the year's work.

1919.

Miss Emma Miles is in Atlanta where she is taking a course of training in Red Cross work.

Miss Edith Davis is teaching at Wading River, Long Island.

1907.

Rev. Stanley H. Jewell, of Barton, Maryland, recently laid the cornerstone of a new church to take the place of the one destroyed by fire last February.

1910.

James A. Padgett is Superintendent of the graded school and principal of the High School at Ruffin, North Carolina.

1911.

The following clipping from the Knoxville Journal and Tribune will be of interest to Maryville alumni. Mrs. Howe was a member of the class of 1911, and her many Maryville friends wish her much happiness.

"Bearden, Tenn., Oct. 21— Mr. Marshall Madison Gray, announces the marriage of his daughter, Winnie Belle, to Mr. John W. Howe, on Tuesday, October 21st, 1919. Bearden, Tennessee.

"At home after November 1, Anthras, Tenn.

'The marriage was quietly solemnized at the Presbyterian church of Bearden, Rev. W. M. Gilliam, pastor officiating.

"The bride was becomingly attired in a dark blue tricotine suit and blue panne velvet hat with accessories to match.

"Only a very few relatives and friends of the bride and groom were present to witness the nuptials."

FUNNY SAYINGS

Professor Hunter (in logic) "Mr. Brown will you please give us the law of identity."

Horace Brown: "Whatever is, is."

Professor Hunter: "Now, Mr. James will you give us the law of contradiction."

Mr. James: "Whatever is, ain't."

Old Student: "Say, got anything in your head that bites?"

Do you know anyone who wants a job? The Electrician is going to discharge a couple of Batteries?

"I wouldn't drink out of that cup if I were you", said little Jimmie to a visitor from Carnegie Hall. "That's Bessie's cup and she's very particular who drinks out of it."

"Oh," said the Carnegie Hall inmate as he drank the cup dry, "I feel honored to drink out of Bessie's cup. Bessie is your younger sister isn't she?"

"No, sir! Bessie's my dog!"

"I just can't keep a pencil long?"

"Why's that? Do you loose them?"

"No, I sharpen 'em, and they soon get short."

PERSONALS

Miss Corin Humphries is teaching in Santa Rosa, New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Parham spent the week end with their daughter, Ruth.

Miss Bessie Cardin was called home on account of the death of her uncle Rev. R. L. Wallace.

Miss Grace Sydenstrycker spent Monday in Knoxville with her brother who was en route to his home in Washington, D. C.

Friends of Miss Isabel McGranaham, former Maryville student, have received cards announcing her marriage to Mr. William Donaldson of Beaver, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Fred Stern of Knoxville, formerly Miss Alene Chase, was a visitor on the Hill Monday.

Miss Olive Russell spent the week-end with her friends the Copelands, at Park City.

Misses Laura Feid, Beulah Hatcher, and Nell Baker spent Monday in Knoxville chaperoned by Miss Baker's father who has been visiting Maryville for the week-end.

Pearsons is full of mysteries this week. Miss Mildred Campbell was the mystified recipient of an annoymous letter, the source of which she is unable to find.

Miss Mattie Hamilton read and Miss Winston Newton sang at a social meeting of the W. C. T. U. held Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Hibbert.

Saturday evening the Misses Elizabeth Moore and Lillian Hodges entertained the following guests in honor of their joint birthday—age not stated:

Hortense Gibson, Vera Dunaway, Iva Secor, Mary Tippet, Ruth Tedford, Elizabeth and Mattie Hodges. After an enjoyable evening spent in music and conversation the guests were regaled with delightful refreshments consisting of fruit salad, wafers, tid-bits, hot chocolate and the birthday cakes upon which had recently burned the birthday candles of the hostesses.

On account of circumstances Saturday night some of the invited guests were unable to be present, thereby missing a very enjoyable time.

The Expression Department is quite busy furnishing readers for various social functions and entertainments. Last week Misses Mildred Campbell and Bernice West read at the anniversary meeting of the Tuesday Club at Mrs. J. S. Jones.

The students are glad indeed that Miss Sarah Coulter, manager of the boarding club, is able to be up again after a rather serious illness.

GEORGIA CLUB

The good time had at the meeting of the Georgia Club on Monday afternoon could only be rivaled by a 'possum hunt or a "cane grinding". An enormous supply of sandwiches pickles, peanuts, cake and cream were transported to a secluded spot of the campus where the feasting took place. The Club was fortunate to secure the presence of a—— whose music and company was highly enjoyed. By the time all the "eats" had been consumed the limits to moonshine hours had also been reached. So the "Crackers" parted with the understanding that it would be only a short time "Till We Meet Again."

SNAP AGAIN!

The faculty most graciously granted a snap Saturday night in honor of the victory Maryville won over Cumberland in the afternoon. It was the second one held in the gymnasium this year, and also the best as yet this year as the crowd was just large enough to make snap the greatest of sports. Perhaps the most popular man on the floor was Professor Southwick because— well, there may be a reason.

M. C. OUTCLASSES OGLETHORPE UNIVERSITY

HOLIDAY TUESDAY NOVEMBER 11

Gov. A. H. Roberts to Speak in Chapel Tuesday Afternoon.

To the satisfaction of students of Maryville College, an all-day holiday has been granted by the faculty for Tuesday, November 11, to celebrate the signing of the armistice. What will happen in the morning depends on each individual; but in the afternoon of that day, the Hon. A. H. Roberts, Governor of Tennessee, will address the students of Maryville College in Voorhees chapel.

This will be a great day in the history of our college and every one should be present to hear this speech.

THE CAMBRIDGE PLAYERS IN "THE RIVALS" FRIDAY NIGHT

The third attraction of the Lyceum is a number of unusual interest, Sheridan's famous comedy "The Rivals". To see Miss Miller and Jess Coffer in "The Rivals" is to witness not only delightful comedy but fine acting as well. Miss Miller's "Mrs. Malaprop" is the essence of things comic. She has enlivened "Mrs. Malaprop" by an artistic sense of the demands of true character portrayed.

Bob Acres, to win his lady love, and the ultimate entanglement in a duel in which his true valor is displayed, offers Jess Coffer abundant opportunities of his talents as a comedian.

GEORGETOWN IS COMING

On next Saturday afternoon the Highlanders will buck up against the Georgetown College eleven from Georgetown, Kentucky on the local field. It is reported that the Georgetown men are all of large size and are also good grid men, so a scrappy contest is expected.

Our men are all in fairly good shape as no very serious injury resulted from the game with Oglethore last Saturday.

The next game will be played at Maryville on November 15th, with Emory and Henry, and in all probability the Thanksgiving game with Tusculum will be played at Knoxville on Wait field, as such an arrangement is sought by both schools and by Knoxville football enthusiasts.

SECOND FOOTBALL GAME ON HOME GROUND AND SECOND VICTORY FOR SEASON. STELLAR GAME PLAYED THROUGHOUT. SEVERAL LONG RUNS MADE.

Playing on a slick, muddy field Maryville defated Oglethorpe University last Saturday afternoon 14 to 7 in a game featured by flashes of spectacular and amazing football. From start to finish the game consisted of a series of surprises which not only dumfounded the on-lookers but which was also a cause of bewilderment to the players themselves.

Despite the quagmire and water, passes and runs were attempted with remarkable success. Although only straight football seemed possible on account of the slippery field both teams used cross bucks and end runs to decided advantage with but few losses as result of slipping. Of course both teams were to some extent handicapped by the mud but it would be difficult to state which aggregation would have had the advantage on a dry field.

The three outstanding features of the game account for the three touchdowns. In the first quarter with the ball on Oglethorpe's 45 yard line, Jellicorse passed 30 yards to A. Cullis who ran 15 yards and was tackled behind the goal.

On the very next kick-off Knox, Oglethorpe's star full-back, received the ball on the 20 yard line and raced apparently untouched 80 yards down the field straight through the center of Maryville's defense for their only touchdown. The on-lookers were so awestruck by this seemingly impossible run that it was some time before they were able to fully realize what had happened. This was the longest run that had been witnessed on the local grid since the day of 1915 when Ensign pierced the University of Chattanooga's defense for almost the same distance and a touchdown. Knox was easily the star of Oglethorpe's eleven making 100 of their sum total of 226 yards and punting seven times with an average of 39 yards.

In the third quarter Knox punted 40 yards to Weisbecker who shook off the "Petrels" who came down with the punt and raced 65 yards down the left side of the field for Maryville's second and last touchdown. This, the longest single gain made by a Maryville man this year was made possible by perfect interference. If Maryville had had such interference on October 5th, U. T. would not have had a smell.

The visitors, although of about the same average weight as the Highlanders, were outplayed and only three times were they able to force their way beyond M. C.'s 20 yard line. The first invasion was made by Knox on his wild run for a touchdown. In the second quarter Oglethorpe managed to reach our 17 yard line where the ball went over on downs. The third time our goal was threatened E. Cullis saved the day by intercepting a pass which he caught behind the goal. He brought the oval out to the one yard line thus robbing Oglethorpe of a safety.

The eleven men who wore the Orange and Garnet into the first quarter played the entire game without relief and the only casualty in our ranks was the result of a foul which escaped the notice of the officials. Oglethorpe made only one substitution, so the whole game was played by only twenty-three men.

As in the two preceeding contests Jellicorse's punting was a decided factor in our defensive. He averaged 45 yards for his 8 boots, his last one going 65 yards and over the opponents' goal line. He also kicked both goals.

The two ends Moore and A. Cullis showed to unsual advantage and it was to Cullis' spectacular catch that the first touchdown was due.

Our line as usual opened up highways on the offensive and held like a stone wall on the defensive. Johnson played his tackle much better than he had in any preceding game and that is saying much. Oglethorpe was unable to gain through his tackle and frequently he got through the line to throw the opponents for heavy losses.

In spite of the fact that Maryville played rings around the visitors and in the end defeated them, Coach Anderson of Oglethorpe made the statement that "it was a game of luck throughout in which the luckiest team won."

THE GAME BY DETAIL

FIRST QUARTER

Knox punted 40 yards to Jellicorse who returned 10; Maryville reccived in the south end of the field; Jellicorse gained 2, but Maryville was penalized 5 yards for offside; Cotton gained 4 yards on a cross buck and Jellicorse punted 45 yards to Sims who was downed on Oglethorpe's 30 yard line.

A pass failed; Knox 1 yard through center; Sims was thrown for a 3 yard loss; Knox punted 40 yards to Weisbecker who was downed on M. C.'s 30 yard line.

Cullis made 6 yards over tackle; a pass was incompleted; Cotton jabbed the line for 11 yards and first down. A pass from Weisbecker to right end failed; a second pass resulted in failure; Cullis 1 yard over tackle; Jellicorse punted 25 yards and the ball rolled 15 more and outside on Ogle's 24 yard line.

Davenport and Knox each gained 2 yards; Davenport no gain, nailed by Johnson; Knox punted 40 yards to Cotton who returned to the 50 yard line.

Jellicorse netted 4 yards on an end run and Cullis failed to gain; it was then that Oglethorpe received a great surprise for Jellicorse passed 30 yards to A. Cullis who ran 15 yards for the first touchdown of the game. As Jellicorse kicked goal the whistle blew for the end of the first quarter.

Score: M. C. 7; Oglethorpe 0.

SECOND QUARTET

Jellicorse kicked off 40 yards to John Knox who ran 80 yards for a touchdown; Chestnut kicked goal. Score: M. C. 7; Oglethorpe 7.

Knox kicked off 45 yards to Jellicorse who returned 10; Nichols tackled him and was hurt but continued in the game; first down on Maryville's 25 yard line; Jellicorse passed 20 yards to A. Cullis; Cotton 2 yards over right tackle; a pass to E. Cullis failed; Cullis no gain; Jellicorse punted 50 yards to Sims who returned 15.

Sims gained 2 yards; Davenport swept around right end for 14 yards and first down. Sims punched the line 7 yards and Turner on a long end run was almost gone when Jellicorse tackled him after he gained 30 yards; a line plunge failed; Moore threw Turner for a 3 yard loss; Knox gained 2 through center which made fourth down; a fake pass from a place kick formation failed and the ball came into Maryville's possession on her own 17 yard line.

Cotton 4; Cullis 5; Cotton 2 and first down. The half ended with the ball in Maryville's possession on her own 30 yard line.

THIRD QUARTER

Jellicorse kicked off 40 yards to Sims who returned 15; Knox gained 3 yards through center; Sullivan threw Davenport for a 10 yard loss; Reeves slipped and lost 5 yards; Knox punted 40 yards to Weisbecker who was nailed in his tracks.

A pass to Moore from Jelly netted 11 yards, and first down. The next pass was intercepted by Knox who was downed on Ogle's 27 yard line.

Knox lost 6 yards when Johnson came through and got him; Sims gained 8 yards and Davenport 2 over tackle; Knox punted 40 yards to Weisbecker who raced 65 yards down the left side of the field for a touchdown. Jelly kicked goal. Score: M. C. 14; Oglethorpe 0.

Jellicorse kicked off 35 to Reeves who returned 4; Turner made 7 yards on two line bucks; Sims and Knox each gained 2 yards making

VICTORY CELEBRATED WITH BONFIRE

Boys and Girls Join in Parade. Football Men Speak.

The celebration committee most wisely decided that the thrilling victory over Oglethorpe could best be celebrated by a big bonfire, and so Saturday afternoon, the weather, by special order of Professor Brittain cleared up and was really pretty from five to seven, in order that the long dreamed of bonfire might be actually realized. Immediately after supper all students, both girls and boys began a wonderful snake dance and proceeded from Pearsons to the bonfire by way of Baldwin, Chapel, Carnegie, Anderson and Bartlett, finally arriving at the edge of the woods by a great roaring fire. While the snake dancers rested, Frank Minarik led in yells for the various members of the team who made the glorious victory possible, and then Frank Cody led while the college songs, and various battle songs such as "Yell Girls, Yell" were sung. Then the captain of the team Jimmie James (alias Earnest K. James) was forcibly carried to the platform and held there until he made a speech. He graciously told the crowd that it was the rooters, not the team, who won the game. He was followed by Weisie who magnanimously declared that the team as a whole and not any individual won it. Other members of the team were not to be found to the great disappointment of the many who wished to see them on the platform and hear them make extemporaneous speeches. Sad to relate, Professor Brittain's orders concerning the weather lasted only until seven o'clock and as the clock struck the hour the rain began to fall, and all had to beat a retreat to the shelter of the dormitories. And thus ended the bonfire of which we have heard since last spring, but may that not be the last of bonfires, but rather the beginning of a series of fires celebrating our victories.

A LOBBY IN CARNEGIE

Why can not the boys have a place in Carnegie Hall in which to meet their parents and friends? Quite often the boys have visitors; but they have no place for their entertainment. The girls' halls have parlors, and the boys should have a lobby in which to entertain their visitors.

Then again, it will soon be winter, and the boys cannot stand out on the campus after supper until the study bell rings. The lobby would be a suitable place for them to gather and crack jokes, tell yarns, and have enjoyable evenings. This would be much better than chasing away to town, or standing out on the campus.

It would require very little work to arrange a lobby in Carnegie. There is plenty of room; all that is needed is a small amount of furniture and decorations. The boys are entitled to this and why not have it?

FORENSIC LEAGUE

The Forensic League had an important business meeting last week. Professor Hunter read the report on the recent meeting at Bristol where an Inter-collegiate Forensic League was organized. The ratification to the report was adopted, and it was the will of the Forensic League of Maryville College to become a member of this Inter-collegiate League.

Another important feature of the meeing was the selection of questions by the candidates for the first preliminaries which will be held December 12. The second preliminaries will be held sometime in January. There were over thirty candidates for the first preliminary; and a good team is expected to be secured from such a large amount of material.

Efforts are being made at present to arrange a triangular debate, and also a dual debate. A committee has been appointed to select questions for the inter-collegiate debates. From the interest that everyone is showing in this work, Maryville has good chances of putting winning teams in the field.

THRUSDAY EVENING MEETING LED BY MISS JEWEL

It was a time of natural peril. Civil war was pressing on every side and David's kingdom was tottering. Then came Hurhai in answer to David's prayer. "When true friends meet in adverse hour, its like a sunbeam through a shower." David saw both friendship and fidelity. Out of his inglorious retreat his friend brought a glorious victory. Hushai was faithful, and David found him worthy to do many things for him. Then too, he had fidelity that carries one to success, though time and circumstances seemed all against him, Hushai took the lonely road to the city, to the consul, to Absalom and his forces. "Each man has an aptitude born with him to do some feat impossible to others," says Emerson.

But there was more than friendship and fidelity. Faith, simple and strong guided him. It takes invisible and invincible faith to walk into the enemy lines. Faith there is in a cause that leads a man into the lines of the enemy as a spy. He must meet the foe with a serene smile and watch his consul with the great Ahithopel. Only a man of faith in his cause could win.

All are familiar with the story of the battle in which Hushai had no part, no glory, no medals, and no decorations. Useless in the ranks he was indespensible in Jerusalem. His advice won a kingdom and brought Absalom to ruin. Faith is ours, and faith and service makes all part of God's great plan.

The speaker concluded with the lines of the poem "The passing of the Ships." Joy, Hope, Love and Faith sailed out, but only Faith came back, her crown linked to her cross.

Miss J. McGill sang a solo.

GLEE CLUB

The College Glee Club was organized the latter part of last week. The following are the list of members:

FIRST TENOR—Percy Buchanon, Young Hayes, Reed Rowen.

SECOND TENOR—Harry Howard, Greer Nichols, Paul Barker.

FIRST BASS—Ralph Jennings, Jarvis Cotton, Wm. Montgomery.

SECOND BASS—Lee Herndon, Robert King, Newell Goff.

The following officers were elected:

Percy Buchanon - - - President
Newell Goff - - - Secretary-Editor
Young Hayes - - - - - Treasurer

The Glee Club has very fine material in it this year and it will soon become an organization of which we may well be proud.

A DOUBLE WEDDING

At a certain period in every one's life there comes a time when it is necessary to make a change for the better or for the worse. An important change—of names was wrought when, last Tuesday night on the fourth of November, Misses Olivia and Margaret Brown married Messrs. Horace Henry and Chapman Gibson respectively.

This double wedding occurred at the home of Mr. John Brown. The marriage ceremony began with a song by the Brown-Gamble quartet and three solos by Percy Buchanan. The wedding procession started promptly at 8:00 p. m. Dr. Graham performed the marriage service.

How about it, you class presidents and all those classes that have any spirit at all. Shall we have any inter-class football games this year?

MADAME DENNEE TELLS GHOST STORIES AT BAINONIAN

Although Maryville's splendid victory over Oglethorpe University gave the Bainonians enough emotional shivers they could not miss the opportunity of hearing Madame Dennee tell the ghost stories she had promised for their Hallowe'en program. So after having duly celebrated the girls crept into Bainonian where the dim glowing lights and the weird ghostly figures at once gave them a "spooky feeling". Even nature seemed to be in keeping with Hallowe'en. The night was cold and dark and dreary; the rain drizzled and fell upon the roof, the wind mournfully howled around the corners of Pearsons, and swept just enough of the atmosphere without, though the windows of Bainonian as to gave a perfect setting within, for the "skeery" ghost stories.

From the moment Madame began until the last story was finished the room was in breathless stillness excepting an occasional shriek or scream from one who had at a tense moment lost her power of self control.

The story Madame told in French was enjoyed and appreciated alike by French sharks, would be stars, and those who knew no French at all.

Madame's supply of stories seemed to be unlimited and the girls delight in hearing them endless, but there must be an end to all good things, so the girls left Bainonian with the Hallowe'en feeling, to carry memories of the horrible tales they had heard into their dreams.

SOMETHING NEW IN TOWN

Within the past four years the population of Maryville has increased from five thousand inhabitants to an approximate number of twenty thousand. With this increase has come many changes and improvements. Water and drainage systems have been installed. Good streets are being built. Besides the public improvements several campaigns have been started which, if they materialize, will be of great benefit to the public.

For several years a few citizens of the City of Maryville have been attempting to arouse the people to erect a town library. Friday, October 24th, was a great day in Maryville for it was the day that the Public Library was opened. Miss Anna Belle Smith, who is the librarian, is at the head of the movement.

The library, which is situated over McCulloch's Jewelry Store, was made possible through the contributions of the citizens of the town. It consists of two large well lighted well arranged rooms. There are books of all kinds to be found on the shelves.

This is the only public building of any kind in the City of Maryville which is supported by the citizens of the city. But this is a start. All other cities of the size of Maryville have numbers of public buildings. It is hoped that within a few years this city will be ahead of all other cities in this vicinity.

THE MARY-COLGARRATT

The Mary-Colgarratt orchestra has held its first meetings and it is now rapidly progressing under the competent leadership of Professor Garratt. Professor Garrett is one of the ablest leaders of orchestras in East Tennessee and is giving his full attention to Maryville's orchestra.

Last year the statement was made by a member of the faculty, that 1919's orchestra was the best orchestra that had been organized here in eighteen years. But the statement this year will be, "the Mary-Colgarratt orchestra is the best that has ever been heard in Maryville.

Tuesday night, November 4th was an excellent practice; there were twenty-five members out and they were accompanied by the most noted pianist, Miss Edna Dawson.

There will be extra rehearsals before the orchestra's first appearance on December 1st. Everybody look forward to this big event.

HE Y. M. C. A. STORE

ie long talked of Y.M.C.A. store ctually in operation. We cannot whether it will stand but we rely hope that this very small nning will grow into something h larger by which the needs of he college students may be sup-l.

is our desire to keep on hand things as are in demand of students and which they would rwise go to town to secure. We not wish to increase the ex-itures of the students, but we lesire to keep the boys on the and to keep them from loafing own. We do not wish to en-age loafing by any means but afing is done at all it would be better to be in the Y. M. C. where the influence would not uite so degrading as it some-s is, on the streets in town.

ie store must be a success or a re. It will be either that you ws wish to make it. We are g to make a big effort to make iccessful by keeping in stock things you need—if you will your needs and wants known s. Let us know what you want we will make an effort to se-it for you if we do not have stock. We expect to keep on a good supply of good candies, s, probably soft drinks and tic goods.

cannot afford to invest too until we see how it is going ork. So if you want to make ge Hill a more lively place — more of your time in the Y. . A. reading room and inci-y drop into the store instead ing to town. The store will be from 3 p. m. to 7 p. m. ex-ig supper hour.

JUNIORS

A senior, wending his weary way along Court street last Friday night, was heard to mumur in tones full of hopeless longing:

"Backward, turn backward, O time in your flight,
Make me a Junior again, just for tonight!"

And it is no wonder that he was willing—nay, even anxious—to lay aside for awhile his dignity, and sense of responsibility, for one glimpse through the windows of the French's bungalow was enough to make any eyes green with envy.

Never was there such a party—to this fact every one is agreed; for with Mrs. French as hostess, Prof. Knapp as chaperone, and with the combined efforts of the decoration, entertainment, refeshment, yes, and even the clean-up committees, it would have been an impossibility for any one to have a dull time.

On arriving the guests were first conducted through Hades—an underground place full of shadowy forms, and the omnious sound of clanking chains. Before they had fully recovered from this harrowing experience they were summoned by ghosts to take a moonlight walk which ended in a graveyard where ghost stories were told to the accompaniment of chattering teeth. On returning some told progressive stories, others had their palms read, and still others plucked up enough courage to go into a dark room and hear the sad story of a murdered man, and view his remains.

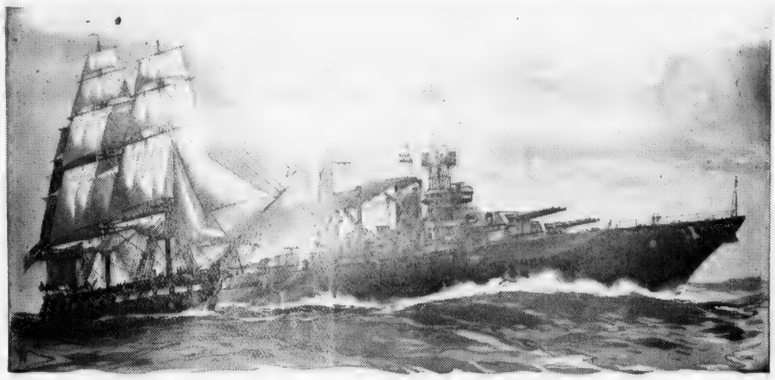
Then came the most delightful part of the evening—refreshment time. To attempt to enlarge upon this subject would be to describe the indescribable; suffice it to say that the eats were sans reproche, and that the memory of them will linger long in the minds of the partakers thereof.

A few more lively games were indulged in, and then after bidding their kind hostess good-night the Junior class set out for home, and much to their surprise, arrived on time.

JUNIOR Y. W. C. A.

The Junior Y. W. C. A. was led by Miss Grace Sydenstricker, whose subject was the very timely one of, "The Portal of Tomorrow."

First she described very interestingly the temples of Buddah which dot the mountains in far away Japan, with their three beautiful court-yards, and their three circular gates. One is able to look through all three at once, but it is through the last gate that one gets the most wonderful view. She sketched for us the dismal life of a lonely little boy who was taken in a temple to become a priest to Buddah, and how finally as he was showing an American missionary through the grounds and came to the last gate, with its wide outlook on the surrounding country, something in the missionary made him realize that there was something more in life than his cold, narrow religious taught.



Thus in our lives are the three great circular gates—the doorway of tomorrow. Through these we get our outlook on life. The third doorway is opportunity, and from it we get a wonderful view of the various fields of service open to us. Opportunities will be around us, but it depends on us whether we will take advantage of them in the right way or not.

Next Sunday—being the Sunday nearest November 11th, we are going to observe by having a patriotic meeting. The program will be intestesting and varied. A cordial invitation is extended to each girl to attend.

Miss Sina B. Parrott had as her guests Monday her mother, her sister and her niece.

Miss Maude Hite and Miss Jessie Creswell entertained their Sunday School classes with a straw-ride to Montvale.

Misses Mayme Carroll and Henrietta Luduman, Mary McKenzie and Nina Belle Caldwell entertained a few of their friends with a most elaborate Hallowe'en party Saturday night.

The "Constitution" of To-day—Electrically Propelled

THE U. S. S. "New Mexico," the first battleship of any nation to be electrically propelled, is one of the most important achievements of the scientific age. She not only develops the maximum power and, with electrical control, has greater flexibility of maneuver, which is a distinct naval advantage, but also gives greater economy. At 10 knots, her normal cruising speed, she will steam on less fuel than the best turbine-driven ship that preceded her.

Figures that tell the Story of Achievement

Length—624 feet
Width—97 feet
Displacement—32,000 tons
Fuel capacity—a million gallons (fuel oil)
Power—28,000 electrical horsepower
Speed—21 knots

The electric generating plant, totaling 28,000 horsepower, and the propulsion equipment of the great super-dreadnaught were built by the General Electric Company. Their operation has demonstrated the superiority of electric propulsion over old-time methods and a wider application of this principle in the merchant marine is fast making progress.

Six auxiliary General Electric Turbine-Generators of 400 horsepower each, supply power for nearly 500 motors, driving pumps, fans, shop machinery, and kitchen and laundry appliances, etc.

Utilizing electricity to propel ships at sea marks the advancement of another phase of the electrical industry in which the General Electric Company is the pioneer. Of equal importance has been its part in perfecting electric transportation on land, transforming the potential energy of waterfalls for use in electric motors, developing the possibilities of electric lighting and many other similar achievements.

As a result, so general are the applications of electricity to the needs of mankind that scarcely a home or individual today need be without the benefits of General Electric products and service.

An illustrated booklet describing the "New Mexico," entitled, "The Electric Ship," will be sent upon request. Address General Electric Company, Desk 44, Schenectady, New York.

LAW CLUB

On the night of Monday, Novem ber 3, the law club opened as Circuit Court, which was presided over by Judge Stanton. After the court was called by Sheriff Farmer, Clerk Minarik read an indictment prepared by Attorney-Generol Poe and assistant Mr. Hardgraves, which charged Hammond Fowler, Jr., with the crime of grand larceny, his offense being the theft of four chickens from the chicken house of Mr. Queener on the night of September third, 1919. Selection of a jury was then made and the hearing of evidence begun. Mr. Queener and Mr. Pearson, the state's witnesses, were first examined, testifying that the defendant had forcibly entered the chicken house of Mr. Queener at a late hour in the night and committed the theft as alleged in the indictment. The defendant and his witness, Mr. Ryburn, then testified that the former was innocent of the charges brought against him, that he was merely returning from a hunting trip and that he had entered the unlocked door of the chicken house to recover a wounded bird that had escaped from his game bag.

Attorneys Poe and Hardgraves for the state, and Chang and Deyton for the defendant then made eloquent speeches to the jury, following which that body received its charge from the court and retired for consideration of the case. After lengthy deliberation a verdict of "guilty" was rendered, whereupon the defendant suffered a severe collapse and nervous breakdown. Motion for new trial was then made and defendant is being held under heavy bond until the next meeting of court. Further announcement of these proceedings will appear later.

ROANE COUNTY CLUB

On Friday, October 31, there was held a meeting for the purpose of organizing a Roane County Club. A gratifying large number of Key City and Iron City students were in attendance, and a permanent organization of the Club was completed; officers being elected as follows:

President - - - - Leslie Davidson
Vice-President - - - - Ruth Newton
Secy.-Treas. - - - Grace Johnson
Editor - - - Hammond Fowler, Jr.

Spirited contests marked the elections, especially the one for the Secretary-Treasurer, during which it was moved that the record of a certain candidate, formerly Treasurer of the Iron City Club of Rockwood, be investigated by a detective agency. Settlement of the controversy was made by the withdrawal of the candidate in question.

All Roane County students are urged to identify themselves with the organization, which is planning to put Roane County on the Maryville map in an unmistakable and unforgettable manner, and to make the first Roane County Club the livliest one on the Hill.

THIRD PREP PARTY

Even if they were only Preps, the Third Year Class had one of the best parties were held in Maryville on Hallowe'en.

The party was held at the home of Mr. James Brown. The house was weirdly and becomingly decorated with orange and black crepe, cornstalks, autumn leaves, pumpkins and flowers. Numerous games were played until paper napkins were passed around as forerunners of what was to come. This was what followed: Punch, fruit salad, sandwiches, crackers, pickles, ice cream and nabiscoes.

At eleven o'clock the chaperones collected their flock and meandered back to the Hill.

NEW YORKERS ORGANIZE

The first meeing of the New York Club was held on the twenty-eighth day of October, 1919 for the election of officers for the coming year.

President - - - - Frank Minarik
Secy.-Treas. - - - Helen E. Eitner
Editor - - - - Andrew Janoviczky
Social Chairman - - - A. Wejncoop

We are few in number, but strong in spirit. Big things are in store for New Yorkers this year. We plan parties unnumerable, so as to wear off the homesickness which everyone experiences before Christmas.

SOPHOMORE LEGEND

Once upon a time, back in the good old days when Maryville used to wallop Oglethorpe University and when Professor Purdy first began leading chapel, Professor Walker used to keep a herd of spotted cows guarding the entrance to the college woods. One clear, moonlight Hallowe'en, while these spotted cows were engrossed in an animated discussion with the ghosts of the Centennial Pageant, the adventurous slipped past the entrance and down the road. In spite of queer shadows and creepy noises no ha'nts were in evidence until suddenly they came upon a house dimly outlined in the shadows and from which glowed spooky lights. A familiar pair of spirits, who delightfully haunt the "House in the Woods" led them into a scene of Hallowe'en revelry, where black cats, grinning yellow faces, and Jack-o'-Lanterns peeped out from clumps of autumn leaves, or peered startingly from tables, mirrors and fireplaces. While the games and contests were in progress those who investigated the unlighted sun-parlor found in a remote corner a witche's fire with its kettle full of stewed toads, beside which sat a figure in black and orange garb, who was calling up the past and predicting the future of those who came to have their palms read or to make their wishes over the cards. During the chestnut races, the bobbing for apples and the flights in an airplane, a very dejected looking spook leaning wearily against the bookcases, gave forth surprisingly lively ragtime and dramatic airs from favorite operas, not to mention the selections of Blues, which suited its facial expression more perfectly.

The evening glided away as all true ha'nt things do, and fearing that the ghostly hour of twelve would find them still at play, the Refreshment Committee took possession and held sway to the satisfaction of all, and to the ultimate discomfort of some.

Thus disappear the ghosts and the eats. However, the "House in the Woods" remains. (Let future Sophomores take notice.)

Y. W. C. A.

We were delighted to have Professor Knapp lead our Y. W. Sunday. He had as his subject "Addition and Subtraction". A comparison of the good, and of the evil in women was given. We must add to or subtract from, in our lives, for if there is a standstill, there is stagnation. By adding to our lives we increase our influence for good. So let us all resolves to add to our lives the best and subtract from them the evil.

A piano solo by Miss Florence Leanord was very much enjoyed. All who missed this service, as well as all the Y. W. services, are not getting the most out of college life. Let's have a big attendance next Sunday.

FOURTH PREP PARTY

Who said the Fourth Preps did not have a good time on "Ghost Night"?

There are about fifty who witnessed these happy hours together. The games were started at seven forty-five and were well carried out under the supervision of the program committee with the help of Misses Helen Lewis and Carmen Park. While the games were being played the fortunes of straggling moonshiners were told.

After the games the most appetizing refreshments were served. Hot cocoa with marshmallows, sandwiches, pickles, fruit salad, ice cream and cake.

We were furnished with good music from the beginning to the end

VESPERS

The book of Jonah is the Pickwick of the books of the Bible. The phophet Jonah and his experiences are comic and ludricious. You may laugh at this book, but you cannot laugh it away. It is a mystery, but all around us are mysteries which the microscope of the biologist, the test tube of the Chemist and the Rongen Rays have failed to reveal.

This book cannot readily be rejected because of the tact and service rendered by Jonah. He had to set out on a 500 mile trip through forest and across desert all alone. He had to proclaim a truth which was distasteful to the men of Nineveh. Can anyone wonder why Jonah turned aside? Instead of going to Ninevah he took ship for Tarsus, first paying his fare. This truth is apparent to all for those in the jails and prisons can testify that they too paid the full fare. In spite of his going the opposite road, Jonah fell asleep even through the first part of the tempest. When the ship was seen to be in danger he told the captain to throw him into the sea for he was the cause of it all. The confession saved him, for had he not made it the whale might have used Jonah for purposes of digestion instead of transportation.

There is nothing difficult about the story, for God who made both each outside of the other, could keep one inside of the other.

When the Pharisees asked for a sign Christ used the same story and said, "The son of man must be three days and nights in the earth." The whale was as much a servant of God as Jonah and cast Jonah on the beach. At the second chance Jonah obeyed God.

Duty cannot be avoided. Jonah at last had to go, but it cost him the price of a ticket with Pullman stub attached. In addition to losing his fare, he got a bad fright. Jonah's fears were rooted in his own covardice. How marvelous was his success; it resembles one of Billy Sunday's campaigns. The personality of the man enchanced through his experiences, won a great city to God.

The lesson teaches us to confess our faults, to learn from the mistakes of others and God will help, not punish; he will restore, not cast off by giving man the other chance.

EXCHANGE

L. M. U.

One of the new features of Lincoln Memorial University is her Law Department. Judge U. L. Marvin, vice-president of the University is dean of the school.

Lincoln Memorial is to have a new gymnasium. The construction is under way now.

U. T.

The University of Tennessee Alumni Association invited all alumni men to the Hill for November 1st. The feature of the re-union was the game Saturday with North Carolina. The members got a real treat in witnessing a real game which resulted in a nothing to nothing game.

Governor Roberts spoke before the U. T. student body last Wednesday. He appealed for education and American Citizenship.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

The University of Kentucky was chosen as the place for the Southern Oratorical League Contest to be held on March 5, 1920. Johns Hopkins, University of Virginia, University of Alabama, University of North Carolina, Vanderbilt University, University of Kentucky are to be represented.

U. of K. football team has been going strong in the last two games. It beat Sewanee 6 to 0, and then played Vanderbilt the next Saturday to a zero to zero tie.

Prof. Gillingham: "A fool can ask more questions than a wise man can answer."

Esther Miller: "No wonder we flunk our exams."

FRESHMAN CLASS PARTY

The Freshman Class, chaperoned by Professors Hunter and Southwick, held their class party on Hallowe'en night in the basement of the Presbyterian church. It was declared by everyone that was there, to be just the "best ever", in other words it was an unqualified success.

The color scheme of black and yellow was attractively carried out in the decorations. The posts were twisted with black and yellow crepe paper, streamers extending also from post to post. In the middle of the room around the big central pillar was a very realistic shock of corn, with pumpkins peeping out around the bottom.

One of the most interesting portions of the evening was that spent in stunts. Everyone was asked to write down a stunt for some other couple to do. Soon the room was in a gale of laughter. A beautiful vocal solo was rendered by one of the victorous, consideration for his feelings forbids that his name should be mentioned here. And Weisbecker (Oh no, he's not a Freshman, but he has Freshmen friends, you know) demonstrated the model way in which to propse to the young lady of your heart. As several Freshies were noted feverishly jotting down notes on their cuffs, it is assumed that his method won their approval, this doubtless being true because of his wide and varied experience along these lines. One couple also demonstrated the fact that one pumpkin can hold two people at once.

And then—the eats! Besides a bowl of punch that was in evidence all evening, there was potato salad del uxe, loads of sandwiches, pickles, olives, salted peanuts, mints, and to cap the climax a big steaming cup of hot chocolate, topped by a creamy marshmallow. After everybody had eaten till 'twas a physical impossibility to eat more, they assembled in one side of the room and a flashlight picture was taken.

As it was then eleven o'clock we reluctantly departed, and reached the Hill with only a few minor mishaps, such as unwinding a few hundred miles of wire, that somebody, probably one of the witches that fly around on Hallowe'en, had thoughtfully stretched across the bridge. Thus ended the tale of the first—though not the last—Freshman party.

HALLOWE'EN PROGRAM RENDERED BY THETAS

On account of the great celebration Saturday evening Theta was postponed until Monday evening when a crowd gathered in Theta hall for a Hallowe'en meeting. All was dark and had the genuine spooky aspect. After a ghost like roll call to which the girls responded in as uncanny tones as possible new members were sworn in and then a delightful program was enjoyed. Miss Janet Ensign gave a humorous talk on "Peanuts" and then the real article was distributed. During the munching of these Misses Carr and Huffman told some ghostly tales befitting the time. We were brought to earth by beautiful strains of the Ghost Quartet composed of Ruth White, Mary Jones, Margaret Graham and Julia Anderson. After this followed an impromptu debate on "There are ghosts, there ain't ghosts." The ringing of the study bell cut the program short and the meeting was adjourned.

HAWK—ADAMS

Many students who were here last year as well as the faculty will be interested to know that Miss Mary Hawk who was instructor of Latin in the Preparatory Department has been married. The following announcement has been sent out:

GREAT MYSTERY UNEARTHED ON FOURTH FLOOR PEARSONS

Black Hand Letter Received!

Great indeed was the excitement on the fourth floor of Pearsons Sunday afternoon when a black hand letter was found addressed to Miss Nina Belle Caldwell. It had all the marks of the true blackmailer—a black hand, finger prints in blood (?), the words "Beware", and some symbols which some translated as H.! Ho! and some as H. H. The whole fourth floor was thoroughly aroused, not knowing what might follow this evil omen, and the girls in whose room the letter was found, have a guard, it is understood, who keep vigilant watch both night and day, lest a bomb thrown or a kidnapper or some other most unwelcome visitor appear on the scene. It is sincerely hoped that these self apointed custodians of life and property will guard so well that whatever the awful threat meant, and it can be translated numerous ways, each of which is really appaling, it will not be carried out. Vigorous efforts are being made to find out who wrote the letter and hereby let it be understood by all, that the party or parties guilty will meet their just punishment.

MY DREAM GIRL

Tall she was, and pale—the exquisite pallor of a fine, white skin. Her black garments, served only to make her pallor more attractive.

She glanced neither to the right nor to the left, nor was she conscious of any scrutiny. Her large, dark eyes, wistful in vision, gazed through, beyond and above; her face held that look of flawless purity with which Leonardo has vested his Madonnas.

About her neck hung a chain of gold and amethyst, the pendant cross of which was clasped between her tenuous fingers. Her lips moved silently, unceasingly in earnest dedication and zeal. It seemed as though she poured her very soul from out those silent moving lips, awesome in their ceaseless rythm. Was this devotion—some devotion for some well beloved—some cherished heart torn from her breast?

No she was chewing gum.

—Exchange.

"I just received a letter from my girl, and I'll bet you a banana split you can't guess in six guesses how she spelled cat."

"Done! I'll take you."

"Well commence guessing."

"K, a, t, e."

'No."

"C, a, double t, e."

"No."

"K, a, t."

"No! Try again."

'K, a, double t, e."

"No, you've missed it again."

"Well then, c, a, double t."

"No, that's not the way. Try again—it's your last guess."

"C, a, h, t."

"No, that's not right either. You have lost."

"Well, then, how did she spell it."

"Why, she spelled it c, a, t."

"Aw, get out!"

Miss Mason— "This 'Who's Who' is absolutely no good. It doesn't even mention a man important enough to get his name in my literature book."

Miss Smith—"What year is it?"

Miss Mason—"1918".

Miss Smith—"Whom are you looking for?"

Miss Mason—"James Russell Lowell."

"What is love?"

Florence Oates: "Process of Osmois."

(She's taking Botany this term. So?)

DR. CARTER OF VANDERBILT HERE

Friday morning the chapel exercises were led by Dr. Carter, Professor of Greek in Vanderbilt University. He spoke of the Transforming Power of Personality. Were it not for personality many of the things which we are able to do would be impossible.

In the erection of one of the master pieces of Architecture of the present day the wood must be hewn into shape, the stone and marble carved and all other parts must be fashioned into shape; the plans must be conceived, great plans by great architects. The most important things depend on personality and money is not included. The degree of success depends on the personality.

There are different kinds of personalities, some of whom work for all mankind, others for self. During the last few years conditions in Europe have changed. Many of the greatest schools, churches, and industrial centers were in this part of the world. The people on this continent thought they were working for the betterment of civilization but now they know that they were headed in the wrong direction. The great personality of the Kaiser of Germany was the origin of the opposition and the cause of the change. But we also find men with a sound personality who had a part in the decision of the World War. Woodrow Wilson, our president created a cosmos out of chaos.

The physical phase of life does not differ greatly in any man. All have the same opportunities, but all do not comprehend the same ideas for the personalities differ.

Shakespeare had only twenty-six letters in his alphabet, yet added his genius and composed a number of the masterpieces of English literature. Angelo took a piece of marble which other sculptors had rejected and carved his masterpiece. A fashionable woman, upon entering an art gallery, asked a noted artist what he mixed his paints with, thinking that he had a magic wan. The answer which the artist gave was, "I mix my paint with brains." In order to succeed one must enter into the mixture.

Why should not man enter himself into his work when God does. One of the greatest mysteries to be solved is that of personality of man. But what of the personality of God, who is so much greater.

The servant knows not what the master does, but the Son is acquainted with all of his acts. A piece of marble cannot voice itself but the master does, but the son is acquaintit.

What should we do to develope a strong personality? We should keep busy all the time, exercise, study, think and play. Keep away from influences that lead wrong. On choice of companions depends on whether we are to be the leader or one of the gang. All depends on individuality.

FIRST PREP CLASS PARTY

The First Preparatory Class had a very delightful time last Friday evening at the home of Dr. Wilson. Our class party was well attended, and every one present had a fine time. We are deeply indebted to Dr. Wilson, for his kindness, in allowing our class, to hold its annual frolicing in the spacious rooms of his home. Miss Helen Ikner, sang a solo, which was enjoyed by all, games were played until a late hour, when the refreshments were served, which consisted of ice cream and cake. Mr. Dunn and Mr. Holsten, were very active during the evening entertaining the young ladies with their renowned mirth and jokes. Miss Gladys Smith and Miss McKinney, were very entertaining, they winked at the best looking boys, in the crowd on every hand. Our chaperones, Miss Herron and Miss Postlethwaite, joined in all the fun, especially Miss Herron, when she was meowing just like a cat. There are other times when she meows to certain ones of our class, but we wont tell who they are. We that were present extend our sympathy to our fellow members who were absent.

it first down. Maryville was penalized 15 yards; Knox 2 yards through center; Davenport no gain; Knox gained 3 yards and it was the fourth down with 5 to go; a pass from Sims to Collins gained 20 yards. Knox gained 2 yards over left guard; Turner gained 1; a pass, Sims to Chestnut, failed; with fourth down and 8 to go Oglethorpe tried another pass which was intercepted by E. Cullis who was downed on the 1 yard line.

FOURTH QUARTER

Weisbecker bucked the line for 4 yards and then for 1; Jellicorse slipped and lost 4 yards on an attempted end run; Jelly punted 45 yards to Sims who was tackled hard by Cotton; a line buck failed; Moore relieved Davenport at right half; Turner lost 4 yards and cross buck; Sims slipped and failed to gain; Oglethorpe off-side, penalty 5 yards; Cullis intercepted a pass and ran 10 yards to the 50 yard line.

Cullis, no gain; pass failed; Weisbecker was kicked but the foul escaped the notice of the officials; Cullis gained 1 yard on an end run; Jellicorse punted 65 yards to Sims who was downed on the 1 yard line.

Knox kicked and the ball went out on their 20 yard line. Cullis 2 yards over tackle; Jellicorse no gain; Weisbecker was thrown for a 6 yard loss and the game ended.

ALUMNI NOTES

1889.

The following clipping from the Maryville Times will be read with interest and pleasure by many alumni:

"Edwin S. Cunningham, of Maryville, has been promoted from the American consularship at Hankow, to consul general at Shanghai, China. The promotion is effective November 1. The post at Shanghai is the largest and most important consularship in the Orient. It has been Mr. Cunningham's ambition for many years to become the American representative in that city, and his friends congratulate him on this appointment. In this new office Mr. Cunningham will have more men and women under his direction than he has had in all of the other posts combined, which he has occupied. At Shanghai, there is an American court, jail, consular offices and residences under his direction.

"Mr. Cunningham has been in the consular service for twenty-one years, and has made one of the government's most efficient men in the service.

"Mr. Cunningham was on a visit to America two years ago and spent several weeks with his brothers in Maryville."

Miss Celeste Moseley and Miss Eva Ritchie are teaching this year in one of the schools of the Presbyterian Board in Utah. They are located at Wahsatch Academy.

ONWARD VOLUNTEERS

At a business meeting of the Student Volunteer Band, held on Thursday evening, it was decided that a delegate should be sent from the Band to the Des Moines Student Conference. The delegate will be selected at the next meeting. Important business was presented and plans discussed as regards the annual conference of the East Tennessee Union, to be held at Maryville during the coming March. Big plans are being laid and as it is to be our conference it will be Maryville's chance among the other colleges of East Tennessee. It is to be the second conference in this section of the country, the first being at the University of Tennessee. That was a success—what is this to be?

Members of the Junior Class are quite excited over the fact that Sue Nuckols will probably be back after Christmas and spend the winter and spring terms working toward her degree. She has already signed a contract for the next lyceum season with one of the South's largest companies.

THE POWER OF PURPOSE

Mr. Cody Lead Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

Power is necessary to operate almost anything we might think of; but power is useless unless there is an underlying purpose, which controls and guides the action of power. Purpose is a seed which when developed produces power.

Benjamin Franklin had a purpose when he took a kite out, one cloudy day, and attached a key to the end of his kite string. By this means he was convinced that electricity could be harnessed and it was his purpose to harness it in so far as it was in his power.

From a family in Virginia there came a man who had a purpose that was very evident. A purpose that caused him, and the men who were following a man with a purpose, to spend a terrible winter at Valley Forge and to cross the Delaware when it was full of floating ice. This man, George Washington, was given power to carry his purpose through successfully.

Kentucky also furnished a man that purposed in his heart to free the slaves if he ever had the chance. He had a purpose and he dared to make it known but he did not stop by just making it known, but he kept constantly at his purpose until his plans were carried out successfully.

Christ went about with a purpose. He purposed to bring about salvation to all mankind. He had a purpose of unselfishness as did the United States in the World War. There must have been a purpose behind an army that can check a nation that has forgotten God and make them realize that there is power in purpose if the purpose is unselfish or for the betterment of mankind.

Our purpose should be to serve God and in so doing plant the seed of purpose and serve our fellowmen.

GOV. ROBERTS SPEAKS TO MARYVILLE CITIZENS AND STUDENTS

LARGE CROWD FILLS COLLEGE CHAPEL TO LIMIT. LAW AND ORDER IS SUBJECT OF ADDRESS. APPEAL MADE TO SUPPORT GOVERNMENT.

Tuesday afternoon, November 11, Governor Roberts spoke to one of the largest crowds ever gathered in Voorhees chapel. His speech was part of the program arranged to celebrate the first anniversary of the signing of the armistice, and was on a subject especially adapted to the needs of the time—Law and Order in the United States.

At about two o'clock the parade lead by the Polytechnic band arrived from the court house where dinner had been served to all men in uniform. The parade was composed of the Polytechnic band, soldiers and sailors in uniform, Red Cross, Boy Scouts, and a number of other organizations. The chapel quickly filled and in a short time there was not even standing room.

Mr. Wood Wright, who was formerly a M. C. student, but who is now a lawyer in the town of Maryville, was in charge of the meeting. Dr. Wilson opened the meeing with a short prayer after which Mr. Wright introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Governor Roberts, the substance of whose speech follows.

"One year ago today", he said, there happened a great event in the history of the world—the signing of the armistice, and with this act the right of one individual to rule over many was swept away.

"The United States of America was born in the idea that no one man may rule many, and because of this idea it had become necessary for us to enter the war. And another thing that made us enter the war was that we believed the teaching of Jesus Christ should have a place in government, while the German idea was exactly the contrary.

"The allies were ready to quit when we entered the war, but our boys left mothers, sisters, wives and sweethearts to go to their aid in order to preserve the American idea that Christ's teachings have a place in government. Nothing is too good for our boys who did this, who saved the world, and our attitude toward them should be made right. We should give honor to all whether they got over or not, won a Croix de Guerre or not, for all served, and all to the same purpose."

Then there followed a short appeal to the soldiers to so conduct themselves as to retain the love and repect of the people.

"There are dangers", he continued, "which have grown out of the war and which menace our freedom and life as a nation, even more than the German government menaced these things. These are the strikes, race riots and Bolshevistic tendencies which are beginning to grip a portion of our people.

"Only a short time ago the governors of all the states and the mayors of all cities over 100,000 population in the United States were called to Washington to confer with the President as to the best methods of checking the radical tendency which is sweeping the country. I was surprised in this conference to find that the old-world's radical ideas had invaded our own country so soon after peace was declared.

"These radicals, who call themselves syndacilists, strike at the very roots of our government and are striving to overthrow it."

In order to show the ideas of some of these radicals the governor then read extracts from some of their literature. Then bringing the matter nearer home he showed how these radical ideas had been tried in a strike of shoemakers in Nashville.

"In order to hold this radical movement in check, every soldier should join the American Legion, for this organization will never allow the stars and stripes to be trampled in the dust or called a dirty rag.

"In order to preserve our country we must go back to the principles of our fathers and we must work. Everyone must work and everyone must produce in order to fill up the great gap created by war.

"We must curb the spirit of wastefulness right in this country, for in the lean years to come we shall want some of these things we have wasted."

In conclusion the governor said, "Our boys have died in vain if we are not loyal to the American flag, which is the holiest emblem ever devised, with one exception—the cross of Jesus Christ.

"The question at stake is, shall free government perish from the earth? Shall the red flag take the flag of the American flag and all other flags? We say no! And we'll shoot down any of those who try to run up the red flag, the black flag or any other hated emblem on our ship of state.

"Quoting the words of Joe Cannon, former Speaker of the House, "In the present crisis America is the hope of the world, and the South is the hope of America, for in the South we find pure old Anglo-Saxon stock which is uncontaminated by foreign influence."

ANNALS OF SENIORS

Vol. 101 — No. 4

Isn't it trite to say "we enjoyed oiurselves", "we had a lovely time"? And it seemes 'triter' to say that, about a trip to the House-in-the-Woods than to any other place for its really an axiom by now to say "we had a lovely time at Stevenson's."

However, when the Seniors could not go on their hike, Tuesday afternoon on account of the rain (its also trite to have rain on a holiday) and Mrs. Stevenson said "Come right on out here for dinner", We Went. This dinner came at the regular time when Seniors eat supper and judged in terms of a usual dinner or supper this Tuesday afternoon dinner was a banquet!

By rights, we should have started back to the hill by eight o'clock, and we actually meant to but we began to play some games, and as Fred and Jimmie James, didn't know very many it was thought proper to teach them at least a few and before the evening was over a very "trite" saying was "well Jimmie, I'll be it this time." When the wind blew gently upon Fred from the East he was so embarrased that he couldn't say like Bob Belt "Let it blow from the West, now." Next time tho' Fred will say:

"Whichever way the wind doth blow
My heart is glad to have it so."

Everybody played games and everybody thought of games to play, so the lights were out by the time we got back to the Hill. And the Stevensons, Helen and Licia, and Miss Jones are wonderful cooks. In truth, we had a lovely time and enjoyed ourselves very much.

THIRD NUMBER OF LYCEUM GREAT SUCCESS

The Cambridge Players Present The Rivals.

The lyceum has been unusually good all along this year, but the play given Thursday night by the Cambridge players was a unique success. There are only four of these players and yet the audience could hardly believe that there were not ten, so well did each actor out his part. Sheridan's famous play "The Rivals" is too well known to need reviewing. Suffice it to say that it is the story of Captain Jack Absolute's suit for Miss Lydia Languish's hand. His lady was in love with a man known as Beverley who was in reality Jack Absolute. Jack's other rival was Lydia's aunt's choice Bob Acers. The contest between Beverley, Jack Absolute and Bob Acres is most interesting and quite comical at times, a little more so if possible than Lydia's aunt's Mrs. Malaprop's "affair" with Sir Lucius O'Trigger. If it is possible to say that one character starred above another, Mrs. Malaprop was "the star". There was not a tone in her voice but was significant and her acting was superb. The part was taken by Miss Martha Miller who is a master in her line. Miss Rose Shaw played the part of Lydia Languish and also of Lucy, maid to Mrs. Malaprop. Mr. Orville Newworth took the parts of Captain Jack Absolute, alias "Beverley" servant to Bob Acres and Sir Lucius O'Trigger while Mr. Jess Coffer played as Sir Anthony Absolute, Fag, and Bob Acres. His interpretation of the hot tempered, imperious old man was the genuine article, the audience felt that an enraged old man was right on the stage. As Bob Acres he was inimitable. That difficult part was performed to perfection. Just to watch the expression on his face was enough to send anyone with a sense of humor into fits of laughter if not into hysterics. The play was one continuous laugh from beginning to end—the best cure for over study (from which many students are suffering,) that has been found yet. Some of Mrs. Malaprop's expressions are fast becoming classic on the Hill, as for example, "allegory on the banks of the Nile", and "Reservoir".

The only possible adverse criticism that can be offered to the play as presented Friday evening is that the last scene was too long drawn out to be exactly ideal, though it was so funny that the length was quite pardonable. The Cambridge players are certainly to be congratulated for their excellent work, and the Y. M. is to be congratulated for bringing them here.

LUCILE CLUB

A number of "Luciles" met in Baldwin parlor last Thursday, November the sixth and were called to order by Lucile Carter, as acting chairman. Plans were made for an active club and officers were elected as follows:

Lucile Middleton - - - - President
Lucile Carter - - - - Vice-President
Lucile Hodges - - - Secy.-Treas.
Lucile McLane - - - - Editoress

This accomplished we adjourned, to meet again sometime in the near future.

Emory and Henry Coming

Next Saturday afternoon at the usual time the football team from Emory and Henry College which is situated at Emory, Virginia, will be here to play our team. Let everybody be there to yell at all times.

HIGHLANDERS DROP SPIRITED GAME TO GEORGETOWN 7-13

INTERFERENCE OF GEORGETOWN MAIN FACTOR TOWARDS THEIR VICTORY. E. CULLIS MAKES 90 YARD DASH FOR A TOUCHDOWN.

The Georgetown College eleven won a hard-fought 13 to 7 victory over the Highlanders on the local field Saturday afternoon. With a machine which moved with great smoothness and accuracy, and with almost impenetrable interference Georgetown smashed through the Maryville line time after time placing the ball within the shadow of goal five times during the contest.

Despite their defeat the Highlanders played a game which was in every sense a credit to themselves and even showed a decided superiority over their opponents in their aerial attacks and on end runs. A victory by a much larger margin was anticipated by Georgetown but by the time the contest was ended they were well satisfied with their somewhat narrow but decisive victory.

Georgetown depended almost entirely upon straight line plunging for its gains and by this method marched almost the length of the field for a touchdown within the first ten minutes of play. Only once during the game did they try a forward pass and their only pass was intercepted by Jellicorse who was downed on M. C.'s 10 yard line. It seemed that Maryville was removed from immediate danger by this play, but a costly fumble on the next play gave Georgetown the ball on the 10 yard line, and Captain Lehnhard carried it over. Their second touchdown, which came in the second quarter, was justly earned by a series of substantial gains through the line which ended when Anderson smashed 6 yards through the center and over the goal line.

In each of the first two quarters the visitors succeded in smashing over the goal line for a touchdown, but in the second half Maryville showed a slight superiority and the visitors were unable to score. Maryville's goal was somewhat endangered twice during the third quarter, but on the first occasion the ball went over on downs and a costly fumble spilled their second chance when A. Cullis recovering, raced 90 yards for Maryville's only touchdown. Jellicorse kicked goal.

This was the longest run that had been seen here in several years and came as a great suprise to the players as well as to the on-lookers.

Cotton at half-back and Ford at tackle played stellar roles in Saturday's show, breaking down interference and tackling with deadlines. Jellicorse and A. Cullis were other outstanding players.

The game was clean and hard-fought but was frequently interrupted by time taken out because of injuries to players.

GAME IN FULL

Jellicorse kicked off 45 yards to Adams who brought the ball to the 40 yard line; Lehnhard gained 5 yards off tackle; Anderson in two runs made 1 yard; Anderson punted 45 yards to Jellicorse who returned to Maryville's 45 yard line.

A pass from Jellicorse to Cotton netted 15 yards; Cotton 1 yard through center; Cullis, no gain; a pass failed; Jelicorse on an end run failed to make the 9 yards and the ball went over on Georgetown's 40 yard line.

Anderson in two line plunges gained 8 yards; Adams gained 3, and first down. Ogden sneaked through center for 1 yard. Anderson, aided by impenetrable interference, ran 30 yards and outside on Maryville's 20 yard line. Adams 6 yards through the line; Anderson failed to gain; Lehnhard gained 6 yards but Georgetown was penalized 5 yards for off-side; a pass was intercepted by Jellicorse who was downed on the 10 yard line.

Maryville apparently had evaded imminent danger, but instead of punting out of the danger she tried a line buck which resulted in a fumble and the loss of the ball on the 10 yard line. Anderson by two attacks on the line gained 8 yards and on the next play Lehnhard made the first touchdown of the game. Moss kicked one easy goal. M. C. 0. Georgetown 7.

Moss kicked off 55 yards to Jellicorse who returned 15, Cullis advanced 8 yards over right tackle; Cotton, no gain; Jellicorse on an end run gained 22 yards and placed the ball at the center of the field. Two passes were incompleted; Georgetown was penalized 15 yards for a man tackling Cullis before he could catch a pass; Jellicorse and Cotton failed to gain; the ball went over. Porter for Black.

Second Quarter

The second quarter began with the ball in Georgetown's possession on their own 35 yard line and first down. Anderson gained 10 yards in two attempts, making first down. Adams was hurt but continued in the game. Adams made 5 yards off tackle; Lehnhard, no gain; on the next play Georgetown was penalized for offside; Anderson gained 13 yards around the left end for first down. Lehnhard plunged the line for 1 yard; Adams, 5 yards over

BOYS' AND GIRLS' BASKETBALL NEXT

While the football bug is still buzzing, another smaller but dangerous bug has recommenced its annual sibilation. As the weather becomes coller and as the end of the football season draws near our thoughts turn to another sport which is of great interest to both girls and boys—namely, basketball.

The prospects this year for two winning teams are very bright indeed. The girls have been practicing for some time and they report a brilliant out-look. Blanche Bailey, the captain-elect, Marjorie Lloyd, Catherine Ridgeway, Anne Samsel, and Elsie Dawson are members of last year's squad who are back on the job again. There is also worlds of new material from which to pick. At the first try-out some fifty or sixty girls thronged the gymnasium, a number of whom are basketball stars from other schools. Manager Catherine Ridgeway is arranging a stiff but well balanced schedule.

The boys' squad which will be under the direction of Coach Feeman will begin practice shortly after Thanksgiving.

Among former M. C. basketball men are, Cotton, Brown, Wagner, Weisbecker, Frazier, Pugh, McCall, Davidson, and Callahan. From this bunch and from the new material which never fails to present itself, a team will doubtless be selected which will revenge U. T.'s victory over us in football. Manager Horace Brown reports games scheduled with such teams as U. T., Kentucky State, the University of Cincinnati, and the probability of a trip to Florida to play Stetson and the University of Florida.

Wonder If we are ever going to swim. What was the pool built for —a campus decoration?

:--:--:--:

A cause for the death of many people during the summer months is that after being out in the hot sun all day they go home and take a cold bath. The members of the football team have been working hard almost every evening during this term, but more than fifty percent of the time they have been compelled to bathe in cold water or not bathe at all. Last week the hot water that was turned on all afternoon, was turned off nearly every evening at five o'clock; or just before the squad came in from practice. Perhaps it was a mistake, but it is one that should be remedied.

:--:--:--:

The English Four class humbly advises all who fain would take that course in future years to first equip themselves with catalogues from Yale, Harvard, Chicago, Cornell, Peabody and all the other big schools, and thus get on the good side of the faculty by refraining from asking such embarassing questions as, "Who holds the Smith professorship of Modern languages at Harvard?"

IT'S UP TO YOU

Get practical and helpful insight of the Bible by listening to your comrades discuss the Old Book. Get in yourself and find out how much you know and how much you can find out. Its the only opportunity you can have of opening your mouth during the Sunday on religious subjects. Other meetings and services require only your hearing presence while the Y. M. C. A. bible discussion group requires all the pep and vim you can muster in discussing and clearing up doubts upon the Bible.

Make it a point to be there at one of those groups. Listen for the call at 8 o'clock on each floor of Carnegie and be sure to drop in at the appointed room on your respective floors. Town fellows meet in Bartlett. The topic for this Sunday is "A World Neighborhood". Find out what World Neighborhood means. Remember, the meeting is at eight o'clock, Sunday morning.

SNAP

Monday evening after a request by the students, Dean Barnes and Miss Molly granted a Snap Social. Everybody who was present reported of having a very good time.

Y. W. C. A. LEADS PRAYER MEETING

Best Prayer Meeting in Years.

That there is nothing new under the sun was most convincingly disproved Thursday night, November 6 when the Y. W. C. A. led prayer meeting. That organization presented a meeting entirely different to any that have ever been presented on the hill. Feeling that the old Hebrew custom of reading portions of the Bible as a complete service was one worthy of imitation, the Y. W. planned a meeting in which no human voice was heard. The subject chosen was "The God of Our Salvation". Miss Florence Leonard's beautiful piano prelude put every one into the spirit of the service. It was followed by a wonderful invocation offered by Dr. Gillingham and composed of a number of beautiful passages of scripture. Then Miss Jessie Creswell read with unusual earnestness and feeling "The God of Creation", Genisis 1:1-2, 3. This passage, so familiar, took on a new beauty in the mind of each hearer as Miss Creswell read it so simply and so beautifully. She was followed by Miss Irrovia Corry who made Psalm 91 a very real and beautiful thing most vividly describing "The God of Providence". Then Miss Mildred Campbell presented in a truly realistic way the story of David and Goliath (1 Samuel 17) which typifies "The God of Deliverance". Next, Misses Winston Newton, Jewel Stevens and Bernice Kimble sang the words of Matthew 6:29-30, "Consider the lillies of the field. They toil not, neither do they spin, and yet I say unto you that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." This trio has been pronounced by music critics as the best thing heard on the Hill in some time. It was followed by a reading "The Gospel of God", as found in Isaiah 52:1, 53.12 by Miss Mattie Hamilton. This difficult passage was read with rare understanding and sympathy. Then Miss Mary Louise Hayes read an interesting story taken from Luke 15:11-32, showing "The Fatherhood of God." She presented the prodigal son, his father and his brother in a way her hearers can never forget. Since the God of our Salvation is such a great God, the last number very appropriately suggested "The Remembering of God" as found in Ecclesiastes 11:9-27. Miss Ruth Quinn read this in her usual impressive way. Then Dr. Wilson pronounced a scriptural benediction. It is interesting to see what a meeting can be worked up out of the words of the Bible themselves without any explanations or remarks from other sources. Such a service is certainly impressive and is most worthy of repetition. Mary have suggested that it would be a splendid thing if it should become a tradition of Maryville College for at least one Thursday evening each year to be devoted to the Bible alone presented in reading, song and prayer. The last Thursday evening service proves that such a meeting would be looked forward to like we now look to the cantata, would break the regular routine and would present the scripture with its moral, ethical and spiritual lessons in a most impressive way.

ALABAMA CLUB

The Alabama Club will have a business and good-time meeting in Bainonian Hall, or if the weather permits on the lawn, Monday afternoon at 2:30.

ALPHA SIGMA

As the members of the society were prevented from enjoying the sing which was supposed to have been held Saturday evening, all were present at the meeting, and a very beneficial evening was spent.

The most important event of the evening was the installation of the new officers which had been elected at a previous meeting. They were as follows: Homer Weisbecker, President; Oscar Stanton, Vice-President; Morgan Cox, Program Secretary; A. W. Cullis, Corresponding Secretary; Howard McGrath, Treasurer; Jarvis Cotton and George Callahan, Censors; Porter Turner, Seargeant-at-Arms; Chester Osborn and Wm. Montgomery, Janitors. With this staff of officers the Alpha Sigma Literary Society expects to keep up the good work during the remainder of the Fall term. A very interesting program was then given.

Mr. McGrath read two very interesting poems after which Mr. Phillip Sheffey rendered a piano solo. Then came the debate: Resolved that every able-bodied American citizen should be required to spend one year in the national army. The affirmative was upheld by Armstrong and the negative by Howard. Both of these are new men but they showed plenty of talent and kept their audience interested throughout their discussions. The decision of the judges was unanimous in favor of the affirmative, but in the open discussion which followed the conclusion may be drawn that all who were in the service have had enough.

After the debate a very interesting address was given by Professor E. R. Hunter on The Fundamentals of Debating. The four important points to be observed in debating as they were given are: (1) Clearness of Outline; (2) Develop habit for careful statement; (3) Familiarity with material; (4) Concentrate on the essentials of the main issue. A vote of thanks was then extended Professor Hunter. After a short business meeting the society adjourned.

ATHENIAN

A short but snappy meeting was held at the old stand. Kirkpatrich gave a reading which was well received. He read "Columbus" with a very good interpretation. Martin in his usual off-hand manner rendered a paper—or rather a book of jokes, fearfully and wonderfully cencentrated. Sharp presented our "Modern Frankestein"—the negro problem. The address was carefully thought out and the society had a true vision of the immensity of this problem.

Y. W. C. A.

Our Y. W. meeting Sunday was in the nature of a patriotic service, Miss Francis Hickey was leader, her subject being "Lest We Forget". We know that the world is already saying "Let's forget there was a war, its over we are safe now. Let's put all that frightful memory behind us, and be as gay as we ever were!" Perhaps this feeling is only natural for people fatigued by contemplating tragedy for so long but does anyone think for a moment that the soldiers themselves will ever forget, and the rest of the world which only watched from afar? If it does forget it is the meanest of traitors betraying not only the living soldiers, but also breaking faith with the dead.

There are some lessons which the war has taught us and which we as a nation, and as individuals as well, must remember, if we forget the war will have been fought in vain. They are the lessons of Patriotism, Generosity, Self-Sacrifice, Co-operation, Prayer and Forgiveness. So lets not forget there was a war, for the soldiers fought not for Victory alone but to establish a loftier standard so the world in recalling their sacrifice might make itself kinder and better.

The special music consisted of a solo very sweetly sung by Miss Maude Hite.

Prof. Bassett—You know that my wife and I are ten—Yes, she's one and I'm nothing.

VESPER

Dr. Nesbit, secretary of the Studen Volunteer Movement addressed the students in the interest of the great student convention to be held at Des Moines, Iowa.

He associated the name Maryville with Kin Takahashi, "a battering ram for God." The evidences of his work is the monument Bartlett Hall. Here was a man who literally "burnt out for Christ."

Thirty years ago Mr. Moody assembled the students of various colleges to interest them in foreign missions. From this sprung the student missionary movement; a movement by students, for students and financed by students. They adopted as their motto "The evangelization of the World in this Generation." It is to give every one a chance to know Christ. It is the desire of every volunteer to purpose to become a missionary.

The speaker made a strong plea for a large delegation and pointed out the advantages to accrue from reading excerpts from those who had attended other conventions.

He further showed that the purpose of these conventions was to get a world survey. Their purpose was not to send a few missionaries to make a few converts, but christianize the life of a whole people. It is to give the students a wide horizon. It is to give them an outlet for zest of energies.

NOTED MISSIONARY SPEAKS

Last Thursday morning the students of Maryville College, especially those who are interested in foreign missions, were addressed by Rev. Albert G. Adams, who is a member of the Cameroon Mission which is situated on the west coast of Africa. He is also a friend of Fred Hope.

The main part of the address was a report on the progress of the mission which was very interesting to all. For a number of years the students of this college have been contributing toward the support of this mission.

The mission was established in 1832 but at first the results were very meagre. Later on the missionaries found it necessary to teach the inhabitants of the country to support the church and that a material benefit was not to be gained by accepting Christ.

As the mission was situated in a German colony the German language had to be taught to the natives.

With the outbreak of war came many additional difficulties but the work was not stopped except along the coast. For a time the work in the interior was uninterrupted, but then came the Germans. The missionaries aided many of the refugees to escape into Spanish Guinea and ran the blockade to carry provisions to them.

The missionaries received a report during the early part of the war, that the Germans had conquered everything, but when the real news came it caused great joy.

During the war many of the natives died of disease and many were killed. But the war narrowed the gap between the natives and the Christian missionaries and better results were obtained.

However, the Christian work was kept up and several times the plant had to be enlarged and Sunday Schools were established in the villages. The main difficulty was in getting native teachers. At first there were only twenty but in 1918 there were five hundred and eighteen. At present they have as many as 69,000 natives present at the evening services.

Extensions are being built as fast as missionaries are found to take charge of them. After the war many of the Swiss and German missionaries did not return. Thus many additional Americans were needed.

The remainder of the address was a plea for missionaries. Not everybody can go as they can not meet the requirements. There is not a better opportunity for service to be found.

The future of the colony depends on the League of Nations. For under the mandates of the League no religious creed would be prohibited or restricted, as is the case at present.

This year a large number of missionaries are needed in this field as the plant is increasing. At present there is a Maryville Alumnus over there. Shall there ever be another?

PALACE PROGRAM

NOVEMBER 12th to 19th.

THURSDAY—

Big special all-star cast superproduction directed by D. W. Griffith "THE GIRL WHO STAYED AT HOME". Many left this country to do their bit in far away France, and to help our soldiers who were wounded, all eyes were on the scenes across the waters, but one little girl seemed to think she was needed here and she stayed at home. Was she right? Where could she have been more useful. The question is answered in "The Girl Who Stayed at Home." Also a Para mount-Flagg comedy "The Con In Economy."

FRIDAY—

Ethel Clayton in "PETTIGREWS GIRL". She had little education and knew practically nothing of the snares and many temptations that wait to catch one helpless; but her careful consideration and with his help she became every thing that could be expected. Harold-Lloyd Comedy.

SATURDAY—

"BOUND AND GAGGED", the serial that everybody says is the best. News No. 44, the latest news in pictures. Fox Comedy, "ARE MARRIED POLICEMEN SAFE", A scream from start to finish. The feature for today will be William Russell in "SIX FEET FOUR", he was too large to enlist and he wanted to do his bit, see how he manages it.

MONDAY—

Marguerite Clark in "THE GOOSE GIRL", an old story that never grows old and a picture that will live forever. William Duncan in "SMASHING BARRIERS", the serial that is full of thrills and dare-devil stuff.

TUESDAY—

Pete Morrison in one of his best westerns. Ham and Bud Comedy, the funny kind. A special feature the title of which will be announced later.

WEDNESDAY—

Vivian Martin in "LITTLE COMRAD", a story that will please, a story that every one likes. Lyons-Moran Comedy.

AT THE PRINCESS THEATRE

Saturday and Monday will be special features the title of which we are unable at the present to give you but you can assure yourself they will be good pictures and the latest possible.

The Highland Echo

VOLUME FIVE — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1919. — NUMBER TEN

TUSCULUM MUST BE DEFEATED NEXT

Best Game of The Season Yet To Be Played.

Having won three out of the five games played this season, the Highlanders yet face the hardest and most important contest of their entire schedule. On Thanksgiving Day the Maryville and Tusculum aggregations will lock horns in what is expected to be the most strongly contested game between the two schools in many years.

It is hoped that it will be possible to arrange to stage the act on Wait field as it would mean more money to both schools and a much better proposition in every respect. Strenuous efforts are being made by Manager McLaughlin to procure Wait field for that day, and the plan has been heatily endorsed by the Tusculum football fans of Knoxville. U. T. will be away playing their annual Thanksgiving game with Kentucky State at Lexington, and only a high school game is scheduled to be played in Knoxville on that day. If the game were played at U. T. there would undoubtedly be three or four thousand spectators crowding the stands, as all East Tennessee is intensely interested in the outcome of the contest between the warriors of the Orange and Garnet and the warriors of the Orange and Black. But if perchance Maryville should be unable to arrange for a battle on neutral territory it will be fought at Greeneville on Tusculum's grid.

Coach Doak of Tusculum declared that he would consider their season a success if they should defeat Maryville, even though they had lost every other game of the season. It is reported that some of the Tusculum followers are even betting two to one on a victory by two touchdowns. How true this is, we do not know, but one thing we do know is, that Coach Doak is some what worried as he journeyed all the way from Greeneville last Saturday to see the Highlanders in action.

The Tusculum squad is reported to be the strongest in the history of the institution with several men who are said to be all-southern material.

Tusculum defeated Emory and Henry 47 to 6 as compared with our 48 to 12 victory over them last Saturday. So if there is anything to comparative scores, the strength of the two teams is about the same. In weight and speed, the two tams could hardly be more evenly matched.

We have had a somewhat successful season so far this year, rolling up 103 scores against our opponents as compared with 67 against us, but if something unforseen happens which causes our defeat on Thanksgiving, the season, taken as a whole, could hardly be called a success. So, let everybody pull together for the team and help them make the season a success! !

EQUAL SUFFRAGE CLUB

The Equal Suffrage League held its regular meeting in Theta Epsilon hall Tuesday afternoon. There were many new members present who showed as much interest in the business part of the meeting as the old members. The following interesting program was rendered:

Piano Solo - - - Helen Park
Talk on the History of Women's Rights - Mildred Campbell
Vocal Solo - - - Hattie Hayes

After the program the members entered enthusiastically into an open discussion concerning the Woman Voter and how she should equip herself for the place she is to fill in the future.

SECOND BIG BON-FIRE CELEBRATION

All Have a Good Time.

Wouldn't Maryville students of last year and the preceeding ninety-three turn green with envy if they only knew that Maryville College was celebrating its foot-ball victories with big fires—and such fires. What could be more thrilling than on a frosty night to race around a big roaring fire, such as the early settlers must have built to keep off wild beasts, and to do this racing while the band played and less energetic friends sang? Oh boys—it was great. Some of the town people declared that they had never seen anything so pretty as that fire on the Hill with that tremendous crowd of boys and girls around it. One remarkable thing, that is we would consider it remarkable had it happened at any institution in the land other than M. C., was the fact that the entire student body was united in the desire to have a gloriously jolly celebration without breaking the regulations—laid down for such an occasion.

The fire Saturday night was bigger than the first, but wont it be big sure enough when we win that Thanksgiving game from Tusculum?

BUILDING BATTLEMENTS ABOUT YOUR LIFE

Wednesday morning Rev. Mr. Walker who is General Secretary of the State Sunday School Association, and who is attending the East Tennessee State Convention that was held Tuesday and Wednesday in the Presbyterian church, conducted the chapel services and addressed the students on Wednesday morning. He read the eighth verse of the thirty-second Psalm for the scripture lesson and offered it to the students as a text to be observed throughout their college career.

His address was given on the subject, "Building Battlements About Your Life." The substance of the address is as follows:

Everyone should have ambition with the hope of success and success should mean the rendering to the world worth while service. In order to guide and protect ourselves we must build battlements which should be of a negative as well as a positive character.

Three suggestions to guide us throughout our life are: (1) Thoroughness, (2) Make life count for service and humanity. (3) Be good and be a christian. The three suggestions which were given to keep us from going astray are (1) Beware of the spirit of wanting something for nothing. The other two suggestions were called the Twin Brothers, or Beware of the Cigarette and Alcoholic beverages.

The speech was very instructive throughout and valuable information, which may be of use to each one of us, was received.

LAW CLUB

On Monday, November 17, the Law Club held its regular meeting. There being no special program, a business session was held. After the consideration of various matters of routine business the question of securing space in the Chilhowean was brought up and it was decided that a full page in this publication should be secured for a record of the achievements of the Club since its re-organization.

Watch the Law Club, for it is planning to make this its most successful year, and the stirring and sensational trials recently conducted at its meetings are but the beginning of its work.

DELEGATES TO THE STUDENT CONFERENCE

Committees Are Appointed

At a meeting of the student body in the chapel a resolution was passed to send delegates to the conference which is to be held at Des Moines, Iowa, December 31st. to January 4th. Dr. Gillingham who was chairman of the meeting told a few of the proceedings of a conference which had been held at Rochester, N. Y., and pointed out the importance of sending delegates to this conference.

A committee on Ways and Means was appointed, which consists of the presidents of the four college classes. Also a convention committee was appointed to nominate delegates from the student body. The members of this committee are: Mary L. Hayes, Meade Johnson, Harry Pearson, Mary Biglow, and Professor Knapp. There will be a meeting of the student body in the near future to vote on the nominations which have been made.

THE UPS AND DOWNS OF SOCIAL SURVEYING

The Social Survey group that went to Cades Cove and on up to Russell's Cabin in the Smokies during the Armistice Day vacation had more fun than anybody. It was a long stiff hike over the ridge and down into the cove. Hot dogs, biscuits and coffee at noon tasted like—Well you know how good they do taste after a long tramp.

The climb up the mountain occupied the afternoon, and just at dark the cabin hove into view. (Hove is used as company for cove.) The wind was blowing at a terrific rate. Professor Purdy, who measured it, says that it was making sixty-five miles an hour in places. At any rate, there was enough wind to turn the draft of the fire place into a mockery and fill the cabin with smoke. In spite of the smoke every fellow helped Professor Southwick eat supper. Nine o'clock found most of the party ready to turn in for the night, although there wasn't any too much room to turn in. Practically everyone slept even though the house was filled with smoke, although John Moss got up every few minutes to see if it wasn't time to have sunrise, and it is on the authority of Moss and one or two other wakeful spirits that the writer records that there was rain during the night.

Breakfast was served at five. French fried potatoes, Swift's Premium Bacon, (so called because of the rate of disappearance) Strawberry preserves or maybe they were apple preserves a la Pearsons, poached eggs on toast,—yes I know it was early in the morning and most too dark to see all this, but anyway it was some breakfast. Six o'clock found the bunch off down the mountain.

The experiences of the return were many and thrilling, but there were no casualties except to Stanbery's pompadour. The next day there were a few blistered feet and stiff muscles but by Thursday it was all a pleasant memory.

Professor Southwick was captain and father confessor; Professor Purdy, armed with a Winchester the valorous chaperon; and Professor Hunter the delectable cook of the party, which consisted of Frank Oats, Karl Kirkpatrick, Eugene Stanbery, John Moss, Hedbert Nace, and Virgil McClung.

On the return trip Riverside and Townsend were surveyed.

EMORY AND HENRY DEFEATED IN FINAL HOME GAME 48-12

McLAUGHLIN, JELLICORSE, AND DAVIDSON STAR. EMORY AND HENRY AGGREGATION PUTS UP SPIRITED FIGHT.

Outplaying their opponents in all except the latter part of the third quarter the Highlanders swept their way to a 48 to 12 victory over the Emory and Henry aggregation here Saturday afternoon.

The day was ideal for football, cool enough for the comfort of the players, and not too cold for those who watched from the side-lines.

The game was very interesting and somewhat sensational despite the one-sided score, and in no period of the game did the visitors fail to put up a brave fight. However, their efforts availed them but little as long as they were opposed by the regular line up. In the latter part of the third quarter Coach Feeman sent nine second string men into the fray, and as these men were tired and sore as result of the game with T. M. I. the day before, Emory and Henry succeeded in completing two forward passes which accounted for two touchdowns within five minutes of each other. Anderson was unable to kick the first goal and Graham failed on the kick-out for the second one.

During the first few minutes of the game the Emory and Henry machine gave the Orange and Garnet warriors a great surprise. For, starting on the 20 yard mark they marched down field with a series of skin-tackle plays and were not halted until they had reached Maryville's 42 yard line where the ball went over on downs. Then awaking to the seriousness of the situation the Highlanders started an offensive that swept their opponents off their feet. An advance of 50 yards ended when Weisbecker smashed over the goal for the first touchdown of the game.

Two touchdowns were scored in the second quarter, the first by Wagner after the team had marched almost the length of the field, and the second by Davidson five minutes later following Wagner's sensational broken field run for 25 yards.

Two others were added early in the third quarter, both as a result of costly fumbles by Graham. The first time, Davidson recovering, ran 30 yards and over the goal line, and on the second occasion Cullis recovered on Emory and Henry's 25 yard line and Davidson again pushed it over.

Emory and Hesry's first touchdown came as a result of a pass from Terry to Wolf for 40 yards, and a 5 yard line-buck by Kelly. A few minutes later Beck punted out from behind his own goal to Terry who was downed on the 20 yard line by Hendrix. The next play was a pass from Terry to Graham for 20 yards and another touchdown.

The fourth quarter was harder fought and neither side was able to score until the last minute of play when Jellicorse broke through for a 35 yard run and a touchdown.

In every position the Highlanders out played their opponents, and it was due to the use of second team men that a shut-out was prevented from being scored against the visitors. Jellicorse, however, was the outstanding star of the game, making long gains both through the line and around the ends, and kicking six out of seven attempts at goals. Davidson and McLaughlin were the only Maryville men who played every minute of the entire game, and it is putting it mildly to say that their playing was a conspicuous feature of Maryville's victory. Although playing a position where starring is not often noticed, McLaughlin deserves honors for holding, blocking and tackling better than any center Maryville has had since Tom Goddard.

Kelly and Terry starred for the visitors by displaying fine staying qualities and versatility in play.

SUMMARY OF GAME

W. Kelly kicked off to Maryville in the south end of the field. Moore received and placed the ball on the 20 yard line. Davidson and Cotton made only 5 yards in three downs, so Jellicorse was forced to punt. He punted over Emory and Henry's goal line, and the ball was brought out to the 20 yard mark. A HIKE AND A DINNER

Twenty girls of Mrs. McMurray's class left the campus Monday morning at 8:20 with Miss Della Carpenter as chaperon. They walked the entire distance of five and a half miles with the exception of a mile "lift" given by a kind hearted milk man, and a half mile "lift" given by the Seniors in an auto truck.

When the girls arrived they found a lovely sitting room with a nice bright fire on the fireplace and several magazines to read.

Then came the dinner—a real dinner which consisted of such edibles as chicken, pumpkin and apple pie, strawberry jam, honey, pickles, etc., etc. The girls ate until—well their throat refused to swallow.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent with some reading, some riding the donkey, and some hunting hickory nuts. The dishes were washed and each girl was given a part of the delicious dinner to carry home with her. All good things must come to an end so the girls gathered in front of the house and gave a yell for Mrs. McMurray before starting homeward. They had no such good luck as to meet a milk wagon or an auto truck. All arrived home at five o'clock tired but happy.

GREEK AND LATIN CLASSES ENTERTAINED

Another benefit in taking Latin or Greek can be found in the fact that every year the students are invited to enjoy the hospitality of Prof. Bassett at his home in the woods.

Last Monday evening the fortunate ones gathered at the Bassett home for an evening of entertainment and pleasure.

As soon as the Professor had checked up the absentees he chaperoned the crowd on a trip to Herculaneum and Pompei which, being our first trip, proved truly interesting. He explained the mysteries of Mt. Vesuvius and gave us a history of its actions. He knew the way perfectly and on account of this fact we were able to see the most important points of interest and return in a very short time to Maryville, and an evening of mental and physical refreshment.

It was with great reluctance that the party broke up and in the heart of every one was a warm spot for Professor Bassett, and a determination to take Latin or Greek the rest of their lives.

Y. M. C. A. LED BY DR. GILLINGHAM

The Weaknesses of People Discussed.

Dr. Gillingham addressed the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. He used for his theme the "Weaknesses of people". These he said were potential powers as shown by the seven weak things in the book of Judges. The first of these was a left handed man. A company of left handed wariors was organized in the tribe of Benjamin, who singly were of small value as soldiers; but when the members of this organization worked together it became a formidable war machine.

The second of these weak things was Ehood's ox goat with which he slew so many of the enemy. Woman was also considered a weak vessel but in the life of Deborah, this weakness was turned to strength. The fourth of these singular insignificant points of weakness, was the tent pin which when used as a weapon destroyed the whole line of dynasties of a great kingdom. Gideon's three hundred is also another shining example of the power of weakness when used with effectiveness. Later a woman used a mill stone as a weapon, breaking the forces of a great army. Sampson's use of the jaw bone of an ass was a final and convincing use of a weak article turned to power.

The texts of Dr. Gillingham's talk are found in 1 Corinthians 1:28; 2 Corinthians 12:9; and Hebrews 11:34. "My grace is sufficient for thee; for my power is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my weaknesses that the power of Christ may rest upon me."

Our apparent weaknesses are our reservations of strength if we will but use them as such. We all have time, talents, opportunities, ambitions, courage, and faith to overcome and cultivate our weaknesses and turn them into qualities of strength.

An Elgin watch has disappeared from twenty-six Baldwin. It is hoped that unpleasant means will not have to be employed in finding it. Any information concerning it will be appreciated. A reward is offered for the return of the watch to Miss Jackson's office.

SCRUBS PLAY T. M. I. TO 20-20 TIE

Buchanan Stars. Callahan Makes 80 Yard Dash.

Playing on a field as hard as concrete against two teams and a referee, the Maryville Scrubs broke even with the Tennessee Military Institute at Sweetwater Friday afternoon, the final score being 20 to 20.

The Scrubs fought hard during the entire game, and by exceptionally effective interference managed to sweep around the ends for many ten, twenty and thirty yard gains. Most of these advances were made in the first half, because due to repeated miscalling of downs in the second half Maryville came into possession of the ball but very few times. T. M. I. in order to prevent certain defeat sent its entire varsity into the game at the beginning of the second half and succeeded in tying the score.

Callahan received the very first kick-off of the game and repeated the performance of Knox, the Oglethorpe full-back, by racing 80 yards through the opponent's defense for a touchdown. Maryville's second touchdown was made in the second period by Hendrix who ran 30 yards after intercepting a T. M. I. pass. A third was added in the third quarter by McCullogh when he recovered a fumble and ran 25 yards and over the goal line. Beck kicked two out of three goals attempted, the one failure being the result of a try from a difficult angle.

The T. M. I. first team made all of their 20 scores in second half, their first touchdown coming as result of a long march down the field from the first kick-off, and their second ten minutes later after a long series of short line bucks. They depended entirely on straight line bucks and skin-tackle plays for their gains and by this method placed the ball on Maryville's three yard line within the last minute of play. Due to the miscalling of downs they finally, on the fifth or sixth down, put it across and tied the score.

This game proved that Maryville has a wonderfully strong reserve force, and if rumors and dope can be taken at par, this reserve force will be an important factor in our victory over Tusculum on Thanksgiving day. The reserve back-field especially showed to good advantage both on the offensive and on the defensive. It would be difficult to confer honors on any individual player unless it be Buchanan whose end runs were a conspicious feature of the game.

THURSDAY EVENING PRAYER SERVICE

What is life?—"Some Famous Answers" was the subject which Professor T. R. Hunter ably discussed from the answers of famous writers. He showed the fact of physical life manifested itself every second of men's lives. But this life is not the same to all men—to one life is failure, to another success. To one it is a heartbreak and despair, to another a delight and song. Prospero tells us, "We are such stuff as dreams are made on." Asd Macbeth tells us, "Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player that struts and frets his time upon the stage and then is heard no more."

The full life as Wordsworth has given it to the world is to be aware of beauty—the beauty of the earth and sea and sky; it is to recognize the Divine and Godlike in the contemplation of nature. He says of his own experience:

"For I have learned
To look on Nature, not as in the hour
Of thotless youth; but hearing oft-times
The still sad music of humanity,
Not harsh and grating that gamble power
To chasten and subdue. And I have felt
A presence that disturbs me with joy
Of elevated thots, a sense sublime
Of something far more deeply interfused
Whose dwelling is the light of setting sun."

Wordsworth gives yet another answer—the spiritual answer. A man may be aware of the physical beauty, yet he may go out into nature and be totally unaware of the spiritual beauty— the sunshine of the valleys, the fragrance of the pines and the lacy pencilling of the mists.

"Great God I'd rather be
A pagan suckled in a creed outworn;
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea;
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Protens rising from the sea;
Or fear old Triton blow his wreathest horn."

The second part of the answer was from Carlyle, that stern, sour and dyspeptic Scotch philosopher. To Carlyle the full life meant Duty—the performaice of work, for "Work alone is noble". "Find thy work and do it." The individual that has found his work and does it has found a real spiritual secret. "Work," he says, "is of a religious nature; work is of a brave nature, which is the aim of all true religion." The message of Carlyle is to value work as the satisfying secret that makes life bearable, a glorious pageant to those who have achieved and have been victorious.

Browning supplies the third essential to the full life. We complete life according to Browning is one that recognizes and conforms to the divine purpose. "Fool" is the man who refuses to recognize the purpose of God in his life. The man who leaves God out of his life and who acknowledges no need of the Divine is a fool

So faithful and so clear in his belief in the Divine Potter that Browning declared that "He would live on; that he would still strive, and hope in the new life for which his life had been a preparation." Here is his final message in Asolando.

"One who never turned his back but marched breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph,
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better, sleep to wake."

What is the full life?—It is a recognition of the beauty of the world; it is an honest performance of duty; it is a joyous belief in and conformity to the Divine purpose. The Master said, "I am the life." In Him is beauty. He is the life, for by His example he glorified and dignified duty. He is life, for His divine purpose was that all should be transformed into His likeness who is Life indeed.

MARYVILLE WINS LAST GAME AT HOME

bucks and skin-tackle plays carried the ball for 48 yards making three first downs. Two line bucks and two forward passes failed, and the ball went over on M. C.'s 42 yard line. Jellicorse gained 8 yards over tackle and Wolf intercepted a pass and was downed on his 25 yard line. W. Kelly's three attempts through the line gained but 3 yards, and on the next play he punted to Jellicorse who was tackled in the center of the field. Maryville then marched down the field 50 yards and Weisbecker put over the first touchdown of the game. Jellicorse kicked goal. M. C. 7; E. & H. 0.

Jellicorse kicked off 45 yards to Graham who returned to the 33 yard line. After getting 8 yards with an end run by Terry and a line buck by Graham, Emory and Henry fumbled and A. Cullis recovering ran 30 yards for a touchdown. Jellicorse kicked goal. M. C. 14. E. & H. 0.

Kelly kicked off 45 yards and Weisbecker brought the ball back to M. C.'s 40 yard line. Davidson, Jellicorse and Wagner (substituted for Cotton) made first down and then a pass was intercepted by Graham, giving the visitors the ball on their 44 yard line. A pass to Weaver gained 10 yards and two line attacks placed the ball on M. C.'s 38 yard line when the quarter ended. M. C. 14. E. & H. 0.

Second Quarter

Despite the fact that, due to an oversight, Emory and Henry was given five downs they failed to make but 4 yards in the first four, and on the fifth tried a pass which was intercepted by Wagner on M. C.'s 30 yard line. The Maryville backs then smashed through for a series of gains which totaled 70 yards and Wagner put it over. Jellicorse kicked goal. M. C. 21. E. and H. 0.

Kelly received the kick-off and placed the ball on the 20 yard line. Maryville held them again and Kelly punted to Weisbecker who missed the catch and lost 10 yards to M. C.'s 20 yard line. Maryville again carried the ball down the field to Emory and Henry's 12 yard line when the half ended.

Third Quarter

Jellicorse kicked off to Graham who fumbled and lost the ball to Bean on the 30 yard line. Maryville fumbled and Emory and Henry recovered. Emory and Henry again fumbled and Davidson scooped up the ball and ran for a touchdown. Jellicorse kicked his fifth goal. M. C. 35. E. & H. 0.

Jellicorse kicked off 50 yards to Terry who returned 10. Graham fumbled and Cullis recovered on the 25 yard line. Jellicorse, 10 yards, Davidson 15 yards and a touchdown. Jellicorse kicked his last goal. M. C. 42. E. & H. 0.

Beck kicked off to Graham who returned to his 45 yard line.

Avison relieved Weisbecker.

Emory and Henry failed to gain and punted to Avison who was downed on M. C.'s 25 yard line. A pass was intercepted by Wolf on the 45 yard line. A pass from Terry to Dyer gained 40 yards and Kelly put it over. Anderson failed on an easy goal. M. C. 42; E. & H. 6.

Middleton went in for Wagner.

Beck kicked off 40 yards to Terry who returned 20. W. Kelly fumbled but regained the ball with a 5-yard loss. Terry punted to Avison who was tackled on the 24 yard line. Maryville fumbled, losing 22 yards and was forced to kick. Terry received Beck's punt on the 20 yard line and was downed in his tracks by Hendrix. A pass from Terry to Graham accounted for their other touchdown. Graham failed on kick-out for goal. M. C. 42. E. & H. 12.

Fourth Quarter

Maryville's entire first team went back into the game and Dobbiss relieved Weaver at tackle.

Johnson received the kick-off and returned to M. C.'s 40 yard line. Maryville advanced to within 10 yards of Emory and Henry's goal and then lost 10 yards on an end run. Jellicorse carried the ball in front of the goal and tried a place kick which was blocked, the ball bounding back to the 25 yard line where a Maryville man fell on it. Maryville failed to make but five yards and the ball went over. Terry kicked out to Jellicorse on M. C.'s 45 yard line. And on the next play Maryville was penalized 15 yards for holding. Wagner was hurt, Cotton replacing him. Maryville succeeded in pushing the ball back to Emory and Henry's 25 yard line where another place kick was attempted. The kick went wild and Emory and Henry was given the ball on the 20 yard line. They managed to carry the ball back to the 50 yard mark where it was lost on a fumble. Maryville advanced and lost the ball again on downs within 12 yards of the goal. Terry punted 50 yards to Weisbecker who returned to the 35 yard mark. Three passes failed and on the fourth down with 10 to go. Jellicorse skirted the end for 35 yards and a touchdown.

Jellicorse made his only failure at kicking goal. The game ended with the final score of: M. C. 48. E. & H. 12.

ATHENIAN

As the celebration closed the boys of both sections of the Athenian joined in the celebration of a joint program. An unusual feature of the opening session was the turning down of innumerable motions for debate. When a question was finally decided on the house was divided into two equal groups under two captains. A profitable discussion on the labor question was of much value to those present. Of course, in such a lengthy discussion much humor was in evidence, and many were the epithets applied to labor. Farmer was unfortunate in losing his time because of a faulty arranged job that kept the house in laughter.

ANNALS OF SENIORS

Vol 101. No. 5

Mountain Hike

Why did the professors insist upon the students standing when they recited last Tuesday? Was it to give them a chance to limber stiff muscles or just to laugh at the slow way in which the Seniors arose? Anyway, if the fun the Seniors had on the trip to Look Rock might be had every Monday they would gladly endure the pain which followed.

At nine o'clock the wagon came and everybody and the eats piled in. As soon as town was left behind, however, seniors began to drop off the wagon and prepare to walk. A huckster in a flivver took up a crowd and had his reward in the skill with which Helen Lewis stopped all the farmers who passed and bought eggs at reduced rates.

When Montvale was reached no one felt able to climb the mountain until after dinner, so dinner was eaten. (If you are hunting for potato roasters try George and Katie!). Every senior affair brings to light more good refreshment committees. Everything a hungry crowd could desire was there.

And then came the trip up the mountain! One couple got lost 14 different times! All did eventually arrive on Look Rock and the view was certainly worth the walk! Kodaks were much in evidence and though the atmosphere was somewhat hazy several good pictures showing Happy Valley were made.

When the sun began to set Dr. Stevenson called the crowd together and everybody started for home.

If you want to have a good time and see the woods at their best, go to Look Rock in autumn.

VESPERS

To possess clothes and shoes of such excellent quality as described in Deuteronomy 29:5, is the desire of almost everyone in these ages of H. C. L. The shoes and clothes of the people of Israel lasted forty year. They teach and give the assurance that divine faith is for daily use, and it will never wear out.

The divine revelation of religion is service. It is not to teach men to endure through sickness, but it is for health—not death—but life. Religion touches and adorns every act of life. It fails if it does not meet every test of hard every day service. Religion is not a code of morals for the chapel, and another thing for Carnegie and Pearsons; it is like the shoes and clothes of the chosen land. Jesus saw fit to use it.

There is more than service in life—there is sorrow. The shoes helped over the rough places—religion helps men through the dark valleys. The crucial test is death and only Christians die well. It is a comfort like the warm winter clothes.

Religion is service and a help in sorrow, but it is also joy, this is its chief end. It is not hostile rational pleasure. The most perfect conception of Christ is his joy.

He made it that all men might be happy through Him. It is a bouyant thing—not depressant thing as a funeral. The shoes and clothes of the gospel cannot be worn out, tney are adaptable to all sorts of service.

Y. W. C. A.

On Sunday night after Vesper Y. W. C. A. met in Bainonian Hall Miss Mattie Hamilton had charge of the program. A piano solo was very beautifully rendered by Miss Florence Leonard, after which the "Drama of Esther" was given. This Bible story, is one that will never grow old, and the truths contained in it were very forcefully impressed upon us. Each one taking part, as well as Miss Hamilton deserve much credit.

The cast of characters were:

Esther - - - - Mabel Webb
King Abasuerus - - Ruth Quinn
Mordecai - - - Della Carpenter
Hannah - - - - Irrovia Corry
Prince Haman - Myrtle Rendon
Zeresh - - - Mildred Copenhaver
Attendants, Servants, Bystanders.

Services like this one are unusual, and we should have more of them.

BAINONIAN

Those who noticed the smiling and happy faces that left Bainonian Hall last Saturday evening, doubtless concluded that the Bainonians had their usual good program in some unusual way.

The great dramatic talent of the society found expression in the play "The Suit of Livery". A highly humorous comedy. All the players were so adapted to their parts and played them so perfectly that it would be difficult to say who starred.

The cast of characters were:

Isabel Farrington - Mary L. Hayes
Her Aunt Cordelia - Mildred Campbell
Frank Douglas, a suitor - Imogene Copeland
Clarence Sharp, a detective, - - - Irrovia Corry
James Henry, the butler - - - Ugee Stump
The Maid - Mildred Copenhaver

The piano solo rendered by Miss Mabel Webb was very much appreciated and enjoyed.

Harry—Who are you going to take to the Lyceum?

Hank—Nobody. I'm going as a stag.

Harry—Why so?

Hank—I haven't any doe.

THEATRES PROGRAM
PALACE AND PRINCESS

D. W. Griffith's super-production starring an all star cast in "THE GIRL WHO STAYED HOME". This picture is indeed above the average program picture and will interest you from start to finish. Also a Flagg Comedy "THE CON IN ECONOMY", a satiral comedy.

FRIDAY—

ETHEL CLAYTON in "PETTY-GREWS GIRL". Ethel Clayton is good in most any kind of a play, but this one was written especially for her so you can expect the best for that is what you will get. A Harold-Lloyd comedy.

SATURDAY—

Look—Anita Stewart in "VIRTUOUS WIVES". A story of love and jealousy, a husband who did not understand his wife, he loved her but he thought her not true to him; a comparison between wives of the earlier days and the wives of today. "BOUND AND GAGGED" the serial that is different. BILLY WEST COMEDY, "THE COPPER SCENT". News No. 45.

MONDAY—

MARGUERITE CLARK in "THE GOOSE GIRL". You no doubt have read this story, but the best way to enjoy it is to see dainty little Marguerite Clark as the imaginery "Goose Girl". William Duncan in "SMASHING BARRIERS". The serial that is full of thrills and dare-devil stunts. Big V Comedy, "THE SIMPLE LIFE".

TUESDAY—

A big special production the title of which will be announced later. A two reel western drama, and a Ham and Bud Comedy.

WEDNESDAY—

VIVIAN MARTIN in "LITTLE COMRAD". Pretty little Vivian Martin comes out in a different role, but nevertheless no more the difficult for her than the usual type for she puts pep in every one of her pictures and makes you like her whether you wish to or not. Lyons-Moran Comedy.

THURSDAY—

OOO' LOOK WHO'S HERE—CHARLES RAY actually back in Maryville again and in one of his best pictures "THE SHERIFF'S SON". Yes sir he is from the country, he looks it, he acts it, he proves and more than that he shows it. But then you can't put anything over on him. See how he gets away with this picture and you will like him better than ever. Also another one of those good Mack-Sennett Comedies with beautiful scenery.

THE PRINCESS THEATRE will be open Saturday, Nov. 22nd and Monday, Nov. 24th., also Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27th. With special feature productions and comedies. Don't miss either of these days for if you do you will have missed the best in pictures.

MISS LOIS WILSON LEAVES FOR SYRIA

Addresses Students Tuesday.

There are many famous families throughout our land, that are praised for the many things that they have done. Among these is the Wilson family, whose ancestors have been missionaries to all parts of the earth. At present there are representatives of the family in China and Siam as missionaries.

Tuesday morning another member of this family prepared to leave as a missinary to Syria. This person is Miss Lois Wilson, daughter of our president and a graduate of this college. Before leaving she consented to say a few words to the students. The substance of her speech is as follows:

The purpose of her address is to help some one else for if she had gone away without saying good-bye to the student body, of which she had been a member so many years, one of her opportunities for service would have passed. In order to help others who may have the similar problems to solve she consented to tell a few things of her life.

Her reasons for becoming a missionary were not her own. While a Junior she had made plans for her life, but God also had a plan for her life and there was a conflict. Every where she went she heard missionaries speak and they always seemed to look straight at her. After hearing a long sermon in church on missions her mother told her she could become a great missionary if she consecrated her life to this service. This word of advice was cast aside and discontent followed. Finally a decision was reached and she decided to become a missionary and now there is nothing else she would rather do.

The field of service to which she is going is Syria, although there are many other fields to which one may go. There is a call for missionaries from all of the mission fields, but the greatest need is in Syria. The Syrians have been misruled by Turkey for 400 years, when, Christianity had no chance. The natives who became Christians were in danger of losing their lives. But two years ago Syria was liberated and now the Christian missionaries have a chance. Christianity has succeeded in Lebanon which was once under the Turkish rule. There is no reason why Christianity should not succeed throughout Syria proper.

Syria is an old missionary field of the Wilson family for her grandparents spent the greater part of their lives there as missionaries and it was there that her father was born.

The field to which she is going is in the Holy Land. It was there that Christ lived and worked. What could be a greater inspiration to a missionary to know that she is walking on the same ground on which her Master trod.

Why should any one be glad to become a missionary?

Miss Wilson says that "The greatest joy on earth comes to those who carry the blessings of Christian nations to heathen nations." She is to take part in the biggest job on earth.

Before closing Miss Wilson requested that the students pray for her and that they consider the need for missionaries. Any thing that is given up in this life is repaid one hundred fold and a promise has been made of eternal life hereafter.

ATHENIANS WILL PRESENT MID-WINTER

Play "Abraham Lincoln"

An outstanding event on college hill this winter is to be the play, "Abraham Lincoln", presented by the Athenian Literary Society. This play has had a remarkable reception in England where it was first presented. It had a wonderful success, so great that the author brought the play to this country where it is now being played in New York with the same success. The play has been well received by the critics, though not without faults, which would naturally occur from the different viewpoint. The author has sought to give an impartial view of Lincoln's character. This he has done in a series of six scenes.

The first scene is in Lincoln's Illinois home where his friends await the delegation from the nominating convention. The second is a meeting with the Confederate Commissioners, and there follows a memorable scene with his cabinet. The third illustrates the subtle forces against him when his wife's friends besiege him with their pet theories. The fourth scene is the forces at work in the cabinet. The minister, Hook, is the incarnation of the spirit of criticism. Scene five is Grant's headquarters where Lincoln's manly character, a character that shows mercy with common sense, is portrayed when he pardons private Scott. At the close of the scene, Lee surrenders with a bearing that is enobling. The last scene is the theatre where Lincoln receives the mortal wound that causes his death.

In the present day with its radical tendencies against government, the figure of Lincoln and his character, and his message to his fellowmen have a place in law and order.

ANOTHER RESULT OF THE WAR

While so many boys were away in camp the Forensic League became by necessity a co-educational organization. The girls were given an opportunity to prove their ability to debate and enough enthusiasm was aroused to cause the formation of a Girls' Forensic League this year. A group of would-be debaters met in the Bainonian hall Thursday night and organized. The following officers were elected:

President - Ashton Clayton
Vice-Pres. - Edith Moore
Secretary- Treas. - Janet Ensign

Committees were appointed to select subjects for the preliminary tryouts and also to draw up a constitution.

Tusculum is eager to arrange a girls' debate. One may be secured with Martha Washington.

A number of girls are already interested in this work and others are invited to join the league. It will meet again on next Friday evening and Professor Hunter has kindly consented to give a talk on the principles of debating.

This year will be marked by the formation of two new leagues, "The League of Nations" and "The Girls' Forensic League. May they both be successful!

HEARD AT THE LAW CLUB

Judge Stanton: What's the charge agin this man?

Sheriff Farmer: Stealing nine bottles of beer, your honor.

Judge Stanton: Discharged, I can't make a case out of nine bottles.

Jellicorse and A. Cullis for Maryville and M. Doak, Campbell and Dugger For Tusculum Principal Stars of The Game.

Dope came into its own when the Maryville and Tusculum aggregations battled to a scoreless tie at Greeneville on Thursday afternoon. According to dope the teams would enter the game about fifty-fifty in speed, weight and football ability, and from the blowing of the first whistle until darkness fell at the end of the game this dope was supported by a see-saw movement back and forth across the field with no material advantage to either team.

The game was one of the best ever played in East Tennessee as each team was willing to fight for victory as long as life existed. Maryville showed to advantage over their opponents in the second and fourth quarters and Tusculum made their firmer stand in the first and third.

In the first quarter Tusculum carried the ball down the field to Maryville's 25 yard line where Wagner saved the day by intercepting a forward pass and Jellicorse punted out of danger.

The second quarter resolved itself into a punting duel between Jellicorse and Campbell in which Campbell excelled, Jellicorse having received blow on the leg in the first quarter which seriously crippled his ability to punt. By a series of end runs and a pass to A. Cullis for 20 yards Maryville carried the ball to Tusculum's 18 yard line. Jellicorse was thrown for a 10 yard loss to the 28 yard line from which he attempted a place kick which went wild.

In the third quarter Campbell attempted a place kick from the 37 yard line which fell short. Jellicorse punted out from the 20 yard line to the center of the field and Tusculum again managed to gain 25 yards before the quarter ended.

Tusculum failed to gain and Campbell again attempted a place kick which failed. By a long end run Jellicorse gained 20 yards and A. Cullis caught a pass which netted 25 yards. Maryville, however, was halted on Tusculum's 35 yard line from which Jellicorse attempted a place kick which was blocked.

A. Cullis was easily the star of the M. C. eleven. His tackling was responsible for several Tusculum losses, and very seldom were they able to gain around his end. He also caught two forward passes which accounted for 20 and 25 yards respectively. Jellicorse, however, deserves high honors for making 71 yards on end runs and for his fair punting in spite of his crippled leg.

Practically all Tusculum's gains were made through the line by M. S. Doak their husky full back. Playing in the last game for his Alma Mater he fought harder than ever before, and that is saying considerable. Campbell and Dugger were other outstanding Tusculum players.

The day was ideal for football and the game was witnessed by the largest crowd in the history of Tusculum athletics. The train was four hours late which delayed the beginning of the game until 3:15, and the last quarter was played in the dark.

DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE CHOSEN

Wagner, Robison, Jones, McGrath and Buchanan.

Tuesday evening at a meeting of the the student body the delegates to the Student Conference at Des Moines, Iowa were appointed. They are as follows: Harry Wagner, Martha Robison, Bernice Jones, Percy Buchanan and Howard McGrath. The Ways and Means Committee reported that a total of one hundred and eighty-six dollars had been raised which fund is to pay part of the expenses of the delegates. This fund is not large enough but it seems that many of the students are dissatisfied with the way the proceedings were carried out, and are unwilling to give their support.

The students should support this plan of sending delegates as it is for their own benefit. It is impossible to send all who may wish to go, so, only those who are best fitted for the position should be sent. Let us get behind this movement, correct the mistakes which have been made, and push it through to success.

SCHOOL HIKES TO SUNSHINE!

On Friday night of last week it occurred to various personages on the hill that a mountain hike should be had Monday. They accordingly conferred with others who in turn conferred so ably with the authorities that be, that by dinner time Saturday it was rumored and the rumor affirmed that there would be a mountain hike to Sunshine Monday. Then such questions as "old students" were beseiged with! Do we dress up? Can we moonshine? All day! Can we get our dinner there? Will the college furnish dinner? By Monday morning all these questions and many more had been satisfactorily answered and chaperons and chaperoned departed to climb Mathew, Mark, Luke and John, rave over the mountains, eat, just stacks! and moonshine! ! And such adventures as some of the folks had. Professor Knapp cut his finger, and Mary Bigelow hurt her eye while gathering wood for the fire.

A ROUSING SEND-OFF

Did you ever hear such a racket as was made Thursday morning about five-thirty o'clock? Over three-fourths of the students, both boys and girls this time, joined in a parade to the railroad station to give the team a rousing send-off.

This was the biggest parade that has been held in Maryville for some time and it was the most successful.

SCRUBS OVERWHELM KNOXVILLE HIGH 60-0

Forward Passes Main Feature.

On last Saturday afternoon the Maryville College reserves defeated the Knoxville High School eleven in a very one-sided but spirited contest, and if our adding machine made no mistake the final score was 60 to 0. That the game was cleanly played was proven by the fact that each team was penalized only once during the entire four quarters.

The highest honors go to Beck whose long gains, accurate passing, and effective punting featured the game. By long end runs he frequently advanced 40 or 50 yards before being cut down by the High School quarterback. There is no doubt that he gained more ground than any man in a single contest played here this season and he also added to his glory by kicking six out of nine goals attempted. Second honors go to Buchanan, Avison and the ends, all of whom played stellar roles.

The Scrubs started their scoring within the first two minutes of the game and continued at regular intervals to cross the goal line until the blowing of the last whistle.

The Scrub line-up:
C. McLaughlin, c.
Myers, r. g.
McCullough, r. t.
McClure, r. e.
Bean, l. g.
Weincopp, l. t.
Callahan, l. e.
Avison, q. b.
Middleton, l. h.
Beck, f. b.
Buchanan, r. h.

A CHEMISTRY CLUB

An entirely new club will be organized on Friday afternoon at three o'clock. This club will be known as the Chemistry Club. The purpose of this first meeting of those who are interested in the study of chemistry is to elect officers and plan such other organization that is thought necessary.

The purpose of this club will be to further the interest in this branch of science, and also to permit those who are interested in the study of chemistry to do some independent and practical work. It is hoped that the club will add a good deal to the interest already shown by a large number of the students. Its chief aim will be to make the study of chemistry practical, interesting, and instructive.

One of the most important factors in carrying out this chief aim will be the programs. These programs will consist of several different features, such as thesis, discussions, and interesting speeches. It is hoped that some of the leading medical men and chemists of the town can be had to give addresses to the club. The nature of the thesis will be to take up the history of chemistry, practical chemistry, chemical theories; and numerous other things of interest will be brought out in the program. It is evident, then, that the program will be a great aid toward making the study of Chemistry cultural, practical, and interesting.

Only those who have had one year of chemistry are eligible for membership to the club. This is a foundation of a new club, and its future will depend entirely upon the interest of its members; and from the interest already shown by some of the chemistry students the success of the club is certain.

:--:--:--:

Stop! Think! Do you honestly believe the girls have a fair chance and a fair show in this school? If you do listen to these facts, and if you do not, add what you know to them. The girls stand behind every campaign for money, every ball game, every forensic debate, in short when anyone wants anything done he gets the girls interested, and yet—though they have two Y. W. C. A.'s to support they are allowed only three entertainments a year while the boys have a lyceum of seven numbers to each of which they charge fifty cents. The only way the girls can support their organizations is by entertainments and dues, and as there are few things they can do during school to make money and therefore their dues must be low, their organizations are crippled for lack of funds. The boys can make good money in the summers and during school so that they have plenty to spend, and yet their Y. M. has a candy store and seven entertainments a year. Is this fair? The girls do not want to diminish the boys' rights but they do want the girls' rights increased.

ANOTHER WAY

Have you ever noticed how many students of this college take advantage of the opportunity to moonshine during the dinner hour? Many of the boys and girls do not have an opportunity to become acquainted with each other. If you will observe you will see groups of boys gathered in front of the library, groups of girls scattered over the campus, with a few moonshiners intermingling.

It is true that many of the students either do not have time or do not care to moonshine. But there are many who would if they had the oportunity, or if they were given a start.

Last year the four literary societies held joint meetings in the chapel. But they have been abandoned as they interfered with the semi-annual meetings of brother and sister societies. Instead of holding these meetings as they were held last year, when no one was allowed to moonshine unless it was an accident, why not hold them in front of Pearsons or the library where everybody has the liberty to moonshine.

This is a suggestion which all moonshiners, all would-be moonshiners and otherwise should support. It is your chance to make a Hit.

THETA EPSILON

Although Theta has had no voice in the Echo for some time she has been very actively at work. On Saturday evening, Nov. 8, the following officers were elected:

Minnie Hunter - President
Louise Duncan - V.-President
Mildred Striplin - Secretary
Elsie Van Ness - Sgt.-at-Arms
Mamie Carroll Ludeman
Program Secretary
Ruth Quinn - Editor

The society is doing good work under the faithful guidance of the new officers.

At the meeting Saturday evening, Nov. 15, a very interesting program was given. A piano solo was rendered by Clara Browning, who is one of Theta's most accomplished musicians. A vocal solo by Bernice Kimble and Jewel Stephens was enjoyed by all. Minnie Hamilton gave an impromtu reading which showed prospects of a great talent. After the literary report given by Julia Anderson, every one felt they had been greatly benefitted by being present. The most attractive number was a Burlesque—Romeo and Juliet, Bessie Henry taking the part of Romeo and Gladys Hutchinson taking the part of Juliet.

Y. W. C. A.

Our Y. W. Sunday was a Thanksgiving service, the leader being Miss Josephine Hamilton. Miss Hamilton spoke of the Origin of Thanksgiving. Some good thoughts on the Thanksgiving season were given, as expressed by James Whitcomb Riley. Miss Janet Ensign spoke of Thanksgiving as a National holiday, and Miss Mary Louise Hayes on "Just Little Things". A very beautiful and appropriate reading was given by Miss Irrovia Corry. The special music consisted of a piano solo by Marguerite Sullinger, and a vocal solo by Myrtle Rendon.

ATHENIAN

An unusual program was rendered by the society Saturday evening. "Bill" Holmes read with a touching appeal an "Eulogy" on W. G. Grady. Phillips gave a sketch of our recent royal visitor, the Prince of Wales. Hackler followed with a comparison of the war poetry of the sixties and now. He read two selections from the recent collection of Prof. Clarke. The debate though argued by only two men had the usual punch and vigor with many telling points. The question of military training for young men in their twenty-second year, proved one in which the opponents hardly every clashed, and really both won, but the judges and the house decided against it. Green proved himself a popular and worthy editor of the Athenian, his memory shall be handed down through the list of honored men who have graced the halls of fame.

LOST—Pink Cameo Pin surrounded by pearls. Reward if returned to Miss Jackson or Miss Jones at office.

PROFESSOR SOUTHWICK LEADS PRAYER MEETING

Resume of the Work in Organization and Co-operation of The American Army in France.

Professor Southwick gave an excellent detailed account of how the American army played its part in the World War. The outstanding feature of the part taken was the way the nation and the army were organized. He gave a detailed account of the selection of the landing port, the supply depot, and headquarters camp with its training schools and fields. An interesting feature of this work was the large ships berths necessary, the thousands of miles of railroads, the thousands of square miles of warehouses that were constructed by the engineers.

Especially interesting was the first drive of the A.E.F. and the manner in which they fooled the Germans. Then in a continous narrative illustrated with several charts, the speaker told of the battles of Chateau Thierry, The Argonne Forest, the event of the "Lost Battalion", the breaking of the railroads that the German armies depended upon and of the race to Sedan between the French and the Americans. Equally interesting was the manner in which the St. Mehiel salient was reduced and of the transfer of the troops at night.

There is in Paris a panoramic picture 360 feet by 45 feet representing all the alies each in characteristic phase. France is represented by a Victory statue, to which the victorious armies are marching to be crowned. England is represented by her king and high officers of army and navy in many lands and seas. Russia is portrayed with the late Czar in the background, to the front is a figure of Democracy writing history, at her feet is an uncouth figure with a smoking bomb, typifying Bolshevism. America is represented by President Wilson standing by the statue of Washington with officers of army and navy. In the foreground are figures representing labor, business and a western cowboy all marching abreast led by "Teddy".

Organization and Co-operation are therefore the life of a nation.

The mixed quartette rendered appropriate music.

MRS. ELLIS TO READ FOR JUNIOR ALPHAS

All who atend the Junior Section of the Alpha Sigma Literary Society have a treat in store for them, here is the reason. Mrs. Ellis, of the Expresion Department has promised to read at the next meeting of the society. It will be an unusual experience for the Junior Alphas to have a lady present at their meeting, and it is an event which the members are anticipating with much pleasure. Every fellow is invited to hear Mrs. Ellis next Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

BAINONIAN

The Bainonian program last Saturday evening was given by the Baldwin girls.

The first number of the program was a piano solo by Miss Margaret McSpadden. After which Miss Ruth Grenlee gave a very interesting paper on the "Black-Folk Songs of the South". This was followed by "Old Black Joe" sung by a "Topsy-Turvey Chorus". A pantomine "Everybody Works but Father" was presented by the following girls, Addie Fine, Mary Bigelow, Mary McSpadden, Clara Belle Smith, Lynn McClung and Idella Hemphill.

Nace: Well do you want a hair cut?

Customer: No, I guess I'll have 'em all cut.

Nace: Very good that'll be fifty cents.

Customer:: Why your sign reads firstclass hair cut for twenty-five cents.

Nace: Yes, I know, but your hair is not firstclass.

NEWS FROM MEXICO!

Last Friday evening an unusually large group of students gathered in Theta hall to hear and discuss problems of the present day as regards Mexico. Mr. LeRoy Middleton very kindly consented to give first a short review of the history of Mexican unrest and later, had the open discussion.

He gave a clear portrayal of Mexico, her religion and its influence upon the people and the power of the priest, her class system, her ruling powers, including the causes for the outbreaks which have threatened so much. As a target for questions from those present he gave back much worth while information regarding the attitude of the Mexican toward the American system of education throughout Mexico, Mexicans as a race and the influence Christianity has and will have. Mr. Middleton with his personal knowledge of the country and people believes that the only means of real satisfactory foundation for peace and growth in Mexico lies in the spread of Christian principle in that country. It is another challenge for the student of today.

The hour closed promptly at 7 p. m. This coming Friday, Nov. 28, there will be a discussion of India.

PALACE THEATRE PROGRAM FOR THIS WEEK

FRIDAY—

The New Art Film Company presents Dorothy Gish in "PEPPY POLLY". She wanted to go to jail, she was just itching to get into jail and wear stripes n'everything. She threw a brick through a jewelry store window and then the fun started. Also a good comedy.

SATURDAY—

A Special Attraction featuring Blanche Sweet in "A WORLD OF PLEASURE". A fascinating story of society life with its many disadvantages, this story carries you to the jungles of Africa with filmdom's greatest actress. You will experience many thrills, a picture you will like. News No. 46, BOUND and GAGGED, the serial that everybody likes and a Fox Comedy.

MONDAY—

Pauline Frederick in "THE ETERNAL CITY". Miss Frederick has made many pictures, but none equal this unusual production. An entertainment second to none. SMASHING BARRIERS, the serial with a thousand surprises and this chapter will furnish a good one.

TUESDAY—

A special feature attraction, the title will be announced later. Watch for it on our screen. A Pete Morrison western and a good comedy.

WEDNESDAY—

Mary Pickford in "Captain Kid Junior", and every where that Mary went the kid was sure to go (but don't get the "kids" mixed up), for there is a captain kid about seventeen years old who wears glasses and every where that Mary goes, well, say, come and see them. A Lyons-Moran Comedy. Don't miss this show.

THURSDAY—

Shirley Mason and Earnest Truen in "RESCUING ANGEL" It's funny, ludicrous, dramatic, near-tragic, it's worth coming miles to see. Mack-Sennett Comedy, "Among those Present."

PRINCESS PROGRAM

THURSDAY—

Look, your favorite actor Charles Ray in "THE SHERIFF'S SON". Should he fight or quit with the girl? On one side a whole bunch of cattle thieves who live by their gun and love nothing better than a bloody battle, on the other a city youth who is afraid of his shadow, and a girl. Who wins? Also a good comedy.

SATURDAY—

A special attraction with a good comedy, you always see a good show at the Princess.

MONDAY, Dec. 1st.—

We will start the month off right by giving you one of the best pictures we can get. Together with a comedy that will sure cure the blues.

LIBRARY HOURS CHANGED

In this the first year of Maryville's second century many changes have been made. Also many attractions have been introduced. One of the most important of these attractions is the opening of the college library in the evening.

Heretofore, many of the students were unable to use the library as much as they should as they were busy attending classes, practicing music, and doing other things during the day. An opportunity is given English students to look up references and debaters to read up on their questions.

As both boys and girls cannot use the library at the same time, two evenings a week have been allotted to each; the girls on Tuesday and Friday evenings and the boys on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

JUNIOR Y. W. C. A.

Miss Nina Bell Caldwell led the Thanksgiving service, which was very impressive. She showed us how we could get three lessons from a stalk of corn. The meeting was then thrown open, and different girls told what they had to be thankful for. Among the things mentioned was the absence of the flu, the advantage of a Christian School such as Maryville is, and the Junior Y. W.

The music consisted of a song by the quartet, and a piano solo by Miss Grace Major.

ALUMNI NOTES

1916.

The departure of Miss Lois Wilson for Syria to engage in missionary work in the land where her father, President Wilson, was born is a matter of great interest to Maryville Alumni, who join in wishing Miss Wilson a safe and pleasant journey and success in her new field of labor. A fuller account of her plans will be found in another column.

1916.

J. Charles Walker is now located at Norfolk, Virginia, where he has a position in the Shipping Board Office of the Department of Operations. His work consists of tabulating statistics received by telegram concerning the various ships under the board's supervision.

1917.

Miss Nellie J. Garrison, who has been teaching at Murphy College for the past two years, is now living at her home and teaching English and Home Economics in the Karns High School at Byington, Tennessee.

We want all the old and new students to know that our new store 206 Main Street is full of goods you want.

VESPERS

As a basis for his discourse, Dr. Stevenson used Hebrews 11, 33-34, to show for the glories and poweresses of the men of old. These men and deeds are the most striking in all history. They were the minority of the great billions who have lived, but the billions, for the most part, have written their deeds in the sands, and these few by faith have lived. By faith they achieved, by faith they gave no thought for self and triumphed over self.

They teach men to have faith, and the tempted they may triumph. The prevelant sin in this day as well as in other days is that of selfishness. Faith in others will make men forget themselves, as is illustrated in the life of the great Italian scholar Thomas A. Juinis. Eradicate self from the lives of men and a new order would come upon the earth, no war, no labor troubles, and no strikes. Pride is always associated with selfishness, yet these men became humble and gentle and triumphed. They lived to serve—not for self but for others—and though they have joined the Christ Invisible, their deeds live on. a living example for the men of this day.

ALPHA SIGMA

On Saturday night, Nov. 22, the Alpha Sigma Society held its first regular meeting for two weeks, and an excellent program was enjoyed by the large number of members who were present. This program, which had been postponed from the last meeting date, was very interesting and showed real work on the part of many of its participants. Its numbers were as follows:

"The Fundamentals of a Good Lawyer", by the president of the Law Club, Mr. Stanton.

Debate: Resolved: "That the British system of responsible cabinet government is more democratic than the American system of irresponsible executive. Affirmative, the Messrs James and Turner, Negative, Messrs. Hall and Howard.

"America's Industrial Strife Generalized", by Mr. Fowler.

"Alpha Sigma Advance", by Mr. Morgan Cox.

The report of the censor closed the literary program, after which a short business session was held, suggestions and reports heard from the various committees, and adjournment taken.

THE SNAPPY "FOUR HUNDRED"

The Snappy "Four Hundred" had their first and very important meeting (we hope) on November 15, 1919. The officers elected are as follows:

President - - - - - - Texas
Secretary-Treasurer - - Cap'n.
Information Bureau - - Mickey
Reporter - - - - - - Pete
Sergeant-at-Arms - - - - Gyp
Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms (in case the Sergeant keeps everyone in order but himself) - - - Cap'n.
Grocery boys, chief cooks and bottle washers - Texas and Pete

We have an honorary member by the name of Judge—of course, we consider ourselves very greatly honored by having this famous person as a member of our society and we hope that she considers herself as greatly honored by being a member of this spicey club.

After a lengthy discussion by all members present of the merits and demerits of all elected officers, we participated in fudge-ing, after which we decided upon suitable and appropriate colors, flower and signal. The colors are purple and gold; the flower tulip, and signal to be known to none but the members of this noble organization.

During the evening many noteworthy speeches were made, some of which were so thrilling and exciting that the sergeant-at-arms was forced to put aside all attempts at force and appeal to our sense of hearing. We all know the value of our Information Bureau and the Snappy "Four Hundred" keep poor Mickey busy searching for the solution of certain mysteries and the revealing of interesting secrets which are constantly rotating about the hill. It was only after the physical exhaustion of the club that we decided to adjourn.

JUST FOR FUN!

We are glad to know that our friend Samuel has a new suit this year for he says that last year he had to have his suit pressed on Monday for he possessed only one, with no extras either.

Wonder how he managed it?

Clyde: Why are Chemistry and men closely connected?

Steve: Because they are both of a curious compound.

Mike: Well, old lady, don't you know that I haven't read any in the Bible for over a week.

John: Why old lady? I am surprised at you. Don't you know the Bible says that those which preach the gospel are to live of the gospel.

Mike: Well—no wonder I am so poor.

It seems strange that such a noteworthy moonshiner as "Pugh" should be carrying a book entitled "How to write Love Letters". Seems like he ought to be able to say all he wants to, without writing letters.

Mrs. Alexander—A simple story wouldn't suit all classes of people.

Weisbecker: It might suit this English class.

What would those poor decrepit seniors do were it not for their humble junior, sophomore, freshmen and preparatory friends, now that they cannot climb stairs without asistance and can barely limp from Pearsons to chapel in ten minutes?

Helen Tedford: Ruth, your chemistry book is out in the rain.

Ruth Still: Let it stay there. It's dry enough.

Do you realize that the Seniors have had no class function since last Monday?

Prof. Southwick: How many questions out of those five on page 101 did you answer, Miss Van Ness?

Miss Van Ness: I didn't get the last three, or the first two.

Four Pearsonites proved their ability as saleswomen Saturday night when they sold fruit salad and sandwiches—indeed so successful were they that many had to be turned away hungry.

Biology Prof.: How do bees dispose of their honey?

Bright Student: Oh, I know. They sell it.

Students are just like tacks, no good when they lose their heads.

If the apetite of a man were as good as that of a sparrow in proportion to his size, he would eat a whole sheep at one sitting.

Abel was naughty, "Adam", Seth Eve, "Cain Abel," and Adam did.

Theorem: A coon is equal to a ton of coal.

Proof: (1) A ton of coal is a weight.

(2) A wait is a pause.

(3) A pause is a short stop.

(4) A short stop is a foul catcher.

(5) A fowl catcher is a coon.

Therefore: A coon is equal to a ton of coal.

Erma: "Believe me, I don't parade my vurtues!"

Lucretia: "Well, you know it takes several for a parade."

A:—Why does a hen cross the road?

B:—Why to get on the other side, you poor fish.

A:—Well not exactly, it's because she can't go under it.

Mugs:—Why does a hen lay an egg?

Bugs:—Because if she dropped it t'would break.

VERY SUCCESSFUL FOOTBALL SEASON CLOSES

ATHENIANS PRESENT MIDWINTER

Jason Deyton as Abraham Lincoln Leading Character.

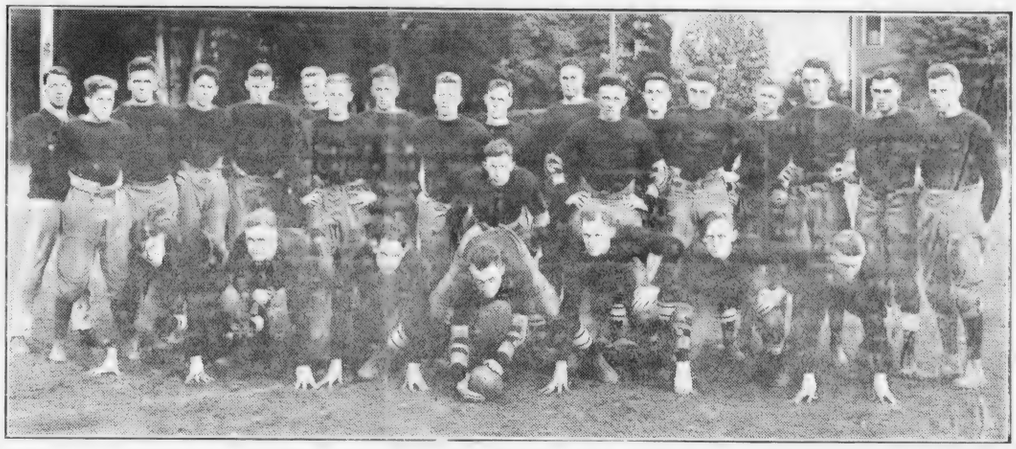
If Mr. Drinkwater had been in the audience at the chapel Monday evening, December 1st., he certainly would have been pleased at the way the Athenian Literary Society handled his production "Abraham Lincoln". From the opening of the curtains at the first scene until the ending words of the Chronicler, the play was a splendid success.

The ancient Athenians were famous for their eloquence and poetic expression, but the Athenians of Maryville College surpassed them in skill and ingenuity.

J. Martin as Chronicler heralded the events with prophetic utterance. Deyton's figure, and his calm and intense deliberations breathed forth the personality of the heroic "Abe" in a way that will never be forgotten. J. Smith, alias Mrs. Lincoln, was a personage of graceful carriage, of sweet voice, and of charming manners. E. M. Eddington, V. Fowler, J. L. Cooper, D. Buchanan and D. M. Shaver were indeed skilled in the arts of the fair and gentle sex. E. Cathey, G. Hoskins, T. Vance, L. Herndon, H. R. Arnold, C. Johnston, R. Milling, F. Green, V. C. McClung, H. Janoviczky, H. S. Roane, J. McConkey, R. Ogan, F. Robinson, and H. Wagner, "Tex" Middleton, R. Hackler, T. McConnell, T. Hill and J. Queener showed themselves to be clever statesmen, and soldiers, and if what the audience witnessed on Monday evening is an index to the future, great things can be predicted for them. The way the soldiers of the "blue" and the "grey" carried out that historic surrender scene would have pleased the "old generals" if they could have seen it.

The play itself was a very remarkable presentation of the true greatness of Lincoln's character. The view was a truly impartial one which portrayed the simplicity and the humanity of the man.

From the start the audience was captuated by the silent spell as "Abe" walked in amongst them and talked with them.



The simple, plain Lincoln of the Western plains was the same Lincoln in the cabinet and White House. No better view could be had of the true greatness of the man than in the scene where he litteraly flayed Mrs. Goliath Blow, and also, in the fourth scene where the minister Hook could not stand before the honest, searching look of Lincoln; but the heart of the man was laid bare when, in that touching scene, he pardoned private Scott.

To the students, the play was a great object lesson. Truly, the old proverb, "Character, the grandest thing", was demonstraed. Moreover it was a lesson in patriotism, a lesson on loyalty, on justice and mercy.

The music was rendered by Arellano, Buchanan and Hayes, and was much enjoyed. The Athenian Society is to be congratulated on the merit of talent and selection of play.

A game of Basketball is to be played with the quintet from Carson and Newman, Friday evening. A spirited contest is expected.

Have you noticed the new bulletin board which has been given by the Y. M. C. A.?

Foot Ball Squad of 1919

RESUME OF THE FOOTBALL SEASON AND GAMES GIVEN

The even break with Tusculum on Thanksgiving day brought the local football aggregation to the end of a somewhat successful season in which three games were won, two were lost, and one was tied. Three of our scheduled games were canceled but Manager McLaughlin deserves much credit for admirably completing a schedule almost as good as the original one. In Georgetown College and the University of Tennessee, Maryville bucked up against two of the South's strongest teams and it is far from any disgrace that we lost to them.

While the record of the team this season cannot be said to be especially brilliant, certainly the year has given the foundation of experience to what may become a genuinely great aggregation before another season has passed.

At the beginning of this season Maryville was faced with the task of wielding a conglomorate mass of inexperienced and promising material into a team of eleven men. This was admirably done and the result was a team which scored 103 points as compared with 67 scored against them.

Our first game was lost to U. T.'s heavier and more experienced team in an up-hill fight which resulted in a score of 32 to 2. This game showed the weaknesses of our team, and after three weeks of practice the Highlanders defeated Cumberland University 32 to 3. The following Saturday, Oglethorpe University was cooled by the Highlanders in a spectacular game of football played on a muddy field, the final score being 14 to 7. The next game was lost to Georgetown College, 13 to 7. Emory and Henry furnished a good feast on November 16th, but on Thanksgiving, our "turkey dinner" failed to arrive, Tusculum allowing us only one lone goose egg with which to attempt to satisfy our appetites.

The schedule this fall has not been hard as compared with some of former years, but on the other hand it has not been altogether smooth sailing. It is likely that next year will see a harder schedule, as Maryville has risen much higher in the esteem of football enthusiasts during the 1919 season.

Especially was the victory over Oglethorpe a big boost to Maryville athletics. Oglethorpe was an easy

YOUNG HIGH GIRLS DEFEATED IN FIRST GAME OF BASKETBALL

The girls' basketball team started off like a whirlwind by winning from Young High School on Tuesday evening by a score of 19 to 0. The game was unique in that Maryville scored a complete shutout against their opponents, which is a rare occurance in basketball.

It seemed at the outset of the game that it would be very closely contested, but after four minutes of play the Maryville forwards succeeded in getting the range and scored three field goals within 30 seconds. From then on to the end of the first half Miss Bailey and Miss Dawson took time about shooting goals until the score stood 14 to 0.

In the second half Miss Sugg and Miss Parham proved beyond a doubt that Maryville has some very promising new material, as their playing showed the mark of experience. Young's High, however, showed a slight reverse of form in the second half and only allowed five scores to be piled up against them.

The fast floorwork and passing of Miss Lloyd was responsible for the ball being retained in Maryville's possession throughout most of the game, while the guards, Miss Samsel and Miss Ingle, so completely covered their opponents that they limited to only one or two shots during the whole two periods.

The initial game was certainly a brilliant success and the prospects are bright for cinching the 1919-1920 East Tennessee Championship.

The girls have one other game before Christmas which will be played here with Cumberland College of Williamsburg, Ky. on December 12th., and next term they will battle with many teams, one of which will be our old rivals, the East Tennessee Normal.

The line-up and score was as follows:

Maryville		Young High
Dawson	f.	Loyice Doyle
Bailey (capt.)	f.	Lynn Doyle
Lloyd	c.	Grace Disney
Samsel	g.	Mildred Doyle
Ingle	g.	Nell Taylor

Substitutes: Sugg for Dawson, Parham for Bailey.

Field goals: Dawson 3, Bailey 4. Parham 1, Sugg 1. Foul goal: Parham 1.

Referee, Weisbecker; Umpire, Nichols of Knoxville; Timekeepers: Callahan and Miss King of Knoxville.

ALPHA SIGMA MID-WINTER

The Alpha Sigma Society will present its annual mid-winter entertainment this year a most timely and interesting drama entitled, "The Man Without a Country". This play is an adaptation of Edward Everett Hale's story of the same name, and, in view of the fact that this classic of American literature is universally known, a detailed synopsis seems almost superfluous. It is sufficient to say that the various acts give us a vivid picture of early nineteenth century life and ideals in the army that defended our western frontier and our navy that upheld our flag on the high seas, as well as a lesson in loyalty that is applicable to all times and all nations, and that is needed now more than ever. A well chosen prologue and epilogue add further interest to the play, and bring it entirely up-to-date.

Following is a caste of characters, all of whom will doubtless play their various roles with the excellence and success that is so characteristic of all Alpha Sigma undertakings: Prologue and Epilogue

At the top of the first page of this week's "Orange and Black", Tusculum's paper appeared the following challenge, "We are ready to play off the tie, how about Maryville?" Will we accept the challenge? Certainly! We are ready Tusculum.

BROOKS FLETCHER

Brooks Fletcher, the "Dramatic Orator" is one of the real stars of the Lyceum platform. He promises to be the high peak of the course of 1919-'20. Brooks Fletcher is one of the few great orators today. He is not one of the old time platfrm entertainers, but a man with a message and one who knows how to deliver it. Fletcher is telling the people of the country what needs must be done, in a way that commands attention, invokes thought and stimulates men to action. He dramatizes his message by an intensity of energy which holds an audience from start to finish.

THOS. BROOKS FLETCHER.

Fletcher is one of the biggest men on the circuit. His personality is such that he must be heard to be appreciated. When one has been told all about Fletcher, and then hear his message, words are inadequate in praise of him.

Fletcher will appear as the fourth number of the Y. M. C. A. Lyceum Course, on December 10th.

When does inter-class football begin? Each fall it has been the custom to have these games but it seems that very little has been done along this line this year. What's drong? Let's wake up, get something started, and show a little class spirit.

Mr. David H. Briggs, mmber of the Class of '20 and who is now teaching in the Shelbyville high school was a visitor on the Hill Saturday.

SERVING A PURPOSE

What is the purpose of the Highland Echo or any other college paper? A man without a purpose is like a ship without a rudder. If Maryville College's weekly newspaper is to be of any value it must serve a purpose. Students of Maryville College are you to be contented with merely a weekly report of the events which are of general interest?

The world is ever moving on and we must keep in step. There are new problems confronting us every day and these problems must be met.

When the editor and the members of the staff happen to think of something new they put it in the Echo. What do you do with your ideas?

But, when you read a newspaper, college or general, and you perceive something new and interesting, what do you do with it; keep it all to yourself, forget that you ever heard of such a thing, pass it on, or try to make it materialize. Especially, of importance are these facts to the students of Maryville College.

The purpose of a newspaper is, to present the current news and offer criticisms or suggestions, to the student body. Every student should and does have the privilege of offering through the columns of the college paper, anything that is of interest to others and that will promote the welfare of the college that he or she is attending.

The Echo staff can present ideas and keep on presenting them, but the student body must carry them out or the idea must end with the presentation.

A MARYVILLE NEED

Many times during the year before graduation the members of the Senior Class are asked what they are going to do next year. The invariable answer to this question is, "I do not know." Unless a person has decided upon one of the professions, he is as uncertain about his post-college life as he was four years ago when he first arrived on the Hill.

There was once a time when Maryville College was a preparatory school for the professions of which the ministry was the most popular. Now, for some reason or other, many of the graduates of this college are being attracted by the excitement and rush of the commercial world, and all the others teach while looking for an opening.

The college annually sends forth a class ranging from thirty to fifty men and women. They have a sheepskin full of credits, or a more or less lengthy list of college honors. Yet some of these coveted posessions are not any great aid in securing a position which is of primary importance.

Maryville graduates can secure tutorial positions in high schools throughout the South but this vocation is attractive to only a small portion. What are the others to do? Should a person spend half a life time trying to obtain an education and the other half trying to find something to do?

What Maryville needs is an association of the alumni in order to find suitably employment of the graduates. Other colleges and universities have associations of this sort, and Maryville should profit by their examples.

A small college, such as this, has a greater need for an employment association than has a larger institution which is more widely known. The more generally known an educational institution is, the greater prestige has its diploma. Maryville students come from all parts of the country and its alumni are scattered throughout the known world. There are men and women graduates of this college who could fill most any position and there are alumni of this college who could point out any variety of positions.

While we are not super-men, or superior to the graduates of other colleges, the average graduate is inferior to very few. The majority of our alumni have been successful in the outside world. A word of recommendation from them would be a great help to a young graduate in finding a lucrative and enjoyable position.

A wholesale recommendation of graduates simply on the basis that they are Maryville graduates would not be advisable. About the first of March every year the Registrar of the College could send to every Alumni a card on which could be designated the type of men desired and the kind of work they would be required to do. The Registrar could then send to the prospective employer a list of three or four men whom he considers fit to hold the position, recommending one as the most likely candidate.

Then it would be up to the men to make good, for failure would be a blow to their college and to themselves. However, there is little need to worry about that, as the average Maryvillian does make good, if he has a chance. An alumni employment agency would give them that chance.

CAUSES OF INDIA'S UNREST

That the world as a whole is in a state of unrest must be admitted, that the causes of the unrest in individual nations are only just being brought to light is equally true. That causes for dissatisfaction among the people of India have long been present does not make the present cause any the less effective in bringing about an unsettled state in the Indian mind, which must later resolve itself into the nature of an awakening from past ages of servitude to a present day of world service. The cause of the dissatisfaction and revolt among those of lower caste, of uncertainty and restlessness among those of higher caste is the coming of Christianity. As the dawn of a Christian civilization must bring just a time of restless slumber and then an awakening, so in time it will bring a national growth and fruitless which shall put India into her rightful place among the nations.

The story of India's unrest was given with the interest and zeal of one who is eagerly anticipating the time when her own services may be added to those of others who today are laying the foundation of a new India. Miss Fanson lead an hour of worthwhile discussion on India last Friday evening from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

The next Friday evening discussion will be lead by a Student Volunteer of five years ago.

Remember the hour 6-7 p. m.

THETA EPSILON

An unusual program was rendered by the New Girls Saturday evening. The first number was a piano solo by Cora Thompson Saville. Nell Neil and Flossy Kerr sang two coon songs. This was followed by a violin and piano duet by Lucile Thorpe and Louise Worsham. The next number was a coon recitation by Nell Neil. A vocal solo by Jewel Stevens added much to the enjoyment of the evening. Then a Little Bit of Everything concluded the program. After the critic's report Catherine Ridgeway in a short address thanked the new girls for their excellent services.

Y. M. C. A. BUSINESS MEETING

Immediately after supper on Tuesday night the members of the Y.M.C.A. met in the reading room of Bartlett Hall for a short business session. According to the Y. M. C. A. constitution the officers of the ensuing year are to be nominated by a nominating committee during the month of December. The men nominated are to be voted upon not less than a week later than the nominations are made. The nominating committee, of which J. Deyton was chairman, submitted the following report, for president, Harry Wagner and George Howell; Secretary, Frank Cody and Howard McGrath; Treasurer, Edgar Poe and Forest Brown. These men will be voted upon sometime the first of next week. Each member of the Y.M.C.A. has the right to vote and it is more than a right; it is your duty and you should be present at the time of the election and give the man you believe to be the best fitted for these responsible positions your support. Probably at the same time of this election an amendment to the constitution will be voted upon. The amendment was made by the members of the cabinet. It was concerning the Y. M. C. A. Store, which has been established in Bartlett Hall, how it is to be run, the amount of capital and how the persons who have charge of the store are to be chosen.

The time of this meeting will be announced later, so listen for the announcement and kindly lend us your presence for only a few minutes at the next meeting.

Jellicorse lost 5 yards on an attempted end run; E. Cullis no gain; Weisbecker 1 yard through center. Jellicorse attempted a place kick which was blocked and Tusculum recovered on their own 30 yard line.

Doak, no gain; Campbell gained 1 yard through center and the game ended. The ball was Tusculum's on their own 31 yard line when the last whistle blew.

PROSPECTS OF BASKETBALL

A very successful football season has just passed. The interest of all football fans is now turning to another branch of college athletics. The Thanksgiving season marked the end of football and the ushering in of basketball.

The prospects of a champion team this year are brighter than they have been for several seasons. Monday morning over twenty-five candidates turned out for practice, but this is only one-half of the number that has already signified their intention of trying out for the squad. Five letter men of last year are back again and expect to try-out for the team. They are, Wagner, and Brown, forward; Cotton, centre; and Frasier and Callahan, guards. Also Davison, a letter man of '18 is back and will undoubtedly make the team.

The most promising of the new men are: Carter, Hendrix brothers, Cullis brothers, Montgomery and Foster.

From all of this material a team may be chosen that will be champions of Tennessee and even romp over U. T.

BUSINESS MEN CHANGE

The last two weeks have brought about several changes among the business men of the City of Maryville. Dr. Mitchell, one of the college's best friends, has sold his drug store on Main street, to Watt and Campbell.

Mr. David Proffitt, who graduated from this college with the class of '16, has taken the place of Mr. Chandler in the firm of the Ellis-Chandler Co. The firm which will be known as Ellis-Proffitt & Co. has bought the entire stock of J. N. Badgett Co. and will be located there in the near future. The building which is now occupied by Ellis-Chandler Co. will be turned into a furniture store after the first of the year.

ANNALS OF SENIORS

Vol. 101 No. 6.

Thanksgiving

"Over the mud-holes and tho' the woods
To Stevenson's house we went
We wanted to go, so we weren't slow
To a party our steps were bent."

and if Seniors ever laughed they laughed that Friday night! Mrs. Stevenson thinks that there are very few stunts in the world that haven't been pulled off by the Seniors, but Fred's remarkable one is yet to come.

Joining the "sheep family" was an amusing affair tho' lucky for some unusually good joiners the sink was near! And as for the Oriental reception—well, it may have been the trip to Montvale that made Ash Clayton's foot so loose, a person never can tell about such things, but Bill Holmes and Chang are some "introducers."

Those large piles of ginger bread and the cups of chocolate were the very things for refreshments after the Thanksgiving boxes and we all have a desire to know who were the cooks. In view of the fact that it was Thanksgiving and the party had begun at seven, everybody reluctantly said good-by at ten and like good children came straight home.

P. S.—We were not trying to establish a precedent by leaving early. It will probably never happen again.

The cheerful grin will always let you in, when the kicker is never known.

STUDENTS ENTERTAINED

Friday morning the students of the college, especially those who had a class during the third period on the wing of Anderson nearest the Athenian Hall, were given a great treat. A famous soloist persisted in singing what they thought were patriotic songs, such as, America, and the Star Spangled Banner, but such were only Latin translations of them.

The only objection the students made to the music was that it was not loud enough, for though it attracted their attention it did not drown out the words of their professor, so that the class continued to recite.

This is a new thing which comes in very handy on the day after a holiday and eases the students over their lessons. Keep up the good work Miss Herron.

KENTCKY CLUB ENTERTAINS

The Kentucky Club had a party Monday afternoon in Bainonian Hall. After songs and the music of ukes, delightful refreshments were served. Every one enjoyed the afternoon extremely. We, the officers, wish to thank the committees for their splendid co-operation.

FIRST COME—FIRST SERVED

Several weeks ago there was a note in the Echo which stated, that two of the inmates of Pearsons Hall received The First Kiss, from Charles Edgemon. They did obtain The First Kiss, but according to a recent report, Miss Gregg, our noted voice instructor, received The First Kiss first.

Y. W. C. A.

Y. W. C. A. was held Sunday afternoon with Miss Janet Ensign as leader. She had for her subject, "The Law and Order League and Its Relation to the Church." In these days of anarchy every Christian nation should stand loyal to the law. With Bolshevism there can not go on a very high form of religion. We as girls may wonder what we have to do in this—but let us take up the cry, less lawlessness and more Christianity.

Miss Mamie Witherspoon told the story of a girl in Bible times who rescued her people from a deadly peril.

Miss Hoffman spoke of the results of an anarchy in Russia.

OH! THOSE SOCIAL SCIENCE STUDENTS

The class in Economics headed and herded by Professor Southwick went out to the Aluminum plant Tuesday and studied industrial problems. They made a survey of the whole industrial management and visited most of the departments. The class extend their thanks to the Superintendent, Mr. Glascock and to Mr. Hill who guided them through and explained with untiring energy the features of the plant.

They laid him in a pine box
Beneath the apple tree,
And on his cherry headstone
This epitaph you'll see.
Sammie was a drinking
But he will drink no more;
For what he thought was H2O
Was H2SO4.

A Gateway—Electrical

ONLY a forty-foot gateway bounded by two brick pilasters and ornamental lamps, but unlike any other gateway in the entire world.

For back of it is the General Electric Company's main office building, accommodating 2300 employees. And just next door is its laboratory with the best equipment for testing, standardizing and research at the command of capable engineers. Then down the street—a mile long—are other buildings where everything electrical, from the smallest lamp socket to the huge turbines for electrically propelled battleships, is made by the 20,000 electrical workers who daily stream through.

What a story this gate would tell, if it could, of the leaders of the electrical industry and business, of ambassadors from other institutions and from foreign lands.

The story would be the history of electric lighting, electric transportation, electric industrials and electricity in the home.

This gateway, as well as the research, engineering, manufacturing and commercial resources back of it, is open to all who are working for the betterment of the electrical industry.

Illustrated bulletin, Y-863, describing the company's several plants, will be mailed upon request. Address General Electric Company, Desk 43, Schenectady, New York

Y. M. C. A. LED BY W. B. HOLMES LAST SUNDAY

Mr. Holmes used as the subject for his discussion "Three Men Who were not Afraid." The basis for the discussion was the third chapter of Daniel which tells the story of the three Jews who were cast into the fiery furnace, because of their refusal to worship a golden image which Nebuchadnezzar had made.

Mr. Holmes said in part in order to appreciate the predicament of these three Jews we must understand what was back of the dedication of this idol, Nebuchadnezzar assembled all the civil and military authorities of his realm and made a decree, enjoining them to fall down and worship this golden image when the signal should be given. This decree was iron-clad law, that law of the Medes and Persians which altereth not. Nothing was more serious in those days than to ignore a decree of the king of the Babylonian empire. Moreover, a specific punishment was designated for anyone who dared to disobey the king in this matter.

When we consider these facts we must agree that it took faith and courage out of the ordinary for these men to stand out alone against the whole Babylonian Empire and defy the king's decree.

Upon learning the action of these Jews, the king commanded twenty of his mighty men to cast them into the furnace. They faced their sentence without fear for they knew that God would deliver them. So hot was the furnace that its surging flames slew the men who cast these men into the furnace, but these three Jews were unharmed.

Perhaps we shall never have to endanger our lives, to stand for the right. Nevertheless, there will come times when we may be called upon to sacrifice something in order to stand for what we know to be right. We can better afford to sacrafice life itself rather than the eternal principles of righteousness. A dying American soldier told his pal to take this message to the people back home, "Tell them that I went as clean as I came." That young man had many opportunities to bow down to idols but he was true to the end. Through all the fires and trials let us be loyal as these three Jews were loyal.

JUNIOR ALPHA SIGMAS MEET

The Junior Alpha Sigma's met in regular session Saturday evening, November 29th. The house was called to order by President Miles. Secretary Delozier read the program for the evening, which consisted of reading of Current Events by Mr. French, a debate, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt the Metric System, Charles Mays, argued the affirmative, and Clarence Davidson the negative. Both debaters made excellent pleas before the house, and the result of the judges' vote was two to one, in favor of the affirmative. After this the critic's report by Edward Hargrave was read, it brought down the house. We were very sorry Mrs. Ellis could not give her reading, on account of illness. But we trust we will have her with us at an early date.

ROANE COUNTY CLUB

On Wednesday, Nov. 26, the Roane County Club met to consider the question of securing space in the Chilhowean, and to discuss other activities. The Club's officers displayed much enthusiasm and interest in their organization, but were greatly hampered by lack of proper co-operation on the part of the membership. Attendance at the meeting seems to be shrinking rather than increasing, and unless a radical change come soon the Roane County Club cannot be what it might easily be, the livest organization on the Hill. Is the wide awake booster spirit of Harriman and Rockwood citizens going to fail them simply because they are in Maryville? Let all Roane Countians whether members or not, attend the next meeting and help put our grand old county in her proper place—the head of the list. WE CAN DO IT IF WE TRY.

WITH THE EXCHANGE AND AROUND THE CAMPUS

The Glee Club and Orchestra of Wake Forest College have just completed successfully their annual trip through North Carolina and South Carolina. Splendid audiences heard the boys in every town they visited. Eight concerts in all were given.

The Translyvania Team won but two games this season—one from Wesleyan College and the other from Chattanooga. The scores for the year are as follows:

Transylvania	42,	Wesleyan C.	6
Transylvania	3,	University of Valparaiso	12
Transylvania	0,	Centre College	69
Transylvania	0,	Marshall College	20
Transylvania	0,	Georgetown	20
Transylvania		Chattanooga

The games that the team lost were played against very good elevens.

A grapefruit is a lemon that had a chance and took advantage of it

---

The University of Tennessee closed her football season by losing to Kentucky State 13 to 0. The record of Tennessee is three games won; three tied, and three lost. The teams it won from are: Tusculum, Cincinnati, and Maryville. It tied, Vanderbilt, North Carolina and South Carolina. It lost to Clemson, Mississippi A. & M. and Kentucky State. The team did not show up as well as Knoxville said she would as Cincinnati was the only big team beaten and needless to say, Tennessee had to fight against Tusculum and Maryville.

South Carolina, Florida and Tennessee are to have a tri-angular debate. The debates will be held on the third Friday night in March. The question to be debated is: "Resolved, That Boards of Arbitration With Compulsory Powers Should be Established to Settle Disputes Between Organized Labor and Capital."

Basketball practice is re-placing football practice at U. T. A big season is predicted.

University of Virginia: Night schools are being held by the Y. M. C. A. of the University at the mills in the town. Stress is being laid on the three "Rs", reading, writing and arithmetic. All the classes are under the supervision of University students who have volunteered for this work. This is a step to be commended. Other colleges and universities should follow suit and help the helpless in their towns.

ALLIGATOR FAMILY HAS PARTY

On last Thursday evening, at 7:00 p. m. the Alligator Family had its party in Baldwin parlors. Excellent entertainment was afforded by "Tex" Middleton on the piano while "Bill" Montgomery accompanied on the violin. At 7:00 o'clock the eats were served; "Red" Hayes was the shining star in this feature of the entertainment, breaking all records by eating from 7:00 to 8:30 without so much as looking or taking a breath. This is not as unusual as it may at first seem, when the eats are taken into consideration: delicious devil's food cake, attractive angel's food cake, classy chicken salad, tantalizing turkey, luxuriant layer cake, fascinating fudge and heavenly hot chocolate composed only a small part of the menu.

Those who enjoyed this party were Nannette Walker, Catherine and Mary Ridgeway, Marjorie Lloyd, Ruth Newton, Elsie Dawson, Ruth Greenlee, Bunnie Abbott, Vivian Rochester, Mary Denney, "Red" Hayes, Fred Cagle, George Callahan, Porter Turner, James Brown, James Hendricks, Bill Cox. "Tex" Middleton, Bill Montgomery and Percy Buchanan.

WHAT IS THE GLEE CLUB?

For several weeks, many of the students who are and who are not connected with the Glee Club have heard the question, "Are you going to Glee Club practice?" Of course, the students, of which I am one, who are not connected with the Club have no aversion to it, but they are not affiliated with the organization merely because they cannot sing. So the Glee Club must be a meeting. Every organization should have some purpose. The Glee Club evidently has a purpose. Perhaps it is to cultivate the men's voices—which in itself is a great, grand and glorious goal that should be striven for. But with this accomplished what is to be done next?

Several of our colleges of the South have Glee Clubs, the members of which endeavor to entertain and in their own way, to instruct people. To date our organization has done little in the lines of entertainment or instruction. Two weeks remain in our fall term and nothing has, as yet, been actually done in the way of exhibiting the Glee Club's ability.

Perhaps the objection to having an entertainment in chapel is that there are at present too many things going on without the additional concerts which the Glee Club could give. Grant that, but this can be improved. But why have a Glee Club then? In our sister colleges the organizations are helping to entertain people beyond their own neighborhoods; the pleasure of extending services is not the only benefit, but at the same time the Glee Clubs are advertising their respective colleges. We should feel confident that Maryville should have a Glee Club that will do some constructive boosting, not only in this locality but also throughout the surrounding states. And this can be done if the Glee Club ACTS and acts immediatley.

PROFESSOR BASSETT ENTERTAINS

Last Mnday evening members of that famous first year Greek class were seen meandering out toward the beautiful and spacious home of Professor Bassett. When the roll was called and all found to be present, the host then proceeded to relate some of his experiences while traveling in Italy and Sicily. He also showed us many beautiful views, making us wish that we could take a trip to that far away land.

When our minds had again returned to our surroundings, some humorous contests were engaged in.

Then, after the fun-making was over, delicious refreshments were served. By that time the hour was getting late so we bade our host goodnight and the procession of moonshiners moved slowly as if to the music of a funeral march (only the sadness of that occasion was entirely lacking) back to the dormitories and then to dreamland where visions of Italy were vividly displayed.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The Chemistry Club held its first meeting last Friday. The chief purpose of this meeting was to organize, and to consider plans for making the club a worthwhile organization.

Immediately after the meeting had been called to order, the officers for the year were elected, the following were chosen: Ray Foster president; Hillary Park, vice-president; Chester Osborne, secretary and treasurer; Frank S. Minarik program secretary; Oscar Stanton, editor.

A brief business discussion followed the election of officers. It was decided to dispense with a constitution until a future date, at which time it is hoped that the club will have definite plans layed out for a working basis. It was also decided at this meeting that the club shall hold its meetings on the first Wednesday of each month. The next meeting will be held January 7, 1920.

Do not take life too seriously, you will never get out of it alive.

VESPERS

Spiritual Things Are Spiritually Discussed.

The Vesper service was devoted to things spiritual. First Corinthians 2:14 was made the searching question of how one may discern spiritual things. Men are ranked in the scale of life according to their several capacities. The capacity to apprehend comes through feelings. But some men are not susceptable to finer senses as music or art, or to have a perception of beauty. They are not in touch with them—to understand their secrets one must penetrate the heart, for the secret of truth is locked there.

Spiritual things are only spiritually discerned. The natural man knows only the things he comes in contact with as far as he has gone. That is the reason the irreligious man is not interested in the Bible, the spirit of God is necessary to understand it,—to understand it, is to spiritually discern it. Men only understand the natural world as they enter the spirit of it and this is also true of the Bible. It is a book for prepared minds. One cannot discern spiritual things through the material. Argument, Philosophy, Science and Music do not reveal the spiritual—it must be in things wholly spiritual. This truth is like the icebergs of the Artic regions which as they float southward driven by the cold under currents, are assailed by the warm currents of the surface. Christianity is the spiritual current in life which is assailed by every current, yet it has triumphed over every force.

"In what way is Dean Barne's head like Heaven?"

"Law, I don't know."

"It's all bright and shiny and there is no parting there."

Hey, Jack, why do you wear your stockings wrong side out?
There's a hole on the other side.

A pair in a hammock,
Attempted to kiss,
And in less than a jiffy,
They landed like this.

PALACE THEATRE PROGRAM FOR DEC. 3 TO 10

THURSDAY—

Shirley Mason in "THE RESCUING ANGEL". She had only said those solemn words "Love, honor and obey" just a few hours before, and now she is receiving and even allowing young men to make love to her. She has kept her marriage a secret. Why? Mack Sennett Comedy, "TRYING TO GET ALONG".

FRIDAY—

John Barrymore in "THE TEST OF HONOR". If you like to be in suspense see one of the most trying situations a man can possibly get into. Don't miss this picture. The court scenes, the trial and the verdict all will make you just cringe with sympathy for the innocent one who is being condemned. Also a good comedy.

SATURDAY—

A special feature attraction "BACK TO GOD'S COUNTRY". In this picture are shown 16 different varieties of wild animals, most of the scenes were photographed in the ice fields of the Artic, north of the 56 Parallel where the temperature was 60 degrees below zero. The most wonderful scenery effects ever attempted in the cinema world will be seen in this super-attraction. "Bound and Gagged", a serial. News Reel.

MONDAY—

A special feature the title of which will be announced later. "Smashing Barries", the serial with a thousand surprises. A Vitagraph comedy, one of the best.

TUESDAY—

A special "JUBILO", something new and entertaining in the Movies. A story that you will like, a picture you will long remember. Pete Morrison Western, always good.

WEDNESDAY—

Look little Marguerite Clark in "LET'S ELOPE". Elope, just the thing, let's pack up. Call a car. Have you phoned the Reverend? Yes, she wanted to elope, but her 'husband' objected. In fact he—it's funny, it's great. Don't you dare to miss it. Also a Lyons-Moran Comedy.

RESUME OF THE FOOTBALL SEASON AND GAMES GIVEN

favorite for the game, being picked to win by various scores ranging from 20 to 60 points, and not only the football team but also the college received a great amount of publicity by this game. Oglethorpe only plays one game in Atlanta each year and as Maryville gave them their longest trip this year it seems that Maryville should be able to arrange to play in Atlanta next season. As the game will be played on Georgia Tech's campus the full Atlanta attendance would turn out, and of course the contest would have big write-ups in the Atlanta papers.

The Thanksgiving Day game with Tusculum was attended by football enthusiasts from all East Tennessee and was proclaimed by many as the best game they had ever witnessed. We can still boost of having never been defeated in football by Tusculum, although the game last Thursday was the second even break between the two rival aggregations.

This year has seen the development of much unusually good material and will see the passing of three excellent football men, Captain James, Manager McLaughlin, and quarterback Wesibecker. Captain James directed the team with accuracy and played his guard consistently. His experience and judgment were decided features in the success of our team. Manager McLaughlin played extraordinary football and was a tower of strength to the line. He has the unique distinction of being the only man on the team to play in every quarter of every game, which is surely a remarkable tribute to his playing. At quarterback Weisbecker proved his merit. He ran the team in great shape and showed to special advantage in the last two games of the season. His gains and interference were especially effective in the game with Tusculum.

At tackles two men consistently held down the positions the whole year, Ford and Johnson. Ford was always full of pep and usually took care of two men. His tackling and blocking was a feature of the game with U. T. Johnson on the other side possessed the necessary requirements of size, charging and bean power which made his part of the line very strong indeed.

Sullivan at guard was a new man who developed wonderfully until he became indispensable. He always worked hard and in the game with Oglethorpe broke through the line time after time and threw his opponents for considerable losses. Cullis and Moore, also new men, showed great versatility in play. Moore starred in the game with Cumberland while Cullis showed up especially well in the Thanksgiving game. They were both fast on foot and had the knack of hanging on to forward passes, which are the greatest requirements of wingmen.

The backfield has played extraordinary football, due to our big superior fullback and our four halfbacks, which were almost equally matched in their ability to gain ground. Jellicorse deserves the honor for having been the best all-around man on the team. He threw passes, skirted the ends, bucked the line, punted, and kicked goals like the veteran he is. We were very forunate indeed in having such a man as Jellicorse here this year. E. Cullis and Wagner displayed flashes of brilliant broken field running. Cullis also showed some of his brother's ability in catching forward passes and Wagner had a mania for intercepting passes. Cotton and Davidson specialized on line plunges and they yere past masters of the art. They were there with the goods all the time and were shining stars when it came to cross bucks. Cotton played his best in the Georgetown game and Davidson showed up extraordinarily well in the game with Emory and Henry.

With eight of the varsity eligible to return next year, Maryville should have a nucleus around which to build a champion team for the season of 1920.

FRESHMAN GIRLS ENTERTAIN BAINONIANS

The fact that the program was to be given by the Freshman girls caused a little thrill of expectancy to the Bainonian girls Saturday night. Everyone was anxious to see what kind of talent the verbant Freshmen would display or if true to the tradition of their renowned class they would pull off some wild stunt. It might be stated here that they did both. There was much excitement in the audience until Miss Florence Leonard quieted all with one of her beautiful piano solos.

After she replied to the hearty encore she received the curtain was drawn and then much to the surprise of all, sat—not the Freshmen but the Seniors girls! Probably, if it had not been for a few smothered "ohs" and other shrieks that came from some of the Seniors, the rest of the audience would never have known the difference. So cleverly were the seniors represented by the Freshmen. Many of the secrets which the Seniors thought no one knew were revealed by the observant Freshmen. In "A Glimpse into the Future" many startling announcements were made, the most noteworthy of which, and one that concerns the whole school is the fact that twenty years from hence the time honored positions of Miss Caldwell and Miss Jackson will be usurped by none other than the designing creatures Misses Helen Lewis and Jessie Creswell, and that the O. F. U. M. organization will have achieved its purpose.

Everyone seemed to enjoy the program and every one, possibly with the exception of a few Seniors, wish the Freshmen would get up another program.

ALPHA SIGMA

The Alpha Sigma program for Nov. 29 was opened by a reading from Paul Lawrence Dunbar by Mr. McClure, which was of such excellence that he was encored. Following the readings was a debate; "Resolved; that Immigration should be prohibited for three years", the affirmative upheld by Mr. Henry Cox and the negative by Mr. Chester Osborne. The decision of the judges was in favor of the affirmative. The society then enjoyed a real treat in the form of a speech by Mr. Cullis on the desirable features of Maryville College in which the good points of our institution were set forth in a convincing and attractive way. The program was closed by a speech from Mr. Briggs, a graduate of the class of '19 and an old Alpha Sigma, whose remarks were well received by the society.

M'S. AWARDED AND OFFICERS ELECTED

At a meeting of the Athletic Board of Control on Tuesday, the following men were awarded the honor of wearing the football M and monogram.

Football M.	Monogram
A. Cullis	J. Hendrix
M. Johnson	A. Weincoop
J. Sullinvan	L. Beane
F. McLaughlin	C. McLaughlin
E. K. James, (capt.)	G. Myers
H. Ford	C. McCullough
E. Moore	G. Callahan
H. Weisbecker	M. Avison
J. Cotton	P. Buchanan
E. Cullis	L. Middleton
E. Jellicorse	O. Beck
H. Wagner	S. Hicks
L. Davidson

Meade Johnson was elected Manager of football for 1920.

Miss Lucile Middleton and Mr. Lee Roy Middleton were elected girls' and boys' tennis managers, respectfully for the 1920 season.

George Callahan was the Board's choice for this year's track manager.

At a meeting of the Varsity on Tuesday evening Jellicorse was elected Captain of the 1920 aggregation by a large majority.

"Y" SECRETARY LEADS CHAPEL

Wednesday morning the usual chapel exercises were led by Mr. Harry Comer, a state "Y" Secretary. After reading the twelfth chapter of Romans he delivered a very interesting address on "The Times are Pressing".

The address was an appeal to college men to train themselves for service. There was once a time when the problem of congested population was solved by imigration westward. Man has reached the startling point which was the Pacific ocean and now instead of thousands of years ago the problem must be solved. This problem is not to be solved permanently by the peace league or any other conference similar to it. The real solution is "Brotherly Love."

The college students who compose only one and three-fourths per cent of the population must train themselves for a life of service. One should not live as an animal that simply feeds its own body and supplies food and a shelter for its family. We are no better than an animal unless we live a life of service.

ANNUAL STAFF IS WORKING

The annual staff has been complete for some time, and each member of it is hard at work on his own particular job; but no amount of labor on the part of the staff will make this year's book a complete success unless each and every individual on the hill willingly co-operates with it. Get the idea out of your heads that the annual is merely an institution of the Junior Class, designed primarily to rob your pocketbook, and make you undergo the tortures of the photographer; instead, try to realize that it is your book, it represents you, and upon you depends its failure or its success. So when demands are made of you, comply with them cheerfully, and with alacrity, and you'll some day be the proud possessor of the finest annual going.

JUNIOR Y. W. C. A.

We were fortunate in having with us this week-end, Miss Emma Jones, a traveling secretary of the Junior Y. W. C. A.

Miss Jones gave the cabinet members an interesting and inspiring talk Sunday morning. She sketched the place that the ideal Y. W. C. A. should hold on the college campus—and every effort is going to be made to bring our Y. W. up to these standards.

In her address to the Junior Y. W. that afternoon, Miss Jones used as her topic, Dreams.

In a friendly little talk she spoke to us about the place our day dreams should hold in our lives. Don't be afraid to place your dreams too high, yet be sure and have them attached to the ground. Would we be ashamed to have people read our dreams? What we dream, in later life will be what we are.

SOMETHING THE CHOIR ENJOYS

One of the strongest orginizations on the Hill is the Vesper Choir which adds so delightfully to the Sunday evening Vesper service.

The aesthetic affect of this service is greatly brightened by the beautiful processional and recessional of the fifty vested singers who under the leadership of Miss Hale and Miss Gregg contribute, also the pleasing chants, responses and anthems which have helped make this Sunday service so enjoyable.

The choir is this year unusually large and has given enthusiastic support to the service.

As an expression of their appreciation, Dr. and Mrs. Stevnson at their lovely House in the Woods, entertained the members of this organization in a truly delightful manner.

The scheme of entertainment, previously arranged by a committee provided for the purpose, was indeed a credit to those who so successfully planned the social part of the program.

Very delicious refreshments were served and when the choir left it with hearts full of appreciation for the delightful evening given them by Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson, and a pledge was unanimously taken to continue to support the musical part of the Sunday evening Vesper services.

PERSONALS

Miss Mary Patton and Miss Emily Fowler have as their guests Miss Nealy Avery and Miss Agnes Robinson. Miss Avery was a student here last year.

Mrs. John Webb entertained with a party on Friday afternoon for Miss Louise Pugh the guest of Miss Eunice Taylor.

Miss Callie Speck is visiting the Misses Copeland.

Miss Anne Samsel has as her guest, her sister.

Miss Billy McKeener and Miss Ruth Kain spent Thanksgiving with Misses Ruth and Helen Tedford.

Miss Jenny Montgomery and Miss Catherine Wilson spent Wednesday night at Mrs. Crawford's.

Miss Clara Browning and Miss Postlethwaite went horsebackriding Thanksgiving.

Miss Valle Higginbotham has returned to the hall after a short stay in the hospital.

Miss Elizabeth Parham of Harriman, Tenn., has been the guest of her sister, Miss Ruth Parham, during the week-end.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

Do the young theologians of Maryville College ever have a chance to do any real service for the Master? It is all owing to the interest that a fellow shows in such things and whether he takes advantage of those opportunities that are thrown out to him.

Some real good work has been done around Maryville by some of the young "sky-pilots". Several fellows have preached their first sermons over at Battle Branch Mission, where services are held on each Sunday evening and Sunday School in the afternoon. This mission is really under the care of the Ministerial Association and several fellows help either in the singing or teaching. But this is not the only work, for services are often held in the city jail on Sunday afternoon. Here is a splendid opportunity for personal work. Also three of the fellows have charge of a Sunday School out at Union school-house.

Listen fellows! We want each everyone of you who feel that call for the Gospel Ministry to join in with us. Let's do real things for the Master.

STUDENT'S PRAYER

VOLUME FIVE — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1919. — NUMBER THIRTEEN

ALPHA SIGMAS PRESENT "THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

PLAY IS WELL ADAPTED TO THE CONDITIONS IN OUR NATION. AN APPEAL IS MADE TO PATRIOTIC CITIZENS TO UPHOLD THE FLAG AND HONOR OF THEIR COUNTRY.

Now when we are continually hearing the boasts of radicals of all kinds that they have no country but are citizens of the world, it is very fitting indeed that our boys' literary societies should present such thrilling plays as "Abraham Lincoln" and "The Man Without a Country". The Alpha Sigmas presented the latter Monday night. Their Mid-Winter Committee deserves great credit for having selected a play so appropriate to the times and so well suited to those who took the parts. The whole committee showed remarkable ingenuity in the use of stage scenery, making the chapel platform look not only like army headquarters in 1807, but exactly like a ship—a sailing vessel at that.

The play as written by Elizabeth McFadden and Agnes Cummins introduces Everett Hale's story by means of a prologue, the scene of which is laid at a recruiting station for the United States army at some time during the late world war. As the curtains are drawn, the recruiting officer (allias J. Paul Barker) is enlisting a typical, enthusiastic volunteer (Hammond Fowler, Junior) when the slacker, the flag vender, and an old man enter. Each expresses his opinion of the war. It was hard to realize that the old man was just Chester Osborne, the trench shark, so good was his make-up and so well had he entered into the spirit of the old-manhood of America, too old to fight but anxious to support the army and do all they could for the cause. A stranger would have been sure that a real Italian was trying to sell those flags, but the audience by means of the program, assured itself that in reality it was only our dignified Zalton Szilagyi. His brogue, dress, manners, in fact his entire behavior was typically Italian. Howard McGrath did the part of the slacker to perfection. He was indifferent, disguested, materialistic, pacifist, in fact, it would be hard to find a slacker characteristic which he did not exhibit. As one of the spectators said, "He was the toughest thing I ever saw." He certainly did his part well.

The recruiting officer takes this man who cares absolutely nothing about the United States (or thinks he does) to see what happened to a man without a country.

The first act of the play proper takes place in the Administration building at Fort Adams, Mississippi in September 1807, where Lieut. Phillip Nolon is tried for disloyalty to the United States and sentenced to have his wish, that he may never hear of the United States again, fulfilled. Frank Cody as Col. Morgan was good, one would have thought he had been commanding men all of his life from the confident way in which he gave his orders. Porter Turner who took the part of Major Spence waxed eloquent in his sympathetic defense of the daring, excitable, sullen boy.

Jarvis Cotton, as Lieut. Col. Henry, could see only treason in Nolon's conduct and wanted it punished. As usual he was the life of the thing. Stacey Howell and James Jackson did Capt. Dayton and Lieut. McLean well, so well that some persons at least were heard asking where they had known those gentlemen. Oscar Stanton, of course was Lieut. Jack Kingsley, the prosecutor. He was a credit to his office as president of both the Law Club and the Forensic League. George Callahan starred as Lieut. Richard Dent, the unwilling witness against Nolon. William Montgomery was a brave young scout, but he played "The Alabama Lullabye" when he should have been chasing Indians.

The second and third acts took place on board "The Warner". As most of those taking part in it are ex-sailors, it was quite realistic. Homer Weisbecker as Singing Joe the able seaman, was a kind hearted fellow, happy-go-lucky, tactless, and yet strangely sympathetic with the lonely Mr. Nolon. A. W. Cullis, Phil Sheffey and Fred Cagle as Lieutenants Trueton, Morris and Phillips respectively, behaved in a manner which would have been a credit to those Lieutenants themselves.

Horace Brown and J. Morgan Cox as Lieut. Dansforth and Capt. Shaw were energetic officers, ready for every situation. Sam Hall's presentation of Harry Cole was snappy and realistic. Kidder and Howard typical sailors.

Ernest K. James deserves great credit for his sympatheic interpretation of Phillip Nolon's life, his angry, defiant mood in which he cursed the United States, his bitter repentence, the patient, humble way in which he bore his terrible punishment, his pride which made him always appear cheerful and happy in the presence of others, and especially the passionate love which he really had for the United States and his anxiety lest others should fail to appreciate her as he once failed. His warning to Lieut. Dansforth will long be remembered by all who heard it—"Never do anything that will separate you and your family, your country and your God, if you are tempted to, pray God that you may die rather than yield." Mr. James possesses the rare ability of keeping pathos from degenerating into bathos.

The sea fight was quite thrilling —thought little of it was seen, the noise of it was very distinctly heard.

The music was presented by the Theta-Alpha Sigma Orchestra, directed by Miss Vivian Hall and Mr. William Montgomery.

Both boys' literary societies are to be congratulated on having presented two such interesting,entertaining and instructive evenings, and on having chosen plays whose lessons are so needed today by all classes. It is indeed fitting that the first mid-winters after the war should be, "The Man Without a Country" and "Abraham Lincoln."

There will be two basketball games Friday. The girls' team from Cumberland University will play the girls and the Maryville City team which is composed of former stars of Maryville College versus the boys' squad.

HIGHLANDERS OUTPLAY ORANGE AND BLUE

New Material Very Promising.

The boys' basketball squad started the season off with a rush by winning the initial game from Carson and Newman on last Friday evening. Evidently Coach Feeman was still thinking of football when he used eleven men in piling up a score of 45 against the visitor's 19.

The eleven men showed up remarkably well and each proved his basketball ability to be of the highest caliber. The fans who are especial supporters and enthusiasts of this indoor branch of athletics were greatly pleased with the auspicious beginning made on Friday evening. Maryville undoubtedly has the largest amount of promising basket-ball material than ever before. From an aggregation of eleven or twelve men of almost equal ability Coach Feeman will have the difficult task of selecting and training a varsity of five.

Brown and Wagner at forwards showed up in their old-time form and it is evident that they will be the mainstays of the team. Hendrix and McCall also demonstrated exceptional skill in passing and shooting. Hendrix especially won high recognition in Friday's contest and he deserves a place among the stellar variety.

Cotton, whose playing last season was of wide renown, is back with the same old fighting spirit, and, although Friday seemed to be his "off-day", there is no doubt but that a little practice will restore him to his old-time unrivalled form. Moore and McCullough are also two men who gave good account of themselves on Friday evening, and, owing to their height and jumping ability, are promising candidates for the center position.

Montgomery, Davidson, and Cullis, held down the guard positions in paramount style. Davidson was a member of a Maryville quintet in pre-war days and his playing on Friday bore evidence to this fact. His playing was stamped with the mark of experience. The man who among the new material loomed highest was Montgomery. His fast floor-work won many favorable comments from the spectators. Cullis displayed some of the dash and snap that marked his 1919 football career. Cullis is always there with the goods when it comes to spirit and pep.

With the abundant top-notch variety of basketball material on hand Maryville should be able to turn out a champion team. We are anticipating a repetition of the performance of 1917 when the Highlanders defeated U. T. 21 to 13! !

The schedule so far as it has been completed is as follows:

Dec. 5, Carson and Newman at Maryville.

Dec. 12, Johnson Bible College at Maryville.

Jan. 9, Tusculum at Maryville.

Jan 20, Center College at Danville, Kentucky.

Jan. 21, Transylvania at Lexington, Kentucky.

Jan. 22, Georgetown at Georgetown, Kentucky.

Jan. 23, Kentucky State at Lexington, Kentucky.

Feb. 12, Translyvania at Maryville.

Feb. 20, Center College at Maryville.

March 5, Georgetown at Maryville.

BROOKS FLETCHER SPEAKS ON "THE MARTYRDOM OF FOOLS"

NOTED ORATOR MAKES THIRD APPEARANCE ON LYCEUM BUREAU IN FOUR YEARS. THE INTEREST OF THE AUDIENCE IS HELD THRUOUT THE EVENING. MUST PAY FOR WHAT YOU GET IS THEME.

Wednesday evening Thomas Brooks Fletcher appeared in Voorhees chapel as a number on the lyceum course. He came before the audience as a number, but he left as a man with a personality long to be remembered. This was his third appearance on the college lyceum course, the first being four and the second three years ago. At his first appearance he gave his lecture The Modern Judas, at the second The Tragedy of the Unprepared. At each of these he proved to be the most popular of all numbers on the course, and it seems that his third appearance was no exception to the rule.

His subject of the evening was The Martyrdom of Fools. At all times Mr. Fletcher had complete control of the audience, swaying them at his will. His knowledge of crowd-psycology seems to be perfect, for not once did the attention of the audience leave him. He caught the mind of the crowd and put into it one idea, and that was to listen. At times the house was so quiet the clock on the wall could be heard ticking, at others it was filled with ripples of laughter. There were no loud outbursts of applause which begin with one person and spreads over the audience, but all the applauding was spontaneous; it started not in spots but everywhere.

The way the lecture was developed showed a wide knowledge of psychology. The mind of the crowd was not held so long on any one point that interest flaged. Word pictures were painted in such a realistic manner that the scenes described could be almost seen. Characters were acted in such a realistic manner that the lecturer seemed to be not himself but the character he was acting. He seemed to hold the audience in a hypnotic trance and to make them see as he wished and to do as he wished. He effectively used all devices known to the orator to hold the attention of the audience, but his main devise seemed to be the use of epigrams. These punctuated his lecture, coming at just the right time to relieve the tension.

Epigrams from Lecture

We depend upon our memories for our convictions. What student was ever graded for thinking?

Most great things are paid for by the man who advocates them—generally paid for by a ripped out heart.

What church would Jesus preach at if he came to earth? Which one would he join?

You cannot change people until you change people's minds.

I am glad that the girl of today does not have to marry the first biped boob who comes along.

If you have not been the leader of some cause against the world as it is for the world as it should be, you have no idea how far prejudice and plutocracy will go to discredit you.

The greatest tragedy of greatness is lonesomeness.

All students should study Psychology, Political Economy and Sociology and History. Preachers of today should study these instead of Theology, for theology is principally a matter of imagination.

We look like what we think.

Everything we do looks like what we are.

We become that thing about which we think most.

There is only one way to get an education, and that is to remember that you came to school to get something. Do not ride through on bluff, for bluff will not go in the world.

We are the product of our environment.

It is bound to occur. What has been said about a dog's tail being bound to occur.

It takes a great big bump to break us of our fool ways.

There are two ways of escaping from our fool ideas. One is to kill them, the other is to exert will power and break away from them.

REV. ROBERT JONES MISSIONARY TO SIAM SPEAKS

The chapel service Thursday morning was lead by a graduate and former professor of the college, Rev. Robert Jones. Rev. Jones has been a missionary to Siam for a number of years and brings greetings from four other missionaries who were former students here.

On account of the large increase of students in college this year a larger number of professors are needed. Rev. Robert Jones will be a member of the faculty next term.

SNAPSHOTS WANTED

Just now an opportunity is being given the students and faculty to contribute snap-shots for the annual. A box has been placed in Anderson Hall and it is hoped that those who have good, clear snaps of hikes, sports, parades, campus scenes and other pictures of interest, will contribute them to this collection.

Please look through your pictures, select those which you would like to see in our annual, write your name on the back if you wish the prints returned and drop them in the box. This is to be your annual and now is your chance to help make it a good one. Don't delay, but drop your pictures in now and give the editors an opportunity to arrange them at an early date.

MUSICAL SERVICE

The Y. W. service Sunday was given with Miss Ruth Newton, the music chairman in charge. After the opening prayer, Miss Helen Park played a piano solo, this was followed by the scripture lesson in the form of a reading by Miss Irovia Corry. The vocal music consisted of a solo by Miss Jewel Stevens, and a number by the Brown-Gamble quartette. A sweet and touching little story entitled, "Each in Its Own Tongue" was read by Miss Jessie Creswell. A violin solo was given by Miss Lucile Thorpe. Next Sunday there will be a Christmas service. Let's have a good attendance.

Miss Louvetta Bunch of Knoxville spent the week-end with Miss Ruth Winton and Miss Dorothy Evans.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR TO YOU

This is the last issue of the Highland Echo this year. Many great things have happened; many altogether new things have occurred. The college has just passed through one of the most successful terms in its history. But the greatest term is yet to come.

Next term, with a champion basketball team, a larger enrollment and a student body that has grasped the Maryville spirit should be a term to look forward to.

REV. WM. T. BARTLETT LEADS CHAPEL

Thursday morning the students were given a very pleasant surprise, in that Rev. William T. Bartlett who lead the February meeting four years ago, was present at chapel and talked away the first class period.

Rev. Bartlett is very intimate with the customs and habits on the Hill. Arrangements had been made for a visit the week before but as he was aware of the fact that the "Review of Reviews" always follows a turkey dinner he decided to wait until something more appetizing would be served. Two other reasons for not coming sooner were, that we had been disappointed in our Thanksgiving game. And, as he has been here so often, he had nothing to say.

Maryville is certainly growing for the speakers have to use the telephone wires to reach all of the students. The moonshiners are increasing for they are so thick on Monday afternoon that one would think they were rabbits.

After a humorous discourse of a few minutes Rev. Bartlett spoke of "The Present Crisis", and showed the necessity for college students to study the problems which are before the nation, for these problems must be solved.

Y. M. C. A. NEXT SUNDAY

CHRISTMAS will be the subject for an open discussion at the "Y" next Sunday.

Come and contribute something to the meeting. Give us some of your ideas concerning Christmas. Let us make the last meeting of the term one to be remembered.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER BAND

Professor Hunter Speaks On England and Evolution.

Last Friday evening Professor Hunter lead an unusually interesting discussion of the present industrial changes taking place in England. As Americans we are apt to overlook England as far as real activity and change are concerned. More wonderful growth has taken place in England during the last few months than has taken place in other nations after years of bloody revolutions. What has come through revolution in other lands has come through evolution in England. Present changes are the natural outgrowth of a growing, thinking people. Labor and capital have come to the same clash there as elsewhere but a calm reasonry has brought to England a solution to be found after a more painful process in our own land.

It is only through a rather comprehensive, yet brief glimpse, of conditions in different countries that a broad view of world conditions and hence world needs can be obtained. An hour every Friday evening is given over to this.

The hour is open to all. Next Friday, December 12, the discussion will be on Italian problems.

PROF. PURDY SPEAKS TO JUNIOR ALPHA SIGMAS

The Junior Alpha Sigmas held their regular meeting Saturday night. A very interesting program was given, consisting of a talk by Mr. Hargraves on the Mexican situation. Then Professor Purdy gave a very interesting talk on The Value of a College Education. He gave some very interesting and helpful thoughts which interested every one present.

This was followed by a parliamentary drill in which every one participated.

Then came the business meeting which consisted principally of election of new officers. The following were elected:

President - Edward Hargraves
Vice-President - - - - - - Sam Franklin, Jr.
Recording Secretary - - - - - Claude G. Large
Assistant Recording Secretary - - - - Verne Benfield
Program Secy. - Charles Maye
Treasurer - - - Frank Ribet
Editor - - Malcoln Miles

JUNIOR FORENSIC LEAGUE ORGANIZED

Enthusiasm for debate is much in evidence on the Hill. Men's Forensic, Women's Forensic, and last the Junior Forensic which is the greatest and biggest of all.

At the meeting held Saturday, December 6th., thirty-nine signified their intentions to carry the Preparatory Department to new honors.

A triangular debate is being arranged with Carson-Newman and Tusculum prep departments.

In order to carry out the work of the league, the following officers were elected:

President - Edward Hargraves
Vice-President - R. S. Queener
Secretary and Treasurer - - - - Sam Franklin, Jr.
Editor - - - C. G. Johnstone

A meeting was called Tuesday evening to conduct routine business.

Professor Ellis and Professor Hunter gave inspiring talks on the plans and purposes of the league. Arrangements were completed for the try-outs which will take place the last week in January.

LEADERSHIP

Speaker of The Afternoon at Y. M. C. A., F. D. Brown.

The speaker began by saying that if a personal friend of anyone should be elected to some high office or position of great responsibility, this person would naturally expect to receive an appointment from him to serve him and to be what we should say, his right hand man, that is if he was the best friend of the one who held the position. This was the case with the two sons of Zebedee, James and John. They were very intimate friends of Jesus so they asked him if one might sit upon his right hand and the other upon the left hand when he come into his kingdom. He told them that it was not his to give, but it was for them for whom it had been prepared of His Father. He also told them that whosoever would be great among them, should be their minister and whosoever should be first should be servant of all. Paul himself said that he was a bondservant of Jesus Christ and by his unselfishness he became servant of all whom he could possibly reach.

Dr. Usher had a chance to become famous in this country, but instead he chose to become a foreign missionary. As a foreign missionary he has become more than famous, he has led thousands into the light of Jesus Christ and has done a great work in Turkey during the recent war.

Fred Hope also was offered a good position in the North, but he preferred the mission field of the dark continent as his field for service. As a result he has established one of the greatest institutions in Africa.

Our own Dr. Wilson of Maryville College is also an excellent example of this same type of a man, of unselfish service.

Today men are needed, by the government, for leadership. The United States is nearer Bolshevism than ever before and is in almost as bad a state of affairs as Russia. The governmental affairs are a challenge to leadership. The conditions, which exist between capital and labor, demand leadership and a great amount of this depends upon us as sixty percent of the leaders are college men. Are YOU capable of bearing the responsibility of a leader in the great world problems of the day? If not, it is high time to prepare for preparedness pays.

"SKY PILOTS" LEAD PRAYER MEETING

The Ministerial Association made their annual debut on Thursday evening. They directed the attention of the audience to the great service—"The Call to Christian Service". They divided the subject in three parts as is the custom with preachers. Mr. Cody gave the call to the minister. He showed that Christ was the first great teacher and minister who led not in paths of least resistance but in the most difficult. The call to serve cannot be resisted; it is engrained in every nature. Nowhere is the opportunity to serve greater than in the church. To succeed a man must be a hustler—not a mollycoddle.

Mr. George Howell presented the call to the teacher. The call to teachers was as insistent as the call to preach. It is a life of service, noble and self-sacrificing, full of happiness and joy. The teacher is an ideal to the pupil so that he who would teach should be like the Great Teacher.

Mr. McGrath closed with the call to the layman. He showed that many laymen who followed Christ were so far behind as to be of no help, but rather a drag. When Christ gave his command it was definite; it included not only preachers and teachers, but laborers. It is the duty of every layman to do the work of Christ, to follow His example and to pray. Every layman needs Christ. Christ is adequate at any time and any place to all laymen. Every layman owes to every man what Christ is to him.

A boys' quartette rendered the special music.

VESPERS

The Vesper hour was devoted to a discussion of Christ's method in dealing with His followers. Christ spoke many different things which were necessary for the needs of the multitude. He discussed deep philosophic studies with philosophers; He told stories of remarkable simplicity to the children; He spoke words of comfort to the sorrowing; He spoke words of hope to those struggling against temptation;—He spoke biting, sharp, stinging words to the sinful.

To all the inquiries and questions Christ did not answer, but those which they would have need. It is the nature of the human mind to question, but religion has questions that cannot be answered. One thing has been made clear—the nature of goodness and that is sufficient. You cannot make a chart of truth, but this fact is unmistakably clear that the highway of life is marked and by religious truth.

When one of the disciples brought the question of how often he should forgive. Christ showed religion was not a matter of mathematical calculation, nor the fulfilling of stated ceremonials. True religion is not a bargaining with God; it is not the repeating of a certain number of prayers and to attend Sunday School and church each Sabbath day, and then, expect God to pour out a measure of His Goodness upon you. Love has nothing to do with bargaining.

Take another question in which the disciples wanted to know why they could not cast out the evil spirit. They had failed and wanted to know the reason.

That is the first step in success—acknowledge your failures. The church crawls today because men do not question their failures to do the program of the church. Christ pointed out that personal devotion and sacrifice was necessary—the real road to success is humble service. "I came to minister, not to be ministered unto." Men are received unto God by the number they serve, not by how many serve them.

ATHENIAN

The society met at the usual time and place. No program was provided, the occasion being the election of officers for the Winter term. The usual electioneering was evident and "Bill" Holmes drew the consolation office that of janitor. An excellent choice was made in J. Deyton for President. L. Herndon was the incumbent for vice president, while one by name of F. Green was elected to fill the bulletin board with his masterful genius that the society may be entertained. A. Johnson was appointed to keep the records in neat office like manner and H. Arnold and R. Ogan will inform the society of bad manners and slips of English of those who perform for the edification of society. At the close "Bill" Holmes held a meeting of his supporters and congratulated each one personally on the excellent stand they made on behalf of his candidature for office.

JUNIOR Y. W. C. A.

The Other Girl. What do we think of her, what does she think of us, and what are our actions toward her? This was the subject that Miss Mary Broady very interestingly developed last Sunday.

The three parts of the topic were spoken on by Miss Mattie Hodges, Miss Mildred Kimball and Miss Alice Andes. We find that far too often our feelings toward the other girl are merely indifferent ones, while we never stop to consider what she thinks of us. Our actions should be governed by the Golden Rule—that is an infallible test.

Next Sunday there is to be a joint Christmas meeting with the Senior Y. W. Juniors, be sure to come, as it is the last meeting of the year. An excellent program will be given.

PALACE PROGRAM

THURSDAY—

Jesse L. Lasky presents Bryant Washburn in "SOMETHING TO DO". He was utterly useless, he never did anything for himself or anyone else, but all of a sudden a desire to 'Do Something' overwhelmed him and believe me he got busy and had things moving in a mighty short while. Paramount Comedy "THE IMMOVABLE GUEST", full of fun.

FRIDAY—

Were you ever in a hurry and it seemed that you were losing all the while, even though you really were making good time? This is the way Wallace Reid felt in "THE ROARING ROAD". Speed? 112 miles an hour "Hell-bent-for Election". Two roads to cover one to the finishing point the other to the "girl". Did he make it? Don't miss the climax of this picture.

SATURDAY—

Fox Film Corporation presents George Walsh in "THE BEAST". It takes George Walsh to run Douglas Fairbanks a close race and believe us he almost does it too. In this picture Mr. Walsh takes a very difficult roll but you would never know it to see him playing his part. "News", and a good comedy. Bound and Gagged, the serial that is different.

MONDAY—

We will have a special attraction the title of which will be announced later on our screen. "Smashing Barriers" the serial with a thousand surprises, and a good comedy.

TUESDAY—

Another big feature will be the attraction today. A Pete Morrison western that is always good. A Ham and Bud Comedy.

The Princess Theatre

Will be open Saturday and Monday, with special feature attractions that will please.

HIGHLANDERS OUTPLAY ORANGE AND BLUE

Between January 26 and 30, U. T. at Knoxville.

Between Feb. 23 and 28, U. T. at Maryville.

The Carson and Newman team is no weak outfit by any means, but they just naturally lacked the stuff to put it over the Highlanders. They also were handicapped to some extent by the lack of practice. It is probable that a return game will be arranged with the Jefferson Countians and if so they will be given an opportunity to retaliate for this drubbing they received last Friday.

The line-up and score was as follows:

Carson & Newman		Maryville
Davis	g.	Davidson
Graham	g.	A. W. Cullis
King	c.	Cotton
Quillen	f.	Wagner
Gracy	f.	Brown

Substitutions: Montgomery for Davidson; Foster for Brown; Hendrix for Wagner; Moore for Cotton; McCall for Foster; McCullough for Moore; Davidson for Cullis; Wagner for McCall; Brown for Hendrix.

Kelly for Gracy.

Scores: Field Goals—Brown 5; Wagner 4; Hendrix 5; McCollough 4; Foster 1; Montgomery 1; Davis 3; King 2; Quillen 5; Gracy 1. Foul Goals:—Wagner 3. Score 45 to 22.

Referee, D. W. Proffitt of Maryville.

ANNALS OF SENIORS

Vol. 101 No. 7.

Certainly it rained! It nearly always does when the Seniors go out, but being used to rain they didn't mind. It seems that Weisbecker considered himself host as the party was in Bartlett Hall.

A person would hardly have thought the "undignified" crowd was composed of Seniors because such games as Lemon, Lemon; You Can't Make Me Laugh; Three Deep; Cross-Spelling, and Cross-questions and Silly Answers, occupied a large part of the evening. In the midst of the spelling match a sack of apples was emptied on the floor and there was one grand rush! From the balcony came a shower of plates and then Christmas nuts and candies were passed. A clean-up party was formed at ten and the gym was left in apple-pie order.

And while it can't be said that the "last party was the best" it can truthfully he said there was not another more enjoyed during the entire fall term.

BEWARE OF THE SUFFRAGETS

One of the best Suffrage League meetings of the year was held on Monday afternoon. A great many new members have recently joined the League and especially interesting programs are rendered at the meetings. A keen interest is being awakened in Suffrage as it is fast becoming the privilege and the duty of women to vote. In order that the women may vote intelligently and wisely, it is necessary that they study and consider the problems which they will be confronted with in the various elections.

The college woman will naturally be expected to lead the way in the solution of these problems. Thus it is the aim of the League to acquaint its members with the methods and principles of correct politics.

At the last meeting the following program was rendered by the new members:

Why I Joined the Suffrage League - - - - - Ethel Doctor
Piano Solo - - Elizabeth Whitlock
Discussion from the History of Women's Rights - Mamie Witherspoon
Vocal Duet - Margaret Newell and Josephine Hamilton
Open Discussion of Topics of the Day - - - - - - Everybody

A LEGEND

I sat beside my window one drowsy October day, a Morning Glory nodded his purple bugle there—, for autumn in Tennessee is but the summer's after-glow. I nodded with the flower, and dreamed as youth is wont to do. From out a wavering yellow mist so large it filled the garden, and from its velvet depths there played a merry waltz. The bell ceased to grow, the music stopped, and out tumbled a Brownie, all dressed in purple and gold, very old, very spry, and much bewrinkled. Nine little witches, gowned in darkness, trooped stiffly out and ranged behind him. He hopped to the edge, and while the witches played a dolorous air upon strange instruments, told this sad tale:

"Once in the dear Dead Days beyond Recall, there lived a Maiden Fair—, passing fair. She trod with stately step and slow the Village Green, wore her gowns with Sombre Air. The Moonlight of a Summer Eve she scorned, this Maid who Never Smiled; until one night a Handsome Lad she met, whose Witching Ways her Heart beguiled. Of sturdy frame and Samson locks, a lover brave and bold—, (Twas on the Corduroy they strolled) whispered Sweet Nothings in her ear. Her love transformed her very life. She Smiled, she Danced, she tripped the village green, she even cut chapel,—I swear!

"Alas! Her joy was as swift to leave as was the man who sat upon the Domicile of the Hornet. The Night before her was-to-have-been Wedding Day, three yellow Goblins stole into the village, and whispered strange warnings to the Handsome Youth. Next day dawned bright and early (as days so often do) but no Groom came to claim his Bride so fair,—passing fair. Then the maiden, very angry, seized her Hope Chest and threw it far beyond the clouds at midday—hurled it so far it never fell! Days passed, and the maiden was often heard to say, 'Oh where is my Wandering Chest tonight. My red chest with shining padlock?' Years passed on, (as years so often do) and ever the Hope Chest wandered, and ever the maiden wept, until her Countenance grew stern, and her Heart hard. The Maiden Fair—just passing fair—was now a Maid, a stern-visaged Amazon and heartless Suffragette. The Flood of Years rolled on, and ever the Maid rode high on its Crest, age but adding to her strength. Decades passed and left scarce an impress on that stern Countenance. Generations shuffled off this Mortal Coil, and still the Sad Maid lingered.

"Hope springs Eternal—and 'tis well to hope—for listen! One brisk Autumn Evening three yellow Goblins came to her home, and left the Hope Chest by the bed! Up rose the Maid—now passing old—first shoved the Goblins out, then clasped with loving arms her long lost Chest. And her Heart grew Mellow, she smiled a wondrous smile, and hied her away to buy some Pink Ribbons!"

(Between you and me, I doubt the Brownie's sincerity.)

TREATY REFERENDUM WILL BE TAKEN IN CHAPEL JANUARY THE THIRTEENTH

NEW PROFESSOR OF ENGLISH AND BIBLE

Rev. Horace E. Orr Becomes Member of Faculty.

A new professor has been added to the college roll, Professor Horace E. Orr, who will teach in both the English and the Bible department.

Professor Orr attended Arkansas Cumberland College, 1902-1903; Castle Heights School, Lebanon, Tenn., 1904-1905 and 1905-06; entered Maryville College September, 1907 and graduated June, 1912. Studied at Theological Seminary of Kentucky, 1912-13; graduated Lane Theological Seminary Cincinnati, 1915. A student Volunter while in College and Seminary; sought appointment to foreign field in 1915, was detained on account of health and accepted a pastorate in Northwest Missouri. Received appointment as foreign missionary in 1916 and attended the Missionary Conference in New York in June 1916, but was again detained on account of health. Later accepted pastorate at Normandy, Tenn., which position was resigned in order that the call to Maryville College might be accepted.

While in pastorate in Middle Tennessee, he was instrumental in securing the union of the Presbyteries of McMinnville and Columbia, Ala., into a new Presbytery known as Duck River and served as first Moderator of the new Presbytery. Organized the New Era Mvement in the Prebytery and promoted first New Era campaign by which benevoent offerings in churches were increased 55 percent in one year. Appointed to serve as County Supervisor for Bedford County, of Rural Survey under the Interchurch World Movement of America, this work however, was not completed, but resigned at time of resignation of pastorate.

BROWNING—JONES

A wedding of unusual interest to college students and alumni was solemnized December 24, at 8 p. m. when Miss Elizabeth Jane Jones, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Jones, of Maryville was married to Ensign Fletcher Worth Browning of Etowah, Tenn. The service was held at the home of the bride on Court stree.

The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of silver cloth trimmed with pearls and silver. The bridegroom wore full naval dress as he had just been discharged from the service. The ceremony was preceded by three solos sang by Robert Clemens.

BRITTAIN—OWEN

Tuesday evening, December 23rd. Miss Elizabeth Owen was joined in matrimony to Mr. James F. Brittain.

The bride and groom entered the parlor to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by Miss Mayme Gallaher. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Owen of Clinton, Tenn. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brittain of Maryville. The marriage took place at the bride's home.

Jim—Yes, they sometimes launder the soiled money at the treasury.

Jack—Can you tell me where they hang it out?

TWO MORE VICTORIES IN BASKETBALL

Boys' and Girls' Teams Win Decisive Victories.

On the evening of December 12th. on the local court, a double-header was played which added two more scalps to the Orange and Garnet warriors' already handsome collection.

The girls' quintet defeated the aggregation from Cumberland College of Williamsburg, Ky., in a somewhat one-sided but interesting contest. The versatile playing of Captain Bailey who caged 15 of Maryville's 19 points, and the fast work of R. Archer who scored all of Cumberland's 7 points, were subjest of much favorable comment by the spectators.

The line-up and score of the Co-ed game was as follows:

Maryville		Cumberland
B. Bailey	f.	R. Archer
E. Dawson	f.	J. Ellison
M. Lloyd	c.	B. Baker
C. Ingle	g.	Joe Ellison
A. Samsel	g.	K. Wright

Substitutions: Sugg for Bailey; Parham for Dawson; Headrix for Parham; C. Ridgeway for Ingle.

E. Ralston for Joe Ellison. Field goals: Bailey 6; Dawson 1; Parham 1; Archer 1. Foul goals: Bailey 3; Archer 5.

Score: M. C. 19; C. C. 7.

The boys' game was a fast and hard-fought contest beween the 1919 and 1920 M. C. varsity and a team made up of players who were members of M. C. varsities of former years, and who are now living in Maryville.

For a few minutes in the first half the town team was two points ahead of the Highlanders, but Cotton and Wagner came to the rescue and the half ended 14 to 12 in M. C.'s favor.

In the second half the Collegians started such a whirlwind rush that the Maryvillians were completely swept off their feet and the game ended 24 to 16 with victory in the Orange and Garnet camp.

The line-up and score was as follows:

College		Maryville
Wagner	f.	Smith
Cotton	f.	N. McCall
McCullogh	c.	Greer
Cullis	c.	Ellis
Montgomery	g.	Clemens

Substitutions: Brown for Cotton; Janivisky for Brown; Cotton for Janivisky; Moore for McCullogh; McCullogh for Moore; Avison for Cullis; Cullis for Avison; Davidson for Montgomery; Calahan for Davidson; Montgomery for Davidson; R. McCall for Brown.

Drake for Greer; Spraker for N. McCall.

Field goals: Wagner 2; Brown 2; Cotton 3; McCullogh 2; Smith 4; Clemens 2.

Foul goals: Wagner 4; Brown 1; McCullogh 3; Smith 2; Clemens 2.

NEW AND OLD

The new term has brought about many changes. Last term two members of this institution completed their college course. They were, Thomas McConnell of Maryville and Andrew Norgan of Philadelphia, Pa.

With the new year we find many new students among our number. Also several students of prewar days are with us again.

A few of these are Joel Georges, Tracy Knapp and Tommy Loft.

HOW ARE YOU GOING TO VOTE?

Each Student Will Be Given a Vote. Six Propositions To Be Presented.

The most important issue that has confronted the American people for many years is now before us. What shall we do with Germany? Shall we enter the League of Nations? These are questions which are of vital importance to every mortal being now living and to every mortal who will be living in future years.

Our forefathers fought for certain principles and many of the persons we see in our daily life are veterans of the World War. Are the ideals for which they fought to be cast aside?

What is the League of Nations, and will this league if formed bring about any change, any betterment of conditions for all classes and all peoples?

The average American knows little or nothing about the league of nations or what the dispute, which has caused so much trouble is about. It is the duty of every American citizen to study the treaty and league covenant, to be prepared to voice an opinion at any time as to whether the treaty or league or both are considered desirable.

A large percentage of the leaders of our nation today are college graduates. In the near future the boys and girls who are now in college will be the nation's leaders and perhaps a larger percentage than heretofore. If it is necessary for the ordinary citizen to study these problems what shall be the duty of the college student? Many people in the country and large cities do not have the opportunity to even obtain a copy of the treaty. Every student in Maryville College has and should take advantage of the opportunities to study the treaty, a copy of which may be found in the college library.

In order to promote the discussion of the treaty and league of nations among the colleges of the United States an inter-collegiate Treaty referendum is being conducted in all of the colleges in the United States. The referendum will be taken in this college January 13th. In the meantime the matter is being discussed in the four literary societies and Tuesday morning at the chapel hour several speeches will be delivered by members of the faculty explaining the various propositions which are to be voted on. They are as follows:

Proposition I.—I favor the ratification of the League Treaty, without amendments or servations.

Proposition II.—I am opposed to the ratification of the League and the Treaty in any form.

Proposition III.—I am in favor of the ratification of the Treaty and the League, but only with the specific reservations as voted by the majority of the Senate.

Proposition IV.—I favor any compromise on the reservations which will make possible immediate ratification of the Treaty and the League.

Proposition V.—I favor the Government proceeding to make peace with Germany at once and leaving the question of a League of Nations to be settled afterwards.

Proposition VI.—I favor a compromise on the reservations of such a character as will avoid the dan-

BIG ORATORICAL CONTEST APRIL 2

Who Will Be The Winner?

Some two months ago The Echo published an account of the organization of The Virginia-Tennessee-North Carolina Forensic League. Eight colleges; viz., Carson-Newman, Emory and Henry, Elon, Cumberland, Lincoln Memorial, Hampden-Sidney, Maryville and Tusculum, constitute the membership of the League. The big central event of this year for the new made organization will be an oratorical contest to be held at Tusculum on Friday, April 2. Each college is expected to have an orator in this contest.

The thing we are interested in is that Maryville send her very best available orator. All men of the college department are eligible. It is to be expected that a number will want to try out for this coveted position as a representative of the school. In order to determine the merits of these candidates it will, therefore, be necessary to have a preliminary contest. This preliminary will be held as late in February as is practicable, probably the 23rd.

Surely it will not be necessary to make any other public announcement than this. The orations are to be entirely original. They must be more than 1,000 and less than 1,500 words in length. They are to be judged by two distinct sets of judges; one judging on literary merit and the other judging on delivery. Arrangements are now under discussion which will provide a suitable prize for the winner of this contest. It will mean a great deal to Maryville to have this honor at this first of the League contests.

It will not be possible for the matter of entering this try-out to be taken up personally with each man in college, but will you not consider this personal to you, and will you not, within the week, give your name to Professor Hunter, the coach of the debate teams, or to Mr. Oscar Stanton, the president of the Forensic League, thus signifying your intention of entering the preliminary?

WHAT OUR ALUMNI ARE DOING

Maryville College is represented this quarter at the University of Chicago by nine former students and alumni. Their names and the departments in which they are registered are as follows: Ralph Hamilton, pre-medic; Charles Dawson, law; Horace Dawson, English and history; Hugh McCord, economics; Charles Taylor, mathematics; Alfred Biggs, medicine; Carl Lloyd, law; J. H. Turner, law; Harold Smith, pre-medic.

Horace Dawson left here last week for Formosa where he has a position with the Japanese government as head of the department of English in the Japanese government's normal school for teachers located in the largest city of that island.

A basketball game will be played Friday evening at Bartlett Hall. Maryville versus Johnson Bible College. Let everybody come out and support the teams.

SIAM MISSIONARY BECOMES PREP TEACHER

Rev. R. C. Jones New Mathematics Instructor.

Among the Faculty members who were former students of Maryville College is Reverend R. C. Jones. Mr. Jones graduated from this college in 1894; and during his career on College Hill he took an active part in athletics. Shortly after his graduation he taught one year in a public school of this State; then he accepted a position for one year 1896-97 with his Alma Mater. But Reverend Jones felt the call to enter the ministerial field, and consequently resigned to enter a theological seminary.

Reverend Jones entered the San Francisco Seminary from which institution he graduated. After he had graduated from the Seminary he decided to become a foreign missionary, and took up this work in Siam. His work in the foreign field was chiefly educational and evangelistic. After twenty years of service Reverend Jones has returned to America, and has located in Maryville.

At present Reverend Jones is preaching at a church near Maryville, and is also teaching mathematics in the Preparatory Department of Maryville College. The college is certainly glad to have Reverend Jones as one of its teachers, and he is assured the support of the entire student body.

FORENSIC LEAGUE

From all indications the new year will be one of the most prosperous years in the history of the Forensic League of Maryville College. The reasons for this prospective view are apparent. As a matter of course, it is evident that there is more and better material to chose our debaters from in times of peace and when conditions are normal than we have had during the past three years. Then too, many of our old debaters—James, Georges, Deyton, Holmes and Stanton, all having splendid records both in debating and public speaking, are back with us, and their presence and participation is not only an impetus toward the manifested interest, but also in strengthening our teams.

The question for the second preliminary is, Resolved: That immigration to the United States from all foreign countries should be prohibited until at least three years after the peace has been declared by the United States. The debates will take place on January 16th. and 17th., and each debater is allowed eight minutes for the constructive speech, and four minutes for the rebuttal. Below is the order and the list of the debators:

Jan. 16	Affirmative	Negative
1st. debator	J. Martin	M. Farmer
2nd. debator	J. Deyton	E. F. Cody
3rd. debator	H. Arnold,	J. M. Cox
4. debator	C. McClure,	F. D. Brown
5. debator	R. W. Ogan,	H. Wagner
6. debator	A. Johnson,	O. Stanton
Jan. 17	Affirmative	Negative
7. debator	H. Fowler,	R.A. Armstrong
8. debator	W. B. Holmes,	J. S. Georges
9. debator	H. E. Brown,	E. K. James
10. debator	P. Sheffey,	T. B. Vance
11. debator	G. P. Harris,	George B. Callahan
12. debator	F. S. Minarik,	C. Poe

OUR CAMPUS

Several years ago before the war came the campus of Maryville College was decorated with beautiful flower beds and cedar trees, the cinder paths were kept in order, and the college woods was considered to be a very valuable asset. But the war came and as first things were first, war and war commodities were all the one heard, spoke or thought of. At that time as it was more necessary to produce food than to keep a campus decorated our Landscape Gardner, E. E. McCurry left us.

But now we are at peace with the world and we are thinking of peaceful things. The landscape gardner of former days has returned and with him we hope to see again in the near future a campus similar to, but more beautiful than ever before.

Pat: "Search me."

ALPHA SIGMA STARTS A NEW YEAR

Saturday night, January 3rd., the opening meeting of the Winter term was held. A large crowd was present to reap the benefits of the entertaining program and enjoy the refreshing "eats".

The society was opened with prayer by Joel Georges. Following was a piano solo by Phil Sheffey, which was very well rendered and enjoyed by all present.

Then everyone had the pleasure of enjoying a talk on the following subject, "Why you should join a literary society". This was rendered very freely and forcibly by George Callahan. The society then enjoyed a very good debate, "Resolved, that the bodies of our dead soldiers in France should be brought to America". The affirmative being upheld by E. K. James and the negative by Charles McClure. After a hard fought debate and open discussion the decision of the judges was read which was in favor of the negative.

An extemporaneous speech was then given by C. F. Cody, in his very forcible manner.

The literary part of the meeting closed with the censor's report, by Joel Georges. Several points were shown where improvements might be made in the literary work.

Then came the "eats" which consisted of plenty of hot chocolate and cakes.

During the time they were disposed of, an old member and visitor Messrs. Knapp and Foster respectfully, gave a talk on their pleasure of attending the sociey.

The meeting closed with prayer led by E. K. James.

WEDNESDAY EVENING PRAYER MEETING

Miss Clemmie Henry led the opening service for the New Year. She wove her story around the well-known one of David and Goliath. David had something to live for and it was recorded in every act and deed and culminated with the destruction of the Philistine champion. After he had slain the giant David went back to his work of tending the sheep. He was of no help in the mighty battle, but he was of service among the sheep. He did his work in his well-known way with his own tools; he developed his own methods and they brought him victory. Notice the business ability he displayed. He was methodical; took care of his sheep before he left by placing them in charge of another shepherd. He could be trusted; his father trusted him with a great message, the welfare of his brothers. He had initiative; sought out his brothers among the vast army; when he saw anything to do, he assumed his part without orders; he had self-reliance on his power through God. He was definite and had a fertility of resource when brought before Saul. He had implicit faith in his cause, in his country and in his God. He was not discouraged by the appearance of the giant or his treats. He was obedient.

Courage, fearlessness, self-reliance, resourcefulness and the power of initiative comes to those who like David put their trust in God and are obedient to His will. These characters are essential to victory and disperse Discouragement.

The velocity with which electricity travels is even greater than the velocity of light. Experiments have demonstrated that electricity travels at the rate of 186,427 miles a second. Thus electricity could travel to the sun and back in less than 20 minutes.

REFERENDUM ON THE PEACE TREATY JAN. 13

ger of defeating ratification while still making clear that America can only be involved in war by a declaration of Congress, that domestic questions and the Monroe Doitrine are entirely outside of the jurisdiction of the League, that plural votes of any member are all disqualified in the event of a dispute wherein we are disqualified from voting, and that on deciding to withdraw we are to be the judge of whether our obligations have been met.

May we here remind the reader that the chief issues for debate on the League Covenant are Articles 3, 10 and 21. They are as follows: 3—Regarding the voting power of each member of the League. In the assembly according to the terms of the covenant the British Empire is given six votes against the one vote of each of the other members. This however, the friends of the League say, does not give the British Empire any undue power since the council can take no action except upon unanimous vote. 10—Regarding the obligations of the members of the league. 21—Regarding the Monroe Doctrine.

Article 10.—The Members of the League undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all Members of the League. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggresion the Council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled.

Article 21.—Nothing in this Covenant shall be deemed to affect the validity of international engagements, such as treaties of arbitration or regional understandings like the Monroe doctrine, for securing the maintenance of peace.

UNCLE SAM HAS JOBS FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

Washington, D. C. Jan. 5, 1920—Soldiers who are partially disabled from wounds received in the war are to be assisted in finding employment in civil positions under the War Department, according to information received from the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

It is stated that the War Department, the Federal Board for Vocational Education, and the Civil Service Commission will within a few weeks have completed a plan they have had under consideration for some time, one of co-operation whereby the employment under the War Department of partially disabled soldiers, including those who ordinarily would be barred from civil positions because of their physical condition, will be facilitated in every way possible, and which will permit the employment of partially disabled men on the same basis as those who have not sustained physical injury.

The War Department has considerably more than 100,000 civilian employees in its various establishments, and it is believed by Government officials that this large force can absorb several thousand partially disabled men without serious detriment to the service.

The Civil Service Commission states that a circular setting forth the plan in full will be ready for distribution in two or three weeks.

OUR LATEST DREADNOUGHTS

Our latest dreadnoughts— Iowa and Massachusetts—will mark a great advance in size and power over any previous warships. Their length will be 684 feet, their breadth 106 feet, and mean draft will be 33 feet. The motive power will be similar to that of the New Mexico that is to say they will have the electric drive. The maximum speed will be 23 knots and they will have a cruising radius of 8000 miles. Their displacement will reach the unprecedented figure of 43,200 tons.

The armament will consist of twelve 16-inch guns and sixteen 6-inch guns.

ADMISSION 15c AND 25c

MONDAY EVENING

The price of admission to the College Social at Bartlett Hall on Monday evening was a pair of "rubber soles" and a pleasing countenance.

In a spirit of congeniality and everybody "al-right" the beginning of this New Year 1920, was made impressive at the Snap where all seemed to be overrunning with joy and full of good resolutions to help each other socialally. Only a few couples served as a nucleus to start up the game, then the theory of expansion took place and soon the room was so crowded that there was scarcely space for a boy to chase his best girl or for a girl to fall in pursuit of her favorite. But with that determination which always wins the two never failed to reach the set goal. For several hours the excitement continued and those new homesick pupils forgot themselves and were made to feel that the pleasure was taking place in the large family circle at their father's home.

It is generally understood, of course, that there are couples who are keep too busy moonshining to seperate long enough to participate with others in enjoying life. These however, were not without attention in that they were crowded and wedged together two in a Hill in the windows possessed with that ever sparkling love and unconsciousness that others were near.

Just as a disaster follows a period of prosperity the sad end called for seperation, signified by the light that flashed causing a general scream and yell to make ready for the return home through the cold of the night. Out they marched two and two in regret that the close had come, but feeling greatly elevated over their being together.

PERSONALS

Miss Ethel Burchfiel of the Centennial Class was a visitor on the Hill January the fourth.

Miss Leila Armstrong came with her brother and visited the college a few days.

Miss Sarah Fowler stopped over to be with her sisters a few days before going on to Johnson City Normal.

The delegates to the S. V. B. Convention have met two former Maryvillians there Bob Bartlett and Harold Smith.

Miss Lois Wilson has passed Gibralter on her way to the missionary field.

PALACE PROGRAM

FRIDAY—

Dorothy Dalton in "THE LADY OF RED BUTTE". Farra Fan was the only real girl in the little western town that had a heart. She loved every one and especially those who seemed to be friendless and in due time she was rewarded by meeting the man of her choice and of course he proved to be a hero, but how? Harold Lloyd Comedy.

SATURDAY—

Fox presents William Farnum in "WINGS OF THE MORNING". A great star in a great play for heart appeal, deep sympathy and sublime sacrifice, this presentation reaches the greatest heights ever attained. Chapter No. 2 of "THE GREAT GAMBLE", the serial of surprises. News No. 53 and a Fox Comedy, a real good show.

MONDAY—

First National Picture Corporation presents Anita Stewart in "IN OLD KENTUCKY". The film of 10000 thrills, the good luck picture of 1920; it's melodrama has stood the test of stage success of 27 years; it's thrilling, powerful, gripping full of heart touching, soul stirring suspence, its spectacular tremendous scenes magnificently produced. Thousands of people, georgeous effects, don't miss it. Smashing Barriers, a serial, and a good comedy.

TUESDAY—

Pete Morrison in one of his clever westerns that contains thrill after thrill and adventures galore. Ham and Bud Comedy, real funny. Also a special attraction, the title of which will be announced later.

WEDNESDAY—

An all-star cast in "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME". A picture that has a human appeal and dramatic brightened by many subtile touches of humor. All the subtle charm and vigorous and vivacious youth, extremely well acted; the technique is faultless, in fact the picture as a whole is wonderful and filled with action. Star Comedy the laughing kind.

THURSDAY—

O, Look! Shirley Mason in "THE FINAL CLOSE UP". A comedy-drama full of pep and punch— the story of a girl who started washing dishes and landed in high society to the extent that while visiting Palm Beach she did some most daring stunts. See them, see how she pulls the big stuff off. Mack Sennet Comedy, with an all-star comedy cast.

1918.

Prof. Deck Williams and his wife Mrs. Zeora Brocklehurst Williams, both of the class of 1917 and their young son, John Pershing Williams of the class of 1942 visited Maryville friends and relatives last week. "Deck" is passing his second year as Professor of Chemistry and Physics in the High School at Bluefields, West Virginia.

1906

A card from Fred Hope dated at Boston, November 11, states that he and his family landed on the previous day after a long, hard and expensive trip from Africa. They left Elat on August 11, and so were just three months on the way. Mr. Hope's many Maryville friends are delighted to hear of his safe arrival and look forward to seeing him at Maryville some time during the school year. He is in this country on a furlough, and expects to return next year to his work in Africa.

1917.

Miss Nellie Garrison, of Byington, Tennessee, was a visitor in Maryville last week.

1917.

Miss Frances Akerstrom is teaching in the American Mission School at Ipoh, Perak, Federated Malay States.

1918.

Miss Genevieve Gibson, of De Soto, Missouri, spent the week end in Maryville renewing old acquaintances. Miss Gibson is doing graduate work in English in Washington University at St. Louis, looking towards the M. A. degree. She came south to act as bridesmaid at the Keeney-Crowe wedding as mentioned in last week's Echo.

Rev. O. H. Logan and wife are in Atlanta this season where Mr. Logan is taking work in Emory University, looking to the degree of B. D.

1919.

Miss Claudia Bogart is teaching in the High School at Whitney's Point, New York.

1919.

Miss Maude Pardue is teaching in the High School at Florslia, Ala.

FIRE! FIRE!

Sunday afternoon about three o'clock memories of a former day aroused when the siren, which is located near the East Side School building, sounded out the news that there was a fire in the neighborhood. The house was considerably damaged by the fire and a large and excited throng appeared to view this occurrence, for it is said fires are among the rare events which happen in Maryville.

Electricity— the Master Force in Manufacturing

THE marvels of electricity have revolutionized our manufacturing industries. With belts and pulleys replaced by electric motors operating automatic—almost human—machines, many a slow and tedious process has been eliminated. The factory worker's task of yesterday is made pleasant by his command of this magic power.

The Crane Company's plant at Chicago—electrical throughout—is a model of industrial efficiency. Its 10,000 horsepower of driving energy is brought by three small wires from a distant power plant. Then electricity drives the machinery which handles the coal for heating, cuts the steel, sifts the sand and sorts the material—in fact does everything from scrubbing the floor to winding the clock.

Such an institution is marvelous—superhuman—made thus by the man-multiplying force of electricity. The General Electric Company has been instrumental in effecting this evolution. First, by developing successful electric generating and transmission apparatus to furnish economically this modern form of power. Secondly, through many years of active co-operation with hundreds of manufacturers, it has mastered the art of applying the use of electrical energy to a multitude of needs. And finally, through branch offices and other distributing channels, its products are made accessible to all.

TRAINING OF YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION WORKERS FOR THE NEW DAY

There was once a time when any man who aspired to be a Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association asked himself whether he was a hale-fellow-well-met, whether he was a good mixer, whether he could jolly the boys, and perhaps whether he had some organizing ability.

Such conceptions of the Association Worker belong to the past and those who study the Young Men's Christian Association Movement of today know it takes a real man with real training to measure up to the responsibilities of this work. The Young Men's Christian Association is not a simple prayer meeting—though it believes in prayer as it never did before. It is not a social club—though it realizes that the social instincts of men are strong and that no man can be his best who does not develop these instincts under wholesome social conditions. It is not a gymnasium which builds bodies for men—though it realizes fully the moral and religious significance of strong and healthy bodies. It is not a dormitory building—though it believes that many thousands of young men have been saved to society and the church by the fact that the Association building gave the young man a clean, safe place to stay in his formative period, while getting himself established in the city.

The Young Men's Christian Association is no one of these. It is rather all of these with much besides. It is a statesmanlike movement of men, for the sake of men, to make conditions in the city and the country alike such a place of wholesomeness, of social justice and religious interest as will help to usher in the Kingdom of God among men.

To be a Secretary in such a movement calls for real manhood—with wholesome physical life, trained intellect and a soul afire with love for men. Let us suggest five qualities in any really successful Secretary and say a word about how training should help to develop such qualities in a man. One does not name them in their order or importance, but perhaps in the reverse order.

1. The first qualification which one would mention is the technique of skillful organization. This cannot be omitted and success still crown the effort of the worker. Our organization is one of work-a-day men. Its home is usually located in the heart of the business and most active part of a city's business. The architecture is that of a great office building. It deals with men hot from the contests of highly organized business. As a business organization the average City Association is no mean concern. Many a city Association in a city the size of Nashville or larger, does a business of from one hundred thousand dollars per year up to five, six, seven hundred thousand, or even a million dollars per year. The New York and Chicago Associations are both million dollar concerns in the volume of business handled.

2. In the second place the Secretary of today must have a social sense and technical training in sociology. The most marked advance in the business world has been a larger sense of social responsibility. The average Rotary Club of today has more sense of obligation to the mass of men who need help than the average church had fifty years ago. A recent number of the Kiwanis magazine said that their motto was not "Service in order to have more business"—but "More business in order to serve". It's a new day when business organizations talk that way in their trade papers.

The Secretary who is to lead these forces must be intensely alive to the social needs of his community, else he will be engulfed in the sea of commercialism that surrounds him.

3. In the third place the Association Secretary is or may be a great teacher in the realm of religious truth. Few ministers of America and almost no teachers have actually taught more men than Seay of Brooklyn, Shuritiff of Cleveland, and numerous other Secretaries who have had the training and capacity for such work.

4. Lastly, the Secretary of the Association must have training in that type of practical psychology which helps him interpret the soul hunger of men. He must know men. He must know their methods of thinking, and above all he must have a passion to help them.

In order to get men of this type of training there has been a long felt need for a training college of the Young Men's Christian Associations in the South. This college should give thorough professional training for Secretaries as a theological seminary gives professional training for ministers. Only one should say parenthetically that it should be much more related to life than the training in some seminaries we have known.

The new Southern College of Young Men's Christian Associations will run twelve months in the year, divided into four terms. The three winter quarters will be held in Nashville, Tennessee, in connection with George Peabody College for Teachers, Seaman A. Knapp School of Country Life, Vanderbilt University, Vanderbilt School of Religion and Vanderbilt Medical College. The College will have the very closest co-operation of these institutions, although it is an entirely autonomous institution, acting under its own charter and with its own Board of Directors. The summer quarter of the College will be held during the months June, July and August, at the Blue Ridge grounds, Blue Ridge, North Carolina. In like manner there is the very closest cooperation with the Blue Ridge Association, a number of the Board of Directors of the College being also members of the Blue Ridge Association Committee. The very complete equipment, the high altitude, and wonderful scenery surrounding Blue Ridge make this an ideal place for summer work.

The College is being projected in harmony with the highest standards of university life and will from the very start be a school for professional training and not an undergraduate school. Students will be admitted to its courses with the possibility of graduation who have had at least two years of college training, but a very definite bid is being made for college graduates. The course will extend over eight quarters or what will be equal to practically three years of academic work. On the completion of the full eight quarters work any student who has had, prior to entrance, his full Sophomore work in college will be granted the degree of B. A. The student who has had his B. A. in college will be granted the degree of M. A. Other students will be admitted to the special work, but not as candidates for degrees, provided they have had sufficient training to give them entrance into college.

Men taking training for the Physical Directorship of the Association will spend eleven quarters in the college. Six quarters of this time or two full years of medical work will be taken in connection with the Vanderbilt Medical College, special attention being given to topics like Anatomy, Physiology, Nervous Diseases, etc. Each Physical Director will be required to carry a certain amount of Association studies such as Association History and Methods, courses on Fundamentals of Christian Life, courses on the Old and New Testaments, etc.

The College opened its doors on October first, and it is expected that during the first year we will matriculate not less than fifty students.

JUST FOR FUN

SACRIFICE

Professor Jones, The Returned Missionary from Siam, Addresses Y. M. C. A.

The speaker stated that one of the sacrifice requirements that a missionary had to meet was that of fluent speech. It is not necessary for all missionaries to be compelled to make this sacrifice because some of them are stationed in port towns where they may hold services in their own language, but others are far inland and they necessarily have to use the language of the country in which they are located; they also have to think and speak in the language of the people to whom they are missionaries in order to accomplish the best results.

In presenting our bodies as a living sacrifice, we do not have to mutilate the body and undergo all kinds of physical torture, as it was thought by some of the ancients, but our bodies should be strong and in the best possible condition in order to be of the most service to our fellow men and to make a holy and acceptable sacrifice to God; which is our reasonable service. The sacrifices made bp a Christian are only gains. As the grain of corn dies to produce the greatest joys of the human life. Those who seem to have given their lives wholly to God render the greatest service and seem to get the most enjoyment out of life.

Self-sacrifice is the sharpest weapon in the arsenal of heaven.

THETA AND ALPHA JOINT MEETING

On the evening of Dec. 13, 1919, the Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma Literary Societies met in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium for a joint meeting.

The Theta-Alpha Orchestra gave the opening number. "To Alphas" by Licia Johnson gave an insight into the minds of the Theta's regarding the excellent qualities, both of mind and heart, of the Alphas. Mr. Weisbecker in a brief reply "To Theta's" expressed the desire of the Alpha's to always maintain the same high standard, not only in the eyes of the Thetas, but as a few have succeeded in doing, in the Eyes of the Bainonians. Chad McClure read two very pleasing little poems.

The Theta Octette won quite a little fame, and will no doubt be heard again in the near future.

"Red" Stanton displayed his ability as a public speaker in an extemporaneous talk on "The Qualities of a Good Matron".

The Theta-Alpha Orchestra again thrilled the throng of music lovers by its rendition of some well known popular music. Gladys Hutchinson's reading was indeed a "treat" to every one. The debate, Resolved, That the hole in the doughnut is more nourishing than the smell of limberger cheese, was upheld on the affirmative by Hortense Gibson, who discussed it so ably that three speakers including Dr. Stevenson, were required to defend the negative.

Mr. E. K. James gave the critic's report. After another number from the renowned orchestra, the meeting adjourned to the gymnasium to enjoy a social hour.

AFTERNOON RECITAL

On the afternoon of December the eleventh a very pleasing recital was given by the departments of Music and Expression. Those representing the piano department were Miss Grace Majure, Miss Edith Caldwell, and Miss Hattie Hayes, soloists, and Miss Mary Armentrout and Miss Marguerite Sullinger who played a two piano number. The readers for the afternoon were Miss Reba Seaton, Miss Jessie Creswell and Miss Mildred Campbell. From the voice department were Miss Winston Newton and Miss Jessie Magill.

THE ATHENIAN

The first meeting for the year 1920 was held at the society hall Saturday night. A goodly number was present to enjoy the open meeting. The towering form of the President, Jason Deyton, first graced the floor and gave the address of welcome. He emphasized the need of literary society work and showed its value in world affairs.

The quartet rendered several selections which were much enjoyed and caused considerable applause on the part of the audience. Of course, a debate needs must be on the program, and there was a live one, all framed and tanked that coughed, sizzed and spluttered till it died with a gentle moan. The question that caused all this loss of vital gasesus energy was, "That the society in conjunction with the Bainonians should have a formal banquet." Music is soothing and for cases of brain storm, it is invaluable, so Arellano brought harmony, where there was strife. C. Johnstone introduced the latest society doings in the neighboring towns during the past two weeks. Leslie Jones closed the program with a before dinner speech in which he told, in his "weakly", the lighter side of the members lives.

The informal part of the program was the best of all, for an appeal was made to that organ which lies near the heart. The refreshments eaten, yells were indulged in for the Bainonians and Athenians.

OPENING VESPER SERVICE

Using the words of the 96th Psalm, "Sing unto the Lord a new song", the pastor gave a hopeful outlook for the new year. A song is an expression of gladness. The old year has gone why sing of its praises? God is in the future just as well as in the past.

A new song must come out of new experiences. Worn out people do not sing; it is the hopeful and the courageous that sing. Song is the expression of their exuberance. Scott's poem Marmion, written in the heat and haste of battle can only be understood when men are in the same mood. Sacrifice brings a new song. An illustration of two New England boys was used to give the emphasis to the point.

The younger boy offered himself for punishment, but the father refused. He thereupon told the older boy of his brother's sacrifice and added if he committed the same fault again, he would hold Joe to his promise. Both boys had learned a new cause for song.

Song grows out of purpose and effort and not out of achievement. It is in the darkest hour that the sweetest music is made. A blind poet wrote for hours in all the passion of energy an what he thought a masterpiece, but a friend entering saw nothing—the typewriter was without a ribbon. David's great ambition was to build the Temple, but God did not permit him, yet God praised him for the intention of his heart. Sin kills song, but Christ can make the most sinful heart give forth a new song.

TRACK MEN, ATTENTION!

Try-outs for the several events of track work will be held in the near future. Look and listen for announcements concerning the track work. Meantime, do a little practising and choose your event or events.

Track meets of worthy mention are under consideration. We must have a team with a showing.

Y. W. C. A.

The first Y. W. service of the New Year was held Sunday afternoon; Miss Helen Lewis leader. She had chosen as her interesting subject, "All the World's a Stage". Each one of us has a part in the play. The question is how can we interpret our parts? We must turn to the Author and Director to tell us our part. There are many reasons why actors fail. One actor fails because of no practice, another puts off practice, like one who intends some day to be a Christian but keeps putting it off. The subject Success was discussed in the open meeting. Miss Elizabeth Moore played a piano solo.

A Mission Study will be held every Tuesday evening, Miss Fanson leader. Let us all take advantage of this opportunity.

EAST TENNESSEE BASKET BALL TOURNAMENT

In order to boost Maryville and to get men in the high schools of East Tennessee acquainted with our school—which means a better Maryville all the way around, we are planning to put through a Basket Ball Tournament.

All the leading high schools of East Tennessee will be represented. An appropriate trophy will be awarded the winning team, accompanied by individual trophies, while the team finishing second will receive an engraved plate in recognition of its success.

Games will be played in the college gym Friday afternoon and night and Saturday, Jan. 30-31. The final game will be beween the two teams who after a series of games have eliminated all other teams. These two teams will play Saturday afternoon in the final game for first and second places, or for champions of East Tennessee. A team will be eliminated from the championship as soon as it has lost one game, but will be allowed two other consolation games before the tournament is over, thus giving it opportunity to meet other teams in the tournament and win a consolation series. The time of halves will be twelve minutes, except the final game which will go the regulation twenty minutes.

While these men are here, we want to show them a good time. Let them get a real taste of college life and meet college men. We can do this by having open the swimming pool, having special supper for them Friday night, special chapel services, and a general spirit of interest and fellowship among the fellows.

To do this we will ask the help of most all the fellows in the following manner, and the help of everyone as a booster. Where two fellows are rooming together, they would take a high school player as their guest, letting him use one deck of their bed for the one night he will be here—Friday night. Also on Friday night he would yield his place in the dining hall to his visitor, going to town for supper. (The players will eat over town at other times.) Besides these two things, do their best to assure him a helpful, pleasant, worthwhile visit on college hill.

This tournament has the approval of faculty and fellows—and let's put it through for a big thing this year and keep it going.

The following teams are expected to play:

Tennessee Military Institute.
Maryville Polytechnic School.
Knoxville High School
Central High School
Greeneville High School
Central High of Cleveland
Athens High School
Morristown High School
Johnson City High School.

Let's work everyone to boost this tournament for the betterment of Maryville College and students of College Hill.

SOMETHING DOING AT THE JUNIOR ATHENIANS

CHRISTMAS ON THE HILL

'Twas the night before Christmas,
When all through the hall,
Not a creature was stirring,
Unbroke was the pall.
And I with pellagra
Was thinking of home
As I gazed from my window
On the old court house dome.
I had flunked in the finals—
Small matter was this,
Compared to Pellagra
"G-minus" is bliss.

Though the world might be jolly
No joy could I see
For most gentle Miss Molly
Had spoken to me,
With a visage so cruel,
Words bitter and stern,
And my moonshining license
She then did intern.

I asked for the charges—
Quoth she, "Matters not,
But I'll give you the sentence
Twont soon be forgot:
During Christmas vacation
From girls you'll be shorn,
For a fortnight your graces
Stag parties adorn."

She was deaf to my pleadings,
So, shrouded with gloom,
I stalked from her presence
And retired to my room.
I gazed from my widow,
With unseeing stare,
My dreams were all shattered
In a maze of despair.

As sadly I pondered
And gazed at the floor,
For a wonder, a letter
Slid under the door.
With hands weak and trembling
I tore off the stamp,
For oft a message
Is here wont to camp.
'Twas but from my father,
Sad news to relate;
My pet lamb had strangled
Down under the gate.

Enclosed in the letter
Was a two-dollar bill,
With a gentle reminder,
That while on the "Hill"
I should cut down expenses,
Let hilarity be,
And remember that money
Grows not on a tree.

Alas! my two dollars!
How quickly they sped!
Reimbursing Miss Darby
For a platter of bread,
Kicked under the table
In a moment of wrath,
And for wiping my hands
On a clean table cloth.

'Twas the night before Christmas
When all through my jeans
Not a nickel was stirring
While one of the queens
From Baldwin suggested
That a show we should see.
Oh! no, my dear maiden,
That never can be
For my moonshining license
Was taken from me.

—Ferguson.

"APPLE SASS"

(Tune: Auld Lang Syne)

O, apple sass, dear apple sass,
Concoction sweetly blest!
Just common sass will do to pass,
But Apple sass is best.

When on the table you're installed,
As always you have been,
My lady friends are all appalled
At the way I take you in.

For I do love you, apple sass,
Better than I hate Huns,
And by my plate you never pass,
I've eaten twenty tons.

I know I'll never have the gout
Until of you bereft.
Upon a slat I spread you flat,
And smear you right and left.

No meat I eat when you are near
To me you mean much more
My gastric goal is just a roll
And apple sass galore.

So take a tip from one who knows
And never let it pass
And never wonder where it grows
Just so its apple sass.

—C. L. Ferguson.

SOMETHING ELSE

The news of a young Southern girls' engagement to an army officer had just been announced, and there was great excitement in their circle.

"Liza," said a friend of the family to the old colored washer woman, "have you seen Miss Edith's fiance?"

Liza pondered for a moment then bent over the laundry tubs once more. "No, Ma'am," she said, "it ain't been in the wash yet."

VOLUME FIVE — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, JANUARY 15, 1920 — NUMBER FIFTEEN

BIGGEST GATHERING IN HISTORY OF HIGHER EDUCATION

MIGHTY HOSTS FROM EVERY NATION AND OF WORLD WIDE RENOWN IN CRUSADE. HOFFMAN, JONES, ROBINSON, McGRATH AND WAGNER REPRESENT MARYVILLE.

Des Moines, Iowa, is a great convention city—but it remained for the Student Volunteer Conference to bring it the largest crowd in the history of that city. Nearly 8,000 students from nearly every college and university in the United States and Canada were seated in the big coliseum to listen to world-missionaries and educators. The delegates were seated according to their states, large placards being placed over the building that people might better find the seats assigned them. As one looked over the building he could see, Tennessee, Alabama, Florida, Texas, New York, California, Washington, Quebec, Canada, any state, and many foreign countries. The University of California sent 130 delegates, the largest number from any one institution. For the first few days of the Conference the different states and institutions gave their yells before the services began. One seldom has a chance to hear within the same half hour students from Harvard, Cornell, Yale, Pennsylvania State, California, Nebraska, Canada, U. T., and Maryville, each giving their yells and singing their songs, but such was the privilege of those who attended the Student Volunteer Convention—and tho many others were yelling, "How we Howl" was given, and heard, too.

The people of Des Moines were all the most delightful hosts, street car conductors, policemen, railroad men, ministers, news-boys, all seemed to vie with each other in making the visitors feel at home. Business men let their business run as best it could and gave their time to caring for the delegates. Busy house-wives left their homes and went to the churches to prepare meals in order that all the delegates might have plenty to eat.

The daily program of the convention was:—A morning session at the coliseum, consisting of devotional exercises and addresses setting forth the needs of the various countries for Christian ministers and evangelists, educators, doctors, nurses, Y. M. and Y. W. secretaries, stenographers, editors, and business men.

In the afternoon meetings were held at the various churches of the town, in which the specific needs of different countries—their religious, moral, social, and economic problems were discussed. As these were all different, one member of each delegation usually attended each so that all might receive the benefit of all. At night meetings were held in the coliseum and in the churches. All delegates were given red tickets which admitted them to each of the meetings. Seats were saved for the delegates until ten minutes till time for the service to begin—then the public was also admitted. When the house was full the doors were closed and no one else allowed to enter. However, overflow meetings were held in the various churches, at which the programs were identical with that in the coliseum.

John R. Mott presided at all the meetings in the coliseum. Among other noted men who were there are Robert E. Spear, and Wilder, who together with Mr. Mott were the first Student Volunteers; Sherwood Eddy, James I. Vance of Nashville, Wm. H. Cox of New York, Bishop O'Connell of Denver, Stevens Corry of Cincinnati, C. A. R. Janvier of India, and Samuel Zivemer who went as an American educator to Cairo twenty-nine years ago. It would be impossible to name all the great men who were there, for every country had sent one or more of its leaders.

A large missionary exhibit was conducted at the auditorium. Here there were booths devoted to India, China, Japan, Korea, Russia, the Near East, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Social Work, etc., where attractive pictures and posters presented very graphically the missionary progress which has been made and the great need of men and money which today exists.

Perhaps the theme of the whole conference was service—by the will of God. One could not but feel anxious to invest his life where it would count for most for the glory of God and good of mankind as he listened to those veterans who have thus spent their lives.

THE HONEST MEN OF THE HILL

The Law Club met Monday, January 12, 1920. The last term was replete with good, instructive programs. The organization will do well to maintain the high standard set by its members last term. Judging from the interest displayed at the meeting better programs are forthcoming.

The following men were sworn in as the officers for this term:

President - - - Charles Poe
Vice President - - Harry Pearson
Secy. & Treas. - Frank S. Minarik
Program Secy. - Edward Hargraves
Editor - - - - Vinton Queener

Messrs. Stanbery, Nace, and Benfield have been elected to membership this term. All fellows who have intentions of studying law should affiliate themselves with this organization as it gives the prospective barristers quite a little training which will be helpful.

A BIRTH---A HOLIDAY

Daughter Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Holmes. Seniors Celebrate.

Born, Tuesday, to Mr. and Mrs. William B. Holmes, a daughter. Mr. Holmes and family are now living on Indiana Avenue. The Echo extends its best wishes.

Dr. Gillingham extended his congratulations by granting Mr. Holmes (and the other members of the Senior Class) a holiday. It may be that Professor Gillingham remembers when the same kind of an event occurred in his family and perhaps he was given a similar reception.

As a result of the holiday that was granted, the majority of the Senior Class wandered to town where they bought a doll baby which was presented to the newly born daughter of the worthy member of their class, Mr. Holmes.

In order to celebrate this history-making event the Senior Class partook of a specially prepared special dinner at the House in the Woods.

RECRUITS

The party recruiting for the new super-dreadnaught Tennessee, accompanied by Governor Roberts and General Harvey Hanna, arrived in Maryville at 8:30 Monday morning and proceeded at once to the Palace Theatre where a short program was given.

Both Governor Roberts and General Hanna, "The silver tongued orator of the South", made speeches in the interest of the recruiting party. The commander of the party Mate Geo. P. Brinckley, also made a speech in which he told the object of the recruiting party and gave the reasons why the ship should be manned by Tennesseans. Mate Brinckley said the Tennessee was the last word in naval architecture, that she had been built at a cost of over twenty million dollars and that her crew would consist of thirteen hundred and fifty men.

With the party was a naval band of over twenty-five pieces, which gave some excellent music. The members of this navy-recruiting band are practically all former service men, and some of them played in Sousa's and Pryor's band before the war.

The main party left at 10:30, but a recruiting squad was left at the court house to sign up applicants. About nine Maryville boys have enlisted for service on the Tennessee.

TWO MEETINGS A WEEK

Although little has been heard of the Girls' Forensic League lately, it has been working industriously. Just this last week it held two meetings. On Wednesday Miss Edith Moore was elected to take Miss Ashton Clayton's place as president. The subject for the preliminary, Resolved: that Ireland should be granted Home Rule, was announced. The date was set for February . A committee was appointed to secure judges. On Friday afternoon the second of a series of practice debates was held. Prof. Hunter was present at the meeting and gave a word of encouragement to the girls of the Forensic League.

A CHAPEL SURPRISE

On Wednesday morning our chapel audience was surprised and highly entertained by Miss Mary Henderson of Knoxville who sang very beautifully "Open the Gates of the Temple", "To Be Near You", "'Sorta' Miss You", and "A Little Irish Girl." Miss Henderson leaves immediately for the Cincinnati College of Music where she will graduate this year, and we hope she will come again and sing for us at other chapel services.

STEVENSONS ENTERTAIN JUNIOR FACULTY

Moonshine and Eats Feature

The younger members of the faculty were delightfully entertained at The House in the Woods on Thursday evening, Jan. 8th. Those who have been entertained by the Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson can appreciate the fruition of such an occasion. The party was greeted by Mrs. Stevenson, the personable hostess, and from that time until the hour for departure the artistic walls of The House in the Woods echoed the music produced by continuous outbursts of joy as results of the youthful contests and engagements pursued. Joy reached its zenith when the refreshments were served which have made the hostess of the evening famous on many occasions. The host was a prominent participant in the youthful games and was the source of much amusement due to his keen sense of humor.

Professor Pleasants, obeying the dictates of his conscience, refrained from partaking of the viands as he never eats after his regular hour for dinner. Coach Feeman reaped the benefits of his custom. Miss Gregg and Professor Southwick "stood high" in the contests and engagements. The evening was so thoroughly enjoyed by all that any attempt to express the genuine joy of the occasion would prove futile. One of the greatest treats that can come to the faculty or students on College Hill is an invitation to The House in the Woods.

DELAYED GAME ENDS IN M. C. VICTORY

A. Cullis and Carter Star for Maryville.

The Johnson Bible College quintet at last, on Tuesday evening, made without trouble their journey from Kimberlin Heights to Maryville, but met with very serious trouble of another kind in their attempt to vanquish the Maryville basketball force. On last Friday evening while the crowd in Bartlett Hall was expectantly awaiting them, the Bible College students were somewhat out on the road between Kimberlin Heights and Maryville, vehemently cursing the jink in the form of a wrecked truck. But their determination to contend with the Orange and Garnet conquered at last and the result was the game of Tuesday evening in which the big end of the score 40 to 26 belongs to Maryville.

The game as a whole was sadly lacking in what is generally included in the term, good basketball, but it cannot be said that it was altogether lacking in interest. On both sides the absence of passing was very noticeable during the first half, while the inaccuracy of the passing marred the second half. As passing was not used to advantage by either side it naturally followed that the game was rougher and more uninteresting than it would have been otherwise.

The first half was played by a team of Highlanders composed almost entirely of second string men and as far as actual scores are concerned they outclassed the varsity 10 to 4. There was no score made during the first two minutes of play, but Carter, getting the range, caged three field goals in a minute and a half. His accurate shooting accounted for 12 of the 19 points scored by Maryville in the first half. The Bible College boys shot promiscuously from all parts of the court and R. Scott and J. Scott each lucked a long one in.

In the second half the M. C. varsity went in and for a brief moment were taken unawares by a sudden rush of their opponents during which time J. B. C. scored four field goals. The sudden onslaught was soon checked and J. Hendrix and Cullis each added eight points. The guarding and shooting of Cullis was a noticeable feature of the second half. Although Wagner went into the game feeling somewhat unwell he deserves credit for putting up a great fight in spite of his discomfort.

The game Tuesday revealed the fact that Maryville has a wonderful basketball machine but it will necessarily require considerable oiling and repairing in order to run without hitch to victory in East Tennessee basketball.

The line-up and score was as follows:

Maryville		Johnson Bible
Montgomery	g.	Armstrong
Cullis
Callahan	g.	Lawder
Davidson
Carter	c.	Smith
McCullogh
Brown	f.	R. Scott
J. Hendrix
Hendrix	f.	J. Scott
Wagner

Substitutions: Foster for Hendrix; Janiviski for Foster; Sullivan for Callahan.

Shimeall for Smith; Suttenfield for Lawder.

Score: Field goals, Carter 6; J. Hendrix 4; Cullis 4; Montgomery 2; Wagner 2; Brown 1.

R. Scott 4; J. Scott 4; Lawder 2; Shimeall 1;

Foul Goals: Wagner 1; Brown 1; Smith 2; J. Scott 2.

Referee: Prof. Edgar R. Walker.

Something to Think About

At the close of this term the election of an editor-in-chief and business manager for the Echo for next year will be held. All who are now Sophomores or Juniors are eligible for this position. Let each and every person eligible consider this proposition and watch for further announcements.

:--:--:--:

During the world war students and alumni of this college were called to the service of their country, twenty of these made the supreme sacrifice. These men are represented on College Hill by stars in the Service Flag which now hangs on the walls of the chapel.

Is there not a more practical way of representing these men on College Hill, especially those who gave their lives for their country? Many of the colleges of America have planted trees in memory of their heroes. Why not do this at Maryville?

If you will but observe you will see that many of the cedar trees are dying or are dead. A move must be made at once to plant trees or before long we will be unable to sing "As our hill-top crowned with cedars evergreen appears."

It is necessary to plant trees on the Hill. Why not plan a special day to plant trees in memory of the Heroes of the World War,

:--:--:--:

It sure is a good thing for Maryville College that football is not played all year. If it was, many of the doors would have to be widened. Just look for yourself—a good many of those afflicted with the enlargement of the "tete" are new fellows this year—yet there is one or two old ones that have fallen—so listen all—snap out of it, for your own good all—come down to earth again.

G. P. D.

WERE YOU THERE?

Last Thursday evening was a history making evening for the newest and liveliest organization on the Hill. The events of greatest importance occurred during the evening, which was spent in the Chemistry lecture room in Science Hall, are as given below.

The Professor of Chemistry gave an address on Vaccacines and Antitoxines. The address was delivered in a very interesting and instructive way, for those who heard it are now familiar with the process of vaccination, why it is used, and the way the vaccacine effects the human body. The second event of importance was that the membership was doubled—remember boys and girls belong to this club. If you are interested in chemistry you should attend these meetings.

Somehow Mae and Wag were obsessed with the Baltimore dairy lunch.

DR. BARNES LEADS PRAYER MEETING

Character tests in the form of intelligence tests have became standardized in many occupations. The army test is well-known by means of which the men were placed where they could do the best for the service. The Pittsburgh school board is employing these tests in rating its teachers. At a recent meeting of the American Psychology Association a paper was read on the results of the test in the army, and the average age of intelligence in the army is only thirteen years.

Can character be measured in the same way? What comprises character and how may it be tested, The answers to these specific questions were answered by a letter from the most learned minds in the U. S.

The answer of C. Coolidge, Governor of Massachusetts, "The ability to endure". N. M. Butler, President of Columbia University, New York City, "Character is the moral order seen through the medium of an individual nature. The test of a good character is the constant purposeful conformity of an individual's acts to the moral order." Dr. C. Elliot, "The real test of good character is honesty, purity, gentleness and honor in conduct.".

Dr. Couden, Chaplain to the House of Representatives, "A perfect character consists in the full and symmetrical development of all the benevolent facilities of mind and soul, based on faith, hope, love in a supreme being, * * * as disclosed in the incomparable life, character, and precepts of Jesus of Nazareth."

To achieve a good character is like a good education; it depends on an ideal, integrity of purpose, purity of life, gentleness, honesty, honor, truth, love and growth. Education depends on accuracy in all things, a purpose in all things, the power of reflection, efficiency and growth. Both have an ideal and to attain that ideal requires attention to the ideal, a will and a vision to carry one on to the ideal. A "hobo" lives from day to day, a father for a generation, a philosopher for all the ages. The difference in each is the ideal. Courage and faith in duty to the Ideal is also demanded and merge into reverence, modesty, sympathy, temperance, justice, benevolence and perseverance, through habitual duty. Thus the complete life of character is evolved, a life of character that will stand the test of time and eternity.

ALPHA SIGMA

The society opened Saturday evening, January 10th., with prayer by Joel Georges. After roll call the following men were sworn into office:

George Callahan - - - President
J. Morgan Cox - - Vice President
Charles Poe - Recording Secretary
Melvin Lawson, A. Recording Sec.
E. K. James - Corresponding Secy.
Tracy Knapp, Phil Sheffey, Censors
Porter Turner - - - - Editor

The following program was then rendered. The Referendum Explained, Stacy Howell; A five minute exposition was given on each of the propositions offered in the Referendum by E. K. James, E. F. Cody, Joel Georges, A. W. Cullis, William Montgomery, and H. G. Weisbecker. Then followed the discussion of this subject, by nearly every member of the society, which was continued for about twenty minutes after the regular time.

After the censor's report was given several new members were voted into the society. Then followed a short business program, and the society was closed with prayer led by E. F. Cody.

Henry King Gibson, who was a Maryville student nineteen years ago, was a candidate for Superior Court Judge in Ohio in the November elections just held. (The result of the election has not yet been learned.) He is a son of Rev. J. King Gibson, for a long time pastor of a church in South Charleston, Ohio, and now chaplain of the National Military Home near Dayton, Ohio.

Among former Maryvillians who were at Des Moines were Fred Hope, Bob Bartlett, Harold Smith, Elmer Brown, Emily Montgomery, and Lona Floyd.

ADVERSITY

Professor Orr Addresses "Y."

Adversity is the test. The strength of nations is determined by their power to protect their citizens. Either those who are touring in foreign countries or those who are serving their country in some way; if thrown into adverse circumstances, the nation which stands the test is the nation which protects its citizens in whatever circumstances they may be thrown.

The strength of men is also tested by their power to stand even in the face of adversity. It is no test when everything goes well but the difficulties arise when one is under stress, and he is judged by what he is capable of doing when everything seems to go dead wrong. The man who quits in the face of adversity is likely to make a failure in life, because one is very often thrown into adverse circumstances if he ever attempts anything that is really worthwhile in life.

If you fail in the day of adversity, your strength is small. The wise man provides in the day of opportunity for the day when adversity comes. The tree prepares for a storm when the sun is shining, by sending out roots sufficient to keep it steady and firm not only when the sun shines but for the storm as well. It is easy enough to stand when the sun shines and everything runs along smoothly but the man worth while is the man who is determined to stand even in the face of adversity.

ATHENIAN

The usual program was set aside and the inter-collegiate referendum on the League of Nations and Peace Treaty was substituted. In order that complete harmony should prevail "Tex" Middleton opened the program with a violin solo or rather several. The rest of the evening was devoted to the discussion of the merits of the Peace Treaty in every phase of its bearing. After the discussion a vote was taken on the different propositions and it was interesting to note that no one was in favor of not ratifying the treaty or of making peace at once, and leaving the question of Nations out. The majority of the members favored the treaty as it stands. The others divided on the third and fourth propositions which favored reservations.

The evening was one of the most profitable the society has enjoyed. All the members, after the able discussion, were able to vote more intelligently, for every point of national importance was touched. Many of the hazy ideas in regard to the League of Nations were cleared up and new light thrown upon its working constitution.

LUCILE CLUB

The members of the Lucile Club have had quite an enjoyable time on the Hill lately. On Friday afternoon they were entertained by Lucile Carter in her room in Baldwin Hall. After each "Lucile" had found out all that was to be known about the other, refreshments were served. These consisted of candy, cake, salted peanuts, and last, but not least—all-day suckers. Before adjournment, an invitation to meet in the room of Luciles McLain and McMillan on the following Monday afternoon was extended. Here, they were kept busy quite awhile picking "Maryville" to pieces— not the place—"Maryville", nor even the college—"Maryville", but the word itself—which is very much harder to do. After other delightful games, good eats, and pleasant reminiscences, they finally parted with the resolution to meet again in the near future.

ALUMNI NOTES

1906.

Mr. Clarence C. Kochenderfer, 1906, and Miss Estette E. Hesketh, of Washington, D. C., were married, November 4, 1919, and are now at home at Copley Courts, Washington. The Echo extends congratulations and best wishes.

1914.

Ernest M. Reeves, who has been on the Pacific Coast for the past five years, is now in the employ of the Standard Oil Company at Richmond, California.

1918.

Frank H. Scruggs is now located in Washington, D. C., where he has a position in the Bureau of Government Insurance. He is handling correspondence with reference to the conversion of war policies. He is also taking some school work at night. Mr. Scruggs writes that since coming to Washington he has met many Maryville acquaintances.

1918.

Mrs. Josephine Knapp Keifer, of Columbus, Ohio, is visiting her father, Prof. G. A. Knapp and her brother, Tracy Knapp in Maryville. She will be here about two weeks. Her many Maryville friends are delighted to have her among them again.

VESPERS

"Blessed shalt thou be when thou comest in and when thou goest out". The pastor using these words of Deutermony 28:6 built around them "The Religion of the Home".

The man who leaves home in the early morning and returns late at night from his daily toil, does so in darkness. But, does he give up? Suppose the world stood still because the sun was obscured. Men and nations walk not by sight, but by faith, God's love archs over all the invisible. The man that goes out to his daily task, in the darkness, with this abiding faith is equipped for all the strife that may arise; it shall brighten the dull, gray drab of the darkest day.

Under whose control do men go out from their homes. Moses harkened to the voice of God. Thus the blessing of going out and coming in is dependent on obedience, for God controls and guides all. David in the 121st Psalm gives the answer to this obedience. But this blessing is also dependent on the life that men live. How can men pray for the blessing as they go out to lie and cheat, to steal and defraud and expect the blessing as they come in?

The three things which this lesson teaches are: it relieves the monotony of life, because it lightens labor, and sweetens life. A daily blessing fortifies and equips men for unexpected daily temptations. It will do a great deal toward hallowing the evening of our days. It will give an appreciation of the mercies that cluster around the home.

JUNIOR ALPHAS START A NEW YEAR

Saturday night, Jan. 10th., the opening meeting of the winter term was held. A large crowd was present to reap the benefits of an excellent program. The meeting was opened with prayer by Sam Franklin. The address of welcome by the president, Mr. Hargraves followed. Then everyone had the pleasure of enjoying a reading by Mr. Szilagyi which was very well rendered. The society then heard a very spirited debate, all framed and packed that spluttered until it died with a gentle moan. The question that caused the loss of most vital energy was "Resolved, That American invention in Mexico would be justified". The affirmative being upheld by Franklin and the negative by Hargraves and McMahan.

After a hard fought debate and an open discussion, the decision of the judges was read, which was in favor of the affirmative. The literary part of the meeting closed with the censor's report by Charles Maye. A short business meeting was then held, after which the meeting closed with prayer by Edward Hargraves. If you want to have a good time, come and enjoy the evening with us.

QUOTATIONS FROM THE DES MOINES CONVENTION

The War Worker was a Snap-Shot—the Missionary is a Time Exposure.

For the preservation of peace between the Colonists, one missionary is worth more than a whole battalion of soldiers.

Only women can take Jesus Christ to foreign women.

Hinduism has failed because it has no father God, no brother man, no doctrine of the sinfulness of sin, no scheme of redemption and no redeemer, "no theory of a victorious life", and no hope of a personal immortality.

Wanted—"Strong men and women for a tough job. No molly-coddles need apply".

Christ has sent his love to the world through us, and we are keeping it all to ourselves.

SOPHOMORES MEET

There was a call meeting of the Sophomore Class on Wednesday. It was announced that a dollar would have to be collected from each member in order to pay for the Sophomore section in the annual. There will be no group picture this year and all Sophomores who have not already attended to it are urged to have their pictures taken immediately. Miss Janet Ensign was elected to succeed Miss Valle Higgenbotham as class editor.

Y. W. C. A.

The Junior and Senior branches of the Y. M. C. A. held a joint meeting last Sunday in the chapel. Everyone enjoys these joint meetings very much as they are "get together" meetings. The subject, "Latent Powers", was very interestingly developed by Miss Della Carpenter.

Latent power is the germ of power that is sleeping, that has not been put to use. Our so-called mountaineers are a splendid example of latent power. A strong, fearless, active people, descended from the very purest blood, they have wonderful possibilities within which need only the proper education to bring them forth. These people have lived unto themselves, partly because of the lack of traveling facilities. Alvin C. York, the mountaineer soldier, is a splendid example of what the mountain people have in them. We should put forth every effort to obtain better schools and more of them for these people.

The musical side of the program was especially good, consisting of a beautiful violin solo by Miss Lucile Thorpe, and a vocal solo by Miss Jessie Magill which was very much enjoyed.

THETA EPSILON

The first meeting of the Theta Epsilon Literary Society of the Winter Term was held Saturday evening, January 10th. A large number was present and the new year of the society began with a great deal of enthusiasm.

The first number on the program was a violin solo by Lucile Thorpe. Sue Nuchols, one of Theta's famous chautauqua readers gave two very entertaining numbers in negro dialect.

The question, Should the Peace Treaty be accepted without amendments, was discussed by Erma Logan. A piano solo by Nanette Walker was very well rendered.

The last number on the program was two vocal solos by Mrs. Keifer. Mrs. Keifer, formerly Miss Josephine Knapp is well known on the Hill' and Thetas were very glad indeed to have her visit the society again. After the critic's report by Janet Ensign, the meeting closed by repeating the motto—"Si Deus Nobiscum, quis contro nos."

Wonder where the Pre-Medical Club and the Ministerial Association have been, as we have not heard from them since they were organized—Must be keeping themselves in cold storage.

PALACE PROGRAM

THURSDAY—

At last—Zane Grey's "DESERT GOLD", overwhelming action, red blooded conceptions, courage in the saddle and romance in the heart of youth. The story of fighting Dick Gale who rode into the jaws of hell for a girl; a story of loyalty and riches; of revenge and retribution. Gigantic action, one of the most compelling pictures of the year and all other years. Also a good comedy.

FRIDAY—

Look, your favorite star—Charles Ray in "THE BUSHER", a classic picture of a master actor, an artist of rare and winning personality. A drama produced from a famous writer, the supporting cast includes many screen celebrities. A picture that will hold your interest from start to finish.
Also a Harold Lloyd Comedy.

SATURDAY—

Hodkinson presents H. D. Warner in "HAUNTED SHADOWS". A breath taking mystery, a haunting tale of revenge, an inspiring romance, and to top it all the tremendous emotional acting of H. B. Warner sweeping from climax to climax with a power unrivalled in the annals of great screen performance. "Great Gamble" No. 3, a serial with a thrill every minute. News showing the latest in pictures. A Billy West comedy.

MONDAY—

Extraordinary production "Douglas Fairbanks" in "WHEN THE CLOUDS ROLL BY". He broke three mirrors, walked under a ladder and ran into all sorts of bad luck predictions, including having a black cat run across the road just in front of him—but all the same he won the girl of his choice after going through fire and water, mostly water. How would you like to be married on the roof of a house by a Parson who clung to the steeple of his church, as both church and house floated about in the flood waters, following the bursting of a dam, Doug does it in "When The Clouds Roll By". "Smashing Barriers" and a Big V Comedy.

TUESDAY—

A Pete Morrison western—you know what to expect when we say Pete Morrison for he is right there when it comes to the wild and wooly west. A Ham and Bud Comedy. A Special Feature Attraction, the title of which will be announced later. Watch for it.

WEDNESDAY—

Another one of those Douglas Fairbanks melodramas "KNICKERBOCKER BUCKABOO". A tender love story, a thrilling melodrama with a sparkling bit of comedy, it is brilliant, dazzling and possesses the most radiant imagination, the most consumate ingenuity, a picture that will occupy its own niche in the hall of fame of motion pictures.

THURSDAY—

Enid Bennett in "THE HAUNTED BED ROOM". One of the most mysterious and exciting dramas, a story of weird beings of haunting shadows that follow the guilty. Imagine sleeping in a room filled from floor to ceiling with flaunting shadows dressed in Mummy robes. O-O, what a feeling, but Enid don't care—much. See the "HAUNTED BED ROOM". A good comedy.

Hampton—Copeland

On the 15th of December 1919, Miss Mayble Copeland was married to Mr. Carson Hampton. The young couple are at home now at Algood, Tennessee. The bride is the sister of the Misses Susie and Imogene Copeland, and was a student here herself in 1918.

The inhabitants of room 38, Pearsons wish to announce to all friends and acquaintances that they each made 95 on the care of their room—or a sum total of 380. They challenge any room in school to show that it made a higher grade.

Mildred's favorite quotation— "I know where there's a nice little cafeteria". (It was usually about a mile away.)

Bernice—Is my neck clean, yet?

Bainonian Play "Peter Pan" Was A Startling Success

MISSES MILDRED CAMPBELL AND MARY HAYES PLAY THEIR PARTS TO PERFECTION. SHALL WE GROW UP TO BE MEN OR REMAIN AS PETER PAN EVER RETAINING THE SPIRIT OF YOUTH.

It was a large and appreciative audience that gathered last Monday evening to see "Peter Pan", as presented by the Bainonian Literary Society in their annual mid-winter entertainment. To say that the Bainonians maintained their usual high standard of excellence is sufficient praise.

The Maryville College Orchestra appeared for the first time this year, and added much to the enjoyment of the evening, and the Brown-Gamble quartet, and Miss Winston Newton in a vocal solo, delighted the audience with their selections.

But the play itself, "Peter Pan". Wherein lies its charm? Why do we find it so fascinating? Does not the secret lie in its appeal to the spirit of youth within us, that spirit in each one of us that like Peter Pan himself refuses to grow up, the spirit of eternal youth. "Men are but children of a larger growth", and no matter how far we may have journeyed on our life's pilgrimage, there come "seasons of calm weather" when

"Our souls have sight of that immortal sea
Which brought us hither,
Can in a moment travel thither
And see the children sport upon the shore."

And what a delight it was to forget cares and studies for one evening and, as children once more, let Peter Pan sprinkle his fairy dust on our shoulders and teach us to fly with him and Wendy to the "Never-never land." And what wonderful beings we met: the lost boys in their underground home; the real red Indians in their paint and feathers; the pirates bold with their fierce glare and swaggering mien; the frightful crocodile of man-eating propensities; the faithful dog Nana, whose vigilance we successfully eluded; the mysterious fairy Tinker Bell who so successfully eluded us.

And the places we visited, and the scenes we saw:—the charming nursery scene with Mrs. Darling (Miss Jessie Creswell) telling the children their "good-night" story; the wild forest with the fairy house rising as if by magic under the deft fingers of the lost boys; the underground home filled with eager listeners to Wendy's stories; the mad scenes on the pirate ship; the happy reunion in the nursery again; and the adoption of the proteges of the little girl who "never did things by halves"; and the final scene in the tree tops, as Peter Pan bid Wendy farewell for another year and sent her flying through the air to the land of reality. And then—the lights came on, the hum of conversation began once more, and behold it was all a dream.

Miss Mildred Campbell had the title role and sustained her part admirably. From the moment of his appearance in search of his lost shadow, Peter Pan charmed and delighted his audience. Blithe, merry, innocent and care free, he served as the happy guide to the "Never-never land". Through his changing moods his audience followed him—now as he stoically assured Wendy that it did not hurt to have his shadow sewed on, now in his innocent investigation of the mysteries of "a thimble", now while he supervised the erection of the fairy house, now as he met the bold buccaneer in mortal combat, now as he surrendered Wendy to a mother's love, but quickly soothed his grief to the music of his pipes.

Miss Mary Louise Hayes as Wendy was well-nigh perfect. The little girl going to sleep to the story of Cinderella and waking to

Maryville Quintette Defeated By U. T. At Knoxville, 23-43

HIGHLANDERS PUT UP HARD FIGHT BUT ARE UNABLE TO SHOOT GOALS. WAGNER AND MONTGOMERY PLAY SPLENDID GAME. DURING FIRST HALF TEAMS MAKE EQUAL SHOWING, BUT SECOND HALF IS A RUN-AWAY.

The Highlander quintet dropped their first out-of-town contest of the season to the scrappy U. T. outfit at the Knoxville Y. M. C. A. on last Friday evening 23 to 43. It was due to the inability of the Highlanders to toss goals from the field that they came out losers at the end of the first half, as their superior passing gained for them many opportunities at the goal. In the first half the U. T. team was outplayed in every respect with the exception of goal shooting. In this respect the M. C. men were sadly lacking throughout the entire contest.

During the greater part of the first period, Tennessee was unable to maneuver the ball near her own goal because of the excellent work of the Maryville guards, and the only points which she was able to count were made from long distances. Twice during the first period the Maryville five assumed the lead by two points, each time to be nosed out after a few seconds play. The Tennessee lead reached its maximum for the half as the timekeeper's whistle blew, the score being 18 to 13.

The second verse was an entirely different tune. Three substitutions were made in the Maryville team and then hope for victory soon went up in smoke as the Volunteers started a rush which continued unchecked throughout the remainder of the game.

The team-work displayed by the Highlanders of the original line-up was of top-notch quality. The rough defense put up by Tennessee made passing very difficult, but despite that, the Highlanders zig-zagged the sphere so rapidly that time after time they were enabled to shoot from easy angles near the goal. But there was certainly a jinx roosting on Maryville's goal Friday evening, for although the attempts were practically all very close the sphere was not inclined to go through the ring.

The publicity of the fact that Wagner and Montgomery were the only Maryville men to fight throughout the entire contest is not sufficient honor to pay them ample tribute for their splendid work. Wagner pooled five out of seven foul goals attempted in the first half to which he added two in the second half. Hendrix showed to particular advantage because of his fast and effective floor-work but fell below his usual form in caging field goals.

The U. T. men practically all seemed to play to the grandstand at a sacrifice to general team work. Especially was the playing of McCabe conspicious because of its grandstand qualities.

The next game to be played on the local court will be with U. T. on Friday, January 30. Let's "turn the tables!"

The line-up and summary was as follows:

M. C. (23)		U. T. (43)
Wagner (9)	f.	Bell
Hendrix (6)	f.	Sullivan (8)
Carter (2)	c.	Moss (8)
Cullis	g.	Jones (10)
Montgomery	g.	McCabe (4)

Substiutions: McCullough (4) for Carter; Brown for Hendrix; Cotton (2) for Brown; Davidson for Cullis; Callahan for Cotton; Cotton for McCullough.

Troutman (9) for Bell; Wheelock (4) for Sullivan; Hatcher for Moss; Aycoe for McCabe; Shebert for Troutman.

Officials: Referees, Wheelock and Reeder. Umpire, Prof. E. R. Walker.

WHAT HAPPENED AT DES MOINES

Delegates Give Report on Happenings at Conference.

This is a great big wonderful world, in which we live. There are many remarkable men and women living, whom we, in our narrow life, have never seen or heard. When one meets with a really great character how our actions are influenced by that character. But how a person must feel to meet and hear speak hundreds of great men and women from all of the civilized nations of of the world, for five days straight, who have given their lives for the cause, for which you expect to give your life. What a wonderful experience it must have been to attend the Des Moines Conference! A few of the important events of those five thrilling days have been told by the six Maryville students who attended the conference. The following is the reports of two delegates which were delivered in chapel, Saturday morning, by Misses Mildred Hoffman and Bernice Jones.

The Trip

The delegates from Maryville met in Chicago on December 30, 1919. After having seen the sights and the beautiful gowns in the shop windows, and after having heard an address by Harry Lauder, the delegates continued on the way to Des Moines. On the way, many other delegates, foreign missionaries and leaders of the convention were met.

The delegates were given entrance tickets and shown seats with the representatives of other colleges of Tennessee. The colosseum was divided so that the delegation from each state and nation had a special place to occupy. Three hundred and fifty of the eight thousand delegates were from Tennessee. A map of the world was hung over the platform and was surrounded by flags of all the nations represented at the conference.

The slogan of the convention was, "The Evangelization of the World in this Generation". While at conference, World thinkers and workers were met; among whom was Fred Hope. The delegates were influenced most by the many great personalities that were met; and perhaps, the greatest of those persons was John R. Mott; a great national and international figure. He was found everywhere— all knew and loved him. He was the greatest of all the great men at the conference.

The World Scope of The Convention

The convention was held in the United States; as this is the only nation that was not ravaged to a great extent by the War. Americans were not the only people well represented at the conference, for students and lears were there from every continent and from every large nation except Germany and her allies.

The Americans are blamed for being a commercial people. Business men visit pagan lands where they cheat and rob the natives of their possessions. The trader creates the greatest obstacles for the missionaries. Business and religion should co-operate. Our ambition should not be to get, but to give. We should not merely be an industrial people but must also place ourselves on a common level with other nations and value persons more than commerce or wealth. And remember that the Evangelization of the world in this generation will be possible.

From this we can see what we are up against, and unless we support our team with all that is in us we are apt to succumb to our oldtime rivals—the Green Countians.

AFTER MARRIAGE—WHAT?

DEBATERS MAKE FINE SHOWING IN PRELIMINARIES

Teams Are Chosen and Are Out Hunting Scalps.

The second preliminary for the Intercollegiate debating team took place in the Athenian Hall on January 16th and 17th. Sixteen men were chosen to represent the College in a triangular debate with Tusculum and Emory and Henry Colleges; and a dual debate with Lincoln Memorial University.

Those who were successful in winning a place on the team are determined to make this year a prosperous one for the Forensic League of Maryville College. The first debate is the triangular debate with Emory and Henry and Tusculum, March 8. The Dual Debate will be held April 23. The question for the Triangular Debate is, Resolved: That immigration to the United States from all foreign countries should be prohibited until at least three years after peace has been declared by the United States. The Dual Debate is Resolved: That the government of the United States should own and operate all coal mines.

The affirmative team debating Tusculum at Maryville is composed of W. B. Holmes, Captain; H. Arnold, R. W. Ogan, H. Weisbecker, Alternate.

The negative team debating Emory and Henry is composed of: E. K. James, Captain; O. Stanton, F. S. Minarik, J. M. Cox, Alternate.

The affirmative team debating Lincoln Memorial at Maryville, is composed of: J. B. Deyton, Captain; T. B. Vance, J. Martin, R. A. Armstrong, Alternate.

The negative team debating Lincoln Memorial at Harrogate is composed of: J. Georges, Captain; E. F. Cody, C. McClure, F. D. Brown, Alternate.

The preliminary was characterized by the fighting spirit of all contestants. Those who lost out, showed such ability, that Maryville College is assured of a fine record for the coming years. The contest was judged by three competent men, Professor Bassett, Professor Knapp and Professor Southwick. All appreciate their excellent judgment.

Nine of the debaters are old men who have debated previously on the college team and most of the new men have had experience on strong high school debating teams. In several cases new men showed such ability as to displace old men.

With Professor Hunter as coach, the teams have been organized and have already begun work. The coach is one who has had much experience in debating and has divided the men into teams of relative strength and is sure that he has four strong teams.

The colleges which the teams are to debate have fine records in debating work, and will make a hard fight to win.

With these sixteen good men, with their strong determination, and under the competent coaching of Professor Hunter, we predict that Maryville will add four victories to her fine record, she has already made.

ARMAGEDDON

Play to Be Presented By Theta Epsilon Literary Society, Monday, January 26th.

A modern epic drama in a prologue, scenes and an epilogue written partly in prose and partly in verse, by Stephen Phillips. Mr. Phillips has written a play on the topic of the war. He has done it partly in the Greek way, but very largely in his own way, which is a new way. It deals with one of the biggest issues of the war, with one of the many questions that the war propounds, that will have to be answered; have we the right to take revenge for admitted atrocities?

Mr. Phillip's chief aim has been to exhibit not so much the actions of war as the emotions and powers that are behind war; to raise the whole question to an epic height. He deals rather with universals than particulars.

TUSCULUM IS COMING

They Have Fourteen Points on Us According to Dope. Football Men Are on Team.

On Monday evening U. T. defeated Tusculum on the Knoxville Y. M. C. A. court by the close score of 41 to 35. Therefore, according to dope, Tusculum has it on us by 14 points; and also we must take into consideration the fact that Tusculum will fight just twice as hard against Maryville than against any other school. We went up to Greeneville and fought the Orange and Black football team to a scoreless tie on Turkey Day, so we are naturally expecting them to try their utmost to win an advantage in basketball.

Their entire qintet without exception played against us in football which also goes to prove that the games of February 2nd and 5th will be the hardest fought basketball games of the season. The Tusculum line-up which met U. T. on Monday evening was as follows: Dugger (quarterback) and M. Doak (the doughty full-back) forwards; Campbell (half-back) center; A. Doak (the big tackle) and Sturm (end) guards.

It is not too early to begin talking up, and stirring up pep for, the two big games to be played with Tusculum; the first at Greeneville on Monday, February 2nd. and the second here on Thursday, February 5th.

The Journal and Tribune said "A Tusculum victory over the Vols when the latter invade Greeneville will not come as a great surprise".

Contributions and expressions of opinion are solicited from the student body and from interested alumni.

Last week an article was published concerning the college football team. This was due to the fact that it had been printed by mistake. The article had been mixed with jokes, and was held over until this term; and thus it found its way into the Echo.

There are no ill intentions directed towards any one in the student body on the part of the Editor. The item was written by a student on the Hill, outside of the staff. Shakespear says, "There is good in everything", and even though that article was radical, there is nothing that everybody sees in the same way to arrive at the same conclusion. A big head is often a good thing to possess.

Everybody on the Hill believes that we had the best football team of any college in our standing. Our team had made a reputation for itself, that can not be destroyed by the rash words of any person or group of persons.

A DRY NATION

The day on which the eighteenth amendment of our constitution became a law in the United States was celebrated by special chapel services. Dr. Barnes led the devotional exercises and was followed by a short but constructive speech by our professor of English.

The drive for the prohibition of alcoholic liquor was started one hundred years ago; and through many years, the success seemed doubtful; many of the world's greatest men and women have fought earnestly for a dry nation.

The Civil War was the savior of Demon Rum at a time when the prohibition movement was almost certain to succeed. But, though the life of the saloon was lengthened by the Civil War, the long struggle was at last ended indirectly by the World War. Our flag now waves over a saloonless nation.

DEATH OF WILLIAM HALL

Last Friday morning one of Maryville's students, Mr. Sam Hall, received a telegram from home that his father was seriously ill. Mr. Hall immediately returned home, and found that his father had a serious attack of pneumonia. In spite of all the medical attention the patient succumbed to the dreadful disease, and the end came on Monday night.

Mr. Hall had lived in Taylorsville, Ky., for many years, and was one of that town's most valuable citizens. His son has been a student in Maryville College for the past three years. The Highland Echo wishes to express the sentiment of the entire college in extending to one of its students and to his relatives its deepest sympathy in this time of bereavement.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS THE DELEGATES TO THE DES MOINES CONFERENCE

Mrs. J. Knapp Keiffer Sings.

A very large audience heard and were thrilled by the messages brought from the convention. Mr. H. McGrath spoke on the "Need", Miss M. Robison on the "Call", and Mr. H. Wagner on the "Inspiration" and Miss G. Sydenstricker on the "Challenge". Before the messages, Mrs. J. Keiffer, sang Mark Andrew's "Come Ye Disconsolate."

The great need of the world is Jesus. For nineteen hundred years the gospel has been preached, but not to all the world or to all races. The world awaits the application of the principles of Christ. A Chinese who was not a christian said that unless the Chinese had these principles there would be no hope for the Chinese Republic.

Japan, China, Africa, Asia and India were calling, calling for what America can give—her young people. There are five hundred cities in China that have no missionary, there are seventeen provinces in India that have no missionary, compare New York with two and Chicago with one and you have a fairly good proportion. The call is to America, for they have learned of the U. S. in fighting with them. Black, brown, yellow and red fought to uphold America and a world civilization that was not theirs, shall they not have our best? America is known to them only by the business slogans as "A cigarette for every one in China." The true American is not known to them as is illustrated by a young Japanese who landed on these shores and in the city he found thousands speaking Yiddish, Italian, Russian, Spanish, but nowhere could he use the language he had so painfully tried to learn. Where is America? What is America? It is the heart of the college men and women of today.

The call is best seen in this story. A man had a dream of seeing "Uncle Sam" walking slowly and in evident trouble, and he asked him what the trouble was. He replied that Belgium, France, Serbia, Italy and England were calling him, but he had not the men nor the means at hand. Months later he met "Uncle Sam" at the head of a vast throng crowned with laurel—the victor's crown. Years passed and he met the Christ who said that 1920 years had passed and half the world knows me not; I have hard tasks, difficult tasks for men. America answered the call. What about the answer to the call of Christ?

Is your life a selfish life? If it is you cannot inherit the Kingdom. Life is to give life, not to get life, forsake all and follow is the divine call. In closing a fine illustration was used. A miser in Pittsburgh had a plot of land and a miserable shack. One day an agent of a wealthy man came to buy the land. The price was a hundred thousand. The deal was closed and a few days later the owner came and the miser showed him the land and shack. But the owner did not want the shack, it was the situation. We students of America have a wonderful situation. Shall they repair the old structure or rear a new structure?

The challenge is that to America it is 1920 A. D., but to millions it is still B. C. To get an idea of the millions that know not Christ a figure in proportion was used. It would require 3900 years to seat all the people once in the chapel and ten days to seat all the workers who are striving to reach them with the message.

The challenge comes from millions pleading for help. The help is men and women from the colleges who can teach and uplift them from ignorance. Here you deal statistics, but the missionary on the foreign field deals in dynamics. The challenge is to each one, fail it and you hinder God's plan. Hear the challenge, answer it. Did you have a vision, a call or a dream to enter the business world? Why wait on the call, create it by the vision of a world in need of you.

FOR BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Tournament For East Tennessee High School Teams Will Be Held at College Gymnasium January 30-31.

All the leading high schools of East Tennessee will be represented in the Basketball Tournament. An engraved cup will be awarded the winning team, accompanied by individual trophies, while the team finishing second will receive an engraved cup but of smaller size than the first prize.

All teams (including coach or faculty representative) must be present at the college gymnasium, Friday afternoon, Jan. 30th., at 1 o'clock. At this time all coaches will meet and draw for consecutive places. Games will start at 1:30 o'clock and continue through the afternoon and night and Saturday. On Friday night there will be a high school game and also an intercollegiate game with University of Tennessee. The final game will be played Saturday afternoon at 1:30. This will decide the champions of East Tennessee. All teams can leave after this as soon as it is desirable.

On Friday night the men will eat in the dining hall and will be given sleeping quarters in Carnegie Hall. But to do this we need the co-operation of every man in Carnegie Hall, to show these men a good time and also a hearty welcome to each room to which they are assigned.

In order to dispose of all expenses as possible we have asked several of the business men of Maryville to contribute one trophy to each member of the winning team. The following have very heartily contributed: Seaton's Barber Shop, Norton Hardware Co., The Mary Blount, The Palace Theatre.

All students of Maryville College should patronize these places of business in return of their hearty kindness towards boosting this tournament and Maryville College.

ATHENIAN

Unusual interest is manifest in all forms of literary work this term. One of the many successful programs was listened to in the Athenian Hall Saturday night. The office of musical director is being filled this term by "Tex" Middleton to whom is due the instrumental and vocal numbers. One of the former was given by Arellano in his masterful manner. "Kirk" read the old favorite of A. Noyes—The Highwayman. The debate centered in the "Near East", but it was a calm serene affair, compared to the developments that are taking place in Armenia. The question was resolved, "That the U. S. should accept a mandatory over Armenia." Messrs. Watkins and Beard strove to uphold the affirmative and they did, the lacking in persuasive facts or reasons, they could not be eclipsed in eloquence of analogy or figures. Messrs. Waddell and Hackler failed to match the flowery epitaths of the affirmative and hence lost the decision. Both sides failed in an adequate conception of the question and hence numerous incongruencies were the result which kept the house in merriment. Mr. McCall, an oldtime society man, forty years ago, gave a short talk in which he emphasized the value of literary training, in meeting life's difficulties. It is only the man that applies himself that runs out in the struggle.

BAINONIAN

On account of the Mid-winter rehearsal, many of the members were absent from the society meeting last Saturday night. In spite of this fact, a short, but nevertheless, an interesting program was rendered.

Piano Solo - - Nelle Baker
Current Events - Beulah Hatchett
Reading - - Mildred Copenhaver
Violin Solo - Charlotte Messler

A brief business meeting concluded the meeting.

Now, since the Mid-winter has been given, Bainonian girls can again turn all of their energy and attention to the production of interesting and beneficial programs for the remainder of the year.

BAINONIAN PLAY

play seamstress to Peter Pan, flying eagerly away to "Never-never land" was quickly transformed into a very "motherly" sort of person as she gathered her flock about her in their dark underground home. And how stupid Peter Pan was not to understand that she could and would be something besides a mother to him. Evidently they do not know about leap year in the land of Never-never-never. How brave she was as she stood on the deck of the pirate ship exhorting her young charges to die like English gentlemen! And how thrilling as at last she glided through the air and vanished from our view!

But one of the most delightful things about the land of fairies and of dreams is the swift transition from one scene to another and the sudden appearance of strange and startling characters. The fierce band of pirates with their

"A vast belay, yo ho, heave to" transported us in an instant to the days of Captain Kidd, or perhaps to the night we read "Treasure Island" for the first time, and got up and locked all the doors and windows before we dared finish it. Miss Alice Andes as Captain Hook, bent on wreaking vengeance on Peter Pan, and her redoubtable band of pirates were typical reckless outlaws.

The time would fail us to mention one by one the different characters so cleverly impersonated: the Indian braves and their beautiful and self-sacrificing Tiger Lily; John and Michael, Wendy's attractive little brothers; Nana, the dog that made such a devoted nurse; the six lost boys and the man who would not be a cipher in his own home; Liza the maid, and that "very ordinary", yet very extraordinary fairy Tinker Bell. All filled their alloted places and contributed to the evening's entertainment.

No attempt has been made in this brief account to give a summary of the play. Any one desiring such a summary may seek it in the "Peter Pan" of J. M. Barrie, but it will be but a poor substitute for the same "Peter Pan" filled with life and action by the Bainonian iLterary Society at their annual midwinter entertainment.

The members of the Bainonian Mid-winter Committee desire to take this opportunity of thanking the Athenians for the assistance and loyal support rendered them in the Mid-winter entertainment.

ALPHA SIGMA

On Saturday night, January 17, the society opened with prayer by Mr. Armstrong. The following officers were then sworn in: Ralph Armstrong, Censor; Fred Cagle, Sargeant-at-Arms.

An interesting program was then given. Address by Hillary Park; Debate:
Affirmative, Lawson, Georges; Negative, Stanbery, Knapp.

After a thoroughly discussed debate, including a three minute rebuttal, the decision of the judges was read in favor of the negative.

After the minutes of the previous meeting were read and the treasurer's report given the society closed with prayer by E. K. James.

Every old member of the society should be present next Saturday night with the real Alpha Sigma spirit and lots of pep.

We give a hearty welcome to all new men of College Hill.

MISS HENRY LEADS Y. W.

Our Y. W. service last Sunday was especially good. The subject was, "Before Marriage, What?" Miss Clemmie Henry leader. In her clear and forceful way Miss Henry made each girl feel that it should be the desire of her life to be happy. God meant that we should be happy, and our right conception of happiness came from God. There are three important things necessary to happiness. Our health—our bodies temple. Our purpose—our purpose should be fixed in God. Our Self-Mastery—God meant that we should be queen of our lives, everyone looking forward to the future, to what God has in store for us. God sees what we want to be—will we let him direct us? In closing Miss Henry read the beautiful poem "The Battle of Woman".

The special music consisted of a solo by Mrs. Keiffer, which was especially enjoyed.

THREE BIBLE STORIES TOLD AT "Y" SUNDAY

Mr. Montgomery told the story of Jacob's dream. He gave the historical and geographical background of the time and place where Jacob had his dream. Bethel, the place where Jacob had his dream, was described in a very vivid manner and also was located geographically. We were told why Jacob was journeying in this desert region and how it happened that he had a dream. The time when the Lord appeared was a time when Jacob's mind was not full of material things but of spiritual things.

Mr. Callahan told the story of Job. Job was perfect and upright, but he is more widely known for his patience than anything else, yet his strongest characteristic was not patience but faith. He had a happy home with many herds and all the luxuries that one could wish but he continually made sacrifices to God. All of Job's property was destroyed, all his sons and daughters killed, yet Job did not lose faith in God. He said: "Jehovah made, and Jehovah took away, blessed be the name of Jehovah". The three important characteristics which were brought out by the speaker were patience, strength, and faith.

Mr. McCullough told the story of an important event in the life of Jesus, that of the Sower and the Seed. The speaker brought out many interesting and valuable points concerning the story. It is generally known that the best ground produces the best crops but one does not always know what is the best; therefore, it is necessary to test the ground and find out what kind of crop will grow best in that particular kind of soil. Also whatever a man sows he expects to reap; he does not sow one kind of grain and expects to reap another. So in our spiritual life, we do not or should not do a bad act and expect to reap a good one. This story was illustrated by the kind of mansion we will have in heaven. Our mansions will be erected out of the material we send. The more good deeds we do on earth the better our mansion will be in Heaven.

DR. HATFIELD SPEAKS

The campaign which is now being conducted throughout our land against the dreaded plague Tuberculosis was brought home by a very instructive speech delivered by Dr. Hatfield, Tuesday morning at chapel.

At present there are many campaigns being conducted but there are none more important than the camapign against the White Death. Tuberculosis is caused by a germ which is spread through the air and breeds in filth.

Ignorance, the cause of so many insurrections is the instigator of this plague. One hundred and fifty thousand people die annually in the United States from this disease. Two thirds of all negroes are afflicted with T. B. and yet much of the food in the Southerner's home is cooked by the negro.

This disease which is very communicable and prevalent among all races can be entirely removed by a simple operation; the ignorant must be instructed and the filth destroyed. The purpose of the campaign is to raise five thousand dollars in Blount County to support a nurse and a doctor. The remedy for tuberculosis is fresh air and good food, rest, and no medicine.

Just because we have oranges for dinner, we do not need to scatter orange peel all over the campus.

VOLUME FIVE — MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1920. — NUMBER SEVENTEEN

"All Star Cast" of Thetas Presents Interesting Midwinter

PLAY ARMAGEDDON EXHIBITS EMOTIONS AND FEELINGS THAT ARE AROUSED BY WAR, "LET NOT THY LAND IN VICTORY LOSE HER SOUL". MRS. ELSIE ELLIS AND MISSES SUE NUCKOLS AND GLADYS HUTCHINSON PLAY LEADING ROLES.

"Let not thy land in victory lose her soul". This was the declaration of Jeanne d'Arc in Stephen Phillips' drama" Armageddon" given by the Theta Epsilon Literary Society before an audience of college and townspeople which filled the Chapel last Tuesday evening.

It was the last of a series of remarkable and exceptionally well-played midwinter entertainments. Comparison of the plays given this year by the four literary societies of the College is impossible, for all were of different type, but Armageddon will be rememered best by its hearers for the fine dramatic accomplishments of the persons who played the leading roles, and the force with which was portrayed the victory of truth and national uprightness, exemplified by the Spirit of Jeanne d'Arc, over the love for devastation and revenge, represented by Satan.

The play was not so much a portrayal of war in its worst form as it was an exhibition of the emotions and feelings that are behind war. Its attempt was to answer the question that was asked many times during the war: had we the right to take revenge for admitted atrocities;

The play opened with a representation of Hell where the Arch-fiend, played by Mrs. Elsie W. Ellis, after council with the Powers of Darkness, decides to loose again upon the world the forces of war and ruin and dispatches the shadow of Attila, (Troy Haddox) from Hell to Earth.

The first scene takes place in a French chateau overlooking the burning city of Rheims. General von der Trenk (Sue Nuckols), commander of the Fifth German Army Corps, is receiving reports of enemy spies from his subordinate officers, Elsie Dawson, Jewel Stevens, and Marjorie Lloyd. A French soldier, Pierre (Bernice Kimble), is brought in by German soldiers but he staunchly refuses to divulge the location and the positions of the French Armies. Marie (Susan Carson), the prisoner's sweetheart, is brought in and apparently would give the general the information which he wants in order to save Pierre's life, but is forbidden by him, so fervent is his love for France. Unable to make his prisoner give out any military secrets, even at the threat of death, the General orders Pierre to be removed from the room, and to be shot, whereupon Marie grasps a loaded pistol from the table and turns it upon herself.

Next the Lieutenant reports the arrival of the Abbe of Rheims (Ruth Quinn) and priests (Lillian Hodges and Marie Lowry). They have come to ask him to prevent the destruction of the Cathedral. They appeal to him in the name of the traditions of the acient church, of Goethe, Schiller and Beethoven, in the name of the dead, but all to no avail. The General's reply, for by this time he is wine-flushed, is only their dismissal and orders to his officers, "Let nothing live between you and your goal."

Scene II. is in an English orchard. Lady Murdock (Mary Kate Lewis) and Ethel Millard (Catherine Wilson) are discussing the war when news is brought to them by a friend of the death of their loved one. The Scene was a vivid portrayel of the bravery displayed in the face of anxieties and griefs by the women in time of war.

By the opening of Scene III. the fortunes of the war have changed, and the victorious French, British, and Belgian Armies have reached Cologne. Elsa, (Golda Nicely) daughter of the Burgomaster and Clothida, a Begian girl, (Troy Had-Clothilda, a Belgian girl, (Troy Had-Burgomaster when announcement is made by a German officer that the Allied Armies are entering the city. Elsa persuades Clothilda to hide when General Murdock (Mrs. Ellis) the British officer enters. Elsa courageously pleads with the general to save the church. In a few moments the French Commander, General Larrier (Sue Nuckols), and the Belgian Commander, General Leblanc (Bessie Henry), enter and a debate follows. Generals Larrier and Leblanc argue for destruction and revenge by citing incidents of the German invasions of France and Belgium while General Murdock argues for the higher cause of the Allies and the principles for which they are fighting. A messenger from Allied Headquarters brings the news of the terrible death of General Murdoch's son. For a moment, grief-sticken and angered, he gives way to the other generals' desires of revenge, then suddenly recovering asks an hour's time to give his final decision.

Generals Murdoch and Leblanc retire and General Larrier lies down to rest. When he awakens he finds the spirit of Jeanne d'Arc standing near and proclaiming to him the Spirit of France.

"Let not thy land in victory lose her soul", she charges him, 'How barren is revenge".

"Go onward, onward, but forget revenge,
for so forgetting you remember me."

In the epilogue, the scene the same as in the prologue, Attila brings his report of desolation but acknowledges a strange power, stronger than force. The Power enters Hell and Satan once more summons his forces but finding his Power leaving him he also admits defeat.

Every part in the play was well carried and especially noteworthy were the personations of the immortals, Satan and Jeanne d'Arc by Mrs. Elsie W. Ellis and Gladys Hutchinson, respectively, and the part of General von der Trenk by Sue Nuckols. The play was one of a very dramatic type and required great ability and talent even in the minor roles.

Before the curtain rose a vocal and violin concert was given by Bernice Kimble, Jewel Stevens, Lucille Thorpe, and Elizabeth J. Browning. Between scenes a number of fine selections were given by the College Orchestra under the direction of Professor Garrett.

The Committee of Theta Epsilon which was responsible for the entertainment was composed of Minnie Hunter, Helen Horton, Catherine Ridgeway and Licia Johnson. Indeed the committee and all who took part in the play are to be commented upon their success.

There Will Be a Half-Holiday Saturday Afternoon.

Welcome to The Hill Evangelists.

The dreadful disease smallpox is again in our midst. The result is that all those that have not been vaccinated recently are requested to call on the college physician at the Hospital.

PEP NEEDED

To Get U. T.'s Goat Friday Evening.

On Friday evening, January 30th. the Highlanders will again clash with the redoubtable Volunteer aggregation on the local court. We expect to win this game, in fact, we know we will win if our team shows up in the superior form that it exhibited on the recent Kentucky trip.

We have not had a good chance to show our pep since the close of the football season, but on Friday evening we will be at liberty to release this accumulated pep in support of our team in one of the biggest games of the season.

Negotiations are under way to arrange a contest between the coeds of the two instiutions to be played on the same evening. If this can be agreed upon, the girls will assume for the first time a part of the rivalry which has long existed between these two institutions, as this year marks the beginning of girls' basketball at U. T.

The games which were scheduled to be played with Tusculum on February 2nd. and 5th. have been postponed indefinitely on account of the change in date of the February Meetings. The dates for these games will be announced soon.

BUSINESS MEN BOOST TOURNAMENT

The Business Men of Maryville Have Boosted The Basketball Tournament, Why Not Boost Them?

FEBRUARY MEETINGS START JANUARY 31

Mel Trotter, Hammontree and Singers Coming.

A very great portion of that intangible something known as the Maryville Spirit is contributed every year through the February Meetings. It is through these meetings that hundreds of Maryville men and women have come to see the real value of life, to know the real joy of service, to catch the full strength and beauty of the Christ-life. Throughout the country Maryville men and women are constantly rising up to call the February Meetings blessed, for was it not at Maryville during the February Meetings that the great decision to follow the Master was made, or the great consecration to enter some field of Christian service was determined, or the careless half-hearted Christianity became for the first time a real vital life force?

This year a new leader is coming to conduct the meetings. Mel Trotter, a mission worker and evangelist of national reputation, is to have charge of the services. His life is one of the remarkable evidences of the power of the gospel. Years before his conversion he was a travelling salesman, a type of the hail-well met fellow, but through drink lost his position and almost all he had. He had reached such a state of misery that to end it all he was on his way to Lake Michigan to end it all, when on passing a mission he was practically pulled in. From that time on a new power came into being and he went out to rescue men. He is not an evangelist of the accepted term, but a sane, reasonable minister with a great message. During the war Trotter and Hammontree with the "American Tour" spent twenty months with the troops, preaching and singing to half a million men. Their combined efforts resulted in fifteen thousand men making a stand for Christ. Since the war Trotter and Hammontree with the "American Four" are now engaged in evangelistic campaigns throughout the country. Rarely ever has Maryville had an opportunity to hear and know of a man of such rare gifts and devotion.

But just as great a treat is in store in the way of the musical features of the meetings. Homer A. Hammontree, who is well known to all the older students, is coming to direct the singing and act as soloist. And he knows how to make people sing. Impartial judges place him on a par with Alexander, and Rhodeheaver, and Excell as leaders of song. It is very largely through Mr. Hammontree's influence that Mr. Trotter is coming, for Mr. Hammontree is a loyal Maryville man and a firm friend of the February Meetings.

And the end is not yet! Besides Mr. Trotter and Mr. Hammontree, five other men are coming, a quartet and an accompanist. The quartet, according to Mr. Hammontree, is one of the finest in the business and we are willing to take his word for it and get ready for a treat. A special song book has been prepared for this series of meetings.

And just one thing more. It will not be enough for us to welcome these splendid helpers who are coming, for after all that is all they are, just helpers. We too have our part to do. Let's all get ready for the meetngs. The first service of the series will be Saturday night, January 31, at 6:30. There will be services every night thereafter through the next week and into the next. Also each morning at the chapel hour, 8:10, there will be an hour's service. The public is, of course, cordially invited to all these services.

KENTUCKIANS FALL BEFORE HIGHLANDERS

Three of Four Games Played Are Won.

The Highlanders returned from the Blue Grass Lands of Kentucky with threescalps out of four contests. Leaving here early Tuesday morning they journeyed to Berea College, meeting there first of all a severe rain storm, with the rain freezing as fast as it fell, and making conditions in the way of weather extraordinary for the remainder of the trip. That night they met the Berea College five in the first game of the trip, winning 21 to 12. This is a unique college and the thousand or more fans rooted hard for victory for Berea, but in vain for Maryville maintained a steady lead throughout. The Score:

Berea College	Maryville
Fowler 2	Wagner 5
Fields 6	Hendricks 10
Stephenson 2	Carter 4
Neil	Cullis
Clark 2	Montgomery
	Cotton 2
Total 12	21

Leaving Berea at noon the next day a fifty mile auto ride through rain and mud over the Boone Way brought the team to Danville and Centre College. After viewing some of Walter Camp's All-American football material and talking football where Harvard and Ohio State were constantly mentioned and where the score of the defeat of West Virginia was painted large upon the buildings, talk changed to that of basketball. Centre College had not lost a game of basketball, football or baseball on its home court in four years. They had not lost a game of basketball in the State since January 1917. Truly, the game that followed that night in Centre's ideal gym will long be remembered by all there. At the close of the first half of terrific battling the score stood Maryville 15 and Centre 12. The second half was a whirlwind, and the crowd loyal to the core behind the Centre team demanded victory for them. Maryville increased the lead to 5 points, but Centre came back and tied and then went 3 points ahead. Again Maryville tied and gained 3 points lead in addition, and there it remained for three long minutes of exciting playing until the final whistle blew and the referee announced the score Maryville 28, Centre 25. The Score:

Centre College	Maryville
Davis 9	Wagner 4
Walden 6	Hendricks 10
Diddle 2	Carter 12
Bell 6	Montgomery 2
Groddy 2	Coton, Cullis
Total 25	28

The next night found the squad facing Kentucky State. Here they met a fine team who gained a slight lead at the very start of the game and increased it throughout the contest. Due to the rain and freezing the lights went out successively in both the State and Transylvania gyms and the game was finally played in the new high school gym long after nine o'clock. Maryville fought hard but after the grilling at Centre the night before it was a case of "the spirit willing but the flesh weak", and they lost their only game to a good team. Score 27 to 16.

Kentucky State	Maryville
Blakey 6	Wagner 3
Hayden 11	Henricks 7
Everett 6	Carter 4
Smith 4	Cullis
Burnham 1	Montgomery
	Cotton 2
Total 27	16

JUST THINK—MARVELOUS

Center College may be the world's champions in football, but our team defeated their prospects of becoming the basketball champions.

Word has been received that Miss Louise Proffitt, daughter of Professor and Mrs. F. L. Proffitt, is past the crisis of her illness and that a quick recovery is expected.

The Girls' Basketball Team left on a trip Tuesday morning. They played Cumberland College Tuesday evening and Union College Wednesday evening.

BLUE RIDGE DELEGATION

Y. M. C. A. To Send Twenty Men.

At least twenty fellows from Maryville are going to Blue Ridge to the Student Conference next June. The college delegation minimum for Maryville is twenty men. If you can possibly attend this great gathering of Southern Students, plan to spend June 10-21 at Blue Ridge.

All the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet members for 1920-21 will be expected to attend, officers, and committee chairman. The expense will be partly born by the college association, the amount depending on the urgency of the case.

The Conference at Blue Ridge is the most important meeting of students that takes place annually. Almost a thousand men from the Southern colleges and universities share in the ten days of wonderful companionship with one another, with the mountains, and with God. Besides class work and lectures, there are athleic contests, hikes and motor trips through that wonderful "land of the sky".

One of the most valuable features of the Conference is the opportunity for personal fellowship with great men. Any delegate may have a private interview with men like Robert Spear, Dr. Murray, or other experts of the religious, social, and industrial world. In this way the individual gets a solution to his personal problems, and the Association a solution to all its problems of organization and management. Vocational experts trained in government service are ready to give vocational guidance which will direct the student toward his life work. The Student Volunteer gets new visions of need, the medical student sees new fields of practice, and the scientific student finds new enterprises calling for his knowledge. No student can ever spend these ten days at Blue Ridge and afterwards be the same person.

If you would be interested in attending this Conference, talk it over with one of the officers of the Association so that some means may be devised for you to attend.

Those who are contemplating a scholarship for the summer would do well to send in their application at once to Dr. Weatherford.

Later in the spring a special campaign will be given to the enlistment of delegates, but your early attention should be given to this important item. Surely if Tusculum can send eight, and The University of Tennessee thirty, Maryville will not fall short of her quota.

VESPERS

Prayer and Its Principles

The words of the thirteenth verse of the eighteenth chapter of the Gospel of Luke, were used as a basis for the discussion of the principles of prayer. Christ in His teaching was never profound. Although His message had a great depth of meaning, yet it was understood by all conditions of men.

The first principle of prayer is faith. A woman pressed eagerly through the throng, urged on by a devout and persistent faith, to touch His garment. It was not the touch that healed; it was the way and the spirit. The second principle is benevolence. A widow cast in two mites, yet it was more than all the others. It is not the amount that is given, but what is left. The third principle is the need. The publican reveals a great lesson—because he is a type of the despised, yet could approach Christ. His cry for help was like the cry of the blind man by the wayside and of Peter. The publican's cry necessitated reconciliation. He smote upon his breast—signifying his earnestness. Can it be wondered that he went away justified.

BAINONIAN

The program at Bainonian last Saturday night was one of an unusual type. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. Bainonian acting on this principle, decided she had worked hard the last few weeks.

Each girl answered roll call with her favorite by-word. This was beneficial to the girls in two ways: first, each one found that hers was not the only expressive phrase in the realm of by-words, and second, it afforded an opportunity for each one to add to her vocabulary.

Every one enjoyed the excellent piano solo which was rendered by Mary Emma Armentrout. Then came the climax of the program. "Who can tell the Biggest Joke?" The participants of this contest were, Mary Broady, Billie McIver, Bernice Jones, and J. Lynn McClung.

The championship was not awarded to any one for other members of the society insisted that they knew bigger jokes than any which had been told.

To conclude the program the society sang "America".

MRS. JOHN CRAWFORD LEADS Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. service Sunday was led by Mrs. John Crawford, who had for her subject After Marriage—What? Mrs. Crawford stressed the need of a higher education, this fits one for whatever comes, and hinders early marriage. There were three types of Women mentioned, "The Butterfly Woman", "The Professional Woman" and "The True Wife and Homemaker". The requisites of the last mentioned are, Cheerfulness, Perfect Self-Control, the Meeting of Life's Duties Bravely, Elimination of Nerves. To possess these requisites we must invoke God's help. "Go, enter not lightly into the marriage relationship; but with a fear of God in your heart, a conviction your are acting wisely and a determination to do your full duty".

A vocal solo, "The Plains of Peace", was very beautifully sung by Miss Winston Newton.

U. T. GAME

Tired and weary but determined the Highlanders traveled to Union College at Barboursville. The gym they met there was an old deserted church building with the ball always in play, and a team knowing the court. Union took the lead at the end of the first half and two long goals put the score in their favor at its end 15 to 11. The second half proved all Maryville's and with air-tight guarding by Cullis and Montgomery, Maryville's guards, and accurate shooting by Wagner, Cotton, and Hendricks the game proved a victory. Maryville 32, Union 26.

Union College	Maryville
Overly 8	Cotton 12
Dunbar 18	Hendricks 4
Faulkner	Wagner 14
Franklin	Carter 2
Barker	Cullis, Montgomery

Well, we'll hand it to you fellows:—Coach Feeman for the team he is puting out upon the floor; Hendricks for his scoring ability that puts that pill time and again in the old basket; Captain Wagner for the way he covers the floor and turns in the points; "Alabama Slim" Carter who works like a trojan and is in the front on the attack on the goal; Cotton who is at home at any position; Cullis and Montgomery who as guards are the backbone of the team, and who match any pair seen on College Hill in many a day.

Points scored during the trip were: Hendricks 31; Wagner 26; Carter 22; Cotton 16; Montgomery 2.

Maybe that boy Montgomery did not put a pretty one through for the last one in that Centre game.

ATHENIAN

The usual formal program was carried out under the guiding hand of Athena. An opening selection by the quartet, brought forth a hearty applause which could only be appeased by a return. A cat story by Fount Robinson, read with all the graces of his Irish brogue, was a pleasing diversion. A lively, peppy and snappy debate on the question of Irish home rule proved a very instructive discussion. McCall and Houston presented the facts, arranged in a clear and convincing way, for the affirmative. Poor downtrodden and oppressed Ireland has two stalwart supporters on the Hill. On the other hand, Wagner and Janovisky, showed that it meant religious war, and that Ireland would be torn in pieces and would be ruined if given Home Rule. Both sides won as the house voted to give Ireland its fredom, but the judges decided it was better for Ireland to be forever a part of the British Empire.

SONG SERVICE

Y. M. C. A. Service Led By Professor Hall.

Music plays an important part in our religious worship. Music has always been an important factor in worship even in heathen lands among uncivilized peoples as well as the highly civilized whether the worship was Divine or otherwise.

Singing is a spiritual exercise. The spirit is the dynamo of minds. Our bodily actions are governed by our spiritual and mental exercises to a great extent. Leaders of music are able to concentrate and through the influence of a good leader many others may likewise become able to concentrate. Not only the minds of each individual but the community should join in community song services.

The greatest danger we face today is the danger of spiritual decay; therefore the greatest need of the day is that of Spiritual development.

A special number was given by the men's quartet, also Professor Hall gave a solo.

On account of the February Meetings the Echo will not be published next week.

Basketball Tournament

Our Kind College Pastor, Dr. W. P. Stevenson, also contributed one of the trophies which will be given.

These men were kind enough to contribute these trophies, why shouldn't we PATRONIZE them and give them all service possible in reurn for their kindness?

BOOST THEM BECAUSE THEY HAVE HELPED US.

The tournament will begin Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock and all teams must be present as places will be drawn for and rules will be interpreted at this time. Six games will be played Friday afternoon. This will allow all teams to participate and will eliminate one half. One game will be played Friday night, also another game, M. C. Varsity vs. University of Tennessee. This will give all visitors a chance to see a good inter-collegiate game. Three games will be played Saturday morning, thus eliminating all except two teams. Saturday afternoon, a half holiday will be given and the final and championship game will be played.

All the leading High Schools of East Tennessee will be present. The following are certain:

Knoxville High School.
Central High School of Knoxville,
Lenoir City High School
Wheat High School
Greeneville High School
Central High School of Newport
Maryville High School
Maryville Polytechnic School
Harrison Chilhowee Institute
Tennessee Military Institute

Each team will be composed of seven players and coach or faculty representative. These men will stay in Carnegie Hall Friday night and we ask the students to show them a good time.

The swimming pool will be open, and special chapel exercises will be given Saturday morning.

We want to ask for the co-operative work of every fellow, in placing these men in the hall. Every fellow should be in his room after supper Friday night as these eighy visitors will be asigned to rooms at this time.

Let's boost this tournament and let these men get acquainted with our school which means a better Maryville College.

PALACE PROGRAM

THURSDAY, JAN. 29TH.—

Bryant Washburn in "PUTTING IT OVER". He's the village cut-up! A regular devil-may-care cuss who tears up the town and stays out late at night! Comes staggering out of ice-cream parlors at 10 o'clock at night 'n everything. He is some humdinger. So is She—in a different way. So is the picture. You'd never forgive yourself for missing it—if you did. You won't though; you're coming! Also Pathe News

FRIDAY, JAN. 30TH.—

Ethel Clayton in "MEN, WOMAN AND MONEY". She has no money, yet men persue her for it. Penniless though she is, women try to fleece her. She loves money for the things it will buy. She detests it because it will not buy the love she craves. What kind of woman is she? The question is answered in "Men, Woman and Money", a vivid story of the upper crust of society. Come Also a Comedy.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 31ST.

Mary Pickford in "THE HOODLUM". This is the picture you have been waiting for, you remember Mary in Daddy Long Legs, well she is better in "The Hoodlum". 'Nuf sed, now you can't afford to miss this picture.

MONDAY, FEB. 2ND.—

D. W. Griffith presents "THE GREATEST QUESTION". Is there life after death? What is your idea of spiritualism Is there one way streets of returning? No. Yes. And where does that street lead, Is it Heaven or Hell? Or something or nothing. Griffith handles in his most skillful way this question. Also Wm. Duncan in 'Smashing Barriers".

TUESDAY, FEB. 3RD.

Bert Lytell in "THE RIGHT OF WAY" is something different. It is a story that has thrilled and held spellbound millions in every civilized country in the world. A vital, tremendous brilliant play.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 4TH—

Wallace Reid and Wanda Hawley in "YOU'RE FIRED". The idea of making a shiftless young man work for three months without getting fired, if he wanted to marry the girl, is something that will tickle your fancy. It's great, and you oughtn't to miss it.

THURSDAY, FEB. 5TH—

Vivian Martin in "AN INNOCENT ADVENTURESS". You know how it is; you try to do something for a friend and—Bang Every thing comes tumbling down around your head. That's how it happens in "An Innocent Adventuress". It's the most "life like" picture you ever saw, it will make you laugh a hundred times at similar past adventures in your own life. Come, wont you. TABLE NO. 15 RIPS LOOSE

Impelled by a Leap Year proposal the boys of table number fifteen entertained the girls of the table with a real provisioned picnic last Monday afternoon. Not a minute of the moonshine period was wasted by any member of the table. In fact five minues of forbidden time was consumed in saying good-bye by some of those to whom such opportunity does not come every day.

The refreshments were served in the "ticket office" out by the football field. The table was tastefully decorated with wienies, sandwiches, bottle of mustard, pickles, and a two gallon can of cocoa, apple pie garnished with ice cream was served for desert. Much wood alcohol was used in cooking, but as yet no casualties have been reported.

As the ice cream and the weather did not contain many calories of heat producing substance a baseball game was organized. Due to the superb batting average of Heinie Zimmerman and "Little Mose" the team of Manager Farmer defeated the team of Manager Deyton by a score of 32 to 12.

PERSONAL

Miss Ora Lawson, a former student of the college was a visitor on the Hill for the week-end. She is teaching at Elkmont, Tennessee.

THE SUFFRAGE LEAGUE

The Equal Suffrage League held a call meeting in Pearsons parlors on Wednesday at 12:10. It was voted that the fund for the support of the War Orphan be paid at once by the treasurer.

The following new officers were elected: Winston Newton, president; Hattie Hayes, vice-president; Licia Johnson, secretary; Mary Louise Hayes, treasurer; Josephine Hamilton, editor. Elizabeth Whitlock was appointed chairman of program commitee.

There being no further business to come before the league and the dinner bell having already sounded it was moved and seconded that the league adjourn; the motion carried the unanimous vote by the rise and run sign.

ALPHA SIGMA

Did you go to Society Saturday night? No! What a good meeting you missed! A very interesting program was rendered by all participants.

Mr. Charles McClure gave a humorous reading, entitled, "Wasted Opportunities". This was rendered in a very humorous way and was greatly enjoyed.

Following were two extemporaneous speeches: "America's Success in Eradicating the Reds", Homer Weisbecker; "Maryville's Need of Honor System in School Work", Ralph Armstrong. These were short yet they contained some thoughts worth remembering.

The debate, Resolved: That an independent state be set aside for all negro population of the U. S., the government of which to be subject to protectorate of U. S., was upheld by the following members, Jackson, affirmative; Husky, negative. After a hard fought debate, with rebuttal, the decison of judges was rendered in favor of the negative.

Society closed with prayer by Mr. Armstrong.

JUNIOR FORENSIC

Preparatory students are looking forward with much interest to February 2nd. and 3rd., the days on which the preliminaries of the Junior Forensic League will take place.

Two strong teams are indicated by the large number of candidates who are working hard to participate in the dual debate with Tusculum on April 12th. Professors Orr, Brittain and Jones have consented to act as judges in the tryouts. Professor Hunter will act as chairman. The question is: Resolved, That before reaching the age of twenty-two all male citizens of the United States should be required to take miliary training equivalent to six months service in the army.

HIGHLANDERS ADD ANOTHER SCALP TO THEIR COLLECTION

The scrappy Emory and Henry quintet, with most of their attack centered in Jackson and Anderson, threw a man-sized scare into the camp of Maryville College when they held the Highlanders to a 42 to 27 score Wednesday evening in the best game played on the local court this season.

From the way the game started off it looked as if it might terminate in a draw, but in the middle of the first period Maryville assumed the lead by caging three field goals within two minutes. This lead was retained throughout the remainder of the game, but was seriously threatened in the first part of the second period when Emory and Henry started a rush in which they counted twelve points to Maryville's two, making the score 23 to 21.

The first half was featured by two long and difficult shots by Wagner and one by Anderson. Of the visitor's total of 27 points Jackson accounted for 13 and Anderson for 14. Although Jackson is somewhat diminutive in stature he possesses remarkable skill and quickness in every phase of the game.

Montgomery showed to a marked advantage because of his fast floor-work.

EX-GOVERNOR HANLEY OF INDIANA SPEAKS

In Presbyterian Church Feb. 2 On Prohibition. "America, The Torch-bearer" Subject.

Ex-Governor Hanley of Indiana gave his famous lecture, "America, the Torch-bearer" in the New Providence Church, February 2nd., at 8 p. m. The Governor arrived late due to the fact that he had to make the trip from Knoxville to Maryville by auto. However, he arrived plenty early to give his audience a splendid lecture, and no one present regretted the time spent in waiting his arrival. Governor Hanley is well known among the citizens of Maryville and Blount County, because he had made speeches here previously when he was a candidate for president on the prohibition ticket. Blount County considers itself as one of the most favored counties in the State because it has had these opportunities of hearing this great American statesman.

The Governor introduced his lecture by giving a brief history of the war, and America's part in the making of that history. He showed how America was essentially concerned in the war, and why America must be essentially concerned in the problems of peace or else the things for which the America soldiers fought would be lost. The map of the world has been changed, governments have been crushed, new problems have arisen; and it is the duty of the United States not to forget her responsibility to the world, but to face the crisis, and become the Torch-bearer.

The governor's speech was divided into two distinct heads. First, he gave a discussion on Bolshevism, and then a discussion on prohibition. He compared Bolshevism to that terrible, death-raging monster autocracy. He showed how the United States and the allied nations of Democracy overcame and crushed autocracy had planned to destroy our rights, to tear down our institutions of free government and wrap the chains of military slavery around the free peoples of the earth. Time and again the sky was black and it seemed that the allies would lose the victory, but when the United States entered the war tide changed; and the second battle of the Marne put the Huns to flight, and autocracy's death knell had been sounded; and the allies have gained the glory of securing in a certain measure those things for which they fought.

Among these things were ideals and morals. These things are greater than armies, more powerful than armies. Victory does not always fall on the side of the mightiest, if it did Germany would have won the war in ninety days; but yet Germany lost the war, because right was not on Germany's side. The allies were contending for principles, for the intangible things, for the spiritual things, for ideals—these are the things which gave to the allies the victory.

But this victory was not gained without a loss. It was gained on fields of battle, soldiers lost their lives, homes were broken up, and horrors too terrible for description were the price. Nevertheless liberty loving nations intervened to save the world, and made this sacrifice in order that civilization may not perish. It is our duty not to forget this price, and keep secure from present dangers the victories that have been won.

There are great dangers that are more threatening than autocracy—the most threatening of these dangers is the Red Terror or Bolshevism. It is fast sprading over the world. Russia has been held in its clutches, it has reached Europe, and now it is penetrating America. The results of its spreading are alarming. It is a terrible thing. It knows no laws; it has no religion; it fears no God. It destroys, it burns, it kills as it hews its way into the hearts of nations. This dreadful plague has attacked America. It is America's duty to suppress this agitation. America must keep the light burning; America is the Torch-bearer, and must show the other nations the way back. Can it be kept on the other side of the sea? There are representatives of Bolshevism and anarchy in all parts of the United States. They are planning to ruin our nation, to ruin the world. They are creating industrial strife; they are planning to overthrow law and order; they are endeavoring to sow their seed among the foreigners who seem to be fertile soil. This is a brief description of Bolshevism, its spread, and its purposes.

However, its activities among the foreigners in this country are practically our fault. We have done nothing to assimilate, nothing to Americanize the foreigner. It was impossible for such conditions to continue indefinitely without a reaction.

HIGHLAND LASSIES ADD TWO SCALPS

Cumberland and Union College Girls Go Down in Defeat. Maryville's Guards Play an Exceptionally Good Game.

Tuesday, January 27, 1920 will be a date long remembered by nine Maryvillians, namely the basketball team, including Miss Seivers, as chaperon, and Coach Weisbecker. The rain had somewhat dampened the spirits of the girls, as they had all borrowed spring hats and suits and could not wear them.

Wednesday the team journeyed to Williamsburg, where the Orange and Garnet Lassies defeated the Cumberland College girls 12 to 7. The smallness and closeness of the score indicate a hard fought game. However, Maryville took the lead in the first ten seconds of play, when Blanche Bailey made a pretty shot from the field, this lead was never overcome or tied by Cumberland. The game was marked by some great guarding on both sides, indeed it was a battle between guards, and in Anne Samsel and Cora Ingle, Maryville has a pair that can't be beat.

Thursday night, the team arrived at Union College, Barbersville, Ky., and another scalp was added to the Maryville string. The score being M. C. 19, Union 11. It was a hard fought game, the score being tied in the second half at 9 all, then Captain Bailey broke loose and piled up a safe victory margin.It was in this game that Marjorie Lloyd, our big center starred. Union College also wants to know where Maryville College obtained such good guards. Elsie Dawson, our speedy forward, although sick, played in the first half, but was replaced by Kate Smith in the second half, whose aggressive team work pulled the game out of the fire.

We are with you on these kind of meetings, Tusculum for they will leave something which you may look back to in days to come.

OPIE READ FAMOUS READER COMING

On Friday night, February 20th., Opie Read will appear on the lyceum course. This number is one of unusual attraction. Opie Read is like no one else in the world. His very presence lends a strange enchantment to his stories. You may have read with enjoyment his books, his plays, or his clever character sketches; but until you sit within the sound of his voice, and hear from his own lips the quaint tales that originate in his brain, you cannot fully appreciate the splendid genius of the man.

On the platform, Mr. Read shines with a brilliance all his own. Everywhere he is received with enthusiasm. The indescribable witchery of his words, the charm of his voice and manner, the influence of his personality, combine to weave a magic spell that holds the hearers enthralled. One minute roaring with laughter at some humorous bit, the next staring at the speaker through hot, blinding tears, with a feeling that you will never smile again—only to break into fresh screams of laughter immediately after— you realize that this remarkable man has the power to sway his audience at will. Mr. Read's program will be varied and each number promises to be a gem.

STATE STUDENT CONFERENCE FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS

To Be Held at Maryville, March 27 and 28.

In this age when, in order to accomplish big ends, men must band together, it is necessary that if Tennessee shall in the near future be fully represented in Christ's work, an organization of students willing to give themselves to that work shall be completed.

In order to be an all-round Christian, it is necessary that the student in choosing a life-work, shall consider the World in his decision, not merely one corner of it called the United States. Christ's field is the World and to His disciples He said, "Go ye into ALL the World", not one corner of it. We cannot play the Christian game squarely until we believe that Christ meant us just as surely when He said "Go ye" as He did, when He said "Come unto Me and I will give you rest". We cannot, as Christians, accept the Promises of Christ about which we have heard so much during the past meetings and reject His Commands. We accept or reject the whole Bible, not one part of it.

What can Christ mean in Matt. 22:38-39? Does He mean the man living next door or also the nation living next door? If God wants us, as Mr. Trotter said, to have a passion for winning souls, does God mean that we shall be content to

U. T. GOES DOWN IN DEFEAT BEFORE ORANGE AND GARNET WARRIORS

SPLENDID TEAM WORK OF HIGHLANDERS ENABLES FORWARDS TO SHOOT GOALS AND WIN OUT. VOLUNTEERS FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO MAKE LONG SHOTS. CARTER MARYVILLE'S BIG CENTER STARS.

Friday evening, January 30th., will long be remembered by Maryville College as an evening of triumph, and by U. T. as an evening of overwhelming defeat. For it was upon that evening that two decisive victories over the Volunteers were added to the embellishment of Highlander laurels. Two rip-snorting good teams, two superior coaches, two peerless captains, ten tip-top basketball sharks, and almost a thousand live rooters full of pep, made possible the crushing defeat of the U. T. boys' and girls' fives on January 30th.

The M. C. co-eds threw their opponents into panic by a score of 34 to 6, and, while the Volunteer boys put up a most commendable fight, they also suffered a severe drubbing at the mercy of the Highlanders, 23 to 11.

In the girls' game, which began at 7:30, everything went in favor of the "Highlanderesses" from the blowing of the first whistle on throughout the remainder of the game. Only twice during the first period did the Tennessee forwards have the privilege of so much as feel of the ball in play, and, although it was frequently passed to them in the second period, all of their six points were accounted for by free foul tosses.

Of Maryville's total of 34 points, Bailey was responsible for 22. Her shooting was spectacular in that she shot from all angles and positions despite the strong resistance of her guard. Dawson at the other forward according to actual count caged five field goals, but the value of her playing cannot be measured in points as her brilliant passing was more than once directly responsible for Bailey's successes. The fact that the Tennessee forwards scarcely ever had an opportunity at the goal bears evidence to the truth of the assertion that the Maryville guards and centers were always on the job in matchless form.

Parham and Headrick who played in the second half deserve credit for their good showing as they are somewhat new at the sport.

Whether U. T. will want another game with the M. C. girls this season, we do not know, but we do know that they will have to show a decided reversal of form if they intend to interest the Orange and Garnet lassies.

The line-up and score:

Maryville (34)		Tennessee (6)
Bailey (22)	f.	House (2)
Dawson (10)	f.	Johnson (1)
Lloyd	c.	Rockwell
Samsel	g.	Lowe
Ingle	g.	Stark

Substitutions: For Maryville, Parham (2) for Bailey; Headrick for Dawson. For Tennessee: Seter (3) for Johnson. Referee, Prof. C. W. Henry; Timekeeper, Ed. Harper.

Playing their tenth game of the season the boys' quintet won their eighth victory on Friday evening, with the score slightly more than two to one in their favor.

From the very first the Highlanders showed a decided advantage over their opponents, which increased as the game advanced. Maryville assumed the lead at the first and retained it throughout the remainder of the contest, and at no time did the visitors threaten this steadily widening lead. At the end of the first half the score was 13 to 7, to which, in the second half Maryville added 10 and Tennessee 4.

Both the teams showed an apparent disability at tossing goals from the field and it was due to Maryville's superior team work that they were enabled to shoot from easy angles and thus win out. Tennessee, especially, made many long attempts some even from the opposite end of the court, of which all but a few went wild or fell short. No Tennessee man could boast of having made more than one field goal during the entire game.

As the Volunteers have no love for Maryville, and have been accustomed to playing on a much larger court, their playing was consequently very rough and many fouls were called on both sides. Out of nine free tosses McCabe was able to succeed in caging but two and this deficiency counted dearly against the Vols in the final settlement.

Carter was the shining star in Maryville's firmament, as 13 of the total of 23 points accredited to the Highlanders were of his making. But with the exception of our doughty center it would be difficult to designate any particular player as having outshone the others as they all played brilliantly and showed a marked superiority over their opponents. Cullis, however, displayed more of his stellar qualities of football fame than in any previous contest of the season.

For Tennessee, Wheelock and Jones were conspicious because of their excellent floorwork and McCabe was always much in evidence for other reasons.

The score and line-up was as follows:

Maryville (23)		U. T. (11)
Hendrick (4)	f.	Troutman (3)
Wagner (6)	f.	Sullivan (4)
Carter (13)	c.	Jones
Montgomery	g.	Bell
Cullis	g.	McCabe (2)

Substitutions: Whelock (2) for Troutman. Shubert for Sullivan. Hatcher for Bell.

Referee. D. W. Proffitt, of Maryville; Umpire: Majors, of Tennessee. Timekeepers: Ed. Harper, Frank Calloway.

JUNIOR FORENSIC NOW COMPRISES TWO STRONG TEAMS

The preliminary for the Prep debating teams was held in Athenian Hall on February 2nd. and 3rd. It is evident that the judges, Hon. D. J. Brittain and Professor Purdy had a very difficult task on hand by the large number of candidates, and also by the Forensic qualities shown in each debate. Every man entered the fray with a determination to win.

Eight men were chosen to represent the Prep Department in a dual debate with that of Tusculum on April 12th. The question for debate is one of real interest to all Americans and is now being discussed with greatest enthusiasm all over the U. S.

It is Resolved: That before reaching the age of 22 all male citizens of the U. S. should be required to take Military Training, equivalent to six months in the army.

The affirmative team which defends our colors at home consists of Sam Franklin, Jr., captain; Charles Maye, Verton Queener, Floyd Corry, alternate.

The negative team goes to Tusculum and is as follows: C. G. Johnstone, captain; David King, David Friedman, Edward Hargraves, alternate. With Professor Hunter as coach, both teams are confident of victory and every man is determined to make Maryville an all-round winner.

Forty-third Series of February Meetings Reaps Harvest of Two Hundred and Ten Converts

"MEL" TROTTER LED FEBRUARY MEETINGS

Vast Throngs Filled the College Chapel to Overflowing.

The first year of the new century of Maryville College will be remembered by the outstanding fact of the February Meetings. The College owes a debt of gratitude to Homer Hammontree for his untiring efforts in bringing 'Mel' Trotter. The meetings this year are notable in the large attendance, in the sincerity and power of the speaker and the music. It is safe to say that no one on "College Hill" has not felt the influence of these meetings, for they were designed to reach everyone and have reached everyone. The story that "Mel" Trotter told and will tell is the simple story of the Christ in action in every day life. This story he tells in the language of the of the man in the street. As he tells it, the story has a new meaning of power revealed in the language and phraseology of the down-and-outer. At times his wit is as keen as a rapier. Again the humor will be that of the readiness of the Irishman. At one moment the audience would be laughing and in an instant they would be all aglow with indignation and shame at the sins that drag men and women to the depths of hell. Trotter, the man, was all the time terribly in earnest and hurled denunciation after denunciation at the follies of men and women. But one thing stands out prominently, his sarcasm, biting and stinging of every false creed and worship. One other thing, he was a master at word pictures. All his messages were illustrated by word pictures that seemed as if drawn by an artist's hand. Finally, he had added to all this the energy of a tiger at bay fighting sin and, the love, the tenderest touch of a mother's hand and voice when in communion with his Jesus.

"Mel" Trotter won the hearts of the students from the first message. And no wonder for he was tremendously in earnest about the Gospel. He won the "Hill" and the "Hill" won him. His earnest and untiring zeal filled the chapel every time he spoke. And when he spoke every message carried the reality of the Saviour to the hearts of all. The reality he made real by his own personal testimony—a story that proves every claim of the Gospel. All through his sermons he would illustrate a telling point from his own experience. A few glimpses of the man, "Mel" Trotter, are here given, but are not exhaustive.

At the time of his conversion he was wandering the streets of Chicago, a homeless, worthless wretch, with hardly enough clothes to cover him. He had been kicked out of a saloon and was on his way to Lake Michigan to drown himself. On passing the Pacific Garden Mission he was pushed in and sat down and soon was fast asleep. When he awoke they were giving an invitation to accept Christ and seeing "Old" Fogerty (a noted bum who had been saved) "I, 'Mel' Trotter put up my hand and went to the front knocking several chairs down on my way. But I got a glimipse of Jesus in that hour and I have never wanted a drink since."

Time after time he tried to quit drinking and could not. Again and again he signed the pledge, even in his own blood. Prison bars, the pleading of his wife and the prayers of his mother could not stop his appetite for strong drink. He reduced his home to the bare walls with hardly a stick of furniture and clothes to cover the bodies and his wife and child.

He came home one day to find his wife cold and ill, and carrying the dead body of their child. Before God and with his hand on the head of his dead child he promised never to taste a drop of whiskey again. Two hours after the funeral he was carried home helplessly drunk. After this he became a common gutter snipe, not because he wanted to, nor because he did not love his wife and home, but because he knew not Jesus.

Whenever he referred to the past it was always with the greatest emotion that he told of his life. The story was revealed a little at a time and spontaneously with characteristic phrases. "I am doing the best I can with the tools I have got." "Believe me, mother knew how to raise boys—her left slipper was always handy and she raised them all right." "Mother, dear old mother, she is praying for her big boy now."

"I am only a big 'boob' saved by the Saviour."

"Men, you don't know what I have gone through—at seventeen I was a drunkard."

"I have signed the pledge; taken the gold cure; promised the judge on the bench to live right and the only power necded was 'Jesus'."

Mr. Trotter is head of the Pacific Garden Mission in Chicago, the mission where he was converted. He is also head of the Rescue Mission in Grand Rapids, Michigan. He has founded sixty-seven other missions and is actively interested in maintaining them although they are scattered all over the U. S.

TEXTS AND SUMMARIES OF SIXTEEN SERMONS DELIVERED DURING FEBRUARY MEETINGS OF 1920 GIVEN.

The mountain top experience thru which the students have passed must have left a thrill like that which came to Peter on the mountain top when he said, "Lord it is good for us to be here." The messages were of such a nature that many will want to remember them. Here is given the text and a brief summary of the message:

January 31st., opening service was from Psalms 85:6-9. Theme, "The need of a revival". God who is the author of all revivals has the object in mind that we may rejoice in gladness to Him. The cry of the Psalmist was for mercy and mercy implies confession. The Psalmist could have no compromise with sin and rejoice. It is the saved soul that rejoices in God.

Feruary 1st., evening service, the scripture ferences were, Luke 12, 9 and 14. Theme, "Where the Christ is, there is also the crowd." Christ is the center of all things. Christ works all things from the center. The crowd knows Him and He knows the crowd. The crowd clings to Him, not only to touch Him, but to live with Him. The program of Jesus, is one of building and warring founded on Himself. To complete this program He needs men.

February 2nd. evening service, the text was Judges 7:7. Theme, "In the days of thy trouble, pray." It was a time of great trouble in Isreal. The answer to their prayer was Gideon. When God needs a man for His work He finds him. But there are men He cannot use—the fearful, the trembling and the man with their eyes on the enemy. Nine thousand and seven hundred of Gideon's men took off their armor, but three hundred kept their eyes on the enemy and their sword ready. These are the types of men God wants.

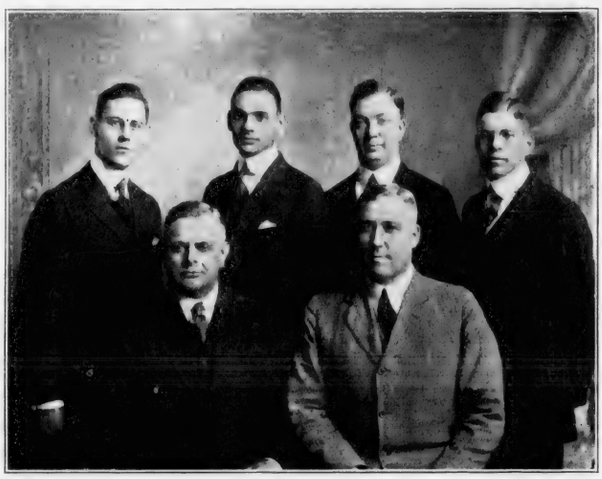
February 3rd., morning service, the text was from James 1:21. Theme, "Lay aside your meannes and receive with meekness Jesus." Your allegience is to Christ as a king who reigns in your heart. Therefore, you can have nothing to usurp His place. Paul, a man blameless before the law sold out to Jesus, you can do no less. What is between you and Jesus? You cannot be one with God and wrong with your brother—then lay aside any meanness.

February 3rd., evening service, the text was First Kings 18:21. Theme "How long halt ye between two opinions?" The people were halting between the teaching of the priests of Baal and Elijah. In graphic word pictures "Mel" Trotter showed the scene on Mt. Carmel. The contest was an unequal one, for, to the priests of Baal, there was no God to answer their prayer. The contest with sin is alway a winner for the living God. How long did they halt when He was declared to them?

February 4th., morning service, the text was Romans 12:1-2. Theme "Be ye reconciled to God." If you have received these present blessings, then it is your reasonable service to present your bodies to God. It is amusing the way men make an issue with God over this thing. Did not God justify us thru Christ? The righteousness of the law has been supplanted thru Jesus. "There is now no condemnation in them that live in Jesus."It is a great sacrifice to make, but present your body and be ye reconciled.

February 4th., evening service, the text was Matthew 10:17. Theme, "The use and abuse of riches". Christ makes no stipulation of what are riches, but He shows the folly of trusting in riches. Men have trusted riches, have trusted morale, when the one thing needed was to cast out the thing that stood between them and their Saviour. The rich young man was near the kingdom, but one thing he lacked and that lack made his life a failure. Other rich men have found the same condition—their life is a dreary, dry, parched desert. He illustrated this by a man who had or rather owned one of the western cities, a worthy citizen, a kind father, honored and respected, and yet he died crying "It's a failure, it's a failure."

February 5th. and 6th., morning services, the scripture was the 23rd Psalm, and the theme of the first discourse, "The Lord is my Shepherd". And the second discourse, "He restoreth my soul". The Psalm covers every phase of life. It is a perfect analogy of the Christ. Jesus the comforter, the healer, the leader, the one who seeks, the one who gave His life for the sheep; He makes us to lie down in green pastures. He feeds us, rests us, comforts us. The shepherd is always ahead of his flock, the gospel is always ahead and as fresh as the dew of the morning. All are taken care of and restored. He leads into paths of righteousness and of holiness. He leads us thru the dark valley. With rod and staff He guides us thru and on emerging a new song is given to the sad heart. When He is with you no evil can befall you.



February 5th, evening service, the text was John 8:36. Theme, "Ye shall be free indeed." Theme, "Ye the condemnation of the law. And there is no mercy in law. Close your Bible and where will you find forgiveness? There is no forgiveness in nature. Society does not forgive. Only the Son can make you free. Sin rules and reigns thru life, men obey the sin, not because they want to, but because they know not the freedom of Jesus.

February 6th., evening service the text was Matthew 27:22. Theme, "The kingly Christ, what shall you do with Him?" Mark reveals Christ as a servant, Luke as a man, John as the Son of God, and Matthew as the King of kings. When Christ was brought before Pilot, he asked, "What shall I do with Jesus?" Everyone must render a verdict—either he must crown Him King or crucify Him. If His claim is true then crown Him, if it is false crucify Him. Every one's destiny depends on the verdict rendered. If one crowns Him, a difference is at once apparent in character and influence. No one can be compelled to crown Him, but unless He is crowned, you crucify Him. The final issue in one's life is that there will come a day in which He will come before you either as a King or as a Judge.

February 7th., morning serbice, the scripture references were Matthew 17: 19-21, and Mark 9:28. Theme, "To seek and save the lost." There is a spiritual antagonism in every life. When the test came to the disciples to heal a boy, in the absence of the Master, they failed. Christ came that men may not wage this spiritual battle with evil. The man in whose life Christ reigns is conscious of His power to overcome the evil.

February 7th., evening service, the text was taken from Second Corinthians 5:21. Theme, "We are made righteous through His sin." The discourse centered around the story of a convict in Sing Sing prison under sentence of death. Christ was sentenced and died in sin that we might be made righteous in God. Therefore, if any man dies, he dies because he refused the remedy for sin. All men are born in sin and have sinned and there is but one escape—a pardon through Christ. He heals and for-

"Dick" Oliver—Accompanist

GOSPEL SANG INTO THE HEARTS OF STUDENTS

Homer Hammontree, Soloist, Assisted by "The American Four" and "Dick" Oliver, accompanist Directed Music.

The success of the Meetings was due in no small measure to the work of Mr. Hammontree and his coworkers, the quartet and "little Dick". Homer was a wonderful leader and was ably assisted by the quartet—"The American Four". All four of them were not only musicians but "sharks for Christian work". The spirit of their work, both in their singing—and such singing we have never had at February Meetings before—and in their personal work was marvelous. That their selections were enjoyed and appreciated was shown by the many requests for repetition. Had all these requests been granted, "The Four" would be singing for us yet.

Of course Homer was in the lead, and the power of his personality was felt as we saw his ability to sing and to instruct. His solos were sermons in themselves and some of them will never be forgotten. Like two other noted singers, Rhodeheaver and C. M. Alexander, Hammontree is a product of East Tennessee, coming from Greenback.

"Little Dick" Oliver who accompanied the party presided at the piano and the manner in which he played caused everybody to take notice. He contributed in no small measure to the success of the meetings and his skill has brought forth unbounded praise from the aspirants of the piano department. "Little Dick" will probably be at Maryville next year and here's hoping he will.

To them all we are very grateful for their wonderful music and we shall never forget their messages as they were played and sung for us.

The majority of the civilized na- ons of today use the supposed year f the birth of Christ as a basis for ecords. There are important events hich occur in the life of every in- ividual. Many Maryville students, nd alumni look backward to the ebruary Meetings of a certain year when Christ entered their hearts as the beginning of true life.

The February Meetings of 1920 are now a thing of the past. Large numbers of students crowned Christ King during the ten days of the meetings. It is very sad, we know, but during the past years, many of the converts forgot that they had made a stand for Christ within two weeks after the meetings were over.

But, laying aside those things which are past, let us look forward into the future. Do you think your life will have counted for more, by holding fast to your present beliefs? Do you think you will ever regard the February Meetings of 1920 as a milestone on your life's journey? But suppose you should fail to hold fast.

Why should anyone find difficulty in living a Christian life on College Hill, where almost all of the students and all of the faculty are professing Christians? If everyone would only do his or her best how easy 'twould be.

At least, one-eighth of the students enrolled, did active service for Christ during the meetings. REMEMBER, the hardest part of the work is yet to come. You have led students to become Christians; if they should down-fall whose fault will it be?

Attempts have been made to help those who recently accepted Christ. Dr. Stevenson is instructing boys and girls "How to live for Christ"; and daily prayer meetings are being conducted under the direction of the "Y".

Why should not every one work together for good? Every one cannot lead a Bible class but every one can speak a kind word, or do a good turn—to be brief, develop true friendship.

Of course every one must work. By their works ye shall know them. The final decision rests with the beginners in Christ. The virtue to live a Christian life is not transferrable. So every person who has chosen to live a Christian life must learn how to live and grow.

PLAN FOR THE ELECTION OF THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF AND BUSINESS MANAGER OF THE ECHO

1.—The editor-in-chief of the Highland Echo for the following year shall be elected during the first two weeks of the spring term.

2.—All the professors in the English department shall recommend to the Faculty members of the incoming Junior and Senior classes whom they consider capable of satisfactorily filling the position of editor-in-chief. Public notice shall be given at least one week before these lists are submitted so that any aspirants for the position may hand their names to some one of the professors in the English department for their consideration. These lists shall be submitted to the Faculty before the close of the winter term.

3.—The Faculty shall pass upon these lists not later than the last week of the winter term and shall place in nomination candidates for editor-in-chief. The names of these candidates shall be posted for one week in order that the students may become familiar with them.

4.—The President of the Senior class shall call a meeting of all the college students in the chapel not less than one week after the names of the candidates are posted and shall give at least a week's notice of the time of this meeting. At this meeting the election of editor-in-chief shall take place. All college students shall be entitled to vote. The voting shall be by ballot, and a majority of the votes cast shall be necessary for an election. If no candidate receives a majority on the first ballot the name of the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes shall be dropped. If on the second ballot no one receives a majority of the votes then cast, the name of the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes on this ballot shall be dropped and this system shall be followed until some candidate is elected. The President of the Senior class shall preside at this meeting and the Secretaries of the four college classes shall act as tellers. It shall be the duty of the Secretaries of the Junior and Senior classes to act as a committee to prepare blank ballots of uniform size and color for use in the election, and the cost of these ballots shall be met from the funds of the Echo.

5.—In the choice of a business manager the following system shall be followed:—The Presidents of the four college classes shall select two representatives, one from the outgoing Senior class and one from the Junior class to meet with two representatives appointed by the Faculty to judge the merits of the material submitted and the recommendations offered by candidates for business manager, and to examine the candidates in any way they may desire. They shall then select a business manager for the following school year, subject to the approval of the Faculty. This committee shall be appointed not later than the last week of the winter term. The representative of the Senior class shall act as chairman and shall give public notice of the time when the business manager is to be selected at least one week before such selection, so that candidates may have opportunity to make formal application and to secure proper recommendations. As in the case of the election of editor, the business manager shall be chosen during the first two weeks of the spring term.

6.—In case of a vacancy occuring in either of these offices during the school year, the vacancy shall immediately be filled in accordance with the system above outlined.

Approved by the Faculty,
April 14, 1919.
H. J. Bassett,
Secretary.

HOMER HAMMONTREE SENDS MESSAGE TO ALL

"Pray Without Ceasing", "Let God Direct Your Life"

Pardon my delay in sending you this message which I promised to send. I would have written it sooner but this is the first time I have had time to sit down and collect my thoughts since the February Meetings closed. Our party had a good meeting in Knoxville Tuesday night at the Second Pres. Church and left the same night for the North. All we hear these days is Maryville, Maryville, Maryville!! The quartet and Dick are showing their twenty-dollar-gold pieces to everybody they meet; Mr. Trotter sits around and waits for folks to ask him the time of day; my trunk landed in Chicago with many scars and bumps and is all packed ready for the trip to California. We do thank the students and faculty of Maryville College for these presents and for their many kindnesses shown us while in your midst. I feel sure with a little coaxing the whole party would enter college with Dick next Fall!

And now will you give me space in The Highland Echo to say a word right out of my heart to the student body?

First, to those of you who have been "born again" by faith in the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ: You are what the Scripture calls "babes in Christ" and must grow by taking spiritual food. I Peter 2:2 says: "As new born babes desire the sincere milk of the word that ye may grow thereby", and I Thes. 5:1, says: "Pray without ceasing". No soul ever backslides until he leaves off prayer and Bible study, have some time set apart each day (preferably early in the morning), when you get alone with God. When you read your Bible, remember that's God talking to you and when you pray, remember that's you talking to God; in this way you will learn to have sweet fellowship with Him and the peace of God which passeth all understanding will flood your soul. Don't let a day go by without prayer and Bible study. Then a babe needs exercise and as a spiritual babe, your exercise is to go out and tell others about this wonderful Saviour, confessing Him every opportunity you have. Nothing will bring you more joy than to win a soul for Christ. Just live your Christian life day at a time trusting God to keep you and lead you. If you make a mistake and sin claim 1 John 1:9 and go on realizing that you have been cleansed.

Let me say a word to those who were already Christians before the meetings started who have taken the step of re-dedication of their lives to Christ: Many of you asked the question during our stay with you, "How am I to know what God wants me to do?" Psalms 32:8 says "I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go, I will guide thee with mine eye." God promises in this verse that He will definitely lead us. Be sure that you bring yourself in prayer to the place where you are willing to be led, then follow, step at a time, doing daily "what your hands find to do" and doing it with your might! I believe nine-tenths of our difficulty is overcome when we come to the place where we are willing to do the Lord's will, no matter what it may be. One trick of the Devil is to get us to look away ahead and wonder what we are going to do three or four years from now, and forget the things at hand thus missing God's leading for today. He only leads step at a time—do the thing at hand! Today! You have great opportunities these days right here in Maryville College, why wait until some future time that we may never live to see? Why wait until you finish school? Last let me say if you want to be "fruit bearing", Christians, let me give you the secret as found in John 15:5: "He that abideth in Me and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit". Would you be led? Abide in Him; would you make your life all that God intends it to be? Abide in Him; would you win others? Abide in Him; would you live a victorious life? Abide in Him.

May God bless every student in dear old Maryville, we are praying for you every day. Mr. Trotter and the boys join me in Christian love.

KNOXVILLE "Y" OVERWHELMED IN BRILLIANT GAME

Polytechnic Girls Overcome by M. C. Subs.

Fighting in the same fierce, unrivalled form that has characterized them thus far this season, the Highlanders, on Friday evening, captured, subdued, and tamed the Knoxville Y. M. C. A. Tigers, and fettered them with a score of 37 to 19.

The game was called for eight o'clock, but a portion of the Tiger clan was stranded three miles out of Knoxville and failed to arrive until nine o'clock. The crowd awaited with patience (especially the moonshiners) the coming of the stragglers and, despite the lateness of their arrival, the game was at last begun at 9:15.

From the first, the contest resolved itself into a rough and tumble fray which took on more the resemblance of a football game than a basketball classic. Maryville started out by scoring a field goal one minute after play was called, and from then on to the end of the game was always in the lead. In fact, it was very apparent after the first few minutes of play what the final result would be.

While the Highlanders surpassed their opponents at the passing game, the brilliancy of their teamwork was not as noticeable a feature as in some previous contests. The shooting of the Highlanders showed a marked improvement over that demonstrated in the game with U. T., while the Y. M. C. A. men seemed very uncertain on attempts at the goal.

The first half ended with a 21 to 8 score favoring Maryville, but the Tigers came back stronger in the second half and held the M. C. five to a 11 to 16 count. Carter lacked one field goal of scoring more points than the Y. M. C. A.'s sum total of 19 points. As it was he scored 18 of Maryville's 37 points. Montgomery was there with the goods Friday evening as usual. Cotton also merits special mention for his excellent floorwork.

The line-up and score was as follows:

Maryville 37		Y. M. C. A. 19
Cotton 6	f.	Dew 6
McCullough	f.	Marby 9
Carter 18	c.	Tillery 2
Cullis	g.	Montgomery
Montgomery 2	g.	Sandberg 2

Substitutions: Hicks for Cullis.
Referee: Prof. E. R. Walker.

The girls' second team defeated the team from Polytechnic on Friday evening, 9 to 6.

The line-up and score was:

Maryville Scrubs		Polytechnic
Hedrick 5	f.	Butler 6
Hamilton 4	f.	Tedford
Smith	c.	Cowan
Nuchols	g.	Cochran
Ridgeway	g.	Ford

Y. W. C. A.

One of the most inspiring and helpful meetings the Y. W. has ever had was held Sunday afternoon. The subject was, "The Gospel According to You", Mamie Witherspoon leader. The service was an open meeting, and many girls took part. The wonderful blessings received from the February Meetings were manifested in the different talks. It was indeed, a service not to be forgotten.

Misses Bernice Kimball and Jewel Stevens sang.

Where there is no vision the people perish.

One day God's proof shall be complete.
That highest victory is defeat.
—Ibsen.

FAREWELL SERVICE TUESDAY

After the sermon Tuesday morning, Dr. Wilson began to tell Mr. Trotter how deeply the students and faculty appreciated his visit. He went on to say that "Maryville students like the apostle can say "Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I thee', and Maryville is deeply grateful to you. However, the students and faculty have asked me to present this little watch to you, lest you forget Maryville. It will mark only happy and useful hours, for that is the only kind you live. And with it go our deepest love and appreciation, and also our prayers." Mr. Trotter then said a few words of appreciation. Then Dr. Wilson presented each of the members of the American quartette and Dick with a twenty-dollar gold piece. They sang to the tune of "Good Night Ladies", "We thank you". They were hardly seated until two seniors came in with a steamer trunk which they deposited on the platform and Dr. Wilson explained that the members of the appreciation committee were rather perplexed as to what to give him, until some bright person remarked that he was the first elephant yet without a trunk. Mr. Hammontree in his thank you said that unlike most elephants he could sit on his trunk. When the excitement had subsided sufficiently Frank Minarik led in yells for Mel Trotter, Over Ham, American Quartette and Dick. Then Mr. Hammontree led "How We Howl" and the college song.

In a few more minutes the February Meetings of 1920, the most memorable of a long series of such meetings were over. However, the men who helped make them so will long be remembered on the Hill. In fact, Maryville felt rather lost Tuesday night when everyone was trying to study instead of going to hear Mel Trotter's stirring sermons.

Y. M. C. A.

At the "Y" Sunday there were sent up to God more than sixty petitions of prayer, by various attendants. With Mr. Hammontree as leader of the service and the music which was given by the visiting quartette, all hearts seemed full of prayer and praise. The speakers were the leader, Dr. Stevenson and Dr. Wilson.

Mr. Hammontree pointed out Christ as the only one in whatever life pursued. He carried the audience back to his school days here at Maryville College, and told of his associates at that time who were morally pure but had failed since out in life because Christ was lacking in their life. This is the result with all who do not take Him for a guide. The things which seem most useful while in school are never thought of or known when life's work is takn up. The "Y" gives and represents just the thing needed during the after school days.

Dr. Stevenson made known his willingness to aid the new converts and all others who would attend his discussion class on "How to live a successful Christian Life", held in Pearsons Hall each Tuesday evening just after supper. He touched on the nature of his course by stating and explaining that those who had taken a stand for righteousness were in a dangerous stage and needed to be carried over so that Satan could not surely cause one to stumble.

Dr. Wilson explained the method of Christian success for a young soul. His stand taken at first was not supported by a band of "Y" workers but was held up at first through constant prayer to the Father between himself and eleven others who joined together at the same time in taking Christ. Not a one of the twelve has ever regretted taking up the only cross. All of the number, that yet live, are still praying and have made a complete success. This same mighty power can keep all who have just recently accepted.

Any one who intends to compete for Editor-in-Chief or Business Manager of the Highland Echo Should hand in his or her name before next Thursday, February 26th.

JOINT MEETING OF Y. M. AND Y. W. C. A.

The joint meeting of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. was held in the chapel Sunday, February 1st. Mr. Hammontree, Mr. Oliver and the members of the quartette had charge of the service. After a short song service, each member of the quartette and Mr. Oliver gave short testimonies, in which they told of the conditions which existed before they took Christ into their lives as their personal Saviour, then after they had accepted Him as their personal Saviour. They told how deep in sin they had been and what the love of Jesus did for them, and how He was and is still able and willing to save those who are willing to accept Him.

Between each of the testimonies Mr. Hammontree gave a few words of explanation or introduction. The quartette gave several beautiful selections. Each person who attended the service could not help but be inspired and strengthened because of the earnest efforts put forth by those who participated in the service. It was a very helpful service in many ways because it made us better acquainted with the men who were trying so hard to help us in the meetings which were then in progress.

We, as Y. M. and Y. W. workers certainly appreciate the efforts put forth and the work accomplished by this band of men during their stay on College Hill.

AN ANSWER

The girls residing in 38 Pearsons wish to inform those residing in the suite of rooms known as 19 Baldwin, that the suite contains two rooms, while 38 Pearsons contains only one room. Therefore those four 19 Baldwin girls average two girls to the room while the 38 Pearsons girls have four girls to the room. Furthermore, those in 19 Baldwin have a double parlor in which to entertain their guests and make a muss while those in Pearsons 38 have no such accomodation. Divide the grade made on the two rooms in Baldwin by two to get the grade on one room and you will get 198 while those in the one room 38 Pearsons still have a grade of 380. Therefore it is still contended that 38 Pearsons got the highest grade in school on the care of the room.

SOME TEAM

"Why are all the girls going to the Woods, today?" "What's all this noise? What's the matter?" asked the boys, and so curious were they that they stayed around till they found out that the girls nave a baseball team—two of them in fact, as well as several subs. So expert are they becoming that some of last year's stars among the boys are taking notes from them. No, dear Matrons, don't be alarmed if the girls all go towards the woods, or you hear hilarious shouts from that direction—it is only your girls at baseball. For further information see Mabel Zimmerman or Charlotte Messler.

VISITORS ENTERTAINED

Miss Alyce Andes was the charming hostess on Saturday evening January 31st., to a number of friends in room 57 Pearsons.

The occasion which was in honor of Miss Andes' attractive week-end guest, Miss Marion Young of Knoxville—was one that was delightful in every way.

Victrola music was enjoyed throughout the evening. After which hot chocolate, sandwiches, and cake were served, and much enjoyed, as was proven by the rapid diminishing of the "eats".

The guests all bid their hostess and the guest-of-honor a reluctant good-night—all voting the evening a most pleasant one.

Those enjoying this occasion were: Misses Marion Young, Ann Aldred, Ruth Newton, Elsie Dawson, Lucile Thorp, Sue Nuckols, Myrtle Rendon, Vivian Hall, Mary Howard, Mina Howard, Florence Beechum, Betty, Irvin and Bobby Hall.

Tusculum's debating teams are as follows:

To debate at Maryville—W. Gray, R. Rankin, Chas. Chandler.

At Tusculum with Emory and Henry—W. Broyles, I. A. Heller, H. H. Haylow.

At Carson-Newman—Wm. Campbell, M. S. Doak, Lola Herald.

At Tusculum against Carson and Newman—D. P. Buchanan, Guy Justles, Ed. Day.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

Old Maryville Hill has never before been quite so stirred and uplifted, as it has been during the past ten days, never before has it had quite so many happy, happy hearts, happiness from the smiling faces all around, but deeper than all, there is the joy that comes from within. Besides all the joys of the February Meetings the Volunteer Band has had the privilege of claiming as its own one of the seven who were sent to us. Dick, as one who purposes to go to the foreign field if so Christ leads him, was taken into the M. C. band as an honorary member, until next year when we hope he can be an active member. Everyone loves Dick and love of the band is a sweet one taking the form, materially, of over ten pounds of home-made candy tied up in great boxes with satin bows. Dick's smile is as much loved as he himself, and it was that smile and a few words of real appreciation that made us happy, yet increased our longing to know more of Dick's own wonderful spirit.

S. V. B. meetings were held each night last week in room seventeen in the chapel before the evening meeting. Mr. Hammontree, and members of the quartette took of their already full time to give us special messages. Those short gatherings of the group meant much to all of us.

Our lives have the future purpose to take Christ to foreign fields —in the present we are volunteering for Maryville.

Christ in our hearts, our lives in, God's hands, may we live today for Jesus.

John 17:3—"And this is life eternal, that THEY might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent."

TWO HOLIDAYS

After the wonderful games Friday night, the student body was unanimous in its belief that the only fitting way in which to celebrate a U. T. victory was with a holiday. Little was done after the games save talk of the brilliant plays and the chances for a holiday. While the girls waited for the breakfast bell to ring Saturday morning, they gave fifteen rahs for holiday and the boys yelled back, "We're with you". The yells continued throughout breakfast and then the students visited Dr. Wilson in a body, joyously informing him that our teams had won two games from U. T. and that they felt a holiday was in order. He was of the same mind and announced at chapel that there would be no more school until the following Tuesday.

Then such a time as everybody had! Ball games by the dozen, picture show, walks, and o boy! Moonshine.

To a student body worn out with physics and geometry problems, tired of notebooks and lab manuals, using too much midnight oil on French and Spanish and Latin, a holiday was indeed a relief. To matrons, worried because their girls were getting so quiet and studious —it was indeed a blessing to see them enjoy life and its sweet pleasures once more. To instructors, wearied with much lecturing and grading it was a veritable boon. In fact, all concerned are deeply grateful for the holiday.

Tuesday's holiday was equally memorable. Everybody accompanied the evangelists to the train and proceeded to sing and yell himself hoarse. Then all listened while the American quartette kindly sang for the last time the songs the students and faculty have learned to love so well. Just before the train pulled out even Mr. Trotter joined Mr. Hammontree and the boys in singing negro melodies. When the train pulled out, every one came back for a rainy holiday. Soon after dinner, however, the sun came out and so did the moon and every one had a royal good time.

CONCERNING THE JOURNAL AND TRIBUNE

Managing Editor,
The Highland Echo,
Maryville College,
Maryville, Tenn.

My dear sir:

Publication of this letter in the Highland Echo will be appreciated.

I have been given to understand that students of Maryville College have a feeling of grievance because of an opinion there that news relative to a recent game did not get display, and that slight of college athletics there was premeditated.

Relative to the recent Maryville College-Tennessee basket ball game there, I was given assurance by a student of your college that he would send details of the contest at its conclusion. He failed to do so, and as I had been placing entire dependance upon that source, facts concerning the game were not produced.

Please be assured that sporting news relative to Maryville College is always welcomed, but I have found difficulty in finding any one there to keep me in touch with such activities. It would be a personal favor for some one to be designated to inform The Journal and Tribune of athletic contests, both before and after they are played by Maryville College representatives. It is desirable also that some one send word at regular intervals, say twice a week by mail, as to the work and personal of sporting teams.

The athletes of Maryville College with whom I have come in contact have been as fine a bunch of fellows as I have known, and your teams that I have seen in action, in my opinion, fight as hard, gamely and cleanly as any team I have ever seen anywhere. They have been sportsmen in every sense of the word.

Respectfully yours,
H. I. Kiefer,
Sporting Editor, The Journal and Tribune.

This letter was received and answered. In order to straighten matters up an explanation is necessary During the game or after a member of the faculty asked a young man who was with the U. T. team if there was a reported for the Journal and Tribune accompanying them. The reply came that there was a reporter. So, if there was a reporter here solely for the purpose of reporting the game to the Journal and Tribune, what would be the use of sending in a report from the Hill. Also, it is said that a U. T. player stated, "That there would be no report of this game in the Journal and Tribune, if they could help it."

Several persons on the Hill made inquiries of the Journal and Tribune why no write-up had been given of the game that had been played here between U. T. and Maryville College. The answer was, "That no report had been sent to them."

Then the above letter was received and in the reply an explanation of our grievances was made and a hasty write-up was included, asking them to show their sincerity by publishing the article. The article has not been published to date. What shall we do about it?

THE CHILHOWEES

Go farther, I wish that I need not.
But duty hastens my way.
So on I must go, and heed not
The call that's bidding me stay.

You mountains, rock-ribbed, tremendous,
You rise so straight in the air.
Look like some God, to defend us.
If not, why were you put there?

When troubled with doubt or sorrow
When tempted, or loaded with care,
I look to you mountains, and borrow
The strength that God has put there.

Each breath of wind from Chilhowee,
Each day that I look at you there
Gives strength, and I wonder just how we Can see, and ever despair!

Sir John Foster Fraser Famous Traveler to Lecture Feb. 26.

Sir John Foster Fraser, England's foremost special newspaper correspondent, will appear in Lyceum, February 26th.

Sir John has journeyed more extensively than any living man. He was the first man to cross China, entering it from the Burmese side, a hazardous expedition which occupied five months. He is familiar with the interior of the Turkish Empire, of Siberia, of the Sahara, of India.

In June 1917, he was Knighted by King George at Buckingham Palace for services rendered to the Empire. At the outbreak of the war, Sir John was appointed Chairman of the National War Lectures Committee of Great Britain, a post which frequently took him to the fighting fronts.

In 1918, Sir John Foster Fraser first visited the United States as a speaker. In a short time he was acclaimed the most brilliant and popular speaker that ever visited our country from Great Britain. He is the author of "Russia Today", "Pictures from the Balkans", "The Real Siberia", "The Red Passport", and "Round the World on a Wheel", as well as other books dealing with world problems.

JUNIOR Y. W. C. A.

The attendance at the Junior Y. W. C. A. last Sunday, was the largest we have had this year. Now that the February Meetings have given us the much needed impetus in our Christian life, we are expecting great things of our Junior Y.W.

The special music consisted of a beautiful violin duet, by Miss Sue Sugg and Miss Ruth Baker. They were accompanied by Miss Nanette Walker, who is one of our best accompanists.

Miss Jackson, who led the meeting, choose as her subject something that was very interesting to each girl present, A Vocation. A career is a rose, and a vocation is a calling, which are we going to choose? God has a number of things that we might do, and when we choose our vocation, let us do it under his guidance. A number of things were named that we might do. Perhaps some of us will become school teachers, if so we have a great opportunity to instill the right ideas in the minds of the children. On the other hand, if we should get married, God has no higher calling for a woman than to become a home maker.

Miss Jackson has been a worker in the East Side of New York, and in the mountains. She briefly sketched for us the conditions existing there. Any girl who would devote her life to that kind of work, would be richly blessed.

Remember, True happiness comes only when we follow the vocation to which God has called us.

Three smart young men and three nice girls,
All lovers true as steel
Decided in a friendly way
To spend a day a-wheel.
They started in the early morn,
And nothing seemed amiss,
And when they reached the leafy lanes
They in like rode twos this

They wandered by the verdant dale
Beside the rippling rill,
The sun shone brightly all the while;
They heard the song birds trill—
They sped thru many a woodland glade,
The world was full of bliss—
And when they rested in the shades
They sat in twos
like this

The sun went down and evening came
A lot too soon, they said;
Too long they tarried on the way,
The clouds grew black o'er head.
Down dashed the rain! They homeward flew 'Till one unlucky miss
Slipped sideways—Crash.—
Great Scot!
The lot
Wereallmixeduplikethis!

—Exchange.
